MAY SETTLE THE STRIKE

Street Car Men Leave Their Rights in Arbitrators' Hands.

An Agreement With the Strikers Likely to be Made Soon.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 21.—Apparently the last obstacle in the way of a peaceful settlement of the pending street car strike in this city was removed early today, when the employes of the old Forest City company, the original 3-cent fare line, agreed to leave their seniority rights in the hands of the arbitrators. This has been the chief bone of contention between the union leaders and President Dupont of the Municipal Traction company since the beginning of the present trouble. President Dupont has insisted throughout that he would give the Forest City men who stood by the company and refused to strike the first choice of runs.

With this impediment removed, it is thought that there will certainly be reached today an agreement by which all the differences at issue will be submitted to arbitration and the strike declared off.

While many lawless acts were perpetrated during the night by strike sympathizers, no person was seriously hurt, a half dozen cars were damaged by the explosion of dynamite and one or two persons were slightly cut by broken window glass.

At a largely attended meeting of the union trades and labor council last night, a general street car boycott was declared. An appeal was made to all people not to patronize the cars pending a settlement of the strike.

CRUELTY TO EASTER CHICKS

Man Who Sold Them Convicted Under New York Law.

New York, May 21.—Gaston Faivre has been convicted, through the efforts of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, of selling Easter chicks last Easter time in violation of a section of the penal code, which states "that any person who furthers any act of cruelty to any animal, or any act tending to produce cruelty, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

This is the first time that the selling of Easter chicks has been construed as falling under this section, although the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has been trying for years to stop the practice on the ground that after the chicks are purchased they are allowed to starve, or are killed through the carelessness of children.

Faivre was arrested after Special Agent Calhoun of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had bought several newly-incubated chickens a few days before Easter and seen a little boy buy others. Sentence was suspended.

SEVERAL ARE HURT IN WRECK AT PINOLE, CAL.

Oakland, Cal., May 21.—The second section of Southern Pacific train No. 16, known as the Oregon express, was wrecked at Pinole last night. One man, Express Messenger Cummings, was killed and four injured. The fatally injured: Fireman Cody; R. J. Ward, engineer, Express Messenger Birmingham, crushed about chest, may recover; W. W. Rodehoren, helper on express car, fractured ankle.

The wreck, it is said, was caused by a broken rail. No passengers were injured.

WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS DESCEND ON PREMIER WITH GRIEVANCES

London, May 21.—A party of woman suffragists, dissatisfied with the reply of Prime Minister Asquith to an important delegation to Radical members of the house of commons yesterday on the question of claims of women for enfranchisement, made a demonstration in front of the premier's residence in Downing street this morning and the police reserves had to be called out to clear the thoroughfare. They arrested six of the noisiest demonstrators.

The women appeared in Downing street by twos and threes and sent in to the premier a petition asking that the franchise be granted at the present session of parliament.

The premier sent word through a constable that he had no reply to make. The women thereupon mounted the steps of the house and harangued a crowd which quickly gathered.

NEW STEEL BRIDGE ON N. Y., N. H. & H. RAILROAD BADLY WRECKED BY DYNAMITE

Terrific Explosion Twists Huge Girders Into Shapeless Mass.

Men Who Were Watching Structure Hurled to the Ground.

The Contractors Have Had Constant Trouble With Labor.

New York, May 21.—A new bridge under construction on the Harlem branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at Baychester was wrecked by dynamiters today. A charge of fifty pounds of the explosive was discharged under the first span, twisting the huge girders and practically wrecking the whole structure. Today's outrage followed an unsuccessful attempt to wreck a bridge on the same railroad over the Harlem river early yesterday.

The bridge was a modern steel structure, which had been erected over the tracks near the Baychester station for foot and vehicular traffic. It was built by the Shoemaker company of Philadelphia, and for many months had been the scene of almost constant labor

GARROTED IN CHICAGO

Purchasing Agent is Found Murdered in an Alley.

Chicago, May 21.—Robert C. P. Holmes, purchasing agent for the Commonwealth Edison Electric company, was found dead, with the marks of garroters on his neck, and his face black from the strangulation, in an alley in the downtown district early today.

The body was found by an employe of the street cleaning department, and was identified by the contents of the pockets.

Not the smallest coin or the slightest article of jewelry was left on the garroted man's person. His pockets were turned inside out and, besides the terrible discolorations on the neck and face, there was a gaping wound on the skull, made apparently by some blunt weapon. The skull was fractured.

The body was taken to an undertaking establishment, and the police began a thorough search for the assailants.

WILL NOT TAX EXPORT OF GOLD

Plan to Check Outflow of Gold Bars, Not Approved.

New York, May 21.—In connection with the exhaustion of the New York assay office's supply of gold bars available for export to Europe, it became known that the suggestion was made to the secretary of the treasury, through the New York assay office, that a tax be put on gold bars sufficient to check the outflow of gold to Europe.

The secretary of the treasury took the matter under advisement and decided against the suggestion which was regarded as tending to impair New York's position as practically the only free market for gold. The only charge now made to exporters of gold bars is 4 cents on every $100, this charge being made to cover the cost of making and handling the bars.

Bankers frowned on the tax proposal, saying that in the long run the effect of such an innovation would probably only be to increase shipments of gold coin.

YOUNG WOMAN ENDED LIFE

Mrs. Carrie Shaw of Hortonville, Wis., Committed Suicide.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 21.—A special to the Evening Wisconsin from New London, Wis., says: It now appears from circumstances which have come to light since the finding of the body of Mrs. Carrie Shaw in the mill pond at Hortonville yesterday morning, that the young woman committed suicide. This is the theory which has been expected by the relatives of Mrs. Shaw. Despondency over family troubles is given as the cause. The body was not mutilated as at first reported.

The relatives of Mrs. Shaw have been quoted as saying that for some time she had been in an unsettled mental condition and acted queerly. A stepson stated today that she had several times threatened to take her own life, and even talked of jumping into the mill pond to end the trouble. A friend to whom she uttered this, jokingly advised her to "try the river, for it is deeper."

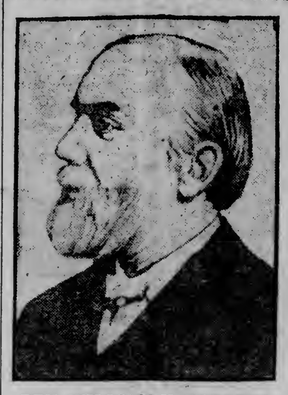
Charles Abrams, the young man who was accused of being the murderer is confident that he will be released. His story of his detailed movements in Hortonville on Tuesday when Mrs. Shaw was last seen alive, has been corroborated by several witnesses.

NORTH DAKOTA FARMER SWINDLED IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 21.—A swindler with a smooth tongue and pleasant manners duped Charles De la Barre, a farmer from Glen Ullin, N. D., into lending $150, his savings for more than a year, which were to be used to finance a trip to Rochester, where Mrs. De la Barre was to undergo a surgical operation.

As a result of the swindle the De la Barres are stranded in Minneapolis, unable to continue their journey to Rochester, Minn., where the operation was to have been performed.

MODERATOR ROBERTS GIVES FINAL SERMON



REV. WILLIAM H. ROBERTS,
Retiring Moderator of the Presbyterian Conference, Who Delivered His Farewell Sermon.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Of Presbyterian Church Begins One Hundred and Twentieth Session.

Election of New Moderator, Main Business of the First Day.

Kansas City, May 21.—With all the high officers and leading ministers of the church in America as well as prominent laymen and missionaries from foreign countries in attendance, the one hundred and twentieth general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America began its session in convention hall in this city today before an audience of thousands.

The important business of today's sessions consisted of the retirement of Rev. William Henry Roberts of Philadelphia as moderator and the election of his successor. The feature of the morning session was the farewell sermon of the retiring moderator. The sermon was largely a plea for the cooperation of the churches in the United States in fighting the many evil influences "opposed to the Christian churches in our country." He said that above every other nation of modern times the United States represents those widespread movements which are uplifting men out of the narrowness of caste, which are making the world a neighborhood, and which seek the welfare not of a class

FIFTY KILLED, 100 INJURED IN A TRAIN WRECK IN BELGIUM

Antwerp, May 21.—About fifty persons were killed and more than 100 injured today in a wreck near Contich, six miles southeast of Antwerp. It is the worst railroad catastrophe ever recorded in Belgium and was caused by a misplaced switch, the Antwerp express, running fifty miles an hour, crashing into a train loaded with pilgrims on a siding.

Every car of the pilgrim train, excepting the foremost one, was telescoped. The cars were literally ground to pieces, and practically all the passengers were either killed or badly injured.

Surgeons, doctors and nurses arrived early from Antwerp at the scene of the wreck. Shrieking and helpless wounded persons were pinned under the debris for hours, and the scene was a shocking one.

METHODISTS ELECT TWO BISHOPS ON THE SECOND BALLOT, THIRD IS FUTILE

PATROLMAN IS FOUND GUILTY

St. Paul Officer Fined for Interfering With a Deputy Sheriff.

St. Paul, May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—John M. Goven, patrolman of the central station, who has been on the city police force for twenty-one years, was tried and found guilty in police court, late yesterday, on the charge of interfering with a deputy sheriff while the latter was making an arrest. Judge Hanft imposed a fine of $5.

The interference of which the patrolman was found guilty took place on election day. Deputy Sheriff Frank C. Hesketh was endeavoring to place under arrest a man whom Thomas L. Wann, one of the Republican challengers, declared to have voted illegally. The patrolman interposed while both Wann and Hesketh had hold of the men, and the latter, taking advantage of the confusion, jerked away, got into a hack and was driven out of sight.

The alleged illegal voter had been registered under the name of P. H. Ohlberg and had given his address as the Nicollet hotel, Seven Corners. Challenger Wann had an affidavit to the effect that the real Ohlberg had not been living at the hotel during the last thirty days and was in Canada. The affidavit was signed by Matt Carroll, the hotel proprietor.

Judge Hanft, in finding the patrolman guilty, remarked that he did not think the patrolman was actuated by any motives that were vicious, but the city had established an unbroken chain of evidence to the fact of the interference and the testimony of the defense had been merely negative. The witnesses for the prosecution were a highly creditable set of men and there was no escape from the conclusion that the patrolman did interfere with an arrest.

William F. Anderson and John L. Nuelson Are Chosen Thus Far.

Many Candidates to Fill the Other Six Positions.

Fourth Ballot Ordered as Soon as Third Was Counted.

Baltimore, May 21.—The third ballot in the election of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church produced no result. A fourth ballot was accordingly ordered.

Baltimore, May 21.—Rev. Dr. William F. Anderson of New York, and Rev. Dr. John L. Nuelsen of Nast Theological Seminary, Berea, Ohio, were elected bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church upon the second ballot taken late yesterday afternoon at the session of the general conference held at the Lyric. The result of the ballot was announced at the beginning of today's meeting.

The first ballot taken yesterday was without result, but was remarkable in a number of ways, one of them being the large number of men who received votes. Of these there were 240, although eight can eventually be successful. It goes without saying that many of the votes cast were purely complimentary and after the first ballot will go to more likely candidates. Rev. W. F. Anderson of New York headed the poll with 446 votes and Rev. J. L. Nuelsen of Berea, Ohio, was but one behind him with 445. Then followed, in the order named: Rev. W. A. Quayle of Chicago; Edward Hughes of Depauw university; Robert J. Cooke of New York; H. Jennings of Cincinnati; Charles W. Smith of Pittsburg; Wilson S. Lewis of Sioux City, Iowa; M. C. B. Mason of Cincinnati; David G. Downey of New York; Joseph B. Hingeley of Minneapolis Daniel Dorchester of Pittsburg; Charles L. Goodell of New York; Robert McIntyre of Los Angeles; Freeman D. Bovard of San Francisco; William H. Crawford of Meadville, Pennsylvania; Charles B. Mitchell of Cleveland; George F. Reed of Dickinson college, Carlisle, Pennsylvania; Franklin Hamilton of Boston; Frank M. Bristol of Washington and Homer C. Stunt of New York, with constantly decreasing votes down to the last named, who had 101. No other candidate had as many as 100.

Third Ballot Ordered.

A third ballot was ordered for the remaining six bishops. Before it was taken Rev. Dr. Daniel Dorchester, Jr., of Pittsburg, who received 197 votes on the second ballot, and Rev. Dr. Frank M. North of New York, having 69 votes, requested their friends no longer to vote for them.

There were 765 effective votes cast on the second ballot, 510 being necessary to a choice. Dr. Anderson received 548, and Dr. Nelson, 540. Those receiving more than 200 votes were:

ST. PAUL WOMAN BADLY BURNED

Match Drops in Paint, Setting Her Clothes on Fire.

St. Paul, May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. J. H. McGlogan, 442 Beason avenue, Merriam Park, is at St. Joseph's hospital in a critical condition, as the result of burns she received last evening at her home. It was stated at the hospital today that her recovery is doubtful.

During the storm last evening Mrs. McGlogan went to the attic to close the windows. She lighted a match to assist in finding her way and it is supposed that the head of the match dropped off and fell into an open can of some ready mixed paint.

The inflammable mixture flamed up at once, catching Mrs. McGlogan's dress and spreading about the room. The woman's screams brought her son Neil, to the rescue, but when he attempted to go near his mother, she pushed him aside, fearing quite likely that he too would fall a victim of the flames.

The son fell against a window, breaking the glass, cutting his hands and severing the arteries of his right wrist. This, unfortunately rendered the son useless in assisting his mother and with her garments blazing the mother rushed out of the attic and to the porch of the house.

Neighbors came and extinguished the flames, but not before she was terribly burned. The fire loss on the house was small.

COPIES ARE INCORRECT

Senator Platt's Son Testifies Regarding Letters to Mae Wood.

Those in Evidence Contain Matters Not in the Originals.

New York, May 21.—Frank H. Platt, son of Senator Thomas C. Platt, testifying today in the suit for divorce brought against the senator by Mae C. Wood, declared that he believed none of the letters introduced by Miss Wood as evidence in her suit were true copies of those written by her father. He had examined carefully the original copies of letters by the senator to Miss Wood, which were turned over to him by Abraham Hummel upon payment of $10,000, he said, and there were no such communications among them as the alleged copies produced in court.. Mr. Platt also testified that none of the letters received from Hummel contained any reference to a marriage between Senator Platt and Miss Wood. He said that after reading the letters he personally destroyed them by burning them in a grate in his office.

Lawrence Mills, a reporter for a New York paper, was called as a witness today. He testified that he met the plaintiff in the latter part of October, 1903, when he went to the Manhattan hotel at 1 o'clock in the morning to interview her regarding the marriage of Senator Platt with Mrs. Janeway. Miss Wood, according to the witness, said she had no interview to give out and that she had no interest in Senator Platt's ventures. She knew Senator Platt, she said, and had the greatest respect for him. Asked if she was going to sue the senator for breach of promise, she reiterated that she had no interest in the senator.

DESERTER GETS FIFTEEN YEARS

Enlisted in Army Eleven Times and Got Away Ten.

San Francisco, May 21.—Fifteen years' imprisonment in the United States military prison is the fate of Deserter David Sheehan, the most notorious deserter the army has known.

Sheehan first entered the army July 28, 1888, under the name of J. Adams, and was assigned to the Thirty-first company, coast artillery corps. Three days later he deserted. Under the aliases of James Alvord, J. J. Adams, James Allen and George F. Russell he re-enlisted at many different places, among them being Bakersfield, Los Angeles and Fort Leavenworth. All told he enlisted eleven times, and ten times he got away, with uniforms, which it is supposed he sold. Before the courtmartial he was tried on seven charges—six for desertion in time of peace and one for departing in time of war.

CHASED HIM WITH RAKE

James M'Arton Has Chas. French Arrested for Assault.

Trouble Said to Have Started Over Some Paving Blocks.

For attacking him with a garden rake, James McArton, a West Duluth house-moving contractor, made complaint this morning at the West Duluth police station against Charles French of South Raleigh street, who, he alleges, struck him across the arm with the garden tool.

According to McArton's story, French had some moving blocks in his possession. He called on French this morning and claimed them. French, it is alleged, became very angry and struck McArton with the nearest thing at hand, which happened to be a rake. Not content with striking McArton, it is said that French pursued him from his property, still threatening him with the uplifted rake.

McArton continued in his flight to the police station, where he swore out a warrant for French's arrest on an assault charge.

The case will be tried before Judge Flack of the justice court this afternoon.

ARE LOOKING FOR AN ESTATE

Relatives of C. H. Slaughter Are Tracing Newspaper Story.

Who is the C. H. Slaughter reported by an eastern paper to have died recently in Duluth?

This is the question that has been put up to the probate court of this county by inquiry from distant relatives of the decedent who learned by the newspaper account that they are heirs to an estate comprising about $60,000 worth of real estate in Minnesota.

The item regarding the death of C. H. Slaughter is said to have been sent an eastern paper from this city. So far as an investigation has been made by the court there is no record of any C. H. Slaughter dying in Duluth in recent years, nor has there been any estate probated under that name. The only person of that name mentioned in the death records is Dr. C. H. Slaughter who died here in 1899 and who left a widow. It is not believed that Dr. Slaughter is the person referred to in the letters from the fact that one of the writers, claiming to be a nephew, says he visited his uncle in Duluth a few years ago. There have been no taxes paid in this county by C. H. Slaughter, or for him, so that the report of his owning a large amount of realty in St. Louis county can hardly be true.

It is possible that the man referred to in the letters died in some other Minnesota city and that he left property in another county of this state.

PLAYGROUND ASSOCIATION

Meeting Saturday May Decide on Playground Site.

The Duluth Playground association will hold a meeting Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in Mayor Haven's office at the city hall. Committees will report on their findings up to the present time, and different sites for playgrounds will be considered.

Three or four sites are under consideration, but none of them has been decided upon definitely as yet. Probably the members will agree on some location Saturday for starting the first playground, and preliminary steps toward getting it properly under way will be taken.

AMERICA IS SAFE.

Weathers Fierce Gale and Arrives at Port Arthur.

News was received by the Booth line this morning that the steamer America had arrived safely at Port Arthur.

The speedy little steamer had a rough passage of it in yesterday's terrific gale, and some Duluth people who had relatives or friends aboard felt some anxiety concerning her safety. The vessel arrived on time, however, and left on her return trip this morning.

OPENS WITH A RUSH.

Big Crowds Attend the Emma J. Johnson Sale Today.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the peremptory closing-out sale at the Emma J. Johnson Store, 2112 West Superior street, was attended today by record-breaking crowds. The storm was a blessing in one respect—it kept enough people away that an attempt, at least, could be made to wait on those who came. Extra salespeople have now been secured for every department, and for the next few days things will fairly hum. The sensational bargains advertised are sufficient to draw thrifty people from every part of the city.

PROCLAMATION

I invite your attention to the responsibility that rests with us as individuals in making our city, for which Nature has done so much, clean and beautiful, and most urgently request that on Saturday, May 23, all rally to the call of cleanliness and beauty, and that father and son, mother and daughter, teacher and pupil will join this army and make victory certain, so that when the thousands of tourists visit our city this season no unsightly back yards or vacant lots may be seen, and they will join with us in the thought that IN DULUTH LIFE IS WORTH LIVING.

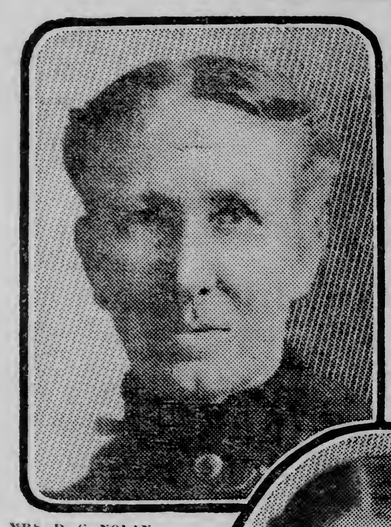
FAITHFUL HOUSEWIVES OF THE UNITED STATES

Send Grateful Tributes to Dr. Hartman For Benefits Received From Pe-ru-na.



MRS. D. C. NOLAN.

No More Throat Trouble.

Mrs. D. C. Nolan, Gem, Kan., writes: "I have no more throat trouble, thanks to Peruna. It is the only medicine I care to have. I always feel safe when I have it in the house.

"I have used Peruna for nine years, and I ought to know about it. Peruna has helped me a great many times, and I shall praise it to every one of my friends."

Ever since Peruna was introduced to the public thirty years ago, the housewife has been an ever faithful friend of Peruna. She it is that has seen the practical benefits of the use of Peruna in the family.

When the baby has snuffles or cold, she gives a few doses of Peruna, instead of filling the system with the doctor's drugs.

When the school children have coughs or colds, she again resorts to Peruna.

When any member of the family is afflicted with catarrh, either in its acute form or chronic, Peruna is resorted to. In a large number of minor ailments she finds Peruna a never-failing remedy.

All this has won the confidence of the housewife in Peruna, which cannot be easily shaken by the statements of people who know nothing of Peruna, having never had any personal experience in its use.

Mrs. Chas. Gloyne, 1707 New Jersey Ave., Kansas City, Kansas, writes: "Peruna is to the system what a good watch dog is to the house, a protector against harm. I have found it a safe friend for a sick woman. It drives out disease and protects her from colds and the dreadful consequences."

Pe-ru-na Tablets.

Some people prefer to take tablets, rather than to take medicine in a fluid form. Such people can obtain Peruna tablets, which represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

Mrs. T. J. Ballard, Pryor Creek, Indian Territory, writes: "I keep free from my old stomach trouble, feel no catarrhal symptoms at all. I am able to do my work, eat and drink what I want, and am rejoiced to know that I found a sure cure in your valuable medicines."

MRS. AUGUSTA PAULINE OCHS.

Systemic Catarrh.

Mrs. Augusta Pauline Ochs, R. F. D. 2, North English, Iowa, writes: "I took Peruna over three years. I suffered from systemic catarrh and had pains in my right side so I could hardly do my housework.

"I am 60 years old, and am now doing all my housework. I am in the best of health, and cannot thank Dr. Hartman enough for his advice and medicine."

Miss Robertie Lofton, Minta, Ky., writes: "I suffered with systemic catarrh, and Peruna gave me almost complete relief."

Dyspepsia and Constipation.

Mrs. John M. Stabler, Millersburg, Ind., writes: "I have been cured of a very bad case of catarrh of the stomach and constipation, and a complication of ailments that I have had for several years.

"I doctored with three doctors who did me not much good, so I quit doctoring. I bought a bottle of Peruna and commenced taking it. I found I was getting some better, but thought I was not doing as well as I might. So I wrote to Dr. Hartman to see what he thought about me. He gave me special directions and medical advice.

"To our astonishment I improved and am today a well woman and weigh as much as I ever did in my life.

"My old friends in Ohio, where we moved from about fifteen months ago, say when they see me, 'How well you look. I did not expect to see you ever look so well again.' I tell them I would not look so well if it had not been for Peruna.

"Peruna saved my life. I recommend Peruna wherever I am, and when any of our folks are sick I give them Peruna with success.

"I thank Dr. Hartman, and may he live many years more to go on with the good work. Tongue cannot express the gratitude that my husband, children and I owe to Dr. Hartman for the kindness he has shown toward me during my sickness.

"I want the public to know what Peruna and Dr. Hartman have done for me."

An astonishing number of families use Peruna continuously for the various petty ailments to which the family is liable.

MRS. J. M. STABLER.

MUST KEEP LOTS CLEAN

Punishment Provided for People Disregarding City Ordinance.

Vacant Lots Must Not be Used for Dumping Grounds.

It is liable to go hard with people who continue to make it a practice to litter up vacant lots with ashes, old boxes, barrels and other refuse from the household. Mayor Haven has taken a decided stand on this matter, and announces that the police will be instructed to make arrests wherever people continue to offend after warning has been issued.

Duluth is now in a fairly presentable condition, and will be even more so after next Saturday, official cleaning day, is over with. It is the intention of the city administration to keep it in a presentable condition. One of the greatest difficulties in keeping Duluth clean is the fact that so many people take pains to clean up their own premises, but pay no heed to vacant lots in their vicinity. Instead of trying to keep them in a sightly condition, they are apt to use them as a dumping ground.

There is a city ordinance providing that any one thus dumping refuse on vacant property may be arrested and fined. Mayor Haven and the health department officials do not intend to be unreasonable in the enforcement of this ordance. An arrest and conviction will not be secured on the first offense, but where it is found that people are not paying the proper regard to cleanliness as regards neighboring lots, but are using them for dumping grounds, they will be warned to stop such proceedings. Later on they will again be visited by inspectors, and if it is found that no heed has been paid the first warning, steps will be taken to impress upon their minds the fact that when the city issues an order it intends that it shall be followed out. Offenders will be taken into court and fined.

Mayor Haven's new garbage ordinance will help a lot in keeping back yards and vacant lots in a more presentable condition. The ordinance will come up at the council meeting next Monday evening, and it looks very much as if it would pass. Up to the present time no special objections have been offered, except from some of the garbage men, who think their present profits will be cut into by the new ordinance. It may be necessary for the city, under the ordinance, to employ its own teams and men in the collection of garbage. This will be decided later, however, after the ordinance itself has been disposed of. One of the provisions which will tend to keep the city in a cleaner condition makes it necessary that every house shall have a watertight resceptacle for holding the garbage until called for. Another provision calls for watertight wagons for carrying the garbage to the incinerator.

Calumet & Sonora Mining Company Makes Wonderful Showing.

Mr. Forbes McRae, the mine superintendent of the Calumet & Sonora, estimates the ore blocked out and now on the dump at Catalina shaft No. 2 to be equal to the whole issue of the capital stock of the company, on the basis of par for the stock issued. This estimate does not include the ore in and on the dump at Chivera No. 2, or the ore in any of the other three shafts—simply Catalina No. 2. The shaft at Catalina No. 2 is at the 145-foot level. SINKS IS ENTHUSIASTIC.

Explains New Preparation for Fumigation That Has Been Adopted.

H. C. Sinks, state health inspector, is in Duluth today and is enthusiastic over the system of fumigation that has been instituted by the state board of health.

The new methods involves the introduction of a mixture of Patassium permanganate and formaldehyde, and it is said to be much more effective than any of the old schemes.

Mr. Sinks says that by the use of this mixture, ten houses can be thoroughly fumigated in the time that it formerly took to do the work at two. It also does away with the necessity for any apparatus.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

A wedding of much interest to Duluthians took place Monday at Winona, when Miss Emma M. Whitney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Whitney of that city, became the bride of William T. Bray of Duluth. The service was read at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. Edward Borncamp of St. Paul's Episcopal church, at the home of the bride's parents. There were no attendants. Both Mr. Bray and his bride are well known in Duluth. Mrs. Bray was a teacher in the Jackson school for several years, and Mr. Bray is a member of the firm of architects of Bray & Nystrom. Mr. and Mrs. Bray left immediately following the ceremony for Duluth, and are now at home in the St. Regis apartments.

DURLEY - PARK.

Pretty Wedding Takes Place at Superior Home of Bride.

A wedding of very much interest to many Duluthians took place last evening at the home of A. W. Durley of Superior, when his daughter, Miss Carrie E. Durley, became the bride of Edward D. Park of Stavely, N. W. T., formerly of this city. The service was read at 8 o'clock by Rev. E. H. Sheppley of the Congregational church. The house was beautifully decorated in roses and apple blossoms and the room in which the service was read was beautiful in the decorations of the chosen flowers. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lucile Durley, and the groom was attended by his brother, Dr. J. D. Park of this city. The bride wore a dainty gown of French batiste, trimmed in lace, and wore a veil. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a gown of lavender and carried a bouquet of violets.

The wedding music was played by Miss Marjorie Gilbert.

An informal reception followed the ceremony, and among the guests were forty Duluth people, as both Mr. Park, who formerly lived here, and his bride are well known in the city. Mr. and Mrs. Park left for the Twin Cities, and from there they will go to Stavely, N. W. T., where they will be at home.

Upon Advice.

You may disregard advice, but listen to it.

Don't scoff at it, no matter who the person is that makes it.

Many a fool has helped a wise man. Even the worst advice presents one side of a question.

An astute man said that he always wanted advice—not to follow it, but to help him make up his mind. If you once get this idea about it you will be much the gainer in the battle of life. No one person can present all the points of view, and a person about to take an important step should be able to know what is all around the horizon.

Listen to everything everybody has to say, if you have the time; if not, always listen to anything that is presented strongly, whether or not it agrees with your opinion.

And, above all things, never scoff at the criticism, with its implied advice, of an enemy. There you get your weakest points exposed. If you are wise you will be thankful for the opportunity to strengthen them.

"Tacky" Housewives.

When you see a housewife who keeps bread lying around until it molds; who permits mildew to get into the clothes; who allows her stockings and those of her family to fall to pieces for want of darning; who cooks up a lot of food which she ought to know will not be eaten and will be cast into the garbage can; who "thrashes through" her best frocks by putting them on to do kitchen work, you may be sure she is "tacky." You will never find a woman of that description who is not cheap, and who hasn't a common streak in her as wide as a gate, says the Kansas City Star.

Flaaten Recital.

The numbers by the juvenile orchestra of the Flaaten's Conservatory of Music, which will be presented at the recital which will be given next Monday evening at the Lyceum, will be among the finest numbers of the program. PAGE FOR WOMEN.

Evolution of What Was Once Considered Startling Idea.

There was a time, however difficult it may be to realize, when women did not read newspapers; when, in the majority of cases, the daily journal was regarded by them as an insidious enemy of the household; when the "gude housewife" began her busy day opposite an autocrat, who, in disdainful silence, delayed the savory breakfast to satisfy his curiosity regarding the antics of "bull and bear," and when the youthful members of the family, unable to repress their bubbling spirits, brought forth ebullitions of paternal wrath from the gleaner of the stock market. In the evening the same conditions prevailed. My lord must needs retire behind the well-filled sheet, digest its contents and steal forty winks before becoming properly attuned to wifely confidences, and womankind, perforce from long years of experience, accepted in a matter of fact way these conditions as part and parcel of conjugal life.

By and by there loomed upon the horizon an editor with an idea—one who said to himself, "Once a week I shall run a story with feminine interest; the women may like it." And like it they did. Nay more, they proved their appreciation by booming the circulation of that particular journal, and so gladdened the heart of the astute editor. Other papers took up the good work, following closely in the footsteps of the courageous pioneer, and thus it came to pass that, like the flashing of a meteor, paragraphs began to scintillate in the leading newspapers throughout the land—concise, to be sure, but unmistakable in their tendency to please women.

Then came a day big with fate, when a valiant editor, throwing caution to the four quarters of the globe, gave space to women writers on womanly subjects, and thus evolved the "Woman's Page." The effect was instantaneous, widespread and beneficial. The mind of woman broadened as she read, and, not content with the restricted sphere of fashions, recipes and beauty talks, she stepped over the borderland into the very domain of man—into the world of science and politics; grappling and treating the policies of the day with so rare an intelligence, so just an appreciation that men could only wonder and exclaim at what they termed phenomenal. Today the woman's page is a fixture. No longer does the feminine end of the household await in trembling silence behind the coffee urn the pleasure of her lifepartner. She has become the oracle which decides the choice of journal in her particular province.

So powerful a factor is the woman editor and so far reaching her influence that even the masculine element seeks the benefit of her services. Nay, more, it has been known to consult this authority on the delicate sprouting of a complex love affair. To be sure, in this wise old world, there are still many doubting Thomases, who relegate women to their so-called sphere—the kitchen—whose dulled intellects deny the benefit accruing from the feminine atmosphere in journalism, who sneeringly suggest that fashions alone are ladled forth to its many readers and who wilfully close their eyes to the growing influence of women. These may be graphically classed under the genus Crank, and with whom there is little sympathy. The spirit of comradeship is abroad in the land, and today men and women, hand in hand, traverese the paths of knowledge. What interests one is bound to please the other.

The woman's page, silently and unostentatiously, crept into the home life and is there the accepted counsellor, ameliorator and all-round confidante of its many readers. It is made the arbiter of style and fashion, the authority on epicurean concoctions, a guide book by land and sea, the healer of bodily ills, an adjuster of domestic cataclysms, the Blackstone of legal wrangles, the mouthpiece, of woman's emancipaion, the restorer of fading loveliness, and, finally, the sympathetic receptacle into which are poured the tribulations, miseries and heartburnings of everyday commonplace humanity.

POPE RECEIVES 200 GERMAN-AMERICANS.

Rome, May 21.—The pope today received 200 German-American pilgrims, led by Mr. Oelkers, president of the Central Association of Catholics of North America. The pope made his reply in Italian, thanked the pilgrims warmly for their greeting and blessing them and their families.

RAILROADS

ENTRANCE TO DULUTH

"Arrow" Line May be Backed by the Harriman Interests.

Rumor That Electric Road is Part of Big System.

Is another railroad heading toward Duluth?

A persistant rumor in the local railroad circles has it that the Minneapolis & St. Louis road, popularly known as the "Albert Lea Route," or "The Short Line," is manipulating a deal which will eventually mean direct connections for the road between the Twin Cities and Duluth.

For some days past the story has been going the rounds among some of the local railroad men who are usually considered well posted as to the coming events, that the Minneapolis & St. Louis road, or rather the Harriman interests said to control the road, are the real interests back of the "Arrow Line," an electric road that is now building between Duluth and the Twin Cities.

Some of the local railroad men profess belief that the rumor is far from the truth, that the "Arrow Line," will, when completed, be nothing more nor less than the connecting line between a Duluth terminal and the Minneapolis & St. Louis present terminal at Minneapolis.

That the road in question is essentially a coal and grain carrying road is a matter of common knowledge. The advantage of having a lake terminal for its coal and grain business is so apparent that the rumor is made easy of credence among those who have made a study of the traffic conditions.

The Minneapolis & St. Louis road reaches out westerly to the wheat fields of South Dakota, southerly through Iowa to Missouri and southeasterly into Illinois. It is a road having a heavy traffic in passengers as well as coal and grain and would give Duluth another Chicago connection.

In some of its territory the road parallels the Great Northern line.

Duluth people will not be disappointed if the Arrow Line electric railway project does not resolve itself into a scheme for a railroad to gain entrance to this city, for the new line would mean additional business. It would, no doubt, mean increased receipts of coal by way of the lakes and increased grain shipments from the territory reached by the Albert Lea route. The facilities offered the public for travel between Duluth and the Twin Cities, Iowa points and St. Louis are obvious.

No information as to the truth or falsity of the report has, so far as can be learned, leaked from official sources and the development of the Arrow Line project will be watched with more interest, in view of the possibilities the new line will afford providing the railroad company is back of it.

BIG INCREASE IN LAND VALUES

Pioneer Settler Predicts Great Change in Twenty Years.

"In twenty years every acre of land in this country will be taken, and these northern Minnesota lands will be settled," said Michael Horgan, who has watched Southern Minnesota develop from a wilderness to one of the garden spots of the continent.

Mr. Horgan, who hails from Martin county, or "Frank Day's county," as he calls it, is visiting his daughter Mrs. M. J. Flynn of Duluth. He is one of the interesting figures of southern Minnesota, a pioneer of sturdy Irish stock, who has had his homestead in Martin county since 1865, has been assessor of his township for twenty-eight years with but one break, and who has voted the Democratic ticket since he got his second papers.

Mr. Horgan describes himself as a "Johnson Democrat with Bryan tendencies." His pride in the son of the Bread and Butter state, and his admiration for Governor Johnson, struggle with his respect for a man with a name like "Bryan," but he says he will support the nominee of the party, whoever it is.

Mr. Horgan remembers the changes that have taken place in Minnesota in the last forty years, and he sees into the future with an eye that is trained by the experiences of the past.

"When I came to Southern Minnesota nobody thought the land was worth anything," he said. "Today it is worth $65 and $75 an acre. Twenty years from now every acre of land in this country will be taken, and then will come the dividing and subdividing of the big tracts into small farms, and the increase in the value of the land.

"There is a good living and independence for a man on a farm."

VIADUCT IS PROPOSED

Connection Needed Betweeen Railroad Street and Garfield Avenue.

Mayor Will Call Conference to Consider the Matter.

A viaduct may be erected to connect the end of Railroad street with Garfield avenue. Wholesalers and jobbers of Duluth have asked the board of public works to take up the matter of connecting Railroad street with Garfield avenue, and the viaduct plan looks feasible, if the railroads can be prevailed upon to build one.

Last year an agitation was started to secure a better connection between the street and avenue, and the board considered the matter, but it was laid on the table before any definite action was taken. During the last few months nothing has been said concerning it, but now that the business interests have revived the agitation, it is believed steps will be taken to provide for the improvement, which is said to be a very necessary one.

Wholesalers, jobbers and others use Railroad street a good deal, and often want to get their teams from this thoroughfare to Garfield avenue. There is such a network of railroad tracks between the two points that it is no easy matter to get wagons across the intervening space, and at present they follow a winding and inconvenient route. There are so many lines of track that a continuation of the street to Garfield, with surface crossings at all the tracks seem hardly feasible. More tracks are being laid right along, and it looks as if it would be only a matter of time before a viaduct will have to be built. In that part of the railroad yards trains, both passengers and freight, are constantly moving, and progress for a team there by surface crossing would be dangerous as well as slow.

President Olson of the board of public works this morning brought the matter to the attention of Mayor Haven, and requested that a conference be arranged between the city authorities, the city attorney and attorneys for the different railroads interested, to see if some system of connecting Railroad street and Garfield avenue cannot be devised. This conference will be called in the very near future. It is rather expected the railroads will offer objections to standing the expense of a viaduct, and this probably will not be insisted on if they can offer some other feasible method of connecting the street and avenue, which seems hardly likely. The viaduct would have to be 500 or 600 feet in length, and of course would be quite expensive to build.

METEOR FELL NEAR DULUTH

Washington Looking for Traces of Choice Astronomical Specimen.

Has anybody seen a meteor lying around loose in Northern Wisconsin or Minnesota?

The weather bureau at Washington is looking for a lost meteor that dropped in on the people of this part of the country on the night of April 19.

The meteor is said to have been a big one, and it would make a choice specimen for any astronomical museum. The weather bureau officials are therefore anxious to find it and have written to Prof. Merrill of the Superior Normal school, asking him to do what he can to locate it.

If any person saw the meteor or has any idea of the part of the country in which it fell, they can report it to Mr. Richardson at the weather bureau, Prof. Merrill or The Herald, and the information will be sent to Washington.

MAY NOT ADJOURN UNTIL JUNE 1

Many Important Matters Still Remain Unsettled in Congress.

Washington, May 21.—It was stated at the capitol today on apparently good authority that congress would not adjourn earlier than Wednesday, May 27, and that there was a possibility of the session being prolonged until June 1. The unsettled condition of several important measures which are now in conference between the two houses and the doubt that exists as to the final disposition of the public buildings bill have combined to make impossible an adjournment this week. While Speaker Cannon was not willing today to make any statement for publication it is known that the house leaders are planning to get away some time next week if possible.

Attention!

All members of Co. C are requested to report at the Armory Sunday, May 24, at 1:30 p. m. to attend memorial prayers of the G. A. R.

It is to be composed of nine senators to be appointed by the presiding officer of the senate and nine representatives to be appointed by the speaker of the house and is to inquire into and report to congress at the earliest date practicable what changes are desirable or necessary in the monetary situation of the United States or in the laws relating to banking and currency. For this purpose the commission is authorized to sit during sessions or in the recess of congress at such time and place as they may deem desirable.

GRAND JURY INDICTS EX-BANKER OF HAMLINE.

St. Paul, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ramsey county grand jury returned five secret indictments late yesterday afternoon. Today it was announced that four of them were against A. Z. Drew, former owner of the defunct Hamline & Midway Savings bank, which failed some months ago. The indictments charge Drew with receiving deposits knowing the banks were insolvent.

WILL PLAY FOR CHARITY.

Minneapolis and Duluth Grain Dealers Will Meet on Diamond.

Manager Charles H. Thornton of the board of trade baseball team announced today that the date for the game between his aggregation and the pelters from the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce would probably be either June 13 or June 20. The date will be positively announced later. The Minneapolis team will bring up a big bunch of fans from the Flour City 'change, and the local pit traders will be on the job. The proceeds of the game will go to charity.

Gets New Auto.

Edward Ribenack of the Lenox hotel is the proud possessor of a new runabout. In spite of the rainy weather he spent the day in thoroughly testing the machine, and by evening practically all of the guests at the hotel had been given an opportunity to test its running powers. It was a case of "free auto rides with every room" at the Lenox today, and the regular boarders at the hotel don't care how long Mr. Ribenack's enthusiasm lasts.

BLIZZARD IN MONTANA.

Butte, Mont., May 21.—Heavy losses of sheep and lambs are reported from Dawson county by a blizzard that began yesterday. The snow lies two feet on the level, and seven and six feet in the drifts.

STORES WILL NOT CLOSE

Memorial Day and July 4 Both Come on Saturday.

Merchants Feel They Cannot Afford to Lose Both Days.

Unless the merchants change their minds before next Saturday, the big stores along Superior street will remain open for business all day Memorial day, May 30.

This year Memorial day comes on Saturday, which is the best of the week for the merchants. The Fourth of July also comes on Saturday and feeling that they cannot afford to lose two whole Saturdays during the summer, the retailers will keep their places open May 30 and close them tight on the Fourth of July.

The heads of two of the large stores were interviewed this morning and they said that although some changes might yet be made in their plans, it looked now as if they will be open all day the 30th.

"The New York retailers have decided to keep open Memorial day and remain closed the Fourth, and this plan is likely to be carried out all over the country," said one storekeeper today.

The plans for the observance of Memorial day are progressing nicely. Maj. Eva, chairman of the executive committee of the citizens' staff, which has the parade in charge, sent out invitations to most of the city's military and civic organizations, to participate in the parade, but all the replies are not yet in, so that it is impossible for Lieut. Col. Resche, who is to be marshal of the parade, to announce the formation or line of march yet.

The parade will be under the direction of the citizens' staff, but the G. A. R. post will be in charge of the exercises, for adults at the Lyceum and for the school children at the Central high school.

The parade will be held at 9:30 and the exercises at the theater and the high school will be held immediately afterwards. In the afternoon there will be the decoration of the graves of soldier dead by the G. A. R. and auxiliary bodies.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Butte, Mont., May 21.—Ole Nordahl, a Musselshell ranchman, was arraigned at Lewiston yesterday for the murder of the entire Schleuter family, a mother and three children, who were found dead two months ago on a lonely ranch. Nordahl pleaded not guilty. There is no motive for the crime.

MEETING IN CHINA.

The American Consul Again Proves That This is a Small World.

New York Sun: "I hate bromides as well as the next fellow—but the world certainly is small," said a Southerner who for several years was American consul at a Chinese city. "That fact was proved to me for the 'steenth time a few weeks before I left China.

"A couple of years ago a man who managed a jewelry store in my town in the South, cut and run for it. He managed the store for his father, who operated a large jewelry store in a nearby town. This manager had got in bad, playing the horses and the like, and when he found himself $30,000 or $40,000 on the wrong side, why, he didn't have the nerve to take a train and go over to the old gentleman and tell him all about it, so he just bolted.

"I read this in China in the home papers that were sent to me. The home papers made a good deal of the story. Plenty of sympathy was expressed for the manager, who was well liked by all the folks down there. His father particularly took the thing to heart. The old gentleman was rich, and he put experts to work to straighten out his missing son's accounts, charged up the peculated money to profit and loss and installed another son as manager.

"One mail day—I only got American mail about every ten days at the Chinese city—I received a package of circulars relating to missing Americans. Most of the circulars were from the police departments of American cities —American consuls get quantities of these circulars from the police authorities. I never paid a great deal of attention to such circulars, although I generally glanced over them.

"One of this batch was a circular minutely describing the manager of a jewelry establishment who had disappeared from my town. The circular had been distributed by an American private detective agency at the instigation of the missing man's father. It was stated in the circular—which contained a cut of the missing man, whose features I knew so well—that the police were not after him, that there was no trouble in store for him, that his affairs had been straightened out and that it was only desired that he return home.

"I had ordered my cart for a drive just as this bunch of mail reached my office, and I crunched a lot of the mail into my pocket, intending to look it over when my driver had tooled the cart out into the country.

"My driver was threading his way through a side street in the European colony when I thought of the mail in my pocket and pulled it out. The first envelope I got hold of was that containing the circular describing the missing jeweler from my town. I spread it out on my knee and was reading it over when the cart happened to give a lurch and I glanced up.

"Standing on the corner looking right at me was the man whose picture and description were contained in the circular spread out on my knee.

"Flabbergasted? I certainly was! I doubted my eyesight for a moment. It seemed too incredible. But there he was, all right, looking rather pale and worried, but living and breathing and substantial enough—no hallucination, for sure.

"'Hello, old pal—didn't know you were here—you look good for sore eyes,' and he stepped to the side of the cart and I reached out my hand and we shook.

"I handed him the circular. He took it and read it rather listlessly.

"'I hate to go back,' he said to me.

"'Guess you do,' said I, 'but the home papers say your governor is worrying a heap about you and losing his health over it, and so I reckon you'll have to skate back, Bob. Eh?'

"'Well, maybe,' he said. 'I'm sorry for the old man, I certainly am,' and then we talked things over. He'd been in that Chinese city for a fortnight and already was employed in a leading jewelery establishment conducted by a Chinaman.

"Well, that's all. He didn't go back. He left my Chinese city before I quit there and I don't know where he went, but he didn't return home. I guess he made up his mind that he couldn't stand the gaff."

TELLING AGE BY COLORS.

London Evening Standard: There is a candor about Japanese women to which few Englishwomen would have courage to aspire, and such a custom as that of a girl representing in fact a "walking census" by limiting herself to a particular range of colors according to her age would be considered a preposterous idea in this country. And yet such is said to be the fashion in Japan, a girl's attire merging like the colors in a prism from one shade to the other as the years speed on.

Midway between the early twenties and the next decade purple, chesnut and pink, where the kimona is concerned, are made to take the place of the pale shades of silver gray or blue ciel which up till then have represented her color card. White, in addition, is relinquished practically at 25, a ruling which would seem arbitrary in England in these days when white toilettes are regarded as almost grandmotherly.

When in her twenty-seventh year, a Japanese woman acquires a new dignity when she takes her first step into the important realm of striped fabrics, which give such an added status to their wearer. As the years go on the wide stripes which proclaimed her initial plunge into a different category to that of her younger friends and companions narrow with each succeeding year, until the finest hair line announces with almost offensive honesty that she has reached the age of thirty.

Pale mauve shades, as well as cinnamon and blue, are her choice as regards color until she is five years older, when without sign of protest she leaves all bright tones to her younger sisters, and is seen thence-forward in the dull, drab tints of brown and dark gray, until her striped kimono is changed for a checked brown or gray at forty-five. This is exchanged finally a few years later for black or very dull gray, in which sober garb a Japanese woman continues until the end of her life.

DIVING FOR FISH.

Ragoon Gazette: A unique method of fishing is employed by the natives along the Panlaung river.

Two dugout boats are employed about thirty feet long, with two men with long poles, one in the bow, the other at the stern punting the boat along. They stretch a long rope made of bamboos and plaited grass about a hundred yards long and weighted about every ten yards with big stones. This they let down into the water, and the fish are frightened toward the bank. The divers then jump in three at a time, remaining down about twenty seconds.

They carry gaffs about eighteen inches long and fishhooks with cords attached. When they strike a fish they let go the gaff and the fish is hauled up in the boat. A big fire is lighted on the river bank, and the men warm themselves before it when not diving.

TREE'S RESTING TIME.

St. Louis Globe Democrat: "What we call evergreens," says a gentleman formerly connected with the park department of St. Louis, "are not really green during the winter, nor are they really alive but are dormant.

"Every plant must have its period of rest at some time in the year, and in our northern latitudes the winter is, of course, the most appropriate season. The evergreens generally retain the greater part of their foliage during the winter, but a close examination shows that it dries to such an extent as to be really dead, and a large part of it falls off when the plants begin their spring growth. The drying is not peculiar to the foliage. The branches and stem become as dry as the foliage, and being almost entirely devoid of moisture are little damaged by the winter's cold.

"In some parts of the tropics, however, as in the highlands of Southern Mexico and Central America, the summer is the resting time of the trees. The intense heat of the sun dries up the earth, the trees drop their leaves, the woody portions become as dry as our evergreens in winter, and the tree takes its rest until the autumn rains begin.

"Of course this rule does not apply to a large number of tropical plants which grow in moist jungles or swampy places. They have accustomed themselves to their conditions, but even they still retain the resting habit, and at some time of the year relax in their growing and become as near dormant for a time as circumstances will permit."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LAMBRECHT GOES FREE

Clay County Grand Jury Fails to Indict the Promoter.

No True Bill on Either of Two Charges Presented.

Moorhead, Minn., Ma 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Clay county grand jury here, that looked into the two charges preferred against James Lambrecht, the Fargo promoter, formerly of Grand Fokrs, reported no true bill and the rather sensational proceedings have ended, the charges against the accused being dismissed. It is expected that this will end the matter. The proceedings against Lambrecht were instituted by John Haas, a retired saloonkeeper here, who alleged that he had been induced, by false pretenses put out by Lambrecht, to subscribe for stock in the Northwestern Interurban Electric company, which proposes to build trolley lines in the Red river valley and with which Lambrecht was at one time connected. Lambrecht was arrested in Fargo, and he resisted extradition before Governor Burke of North Dakota. The governor, however, honored the requisition of Governor Johnson of Minnesota, and then Lambrecht took the matter into the courts, applying to the supreme court for a writ of haebas corpus. The court issued the writ, making it returnable before Judge Templeton at Grand Forks, who, after an exhaustive hearing, denied the writ. Lambrecht then crossed the river to Moorhead from Fargo and surrendered himself. Two charges—obtaining money under false pretenses and of being a fugitive from justice—were laid before the grand jury, but, as stated, no true bills were reported and all proceedings were dropped. Lambrecht and his friends have claimed all along there was nothing to the charge preferred by Haas and are jubilant over Lambrecht's vindication.

INDIANS MOURNED HIM.

Touching Incident at the Funeral of W. M. Tomkins.

Ashland, Wis., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the touching incidents of the funeral of the late W. M. Tomkins, the distinguished attorney, who was buried here Tuesday afternoon, was the presence of a number of Odonah Indians by whom the deceased was revered. The Indians were among the most sincere mourners about the bier of the attorney.

Mr. Tomkins leaves a wife, one daughter, Grace, and four sons, A. Pearce Tomkins, Clark, Scott and Claire. The honorary pall bearers were Sam S. Fifield, S. W. Tanner, J. J. Miles, Thomas Bardon, W. R. Durfee, Emil Garnich, R. W. French and J. K. Parish. The active pall bearers were M. E. Dillon, J. Scott Ellis, C. N. Cramer, George S. Rodd, Ben S. Smith and J. M. Dodd.

GO TO STANDING ROCK.

Party of Eastern Tourists Leave Bismarck for Reservation.

Bismarck, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large party of Eastern tourists from New York, Philadelphia and other Eastern points left Bismarck Monday in touring cars bound for the Standing Rock reservation.

One member of the party, E. G. Fields, the well known magazine writer, stated that the Indian was just as interesting a figure to the effete Easterner as ever, and it was for the purpose of collecting data for a real dyed in the wool Indian story that he would visit the Sioux stronghold.

E. P. Parkins, for many years associated with Senator Clark in the mining industry, was another member of the party. Mr. Parkins accompanied the party in the unofficial capacity of guide, as he is very familiar with the various chiefs of the Sioux.

The party expects to spend several days at the reservation, and from there they will travel westward to the Pacific coast.

FOUR HURT IN TAMARACK.

Were Injured by Fall of Ground in No. 5 Shaft.

Calumet, Mich., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Struck by a fall of ground at the thirtieth level of No. 5 shaft of the Tamarack mine, four men lie seriously injured, one of them probably fatally. Three of the victims of the accident are being cared for at the Tamarack hospital, where they were taken immediately following the accident. James Bryant, trammer boss, was able to be removed to his home. His injuries were the least severe of any.

Simon Ticak, a trammer, suffered the most serious injuries and little hope was held out at the hospital this morning for his recovery. Besides a dislocated hip, he is believed to have a number of internal injuries which make his chance for life not very bright.

Ella Rajacich met with a severe scalp wound in the accident and also a badly cut leg. His injuries are not considered as serious as those of Ticak but it will probably be a month or two before he will be able to be around again and leave the hospital.

Joseph Vianish, another of the hurt, has a fractured leg as his most painful injury, but has several minor cuts and bruises as a memento of the accident.

NORTHERN MICHIGAN NORMAL

Marquette Institution is Closing a Very Successful Year.

Marquette, Mich., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Since the institution opened in 1902, the attendance at the Northern Normal school here has grown steadily until for the year now drawing to a close a total of 582 students have been enrolled. this number including those registered in the classes in session last summer. The attendance by years, during the six years has been as follows: 258, 284, 334, 428, 441 and 582. There will be graduated next month a total of 103 students, of whom eighty-three will be given life certificates. All these graduates are assured of positions; the demand, in fact, being much greater than the supply. The Normal is the only institution of its kind in the upper peninsula, and practically every one of the fifteen counties of the region is represented in the student body.

For the summer term which opens June 29 and continues until Aug. 7, a period of six weeks, it is expected that the attendance will surpass all previous records. Including the regular faculty and special teachers, there will be twenty-eight instructors. A course of special lectures has been arranged, in addition.

HE BLAMES MAPLEINE.

St. Cloud Man to Have Substance That Poisoned Him Analyzed.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ernest Pelton, father of Earl Pelton, who was poisoned as the result of eating mapleine, discredits the story that the poison came from the porcelain dish in which the stuff stood. He asserts that the dish was comparatively new and that the porcelain was not worn off.

Mr. Pelton is of the opinion that the poisoning was in the mapleine itself. To satisfy himself he will send a sample of the stuff to the state board for examination.

The report that the poisoning came from a porcelain dish is also discredited by a local hardware man. He stated that all the acids which may be in the preparation used are taken out by an intense heating process before the ware is put on the market.

GOVERNMENT PRESS AGENTS.

The senate struck from the agricultural appropriation bill a provision which would have prohibited the forest service from using money for the preparation of information for publication. This was very proper action, since to succeed the project of forestry must have public support, and it cannot get public support unless the public understands it.

As the provision now stands, the service is merely prohibited from using money to secure the publication of the information it wishes to disseminate. There would probably have been no danger of such misuse of government funds, even if there had been no such prohibition, but it would have been very unwise to impair the usefulness of the forest service by preventing it from issuing information as to its operations.

It is true, however, that the methods of spreading information regarding forestry might have been regulated so that they would produce greater results at less cost. There is no bureau of government that spreads so much literature as the forestry bureau. Pamphlets and books in innunerable numbers go to every newspaper office in the country, and the quantity of information is so great that in very few newspaper offices is it possible to assimilate it and prepare it for public instruction. It would be better, perhaps, if this great bulk of printed matter, which costs considerable money, could be held by the bureau to be sent at request, and if the essential facts needed to stimulate public interest were conveyed in smaller compass through newspaper articles.

Forestry cannot do the great work that is before it unless it is backed by public sentiment. This the forestry bureau is working to accomplish, and it is using up-to-date methods to do it. Practical newspaper men prepare the news of the service in newspaper fashion, and get it before the public while it is fresh. This is in marked contrast with the old method of preparing highly technical reports and sending them out months after they have ceased to be of interest, a practice that still prevails in many departments. The forestry bureau appears to be continuing this method, however, at the same time that it is developing the more modern and more useful method described above.

Newspapers want the news, but they have no space to give to interminable pamphlets and bulky documents, and no spare help to be devoted to digging the essential facts out of the mass of chaff that is offered.

By its tacit approval of the employment of skilled newspaper men in the dissemination of department information, congress has shown itself to be abreast of the times. The government press agent has come, and as in all other lines of business and humanity activity, he will prove so useful that he will stay.

AN UNFORTUNATE DEADLOCK.

It looks now as though congress would adjourn without taking any action to extend the time for the development of the water power at International Falls.

Congress passed a bill granting the extension, but the president vetoed it because it did not set a limitation upon the term of the franchise and provide for payment of a tax to the government by the grantee of the franchise.

This is a very unfortunate and unnecessary condition. Certain congressmen raised the point that the government has no right to make a charge for such privileges or to put a limit on the life of such franchises. Why congressmen, representing the people, should raise this point is beyond understanding. Surely if the government can do better for its people by maintaining control of the last great natural resources belonging to the people congressmen should be the last to stand in the way of the attempt. The president takes the stand that if a franchise is worth asking for, it is worth paying for, and that if the government must permit the use of water powers it can maintain control of their use for the benefit of the people.

The president is right and congress is wrong. At first there was talk of passing the bill over the president's veto, but this will probably not be done now, as congressmen do not dare to go on record as opposing the president in this stand. This in itself is a confession of the weakness of their position. The promoters of the Rainy River water power project have spent much money in preparation, and it is wrong that they should be blocked in this manner. Yet the wrong lies at the doors of congress, and not at the doors of the president, who is standing for a just and necessary principle.

DO AUTOS DESTROY ROADS?

The coming of the automobile has given a new impetus to the movement for good roads, because it has put back of that movement men who wouldn't have had their attention called to the need of road improvement if they hadn't bought automobiles and found it out for themselves.

Yet there is another side to this, too, and the federal government is preparing to make a case against the automobile as a destroyer of roads. This applies particularly to racers, though most automobiles are likely to become racers when they get out on a country road where nobody is in the way.

If the government proves what it has set out to prove, states, counties and municipalities may be expected to consider the advisability of compelling the owners of automobiles to pay a tax which shall be used in repairing the damage their machines do the roads.

A series of experiments is now being conducted in Washington by the good roads division of the department of agriculture to ascertain just how much damage a rapidly-moving automobile does to a roadway. The results of these experiments will be submitted to the International Road Congress which meets in Paris next October.

The theory of the case against the automobile is that the macadam surface is lifted and blown away in clouds as the racers fly over it. While various cars at various speeds go over a selected piece of roadway near Washington, a corps of skilled photographers, equipped with the most modern devices for photographing vehicles in motion, makes accurate records of the various tests. The results are bearing out the theory that automobiles are bad for good roads.

It will be surprising to many to hear it asserted that the automobile, with its broad, soft tires, does more harm to roadways than the loaded wagon, and in order to understand it it is necessary to go back to the theory upon which the French roadmakers, Macadam and Tresauget, worked out the macadam road. They reasoned that a road surfaced with bits of stone would improve under wagon traffic because the iron tires of passing vehicles would constantly crush the stones and form rock dust particles; that these rock dust particles would not merely fill in all the interstices between the stones, but would also form a surface dust binder, the wettings and rollings tending to cement the dust into a shell-like surface, and thus to make the entire road one traffic-withstanding, water-shedding mass.

Macadam roads, under use by wagons, bore out this theory to the letter. They improved with the passing of the years until the automobile came. Shortly after it came into vogue highway engineers all over the world realized that a new condition confronted them, and that established customs were being menaced. It was soon noted that the soft rubber tire was the menace of the highways. It crushed no rock itself, and therefore did the road no good, while the tremendous tractive force of the real wheels drew up the dust made by the iron-tired wagons and sent it whirling away over adjacent lands.

The speeding automobile, therefore, is being blamed for a deterioration of road surfaces, and it is but natural, if the charge is proved, that its owners should be called upon to pay special taxes to repair the waste they create.

SATURDAY IS CLEANING DAY.

Probably the notice is no longer necessary for the majority of the citizens of Duluth, but the municipal cleaning day which had been scheduled for last Saturday but was postponed because of threatening weather conditions, occurs Saturday.

Tonight the mayor's proclamation fixing the day appears in The Herald, and the health department's corps of inspectors is busy taking note of those who comply with the mayor's request to clean up their yards, and of those who fail to comply.

While there have been several interruptions by bad weather, there have been plenty of days this spring when cleaning could be done to advantage, and the heavy rains have done all that nature could do toward flushing the city's streets. What the rains could not do the city and its citizens must do, in order that the city may swing into the coming summer with conditions sweet and clean and fresh. This is necessary not only that the city may look its best, but that it may be as healthy as its natural advantages of drainage and climate will make it if the citizens do their part.

A large number of citizens, very likely a majority of them, have not waited for the official cleaning day, but have already put their grounds in order. Those who have waited to join with others in one concerted attack upon disorder and uncleanliness may participate Saturday.

It will not be necessary, probably, but of course the city health authorities will look about after cleaning day is over, and see to it that the few who do not clean up voluntarily do so under compulsion.

LET OFF EASILY.

Some time ago a body of students of Michigan university at Ann Arbor, annoyed at an attempt to restore the peace which some of its members had disturbed, broke loose in a small theater and wrecked the place.

The incident amounted to a riot, and it was a disgrace to one of the best institutions of learnings in the country.

Yet, strangely enough, there have been those who made light of the incident, and laughed at the gravity of those who were shocked by it.

Criminal charges were brought against members of the student mob, naturally, and now these have been dismissed on the agreement that the students raise $1,000 to pay the damages to property caused by them.

They are getting off very lightly, indeed, and they may thank the judge to whose leniency they owe their immunity from the jail or penitentiary sentences that would have surely been visited on anybody else that had done the same things. To be sure the judge made up for the softness of his sentence by the harshness of the lecture he gave the culprits, and that helps a little. The attitude of the peaceable and decent element in the university toward the incident is shown by these expressions of the university paper: "A reputation for lawlessness, rowdyism and entire disregard for the rights of others;" "dragging the name of 'college man' in the mire;" and "a cost of the riot, morally, never to be reckoned."

A hoodlum is a hoodlum when he acts like a hoodlum, whether he is a wharf rat, a Bowery tough, a slum bravo or a college student. It is the act that counts, not the social position of the culprit. Wanton destruction of property and malicious disturbances of the peace are no more to be condoned in a body of "college men" than in a body of human outcasts. Indeed, the offense of the college man is intrinsically the greater, because he knows better. There may be some excuse for the unfortunate rascal who has been bred a rascal, but there is none whatever for the college man who has, presumably, been bred a gentleman.

For depredations of the same character as those for which these students have been let off practically scot free, there would have been sentences to the workhouse and possibly to the penitentiary had they been done by a crowd of strikers, for instance. If, instead of being students off for a good time, the mob that did the damage at Ann Arbor had been composed of strikers protesting against some injustice of working conditions, the country would have resounded with indignant protests from one end to the other, and there would have been no defenders in the press for these "riotous and unruly disturbers of property rights," who would be accused of degrading labor and of menacing public security.

If young men who are enjoying the blessings of university training can furnish no better example than that of the Ann Arbor hoodlums, it would be a sad state of things. Fortunately, however, this incident is exceptional, and by the way of a moral lesson it will do much good.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

George T. White, at the Lenox, says sentiment in New York state is very strong for Governor Johnson. Most people down there believe, he says, that the votes of New York state will be cast for Johnson. The Bryan men are claiming the state, but Mr. White is of the opinion that the votes will be cast for Johnson at the Denver convention.

Mr. White also says there is a strong sentiment for Johnson in the South. "The voters there, from what they have seen of the Minnesota executive, believe he is the right man to lead the party to victory," he said last evening.

"Everywhere your governor goes, he seems to make hosts of friends. I have wondered during the past what would have been the result if Johnson had got into the race earlier. I believe that he could have almost carried the South solidly, and there are many Eastern states credited to Bryan that Johnson could have won if he had been in the race earlier.

"He made a great hit with the people of Detroit when he delivered his lecture there. He went with no political intent, yet the result of his visit was in the nature of an ovation. It is the same way everywhere he goes. When he spoke at the University of Pennsylvania he created a very favorable impression by the breadth of his views. In Washington Johnson has made the conservative statesmen sit up and take notice. The impression he created at the Capitol City was wonderful, and the Southern statesmen were most cordial in their reception of the Minnesota man.

"I honestly think that Johnson could defeat Taft. Taft is not such a strong man when you come to think over all of his characteristics. Here is the example of a man being literally forced into the presidential race. Most men consider it a great honor to have the office come their way after they have done everything in their power to secure the nomination. But with Taft it was different. I don't believe he wanted the office, but Roosevelt wanted it, and that settled the matter.

"The people over the country, at least the ones that I have talked with, are not enthusiastic over Taft. He has not the qualities of character that appeal to the people. There is not that personal magnetism about him that there is about Johnson, for instance. From what I can gather of the sentiment of the people, I am firmly convinced that Johnson would be returned an easy winner over Taft. The Republican leaders are very well aware of this sentiment on the part of the people, too.

"I have traveled over a great section of the country since the Johnson candidacy was announced and I have heard most favorable mention of the Minnesota man. In the South and West they are strong for him. He is solid with the people, apparently.

"Many people hold the opinion that William J. Bryan can never be elected. I am one of those people. I don't think that Bryan can possibly be elected. If that is the case, and many Democrats seem to believe that it is, they are asking themselves why he should be nominated.

"On the other hand there are many men over the country of both political faiths that believe that Johnson is the logical candidate to lead the party to victory. Most men admit that the party has the best chance for victory that it has had since Cleveland was elected, and if only the right man was selected it looks to me as if the Democratic candidate would be returned the winner.

"I have tried to be fair in forming any opinion that I may hold. I have, as I said, talked with many men of different views, and have formed my opinion largely in that way. I can honestly say that after talking with all the voters that I have been privileged to meet in the past month, I am firmly convinced that the people are tired of Bryan and that he does not stand the slightest chance of being elected."

Judicial Rate Making.

Philadelphia Press: Another railroad in Pennsylvania has been taken from under the operation of the 2-cent fare law by a court decision. It is a little road of narrow gauge, running through portions of Greene and Washington counties. The court in the latter county holds the law to be inoperative as applied to that road, for the reason that it so reduces the company's revenues as to be an injustice to the stockholders. The judges maintain that a 6 per cent dividend should be allowed the stockholders, and that in addition a 3 per cent annual fund should be created for extraordinary emergencies and to make betterments. The 2-cent rate did not permit this, and so the road can charge what it pleases as long as that decision stands.

"Let Us Alone."

The Outlook: For the real origin of that motto, however, which expresses so tersely the temper of the National Prosperity association, and which has captivated the New York Sun, we must go back nearly nineteen hundred years. It is recorded in the gospel according to Mark that there was in a synagogue a man with an unclean spirit who, when he heard one teaching with authority and not as the scribes, cried out, "Let us alone; what have we to do with thee? Art thou come to destroy us?" The next time the National Prosperity association or the New York Sun prints with its enthusiastic approval the motto, "Let us alone," we trust that it will give credit to the man with the unclean spirit.

THE WEATHER.

Rain, wind and then some more rain, and some more wind. This morning the northeast wind, which had become very noisy and rude during the night, had ceased, but it was still cloudy and showery. Thunderstorms, beginning last night, continued this forenoon. The weather man expected the showers to cease tonight and to be followed by generally fair weather tomorrow. Last night's lowest temperature was 38 degs, and yesterday's highest was 44 degs.

A year ago today it was cool and cloudy with showers.

The sun rose this morning at 4:25 and sets tonight at 7:43, making 15 hours and 18 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Light to heavy rains fell during Wednesday or last night throughout the Northwest, portions of the lake region and Atlantic states, due to barometric depressions central this morning over North Dakota, Missouri, Oklahoma and Northeastern Texas. High northeast winds also resulted over Western Lake Superior. Cooler weather attends a rise in pressure over the Mississippi valley, Kansas and Colorado. The barometer is high over New England states and off the Oregon coast. Conditions indicate showery weather in this locality this afternoon and tonight followed by fair weather Friday."

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Lake Crystal Union: With Johnson in the field against Taft, there will be one of the darndest fights for the presidency yet seen. Now don't flatter yourselves that Taft has a walk away, if the man from Minnesota enters the contest. If old Cannon is not spiked and a whole lot of that class of congressmen retired and Johnson is nominated, he will be president. We are for Taft-Teddy first, last and all the time, but don't seek to deceive the people, for it never pays.

St. Cloud Times: The Bryan leaders in Minneapolis claim that enough Republicans voted for John A. Johnson at the Democratic caucuses to change the result. This is pure rot; but, if Republicans did vote for Johnson delegates, every one of them, and thousands upon thousands more, will vote for him for president should he be the nominee. The Minnesota woods are full of such Republicans; they swarm upon the prairies of the state, and the cities and villages abound with them.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Instruct," says Mr. Bryan in his newspaper. Instruct the Democrats of Minnesota do, and on the very day the admonition is uttered from Lincoln. But there is no joy for Mr. Bryan in the prompt obedience, for the Minnesota instructions are for the state's popular governor, who was at the time attending the conference at the White House and impressing his statesmanlike demeanor upon his colleagues.

Cass Lake Voice: The state Democratic convention declared unmistakably for Johnson as it was its undoubted duty to do, to properly support the dignity of this great state. It is true there have been candidates for the presidency who did not have the support of the home states, but such cases have been rare, and have not been considered as creditable to the states concerned.

Wilmar Tribune: The mistaken effort of a few hotheads to connect the governor with the "interests" incensed a number of Johnson's friends who otherwise would not have taken much interest in the matter. In fact, Bryan would have strengthened himself very much in Minnesota if he had followed the chivalrous example set by Taft in New York and called off his radical friends here.

Lake Crystal Union: Governor Johnson is a winner. He receives the united delegation to Denver for the presidency. This is the proper caper. Just imagine for a moment of Governor Johnson failing to carry his own state. The thing would be disastrous to the reputation of Minnesota.

Utica, N. Y. Press: "The candidacy of Governor Johnson satisfies the best Democratic traditions and deserves the support of every thoughtful Democrat. His nomination would, in my opinion, be a very hopeful augury of of success."

The above brief statement of opinion is given out for publication by Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university. He needs no introduction to the country as being one of the ablest and most conscientious members of the Democratic party. He has himself been talked of for the presidency, a suggestion, however, which lacked his approval. He is one of the stars in his party who is looked at and looked to with reverence. His opinion may not be able to get any delegates or carry any convention, but it will be received as having no small amount of influence, especially in the East, where the importance of his position is recognized and appreciated. President Wilson has avowed his belief in Democracy in speeches and published articles, nor is there any question as to his sincerity and disinterestedness. That is a very valuable certificate of good character which he gives.

Virginia Enterprise: The triumph of the Johnson forces throughout the state of Minnesota appears to be a far more bitter pill for the "stand-pat" Republican press of the state than for the Bryan Democracy to swallow.

The Minnesota Democrats.

Indianapolis News: The Democratic state convention yesterday instructed the delegates from that state to vote under the unit rule for Governor Johnson as a candidate for the presidency, thus acting under Mr. Bryan's advice. For he said yesterday the convention should instruct, for without instruction the delegates might fall an easy prey to the bosses. So the Minnesota delegation is safe. It is for Johnson. The plank indorsing the governor is enthusiastic. He is spoken of as a man "of ability, integrity and honor, a constructive statesman, who holds no brief from any class, who from early youth has been a wage earner, whose private life has been of such purity, vigor and earnestness as to win him the love, respect and confidence of all who know him." "In public life," the convention says, "he has, by his virtue, won the admiration of the people of his state and nation, regardless of condition of life or political faith." The convention spoke a good word for Mr. Bryan, but it declared that Governor Johnson is equally "worthy," and that he "gives greater promise of successful candidacy."

An attempt was made to have the convention declare for Mr. Bryan as second choice. But the resolution was voted down by a vote of 772 to 166. There seems to have been no reason why such a declaration should have been made. Its only effect would have been to make people think that the indorsement of Governor Johnson was not sincere, but only perfunctory—a sort of favorite son business. Besides, when did any convention that ever indorsed Mr. Bryan declare for any one else as second choice? We think there can be no dougt that the Democrats of Minnesota earnestly desire the nomination of the governor.

THE BEST INVESTMENT

Is one which pays the largest dividends for the greatest length of time. No investment however good it may seem, is really good unless there is some return for your money. The greater and more constant the return, the better the investment. In buying mining stocks in good properties, honestly promoted and conservatively managed, you are getting one of the cleanest, most profitable and most satisfactory sources of income possible to secure. There is only one thing better and more profitable than a mine and that is the smelter which reduces its ore.

In presenting our methods of ore reduction to your attention and setting forth its superiority over any other system, we desire to emphasize the fact that it is in no sense of the word an experiment, an untried or unproven process. Nor is it a theoretical idea to be some time worked out.

The Universal Oil Smelter

Is a demonstrated success. The experimental work has been done. There are no new-fangled ideas or processes involved. The principles are identical with those now in use in the great smelting centers of the world. The results produced are the same as by the most modern and accepted type of coke smelters.

Because we use oil as a fuel at less than one-half the cost of coke; because we need fewer operatives; because we handle our product from first to last more economically and because our plant costs less to build and maintain; we effect a saving of from 20 per cent to 50 per cent over the present cost of smelting.

The Union Smelting & Refining Co.

Owning the rights, patents and processes of The Universal Oil Smelter, is incorporated under Arizona laws; its capital stock is $1,000,000, divided into 200,000 shares of a par value of $5 each. The stock is fully paid, non-assessable and non-forfeitable. There is no personal liability to the stock holdings. The officers and directors are experienced mining and smelting men and capable of properly managing the corporation and conducting the business for which it was created.

The company is exhibiting a model of a complete plant, showing in detail the entire operation of smelting by its system.

This model is exhibited at 301 Burrows Bldg., Duluth, where you are invited to call and see exactly how the results are accomplished. It is exhibited here primarily for the purpose of closing contracts for the erection of smelters on properties owned or controlled by Duluth capital.

One and possibly two contracts here are now being negotiated on well known properties, which, if accepted will result in greatly increased values of the mining companies' stock and corresponding benefit to the smelting company.

The company, however, aside from any contracts sought to be obtained here, have already contracted to build two plants in Mexico of 25 tons per day capacity each, and two plants in Arizona, each of 100 tons per day capacity. These plants aggregating 250 tons daily capacity are to be built and in operation by January 1st, 1909. The company also intends to construct a 200-ton per day custom plant in Yavapai county, Arizona. The smelting company installs these plants solely upon a royalty basis. This royalty commences from the initial run and continues during the life of the patents. In the contracts already secured, the royalties average $5 per ton. At the custom smelter the operation will net from $8 to $15 per ton.

The total contracts already assumed and those to be made this year, require an expenditure of $200,000. To secure immediate funds beyond its own present resources, the company has decided to offer a portion of its treasury stock for public subscription in order to install the plants above mentioned.

THE COMPANY OFFERS, SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE, 30,000 SHARES, PAR VALUE $5.00 EACH, OF ITS FULLY PAID, NON-ASSESSABLE, CAPITAL STOCK AT PAR.

The proceeds from the sale of the stock to be used for the construction of smelters as outlined above.

As to Profits

No investor makes an investment without considering the probable earnings of the stock he buys or the probable figure at which the stock will sell. At least, he should not.

The earnings of this company and the amount of probable dividends is limited only to the ability of the company to build and operate plants. The field is unlimited and the demand for smelters to accomplish the results obtained by this type will never equal the supply.

Based only upon the contracts now had and estimated on a basis of 250 tons per 24 hours, with an average operation of 300 days per year at $5 per ton net royalty, the net annual earnings of the company will be $375,000, equivalent to $1.87½ per share or 37½ per cent on the total capitalization. On the usual basis, with this earning, the stock will sell at $15.

The earnings of the company's own custom smelter of 200 tons per day, computed at an average of $10 per ton on a 300-day year basis, will be $600,000, equivalent to $3 per share.

The combined plants will, therefore, show an earning of $975,000 per year or practically $5 per share. At this rate the stock should and no doubt will sell at $50 or more. Each succeeding year will add to the earnings in proportion to the number of plants built and at the same time each previous year's earnings are maintained upon a fixed basis.

While these earnings and results may seem large, it is only necessary to point to the operation of the "Smelter Trust," its capitalization, its earnings, the dividend paid and the value of its stock.

It is unnecessary to further argue the merits of this enterprise or the value of an investment in its stock. All are so apparent that no question remains. The extremely low capitalization of the company and the certainty of constant and steadily increasing dividends, makes this unquestionably one of the best investment offerings ever made.

THE COMBINATION OF QUICK RETURNS, ABSOLUTE SAFETY, LARGE PROFITS AND INCREASING VALUE OF THE STOCK, ARE FEATURES NOT TO BE OVERLOOKED.

The privilege of subscribing to this issue of stock is open only for a limited period. The books were opened Wednesday, May 20th, and will close Monday, June 1st, 1908. The price per share is $5. If desired, payment may be made as follows: One-fifth cash, balance in four equal monthly installments.

Five per cent discount for cash will be allowed if payment is made at time of subscription. This will be the only offering of treasury stock at the present time. Should it be decided later to offer more of the stock, it will be at a price of not less than $7.50 per share. The stock will be listed on the principal exchanges.

The right is reserved, in event of over-subscription, to reject any subscription either wholly or in part.

Present indications are that the stock will be quickly subscribed. We suggest prompt action in securing your allotment.

The books are open and subscriptions are being received at the office of A. H. W. Eckstein, 301 Burrows building, Duluth.

You are invited to subscribe.

THE UNION SMELTING AND REFINING COMPANY

DECIDES ON NEW METHOD

Crew of Men Are Working on the Point of Rocks.

Board of Public Works Starts at East Side.

The board of public works has adopted a new scheme for getting rid of the point of rocks. A crew of men has started work at the extreme easterly edge of the point, to get rock for water pipe protection on St. Croix avenue, and is working through the rock westward. They will not be able to make a very big hole in the point, for only $1,000 was appropriated for the purpose, but it will be a start, and more will be done in the same direction from time to time.

Heretofore all plans to do away with the point have provided for the beginning on th face of the cliff, and working backward along its whole length. This method promised to be something of a nuisance by threatening a blockade of the street at certain periods, and, was also a menace to passing people and vehicles. The cliff is so near the street that falling rock would be apt to create serious damage during progress of the work, unless the street were blocked altogether, and this would not be practical.

Members of the board believe better resultts can be accomplished by starting on one side of the point, and working through it by gradual stages. There is room enough on the east side to make a good start, and the work can be carried on without any special danger to street car or other traffic. The men are working below the rock crusher, and the crusher is not being used at all. A derrick is to be installed, and next week wagons will be operated between the point of rocks and St. Croix avenue, to carry the material to the place where it is needed to protect the water pipes from the wave action from the lake.

Hereafter, whenever the board is in need of any rock, it will take it from the same place, and thus the point will gradually be done away with. No attempt has heretofore been made to take rock from either side of the point. By doing a little of this work every year, the board believes that in a few years the obstruction will be entirely removed.

Walter W. Carr, the broker who has sold his business to Mitchell & Co., when speaking of his plans for the future, said today that he would probably return to Duluth after he had taken a much-needed rest, and enter the bonds business. He said that he had received considerable encouragement to do so from local houses, and felt that Duluth offered an excellent opening for such an enterprise.

Indictment Dismissed.

Judge Ensign this afternoon dismissed the indictment against John W. Wilson, who was held on the charge of having obtained money under false pretenses. The dismissal was on a technicality, and Wilson will be arrested under another warrant.

FATAL FIRE AT CHICAGO

Box Factory of J. C. Wintermeyer and Other Buildings Burn.

Chicago, May 21.—Fire broke out today in the large box factory of J. C. Wintermeyer at 750 Throop street. The flames swept through the building and spread to a number of adjoining structures. Over twenty-five companies have been called to the scene.

It was reported to the fire alarm office shortly after 2 o'clock, that eighteen men, who were injured in the box factory, were cut off by the flames and that a number of them had been killed and injured.

Among those known to have been injured are Jacob Rice, 507 California avenue, badly cut, may die; Jacob Ambrose, 958 Troy street, badly cut, internal injuries, may die. Unidentified man, fatally burned about body.

Members of Engine Company No. 15, which is located only a short distance from the Wintermeyer factory, carried out a number of employes who had been partially overcome by smoke and heat. At 2:20 o'clock it was reported to the fire alarm office that fifty or more employes of the Wintermeyer box factory had been injured in the fire.

The flames spread with great rapidity, and soon the plant of the Suess Ornamental Flask company, adjoining the box factory, was on fire. A number of the employes of this concern were injured in making their escape.

ODD USES OF GLASS.

It was only a few months ago that plans were drawn for a house to be built of compressed opalescent glass bricks, to be erected at Beechhurst, L. I. The house will be built, as regard material, very similar to some small one and two-story office buildings which have been erected in Des Moines, Iowa. These buildings have been pronounced indestructible by building experts, says the New York Sun.

Glass pavements are in use in Lyons, France. These pavements are made of ceramo-crystal, ceramic stone or devitrified glass. They are laid in the form of blocks, eight inches square, each block containing sixteen parts, in the form of checkers. These blocks are so closely fitted together that water cannot pass between them, and the whole pavement looks like one large checkerboard.

This ceramo-crystal pavement, it is said by the manufacturers, has greater resistance than stone. It is a poor conductor of cold and ice will not form upon it readily. Dirt will not accumulate upon it as easily as upon stone, and it will not retain microbes; it is more durable than stone and just as cheap.

Glass water pipes, which have a covering of asphalt to prevent fracture, are in use in some parts of Germany. They give thorough protection against moisture in the ground, against the actions of acids and alkalis and they cannot be penetrated by gases.

Glass telegraph poles are being manufactured at Grossalmerode, a town near Frankfort, Germany. The glass mass of which the poles are made is strengthened by interlacing and intertwining with strong wire threads. These glass poles have a great advantage over the wooden ones because of their resistance against the ravages of insects in tropical countries and against the climatic influence of rain, wind and ice in other parts.

Dresses of glass cloth have been known for some time. This glass cloth has the same shimmer and brilliancy of color as silk. It is soft to the touch and pliable in the extreme and of so durable a nature that it never wears out.

In addition to glass cloth there are manufactured glass curtains, carpets, table cloths and napkins.

In all the world there is but one collection of glass flowers, and only one man who can make them, it is said. The collection belongs to Harvard university and is on exhibition in the Ware collection on the third floor of the university museum. The maker of them died in 1895 and his son is now well on in middle age. With his death the secret will probably die too.

In Colorado there is a bridge spanning the Royal gorge of the Arkansas river half a mile high. It reaches from one cliff to the other, with a deep, dreadful chasm beneath it. The floor of this wonderful bridge is made of plate glass one and a half inches thick, set in steel framework.

SELLING CLOTHING.

Time was when the traveling salesman for a wholesale manufacturer of men's clothing carried with him on the road as many as fifteen or twenty trunks containing made up samples. In those days he took along with him an expert packer from the factory to unpack the trunks when they hit a town and to pack them in readiness for the next jump, says the New York Sun.

The present day traveler for a wholesale manufacturer of men's high grade clothing carries with him just two sample trunks; one a wardrobe trunk and the other what is called a swatch trunk. In the wardrobe trunk he carries, suspended on suitable hangers, fifteen or twenty made up suits. Carried thus, these sample garments keep in good condition and show for what they are and to the best advantage.

In the swatch trunk the salesman carries samples of all the other fabrics that his concern is making up. Swatch is a trade name for a sample of cloth 9x12 inches. Of swatches the salesman may carry hundreds, and he carries besides some scores of ends of cloth, an end being a long piece cut off the entire width of the cloth.

Of swatches and ends the salesman has a trunkful, and with fifteen or twenty made up suits to show styles and workmanship and those samples to show fabrics he can show goods to better advantage than from a bewildering assortment of hundreds of made up suits.

Of course the man on the road with clothing does not, in these circumstances, require a packer; but the present day traveler for a concern making only high-grade clothing does take with him a model on whom to exhibit clothes, for the better display of the made up sample garments he carries and to show just how they will look when worn.

What is considered the standard model in the clothing trade is a man 5 feet 8 inches in height, 36 inches chest measurement and 32 inches waist. He must, of course, be well built and otherwise of correct proportions. If a model 5 feet 9 inches in height were required he would need to be 37 inches chest measure and 33 waist.

The model must be young or comparatively young. He does not need to be handsome, but he must be of good bearing, of intelligence and of good sense.

If the salesman is an able man and the model himself is a man with ability in him, then by observation and experience the model absorbs and develops the art of salesmanship and he may become a salesman himself and come to have a good model to try on clothes for him.

Monarch MALLEABLE

The "Stay Satisfactory" Range

THE BEST RANGE IN THE WORLD. ALL COOKS agree that the Monarch Range produces better results than any other range or cook stove known, not only in the cooking of food itself, but also in the economical use of fuel.

One ton of coal will last a MONARCH RANGE nearly, if not quite, three months. Some housewives have told us that three tons have lasted nine months. A ton of coal costs $4.75, so the cost of maintaining a MONARCH RANGE is but about $1.60 a month. We think that this is about all that we need say on the subject of coal consumption. We think this figure $1.60 A MONTH answers the most elaborately and ingeniously scheduled argument on this subject.

Terms $1 Per Week and your old stove at its full value

THE PATENT DUPLEX DAMPER, belonging exclusively to the MONARCH, has its drafts both front and back. Therefore the combustion is equal and perfect, and either side of the oven is always as hot as the other. This superior feature is patented, no other range has it.

Now as for the cooking that this $1.60 a month accomplishes. The Duplex Damper, to which credit for economy largely belongs, also produces such an even heat in the oven that nothing need be turned around or over. Bread comes out of the oven exquisitely browned a golden tint, top, bottom, sides and ends, and thoroughly baked. And so on through the entire list of things.

The Monarch Malleable Iron Range secured first prize at the Lewis and Clark exposition, held in Portland, in competition with all others.

GOT SQUARE WITH THE JUDGE.

Atlanta Constitution: A raw mountaineer got back at Judge Mose Wright of the Rome circuit in a very clever way. While the judge was presiding over the Chattooga superior court he had occasion to plaster a $15 fine on this man because he failed to appear in time as a witness in a case.

"Say, judge, hain't that purty steep?" mildly inquired the Chattoogan.

"No," was the reply. "You know you were an important witness in this case and ought to have been here. I will suspend payment, however, and hold it over you to see that there is no like trouble in the future."

Later Judge Wright was spending a few weeks at Menlo, a popular summer resort in Chattoga county, several miles from a railroad. He had a package to come out from Summerville and the big mountaineer happened to deliver it.

"Well, what do I owe you?" asked the judge genially, reaching for his change pocket.

"Well, judge, I reckon about $15 would square us," was the calm reply.

"What?" yelled Judge Wright, staggering back.

"Mebbe you won't be so dern keerless next time 'bout leavin' yo' packages," was the imperturbable answer.

"Look here," whispered the perturbed jurist, "I'll just remit that $15 fine I put on you down in Summerville."

"Git ap, Beck. That 'bout squares us, jedge."

It's true, all right, because Judge Wright tells it on himself.

A PRISONER'S COMPLAINT.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: In a certain county jail of Georgia there was once an old chap named Mose Selby, supervisor of the institution, who housed and fed the convicts so well that they were greatly attached to him. He could actually allow them to go about at will. He was accustomed to hire them out to the farmers in the neighborhood during the harvest season, and in that way turn an honest penny for the taxpayers.

Early one morning one of these prisoners appeared at the office of a lawyer in the place.

"Young man," asked he, "are you an attorney?"

"I am," was the reply.

"I want you to get me out of jail on a writ of habeas corpus, and I want it right away."

"Hold on, my friend," said the lawyer. "We must have some reason to show the court before we can ask for a writ."

"I have reason enough," said the man. "The cruelty of the keeper makes life there unbearable."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the lawyer. "There was never a kinder keeper in the world than Mose Selby."

"Judge for yourself," the prisoner insisted. "Yesterday I was working out at Mr. Walker's, and we had a big lot of sky to get in, for the sky was full of rain clouds. So when the fall horn blew for bedtime I stayed and helped get the hay under cover.

"It was after dark when I got back, and would you believe it, sir, that hardhearted keeper had locked me out. I had to sleep out of doors, and caught rheumatism in my bones. It settled things in my mind. I'll not stay another night under the roof of a man who'll treat men like that. So, Mr. Lawyer, I want you to get me out before sundown, if you please."

HIS HEART IN HIS STOMACH

Louisville Courier-Journal: The Kentucky mountaineer is a biped who has been considerably shot at for a century or more. For this reason the case of Galoway Sebastian, of Wolfe county, who has been released from a Lexington hospital, is of exceptional interest to students of the theory of evolution.

In a Lee city joint debate upon the relative virtues of the two great political parties Mr. Sebastian was shot through the breast. X-rays showed the ball lodged in the wounded man's lung after passing through his chest in such a direction that the heart would have been pierced if it had been in the right place.

It seems that Mr. Sebastian's heart is located near his stomach, or went into hiding there, when the gestures of the debaters indicated that in so far as the more vital organs were concerned discretion had become the better part of valor. In the absence of a detailed report from the attending surgeons, it is not clear whether Mr. Galloway Sebastian's heart has resumed its normal position under his short ribs or is still nestling somewhere between the liver and the kidneys. It is impossible ever to speculate upon whether Mr. Sebastian is dowered with a heart that may be thrown from one point to another, like the voice of a ventriloquist, a heart which takes to its heels upon its own hook when a battle is brewing, or a heart that is permanently located in a position of safety.

Naturalists tell us that certain fur-bearing animals are white because the absence of color from their coats is a protection in the regions of perpetual snow, and that certain other animals and birds are colored like the cover they seek when pursued by their natural enemies. The chameleon has the power to change its color. Is Mr. Galloway Sebastian's movable, moving or misplaced heart a freak of nature, or has the anatomy of the mountaineer at last adapted itself to circumstances, and does his heart occur in, or shift itself to, unexpected places when debate upon governmental problems or family affairs becomes so heated that the debaters feel called upon to re-enforce their parts of the speech with steel-jacketed bullets?

WASH DAY AT PULLMAN.

Success Magazine: The Pullman company, whose president, Robert Todd Lincoln, is the only living son of the best friend the plain people ever had, is strong on economy.

Those of us who know have long grumbled at the fact that the porter, who closes down the untenanted upper berth where one's head will strike it hardest, is paid only $25 a month. Now, the interstate commerce commission tells us that of this $300 a year the porter must give up to the company each year $50 for two uniforms of a grade which wholesale clothiers have offered to supply at 40 per cent less. Three-fourths of the porter's wage is paid by the traveling public in the form of tips.

The Pullman company is capitalized at $128,000,000, and two years ago its stockholders cut a "melon" of $20,000,000; but does its frugality stop, think you, at holding up the porters, the public, and the railroads? Far from it! Herewith is a further crumb of information from that hard-working commission:

Esthetic travelers have looked with favor on the practice of covering up the blanket in a berth with a clean, white sheet. This is in conformity with what is known as the "third-sheet rule," which was adopted Jan. 1, 1905. Up to that time the Pullman company washed the blankets every six months. Now the blankets are washed every eighteen months, or at intervals of a year and a half.

Oh, fortunate traveler, ignorant of the disclosures of the high official muckraker:

"Thou hast no figures nor no fantasies,
of men;
Therefore thou sleep'st so sound."

THE BRAVEST MAN.

James S. Metcalfe, in Success Magazine: James Creelman, the well-known war correspondent, who is on record over his own signature as having provoked the war between the United States and Spain, gives this description of the bravest man he ever saw:

"It was during the siege of Port Arthur," says Mr. Creelman. "On the edge of one of the parapets, his feet hanging over the edge, sat a man making a sketch of the scene. From the Japanese ships in the offing there came a continuous stream of screaming, death-delivering shells. But the man sketched on unmoved. Mauser bullets, with their peculiar snakelike hiss, flew over and beside him. In all this noise and imminent death the man continued his work, completely absorbed in it.

"Finally there came from within the fortification a Russian officer of gigantic size. He stood long beside the man who was drawing and watched the pencil carefully gliding in the graphic lines. The shells from the ships when they struck the masonry stirred up a cloud of mortar dust, and as they exploded threw chunks of broken stone in every direction. The officer's uniform was covered with the mortar dust, and his fatigue cap had been knocked awry by a Mauser bullet. I have never seen a braver man. At last he said, in excellent English—for all Russians are excellent linguists—and speaking with an aristocratic drawl, 'I say, Creelman, aren't you ever going to finish that sketch?'"

MISUNDERSTOOD.

Of Henry James, who, to the distress of many of his admirers, is revising 'Daisy Miller,' the 'Portrait of a Lady' and his other early works, a Chicago publisher said the other day:

"Here is something funny that happened during Mr. James's visit to Philadelphia. Two housemaids in the downtown house where he stopped were discussing him.

"'He's a very finicky, fussy gentleman,' said the first.

"'Indeed, you're right he is,' the other agreed warmly. 'He caught me using one of his razors one morning to pry open a stiff window with, and kicked up an awful row. Some folks hate a bit of fresh air.'"

FAST TRAIN KILLS BOY AT PARTRIDGE

Nels Johnson is Run Down by Gopher State Express.

Partridge, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nels Johnson, aged 8, was hit by the Gopher State express, the fast Twin city-Head of the Lakes passenger train of the Great Northern, here shortly after noon yesterday and instantly killed.

The boy was with his uncle at the time and ran ahead of the latter who managed to escape. Some men at the crossing seeing the couple approach the track and about to pass over after some freight cars had been pulled up warned them of the approaching fast train, but young Johnson did not heed the warning and stepped right in front of the rapidly approaching train, being struck before the engineer could stop.

CASHIER REFUSES TO GIVE ANY INFORMATION.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 21.—The directors of the Allegheny National bank are holding a meeting today for the purpose of discussing the question of the bonds which secured the large deposit of the city. Present at the conference is City Solicitor William B. Rodgers. It is probable some statement will be made concerning the matter today.

It is said a number of the defunct bank directors paid a visit to William Montgomery, the cashier whose speculations wrecked the institution in the Allegheny county jail in an endeavor to convince Montgomery that he owed to them the duty of throwing some light on his operations in order that an effort might be made to recover some of the missing money. The former cashier refused to say one word which might in any way help to clear up the tangle.

Today was the second session of the annual convention of the grand lodge of the Daughters of Norway, who are meeting at Columbia hall on Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

Twenty-six lodges are represented at the meeting. So far only regular business occupied the session, but this afternoon they held their election of officers. At noon the ladies took lunch at the West hotel.

This evening they will hold a drill and entertainment at Kalamazoo hall.

BROKER McINTYRE AGAIN ARRESTED.

New York, May 21.—T. A. McIntyre, senior member of the stock brokerage firm of T. A. McIntyre & Co., was arrested by a deputy sheriff today in a civil suit brought by Frederick W. Kavanaugh of Waterford, N. Y., to recover $30,000 worth of securities alleged to have been deposited by Mr. Kavanaugh with that firm. Mr. McIntyre, who had returned to a sanitarium after his arrest yesterday on a similar complaint, was again taken from the sanitarium to the sheriff's office, where he was held in $5,000 bail.

FLORIDA DELEGATES WILL BE ANTI-BRYAN.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 20.—Returns from the Democratic primary elections are coming in very slowly. Duncan U. Fletcher and Governor N. B. Broward, for United States senator; N. J. Stockton and Albert Gilchrist for governor, are running very close, with the result in doubt.

The indications are that the majority of the delegates to Denver will be anti-Bryan.

DELEGATES GO UNINSTRUCTED

Guffey Faction Wins Out at Pennsylvania Convention.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 21.—After one of the hardest fights within the party in several years, the Democratic state convention here yesterday decided not to instruct its delegates-at-large to the Denver convention for Bryan. It was a clean cut victory for the Democratic organization headed by Col. James M. Guffey of Pittsburg, the Pennsylvania member of the national committee. The Bryanites, under the leadership of the executive committee of the Bryan Democratic league, had a large following and they fought to the bitter end. While feeling ran high in the convention, which was at times very disorderly, no personalities were indulged in, and when the followers of Bryan found that they were in the minority, they acquiesced and the convention quickly came to a close.

Aside from the defeat of the Bryanites, probably the most important happening of the day was the dropping by the Democratic organization of Former State Treasurer William H. Berry of Delaware county. Mr. Berry, who was elected state treasurer on the fusion ticket three years ago, was the first to call attention to the alleged state capitol frauds and because of this was considered popular among the Democrats of the state. As he did not object to being on the tickets of opposing factions, he was informed by the organization leaders that they did not intend to name him on the ground that in a fight like the one that ended today, no man could consistently go along with both factions. There were seven names presented to the convention for delegates-at-large, among them Mr. Berry, and he received the smallest number of votes. The delegates-at-large chosen by the Guffey people are Col. Guffey, State Senators J. K. P. Hall of Elk county and A. G. Dewalt of Lehigh county, and John G. Harman of Columbia county.

The sixty-four national district delegates were elected in April and the state convention had nothing to do with them in the matter of issuing instructions.

SUPPOSED DEAD ALIVE.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., May 21.—Practically all the people of Withee turned out yesterday afternoon to welcome home Carl Sorenson, who was reported dead a few weeks ago as the result of an operation, in this city. Relatives at that time had made all preparations for his funeral. They came here to bring the body home and were astonished to find Sorenson alive.

The Most Common Cause of Suffering

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. In many cases the relief from pain, which is at first temporary, has become permanent, while in old people subject to chronic rheumatism, often brought on by dampness or changes in the weather, a permanent cure cannot be expected; the relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. 25 and 50-cent sizes. For sale by all druggists.

SENATE PASSES BUILDINGS BILL

Appropriation of $95,000 for Duluth Included in Amendments.

Washington, May 21.—The senate yesterday considered and passed the omnibus public building bill, inserting not only the numerous amendments suggested by the committee on buildings and grounds, but also a few proposed on the floor of the senate by individual senators. As passed the bill carries a total of about $35,000,000, of which $6,700,000 is for continuing contracts.

Among the important changes in the bill as it passed the senate was the following: For the extension of the postoffice and other government offices at Duluth, $95,000. The larger appropriations for new buildings added by the senate included Missoula, Mont., $120,000. The appropriation for the purchase of a site for a postoffice building in Chicago was increased from $750,000, as fixed by the house, to $1,500,000.

The senate amendment, providing for a new office building for the departments of state and justice to build jointly, was retained, the ultimate cost which is limited to $2,500,000, and it is hinted that if this item is not retained the bill may be allowed to fail.

The amendments appropriating $400,000 for the purchase of an embassy building in Paris also was accepted by the senate.

Grand Jury Finishes Its Work With Report Urging Reform.

Officials Must Enforce Laws or Run Risk of Removal.

The grand jury, which has been in session nine days, completed its work with the return of four or five indictments, last evening, submitted to Judge Ensign its final report handing down the usual roast to municipal officers and town boards for alleged laxity in the enforcement of the laws, and was discharged by the court.

The report was more voluminous than any filed with the court by the preceding grand juries, as it dealt more in detail with certain conditions said to exist in the county and suggested the proper remedies for the same.

The municipalities and towns of the county are criticized severely for permitting violations of the state liquor laws, slot machines and other forms of gambling. The city and town authorities if they fail in their duty.

Municipal councils and town boards are warned to use great care in the selection of men to the election boards ad thus prevent any election frauds. The indictments against Louis Roth of Chisholm are said to be the outcome of the carelessness or negligence of the members of the election boards.

In the matter of the violation of the state liquor laws the grand jury, while desiring to be lenient with the local people who have been arrested, advised the imposition of a stiff fine, in case of conviction of pleas of guilty. The county attorney was notified to watch for further violations of the liquor law and bring them to the attention of the September grand jury.

The grand jury censured prize fights and advised the county authorities to prevent them, but leniency was shown toward sparring and wrestling contests as legitimate sports.

The city jail was reported inadequate for the many prisoners who are usually confined there, and the grand jury advised the erection of a new city hall and jail as soon as possible.

The grand jury commended the condition of the county jail and its management, also the condition and management of the county poor farm.

Charges of irregularities in the books and accounts of school district officers in certain parts of the county were not investigated, the grand jury considering that matter up to the public examiner.

Following is the grand jury report:

"To the Honorable J. D. Ensign, Judge of the District Court of St. Louis County:

"The grand jury, in conformity with the court's instructions and its understanding of its duties, has investigated and considered the various matters brought to its attention; and in addition to the business heretofore presented to the court begs leave to submit the following:

"The jury in a body visited the county and Duluth city jails and a committee of five of its number visited the county poor farm.

"The county jail was found to be well kept and clean, and the attendants satisfactorily explained the manner of controlling prisoners and of maintaining discipline.

"The county poor farm committee reported excellent management, building clean and in good order, and the inmates comfortable and their food wholesome.

"As is well known, the Duluth city jail is entirely inadequate for the city's present needs. Improvement of conditions there would involve so many radical changes that the jury deems the matter to be one for consideration at such time as the city undertakes the construction of a modern city hall and jail. Under conditions like those existing last winter (the jury is informed that there were then many nights when more than 100 persons were sheltered in the jail) and in view of the rapidly increasing population the jury believes that the construction of a new city hall and jail should not be much longer delayed.

Crimes Due to Liquor.

"Apart from violations of the laws regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors, fully 75 per cent of the offenses investigated by the jury are directly chargeable to the excessive or improper use of such liquors, the same having in several cases been obtained at times when, in places where, or by persons to whom its sale was illegal. Such facts are impressive and point clearly to the necessity for the perfect observance of said laws by all engaged in the sale of liquors. Consideration for those unfortunate ones who from said causes are brought to trial should of itself be convincing to all of the propriety of such laws and of the need of their strict enforcement.

State Laws Violated.

"In the course of the jury's deliberations, evidence has been given which unmistakably shows that the laws in regard to the sale of intoxicating liquors and the operation of slot machines and other gambling devices are being violated in many of the towns and municipalities throughout the county. If public sentiment in the localities where these violations occur is not sufficient to induce the local authorities to enforce these laws, then it is within the province of the county attorney and is his duty to notify such authorities that for failure to make complaint of all known violations of the statutes regulating the sale of such liquors, proceedings will forthwith be brought for the purpose of imposing the pecuniary penalties prescribed by law and the matter referred to the attorney general to institute proceedings for forfeiture of office. The grand jury has requested the county attorney to give such notices.

Wilful Disregard of Laws.

"In municipalities where effort is being made to enforce the liquor laws, as for example in the city of Duluth, there seems to have been a tendency on the part of some saloonkeepers to wilfully or negligently disregard both the state laws and the city ordinances. It is unfair to all those saloon men who observe the laws that the few others who violate them shall be excused or leniently dealt with, unless there are extenuating circumstances which fully and conclusively warrant such course. As to these few offenders, larger fines and revocation of licenses should be the rule until by actual operation it has been found that such course is not remedicial. The jury is against anything savoring of persecution, unfair treatment in these matters, and solely as a deterrent measure has it felt compelled to return indictments against certain saloon men who have already been tried and found guilty under the city ordinances in the municipal court; and in furtherance of these views and in order that no partiality may be shown, the county attorney is hereby requested to investigate all cases of persons hereafter convicted of violating the city ordinances regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors until the September term of the grand jury and to them as to all cases ask for indictments under the state law.

Chisholm Election Frauds.

"Evidence given to the grand jury indicates that at the village election held in Chisholm on March 10, 1908, the judges and the clerk in the third precinct of said village were at least grossly negligent in conducting the election, especially in the matter of the prevention of illegal voting. It is recommended that city and village councils, township boards, etc, exercises great care in the selection of election judges and clerks; and that only those persons be chosen who appreciate the importance of their duties in these matters and will faithfully perform the same, to the end that the will of the majority of the legal voters may become effective.

County Attorney Overworked.

"The jury believes that many citizens (and its members are among them) have not heretofore fully recognized the extent and importance of the duties appertaining to the county attorney's office. The work of that office involves a great variety of both civil and criminal matters. In the interest of all classes, not overlooking those suspected of offenses, all of the work of the county attorney's office should continue to be most carefully and painstakingly performed, and, in short, always receive the same or more care than any prudent persons would give to his own private affairs.

"Under existing conditions and also because of the rapid spread and increase of population throughout this large county, this jury believes that the county attorney should have one more assistant, all of whose time should be devoted to the affairs of the county, and that chapter 339 of the laws of 1907 should be so amended as to largely increase the contingent fund therein provided for. It is recommended and urged that the representatives and senators from this county in the next session of the legislature work unitedly for the legislation necessary to secure these amendments to the existing laws.

Enforce Laws on Prize Fights.

"The laws on the subject of prize fights are clear and distinct, and we recommend they be enforced. On the other hand the jury sees nothing injurious in lawful sparring or wrestling matches or any other legitimate sports.

"The jury believes in its unanimous views above stated it is merely voicing the sentiment of the great body of citizens who so heartily favor law and order.

"During its session, the jury received a communication suggesting investigation of certain matters touching the independent school district of Duluth; but the jury deemed it unnecessary to do so. It also took no action upon an anonymous communication which it received in relation to another matter.

"By order of the grand jury,

"GEORGE D. SWIFT,
"Foreman.

"Dated, Duluth, Minn., May 20, 1908."

BLUME LOSES DAMAGE SUIT

Fails to Recover for Loss of Finger on Saw.

John Blume sued the Dumas-Backus Lumber company for $2,200 for the loss of a finger on a circular saw in the lumber company's sawmill some months ago. He got nothing. A verdict in favor of the lumber company was returned in Judge Ensign's room yesterday afternoon.

Blume claimed that there was a peculiarity about the operation of the saw that was not explained to him and that he was injured by reason of the peculiar way the saw was operated. He claimed that the company was liable.

The lumber company produced witnesses who testified that Blume made statements, following the accident, in which he admitted that he was injured through his own carelessness.

Blume was represented by W. E. Greene and the lumber company by H. B. Fryberger.

Manitowoc, Wis., May 21.—A warrant was issued in the municipal court Tuesday for the arrest of Fred M. Althien, editor of the Two Rivers Reporter, a weekly paper. The charge is criminal libel, which is preferred by Mayor J. R. Currens and Fred Wilsman, president of the city council of that city. Althien attacked the city council in connection with the awarding of a contract for city printing for which he had submitted a bid of $150. The contract was awarded to an opposition paper for $200 and Althien charges graft.

GOSSIP OF THE CAPITAL

How De Graw Works the Shortest Telegraph Line in World.

Bureau Chief's Clever Scheme to Get Rid of Bore.

By Ralph M. Whiteside.

Washington, May 21.—Telegraphy is a fine thing, because it is possible sometimes to do a little talking in the presence of others than the operator and thus save many embarassing situations.

The shortest telegraph line in the world is in the office of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General De Graw, a veteran operator.

Mr. De Graw's outer office is presided over by his private secretary, Mr. Allen, who also can hold the wire. The line runs from the outer to the inner office.

A few days ago a senator happened in and began a conversation with Secretary Allen. While they were talking a tall, broad-shouldered man, wearing a broad-rimmed hat and a stern, disgruntled expression, happened in. Without so much as excusing himself he began talking.

"Young man," he said, "I am postmaster at Blanksville, Texas. An inspector came down our way the other day and looked over my accounts. I thought I'd come up and see what you people had against us. If any galoot has had the nerve to make charges against me, I want to hear them right off the reel. Understand?"

Secretary Allen understood all right.

"Awful glad to see you. Glad you dropped in while in town. Have a seat."

Then he sent over the wire this message to Mr. De Graw in the inner office:

"Postmaster from Blanksville here. Mad as hornet because inspector looked over his accounts. Thinks some one made charges and came all the way to see who had nerve to question his honesty. Get papers in case and look them over. He wants to see you. Bad frame of mind."

Mr. De Graw immediately sent for the papers and examined them. Then he sent a message to Mr. Allen.

"Click-a-click-click. Hold him outside a few minutes. Be right out. Papers show he's O. K."

"Fine weather we're having, Mr. De Graw's busy at the present minute, but he'll receive you in a short time," said the secretary.

"Yep—fine weather," said the postmaster. "If any one thinks they can throw mud on my reputation he'll be mighty badly fooled. Never spent a cent dishonestly earned in my life. Never even borrowed as much as a chew of tobacco that I didn't pay back. The durned inspector came around my place and never said nothing; just went ahead with his inspectin'. Ast' him out to have a drink and he refused. I knowed right away that some one had been throwin' mud when he refused a sociable drink. So I decided to come to Washington."

The door of Mr. De Graw's office opened and that official came in. He glanced at the Texas postmaster and a smile of welcome spread over his features.

"Why, if it isn't the postmaster of Blanksville!" he exclaimed. "How are you, Mr. Elkins? Glad to see you. I was just about to write you congratulating you on the splendid conduct of your office. One of the best showings in the South. Allen, the next time Mr. Elkins happens in, show him right into my room. I'm sorry I kept him waiting. Come inside."

Mr. Elkins of Blanksville was flabbergasted. He didn't remember of ever having met Mr. De Graw, but he must have been introduced to him three years ago, when he was in Washington to secure his appointment. Mr. De Graw admitted he had a splendid memory for faces.

"Knew you the minute I clapped eyes on you," he said. "How's the folks in Blanksville?"

Five minutes later Elkins was on his way to his hotel, to look up the time tables to learn when the next train left for Texas.

"One of the squarest, most decent man I ever met," he commented to himself, as he cut off a slice of "People's Ch'ice" tobacco. "Got a better memory for faces than I have, too."

The truth of the existence of this private telegraph line has never been admitted by the principals, but it is widely accepted. To admit of its existence, of course, would destroy its usefulness to some extent. Here's another story told of it:

A postmaster happened in one day to see Mr. De Graw at a time when it was impossible. The postmaster was persistent.

"Insists on seeing you," ticked the instrument.

"Have to choke him off somehow," came back the answer.

"Looks like a sticker," was the reply. "Making himself comfortable."

"Have to get him to come again. Simply impossible," clicked back.

Allen was about to reply when the stranger, walking from a window, said there was a fire across the street. Allen went to the window to look out. The stranger immediately grabbed the instrument and began to telegraph.

"Tell that to the marines," he wired. "This is Jim Blake from Washington county, Penn., and I want to see you."

Allen was caught with the goods. Blake sent Morse along as well as he did. In less than two minutes he walked into Mr. DeGraw's office, wearing a broad grin. Mr. DeGraw also grinned kind of sheepishly.

Washington is laughing at the story of an occurrence in an important government office. The head of a bureau had long been bothered by a friend who dropped in every few days and sat for several hours. His sedentary habits became a great bore. A few days ago he dropped in for a social call, selected his favorite cane seat chair and began his sitting. The official, who watched his every movement, waited about five minutes, then approached with a look of concern and indignation.

"Confound those office boys and their practical jokes!" he exclaimed. "They've been at it again. Put glue on your chair—no, don't get up; you'll tear your trousers." And he held him down by the shoulders.

"Here, Jimmy, bring some water. Moisten this gentleman so that he can break away from the glue on the chair. Fire the next boy who puts glue on a chair. Don't spare the water—the cloth will not shrink or fade. That's it. Now—easy."

Then he hurried the sitter to the door to bid him good-bye.

"Awful sorry. I'll not keep you, for I know you want to hurry home and change your clothing. If the trousers are ruined let me know and I'll hold the price of them out of the scamp's pay if I can discover who did it. Good luck to you."

The sitter never came back.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

GET READY FOR OPENING

Mayor Will Pitch First Ball at Athletic Park.

Eddie Wells and Al Cummings May Join the Sox.

Preparations are being made for the opening of the Northern league season here next Thursday, when the Winnipeg Maroons will open a series of seven games, including a Memorial day double-header, with the White Sox. It will be the first chance of the fans to see the team in action in a regular league game and the occasion will be properly celebrated.

Mayor Roland D. Haven has annexed his signature to a Duluth contract, and he will appear on the field, though he refuses to don a uniform. For a very brief time he will occupy the pitchers' box, but the management fears to allow him to go against more than one Winnipeg batter, so he is in for a derricking in his very first game. Despite that fact, he is working out in private, and that one ball which he will throw over or around the plate will be more wonderful than a combination of the spit ball, knuckle ball and all the other new-fangled curves known to hurlers.

There will be the usual procession, with the Duluth and Winnipeg teams, city officials and members of the council riding in carriages, led by a band. At the mark the mayor will say a few words, the first Winnipeg batter will be treated to a new-fangled slant and the league season will be open in Duluth. Sad to say, there will be no flag raising, but that feature of the celebration is for the team to provide for next year.

The teams will have struck their stride by the time they come to Duluth. The series of twelve games in Canada will just fit them right for mid-season play. They will have worn off the rough edges, and when the Sox play at Athletic Park the fans will probably see a much better team than the Winnipeg fans have been watching the past week.

Preparations are already being made to strengthen the team in the hitting department. A heavy outfielder is in sight, and an infielder also, who will be played at short and third. The pitching staff also will be bolstered. Eddie Wills, who pitched a short time for Winnipeg two years ago and was signed by Duluth this spring, but not reported, has been recalled from the Winston-Salem team of the North Carolina league and will be here for the first series at home.

It is barely possible that Al Cummings will return also. He is still with Atlanta, but his position is in danger. The main part of the pitching staff consists of four veterans, who are solid with the management and fans. For the fifth place, Cummings is bucking Johns, the Tri-State leaguer, who was taken south by the New York Americans this spring and dropped off at Atlanta for seasoning. Though the six pitchers are being carried now, either Johns or Cummings will go, and on the outcome of the trial depends the Duluth boy's return to his home lot. If Atlanta cannot use him he will come North, as the climate is pretty hot after his years in the Lake Superior region, and he would rather play in the Northern than in any of the smaller leagues down South.

He will not go to Brandon to join the team, but will be held here until the return of the squad, when there will be some changes in the pitching staff.

GRIFFIN IS PUT AWAY

Mike O'Keefe Wins Over Colored Boy in Second Round.

Costello Gets Decision Over Williams in Fifteen Rounds.

Virginia, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A left hook to the jaw settled Walter Griffin, the colored boy touted as the champion lightweight of the Head of the Lakes, in his bout with Mike O'Keefe of Superior at the Virginia opera house last night. The colored youth was counted as a sure winner in the scheduled fifteen-round bout. He was supposed to have improved greatly within the last year and his supporters didn't give O'Keefe a chance for a victory. They counted the bout as a preliminary try-out for Griffin, who was laying plans to put it all over Joe Clements in a later bout.

O'Keefe spoiled it all by showing more ability than anybody thought he had. He mixed it from the start and the first round went at a whirlwind pace. The second round had gone about one and one-half minutes, when O'Keefe crossed one over and Griffin's pipe went out.

The O'Keefe-Griffin go was preliminary to a fifteen round bout between Seraps Costello and Kid Williams. It went the limit and Costello was given a decision, which Williams' supporters thought should have been a draw. The boys had a pretty mix. In the seventh, Williams went down for the count of seven, but he recovered and held his own for the remainder of the bout, coming up strong in the final round and making Costello do a little footwork to get away from his vicious slashes. The decision didn't make a hit with the crowd.

The curtain raiser was a six-round mill between the Eldora Kid and the Virginia Cyclone in which honors were even.

The Virginia baseball promoters staged the card, which drew a large attendance.

BALL TEAMS WILL CLASH

Wolvin Building and the Board of Trade in Game Saturday.

Employes and heads of departments alike in the Wolvin building and Board of Trade are all stirred up, Saturday, in the second game of the Commercial league series, the teams representing the two buildings will get together at Athletic park and it will be a battle to the finish.

The game will be played at 3 o'clock and every man, woman and child in the two buildings will be on hand to cheer their respective favorites. The trading floor voices of the Board of Trade operators will give them an advantage in the rooting department, but the Wolvin people are banking on numbers to offset the volume of the traders' fierce yells and they count on making just as much noise as their louder voiced opponents.

Both teams have been practicing for some weeks and the game will not be a farce. The players are dead in earnest and they are all keyed up to fight for the honor of their respective buildings. Each team has men who have played ball in college and strong amateur teams all over the country and they haven't forgotten their paces. The pitchers are in fine shape and the infielders count on lightning work on the Athletic park diamond.

The lineup and batting order of the two teams is as follows:

SCHEDULE OF TOURNAMENTS.

Western Tennis Association Sets Dates for Open Events.

Chicago, May 21.—Edwin M. Asheroit of the Western Tennis association yesterday announced the following schedule of tournaments to be held under the auspices of the association this year. The annual open tournaments are:

Chicago, July 18; Western tournament, Chicago, July 25; Iowa state championship, Des Moines, Aug. 3; Northwestern championship, Minnetonka, Minn., Aug. 4; Wisconsin champion, Milwaukee, Aug. 10; tri-state championship, Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 15.

Canfield Still Leads.

The best game in the handicap pool match on at the Central pool hall was played last night, when Nolan scored 99 to Canfield's 100. Canfield started as though for a record, the runs for his first four innings being 9, 27, 6 and 8. Nolan came up strong with runs of 7, 8, 11, 14 and 22. The score now stands: Canfield, 800; Nolan, 538. Nolan to win must score 212 while Canfield is scoring 200.

Spaldings to Scanlon.

The Spaldings will go to Scanlon Sunday to play the Scanlon team. The Spaldings are playing good ball and expect to cut some figure in the local amateur field. Manager Lavel denies they were beaten by the Wolvin building team, as but three and one-half innings were played.

The Northern league ran into seasonable weather yesterday, with a postponement of the game at Winnipeg on account of rain and that at Brandon on account of snow. It was the first break in the schedule, and the league officials may consider themselves fortunate to get away thus far without encountering the weather as an obstacle in their plans.

Today the scenes shift and the fans will get a line on the relative strength of the different teams. Duluth didn't get a chance to make it an even break on the series at Winnipeg, but in every game the Maroons had a good argument, and the teams may be said to be about even. Fargo took five straight walloplngs from Brandon and showed evident inferiority. Whether the victories were gained through Brandon's strength being greater than that of the other teams of the league, or Fargo's weakness, is a question which will be answered by the series between Duluth and Brandon and Winnipeg and Fargo.

The Sox have not been hitting the ball in the Winnipeg series, in pinches they have failed miserably, while Brandon's greatest strength is in its ability to hit the ball. The fans can't hope for anything better than an even break with O'Dea's Angels, and they wouldn't be surprised if they didn't get that. On their success at Brandon depends the fate of the men who wear the white hostery of Duluth now. If they fall down on hitting as they did at Winnipeg, the importation of a few good swatters will not injure the chances of the club.

Here are Tommy Burns' modest demands for a fight with Jack Johnson, the colored pugilist, who wants a chance to cop the heavyweight championship of the world:

First—Burns must have $30,000, win, lose or draw.

Second—The men must fight in a six-teen-foot ring.

Third—The fight must be to a finish.

To the ordinary individual, the terms appear absurd, but they are no surprise to those, who know Tommy's methods and those of other fighters, who have been in a position tl dictate. Englishmen are finding fault with Burns for not accepting the offer of $12,000 for a fight with Johnson. To Tommy Burns, who has taken down fortunes for beating dubs, $12,000 is but a puny sum. He says $30,000 or nothing and, to all appearances, he intends to stick to his terms.

It is to be hoped that Jack Curley's offer of $35,000 for a fight in Nevada, Labor day goes through. Johnson has often declared that he would be willing to fight Burns for nothing and in private just for the chance to win the championship, which he thinks he will gain as easily as if he were picking plums from a branch a foot above his head. He can have a little better than nothing now, if he wants to accept Curley's offer. The fight world is just about tired of the quibbling between Johnson and Burns. Just as soon as they sign articles a huge sigh of relief will go up all around.

That was a pretty ticklish situation Darby O'Brien found himself in Tuesday at Winnipeg. The man, who came up in the ninth inning, with three men on bases and two down and crack one out for a sack or two, winning the game, is the idol of the baseball "bugs." The best hitter in the world can't be equal to the emergency every time and Darby met the fate of the fair-famed Casey when he faced little Glencke, with the game within his grasp. Sad it is that he could not have connected for one little base and when he returned to Duluth, the fans could doff their hats and reverently say, "There goes the man, who put Casey to shame."

In the face of O'Brien's failure, it's good to see that a Duluth boy was there in the pinch. All Brandon must be casting posies at the feet of Frankie McGraw, for he was there with the club when he was needed. McGraw is just breaking into professional ball from the Duluth corner lots. A sore hand keeps him out of the game for the present, but one swat a month like that he cracked out Tuesday will earn his salary on the Brandon bench. The hitting with men on bases wins baseball games and the man who's there when he's needed is the one, who pulls down the big salary.

Frank Gotch is still giving exhibitions, agreeing to pay over $100 to the man, who stays with him on the mat for fifteen minutes. St. Louis is falling for his act at present. Fred Beell went out to Spokane to be beaten by Dr. Roller, so Charlie Olson is the boy, who steps in at the psychological moment and grabs Gotch's game, taking down the $100—in the newspapers at least. The local men are all guys every time, but when Charlie or Fred steps in and demands recognition, Gotch disgorges $100 (maybe) and the crowd is given a good exhibition of fancy wrestling.

MEN WERE NOT SHIPPED

Trades Assembly President Kept Them From Going to Escanaba.

Learned That Open Shop Conditions Were in Effect There.

The report that me were to be shipped from Duluth to Escanaba, Mich., to work on the ore docks there in the places of the old hands who had refused to sign under the open shop conditions, reached the ears of Henry Perrault, president of the trades' assembly, Tuesday, with the result that few if any of the men who were to have taken the train yesterday for the Michigan ore docks, left.

According to Mr. Perrault he learned that men were being employed at the state free employment agency by parties who are misrepresenting the condition of labor at the ore docks, by stating that there was no lock out trouble there. Mr. Perrault states that he telegraphed to a representative of the federation of labor at Escanaba concerning the exact condition of labor there. In reply he received a message to the effect that there was a lockout there and some of the old union men had refused to sign the scale set by the employers. The message also requested that Mr. Perrault aid them by keeping Duluth labor agents from shipping to Escanaba if possible. Mr. Perrault then went to the state free employment bureau and satisfied himself that the men employed were being misled. The employment blank at the head of which was written O. E. Pardee, employer, read that there was no lockout at the Escanaba ore docks.

Thirty or forty men had already given their names and promise Monday afternoon that they would be on hand to get their transportation to Escanaba before 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Mr. Perrault, with others from the local union forces, went among the men and told them just how the matter stood—that there was a lockout and that they had been misled—and, according to Mr. Perrault, all those who understood English were persuaded not to go. "The foreigners were harder to make understand, and a few of them may have been shipped," said Mr. Perrault, "but I am sure the majority of them were not."

The men who were doing the hiring stayed about the bureau the greater part of the day, telegraphing to Escanaba and receiving telegrams from there. Finally they are said to have made the remark that the Escanaba docks had no more need for men—that the trouble had been settled.

The supply of female help in Duluth seems to be decreasing, or perhaps the demand is increasing. At any rate, many housewives and hotel proprietors are complaining that the task of getting girls is becoming harder every day. Even advertisements and employment bureaus do not seem to bring results.

Wages seem to be about the same as ever—perhaps a little less in some cases, but not noticably so. It is said that where a few months ago a dozen or more girls would answer an advertisement, only a few now respond, and those few are not of as high a grade of competency as before.

Mrs. P. G. Somers, who conducts an employment agency at 17 Second avenue east, says that she does not have much trouble in finding girls for her patrons, but she explains this as due to the fact that she caters to a trade which requires competent help and is willing to pay well if they can get it. They are hard to satisfy, but are willing to pay large wages to be satisfied if possible. Mrs. Somers says that girls employed through her office get from $18 to $30 for general housework, and competent cooks from $16 to $22, in each case the amount paid is regulated by the size of the family employing the girl and the amount of work they require done.

At the state free employment bureau, in the women's branch, several orders come in every day for cooks, waitresses, girls for general housework, nurses, chambermaids and so forth, which cannot be filled on account of the few girls in search of positions. Nearly 100 unfilled orders were filed last month, and there promised to be an even greater scarcity this month.

While it is hard to get girls for housework in the city, it is almost impossible to get girls to take positions outside of Duluth. Orders are coming in continually from the range towns that can seldom be filled. There is enough work in the city without going away and the girls refuse to do it.

One of the first things a young housekeeper should put on her list of things for the pantry is Hunt's Perfect Baking Powder and Extracts.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MISS DAGO CAN FIGHT

Also Can Hold Her Own in a Talking Match.

Gives Judge Cutting Graphic Description of Exciting Row.

George Ade could get some valuable pointers on slang from Maggie Dago. Maggie Dago doesn't exactly live up to her name as to looks, but she can talk some. She is a negress, and operates a restaurant for colored folks and others at 200 Railroad street. Yesterday afternoon Henry Hall, very dusky as to countenance, was arrested on her complaint, charged with assault and abusive language, and was fined $25 and costs by Judge Cutting in municipal court.

"I hit his girl because she kept shootin' off her head without just cause or provocation, fairly masticatin' me to tinderblits with her nervous grammer," said Miss Dago, in telling the court how it all happened. A bloodshot eye behind a circle of blue and purple flesh, showing plainly even through the darkness of her skin, blazed in anger at the memory. The judge asked how she came by the eye.

"He touted me on the lookout, judge," came the reply, "but that want this mornin,' and had nothin' to do with this case. I was playin' with him the other night, and he hit me accidental like. It was all right, and I don't mind it at all. It ain't got no connections with this here trouble.

"You see, he and his girl and some other people was in my place this mornin', havin' a good time, and makin' a lot of noise. They made such a racket that some of my regular customers was driven away. Pretty soon he went out, and then the girl he left behind got real sassy, and began slingin' the gazabus at me till I was gettin' it both goin' and comin'. She got mad 'cause I tried to make her keep somewhat quiet, and after sizzlin' me with her fiery tongue till I was hot clear through, she grabbed up a fork off the table and made for me. I didn't mind so much when she and her man broke a bunch of dishes and kicked up a lot more fuss before he left, but I did object to being struck up on a fork, specially as it was my own fork, and so I ran into the kitchen and came back with a stick.

"I grabbed her and whipped her like she deserved with the stick, and then let her go. I run an orderly place, and don't like to have disturbances goin' on, so I had to fire her out. A while after this, Henry Hall came up to the door and insulted me. He wanted to know who hit his girl, and I said I did. He got abusive right away and began spouting out bitepurious epithets until I couldn't tell where I was at. When he made as if to hit me I grabbed up the stick I had beat his girl with. A man ain't got no license to butt into two women's troubles. When it's woman against woman it's mighty poor taste and bad diplomacy for a man to come kerfiddlin' around. He only makes the trouble worser. His girl and I had had it out fair and square, and Hall had no license to stick his nose into the mess.

"I was goin' to protect myself with the stick, but he grabbed it out of my hand, and swung it at my haid. I dodged and the stick hit the door so hard that it put a big hole in it. If it had struck me my brains would have looked like a batch of cottage cheese sprinkled over the wall. I picked up the coffee pot and fired it at his haid, and then grabbed the teakettle, but he ran into the yard and picked up a big rock. Before he could throw it at me some one locked the door. I thought he was goin' to throw it through the window, but he didn't."

A friend appeared on the scene and paid Hall's fine.

INCREASED USE OF ELECTRICITY

Progress of the Industry is Subject of Committee's Report.

Chicago, May 21.—The most important paper presented before the convention of the National Electric Light association at the Auditorium was the report of the committee on progress of the electrical industry. The report shows that thousands of new applications have been made and that the economy of new apparatus brings current within the reach of practically everybody. The increase in the use of electricity for power shows that the great industries are coming to find it the most economical form of power both on account of its cheapness and convenience.

Sign lighting was reported on at length and it was shown that the most progressive advertisers in all cities use electricity as a means of calling attention to their wares. The greatest advancement in sign lighting has been the perfection of billboard illumination. Billboards are now lighted by electricity in a manner which entirely conceals the source of light and makes the sign stand out even more plainly than in the daytime.

It was brought out that the prepayment meter, better known as the slot-meter, has enabled a great many people to use electricity for lighting that formerly were unable to meet the expense of monthly bills. By using the slot-meter twenty-five cents or more a week does not eat into the working man's wages and allows him all the advantages of lighting enjoyed by his more prosperous employer. The extensive use of motor drives has educated the laborer up to the convenience and cleanliness of electric light far better than all the argument that has ever been devised. An interesting application of the slot-meter in one town was its use in connection with a public hall occupied on different nights by several fraternal lodges. Under the old system the bill was equally divided until one lodge objected on the ground that it used much less light than the others. By using a slot-meter, however, each lodge paid only for the light used at its meetings.

In house and store lighting the greatest advance in the art has been the introduction of the tungsten lamp, an incandescent light in which the ordinary carbon filament has been replaced by a much longer and more brilliant one of the metal tungsten. This lamp gives fully twice the light of the ordinary incandescent, and in doing so uses less than half as much current, so that the consumer can have his bill reduced to one-fourth by using these lamps. It is considered that the tungsten lamp, in connection with slot-meters will revolutionize the lighting industry, and the prediction is often heard that gas will soon be abandoned as an illuminant in a very few years.

In his address, President Dudley Farrand called attention to the very satisfactory condition of the industry and said that electricity was becoming more and more a necessity in all lines of business. In the evening the members went to the White City to see the various electrical novelties.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health Is Worth Saving, and Some Duluth People Know How to Save It.

Many Duluth people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Duluth citizen's recommendation.

J. H. Tomlin, lather and contractor, of 112 West Palmetto street, Duluth Heights, Duluth, Minn., says: "What I said in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills six years ago, was not only true but the cure I described at that time has been permanent, and I am pleased to inform other sufferers of this fact. My case was a severe one, and it clung to me persistently for two years. The backache finally got so bad that I was obliged to lay off from work for days at a time, and I suffered such pains that it hurt to bring the slightest strain on the muscles of the back and loins. The kidney secretions were irregular, and I was unable to rest well at night. All these irregularities yielded promptly to Doan's Kidney Pills and the result was a permanent cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Mrs. S. Joyce, 180 Sullivan Street, Claremont, N. H., writes: "About a year ago I bought two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It cured me of a severe case of Kidney trouble of several years' standing. It certainly is a grand, good medicine, and I heartily recommend it." At all druggists.

VIOLATED HIS OBLIGATIONS

House Sustains Committee Report on Congressman Lilley.

Washington, May 21.—The conclusion of the special committee ,which has been investigating the charges of Representative Lilley of Connecticut, that members of the house had been improperly influenced in connection with submarine torpedo boat legislation, that Mr. Lilley had violated his obligations as a member and had acted in bad faith with the committee and in contempt of the house, were sustained yesterday by the house by a vote of 157 to 82. Five hours of the session were devoted to the case, four of which were consumed in reading the report. The Connecticut members joined in voting against the resolution by which the house adopted the conclusions of the committee as its own. Mr. Williams of Mississippi, denounced Mr. Lilley as being guilty of treason for which, he said, he should be expelled. He presumed that the reason the committee did not carry its report to a recommendation to that end, was because Mr. Lilley was at his home ill and unable to be present to defend himself in such a proceeding.

It was noticeable that the five members of the committee, Messrs. Boutell, Olmstead, Stevens, Broussard and Howard sat together throughout the proceedings and that none of them submitted any remarks in connection with the report.

The partial conference report on the sundry civil bill occasioned a lively debate. It was adopted and the conferees will continue their efforts to arrive at a complete agreement.

Washington, May 21.—In the senate yesterday consideration of Senator Rayner's resolution asking for a court of inquiry to investigate the case of Col. Stewart was postponed as objection was made.

A bill to prevent the desecration of the flag of the United States was passed.

The conference report on the fortifications appropriation bill was adopted and a partial agreement on the sundry civil bill was reached by conferees and approved by the senate.

ARRAIGNS PRESIDENT

Senator Rayner Denounces Executive for Action in Stewart Case.

Appeals to Senate to Pass His Resolution for Inquiry.

Washington, May 21.—Senator Rayner of Maryland, in the senate yesterday, called up his resolution requesting the president to appoint a court of inquiry to investigate charges against Col. William F. Stewart of the coast artillery, now stationed at Fort Grant, Ariz. Mr. Rayner said he took this action as he was satisfied there would be no report from the committee on military affairs on his resolution during this session of congress. He reviewed the sending of his resolution to the committee last Wednesday and his appearance before that committee on the following day. Last Friday he was informed, he said, that papers in connection with the case had not arrived from the war department and he humorously referred to the difficulty of sending a message to or from the war department to the senate before congress adjourned.

Speaking sarcastically of his belief that the president, the war department and the committee on military affairs were hastening action on this case, Mr. Rayner continued:

Company Exclusive and Select.

"It is proper for me to remind the senate, however, that while this case is being thus expedited, Col. Stewart is up on the heights of Arizona. He is at a high altitude, as high as the president can get him, with very little chance of his getting down any lower within any definite period of time. Being at a high altitude, he ought not to complain. The climate is salubrious and uniform, it being as cold in the winter as it is hot in summer. The surroundings are all salutary, his companions are festive and convivial, consisting of a caretaker, a teamster and several government mules, and the society at this fashionable center is, therefore, exclusive and select.

"The president is delighted with the situation and, therefore, the chairman of the military committee ought also to be satisfied.

"If the president is satisfied everybody ought to be satisfied. Why not? What right has anybody to be dissatisfied with anything that satisfies the president? Who would be guilty of such a treasonable act? The king cannot commit a wrong, and therefore the president cannot commit a wrong. Congress may make the gravest mistakes; courts may err; human judgment at the zenith of its strength may arrive at faulty and erroneous conclusions, but Theodore Roosevelt can never blunder. Infallibility is one of his triumphs. When he comes to a conclusion on strictly exparte testimony his position is impregnable. When he has finished with the prosecution, and no testimony has been allowed to be produced on the other side, he is so well fortified and intrenched that you cannot dismantle him.

"When he has his victim upon the heights of Arizona and declines to receive any communication from him and positively asserts that there is no necessity of examining his witnesses or hearing his testimony, he is then in a position to administer justice with an absolutely impartial and unprejudiced mind. A judge who hears both sides may have his mind disturbed, but a president who hears only one side can proceed with accuracy and precision to find judgment without the slightest danger of making any mistakes upon the testimony he has heard. The Constitution gives trial to a criminal and he must be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation against him; it permits him to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have process for obtaining witnesses in his favor and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

Wants No Witnesses for Defense.

"The president prefers to try the case without any witnesses for the defense, because, if witnesses for the defense were summoned, he definitely proclaims, to use his own language, 'they could not possibly upset the judgment that he had already rendered.' This is the president's conception of justice, and his army of courtiers and flatterers, who bask in the sunlight of his favor, eulogize and applaud him. In the meantime his victim is in the wilds of Arizona. The president does not propose to hear him or to receive any communication from him whatever. He has promulgated his decree, and that is the end of it."

Mr. Rayner appealed to the senate for a vote on his resolution.

"If the senate refuses to act," declared Mr. Rayner, "the only relief that I can now think of would, perhaps, speedily come if this officer were to die in the place of his captivity. Then the country would, perhaps, come to the conclusion that no other man should die by the same methods. One of England's bravest admirals was shot to death on his quarterdeck for committing an error of judgment. It was held that an error of judgment was punishable by death. Parliament never moved, but when the work was done, the whole world rang in denunciation of the murderous deed."

He was not, he said, imbued with a threatening spirit, but he could indulge in a prophesy and not a threat.

"I predict," he added, "that if there is no relief anywhere, if the president's resolve is the final scene in this tragedy, then something will occur that has happened over and over again before. Public opinion does not realize the situation now. All it knows is that the president has punished an officer of the army because, in his judgment, he is objectionable to the service. It has not yet grasped the entire environment. It does not yet comprehend that the president has taken a stand that no sovereign or monarch in any other civilized land would dare to take at this enlightened day. When it understands that proposition fully then public opinion will move, it will move along the avenue of public intelligence, it will be heard through the channels of public expression, it will move slowly but surely to the place of captivity, it will take the unfortunate officer and transfer him from the custody of the president into the presence of the president, and it will give to the victim, humble, unimportant and pretentsionless as he may be, the right to be heard in self-defense, a right not only accorded him by the law of his land, but a natural right that God has given him and which it should not lie within the power of any potentate or ruler in the universe to deprive him of, if there is any conscience or humanity in the heart of man or any justice left upon this earth."

Mr. Rayner finally offered a modified resolution authorizing and requesting the president to proceed with the inquiry, to which Mr. Lodge objected and it went over until today. He also moved to discharge the committee from further consideration of the original resolution, but the motion was not acted on.

PLENTY OF COAL IN EARTH.

Reply to Prediction That Supply Will Soon be Exhausted.

New York, May 21.—Even the grandchildren of the present generation will not witness the exhaustion of the Pennsylvania coal deposits, according to statements of Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad officials, with reference to the prediction of Dr. Charles Steinmetz, an electrical engineer, in a lecture here that many persons now living would see the last of the nation's supply of coal, both soft and hard.

"We have 450,000,00 tons of anthracite," said one official, "of the kind we are mining now, and there are immense bodies of lower-grade coal that are not mined at all. We product about 10,000,000 tons a year, so that the known supply of the quality now mined will last forty-five years.

"Pennsylvania has the only anthracite in the country, but there is bituminous coal in nearly every state in the Union. Certainly there need be no apprehension such as that expressed by Dr. Steinmetz."

WISCONSIN'S GOVERNOR PRAISES CONFERENCE.

Madison, Wis., May 21.—"Personally, I may say that I had a most enjoyable and profitable visit in Washington," said Governor Davidson, just back from the capitol. "The Wisconsin delegates, who accompanied me, greatly enjoyed the conference, and all agreed that the purpose for which the president called the gathering, the conservation of national resources of the country, is one that will result in great benefit to the nation. It was a most enthusiastic conference and could not have been otherwise with President Roosevelt as the moving spirit. He appeared to be master of the whole situation and he understands the great need of the people of the nation and what will be of greatest service to coming generations.

"There was no division of sentiment among the numerous governors and the delegations from the different states as to the needs of such a meeting and the purpose to be subserved.

"There was absolutely no political significance attending to the subjects discussed."

They Digest

The fierce heat of our ovens makes our beans digestible. Yours are not

Home-baked beans are heavy food. They are hard to digest, also hard to prepare. That's why you serve them only occasionally.

Yet beans are Nature's choicest food—84 per cent nutriment.

But beans, to be digestible, must be factory cooked.

It requires a terrific heat to separate the particles for the digestive juices. You cannot apply it.

Your beans are mushy; ours mealy. Yours are broken; ours are whole

That's because we bake in live steam—not in dry heat. And the baking is done in the cans. The result is that nutty flavor which distinguishes Van Camp's.

Then we bake the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together, and get our delicious blend. You miss these results in home cooking, because you lack the facilities.

Van Camp's pork and beans baked with tomato sauce

The beans that we use cost $2.10 per bushel, though we could buy beans as low as 30 cents. We get only the whitest, the plumpest, the choicest beans that grow.

We spend five times as much to make our tomato sauce as other sauce costs ready-made. But that sparkling zest which you note in Van Camp's shows the difference.

Be careful to get the best in baked beans, for the best are cheap enough

Cheap beans are not appetizing. They are neither good nor good for you. You'll eat them only once in a while.

But you will want Van Camp's every day. Your people will miss them when you don't have them.

They are far cheaper than meat, yet they have about the same food value. Why not encourage their use?

10, 15 and 20¢ per can.

RESIGNS ON ACCOUNT OF POLITICAL ACTIVITY.

Rutland, Vt., May 21.—Following the receipt of an official notice from Comptroller of the Currency Lawrence O. Murray calling attention to the rule forbidding political activity by government employes, Frank W. Scientific Methods Cure

Surgical Diseases Without the Knife. Drugging the System Slowly Kills Thousands.

The human body is more complex than any machine or device ever invented and if anything is going wrong with any of its parts, the ends of the nerves send the message by their numerous strings up to the brain and there the danger is manifesting itself in pain because of the inflammation, pressure or decay, which impedes upon the nerves of the suffering parts. People make the greatest mistakes in constantly drugging and doping the body in order to rid themselves of the pain. This pain is a safety valve, pointing out to us the danger certain parts of the body are in, and instead of going to doctors who know how to cure chronic diseases, they go to the drug stores and buy some dope which deadens and poisons the nerves. Meanwhile, the destructive work of the disease goes right on and the body slowly will be destroyed. That is the reason why people lived longer in olden times, when they didn't have so many drugs and pain killers. We are getting away too far from nature and that is the reason our young people are looking old and die young.

Science has made a greater advance in the last 50 years than it did in 2,000 years previous, and the method of dissolving chronic pathological lesions and diseased organs is one of the greatest achievements of medical specialists. In Duluth the Progressive Med. Specialists, on Superior St. and Lake Avenue, are the only ones who practice this method. A man don't like to have steel, sharp and cutting, put into his abdomen to get rid of his gallstones or appendix, nor does he like to have the knife or red-hot iron put into his rectum to be relieved of piles or cancer, or a sharp cutting instrument put into his bladder to cut a stricture or prostatic gland. That method of getting rid of diseases is old and barbarous. This process of dissolving is the most wonderful, though natural process. There is no pain nor cutting nor blood shedding and it never fails to get results in the hands of these Expert Specialists. You can be cured by this process of cancer RUPTURES, kidney trouble, lung and heart disease, paralysis, skin diseases, syphilis, rheumatism, liver and bladder trouble, or if you are an unfortunate victim which forces you to practice that secret vice which leads you to ruin, loss of manhood and the insane asylum, you can be cured and made happy. Remember that these doctors are experts in men's diseases and can cure you of your trouble, no matter how long you may have had it. You may consult them without any cost from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. and it would pay you to have their opinion and advice free of charge.

WILSON MAY GET CLEAR

Attorney Greene Claims Indictment Against Him is Faulty.

Court Takes Motion for Dismissal Under Advisement.

The state completed its evidence shortly before noon today in the trial of the case against John W. Wilson, who is indicted for attempting to obtain money under false pretenses, and the jurors were excused until 2 o'clock this afternoon while the court considered the motion of the defendant for a dismissal of the indictment on the ground that it is faulty. W. E. Greene attorney for Wilson, argued that the wording of the indictment was wrong and he objected to any amendments being made by the court.

County Attorney Norton urged that the indictment would still be good after cutting out certain superfluous words. Mr. Norton asked that, in the case the court should dismiss the case, Wilson be remanded to jail to await the action of the grand jury next September. The court indicated that he would have no authority to follow such procedure, it is the duty of the court to try the cases on the indictments returned by the grand jury.

ABRAMS DENIES ANY KNOWLEDGE

Expresses Surprise of Tragic Death of Mrs. Carrie Shaw.

Newtondon, Wis., May 21. — Charles Abrams, who was arrested yesterday in connection with the supposed murder of Mrs. Carrie Shaw, made a statement in which he declared that he was as much surprised as anyone to learn of the young woman's death. He is unable to account for the finding of the body, as he said he left Mrs. Shaw all right at the depot Tuesday night in Hortonville.

Abrams gave a detailed account of his visit to Hortonville Tuesday, and said that he left Mrs. Shaw at the depot that night.

"My mother and Mrs. Shaw's mother were great friends," said Abrams, "and I had known Mrs. Shaw nearly all my life, although I had not seen her since November until I met her Tuesday in Hortonville. We corresponded with each other, although it cannot be said that we were keeping company with each other.

"Tuesday I went to Hortonville to tack up some signs for our clothing business. About 4:45 o'clock I was leaving the livery near the Arlington hotel and met Mrs. Shaw. She told me that she had something to tell me. We met another girl later in the evening. About 8:30 o'clock I called up Mrs. Shaw and asked her if I could see her. She said that she would be ready in a few minutes. I then met her and we walked to the brewery and talked about various things. I asked to meet her, as I wanted to know what it was she had to tell me. My mother died about two weeks ago, and Mrs. Shaw talked to me about it. She expressed her sympathy several times. She talked about going West, and finally we walked toward the depot, when a freight train came in. This was about 10:30 o'clock, and a couple of minutes later Mrs. Shaw said that she guessed she would go up town again. This was the last I saw of her."

Abrams is about 26 years old and came to this city about March 1 from Oshkosh.

Hortonville, Wis., May 21.—Miss Hattie Jocquot, a chum of Mrs. Carrie Shaw, says that Mrs. Abrams, mother of Charles Abrams, and Mrs. Shaw, mother of the dead woman, were intimate friends before the death of Mrs. Shaw's mother. Miss Jocquot says that Mrs. Shaw's mother expressed a desire before her death that her daughter marry Abrams, and that the daughter resented the wish.

BIRDS' EGG-SIZE HAIL.

Considerable Damage is Reported in Polk County.

Crookston, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock there was a heavy hailstorm in the vicinity of Harold station, the first station south on the Northern Pacific. Hailstones fell thick, and many of them were the size of a good-sized bird's egg.

Because of the heavy wind, much glass was broken in the farmhouses in that section, on the east and north sides of the dwellings, but otherwise no damage was done, as vegetation was not far enough advanced to be harmed.

"Toodles in Holland."

Rehearsals for "Toodles in Holland," the big musical comedy that the Modern Samaritans will present at the Lyceum, May 29 and 30, are bringing out a lot of new local talent and it promises to be the best show that T. P. Getz has ever staged in the city. The musical numbers this year are especially tuneful and include: "But Ther'll Come a Time My Little Sweetheart," "There's a Thousand Reasons Why I Love You," "Harrigan's, the Man," "When Skies are Clear," "Sleep, Honey Sleep," "Things Around the Town," "Fickle Little Willie," "I'm Looking for the Man that Wrote the Merry Widow Waltz," "Good Bye to Harrigan, the Hoodoo," "There Never was a Girl Like You," "Captain Willie Brown," "Deutschland," "The Little Dutch Kiddo's from Amsterdam," "When the Band Plays Yankee Doodle," and "When You Steal a Kiss or Two."

Flora McDonald plays "Toodles" this year, and her song, "Too Too Toodles the Candy Kid," will be accompanied by "Pussy Punkin" and six little girls in baby dresses. These children also appear in the second act as little Dutch Kids and their dance promises to be one of the big hits. Ollie Capron and Don Clark appear in a number and do the famous Merry Widow waltz. Joe McLaughlin who played the king in "King O'Keefe" two seasons ago has a great part as Officer Harrigan and Walter Smith, Harry Baker, Mrs. Budd, Mr. Elick, Clara Collier, Joe Swartz and a big crowd of talented singers are in the cast.

"The Burgomaster."

That old favorite "The Burgomaster" will be at the Lyceum tomorrow and Saturday. Ruth White and Gus Weinberg of the original company are still with the production playing the parts that they did when the opera made its first appearance.

BEGIN DRILLING AT WESTHOPE, N. D.

Active Operations in Oil Fields Have Been Started.

Westhope, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The entire field force of the Great Northern Oil & Gas Pipe Line company has arrived from Chanute, Kan., to begin active operations in this locality.

Those in the party are Dr. J. S. Winkler, assistant general manager; Herbert Johnson, another member of the company and James Templeton and James Coulter, the drillers. O. S. Johnson and W. H. Williamson are the remaining members of the force that will spend the summer and fall in this locality exploring and developing the oil and gas. Mr. Winkler, who was here last fall and was so enthusiastic over the prospects comes back, even more enthused. He together with O. S. Johnson, spent the entire winter getting the affairs of the company in shape for the summer's campaign, and feels that very soon he will be paid for the past month's labors.

Unmistakable evidences of oil have been discovered in the well on the Blaine farm, a mile from this city. First oil was struck at a depth of 325 feet; drill went through 130 feet same strata. Samples from the well look good.

The Great Northern Oil, Gas & Pipe Line company, have everything in readiness to start the big drill on the Parker farm.

PRIVATE OWNERSHIP BEATEN

Minot Council Turns Down Ordinance to That Effect.

Minot, N. D., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Private ownership of public utilities sustained a blow in the city council Monday night when the council tabled W. J. Bowen's private ownership water plant ordinance. The council by a tie vote, of 5 to 5, refused to reject the ordinance entirely.

"There is not one solitary straw that lies in the way of the city's constructing a complete waterworks system and having it all completed by July 1, 1909, unless it be the preferences of the city council of Minot," said Attorney Arthur LeSueur at the council meeting.

Mr. LeSueur said that he had made a thorough investigation of the law on the subject and of the finances of the city and that there was nothing in the financial condition that lay in the way of a waterworks system.

Mr. LeSueur argued that the granting of private franchises for the public utilities opened the way to graft and corruption. He said that the nucleus of graft in all the larger cities lay in the large number of private corporations engaged in public utilities.

Alderman Vandenoever raised the objection that if the city would undertake to construct a plant, it could not be assured of an honest deal, for the contractor might charge the city an enormous sum.

In reply to this, Mr. LeSueur said: "I think that the people of Minot would rather be robbed once than to be robbed systematically every month."

WINNIPEG FLYER DITCHED.

Broken Flange on Dining Car Causes Derailment.

Crookston, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tuesday evening, a short distance south of Winnipeg, the Great Northern flyer was wrecked, the engine, baggage car, express car and day coach going into the ditch. The train was delayed for about nine and a half hours, arriving here at 7:45 yesterday morning, instead of 10:15 Tuesday evening, according to schedule.

Fortunately there was no one injured but the fireman. The fireman and engineer looked out the cab window and noticed that the three cars were jumping the rails. The fireman jumped, lighting on his head and shoulders and is reported very seriously injured, but it is not thought that he will die. The engineer stuck to his post and escaped without injury, although the engine turned a complete somersault. The baggage car, express car and day coach were badly smashed also, but the balance of the train was not damaged to speak of, the observation coach escaping injury entirely.

That none of the passengers were injured in the wreck is little less than a miracle. The train was heavily loaded and there were many women and children aboard. When the train went into the ditch there was something of a panic, though the greater number of the passengers did not know what the trouble was until it was all over.

TALK WITH PRESIDENT ON RAINY RIVER DAM.

Washington, May 21.—Representatives Bede and E. W. Backus spent an hour with the president yesterday discussing the Rainy River dam veto. The president is unwilling to stand for anything that fails to recognize the principal of a tax for water used in the way Backus will use the water in Rainy river. He said, however, that he would be glad to talk the matter over with Chairman Hepburn of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, which has jurisdiction over dam bills, and such other members of the committee as he might care to bring to the White House with him.

The president is unwilling to write a letter saying he is willing to have the bill passed over his veto. At the same time it is believed that if the bill should be so passed he would not seriously object.

Kitchin, proprietor of the El Paso Evening News. Kitchin, who was arrested soon after the shooting, claims that Harrell had threatened to take his life.

THREATENED TO KILL HER FAMILY

Mrs. Michael Anderson Feared by Relatives and Neighbors.

As a result of her threats to kill her family and her neighbors with a large, double bitted ax, Mrs. Michael Anderson of Floodwood, Minn., was committed to the asylum at Fergus Falls this morning by Judge Middlecoff.

It is claimed that the woman is violently insane, and has on several occasions threatened to exterminate the population of Floodwood and vicinity.

The woman is 40 years of age and is the wife of a settler near Floodwood, who said that he feared the woman would kill his children during one of her violent moods.

Mrs. Mary Gidovich of Ely was also committed to the asylum this morning. She is constantly in dread of some imaginary foe whom she believes, is seeking her life.

NEW STEEL BRIDGE WRECKED BY DYNAMITE

troubles. It is alleged that striking workmen made frequent threats to blow up the bridge unless their grievances were adjusted, and as a result two watchmen have been on guard at the bridge every night. Yesterday, when the futile attempt was made to destroy the other bridge, another watchman was added to the force, and all three were on duty last night. They patrolled the embankment at both ends of the structure all night, without seeing a sign to indicate that everything was not all right.

Watchmen Thrown to Ground.

Just as dawn was breaking there came a flash near the first span, followed by a terrific report and the grinding and tearing of the great steel girders. Two of the watchmen who were within fifty feet of the end of the bridge were thrown to the ground. Hundreds of windows in the vicinity were broken. As the watchmen scrambled to their feet they saw men dashing away through the semi-darkness. A fusillade of shots was sent after the fleeing men, but none of them reached the mark and the men escaped.

Railroad experts who viewed the work of the wreckers are unanimous in declaring that at least fifty pounds of dynamite must have been placed under the abutment work on the south end of the bridge. No less amount, they say, could have caused so much damage. It is believed that it is useless for anything except the scrap heap. One of the mammoth girders on the large middle span was also twisted out of shape. This means that the entire steel work on the middle span will have to be done over again.

or classes, but of the whole people. We must unceasingly strive to win America for Christ, that we may thereby win the world for him."

The new moderator will be chosen at the afternoon session today. Although many prominent ministers have been suggested for this honor, Rev. B. H. Fullerton of St. Louis and Rev. Mark A. Matthews of Seattle for some time have been looked upon as the leading candidates. Rev. Matthews is pastor of a church with a membership of more than 3,000, one of the largest of the denomination.

Among the most authentic delegates to the conference are the foreign missionaries. Dr. William A. Briggs of Laos, a little-known country in the far north of Siam, in discussing his field, said:

"Buddhism is now a dead issue—save possibly in Boston. Some people seem to be trying to start a cult in this country, but in far away Laos, Buddhism is on a rapid decline. Laos is a great country and deserves to be better known. Not many years ago the inland tribes there had never seen a Christian missionary. Now we have twenty-five churches in the land, aggregating 1,200 members. The Chinese viceroys who rule the land have treated us well. Only lately one of them made us an offer to endow a big school, where Christian civilization might be taguht to the natives, providing only that we furnish the teachers.

The assembly has brought together men of the united States who are noted not only as Presbyterians, but as prominent men of the business world.

Twenty-five native Porto Ricans, who came to the United States especially to attend the great general assembly, form an interesting group among the spectators.

MICHIGAN IS FOR BRYAN

Delegation Instructed to Vote for Him at Denver Convention.

Lansing, Mich., May 21.—W. J. Bryan was indorsed yesterday afternoon by the state Democratic convention and the Michigan delegation to the national convention was instructed to vote for him under the unit rule until he is nominated for the presidency.

The instruction was by the unanimous vote of the convention and at no time during the session did the slightest opposition to Mr. Bryan develop.

Contests over seating the delegations from Wayne and Kent counties precipitated one of the bitterest fights ever seen in a state convention in Michigan. From Wayne county, supporters of National Committeeman D. J. Campau brought a delegation to contest the right of the regular delegation, avowedly anti-Campau, to a place in the convention, and rival delegates presented themselves from Kent county, led respectively by George P. Hummer and William F. McKnight. The committee on credentials seated the anti-Campau delegation from Wayne, and after and hour's bitter fight in the convention on the adoption of their report, D. J. Campau withdrew the claims of his supporters, in the interest, he stated, of party harmony.

Then followed a fight almost equally as bitter over adopting the committee's report seating both of the contesting Kent delegations with a half vote each. The committee's action was finally upheld by the convention.

For delegates-at-large to the national convention the following were chosen by unanimous vote of the convention: J. T. Winship, Saginaw; Woodbridge N. Ferris, Big Rapids; Charles H. Kimmerle, Kasopolis; Edward Ryan, Hancock.

The Twelfth district caucuses selected delegates to the national conventions as follows:

First district—Edwin Henderson and Sheriff James D. Burns of Detroit.

Second district—Elmer Kirby of Jackson and J. D. Ryan of Ann Arbor.

Fourth district—C. Henderson of Dowagiac and Thomas Sullivan of Barry county.

Seventh district—James C. Tucker of Mount Clemens and C. C. Clancy of Port Huron.

Eleventh district—Arthur J. Lacy of Clay and John T. Matthews of Ithaca.

Sixth district—E. O. Wood of Flint and A. H. Cummings of Lansing.

Eighth district—W. R. Fourt of Saginaw and D. J. Gerow of Owessa.

Ninth district—Herman O. Connor of Muskegon and G. O. Gaffney of Cadillac.

Third district—Judge John B. Shipman and O. J. Cornell of Branch county.

Tenth district—L. J. Commer of Bay City and Dr. E. E. McKnight of Alpena.

Twelfth district—F. F. McDonald of Sault Ste. Marie and M. J. Doyle of Menominee.

RECOVER LOST BODY

Taken From Little Moose Lake Six Months After Drowning.

Virginia, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Undertaker Gillespie of this city went up the Rainy Lake road yesterday to bring in the body of Isaac Halomen, a homesteader, who was drowned in Little Moose lake, about five miles from Pelican lake, on Oct. 17 last. At the time of the drowning fruitless efforts were made to recover the body, but it came to the surface recently and was discovered. Halomen, while on a hunting expedition with another homesteader in that vicinity, embarked alone in a boat, which was overturned. Deceased leaves a wife and five children, who reside on a homestead near the scene of the drowning. The body is now at Matheson's morgue, and will be buried here.

FIRST ORE BOAT LEAVES.

The cargo was consigned to Chicago. It is expected that a number of boats will leave during the next few weeks, considerable ore being shipped to the docks in the city from the range mines.

EVELETH LAWYER ARRESTED.

Embezzlement Charge is Alleged by His Client.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney Lennon has been arrested on the charge of embezzling $50 from August Paciotti, a local baker. The complaint alleges that the baker, through Lennon, sued Mrs. George Judinck for $50. Judgment was found in favor of Paciotti. Mrs. Judinck paid the money to the lawyer through a note indorsed by a grocery firm. The note was cashed in some time ago, but Paciotti says he did not get the money, hence the arrest.

Lennon went down today in charge of an officer to appear before the district court.

ALEXANDER COOK DEAD.

The rain last night came very opportunely as a number of forest fires have been noticed at some distance from the town, especially around the Adams hill. The rain has put all of these out for the present.

MEMORIAL DAY PLANS.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—May 30th at the high school auditorium, a Memorial day program will be given. An out of town man will deliver a fitting address for the occasion, while recitations, musical numbers and a drill will be contributed by the school children. The militia company and all the old soldiers will be present.

COAL DEALERS PROPOSE TO ALSO FURNISH ICE.

Eveleth, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The coming of hot weather has brought the matter of securing ice for household users very much before the eyes of the citizens. At present, ice is only being furnished to those saloonkeepers by their breweries, while private residences must get on as good as possible. Nelson & Lundgren have decided to handle whatever ice is left over at Mr. Bailey's ice house at St. Mary's lake, if they can get sufficient customers to warrant it.

AURORA ASKED TO NOTIFY BREWERY

Not to Sell to Certain Places in the Village.

Aurora, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney A. C. Schmidt of Duluth, representing the Fitger Brewing company, was in attendance at a meeting of the village council last night and expressed the views of the Fitger Brewing company on the question of signing the blind pig resolution.

Mr. Schmidt stated that the Fitger people were desirous of assisting the village in the fight against the blind pigs, but that they could not think of putting their signature to the resolution for the reason it would be restraining trade and against the law. He claimed that since the resolution was passed his company had not sold to or delivered beer to a pigger and that they even had gone farther and advised the saloonkeepers under their control not to do so.

He stated that the Fitger people had some nineteen saloons in this village, but they had lost four since the resolution was passed; that they would not sell to the piggers even if they lost them all; that the Fitger people, while the least offenders, were suffering more than the others and that they were the largest taxpayers of any of the breweries doing business in the village. He wound up his remarks by asking the council to pass the following resolution:

"Whereas, the Fitger Brewing company on April 11, 1908, in a communication addressed to the president and council of the village of Aurora, expressed its willingness to assist the village authorities in eradicating the evils resulting from the so-called 'blind pigs' existing in and about the village of Aurora, and agreed to refuse to sell directly or indirectly to any place or party designated by the village officials where beer or whisky is sold illegally. Now, therefore be it

"Resolved by the council that said proposition be and the same is hereby accepted and the president of the village, the chief of police and his assistants are hereby ordered and directed to notify said Fitger Brewing company, its officers and agents to refrain from selling directly or indirectly to any place or party that they or any of them may designate where beer or whisky is sold illegally and promiscuously. And be it further Resolved, that so long as said Fitger Brewing company shall comply with its foregoing proposition and these resolutions, licenses to sell intoxicating liquors be issued to persons and firms in Aurora who may desire to purchase their beer from said Fitger Brewing company, and are otherwise desirable applicants for such licenses."

The council did not act on the resolution, but decided to lay it over until the next meeting.

It was reported that Matt Alto and Charles Hill, the two saloonkeepers who have been using Ashland beer and who signed the argeement not to sell beer of any brewery not signing the agreement, had broken their agreement and a committee was appointed to look into the matter. If such is found to be the case, their licenses will be revoked.

BIG SAWING DEAL IS ABOUT CLOSED

Bailey Lumber Company to Saw for Oliver Mining Co.

Virginia, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A contract of considerable importance to this city has just been entered into between the W. T. Bailey Lumber company and the Oliver Iron Mining company and only needs to pass the legal department of the Mining company to become effective.

The contract calls for the sawing of all the Oliver company's logs at this point for the mines of both the Mesaba and Vermilion ranges and as a result the capacity of the mill will be considerably increased. Among the improvements will be the addition of two large boilers, a new engine and the erection of a large brick power house. The mill proper will be partially rebuilt and more machinery installed.

It is expected that as a result of making this contract the mill will be operated night and day, which means the employment of a large number of men. The Oliver company already has 30,000,000 feet of logs ready for sawing and of this 8,000,000 feet will be manufactured into lumber the present summer. The work will begin as soon as the mill can be placed in readiness, which will require about a month and a half time.

Bury, at the local office, finished his work yesterday afternoon and found everything all right and in first-class shape. Before his departure the bondsmen of Mr. Bury met and selected Frank M. Mr. Woodfill is one of Two Harbors' most prominent young men. He has been an employe of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad for several years. His selection meets general approval, and it is hoped and expected that he will receive the regular appointment.

TEN DAYS TO ELAPSE

After Account is Allowed Before Warrant is to be Drawn.

Aurora, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council last night passed a resolution that no orders will hereafter be drawn on the village treasurer until ten days after the account has been allowed. METHODISTS ELECT TWO BISHOPS ON SECOND BALLOT

Downey, assistant secretary of the same board, 272; Joseph B. Hingeley of Minneapolis, secretary of the general conference, 243; Charles L. Goodell of New York, 223.

When the regular business was resumed the greetings of this conference were directed to be sent to the general assembly of the Presbytrian church, which convened at Kansas City, Mo. today. An invitation was received from Minneapolis to hold the next general conference in that city.

The Presiding Elders.

(By Rev. W. E. J. Gratz.)

Some questions of great importance have claimed the attention of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church during the past week. A lively discussion was provoked by a resolution presented by Rev. Robert Forbes, D. D., asking that the title of presiding elder be changed to that of district superintendent. This was referred to a committee, which brought in the following resolution: "Your committee on revision, having carefully considered the memorial of Robert Forbes and others, to change in the Discipline the title of presiding elder wherever it occurs, to district superintendent, report against any change, and that the prayer of the petitioners be not granted." This was the sign for a battle royal, in which many of the strong men of the church took part. Among these were Dr. J. M. Buckley of the New York Christian Advocate, who argued that since the bishops of the church are properly general superintendents, the "applied end" of the episcopacy should be properly called district superintendents. Dr. Forbes made a characteristic speech in defense of his memorial. Among other things he said: "The presiding elder's office is great, if the right man is appointed, but it is a disappointment if the wrong man is appointed. I am in favor of increasing the power and the territory of the presiding elder and giving him a title that will give some idea of the importance of his work; call him the district superintendent." The adverse report of the committee was lost and another memorial on the same subject was referred to them. The general sentiment now prevalent seems to indicate that the name, "presiding elder" will be dropped and that of general superintendent will be adopted.

Unity of Spirit.

Those who have attended other general conferences are remarking upon the excellent spirit which permeates this session. There are no irritating heresy charges. There is a unity of spirit and purpose which is delightful.

An effort was made on the part of some delegates to take out the recommendation to fasting for young candidates for the ministry, but by a considerable vote the custom was continued.

Amid great joy a resolution presented by Dr. John Goucher of Baltimore was adopted, inviting the Methodist Protestant church to appoint a commission to arrange for organic union of the two churches. This resolution cited the fact that the reasons for controversy had disappeared and that we had made the governmental changes in harmony with the desires of those who had left us to form the Protestant Methodist church. This was a great occasion. When the vote was put every delegate leaped to his feet to register his approval of this effort to unite th two churches. It was an impressive moment. Many cheeks were wet with tears. Spontaneously they broke out singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

The Washington Excursion.

Nearly 200 people enjoyed the excursion to Washington and the American university. The weather was splendid, the air balmy, and in spite of the crowded conditions, all who went had a delightful time. Cars were waiting on arrival at Washington, at the end of the car line carry-alls were ready to convey the visitors to the university grounds. A splendid lunch was served the delegates.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the word was given, "The president is coming," and a moment later Theodore Roosevelt, president of the nUited States, mounted the improvised platform, accompanied by his wife, while the Marine band played "The Star-Spangled Banner." Chancellor Franklin Hamilton introduced Bishop Cranston as the chairman of the day. In his introductory address the chancellor referred to the historical association connected with the occasion, the people being gathered on the very spot where the first fort of Union soldiers was thrown up during the Civil war.

After prayer by Bishop H. W. Warren and a song by the congregation entitled "Faith of our Fathers," the bishop announced the "president's hymn," Martin Luther's 'Ein Feste Burg," which was sung by the German members of the conference, and in which the president joined most heartily. At the close of the singing the president exclaimed, "That's fine, I sing very poorly, but I sang every verse of that grand hymn."

The chairman gave an historical resume of the university's progress to date, paying tribute to the men who had been most interested in the enterprise, closing by introducing the president. The bishop declared that by virtue of his strenuous and unceasing stand for righteousness Roosevelt was a born Methodist, but unfortunately ecclesiatically misplaced in early life.

Greeting to the President.

Great enthusiasm greeted the president. The greeting moved him with such emotion as to make speech difficult for a moment. Recovering himself quickly the president said: "I feel mighty kin to you." Then followed a characteristic address in which the president pleaded for those common virtues and everyday service so needful for the true upbuilding and maintenance of our republic.

At the close of the address the people called for Mrs. Roosevelt, and the lady of the White House came forward to the side of the president and was greeted by three rousing cheers and a tiger, to which they bowed gracious acknowledgement. A pressing engagement at the White House prevented the public reception planned.

After a song by the Temple quartet, Senator J. P. Dolliver from Illinois was introduced as another disproof of the lie that Methodist preachers' sons turn out badly. He delivered an eloquent and inspiring address, which was enthusiastically received by those who heard him. The senator is one of the prominent delegates at the general conference.

Next Saturday the general conference, by invitation of the governor of Maryland, will visit the capitol of that state and the Naval academy.

MARINE NEWS

MORGAN IS FIRST BOAT

Initial Shipment Made From the D. M. & N. Ore Docks.

Mariposa, Baker and Maritana Will Sail This Week.

The steamer J. P. Morgan of the Pittsburg Steamship company's fleet left for Lake Erie this morning with the first cargo of ore shipped from the Duluth, Missabe & Northern docks this year.

Two other Pittsburg boats are expected to get away tonight. The Mariposa and Baker are loading today and the Maritana will probably go under the chutes immediately also. The Cornell, Black and Matsafa are also at the docks, but they have not yet been put in condition for sailing, so that they may not get away until next week. The Pittsburg company has several other boats started up the lakes to take cargoes and 50,000 tons or so will be taken out before the first of June.

There is nothing in sight for the independent boats yet, however. They are lying in lower lake ports with loads of coal, preferring the wait there to the necessity of waiting in the local harbor for the opening of the ore movement or returning to the lower lake light.

WOLVIN APPOINTMENTS.

DEEPENING CHANNEL.

Work in Progress at New N. P. Draw Span on Wisconsin Side.

A dredge is at work today deepening the north opening of the new draw span at the Wisconsin channel of the Northern Pacific bridge in St. Louis bay. The opening was cleared of the pile trestle and had the appearance of being open for vessels, but it had a depth of only seven or eight feet of water and one vessel attempting to use it yesterday grounded.

The dredging by the government has removed all obstructions from the south opening of the new draw span at the Wisconsin channel, making a channel there with a clear width of 175 feet available for vessels.

The south opening of the old draw span is closed to navigation, as the erection of a trestle over it is in progress. The old Wisconsin draw span will be completely removed.

STORM DELAYED BOATS.

Heavy Sea Caused by High Wind From the Northeast.

The northeast storm, which reached its greatest height yesterday, lashed Lake Superior into the heaviest sea it has had this year. The waves washed over the piers and at times sent the spray flying in foamy sheets over the lighthouse on the end of the south pier. The boom of the breakers could be heard up in the city, and boats scheduled to leave yesterday afternoon waited until after midnight.

The wind reached its greatest velocity between 10 and 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning, when it was going at fifty-two miles an hour. It went down gradually, with a velocity of forty-four miles at 5 o'clock last evening, and about midnight, died off into almost nothing. The temperature in Duluth yesterday morning was about 40 degs.

Without the wind, the sea had gone down this morning and the boats were able to leave. The heavy rain this morning was uncomfortable for a time, but it did not last, and the wind was not brisk enough to start the sea running heavily again.

Waukegan Channel Deep.

Waukegan, May 21.—The steamer Starrucca came into the harbor yesterday, although drawing 17 feet 9 inches, showing thereby that the channel is of good depth.

Frontenac Released.

Sturgeon Bay, May 21.—The package freighter Frontenac, bound from Elk Rapids to Green Bay with merchandise, which went aground off Pilot island Tuesday, was released at 11 o'clock yesterday by the tug Torrent, after lightering part of her cargo of cement. She was found to be leaking slightly.

TEMPORARY CHANNEL.

Vessels May Sail Around Wreck of Glasgow in Daylight.

Capt. Swenson of the local hydrographic office has received the following notices to mariners.

The Lansing shoal light vessel No. 55, Lake Michigan, was reported adrift on May 18, and will be replaced as soon as possible.

Green Bay, Wis.—Notice is hereby given that a temporary channel has been dredged to the eastward of the wreck of the steamer City of Glasgow, which lies across the channel at the entrance to Green Bay harbor, just abreast of East Bank Buoy No. 6, and is marked by four temporary spar buoys on its easterly edge. Vessels should pass between the wreck and the spar buoys. The temporary channel may be safely used in daylight, but passage should not be attempted at night. The wreck is in progress of removal, upon completion of which the temporary buoys will be discontinued.

FEW CHARTERS MADE.

Ore Cargoes Seem Far Off and Boats Will Not Sail.

Buffalo, May 21.—Freight matters are in a lethargic condition just at present, there being no active demand for boats on the part of the shippers, nor any particular rush for cargoes by the vesselmen. In the coal market one single charter sums up the day's business, that of the John J. Boland to Duluth at 30 cents for Cleveland. Chartering in the ore trade seems to be as far off as ever, and those vessels that have sailed with coal will have to wait at the upper lake ports or come back light.

Coal shippers are in good shape and are not pressed for tonnage.

FRONTENAC GROUNDS AGAIN.

Steamer Goes on Sand Bar in Menominee River and is Released.

Menominee, Mich., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The freighter Frontenac, bound for Elk Rapids, in Green bay, which was stranded at Plum island yesterday and released by the tug Nan of Green Bay, made Menominee under her own power, but again stranded on a sandbar in the river. She was released by the tug Field of Menominee. The Frontenac listed badly to one side. The extent of the damage is unknown.

Coal Boat Sails.

Detroit, May 21.—The steamer Wilpen, which has waited here for several weeks, started up yesterday for the Head of the Lakes, with a load of coal.

Cleveland, May 21.—A great many of the underwriters were here yesterday hustling for business. They are trying to line up the Mitchell fleet and will probably be successful in closing the deal today.

HOUSE IS BACK FROM EUROPE

President of Duluth & Iron Range Returns From Abroad.

F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range road, returns to Duluth after a trip abroad, satisfied that the American railways are much superior to those of Europe. Mr. and Mrs. House got back yesterday, after an absence of several months, most of which time was spent in Italy.

"Except in one or two particulars, the European roads cannot be compared with the better class of railroads in the United States," said Mr. House. "English roadbeds are good, those of France worse and those of Italy still worse.

"In Europe, however, people are not allowed to walk on railroad tracks. If they do they are liable to arrest and imprisonment. Hundreds of lives are sacrificed in this country every year because of the practice of walking on railroad tracks.

"European sleeping cars are quite impossible. Railroad fares impressed me as being about 50 per cent higher than they are here."

Gravitation and the Blood.

The attraction of gravitation is ordinarily thought of only as producing what is called weight, and as governing the motion of the earth and other planets in their orbits. But gravitation acts in a very important manner upon the circulation of the blood. For producing rich, red blood and strong nerves there is nothing like the tonic properties of golden grain belt beer. Have this delicious beverage on your home table and enjoy its benefits. SHOT BY POLICEMAN.

Student at Columbia University is Probably Fatally Wounded.

New York, May 21.—Robert H. Cook, a first year student in the school of science at Columbia university and said to be the son of a prominent lawyer of Albany, N. Y., was shot in the head and it is feared, fatally wounded, by a policeman last night.

Howard P. Cole, a companion of Cook was arrested after Cook had been shot. Cole is also a Columbia student and both young men were charged with attempted burglary. The police allege that the students were detected in attempting to tear down a sign from a refreshment booth on Riverside drive. Policeman John A. Shurten saw them and says that the men ran upon his approach. He said that he ordered them to stop and Cole obeyed. Cook continued to run and the policeman fired into the air.

After a chase of two blocks, the policeman finding that he was losing ground, again ordered Cook to stop and then fired on him. The bullet entered Cook's head back of the ear. At first it was thought that he had been but slightly wounded and it was so announced. Later at the hospital an examination showed that the bullet had entered the brain. Cook lapsed into unconsciousness during the examination and efforts to recover the bullet were abandoned for the night.

Cole, who is 21 years old, was also a freshman at Columbia. His home is at Brewster. He said that Cook and himself were engaged only in a college prank, it being considered a joke to tear down the "unsightly signs" on Riverside drive. Cook is 18 years of age.

MUCH INTEREST IN PIG IRON

Inquiries Numerous, But Buyers Hold Off at Present Price.

New York, May 21.—The Iron Age says: A good deal of interest has developed in the pig iron market and inquiries have been numerous in all markets, but many of the buyers seem still imbued with the idea that it is not safe to take hold at over $10 or $10.50 for No. 2 foundry at Birmingham. It is a fact, however, that the Sloss-Sheffield Steel company, now the largest maker of merchant iron in the South, has placed a good deal of foundry iron estimated as high as 50,000 to 60,000 tons on the basis of $10.75, No. 2 at Birmingham. Of this over 20,000 tons has been traced to various smelters in the Chicago district alone. The company now appears to have withdrawn from the market.

There has been an active demand in the Central West for basic pig, and from 20,000 to 25,000 tons have been placed in the Pittsburg district. Along the Atlantic coast interest has broadened and some business has been done at further concessions in prices on foundry irons. The steel trade shows very little change.

A meeting of the representatives of the steel companies Tuesday is looked forward to with some interest. The feeling is growing that prices of finished iron and steel are out of line with intermediate products and that more business is being withheld awaiting a readjustment of prices than is generally assumed.

Chicago reports quite a number of contracts for structural material. The advance in copper is not taken very seriously here. It is attributed to a speculative movement in London.

MISSOURI DELEGATES INSTRUCTED FOR BRYAN.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 21.—The Democratic state convention, last night, unanimously instructed Missouri's thirty-six delegates to the national convention to support William J. Bryan as a unit. William A. Bothwell of Randolph county was elected national committeeman. The resolutions also declared for a deep waterway from the lakes to the gulf, indorsed the Democratic record in the state and censured that of the Republicans.

The close of the convention was marked by a speech by Senator W. J. Stone, who had been elected one of the delegates-at-large, in which he offered to resign the place if the convention would elect Col. Moses C. Wetmore of St. Louis. Senator Stone declared that Wetmore was one of the closest friends in Missouri of William J. Bryan. A motion to accept Senator Stone's resignation got but few votes. Col. Wetmore was elected alternate.

Capt. Alexander McDougall has purchased the A. W. Kuehnow residence at 1005 East First street, for a consideration said to be in the neighborhood of $15,000.

The property has been purchased by Capt. McDougall as a home, his former residence property at the southeast corner of Second street and Fifth avenue west having been taken by the county, under condemnation proceedings, as a part of the courthouse site.

Mr. Kuehnow's house was erected a few years ago. The lot has a frontage of 50 feet on the upper side of First street and is 140 feet deep.

The Bank of Magee, Mississippi, closed its doors Wednesday, and its affairs will probably be liquidated. The bank has a capital stock of $20,000, surplus $10,000 and deposits of about $70,000. It is believed depositors will be paid in full.

Walker Hargroves, known as one of the most desperate gun fighters in North Texas, was shot and instantly killed Wednesday afternoon by Walter James, proprietor of a Main street, Fort Worth, saloon. James began firing when Hargroves started toward him in a threatening manner.

The warehouse and grain elevator of Jones & Rodgers and the building occupied as a warehouse by the Orgill Bros. & Co., hardware concern, at Memphis, Tenn., were destroyed by fire Wednesday night, which called out the entire fire department of the city. The loss is estimated at $325,000.

The Prohibitionists of Indiana Wednesday nominated a state ticket from governor down. The platform, besides declaring against the liquor traffic, favors an income and inheritance tax.

Miss Helen Maloney, daughter of Martin Maloney of Philadelphia, never was legally married to Arthur H. Osborne, according to the decision of Referee Cohalan, which was filed in the supreme court Wednesday.

COMES OUT OF DOCK.

San Francisco, May 21.—After spending two days on the Hunters Point dry dock, being cleaned and painted, the battleship Alabama of the Atlantic fleet came out of the dock yesterday. Contrary to usual custom the dock staff of scalers and painters was not employed on the Alabama, but 400 jackies from the big warship were put to work under the supervision of the master painter from the Mare Island yard.

FOREIGNERS ARE ACTIVE

In Efforts for Duluth Wheat — American Markets Higher.

Flax is Up at the Close of the Session Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 21.—Wheat bulged during all the session in the American markets today, the buying orders seeming to come from every direction.

The foreign demand was an important bullish factor in the local market, and something like thirty-four loads of wheat were worked for export here during the day.

Unfavorable weather forecasts for Nebraska, Kansas, the Dakotas and Montana, and predictions of Argentine shipments caused strength. Argentine shipments of wheat this week are estimated at 3,280,000 bus.

Armour was reported to be a heavy buyer in Chicago.

Liverpool closed unchanged to ½d lower, Berlin ⅝c higher and Budapest 1c lower.

The May option closed 1⅝c higher in Duluth and Minneapolis, ¾c higher in Chicago, unchanged in New York and ⅞c higher in Winnipeg. The July option closed 1⅝c higher in Duluth, ⅝c higher in Chicago, 1½c higher in Minneapolis, ⅞c higher in New York and 1c higher in Winnipeg.

July corn closed ¼c lower in Chicago and ½d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed a shade higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The weakness in American markets yesterday caused larger offerings here at the opening and stimulated rather free selling, and as result prices were from ½@⅝d lower. Following the opening and during the remainder of the morning session the market was firm and prices showed a sharp advance gaining ⅝@¾d from the early decline. The strength was due to the nervousness of shorts, owing to the buying orders from Armour. The small Argentine shipments this week, and an improved demand for spot were also factors in the advance. At midday there was a slight reaction as support was withdrawn and at this time the market was firm and from ⅛@⅜d higher than Wednesday.

"Corn was unchanged. The market was neglected."

Car receipts at Duluth were 27 against 83 last year, and at Minneapolis 102 against 194 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 129 against 277 last year. Chicago received 20 against 37 last year. Winnipeg received 48 against 293 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 451,000 bus., last year, 533,000 bus. Shipments 282,00 bus., last year, 221,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 275,-000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 353,000 bus., last year 265,000 bus. Shipments 274,-000 bus., last year, 371,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 1,468 bus.

Wheat was quiet during the early part of the session today but became more active during the latter part of the session. May wheat was inactive and closed at $1.06, a gain of 1⅝c over yesterday. July wheat opened ⅜c higher at $1.05, advanced to $1.06¼ and closed there, a gain of 1⅜c over yesterday. September wheat was inactive and closed 1c higher than yesterday at 92¼c.

Durum wheat closed 1¼c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was fairly active and closed stronger. May flax was inactive and closed 1⅝c higher than yesterday at $1.21⅝. July flax opened unchanged at $1.21, advanced to $1.22¾ and closed there, a gain of 1⅜c over yesterday. September flax was inactive and closed at $1.22¾, a gain of 1⅜c over yesterday. October flax was inactive and closed 1⅞c higher at $1.21¾.

Coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Trading in July Wheat Active, Little Doing in Other Options.

Chicago, May 21.—Trading in July wheat was active at the opening of today's market, but there was little doing in the other options. Commission houses were good buyers, because of an unexpected advance in prices at Liverpool, and reports of frost last night in South Dakota. July wheat opened ⅛@¼c higher at 90@90¼c and sold at 90⅝c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 149 cars against 221 cars last week, and 314 cars a year ago.

The market held firm all day on damage reports from Southern Indiana and Kansas. July advanced to 90¾c. The close was strong with July ¾c higher at 90⅝c.

The corn market was dull and prices were steady. The May option was exceedingly dull, the opening quotation being the only one recorded for some time. Rain in the West, which is preventing planting and interfering with the crop movement, was the bullish influence. May corn opened unchanged at 77½c and held at that figure. July corn opened unchanged to a shade lower, at 66¼c to 66¼@⅜c and sold at 66¼c. Local receipts were 207 cars, with 61 of contract grade.

Profit-taking on an extensive scale kept the market easy. The low point for July was 66¼ and it closed easy at that mark. There was little doing in May corn throughout the day and it closed at 77½, the point at which it opened.

The oats market was quiet and prices were steady. July oats opened a shade lower to a shade higher at 46¾@46⅞c and sold at 47c. Local receipts were 145 cars.

The provision market was firm, because of a 10c advance in live hogs. July pork opened 7½c higher, at $13.70. Lard was 2½c higher at $8.55. Ribs were up 2½c at $7.37½.

Close—Wheat: May, $1.02; July, 90⅝c; September, 86⅞c. Corn—May, 77½; July, 66@⅛c; September, 64⅛c; December, 56⅛c. Oats—May, old, 55c; May, 54c; July, old, 46⅞c; July, 45⅛c; September, 37¼c. Pork—May, $13.67½; July, $13.72½; September, $13.87½. Lard—May, $8.50; July, $8.67½; September, $8.75. Ribs—May, $7.27½; July, $7.42½; September, $7.65. Rye—Cash, 84@85c. Barley—Cash, 64@70c. Timothy—September, $4.22. Cash wheat—No. 3 red, $1.00@1.01½; No. 3 hard, 98c@1.00¼; No. 3 spring, 93c; others, nothing doing. Corn—No. 2, nothing doing; No. 3, 76½@77¼c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Too Much Rain Sends Wheat Up to Meet Heavy Selling.

Minneapolis, May 21.—Rain had some effect upon wheat, the Red River valley getting - to 1½ inches in places, where is was not needed. Cables showed firmness against weakness yesterday in American markets. Receipts were again light, only 102 cars here against 194 and 27 in Duluth against 83. Minneapolis elevator stocks decreased 300,000 bus for five days. The market advanced to 1⅛c above yesterday's 10 points, but it met heavy selling at $1.06½@⅝ for July, which checked it, although it did not break it much. Near the close Winnipeg sent word of good export inquiry, and there was some business reported pending in Duluth. This closed the market strong. July opened at $1.04⅞; high, $1.06⅝; low, $1.04¾; close, $1.05¾. September closed 91½c; May, $1.07¼. Millers paid 3c over July for No. 1 northern, and 1c over for No. 2, and as there was much on sale, they took more to come out of elevators. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.07¾@1.08¼ spot; $1.07¼ to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.06¼@1.06¾ spot; $1.06¾ to arrive; No. 3 wheat, $1.00 @1.06¾. No. 3 yellow corn, 70¾@71¼c.

No. 3 white oats, 50⅝@50⅞c.

No. 2 rye, 77@78¾c.

Barley steady to a shade firmer and demand a little better. Close: 56@67c.

Flax receipts were larger today but demand ruled good and 1c over Duluth July was the going price. Close: $1.23½.

Bran in bulk quoted by millers, $21.75@22.00.

Flour orders are specifying prompt shipments in a greater number of cases but such orders are for small lots. The general situation is unchanged. Shipments, 49,625 barrels. First patents, $5.45@6.00; second patents, $5.30@5.45; first clears, $4.25@4.35; second clears, $3.55@3.65.

SAFEGUARDING A NEW EPOCH. A LITTLE STUDY IN TIPS.

New York Sun: "More from young men before they are married than after," said the communicative barber, talking about tips, "and most from young men who are going courting. This doesn't mean, you understand, that single young men are more generous with tips than married men are, but simply that they come in oftener when single and so leave more money.

"A young unmarried man who is going courting goes to see his girl two or three times a week, or very likely oftener, and of course he must always go spick and span and clean shaven. Now very probably this young man shaves himself and does this commonly after he gets home at the end of the day before he goes out in the evening.

"But now suppose he should be detained at the store or the office so that he wouldn't have time to shave at home before going out, for it wouldn't do for him to be late where he is going. He knows how his work is running and whether he is going to be detained at that or not, and if he finds he is going to be, why then he snabs out in the course of the day when things let up a little, time enough to run in to the barber's and get shaved before he goes home. Or for that matter it may be that he is going out with his girl that evening and so wouldn't have tried to shave after he got home even if he got there at his regular time.

"So the young man who commonly would shave himself may, when he is going courting, run in to the barber's to get shaved two or three times a week, and of course he leaves a tip every time, but after he's married he doesn't come in so often. Not that he takes any less care of himself then, is less careful about his appearance, but then he is going to his own home, where it is permitted to him to shave at such hour as may be most convenient to him.

"Of course whether single or married a man can't cut his own hair, and so the man married still comes in regularly to get his hair cut, but not nearly so often as before to get shaved, and so it is from the young unmarried man, and this when he is going courting, that we get the most tips."

OFTEN TRUE.

"The late Edmund Clarence Stedman, the banker-poet," said a magazine editor, "was really a better critic than poet. He had a high opinion of the critic's functions. Attacks on the value of criticism always angered him. He used to tell about a typical attack of this kind. He heard it at a supper after the theater. It came from an unsuccessful actor. Mr. Stedman was replying to the toast, 'Our American Critics.' He began with the query, uttered in a ringing voice:

"'What is a critic?'

"The unsuccessful actor, in the ensuing pause, answered from the bottom of the table:

"'A man who doesn't know a good thing when he sees it.'"

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

The Market Started Unchanged, But Soon Took Upward Movement.

Close Was Generally Firm and Active, Near Best Prices.

New York, May 21.—The small irregular price changes at the opening of the stock market today offered no striking feature and the trading was quiet.

Little sympathy was shown by the general list with the rise of 1 in Missouri Pacific and Colorado Fuel and 3¾ in Consolidated Gas. Large selling orders were executed simultaneously in the principal railroads and specialties and prices dropped rapidly until the average level of about twenty stocks was a point or more below yesterday's closing. The extreme weakness of Baltimore & Ohio, which lost 3 points was a considerable factor in the decline. They recovered fractionally later, but showed little stability.

There was a substantial rally when Erie and the first preferred rose 1½, but prices receded again to a lower level than before. A rise of a point in American Smelting steadied the market at noon. Bonds were irregular.

American Smelting Refining reached 73¾, a rise of 3 points before the offerings proved sufficient to drive it back to 72. The rest of the list lacked feature.

The market closed generally firm and active. Union Pacific's rise to above 150 gave a more decisive turn to the upward movement. St. Paul's gain reached 26, Delaware & Hudson 2, Pennsylvania 1⅝, Chicago & Alton 1½, Reading and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 1⅜; Southern Pacific 1¼ and Canadian Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Atchison preferred, Rock Island preferred, Norfolk & Westen and Southern Railway 1.

THE BETTER QUESTION.

Edward Hagaman Hall, the secretary of the American Science and Historic Preservation society, was discussing in New York his project to save the transport of Poe's cottage to Poe Park. Mr. Hall, a historian of great ability, has a happy knack of pointing his remarks with appropriate anecdotes. And discussing Poe, he said:

"Fame comes at last, comes very, very late to this great poet, this master of the short story. And during the long years Poe was forgotten his wraith must have felt like the ancient sage of whom Plautus—was it Plautus?—tells.

During this sage's life statues were erected to many philosophers and rhetoricians less noted and less learned than himself. A traveler, passing through the kingdom, asked him why this was. The sage replied:

"'I prefer to have it asked why I have no statue, rather than why I had one.'"

TOO LIGHT.

"Booker T. Washington is a wonderful man," said a southerner at the Tuskegee meeting in Carnegie hall last month. "There is no orator in America to equal him. He's full of fun, too. Once, when Tuskegee's future looked very dismal, he declared to me that the great school was bound to pull through, that you never could tell from appearances what the future held in store.

"'Why,' he said, mentioning a famous colored poet, 'in his boyhood that chap was universally despised. Even his own mother used to say of him that she guessed hit wuz down in the books he gwine tor be hanged, an' she nebber could bear dat brat, anyways, 'kase he show dirt so easy.'"

INTERNATIONAL MATCHES.

Congressman McGagin, at a dinner in Washington, discussed the proposed 25 per cent duty on the dowries of American girls who marry foreigners. The congressman spoke with bitter scorn of the titled foreign bridegroom, whose sole claim to distinction consisted in a monocle and an expression of idiotic vacuity. He denounced "that form of international trade wherein soiled and frayed nobility was exchanged for American dollars, wrung from the lambs of Wall street, with a woman thrown in."

"But take Count Dash," some one interrupted. "Count Dash can trace his family back 800 years."

"Ah!" said Congressman McGavin. "Through the bankruptcy court records, I suppose."

Even a timid, or "scared', advertiser' is not in much harder plight than an indifferent one. No store will thrive in the hands of either!

PLANS FOR ELKS' NEW BUILDING

Sketches Will be Submitted to Trustees and Committee Soon.

Plans for the new building the Duluth lodge of Elks is going to erect on First street, adjoining the Board of Trade building, are now being made and the trustees and the building committee will hold a meeting in the near future to look them over.

Two years or so ago the Elks bought the property on First street between Third and Fourth avenues west, which will be the site of the new building. At that time it was not thought that the finances of the lodge would stand the expense of erecting a new building, but now conditions in Elkdom are so favorable as to make possible a serious consideration of the plans for the structure.

The plans will be submitted to the trustees and the members of the building committee at a meeting to be called for the near future. As the plans have not been ratified yet, the Elks are unable to give out any details concerning the new home of lodge No. 133, except to say that it will contain most complete lodge and club rooms.

SUPERIOR NEWS

Old Spans Removed.

Whitney Brothers, who had the contract for the removal of the old draw span of the Northern Pacific bridge on the Wisconsin side of the bay, completed the job yesterday after but four days work. The span removed weighs approximately 600,000 pounds and was handled on scows. Whitney Brothers started today the removal of the old draw span on the Minnesota side of the bay.

Flim-Flam Game Failed.

Edward Johnson, a brother of John Lind, who was directed to furnish $30 for the support of his children or go to jail, was brought into court yesterday because he attempted to flimflam the court. Johnson had produced a receipt in court purporting to have been signed by John Bell who was supposed to have been paid the $30 for the children. After Lind was liberated, the court found out that Bell never signed the paper and Johnson was notified to appear. He acknowledged the deception and was given a few hours to get the money into court. He produced the $30 within the time limit.

Fined for Lid Tilting.

George Dow, a South Superior saloonkeeper, who was arrested for lid lifting on the complaint of members of the Civic league, pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $25 and $3 costs in the municipal court yesterday. Herman Malchow, whose saloon is just outside the city limits demanded a trial and the same was set for June 1. He furnished $100 bail for his appearance.

W. J. BRYAN CONFERS WITH PENNSYLVANIANS.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 21.—William J. Bryan spent an hour and a half between trains in this city today, and occupied the time by holding a conference with Jere S. Black of York, Warren Worth Bailey of Johnstown and other prominent Bryan men, who were defeated in the Democratic state convention here yesterday in their attempt to have the delegates-at-large instructed for the Nebraskan.

When asked about the result of yesterday's convention, Mr. Bryan said: "I appreciate very much the efforts of the Democrats who attempted to secure a resolution in the state convention in harmony with the vote of the Democrats at the primaries. The difference between the primaries and the state convention illustrates forcibly the necessity for primaries. When voters speak for themselves they say what they think and do what they please. When voters put their interests in the hands of uninstructed delegates they take chances in the delegates using the power for themselves and against voters. It is just such betrayals of public trust that have led to the extension of the primary system."

Mr. Bryan left at 11:37 for Altoona.

FIRE AT MAYFIELD, KY.

Mayfield, Ky., May 21.—Fire today caused a loss of $100,000. The city is without water, owing to the burning of the water and light plant Sunday night.

GETTING THROUGH JAP LINES.

Boston Herald: Chinese honesty is proverbial, but would seem to have its exceptions. The Rev. John H. K. De Forest of Auburndale, for thirty-five years resident in Japan and high in the confidence of Japanese statesmen and officials, told of an episode of which he had personal knowledge while with the army of Kuroki in Manchuria:

"Some of the spies used by both sides during the war were Chinese," he said. "Complications not infrequently resulted.

"Kuropatkin one day had a particularly important message to send to Gen. Stoessel. To get through the Japanese lines seemed almost out of the question, but the Russian commander went to a Chinese famous for his skill and intrepidity. The old fellow didn't want to risk it, but Kuropatkin cajoled him to it, giving him $300 and promising him $200 when he returned.

"When he reached the vicinity of the Japanese lines, with an intention that had evidently been with him from the start, he went straight to Kuroki, insisting that his business was very pressing.

"He explained in full to Kuroki that the Russian general had given him a task which he could not perform because of the admirable disposition of the Japanese forces, that therefore he had done the next best thing and come straight to the illustrious leader of the triumphant Japanese.

"Kuroki read the despatch, gave it back to him, bade him go on to Stoessel with it and return with the answer to the Japanese camp, where he would receive $600 and be permitted to carry the answer on to Kuropatkin and collect his remaining $200. The Chinaman carried out his instructions in detail and collected for his exploit $1,000."

SIXTH BALLOT TAKEN BY METHODIST CONFERENCE FAILS TO END DEADLOCK

Several of the Candidates Lack But Few Votes of Election.

Dr. Mason, Negro Minister, Withdraws From the Contest.

Committee to Recommend Employment of Union Labor.

Baltimore, May 22.—The sixth ballot for the election of bishops brought no result.

Baltimore, May 22.—The fifth ballot for bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, taken yesterday afternoon, resulted in no choice. Announcement of the fact was made at this morning's session of the general conference.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason of Cincinnati, the negro candidate for bishop, withdrew from the contest. He told the delegates that when he was put forward it was with the distinct understnading that if elected, his work was to be confined to his own race. He believed that a black man could better understand the colored man. He said the colored members, appreciating the situation in which the Germans had found themselves, supported their candidate, and he was glad they had been successful. The colored members did not charge that he was not given a square deal. He was sorrow his own brethren had not found a candidate equally acceptable to this body.

The fourth ballot, taken yesterday afternoon, resulted as follows:

Necessary to a choice, 510; Hughes, 489; Lewis, 478; Smith, 458; Goodell, 392; Quayle, 380; Hingeley, 288; Downey.

LUMBER CONCERN HAS LARGE LOSS

Yards of Lee & Gingery at Sauk Center, Burn.

Sauk Center, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire that broke out in the lumber yards of Lee & Gingery Co., a little after midnight, totally destroyed one of the big sheds and several thousand dollars' worth of building material. The flames were first seen about 12:20 o'clock, coming through the roof of the barn which adjoins the big sheds in the rear, an alarm was promptly sent in and within twelve minutes the department had a stream of water on the building and the numerous piles of lumber near by. The flames burned fiercely, as several thousand feet of dry lumber was stored in the loft, while the lower floor was used as a barn and an automobile shed. Two horses were rescued under rather spectacular circumstances, as the firemen were hardly out of the building before the roof and walls fell, thus ruining any chance of saving the machine, which was totally destroyed.

The origin of the fire is unknown, though it is thought that either tramps from the railroad yards near by may have set fire to some of the highly inflammables, or that the fire may have originated in the automobile.

Mr. Lee of Duluth, the president of the company, stated that the loss, which was placed at $10,000, was covered by insurance, except on the automobile, which was a new White Steamer, and will be a total loss.

BREAK IN THE LEVEE DOES GREAT DAMAGE.

New Lewisville, Ark., May 22.—The levee in Red River Levee District No. 1, broke early today, flooding the entire bottom south of the Cotton Belt railway. It was unexpected, and those in the bottom were at the mercy of the flood. Livestock of all kinds perished, and several negroes are reported to have been drowned.

Many thousand bushels of potatoes that were ready for shipment were lost. The damage cannot be estimated.

OVER 35,000 MINERS TO RETURN TO WORK

Kansas City, May 22.—Thirty-five thousand coal miners of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, members of the United Mine Workers of America, who have been on strike since March 1 last, will return to work early next week. The convention of miners of these states here today ratified and signed the agreement reached by the joint sub-committee of the operators and miners late last night. Prices and conditions are to remain the same as they were last year. The operators will formally sign and ratify the agreement as the miners have done. Then the miners of the district will vote upon the question of accepting the agreement. In the meantime, however, work will be resumed.

REPORTS PRESENTED

Presbyterians Listen to Results of Special Committee Work.

Dr. Baxter P. Fullerton of St. Louis Elected Moderator.

Kansas City, Mo., May 22.—With the presentation of the reports of the special committees, the one hundred and twentieth general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America today commenced the important business of its convention. During the next week the assembly reports will be made from various parts of the world on every conceivable phase of Christian work connected with the church. None will be more important than those reports relating particularly to dominational unity and the harmonizing of Christian religion. Evangelical work all over the world, and mission work both at home and abroad, will be reported upon and discussed. Marriage and divorce, also, are important subjects to be considered.

The spirit of the assembly was well expressed by Dr. Mark A. Matthews of Seattle, who said:

"I believe in denominational organ-

EXPLOSION IN SUGAR FACTORY

Two Killed and Forty Hurt in a Paris Refinery.

Paris, May 22.—Two persons lost their lives and forty-two were burned or otherwise injured as the result of an explosion in the grinding room of the Say Sugar refinery, shortly after work started up this morning. The refinery occupies a big seven-story building, rear the Orleans railroad depot.

The force of the explosion was tremendous and blew out a portion of the wall on the Rue Dunois side of the building and shattered windows for several blocks. Fire broke out immediately and added to the ensuing panic among the 2,400 employes of the factory, many of whom are women. Most of the injured were crushed in the rush from the building that followed the explosion. The flames were extinguished and the injured removed to hospitals. It is believed that a spark from a dynamo fired and exploded an accumulation of sugar dust. The loss is placed at $100,000.

POLICE ENDEAVOR TO SOLVE MYSTERY.

Chicago, May 22.—Renewed efforts were made by the police today to solve the mystery surrounding the death of Robert C. P. Holmes, purchasing agent for the Commonwealth Edison company, whose body was found lying in an alley in the downtown district early yesterday morning. Three men were arrested last night near the scene of the murder and, when found by the police, told conflicting stories. They, however, denied any knowledge of the murder of Holmes. The men gave their names as Arthur Wilson, John Taylor and Venus Race. The two latter men are negroes. They will be examined more thoroughly later in the day.

AGREE ON P. O. BILL

Employes Will Not be Allowed a Thirty Days' Vacation.

Railway Mail Clerks Will Not Get Allowance Asked for.

Washington, May 22.—The house today rejected the conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill, 147 to 155. This means the defeat of ship subsidy.

Washington, May 22.—Complete agreement was reached yesterday by the conference on the postoffice appropriation bill and the report was agreed to in the senate. The most important of the amendments that have been in dispute were settled as follows:

An appropriation of $321,900 was authorized for the promotion of postoffice clerks from the fifth to the sixth grade; the provision for leaves of absence of thirty days annually to employes of first and second class postoffices and other offices having city delivery service was dropped, but the house provision eliminating Sundays and holidays from the calculations of the fifteen days, authorized by existing laws was retained.

The senate provision in regard to weighing of mails to determine the compensation to be received by the railroads for mail transportation was retained. The average daily weight is to be ascertained by actual weighing of the mails for thirty-five successive days to begin at such time as the post-

MORE CARS DYNAMITED

Serious Outrages Perpetrated by the Strikers at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 22.—The near approach of peace in the street car war did not prevent dynamiters from following out their usual operations last night, no less than half a dozen cars being damaged, while several persons received injuries.

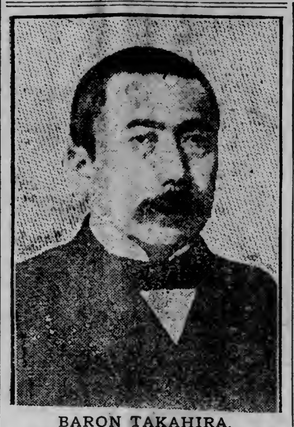
The most serious outrage of the night took place when a car, carrying ten passengers, was blown up at the corner of Euclid avenue and East One Hundred and Sixteenth street. The car was wrecked and two of the ten passengers were badly hurt.

Five other cars were dynamited in various sections of the city during the night, but no one on them was seriously hurt.

Since daylight this morning no disorder of any kind has been reported.

The mediators who are trying to bring about a settlement of the strike again resumed their labors today. It is said they are deadlocked on the choice of a third arbitrator. Two arbitrators have already been named.

GIGANTIC MONOPOLY OF N. Y., N. H. & H. RAILROAD ASSAILED BY GOVERNMENT



BARON TAKAHIRA,
Ambassador From Japan, Who in a Speech Before the Lake Mohonk Conference, Says There Is No Danger of a Disturbance of International Peace, as Far as His Country Is Concerned.

Suit Against Road Filed in Circuit Court at Boston.

Primary Object to Prevent Control of the B. & M. System.

Direct Violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law Alleged.

Washington, May 22.—With the object of preventing the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company from exercising any control over the Boston & Maine railroad and to separate the New Haven road from the extensive trolley system which it has acquired, the government today, through United States District Attorney French, filed in the United States circuit court at Boston a petition against the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company and others, charging the existence of a combination in restraint of trade, and monopoly within the meaning of Sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman anti-trust act.

The petition alleges that the New Haven company has acquired control over approximately 500 out of 600 miles of electric railway lines in Connecticut, 400 out of 500 in Rhode Island and about 600 in Massachusetts, which roads, prior to such control, were engaged in active competition with the New Haven company. Also that, in acquiring about 35 per cent of the capital stock of the Boston & Maine railroad, it has secured practically the control over that railroad, and that by the acquisition of the electric lines and this control of the Boston & Maine, it has established a virtual monopoly of all of the transportation facilities by land in the New England states, the Boston & Albany railroad being practically the only other line of any consequenced in the New England states, with the exception of the state of Vermont, not now under the control in some form of the New Haven company.

The petition relates the history of these various acquisitions and shows how the "New Haven company has persistently pursued the policy of suppressing all competition with it until now; with the exception aforesaid, it dominates practically all land transportation facilities between and among the New England states, and between those states and the rest of the United States."

The petition prays that the "combination and monopoly" be declared a violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

FIFTEEN HURT IN COLLISION.

New York, May 22.—Fifteen persons were injured, four probably fatally, early today in a collision of trolley cars at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn bridge. Andrew Webbe, Willian F. Wagge, George McGuinness and George Smith, all of Brooklyn, were the worst hurt. Three cars were wrecked, one being telescoped.

JAPS HOLD THEIR OWN

Takahira Says Criticisms Are Due to Hasty Conclusions.

Lake Mohonk Conference Adopts Platform at Friday's Session.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 22.—At today's session of the Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration, Baron Kogoro Takahira, the Japanese ambassador, made an address, in which he said:

"As regards Japan, young as she is as a modern nation, I may say, without fear of being misunderstood, that she is holding her own despite all the vicissitudes of life through which she has been passing during the last half century. The incessant criticism and complaints that have been brought against her regarding her attitude and policies in the Far East appear to be, in my opinion, due to the rather hasty conclusions of traveling observers. Some are advanced against our nation,

POWERFUL CURRENT FROM PRIMARY WIRE ENDS LIFE OF TELEPHONE LINEMAN

GOVERNOR JOHN SPARKS
Of Nevada, Who Is Dead at His Ranch, Near Reno.

Stanley Musolf Electrocuted at Fifteenth Avenue East.

Telephone Wire is Crossed With Cable Carrying 2,300 Volts.

The Shock Hurls Him From Platform to the Ground.

Stanley R. Musolf of 420 Second avenue east, 33 years of age, was instantly killed, about 9 o'clock this morning, by coming in contact with a live wire on Fifteenth avenue east. He was a lineman, in the employ of the Zenith Telephone company, and the telephone wire which he was repairing came in contact with a primary wire of the Duluth Edison Electric company, which contained a charge of 2,300 volts of electricity. Musolf was hurled to the ground, and was lifeless when picked up.

The man was working on a small platform, temporarily suspended from the wires where they cross Fifteenth avenue east, on First alley. Two other men in the employ of the company were assisting him, but he was alone on the platform. The broken wires, charged with the 2,300 volts from the electric light wire, came in contact with both his face and hands, and they were quite badly burned. The platform is a small affair and, without a moment's warning, Musolf plunged head-foremost to the ground. He was cut about the head and face by the fall, and blood spattered over the street.

The remains were taken to Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms, after lying for an hour beside the curbing. The ambulance responded to a call, but, as the man was dead, the wagon was driven off without him, and the body was held awaiting the arrival of an undertaker's wagon. A piece of canvas was laid over the corpse, hiding the blackened face from the crowd of curious people who gathered.

Musolf was married, and is survived by his widow and one child. He has several relatives in the city, and they will have charge of the funeral arrangements, which have not been announced as yet.

The live wire was left dangling about in the street, viciously spitting sparks of electricity, for some little time, but one of the linemen was set to watch it, to prevent its doing any more damage.

MAE WOOD STUBBORN

Says She Will Rot Before She Will Plead Guilty.

Jerome to Present Her Case to Grand Jury at Once.

New York, May 22.—Mae C. Wood, the Omaha woman who yesterday was sent to prison in default of $5,000 bail, on a charge of perjury, after her complaint against United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, who she had sued for divorce, had been dismissed, was still in a cell today. Apparently no effort has been made to procure bail, although Miss Wood had said immediately after her arrest yesterday that she was sure influential friends in Washington would come to her assistance.

"This case is one of a very vicious type, not uncommon in this city," said District Attorney Jerome today. "It

BRINGS BUNCH OF PARASITES

Entomologist to Introduce Enemies to Fruit Pests in California.

San Francisco, May 22.—George Compere, entomologist, arrived here on the liner China yesterday, after a tour of India and the Far East in search of the natural enemies of the pests that infest the orchards of California. His quest was successful, and when he left Western Australia three months ago the parasite that he found in India was reducing the ravages of the fruit fly to a noticeable degree. This parasite was discovered five years ago, but previous attempts to introduce it into Australia failed on account of the opposite seasons. By putting the bugs to sleep in India with ice, Compere got 100,000 of them to Australia alive. He woke them up in the Australian winter, and, thinking they were still in India, the parasites went to work with a will. Three generations of native-born bugs saw the light before Compere left the Antipodes.

He also took to Australia a parasite which swept away the cabbage aphis like fire. He has brought to California a parasite to destroy the mealy bug, a pest that causes great grief to the orange grower. He discovered this friendly bug in Japan.

PORTLAND, OR., SHIPS MUCH GRAIN ABROAD.

Portland, Or., May 22.—Aside from shipping one-third of all the wheat set afloat in the United States for foreign ports last month, Portland occupied a position far in the lead of every other grain center in the country, according to a bulletin of statistics which has just been issued by the department of commerce and labor. For the ten months of the cereal season ending with April, Portland is second on the list to New York.

The total wheat exports from the United States last month amounted to 3,505,501 bushels, of which Portland contributed 1,108,314 bushels; New York, 687,714 bushels; the combined ports of Puget Sound, 454,864 bushels, and Philadelphia, 339,653 bushels.

LAND BILL PASSED.

Guthrie, Okla., May 22.—The graduated land bill, which, by excessive taxation, seeks to prevent the owning of more than 640 acres of land by one person in Oklahoma, was finally passed yesterday and sent to the governor. The income tax bill and the inheritance tax bill are in the governor's hands also.

SPEED RECORD AGAIN BROKEN

Lusitania Comes Across the Atlantic at Fast Clip.

New York, May 22.—Trans-Atlantic records for average speed and for the shortest trip over the long course was broken by the Cunard liner Lusitania, which arrived here today. The big ship anchored off the Sandy Hook lightship in a heavy fog at 2:55 this morning, just 4 days, 20 hours and 22 minutes after she passed Daunt's Rock. This beats the best previous time for the long course made by her sister ship, the Mauretania, by 3 hours and 37 minutes, and is only 1 hour and 42 minutes longer than the Lusitania's record of 4 days, 18 hours and 40 minutes over the short course.

The Lusitania's average speed for the voyage was 24.83 knots, and this time goes far toward securing for her owners the British mail subsidy of $750,000 when the Lusitania and the Mauretania each shall have averaged 24.50 knots per hour or better for a round trip passage.

WOMAN CRUSADERS USE FIRE ESCAPES

Pittsburg, May 22.—Women crusaders of the W. C. T. U., under the protection of special police officers, who have caused considerable excitement in prominent downtown cafes in the quest of stray girls, had a thrilling experience last night. The women followed a young girl and a Japanese escort from a cafe to a Fifth avenue office building. Gaining access to the office by the fire escape the girl was arrested, but the Japanese escaped to the roof. Running in the darkness, leaping from building to building over several feet of space, one false step meaning death on the stones below, the officers finally captured the foreigner. In the meantime the street crowds in Fifth avenue witnessed the sensational chase and almost tied up traffic. A short time later the woman entered another Fifth avenue building, using the fire escapes again, caused the arrest of two couples in a third floor office. Several other young girls were taken from the cafes earlier in the evening and locked up in central station.

LABORER HELD UP AND ROBBED

Thugs Get $9 and a Watch From Anton Mazbock.

Anton Mazbock, a laborer, 52 years old, was held up and robbed last night at 11 o'clock on Michigan street, at the intersection of Third avenue west. The robbery occurred only a few steps distant from the spot where John Mattson was choked and robbed two nights ago.

Two men suddenly sprang at him from a dark doorway, according to the story told to the police, and silenced him with a blow on the back of the head. He was held by the throat while one of the men went through his pockets. He says a watch and $9 in cash were taken from his person.

Mazbock was stunned for a time from the effects of the blow, but when he fully recovered his senses he regained his feet and made his way to Superior street, where he met Patrolman Grandmaison and told of the robbery.

The man was taken to the central station, but could speak little English, and not much could be learned from him. He was penniless after the robbery, and was given lodging at the jail.

will be presented to the grand jury as speedily as possible, and if the woman is indicted she will be placed on trial in hope that her conviction will furnish a salutary example that such offenses cannot go unwhipped of justice."

Miss Wood seemed not at all perturbed by the prospect. "I suppose I shall have to swallow any medicine they prescribe for me for the present," said she, "but you may say this for me: As long as I live and there is a Platt alive, I shall fight, and fight hard, for my rights."

"Do you still claim you are Senator Platt's wife?"

"I certainly do," she replied, "and I would have proved it if they had not robbed me of all my papers. I did not expect to win. I feared that the suit would be dismissed, and I had counted on being permitted to go on my way—I would not have bothered old Platt after that. I did not expect this," she added, as she glanced around at the narrow cell.

"Do you intend to plead guilty in event of an indictment being found against you?" she was asked.

"I'll not first," she shouted, the smile disappearing and her lips coming together in a straight, tight line.

MAY ESTABLISH MORMON CHURCH

Elders Arrive From Minneapolis to Spread Faith Here.

According to four elders of the Mormon church, who arrived in Duluth yesterday, efforts will be made to establish a congregation of their sect in this city.

The Mormon party is composed of C. Clements, J. E. McMullen, Stacy Nelson and A. J. Welshman. They expect to remain here during the next few months, canvassing the city and holding street services. If they meet with success, which they claim they expect to in a short time, they will put an elder here in charge of the congregation.

The party came here from Minneapolis, where, they say, twelve elders have been working for six months and have organized a congregation with a large membership. This is the first time the Mormons have tried to establish their faith in this city.

ized union. I believe the day is not far distant when all branches of the Presbyterian family will be reunited, not as a national church, perhaps, but a church true to Christ, to dominate in the spiritual affairs in the nation."

The desire to amalgamate all Presbyterians into one church is manifest during all the proceedings of the conference, and it is believed that this general assembly will represent a long step forward toward the realization of that idea."

The sessions of the assembly today will consist of the reports of special committees, and tonight there will be a popular meeting in convention hall in the interest of Sabbath school and young people's work.

Rev. Dr. Baxter P. Fullerton of St. Louis was elected moderator, to succeed Rev. Dr. William P. Roberts of Philadelphia.

The election of Dr. Fullerton has a happy significance in the fact that he belongs to the so-called Southern branch of the church, being the first moderator that branch has had since the amalgamation of the two churches. He has been located in St. Louis for fifteen years, and for four years was editor of the Missionary Record.

SIXTH BALLOT TAKEN BY METHODIST CONFERENCE

286; Cooke, 275; Jennings, 255; Mason, 241; H. C. Stuntz, 195; Robert McIntyre, California, 189; Freeman D. Bovard, California, 145. There was a large scattering vote.

Significance attaches to the recommendation which the book committee has unanimously decided to make to the conference. It is that hereafter the book concerns of the church employ union men at union wages and favor union labor whenever opportunity offers. During the past four years the two great publishing houses of the general conference have had a good deal of trouble with labor unions, especially with the typographical union. The resolution is the outgrowth of this and the desire of the Methodist Episcopal church to get in closer touch with laboring men and women.

The temperance committee has been asked to define the duty of a Methodist lawyer who may be assigned by court to defend a liquor seller.

On the first ballot for bishops, several Northwestern preachers were honored with votes. Robert Forbes of Duluth had 16 votes, E. C. Clemons, Duluth, 4; J. Frank Stout, St. Paul, 3; Merton S. Rice, Duluth, W. E. Gratz, Two Harbors, and Frank Doran, Winona, 1 each; F. M. Rule, Winona, 2, and Samuel P. Lantz, Lawrence university, Wisconsin, 43.

master general may determine after June 30 next.

An additional division of the railway mail service is created with headquarters at New Orleans, La.

No Money for Substitutes.

The appropriation of $50,000 for the payment of substitute letter carriers who hold themselves in readiness for calls, but are not actually employed, was struck out.

The provision for the payment of expenses, not to exceed $1 a day to railway mail clerks while away from the terminals where they reside, was eliminated because it would cost the government about $1,000,000 a year. The conferees said they believed this amendment to be just, but the postal deficit was now too great to permit action at this time.

The ocean mail subvention provision was retained and to carry it into force the appropriation for the transportation of foreign mails was increased from $3,508,862 to $4,608,862.

The amendment to prohibit the publication of incendiary or inflammatory articles was further amended by the conferees so that the new provision of laws was as follows: "And the term indecent within the intendment of this section, shall include matter of a character tending to incite arson, murder or assassination."

in our new field of industrial activities in Manchuria; others against the attitude we have adopted in the less organized kingdmo under our protection.

"It is, however, a most encouraging sign of our work that, even in its 'half-done' stage, there is no danger of disturbing international peace in that part of the world, insofar as our influence extends. If every country deals with the matters between nations, and also its own internal affairs, in a right spirit, I am sure that even arbitration will no longer be found necessary."

The following platform was adopted:

The fourteenth Lake Mohonk conference of international arbitration recognizes with profound gratitude the continuous and conscientious development of the forces which make for international peace through international justice.

It especially approves and commends the work of the second Hague conference.

It notes with pleasure the existence of fifty or more treaties of arbitration concluded within the past few years, and more especially the arbitration treaties concluded between the United States and France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Switzerland, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Portugal and Spain.

It further commends the activity of our schools, colleges, universities and the various professional, business and labor organizations of the country, by which and through which popular sentiment is created, trained and directed, not merely to the maintenance of peace, but also by the elimination of the ostensible causes of war by peaceful settlement, to the prevention of war itself.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

As to Whether Mrs. Shaw Drowned Herself or Was Killed.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 22.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Appleton, Wis., says: "We found some water on the lungs, not very much, but enough to convince me that Mrs. Carrie Shaw was drowned," said Dr. Reineck this morning, after he and Dr. Rideout had performed a post-mortem examination on the dead body of the wealthy Hortonville widow which was discovered in the mill pond Wednesday morning.

District Attorney Rooney declares that he has been informed by other medical men that when a person in normal condition drowns, the lungs and practically the entire pulmonary system fills with water. He believes that the fact that Mrs. Shaw's lungs were not filled with water substantiates the theory that the blow that knocked from her mouth the gold-filled tooth and lacerated the inside of her lips rendered the woman unconscious, in which condition, he believes, she might have been immersed.

The practically established truth that Charles Abrams of New London, who is accused of the murder of the Hortonville woman, left Hortonville for his home in New London on the 11 o'clock train, and that Mrs. Shaw was seen with him only a few minutes before train time, gives rise to the possibility of some unknown person being implicated in the affair. It also substantiates the suicide theory.

MAY PROVE TO BE VERY VALUABLE

Signature of Rembrandt Found on Old Painting in Chicago.

Chicago, May 22.—What may prove to be a master picture by the great Rembrandt, worth ten of thousands of dollars, is hanging today as it has been hanging for years, in the Hutchinson gallery of old masters at the Chicago Art Institute, catalogued and labeled as the work of another and inferior hand. The picture is signed by Rembrandt. Not even the owner, Allison V. Armour of New Jersey, knew the signature was there.

It is a somber painting of a young man, apparently of the early seventeenth century, is dark brown in tone and done in heavy shadow. It is supposed by its owner to be worth some $4,000 or $5,000. If it is a Rembrandt, it is worth $50,000 or more.

Except under close observation and in bright sunlight, it bears no signature. On the frame is the name "Ferdinand Bol." Bol was a pupil of Rembrandt.

It remained for Director W. M. R. French of the art institute to discover the signature; but it is there, in letters faint in shadow, but distinct in brighter light—"Rembrandt."

It is probable that steps will be taken to investigate the signature.

SHOOTS AT HIS SON.

Mike Olson, While Intoxicated, Does Bad Man Stunt.

Milaca, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Shockley has gone to Princeton taking Mike Olson, who was arrested at Rush's ranch early in the week by Deputy Sheriff Joe Schmitz on the charge of assault, it being alleged Olson shot at his own son. Olson had been drinking and was in a quarrelsome mood. Monday he became very abusive and shot at his eldest son, and the boy only escaped serious injury by jumping from the hay loft to the lower floor of the barn, his father being outside of the building and shooting at him through the open door of the hay loft. The boy went to Onamia and secured a warrant for his father's arrest, and accompanied by Constable Eichmiller, they returned to the ranch. Eichmiller has a weak arm, caused by an injury received some time ago, and in arresting Olson the men engaged in a scuffle which accidentally broke the bones in the constable's arm, thus disabling him. Olson retreated to one of the rooms and barricaded the door, claiming that he would die before he would let any one take him.

This was the situation when Deputy Sheriff Schmitz arrived on the scene. Olson refusing to open the door, the deputy sheriff forced an entrance and took him into custody and brought him to Milaca.

BANNER LOT SALE.

Choice Piece in Grand Forks Brings $10,000.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is announced that $10,000 has been paid by the North Dakota Improvement company for a choice lot on North Third street, next to the Empire theater. The property was sold by John Bartholomew and the deal was closed by his son, Fred Bartholomew, of the Frederick hotel. While this is a big price for a lot the location is a great item. It is considered to be one of the best in the city.

The company will shortly remove the small frame building occupied at the present time by a machinery office, shoe shining parlor and photograph gallery. Within a month work will be commenced on a fine three-story modern brick business block.

He was only absent a few minutes when his parents found him standing on his head in the bottom of the well. Funeral services will be held at the Brorson church here, this afternoon.

TWENTY RUSSIAN PEASANTS HANGED.

Knersun, Russia, May 22.—Twenty peasants who took part in recent Agrarian disorders in the Yekaterinoslav district were hanged here today under decree of a court-martial. They belonged to a peasant association, the avowed object of which was to drive out landed proprietors by the burning of their estates. The resort to the death penalty for Agrarian outrages is a new departure, flogging and short terms of imprisonment have been the usual punishments even during the great disorders of 1906.

POSSE OF WOMEN HAZE ALLEGED WIFE-BEATER.

Encampment, Wyo., May 22.—Roscoe J. Beemer, an alleged wife beater living near here, was taken from his home Wednesday night by a posse of women, wives of men working in the mines, given twenty lashes on his bare back, ducked several times in a big barrel of water, tarred and feathered from his waist to his head and then put on a fence rail and ridden out of the community. The husbands, brothers and sons of some of the women witnessed the punishment of Beemer, but took no part in it.

COST OF CREAMERIES.

Result of Inquiry Made by the Department of Agriculture.

Washington, May 22.—During the past few years there have been built in the United States several thousand creameries, many of which have been successful from the start, while others have failed after a few months' operations and some were never even started. An investigation has shown that the cause of many of the failures was lack of a sufficient number of cows and excessive cost of building and equipment.

The department of agriculture finds that the cost of a building about 28 by 48 feet will vary from $800 to $1,600. Such a building usually consists of a main workroom, engine and boiler room, coal room, refrigerator, store room and office.

Machinery for a hand separator plant, consisting of 15-horse-power boiler, 10-horse power engine, combination churn, with a capacity of 600 pounds of butter, and other necessary apparatus, will cost approximately $1,2000. Machinery for a whole-milk plant will cost about $1,850. This equipment will handle from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds of butter per day. If a refrigerating machine is inculded the cost will be from $600 to $1,000 more.

The total cost of a creamery would, therefore, vary from $2,000 to $4,250 for a whole-milk plant, including artifical refrigeration.

OLD ORPHANAGE.

Institution Celebrates Its One Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary.

London, May 22.—The oldest orphanage for boys and girls in Great Britain—the Orphan Working school—is this year celebrating its 150th anniversary. It was founded in the reign of George II, in the days of the great statesman, William Pitt, and about the time of Gen. Wolfe's capture at Quebec and the outrage of the Black Hole of Calcutta. The prince of Wales is the president of the orphanage, which houses and educates 500 fatherless boys and girls at a cost of $65,000 a year.

Among the fifteen old boys of the school there are a colonial bishop of the Church of England, the proprietor of one of the largest of London's West end stores, and numbers who have risen to important positions and have supported the school which gave them their chance in life.

The Orphan Working school was founded in Noxton, then a village near London, now one of London's poorest and darkest slum districts. The present home of the orphanage is at Haverstock Hill, London.

OBJECTIONS TO COMPANY

Authorized by Japanese Diet to Colonize Korea.

Some Fear That Koreans May be Dispossessed in Time.

Tokio, May 22.—Some strong objections have been raised here against the publications of the Oriental Colonization company, the bill for which was rushed through the diet at the tail end of the session. According to the statement of the government delegate, the object of this measure was to found a company on the lines of the old East India company of England, for the colonization of Korea by Japanese. The operations of the company will be confined to the peninsula, but the president must be a Japanese, while at least two thirds of the directors and auditors must be chosen from among the Japanese shareholders. One vice president and one third of the officers are to be Koreans, and the appointment of all officials must have the approval of the Korean government. Briefly stated, the special objects of this enterprise are the purchase, sale, leasing, farming and colonization of land, the supply of seed and the disposal of produce, the engagement of colonists and farmers, and the construction, purchase, sale or leasing of houses for their accommodation.

Dealing with some of the criticisms advanced against this undertaking, and more especially the apprehension that in the long run the Koreans are likely to be dispossessed of their land at arbitrary prices, the Japanese organ in Seoul, the Seoul Press, points out that the company will undoubtly not refuse to buy farm lands if the prices asked are not too high to afford a prospect of profitable working, but that such lands may be bought in the open market and at prices agreeable to the sellers. Nobody need part with his land against his will and at prices unsatisfactory to him.

Expropriation Not Applicable.

The instances of expropriation during the war, it is contended, are not rightly applicable in this case because then the Korean government was under a treaty obligation to supply Japan with land free of charge, for railways and military purposes. The case is entirely different with the company which is now forming. It is essentially a private concern, although enjoying a considerable measure of official support, and all its operations are to be conducted according to the law and under the strict supervision of the governments of Japan and Korea. Moreover, the same paper asserts, as there is any quantity of waste land in Korea which can be converted into good farm land by the expenditure of comparatively small sums for the construction of dikes, embankments and irrigation canals, it will probably not be necessary for the company to rely upon the purchase of cultivated lands for the prosecution of its plans.

Other foreign opponents of the scheme lay stress upon the old treaty under which no foreigner, in which category the Japanese are included, can acquire land in the interior of Korea.

POLICEMEN WINDBROKEN

Will Have to Walk Off Weight at the Armory.

Duluth has some "wind-broken" policemen on the force, according to discoveries just made, and to remedy the evil members of the force will be compelled to drill at the Armory twice a week, walking about five miles at each drill, and thus reducing their weight and improving their wind for the summer months.

The "Broadway" squad of Duluth will rival the "Beauty" squad of New York. It will consist of twenty-four of the best drilled men on the force, who will be picked out as the prize bunch for special occasions. The coppers do not take kindly to the idea of frequent drills, but there seems to be no alternative.

FAREWELL MEETING.

Y. M. C. A. Members Will Say Goodbye to Old Building.

A farewell men's meeting will be held in the old Y. M. C. A. building, Sunday afternoon. This will be the last service held at the building at 18 East Superior street, and will be conducted by old-time members of the association, some of whom are still associated with the Y. M. C. A.

Following Sunday, the building will be closed, so as to allow the secretaries to work at the new building on Third avenue east and Second street, completing their preparations for the opening next Wednesday. The opening exercises at the new Y. M. C. A. home will continue for five days, ending Sunday, May 31. Full plans for the festivities have not yet been made, but will be completed in a few days by the committee of the board of directors, who are working on them now.

The farewell services Sunday will be in the charge of S. G. McConaughy, who was the general secretary at the time the old building was erected. W. S. Woodbridge will speak. He was a director at the founding of the old building. There will also be speeches by several old members.

LEGISLATION FOR NORTHWEST

Duluth Building Item Still in Dispute—Important Indian Bill.

Washington, May 22.—The indications now are that congress will not be able to adjourn tomorrow evening and that the session will run until about Wednesday.

The public building bill is in conference and one of the disputed items is that of $85,000 for purchasing additional land for the Duluth public building, but Senator Nelson feels confident of its retention.

J. Adam Bede received a knock when the senate cut the appropriation for Virginia city from $60,000 to $50,000. Senator McCumber received an increase for Minot from $125,000 to $150,000; Huron, S. D., is increased from $65,000 to $80,000.

An important omnibus Indian bill has passed both houses in which there is much of importance to Minnesota. One section provided that the secretary of the interior shall transfer certain lands in Carver county to the state of Minnesota, the same to be paid for at the rate of $1.25 per acre. Also fee simple patents are ordered issued to the diocese of Duluth of the Protestant Episcopal church or the tracts of land located at White Earth, located on Wild Rice river near the village of Beaulieu at Pine Point on the Red Lake reservation, near Cross Lake school house, also near Redby on Leech lake near the United States agency at Onigum and at the old agency.

The secretary of the interior is directed to transfer to the credit of the White Earth Indians, $19,000 which was recovered from the Commonwealth Lumber company of Minneapolis for timber trespass.

The conferees on the sundry civil bill have thus far been unable to agree on the item to provide for a custodian for public buildings at St. Paul at a salary of $2,500 per annum. The item of appropriating $7,700 for completing the work of land surveys in Minnesota, North Dakota and Florida where the offices of surveyor general have been abolished, has been agreed to.

PRESIDENT ASKS ACTION.

Wants Senate to Act on Appointment of Purdy.

Washington, May 22. — President Roosevelt several days ago wrote a letter to Senator Clark, chairman of the senate judiciary committee, urging that the committee, before the adjournment of congress, act one way or the other on the nomination of M. D. Purdy to be federal judge in Minnesota.

The president pointed out that the situation in Minnesota was such as to demand the prompt filling of the vacancy caused by Judge Lochren's resignation, and he sincerely hoped the senate committee would report the Purdy nomination either favorably or unfavorably, thus making it possible for him to name a new man if necessary. No reply has been received to the letter.

The position taken by Senator Nelson in permitting the nomination to fail for want of confirmation, may interfere with a recess appointment, although this has not yet been definitely decided. Had Mr. Purdy been rejected by the senate, then the president would be in a position to nominate some new man, possibly Judge David F. Simpson; but with Mr. Purdy's name still before the senate and unacted upon, the president, if making a recess appointment, would be compelled, it is believed, to appoint Mr. Purdy, who, in the light of the Nelson opposition, might not care to accept, although this also is not determined.

REFUSED A DRINK.

Robert Johnson Grew Abusive When His "Touch" Failed.

When his efforts to beg a drink proved unsuccessful, Robert Johnson, alias Robert Hagen, is said to have grown abusive and to have assaulted one of the men in a Lake avenue saloon who refused him money for the drink.

He was arrested on a charge of drunkenness and given a $40 fine by Judge Cutting this morning.

TO VISIT WITH COMER.

Governor Johnson to be Entertained by Alabama Governor.

St. Paul, Minn., May 22.—A letter was received at Governor Johnson's office yesterday from Governor Comer of Alabama, who invites Governor Johnson to be his guest at Birmingham Sunday and Monday.

Governor Johnson will deliver the commencement address for the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa next Tuesday. His friends are preparing to give him a royal reception there. The Alumni association of the university comprises some of the leading men in business, law and politics, and it is planned to make Governor Johnson's visit a distinct expression of the appreciation in which he is held by many of the progressive citizens of the commonwealth.

INDIAN CONGRESS MEETS.

Recurrence of Disorders at Surat is Not Expected.

Allahabad, India, May 22.—The so-called central committee on the Indian national congress is now assembled in convention at Allahabad to resuscitate the congress which broke up in a general row at Surat. Representatives from all the provinces are arriving with draft constitutions in thir pockets. The Extremists, it appears, have not been invited, and there is not likely to be a revival of the exciting Surat scenes. The Extremists are not particularly pleased over their exclusion and, though they are now busy asserting that the congress is dead, it is quite possible that in the immediate future they may start a corpse-reviving experiment of their own. In that case, next Christmas may see two congresses and two presidents, both speaking for united India, one shouting for pure, unadulterated swaraj and the expulsion of the Moderates along with the British, and the other calling down curses on the heads of the Extremists, and asking for a swaraj that they can clearly define.

A certain section of the Moderates, no doubt, find it convenient to set up a platform in the background, whence they can carry on an insidious campaign against the government. There are, however, a number of men in the Moderates' ranks who are sincere enough in their desire for constitutional methods. The pity of it is that they have not sufficient strength of mind to cut themselves entirely adrift from the congress moorings, and that they identify themselves and are identified with the rabble of the fanatic.

JOHNSON AND LITTLE.

Two North Dakota Candidates Begin Tour of the State.

Bismarck, N. D., May 22.—C. A. Johnson and Col. C. B. Little, the stalwart candidates for governor and United States senator, started out Tuesday to make a campaign of the western portion of the state. They went first to Dickinson, where they expect to begin an automobile tour through Hettinger county, and perhaps into McIntosh.

Both these candidates feel that the Minot convention has greatly helped them. Mr. Johnson figures that at least 300 of the 446 delegates in the convention will vote and work for him at the primaries.

Col. Little estimates that he will get practically the stalwart support, while the insurgent strength will be divided between M. N. Johnson, Marshall, and Hansbrough, who allied himself with the insurgents in the convention. Hansbrough's friends admit that this deprived him of any logical right to seek support at the hands of the stalwarts.

MARINE NEWS

NEW BOAT TO LAUNCH

Steamer E. F. Durston Will Slide Into Water at Superior.

Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., to be Sponsor for New Vessel.

The steamer E. F. Durston, constructed at the yards of the Superior Shipbuilding company for the Wilkinson Transportation company, will launch tomorrow at noon. Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., of Duluth will act as sponsor for the new vessel and will break the customary bottle of wine over the bow as the big craft slides into the water. In the launching party will be prominent people connected with the marine interests at the Head of the Lakes.

The Wilkinson Transportation company is a new factor in lake shipping circles and E. F. Durston, the veteran gun manufacturer of Syracuse, N. Y., after whom the boat is named, is heavily interested in it. Mr. Durston was not able to make the trip from Syracuse to be present at the launching of the vessel and Capt. Ralph Lyons of Cleveland will be the representative of the company in the launching party.

The Durston is a steel bulk freighter, 552 feet over all, with a 52-foot beam and 28-foot depth. She will have a net tonnage of approximately 7,000 tons.

The keel of the Durston was laid in February and when she goes into the water tomorrow, she will be almost complete. The machinery and furnishings have all been put aboard and only the finishing touches are necessary. About ten days will be consumed in preparing her for her trial trip. Capt. Harvey W. Mills, who was appointed to sail the new boat, died recently and a new master has not yet been appointed.

LINE BOATS TAKE GRAIN

Flour Shipments East Very Light for This Season.

Independent Lines Holding Their Boats in Lake Erie Ports.

The quietness, which reigns over the lake shipping situation, is funereal. It is wearing on the nerves of marine men and they are free in predicting the quietest season the lakes have seen in a good many years. Charters are few and far between and boats, which have been active in the grain trade, are being laid up every day at lower lake ports.

Fort William and Port Arthur, which furnished the bulk of the grain trade this spring, are practically cleaned out and boats, which took cargoes of coal there in expectation of securing cargoes of grain, are going down the lakes light. There is no profit for the owners in sending their boats down light and they will hold them in Lake Erie until they are certain of return cargoes.

The line boats are taking care of most of the grain out of Duluth now. The package freight business west-bound is as brisk now as it was at the opening of the season, but the east bound cargoes are being made up with grain. The flour movement east is considerably lighter than in former years at this season.

The Mariposa left the Missabe ore docks last night with a cargo for Cleveland, but there isn't likely to be very much more doing there for the next few weeks. There is more activity at the Allouez docks, where shipments are being made regularly. Seven boats arrived there this morning, six of them to take ore to Tonowanda and the other, the Martin Mullen, being chartered for Indiana Harbor.

A meeting of the ship owners will be held in Cleveland June 1, and, unless conditions warrant, there will be no start then. In the meantime, the independent boats without contracts will remain in port and only those boats having contracts will be kept in commission.

SUGAR FROM ABROAD.

Thousand Tons of Beet Sugar Imported From Austria to Lake Port.

New York, May 22.—The sending of an expert sugar sampler and examiner to Bay City, Mich., calls attention to the importation at an interior port of a cargo of beet sugar from abroad. This is the first time within the memory of officials in the service here when any considerable quantity of sugar has been imported at other than a seaboard port. Ten thousand bags, or 1,000 tons of raw beet sugar from Austria have arrived at Port Huron, Mich., by the steamer Montezuma, which reached Bay City via the St. Lawrence and the lakes. The sugar sampler from the New York custom house was sent to assist in estimating the duty on the cargo.

WORK ON MINNESOTA SPAN.

Old Span Being Torn Down and Widening of Channel Begun.

Whitney Bros., this morning, began tearing down the old Minnesota draw span on the Northern Pacific bridge, and they believe they will have it all removed by tomorrow night. Maj. Graham D. Fitch, United States engineer, announces that while this work is in progress, one or the other of the draw openings will be obstructed by the scows and lighters, but the remaining opening will be available for vessels.

Work was also begun this morning by the same contractors on the removal of the portion of the pile trestle standing in the southerly part of the north opening of the new Minnesota draw. This is a part of the old bridge, which now comes in the channel as a result of the widening of the draw span opening from the old width of 109 feet to the increased width of 155 feet. The bottom, where this trestle stands, has but eleven to thirteen feet of water over it and a few piles, which were cut off about two feet below the water, form an obstruction. This will be marked by a black spar buoy until it is removed by dredging. In the meantime there will still remain the old channel with a width of 109 feet.

Masters should exercise caution in passing the bridge while the work is in progress.

Ore at Cleveland.

Cleveland, May 22.—A few small cargoes of ore showed up yesterday, and the steamers George Stone and Niagara were placed to load at Duluth for Tonawanda at 90 cents. The Columbia will take pig iron from Gladstone to Buffalo at 75 cents. The local ore shippers are not doing any business, however.

SUPERIOR NEWS

CHICKENS IN HIS BAKERY.

Superior Man Fined for Having an Insanitary Place.

Samuel Landlovsky attempted to run a chicken coop and a bakery in the same room of a building on Banks avenue, near Eighth street, in Superior, and he was yesterday fined $20 for maintaining an unsanitary place of business. The health inspectors found hens caring for broods of chickens within a few feet of the oven and under a bench on which the loaves of bread taken from the oven were placed. The inspector saw the defendant's daughter brushing the dust off the bread with a chicken's wing.

SKULL AROUSED GRIEF.

Sevalla's Widow Weeps During Murder Trial of Govin.

The sight of a skull used on the witness stand in the Govin murder trial at Superior yesterday aafternoon, caused Mrs. Alexander Sevilla, widow of the murdered man to break down and weep bitterly. She had been warned by the district attorney that the skull was not that of her husband and would be used merely to illustrate the course of the bullet in Sevalla's head, but the gruesome exhibit was too much for the woman.

John Govin, a Brule farmer, is alleged to have murdered his neighbor, Alexander Sevalla, following a drinking bout in a saloon at Brule sometime ago. The evidence introduced yesterday tended to show that the two men had been scuffling at the saloon and were quite drunk when they started for home. Govin claims he does not remember what transpired after he left the saloon. He claims that some hours after he reached home his wife woke him up and told him Sevalla was lying outside the house groaning. Govin claims that he and his wife found Sevalla lying face down on a handsled with his skull fractured. The state claims that the two men had a fight after leaving the saloon and that Govin, the larger and stronger of the two killed Sevalla.

Erbelding Gets Damages.

John Erbelding sued the Superior Shipbuilding company for $25,000 damages for injuries received while working in the shipyards in November, 1906. A jury, yesterday, awarded him a verdict for $5,000. Erbelding claims to have been injured about the head and body while making repairs on the ill-fated steamer Mataafa.

Hertlein May Retain Job.

Fred Hertlein, ward foreman in the Allouez district, may retain his job. The board of public works took no action yesterday on the recommendations of the alderman of the Tenth ward who asked that another person receive the appointment. Some of the citizens at Allouez are said to have protested against the removal of Hertlein and have taken the matter up with their aldermen.

TWO GREAT STEAMERS

White Star Line to Have the Fastest Greyhounds Afloat.

Spain's Ruler is Now Alfonso the Merciful.

London, May 22.—The White Star line authorities at Liverpool confirm the announcement that two steamers of vast size are to be built for them by Messrs. Harland and Wolff in their Belfast yards, and there seems to be no doubt that the keels will be laid within the next two months and that the new steamers, which are to have a speed of not less than twenty-one knots, will be larger than the two swift and gigantic Cunarders, the Lusitania and the Mauretania.

It seems that the estimates of the amount of shipbuilding that will be done in the United Kingdom when Spain proceeds to reorganize her navy have been a little too sanguine. The appropriation of something like $35,000,000 has been approved at Madrid and all that remains to be done is to negotiate the business with suitable contractors. The contractors may design the vessels at their headquarters, but they must build them in Spain. A great deal of the work must, of course, be done here. The armor, for instance can not be made in Spain, nor the gun mountings. The propelling machinery of the faster boats will also probably be made here and a large part of the hull material as well. The condition about building in Spain is admittedly onerous, for the plant in existing dock yards is not at all modern. The only Spanish government order placed recently in this country was for the troopship which Messrs. Scott of Kinghorn are to build.

Alfanso the Merciful.

King Alfonso of Spain is already beginning to feel the influence of his English wife, who is acknowledged to be one of the most tender-hearted and merciful royalties in Europe. The young Spanish monarch, by granting a free pardon to no fewer than ten murderers at the solicitation of the queen, some of whom had committed their offenses under the most revolting circumstances, has, to all intents and purposes, abolished the death penalty in Spain. In future, not even the most callous criminal will hesitate to apply for the royal clemency, on the strength of the precedent just alluded to, and it is safe to predict that, not only this, but also future Spanish monarchs, will, in every case, maintain the precedent of Alfonso, the Merciful.

A Novel Sensation.

A new attraction has lately been provided at a West end place of entertainment for the women of the smart set of London, whose jaded appetites are always ready to welcome a novel sensation. At this establishment a band of athletes, many of them of magnificent proportions, are nightly engaged in a series of homeric struggles in the arena. The contests are eagerly watched by a band of society women, who invariably occupy prominent seats and are enthusiastic in the applause they lavish upon the muscular objects of their admiration. One prominent performer has been the recipient of endless attentions on the part of a certain woman, who has displayed her approval in the most marked manner. How embarrassing such devotion can be was shown when on the eve of the athlete's departure to fulfill an engagement on the Continent, his admirer arrived on the scene prepared to make the same journey.

Refused to Bury Man.

At a meeting of the Grantham board of guardians, last week, it was stated that Mr. Macdonald, a medical man, the vaccination officer for Woolsthorpe, a village near Belvoir castle, had been compelled to carry to the grave a coffin containing the body of an old man who had died from smallpox. All the other people in the village refused to go near the coffin. Another doctor was appointed by the guardians as deputy vaccination officer for Woolsthorpe, as many people desire to be re-vaccinated, but fear infection so much that they will not approach Mr. Macdonald.

The "Tipping" Evil.

The evil of "tipping," according to a correspondent of the Times, has now reached an extraordinary pitch in English country house life, where the abuse has been for many years a gross one. The person who wrotes in the Times is evidently smarting under some very resent and exceptional extortion in this connection.

"Surely," he says, "it is in the power of those who have a local habitation and a name in an English countryside to prevent their houses from degenerating into a kind of expensive hotel. Ugly stories are current regarding some of these privately owned hotels. It is said that the servants are not paid at all, tips constituting their entire wages. It has even been whispered that in the worst cases the servants' pay for the privilege of serving, so that a part of the guests' tips go into the hosts' pockets. No doubt these are idle rumors. But the fact that they circulate is yet another proof that all right thinking persons should endeavor to extirpate the existing system of extravagant "tipping."

The correspondent recognizes that as servants are put to additional trouble by country house parties, they are entitled to presents; but the suggestion is made that this should not be done individually, but rather that it should be handed to some general fund, which could be periodically distributed. So large a percentage of their earnings depend on tips that servants will decline situations in country house where the entertaining is limited. It not infrequently happens, too, that when a host who has been in the habit of entertaining on a large scale dies, and his widow or his successor has not the same taste, the servants leave because their receipts in the shape of tips are thereby curtailed.

"Commissions" for Servants.

"Tipping" is ofem complained of in the United States, but it is in its infancy there compared with the exact science to which it has been brought in England or anywhere on the continent for that matter.

Next to "tipping" comes the practice of demanding "commissions" for services. A striking manifestation of this spirit of acquisitiveness is worthy of note. A young man, scion of a noble house, recently approached a firm of motor car agents and inquired if they would pay him a commission in the event of his introducing a customer for a car. It was explained to him that, as agents themselves, they would only reap a certain commission from the sale of the car, but eventually they agreed to allow him 2½ per cent on the amount of the transaction. On the following day the lordling arrived on the scene, accompanied by a lady of title, whom he introduced as the buyer. The lady was his own mother.

PROTEST AGAINST WILD ANIMALS BEING KILLED.

Berlin, May 22.—The German Society for the Protection of Wild Animals is to protest against Prof. Koch's proposal that the larger wild animals in the African colonies be exterminated, since they harbor the tsetse fly, which feeds upon their blood. The president of the society, the Duke of Ratibor, urged, on the contrary, that the example of the London Zoological society and of the British Society for the Preservation of the Fanna of the Empire be followed, and that every means be taken to preserve from extinction the wild animals in the German African colonies.

SAYS JOHNSON WOULD BE WINNER

The Former Governor of Maryland is Booming the Minnesotan.

Washington, May 22.—"Governor Johnson of Minnesota, is the best presidential timber we have in the Democratic party. If he is nominated he will be elected, because he voices the sentiment of the people."

That is the opinion of Edwin Warfield, of Baltimore, Md., who has just retired as governor of Maryland. The governor is now president of the Fidelity & Deposit company of Maryland, and is visiting all the cities where his company is represented.

"I was much impressed with Governor Johnson, both from a personal and political standpoint," said the Marylander. "While I know Mr. Bryan, and enjoy a personal acquaintance with him, and have a high regard for him, still I think Governor Johnson is the proper man for the nomination at Denver in June.

"He is unassuming and yet he seems to be in direct touch with the pulse of the people. He knows, perhaps as well as any one else, what the people want, and his policies are directly in line with the expressed sentiment of the people.

"He has a great personality. I don't know when I have met a man with whom I have been so greatly impressed. I have followed his career closely. I know what he has done. I know what he is capable of doing. To my mind he is the logical candidate for the Democratic nomination for president."

Ex-Governor Warfield was entertained by Governor Johnson while in the Minnesota metropolis. He and Johnson, on that occasion, renewed an earlier acquaintance.

Senator Johnston of Alabama, who is out for Johnson for the nomination, was highly pleased with the results of the primary election in Alabama, saying: "It was a most flattering vote and a real victory for Johnson. He was the winner in all those places where the voters had a chance to learn of his personality and his achievements. Had the campaign lasted a little longer the result would have been far different."

FAIRBANKS TO WITHDRAW?

May Make Move to Insure Nomination as Vice President.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 22.—The sentiment that Vice President Fairbanks cannot be nominated for the presidency and that the best interests in Indiana of the party demand his nomination for second place on the ticket is growing among his friends here, and delegates to the national convention will be urged to suggest the expediency of such a course to him.

The idea seems to be that if Fairbanks should withdraw all the other "allies" would follow his example and he would thus get the credit among Taft men of starting a stampede that would give Taft the nomination by acclamation and his selection for second place would be certain.

It is also felt that he can afford to wait four or even eight years for the presidency and in the meantime another term as vice president would add to his popularity and enchance his chances.

WILL REMAIN THE SAME.

No Change to be Made in Power of Courts on Injunctions.

Washington, May 22.—No bill to modify the powers of the federal courts in the exercise of injunctions will be passed at this session of congress. It was decided, last night, at a conference of the Republican members of the house, that to enact such a measure would be unwise. The conference was in session from 8 o'clock until 11:30. The various so-called anti-injunction bills that have been introduced were discussed. Between 11 o'clock and the hour of adjournment three votes of the caucus were cast. The first vote was on a motion by Mr. Fassett of New York to adjourn the caucus sine die. This motion was lost, 68 to 69. Fifteen minutes later Mr. Tawney of Minnesota moved to take a recess until tonight. This motion also was lost, 62 to 64. At 11:30 Mr. Sherman of New York again made a motion to adjourn sine die, and it prevailed by a vote of 75 to 63. Shortly after he had made his motion of adjournment, Mr. Fassett was overcome by the heat and closeness of the atmosphere in the chamber and was assisted to the lobby. There he fainted. Several of his colleagues and employes of the house restored him to consciousness by the application of cold water, and apparently he fully recovered.

As indicated by the several votes taken, sentiment for and against a modification bill was pretty evenly divided, and those who led in the debate took part with much vigor and spirit.

IT'S FINE FOR RHEUMATISM.

Only Insurance Companies Can Object to This Treatment.

Winsted, Conn., May 22.—"Applications of very hot alcohol and water" were recommended strongly to John Barreuther, who suffered so with rheumatism he could scarcely move.

Barreuther, a business man here, put a basin containing about nine parts of alcohol to one of water on a gas stove. After awhile, without turning out the flame, he dipped a big piece of flannel in the basin. As he lifted out the flannel a tall and beautifully vivid flame shot up.

Mr. Barreuther dropped the flannel. It set fire to some newspapers on the floor; they ignited the hanging on the mantelpiece and from that the man's nighties caught. By the time he put out the fire, Barreuther was not even limping.

He says that the treatment is rather heroic, but there is nothing like very hot alcohol and water for rheumatism.

SMOKERS' TAX $100,000,000.

Enormous Profit Made by French Government During Year.

Paris, May 22.—Official returns of French indirect taxation in 1907 have just been issued and afford interesting reading. The profit made by the state in the year on the sale of cigars, cigarettes, tobaccos and snuffs attained the sum of $94,410,000, while the sale of government made and imported matches produced for the state a profit of $7,600,000, so that the total revenue derived by the government from smoking in France was last year over $100,000,000.

PAPER WILL DEFY LAWS.

English Publication to Snap Fingers at Libel Restrictions.

London, May 22.—According to the Financial News, arrangements are being made to publish an English daily newspaper, the chief feature of which will be absolute defiance of the libel laws. It will publish comment of any kind upon any person, and will deal with society scandals and financial gossip with unrestrained frankness, not concealing names or the most intimate details. Cases before the law courts, on which comment is not allowed because they are subjudice, will be discussed, regardless of the law and in a manner "calculated to take the curls out of counsels' wigs."

Judges will be criticised as freely as witnesses. If the latter are regarded as committing perjury they will be pilloried. The conductors propose to avoid prosecution or suppression of the paper by printing it in Belgium or France, mailing copies to English subscribers. There will be no offices in England. If the postoffice refuses to circulate the paper in wrappers, copies will be enclosed in envelopes.

Constipation is Caused by Cathartics

Any harsh physic—any physic that gripes—irritates the bowels.

That is how salts and cathartics get their effect. They act as pepper acts in the nostrils—causing the juices to flow.

But the bowel lining—like the skin—grows calloused under constant irritation.

The bowels then cease to supply their own laxative. You need physic all the time. As the bowels grow harder you need larger doses.

That is chronic constipation.

That is how constipation is caused—by the efforts of Nature to resist a harsh physic.

The way to cure it is to use a natural laxative—dainty and gentle. That's Cascarets.

If the bowels are calloused, take one Cascaret twice a day for a time. But you'll need them less and less.

They will soon bring back the natural functions. Then you won't need them at all.

But when the bowels again need temporary help, don't attack them in a way sure to cause constipation.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with C C C on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

WILL NOT PAY RANSOM.

British Residents in Moorish Territory Warned by Government.

London, May 22.—Misapprehension has been caused by a telegram from Tangier stating that the British government has notified British residents in Mogador that they will henceforth be unable to protect them from the danger incidental to residence in Moorish territortory. An Express representative was informed at the foreign office that the notification referred to simply announces the government's decision not to advance money as ransom in the event of British subjects being captured by brigands.

"The continual application for ransom money is a source of endless inconvenience and cost to the British government," the foreign office official stated. "If British subjects insist on pleasure expeditions in territory where there is known to be danger of capture by brigands they must henceforth be prepared to take the consequences.

"A similar notification applying to Turkey had to be made in 1881, owing to the frequent occasions on which British subjects were captured by Turkish brigands, and demands for ransom made upon the British government.

"There is no suggestion that the government intends to abandon the protection of British subjects where they are the victims of brigandage or violence owing to no fault of their own."

The foreign office decision is, in fact, a gentle reminder to British subjects in Morocco that they would be wise to keep away from brigand-infested districts. In future, if captured owing to their own carelessness, they will have to obtain the ransom money from their friends or remain in captivity.

A dispatch from Mogador says that this decision means complete ruin to British trade with Morocco, and the cessation of all the protection to which British trade with Morocco, and the cessation of all the protection to which British subjects are entitled, according to existing treaties.

CONCRETE THE THING

Eastern Engineer Commends Duluth's Stand on New Bridges.

L. I. Merrill of Pittsburg Brands Its Best Material.

"Duluth is taking a wise step in that it will construct no bridges within the city limits that are not of steel and concrete construction," said L. I. Merrill of Pittsburg, Pa., yesterday. Mr. Merrill, who paid a visit to the city hall while in Duluth on business, was formerly city engineer of Pittsburg, and has had more or less to do with concrete ever since this material first demanded the attention of the public for building purposes.

"Concrete," he continued, "lends itself readily to formation into any shape, while an air of fitness and beauty, in whatever locality it may be placed, is offered by its color, either natural or modified by the sand or gravel used in the mixture. The roadway may be made continuous over such a bridge, in which case practically no sound is transmitted under moving loads. On the other hand, the first cost is somewhat greater, but when it is considered that there are no maintenance charges, and that the bridge increases in strength with age, this additional cost is always warranted, if it is intended to have the bridge of a permanent nature. Furthermore, money expended for gravel, sand, stone, cement, teaming of these materials, and the labor, to a great extent, goes into the business of the town or vicinity, while that for labor, steel and other material for a steel bridge is sent out of the community.

"Steel, which is the structural material quite commonly employed by many municipalities, does not readily harmonize with natural surroundings and is a constant source of expense for maintenance. Even where wood is not used for the bridge proper, it serves as a means of flooring with steel frame work, and such flooring is usually noisy and always lacks durability. The objections to both these materials are avoided by concrete construction. Recently steel reinforcement has been commonly used in connection with concrete, but it is then covered and protected from rust and corrosion by the concrete.

"One of the causes of the rapid multiplication of steel bridges throughout the country was the fact that the design and construction were, to a certain extent, standardized, and it was not necessary for the city or county to prepare designs of its own. While large concrete bridges, and those specially adapted to certain conditions require special designs, there are several firms in the country which have already, to a certain extent, standardized the construction of reinforced concrete bridges, and those intended for small spans, or ordinary conditions, can be obtained as readily as can steel ones."

FIRST TELEGRAPH WIRE IN AMERICA

Strung Across Princeton Campus by Professor Joseph Henry.

Princeton, N. J., May 22.—In one of the locked alcoves of the library of Princeton university is a manuscript volume of some seventy-six pages written by Prof. Joseph Henry, the famous electrical scientist, giving an account of his researches while a professor at Princeton. He was called from Albany to the chair of natural philosophy, or physics as it is now called, at Princeton in 1832 and remained there until 1848, during which period he made some of his most remarkable anticipations of modern electrical science, such as, for example, wireless telegraphy. In 1848 he went to Washington to organize the Smithsonian Institution, of which he had been appointed the first secretary.

In 1876, two years before his death, he was asked to write an account of his work at Princeton. This is the document now in the university library.

It was across the Princeton campus that he strung the first telegraph wire ever operated in America. A year or two before he left Albany he had been working at his invention of the electro magnetic telegraph for transmitting signals at a distance whereby dots might be made on paper and bells struck, indicating letters of the alphabet. He refused to patent this invention on the ground that it was incompatible with the dignity of science to confine the probable benefits to the use of any one individual. In his statement he says: "I think the first actual line of telegraph using the earth as a conductor was made in the beginning of 1836. A wire was extended across the front campus from the upper story of the college library building to the philosophical hall on the other. Through this wire signals were sent from time to time from my house to my laboratory."

The operator at the other end of the line was usually his wife, and the ready exchange of measures between the two seemed to undergraduates of those days little short of miraculous and were watched with something akin to awe.

Portions of Prof. Henry's electrical apparatus are still in the university museum, among them being his giant electro magnet nicknamed "Big Ben" by the students, for whom he constructed it. By electrical communication controlled from his house across the campus this magnet lifted or released a weight of 3,000 pounds in his laboratory.

HOTEL ST. REGIS, NEW YORK

America's Finest Hotel

COMFORT WITHOUT EXTRAVAGANCE

"It is difficult to imagine a more delightful place in which to live than the St. Regis, New York." This was the expression of one who has been a frequent guest at this famous Fifth Avenue hostelry during the three years of its existence. It is the universal sentiment of all the thousands who have happily enjoyed its hospitality.

For particular people there is no place like the St. Regis. There is an indefinable something about its service and its refined interiors which imparts comfort and restfulness and makes one feel at home. Its beautiful interiors might be duplicated in other creations for public entertainment, but the peculiar charm of attractive yet unobtrusive ministration so characteristic of Hotel St. Regis is one which guests do not soon forget and which is found nowhere else in so high a degree.

When you next visit New York make the St. Regis your home. By so doing you will add greatly to the pleasure of your stay. You will also realize that the silly reports once current about exorbitant charges and multimillionaire exclusiveness have no foundation.

The cost of living at the St. Regis is no greater than at other first-class hotels, and, considering its exceptional accommodations and service, it is even less. This is shown by the fact that a beautifully furnished room of large size may be had for $4 a day, or the same, with private bath, for $5 a day (or for two people at $6 per day.) Parlor, bedroom and bath from $12 upward. The restaurant charges are no higher than elsewhere.

NECESSITY OF FIRE PREVENTION

Letter Addressed to Governors Who Attended Recent Conference.

Washington, Ma 22.—The following is a copy of a letter that has been sent to each of the governors who attended the reecnt conference on the conservation of the nation's resources:

Executive Office, International Society of Building Commissioners, Washington, May 20, 1908.—Your Excellency: The meeting of governors here, from which you have but just now returned to your capital, was one of the very highest importance to the country and that is bound to produce great results. The conservation of natural resources that, until so recently, have been so ruthlessly wasted by an all too-prodigal people, is necessary and certainly a most timely movement. To secure a sufficiency of timber and an adequate rainfall for the well-being of our great-grandchildren is a worthy movement, but to keep ourselves from an awful death by fire and to safeguard our property from the same dread scourge would seem to be an equally commendable movement.

Our fire losses have assumed terrifying proportions. Seven thousand lives wiped out of existence and property to the amount of $215,000,000 in a year's time, and an expenditure of at least another $230,000,000 in the endeavor to fight fire, are figures well calculated to make one take notice of the subject.

Inflamable buildings in our cities and towns supply the fuel for those appalling fires. Such buildings are neither safe nor economical. Yet there is an inherent or some other kind of national shortsightedness that impels our people to build only as well as they are made to by law. And our building regulations are not half severe enough to secure the radical change that is necessary. Moreover, those laws are but, in most cases, municipal enactments. It is of the utmost importance that far stricter laws be enacted and that they be state laws in order to attain the desired end. It is not a matter that requires joint debate or discussion with other states; it is one that concerns your state alone as far as you and your people are interested. It is a matter of infinitely greater importance than our legislators have ever deemed it or realized it to be and it calls for immediate and drastic action. And no one can better initiate the movement, the reform, and inspire the necessary legislation than can the state's chief executive.

This society bespeaks your prompt and thorough consideration of the matter and believes that such consideration will impel instant action upon your excellency's part. We enclose some matter that bears upon the subject more in detail and will be only too happy to render you any assistance you may call for in the way of providing drafts of uniform state building laws and such technical data as you may care for and of which we have gathered a great mass and from which we have prepared many statistical and such tabulations. Respectfully submitted,

F. W. FITZPATRICK,

FARMERS HAVE MONEY.

Noted Mark of Prosperity in the Farming Regions.

Chicago, May 22.—The note of prosperity is very marked in the farm regions of the West, a fact which goes to illustrate how largely the material welfare of the nation rests upon agriculture. The newspapers of the great agricultural states of the West report that the farmers have money in hand, and read with amazement the story of lingering panic conditions in the East. We are told that states which were formerly large borrowers of Eastern money no longer need such help.

METALLIC MIRRORS ARE NOW IN DEMAND.

Washington, May 22.—The production of metallic mirrors for searchlights and other such uses is now in demand in Europe, according to information received at the war department. Those made of glass now used are objectionable, owing to their liability to fracture when the guns are fired on ships, and to the silvering on the mirrors blistering and separating from the glass. A new metallic mirror, partially made by electro-deposition, is being introduced.

NEW SPUDS ARE IN TOWN

Some of Texas Crop is Received on Michigan Street.

Cold Weather in South Causes Firmness in Green Stuff.

New potatoes have made their appearance in the local produce market. Receipts have been very light thus far, but they will increase right along, as stocks of old potatoes, although still ample, are gradually diminishing.

The new spuds come all the way from Texas and are quoted at $4.75 a barrel. The demand for them is not keen yet, as the old vegetables are still good in flavor. Prices for the old stock remain unchanged at 70 to 75 cents a bushel.

Cold weather in the South caused a stiff undertone to the market here for green stuff. The strength was quite pronounced and a little advance all along the line would not be unexpected, although prices remain about the same today as they were last week.

Tomatoes are higher. Last week they were selling for 50 cents a basket, while 60 cents is being asked for them now. Receipts have been light.

Lettuce is firm, both in quality and price. It is selling on Michigan street at $1 a box, but is not so very plentiful at that price. Radishes, onions and other green vegetables have not been coming in, in very large quantities for the last few days.

Green stuff is very ticklish to handle, from a business viewpoint. The commission men and the trade in general take more risks on green stuff than anything else in the produce markets and they also take more losses on it.

"The people at large do not appreciate the losses that are incurred sometimes in bringing green fruit and vegetables to our market," said one commission man today, as he sadly figured up the house's loss on a car of lettuce and radishes.

Strawberries are just about the same price they were a week ago. The only difference is that the fruit is coming from Arkansas instead of Tennessee. The Tennessee crop is all in, down and out. It has said its last farewell to the Duluth market at least, and for a time now, old Arkansaw will supply the interior departments of the local shortcakes.

The Arkansas berries are of good quality and are selling at $3.25 for twenty-four quart cases.

A few berries were received during the week from Illinois, but they are rather poor.

There are claimed to be practically no navel oranges left in California. There are a few for home consumption, of course, but the state has shipped all of the navels that it is going to this year. Local stocks are declining and the quality of the fruit is hardly as good as it was. Prices range from $3 tto $3.75 a box.

Receipts of grape fruit are getting smaller. The season for this delicacy is on the wane. Grape fruit is selling now for $5.50 a case.

Bananas are unchanged at 4 cents a pound. Receipts are good and the quality of the fruit can not be complained of.

Lemons are coming in fairly good quantities. There are plenty here to supply the lemonade drink demand at $3.50 to $3.75 a box.

California cabbages are being offered here. The first arrived during the early part of the week and are quoted at $3 per hundred weight.

Butter is much easier than it was a week ago. In fact, it is cheaper now than it has been in months. The present level of the market is expected to prevail for a time now. Prices may go a little lower still, but the trade does not look to see them go up again before next fall. Receipts have been very liberal.

Creamery prints are offered at 22@26 cents a pound. Tubs are selling at 22@25 cents a pound and renovated, and ladles are 20 cents.

Fresh eggs are quite plentiful around 15@15 cents a dozen.

Cheese is quoted at 13@14c for full cream twins. Wisconsin flats are 15@16c and block and wheel Swiss is quoted at the same price. Limburger is 20 cents.

The firmness of the poultry market has shown no abatement during the week. Chickens are 15c, turkeys, 18@20c, and ducks, 16c.

There has been a stronger undertone to the local beef market for the past few days, as receipts at the South St. Paul stock yards have been very scarce. Prices remain practically unchanged, however.

THREE METEORS ARE REPORTED

Specimen Sought by Washington Authorities Fell Near Superior.

Duluth can supply some information regarding three meteors to the Washington authorities who are looking for the meteor that fell in this vicinity about April 19.

As a result of the story published in The Herald last evening, three reports have been received. H. F. Farnshaw of Twentieth avenue west and Third street states, that he saw the meteor in question on the night of April 19.

"I was looking out of the window of my home in a southerly direction," said Mr. Farnshaw. "The meteor seemed to fall almost on Superior street, although it may have been miles away down in Wisconsin. It was a large blue ball of fire, and broke like a skyrocket before it fell."

Albert Hannereen also reports seeing a meteor land on the Wisconsin shore about ten miles east of Superior last Sunday night.

H. H. Scoble reports seeing a third one last Tuesday night, near Sawyer.

Mr. Scoble is an engineer in the employ of the Northern Pacific road. He left here for the West with his train Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. While his train was flying over the rails near Sawyer, Minn., a small station about forty miles west of Duluth, shortly after 9 o'clock, there was suddenly a flash of fire to the north, which lit up the surrounding country. Surprised by the light, Mr. Scoble turned in his cab, and saw a meteor shooting towards the earth, and traveling from the northeast toward the southwest. He says it struck a few miles northwest of Sawyer. He states that it looked like a huge ball of fire, and that is was traveling at a remarkable rate of speed. With these rather indefinite directions, government experts will not have a very easy time locating the meteor, for the whole district to the north of Sawyer is thickly wooded.

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE.

Eveleth, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eveleth will be represented at the Pan Angelican conference in London from the 15th to the 21st of June, by Rev. Albert Craswell. He expects to leave early in June, to be gone two months, and will take in the conference on the trip. The local pulpit will be supplied by a minister who has already been secured.

The local district ministers, Reverends Rankin, Blair, Jameson and Jones, are busy putting up their church at Gilbert, which they expect to have finished this summer.

We still have a few pair of those $5 trousers left, that we are selling for $2.95. Come in tomorrow, positively the last day. "Fitwell" Clothing Parlors, 112 West Superior street.

Collision in Yards.

A collision in the Omaha yards last evening narrowly missed having serious results. A box car containing some horses and two attendants was being switched about in the yards. An engine pushing several box cars bumped into it so hard that it was partly knocked from its tracks. A little more force would have telescoped it or sent it into the ditch beside the tracks.

BAPTIST PASTOR RESIGNS

Rev. S. L. Mitchell tendered his resignation as pastor of the First Baptist church at a meeting of the trustees last evening and it was accepted.

Mr. Mitchell is now in Chicago. His resignation will take effect June 1, but the board granted him a month's vacation beginning then, so that his salary will continue until July 1.

The congregation has as yet nobody in view as a successor to Mr. Mitchell, but a committee was appointed last evening to secure a new pastor.

Mr. Mitchell has been in Duluth two years, and during his service here the new $40,000 church was built and occupied.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"Good evening, dear," said his wife.

"Good evening," grunted the man.

And he opened the paper.

"Did you have a good day?" inquired the interested soul.

"Good nuff," said the man, while he glanced over the front page.

"Did you think to get tickets for the theater tomorrow evening?" she asked with some timidity.

"Nope," he said. "Too busy."

"Is it a very busy time of year?" she inquired in an interested tone of voice.

"Busy nuff," he said.

"The baseball season will soon be here and then you won't be so occupied, will you?" she asked.

"No," he said.

"You always have time to go to the baseball games," she said with no malice in her voice. "And I'm glad, too. It's so interesting and then it takes you out of yourself and rests you and is good for you every way. I'm awfully glad you like baseball."

A silence ensued. The man turned the front page of the paper.

"Do you think that the White Sox will have a good team this year," she inquired, while she tried with difficulty to think of some of the names of the players.

"Good nuff, I guess," he said.

Another silence ensued while the men read in peace.

"The family next door moved out today," said his wife.

The man said nothing.

"I wonder who will move in," she said.

The man said nothing.

"I do hope they won't keep chickens," said his wife in a rather worried tone.

The man said nothing.

"Nor children," she said.

The man said nothing.

His wife signed.

"If we're going to have a garden this year," she said, "we ought to be getting at it."

The man said nothing.

"Of course, it is a good deal of trouble having a garden, but it's lovely to have the nice little green things so fresh," she said.

The man said nothing.

"I heard today that the Brown's were going to move out of town," she said.

The man said nothing.

"I wonder if it's true," she said. "I'd like to get their house if they're really going," she added.

The man made his familiar response.

"It's awful trouble moving, though," she said. "And then if we should put the garden and then they should go and we decided to take the house, it would be a lot of trouble for nothing."

The man said nothing.

"But, then, maybe they won't go," said his wife.

The man turned to the market quotations.

"The Green's are having a dreadful time getting a cook," said his wife. "I'm afraid every time that Mary speaks to me she'll say she has decided to go. I don't know what I should ever do."

The man said nothing. Then he glanced over the want column.

"Dinner is ready" said his wife.

Then in silence she addressed herself to the soup. So did her husband. She thought of the time when she lived at her father's house and this man used to come to see her. She remembered the flow of conversation, which had pauses. She remembered how he teemed with ideas, and she remembered how their ideas on so many things were exactly alike. That was one of the peculiar things about it. They thought exactly alike about so many things. She smiled reminiscently. And then her thoughts were interrupted by her husband, who made the first uninduced remark since he had entered the house. The music of his clear baritone broke the silence of the dining room.

"Pass the salt," he said.

PIKE LAKE BRANCH

Duluth Boat Club to Build at the Lake Resort.

A boathouse pavilion on the shores of Pike Lake, a sandy beach for bathers, pleasure boats for those who prefer to remain dry, an open porch overlooking the lake, and all the attendant pleasures which these accessories will make possible, is promised the members of the Duluth Boat club. A branch house at Pike Lake was felt to be a need by many of the members last year who motored out to the lake. The country drive and the surroundings at the lake are delightful, and the luxuries of the boats and the bathing were the only things lacking for the complete comfort of the guests.

The boathouse will be built on the beach of Kendall's farm, and meals may be obtained at the Kendall house. Pleasure boats will be provided, and it is expected that the resort will rival in popularity the other houses of the club, and automobile parties to the lake, with the subsequent pleasures which this branch of the Boat club will make possible will be among the most popular forms of entertainment among the members with cars. It is expected that the Pike Lake branch will be opened by the middle of June.

SUMMER TERM.

Managers of Art School Hope to Establish Course.

A meeting of the board of managers of the Duluth Art school was held this afternoon at the clubroom of the library. The outlook for a summer term was discussed. The spring term will close June 1, and if applications enough are received the school will be continued during the summer months. The weather is not too warm in Duluth during the season but that a course in some line of art work might be appreciated by many who pass the summer in the city, and the board members are hoping that a demand great enough will be evidenced to make it possible to keep the school open. Other routine matters were considered.

DELIGHTFUL CONCERT.

Miss Julia Donovan is Heard at the Lyceum.

A thoroughly delightful concert was given at the Lyceum, last evening, by Miss Julia Donovan, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Bradbury. Miss Donovan, who was prominently identified with musical Duluth during the years she lived here, was heard last evening for the first time since she entered the professional life. A large audience of her former friends were present to greet her and in the program she was heard to advantage. Her voice, which was always of especial purity of tone and pleasing quality, has been developed and broadened and her friends were delighted. The years have brought technique and finish and the songs are given a charming interpretation. Her program included two Donizetti numbers, a Gaelic Lilaby, by Burnham, and "Im Lenz," by Hildah. Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," with obligato by Mr. Bradbury, and a closing group, "I'm Wearin' Awa', Jean," "Down on the Sands," "Spring's Awakening" and "Good Night, Sweet Dreams." Mrs. Bradbury was the accompanist and she filled the role with the sympathy and taste which Duluth audiences have come to expect from her.

Mr. Bradbury played two violin numbers, "Scene de Czards," by Hubay, and "Serenade," by Schubert-Remenyi, and "Souvenir," by Drdla. The numbers were well played and added much to the artistic enjoyment of the evening.

WRITES FROM GERMANY.

Porter J. Neff Tells of Interesting Munich Custom.

Porter J. Neff, who has been traveling abroad for several months, has written recently to friends in this city of his trip through Germany. Mr. Neff is greatly impressed with the country and its people, finding them progressive, happy and hospitable. Of his recent visit to Munich, Mr. Neff said in a late letter: "Munich is probably the greatest beer drinking place in the world. The second day we were in the city we went to a great brewery beer hall. This brewery each year brews a limited quantity of a special brew called 'Salvator,' and then all Munich flocks there to drink it up. The beer is sold only at the brewery and it is served only in steins holding a liter. I had expected to see a crowd, but I was amazed at the sight that met my eyes, more than 5,000 people seated at long tables on long benches, each with a liter stein in front of him or her. There were family parties, fellows with their girls—all sorts of combinations.

"The German methods of doing business are very different from ours. In Munich the banks and offices close up from 1 to 3 o'clock, while everyone goes out and has a good lunch, a smoke, a stein of beer and a visit. At 3 everything opens up again and stays open until 6 and in many cases 7 o'clock.

"The only point in which I am led to feel the inferiority of Americans to Germans is in the matter of general physical development. Militarism is not an unmixed evil over here. It takes every young man of Germany and in a way does for him what West Point does for the few in America. I do not mean that it does as much for the average German as West Point does for those who go there, but it does a lot and the result is a nation of fine, straight, well developed athletic men. I do not imagine that the Germans develop many great individual athletes. I have no doubt that a trained rowing crew in America or a trained football or baseball team would distance anything here, but it is the high average among the mass of people that impresses me."

Mr. and Mrs. Neff and Miss Melia of Minneapolis, a sister of Mrs. Neff, who is traveling with them, will sail from England June 6 and will arrive in this city about the first of July.

EGG PLANT.

How to Grow and Prepare the Vegetable.

A vegetable garden would not be complete without eggplant. It is not quite as easy to grow as tomato, but the culture and general treatment are practically the same. It is cultivated as far North as New York.

The soil for eggplant should be a deep loam, well drained and thoroughly plowed. The seed should be planted in a hotbed greenhouse, or in a kitchen in the early part of March. Small plants may be purchased at this time in most cities, ready to set out in the garden.

The plants should be six to eight inches high when set out, and all danger of frost should be over. The plants should be about two feet apart, each way, and water must be applied abundantly until the plants are well established. The ground must also be kept well stirred and free from weeds. Twelve to twenty plants will be sufficient for a good-sized family.

The fruits are ready for the table from the time they are half grown until fully ripened. Even after they have reached full size and color they may remain on the plants for some time without lessening their edible value, although too ripe af ruit is worthless. The eggplant is used by the French in various ways in soups, stews, etc. In this country it is sliced about one-fourth inch thick and fried in butter. The following receipt will be found very satisfactory:

Peel and cut into slices, soak in salt water for an hour; then cover with rolled crackers or flour and fry in butter or fat.

Another way is to steam or bake the eggplant whole and serve it in the shell, the pulp being eaten with salt, pepper and butter.

Crepe de Chine.

One of the surprises of the season is the crepe de chine of heavy weight, which comes for all sorts of utility purposes. A trotting skirt of crepe de chine with a cutaway coat to match was worn with a gray waistcoat and a gray straw hat. It is smart, durable and specially designed for train wear.

Crepe de chine comes in all colors and one of its popular tones is the amethyst. A beautiful deep shade of amethyst crepe was made up with a plain skirt, trimmed with a band of black taffeta around the bottom. The top of the band was cut in saw-tooth design, and along the upper saw-like edge there was carried a design in soutache. There was a very pretty little three-quarter coat, fastened in the front with links of silk and a big silk-covered amethyst button.

Household Notes.

You will have less difficulty with whalebones slipping from the sheath if you first puncture a hole in each end of the bone. This can be done with the hot pyrography needle or a hot wire hairpin.

When you discover a hole in any of the starched garments, dip a piece of material of the same kind, if you have it, in starch and iron to the material. In this manner the patch is perfectly straight and will not come off until washed though it is best to stitch it at once and press smoothly after sewing. Use cold, clear starch for the purpose.

The bluish cast that comes on highly polished furniture in damp weather can be removed by wiping the furniture with lukewarm water, in which there is a tablespoonful of ammonia to a gallon of water. Dry the furniture thoroughly and heat the room, if possible, for the dampness of the room is what causes it and plainly indicates that the room must be dried out in some manner.

Slant the end of ribbon or tape before trying to thread the bodkin and it can be more easily threaded, especially if it is a little wider than the bodkin eye.

A French woman, who knows the value of small savings, never throws away the root ends of celery stalks, but dries them and uses them in soups. There is always a pot of parsley growing in her kitchen. The steam from the cooking, she says, makes the kitchen an ideal place for the window garden.

Try this once and you will always follow it: When you put your roast in the oven, put a small dish of vinegar in also. It will not only keep your meat fro mburning, but will make it much more tender than it would otherwise be, improving the flavor as well. A teaspoonful of vinegar put in a five-pound pot roast will make the meat more tender and palatable.

There is found a dainty silver candle-holder fitted out like a small lantern. It has silver filigree base, cut-glass globe and a long silver handle. It weighs but a few ounces and is most convenient to carry from room to room, with no danger of fire.

It is advisable to shrink cotton materials, also cheap white linens, before using them, especially if a one-piece dress is to be made. If the unfolded material is laid in a tub, covered with water and left until soaked through, it can be evenly hung on the line, dried and pressed. Some add salt to the water to set dainty prints. An acid is best to add to any blue prints. Iron the material on the wrong side.

Combination underclothes are becoming more and more the rage. Almost all the corset covers and petticoats that one sees for sale are fastened together around the waistline. Both bodice and skirt are made on the circular pattern, so that there is as little fulness as possible around the waist and hips, and they are joined together by beading through which ribbon is run.

It is a very attractive-looking garment for negligee, but it is far more trouble to keep them both clean and fresh than it is to care for only one piece at a time. The reason for the innovation was, of course, the return of the empire gown, but the princess slip of lace and nainsook is a far more becoming gown to the figure than is the combination.

The filet squares showing birds, men, women, animals and other designs are now used in pairs to cover small square cushions. They are finished plainly at each corner with ribbons to match the slip beneath.

RETURN TO THE STAGE

Of Janet Priest Who Was Hastily Wed Year Ago.

Fled From Home in Bathrobe to Escape Marital Jars.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 22.—Mrs. Thomas Robb Jr., who was Janet Priest, the actress, before she was married last June to the wealthy Philadelphia society man whose name she bears, has separated from her husband and intends to return to the stage. Friends of the couple were not surprised to hear of the estrangement, for since Mr. and Mrs. Robb took a house at Port Washington, L. I., on April 1 last, their domestic life has not been happy.

No information concerning the estrangement of the couple could be obtained this morning at the residence of Mrs. Thomas Robb, Sr., No. 407 South Twenty-second street. Mrs. Robb declined to discuss her son's marital affairs except to say that she understood her daughter-in-law was still with her son. Young Robb, she intimated, was traveling at present, and she supposed his wife was traveling with him. She was unable to state where they were at present.

Sheriff William K. Hults of Long Island was once called to the Robb house by Mrs. Robb to settle a family dispute, and Constable Holbrook Hults has twice been asked by Mrs. Robb to accompany her home. She said she feared to meet her husband alone. Constable Hults went with Mrs. Robb when she removed her private and personal effects and went to New York to live.

Justice of the Peace Charles Wysong of Port Washington, was retained by Mrs. Robb and he endeavored to effect a reconciliation after the last rupture, when Mrs. Robb asserted that her husband had treated her cruelly, but an amicable arrangement could not be made, and the actress has decided to go on the stage.

With that purpose in view she had an interview with Gus Edwards, the theatrical manager, and he agreed to give her an ingenue part in a production which is soon to go on the road. Mrs. Robb, before her marriage, played the part of Daisy Flood in "His Honor the Mayor," and previous to that she took the role of Muggsy in "The Mummy and the Maid." The actress was one of the smallest women on the stage, being only four feet tall.

Thomas Robb, Jr., has been much in the public eye during the last five or six years. He is a member of a distinguished old Philadelphia family. He went to the University of Pennsylvania and there was a member of the Mask and Wig club. He took part in private theatricals and made considerable of a hit by his clever impersonation of a girl.

Tommy's First Marriage.

The marriage of Mr. Robb to Miss Marie I. Gregg, in the Church of the New Jerusalem at Twenty-second and Chestnut streets, was one of the big social events of the season. It was not long before society began to talk about the actions of young Robb, and it did not cause surprise when his wife sued him for divorce.

When Janet Priest was playing in "His Honor the Mayor," at Wallack's theater, Robb went to New York and became a familiar figure about the theater. Miss Priest lived at the Hotel Dunlop with her mother, Mrs. George Canfield, and Robb often took the actress and her mother to dinner.

One night when the three were dining after a matinee performance Robb abruptly proposed marriage.

"I have known you some time now," he said, "and there is no reason why we should not get married."

"This is so sudden; I must ask mother," said Miss Priest.

"I give my consent," said Mrs. Canfield.

The three hurried from the restaurant, called a carriage, and after stopping to pick up a friend of Miss Priest's, drove to the Metropolitan Tabernacle and were married. That night Miss Priest, or Mrs. Robb, played her part in "His Honor the Mayor" and then announced her marriage.

She left the stage, and she and her husband lived at the Hotel Alabama. From there they went to Port Washington.

Fled in Her Bathrobe.

A few nights after their occupancy Mrs. Robb fled from it clad only in a bathrobe. She was in her bare feet and called at the home of Dr. S. J. Hanford, a neighbor. She was weeping hysterically, but would not say what had happened, except that her husband had used violent language to her. After borrowing a pair of shoes she walked to the Central hotel, half a mile away, and hired a room for the night.

A week before Easter Mrs. Robb called for the second time on Justice Wysong and complained of ill treatment, saying that she had left the house late at night and sought refuge in Dr. Hanford's cellar, where she had stood in front of the furnace all night. She stated that she left the cellar without being discovered.

She again took up her residence at the Central hotel, and on Easter Sunday went to New York, and has lived there since then.

Miss Priest once worked on a Minneapolis newspaper. She was a clever writer and became dramatic editor. One night she reviewed a play presented by Daniel Frawley's company, and in her criticism "roasted" the leading soubrette. Mr. Frawley was angry and he called at the newspaper office to remonstrate. He was astonished when he learned that the girl before him had written the review.

"You're soubrette is punky, and if I could not do better I would not go on the stage," observed Miss Priest.

Frawley told her he would let her take the soubrette's part if "she thought she was smart enough to play it." Miss Priest took the part and made a hit.

WAR SPECTER RISES IN ASIA

Unrest Arouses Grave Fear Among Statesmen of Europe.

London, May 22.—The unrest of Asia is a subject that is arousing the gravest apprehension in the minds of all the responsible statesmen of Europe. No day passes without bringing renewed evidence of it among all the older races, from the Bosphorus to Pekin. It is the most alarming problem which faces the British government in its own dominions, but it is by no means confined to India.

The London Spectator succinctly summarizes the situation in an ominous article, in which it says: "The Western people will soon be compelled to revise their ideas of the Eastern world. For centuries past they have thought of Asia as a continent whose inhabitants are lost in apathetic quietude. Now, however, one rarely sees a telegram from any country in Asia which does not record a disturbance, sometimes of the most dangerous kind.

"The rise of Japan, which within the last century was supposed to be voluntarily isolated from mankind, has shattered the old conception of Asia and has restarted the idea of the yellow peril, which was thought to have been extinguished with the extinction of the Tartar ascendancy in Russia.

"There is supposed to be a revolution pending in far Cathay, which Pushkin once described as lying on its dotage. The dispatches every day record some new symptoms of the unrest which is prevailing in India, affecting not her soldiery, as in the mutiny, but the whole population in their uncountable millions. In Indo-China the French officials are haunted by the possibility of a vast popular insurrection. Afghanistan's warlike clans are evidently pondering upon the possibility of a new descent into the Southern peninsula and may yet compel their nominal sovereign either to let them loose or to take their lead in a war to which the discontented in India are said, on good authority, to be perpetually inciting him."

INCOME OF TRINITY PARISH CORPORATION.

New York, May 22.—Many articles having appeared from time to time appeared in the public prints regarding the fabulous wealth of Trinity parish have led its officials to state that the annual income of the corporation last year from all sources was less than $775,000, not including collections and contributions in the churches. These latter are all used for church work, within and without the parish.

Out of this annual income the corporation paid all the expenses of Trinity church and its eight chapels, including the care and maintenance of buildings and grounds, salaries of the clergy, music, schools and many of the parish charities, also the expense and care of Trinity hospital and Trinity cemetery.

CONDEMNED BY POPE.

Paris, May 22.—Paris has heard that the French Christian Democratic movement, known as the "Sillon," is to be condemned by the pope, who has already forbidden a similar movement in Italy. The originator of it, M. Marc Sagnier, an ardent Roman Catholic, is expected to submit to the papal decision. The "Sillon" originated for the discussion of social questions.

AFFAIRS IN MACEDONIA.

Turkish Troops Are Exacting Ransom From the Peasants.

London, May 22.—A correspondent writing from Sofia of the present condition of affairs in Macedonia, says: The behavior of the Turkish troops towards the population shows little sign of improvement, although outrages on an extensive scale are less frequent than formerly. The troops, for whose maintenance the Macedonian treasury is depleted and the civil administration starved, are largely occupied, not in the arduous pursuit of the insurgent bands, but in the less irksome duty of searching the villages for arms and exacting ransom from the peasants, who have already been taxed to the uttermost farthing for the support of these inefficient protectors, and have furthermore paid toll to the various bands in their neighborhood.

RELIC OF MIDDLE AGES.

Paris, May 22.—Mont Saint Michael, one of the most curious relics of the Middle Ages in France, is said to be threatened with destruction. A quarter of a century has passed since Marshal McMahon signed a decree for the construction of the famous dike which was to connect the mount with the mainland.

GOOD OUTLOOK.

Kansas City, Mo., May 22.—With the coming of rain in the wheat belt and every dispatch telling of favorable crop conditions, an added touch of encouragement has come to the business centers of the Middle West.

MANY NATIONAL BANKS.

New York, May 22.—In the eight years ended on April 30, charters were granted to 3,865 national banking associations in the United States, with aggregate capital at date of organization of $226,333,300.

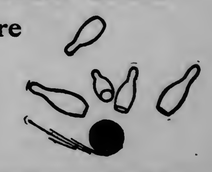
If you want to be forceful you will have to eat foods that are full of "FORCE"

Why not eat "FORCE" itself? It is the wheat-barley food—the kind that repairs waste tissues, builds up worn-out muscles and tired nerves. All the nutritive elements of the whole wheat combined with barley-malt, making them partially digested before they enter the stomach.

"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam-cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "crisp" it before serving it by pouring into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.



Your Grocer sells it. No other Flaked Food is "just as good."

TAXES AND THE POOR MAN.

Says the Owatonna Journal-Chronicle: "The state tax commission says that only those who list their property with the assessor as required by law should be granted the exemptions authorized by law. The others get the exemptions anyway, and then some."

The Owatonna paper touches here upon a very important aspect of the recent ruling by the commission that the $100 personal property tax exemption provided by law may only be allowed to those who make oath to their returns of personal property for taxation.

The only man to whom the exemption is especially important is the small property-owner whose property consists of household goods, working tools, stocks of merchandise and similar tools of production. His property is all in plain sight, and it is impossible for him to conceal it. Furthermore, it is of such relatively small value that the $100 exemption is a large item with him.

The man whose property is largely in intangible form, so that it can be easily concealed, cares less for the exemption than he does for keeping his intangible wealth off the tax rolls. He will be very willing to sacrifice the exemption for the sake of being able to refuse making an oath as to his property, because he knows that the assessors are not likely to find it.

In short, the man with little property must swear to his return in order to get the $100 exemption that is of so much importance to him, while the man with stocks and bonds and credits can refrain from making a return, and while he will lose the $100 exemption, he can by concealment secure an exemption of $1,000, $10,000, $100,000 or $1,000,000—whatever the amount of his intangible property may be.

The enforcement of this rule cannot fail to work hardship upon those who have little, and who are already bearing too great a share of the burden of taxation. In order to get the exemption they must swear to their returns. The custom is to assess personal property at 20 or 30 per cent of its actual value. Who wants to swear that his property is worth $150, when in fact it is worth five times that amount? Yet if such false oath is not made, the small property-owner will assume a greater share of the rich man's burden of taxation than he has carried in the past.

The personal property tax is a false and perjury-breeding system anyway, and it should be abolished altogether. But so long as we have it, and shall probably have to bear with it for a considerable time longer, the legislature should see if it cannot improve the system by shifting a little of the tax burden upon the shoulders of those who have much, but who are crafty enough to keep most of their wealth in intangible form.

Certainly the oath should be abolished, or it should be made compulsory upon all. It is a very evil condition where the man with a very little property must swear to its actual value in his return in order to get the $100 exemption, while the man who dares not swear to his return because he is concealing the greater part of his wealth can by forfeiting this exemption escape the oath, and thus exempt thousands or millions.

HUMANITY.

The Herald has always been a firm believer in the innate good-heartedness of the average man, and never has its faith in that belief been seriously disturbed. It is true that under ordinary circumstances human hearts become caked over with selfish heedlessness, but it doesn't take much to penetrate this shell and reveal the warm, pulsing sympathy that circulates within.

Another instance of this was provided the other day in the case of the paroled prisoner who told his story to The Herald. He is weak from long confinement, and unable to stand hard work; yet if he does not work he will have to go back to the penitentiary. His intentions seeming to be honest. The Herald told his story to the public, and before noon the next day several suitable positions had been offered to him.

This invariable response to proper appeals for public sympathy is very encouraging and very hopeful. The Herald has tested it time after time, and never once has it failed. Another recent instance was the appeal made for the sufferers in the bread line. It was shown that there were men willing to work who were going hungry because there was no work to be had, and the response from the public was immediate and hearty. A little further back was the Christmas of the poor, when appeals to public generosity met with an outburst of gifts that was almost embarrassing in its profusion.

It is a pretty good world after all when these things can happen, and they happen a good deal oftener than the pessimist can make himself believe.

AMERICAN ILLITERACY.

Americans are accustomed to pride themselves upon their widespread education, the product of universal free schools associated, in most states, with compulsory education laws.

Yet the American Journal of Education has been gathering some figures that show that the actuality is not quite so ideal as our boasts.

According to the census of 1900, out of every thousand people in this country 107 were illiterate—that is, they were persons 10 years old or older who were unable to write in any language. One person in every nine above the age of 10, therefore, is illiterate. In England, Scotland and Holland only one person in forty is illiterate. In Switzerland one person in 166 cannot write, in Denmark one person in 500, in Sweden and Norway one in each 12,250, and in Germany there is practically no illiteracy. The rate in 1903 among the army recruits was one in 2,500, and the army recruits were probably below the average of the German people.

So we haven't so much to boast of in this respect as most of us have believed.

Of course a large part of this illiteracy occurs among the southern states, where the negroes are in many cases denied adequate educational facilities, and where the class known as "poor white trash" refuses to use them.

We can't blame it entirely upon the immigrants from less favored lands. In many states the illiterates of native parentage outnumber those whose parents were born in foreign lands. In the state of New York in 1900, for instance, there were 18,000 illiterates of foreign birth, and 29,000 who were born in this country. Moreover, in the large cities, where the foreign-born population congests most largely, the percentage of illiterates is lower than in cities of 25,000 or less, and in the large cities it is no greater than in the country districts.

Minnesota is ninth in the list of states, eight states having a smaller proportion of illiterates and the rest having a larger percentage.

Iowa and Nebraska lead all the states in education, having only twenty-three illiterates per thousand. Next comes Kansas, with Washington, Utah, Oregon, Ohio, Wyoming, Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan, Colorado, Indiana, Idaho and Wisconsin following in the order named. The other extreme is represented by Louisiana, which has 385 illiterates per thousand.

Obviously, since education is the first essential of citizenship, something is wrong that needs to be righted.

States with compulsory education should have practically no illiteracy, and where they have illiteracy it is evident that the laws are not enforced.

A NEEDED PROTECTION.

It is reported that the members of the board of education are very much worked up over the fact that the grand jury in its final report referred to some charges that had been made against the management of the Duluth public schools, but did not specify them and thus enable the school authorities to combat them.

This shows one of the disadvantages of the grand jury system. Sometimes its reports are more dangerous than its indictments. Indictments can be defended, but there is no way for a man accused in a report to get into court with his defense. However, in this case the grand jury intended no reflection, apparently, upon the management of the schools, and the worry of the school authorities is hardly justified by any necessity in the situation. It is stated that the charges, whatever they were, were anonymous, and that is enough to damn them at the outset.

However, there is one thing that should be done for the protection of all bodies such as the school board of the independent school district of Duluth, and that is to enact a law providing for the same publicity and supervision over the accounts of such bodies as all other bodies have that spend the people's money. Then there can be no possibility of attack from any source. The expenditures of state, county and city are subject to regular investigation, and full reports of proceedings are published for the information of the taxpayers. In the case of the school district, there is no supervision and no publicity. This remains as it is largely because of public confidence in the class of men elected to the school board, but it will be to their interests, as a safeguard against all such covert charges as those made to the grand jury, to have full supervision and full publicity.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

Speaking of the long-continued abuses of railroad interference with matters of government, the Sacramento Bee says: "It seems clear that in the long run, in order to get rid of this tremendously evil force in the politics of the country, the people will realize the necessity of government ownership, just as municipalities will adopt the same remedy for the corruption that springs from private ownership of such public utilities as water, gas, electricity and street car lines."

Can anybody doubt the tremendous influences that are tending toward the solution suggested by this California newspaper?

The process was begun long ago in the cities, for the same reasons that it will begin before very long in the nation. A city which is robbed by extortionate charges levied to pay dividends on the watered stock of a public service corporation, that is annoyed by inferior service and baffled by the arrogance of franchise-holders, and that finds its public servants corrupted by corporation money, will turn very gladly to municipal ownership if the chance offers itself. Many cities have already done this, and the principal of municipal ownership is fairly well established in this country.

Now what about the railroads? There is no question of public ownership at present. Mr. Bryan came back from his European trip deeply impressed with the virtues of public ownership as a solution of the railroad problem in this country. He realized that railroad abuses were at the bottom of much of our trouble, that they corrupted government and oppressed and robbed the public. Obviously, if the people owned the railroads there would be no such abuses, and the evils of discrimination would disappear.

But his suggestion was not timely. It created a horror-stricken chill among the conservative Easterners who heard it, and Mr. Bryan quickly declared that he had not meant what he was understood to mean, but only that public ownership must follow if regulation failed.

Unquestionably the people are going to give government regulation a fair trial before bothering much about public ownership. At the same time, Mr. Bryan need not have been ashamed of his declaration for government ownership of railroads. His belief in it is shared by many of his countrymen, and many others who have not declared for it will admit that ultimately it may become necessary. At least it is a fair subject for academic discussion.

Will government regulation work? We cannot tell until we try it. But this is to be remembered: if it paid the railroads to manipulate politics and secretly influence governmental action when they were unregulated, how much greater their interest in controlling politics and government will be when the government exercises direct supervision over railroad operation.

If the railroads oppose, obstruct and defeat government regulation; if the railroads endeavor to control it by controlling political parties and public servants, and thus make it a failure; if these things happen—and who dares say that they will not happen?—then government ownership is the last resort, and it will come as inevitably as political independence replaced political tyranny, and as inevitably as economic independence must replace economic tyranny.

The demand for rain appears to be quite overcome by the copious supply, Mr. Weatherman. A word to the wise is sufficient.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"They will have a new confection in summer amusement parks and baseball games this year," said S. F. Ritchie of New York, who is at the St. Louis yesterday.

"They will serve corn on the cob this year from the little booths with their gasoline lamps. They tell me that the corn was a hit at the opening of Coney Island a few days ago. They were passing out these buttered ears by the hundreds. The hard boiled corn is smeared with soft butter by means of a paint brush, and thoroughly salted, and the young sports at Coney and their 'lady frien's' went for it like a bull pup will take to a bone.

"This summer you will probably see corn from the cob and green corn when it comes, being served up at all the summer parks, and you will stand around munching on an ear and gaping at the crowds or at 'Dare Devil Dan in His Dip of Death.'

"A new stunt at Coney this year is the 'dip.' The 'dip' is a huge bowl of smooth metal. You get in and sit on its sloping sides, and the bowl then begins to revolve. The sight is a beautiful one, especially as conversational hosiery is popular at Coney.

"Everything is 'Merry Widow' at Coney Island this year. They sing the famous waltz song about every second number at the concert halls, and it is featured on every dance program at the dancing pavilions. Then they have 'Merry Widow' hats and 'Merry Widow' drinks and even a 'Merry Widow' sandwich.

"It's the same old Coney again this year with some new trimmings, but it will always be the big popular playground for New York."

"So many theaters were built during the past few years that there are not shows enough to fill them," said Charles A. Marshall of the Lyceum theater last evening, in the course of a conversation with two advance agents and a newspaper man in the lobby of the Spalding.

"During the last few years every little city in the West has been putting up a new theater or two. During the past winter the patronage of all but the best shows has fallen off, and all the second rate companies and smaller productions have had to close. The result is that now most of the theaters in the West are open only about half of the time because they cannot get attractions enough to fill their dates."

A Child's Dream of War.

How could she know what war could mean,
Who watched the marching column's sheen,
Who heard in childhood's sweet delight
The phalanx wheel to left and right,
And saw her father ride away
To lead the charge and face the fray?
How could she know but that 'twas grand
To hear the turmoil of the land,
The drum beat and the bugle call
And banners floating over all?

So gold-locks watched the troops go by,
And saw the lordly banners fly,
And heard the waiting people cheer—
As one by one the ranks drew near,
And one by one they passed away
Far down the avenues of day,
Only at night in lonesomeness
She has no papa to caress,
No footstep came across the green—
How could she know what war could mean?

"Some day I'll know," she sighed and crept
Unto her little crib and slept,
While o'er her in her slumbers sweet—
Through hours that passed on leaden feet—
One leaned who knew full well, full well
War's awful complement of hell,
Whose heart had saddened through the day
As onward moved the troops away;
"Yes, darling, some day you will know,
God grant it may not bring you woe!"

Some day she knew. From fields of strife,
A form so fair and strong with life
At dawn, they brought at eventide
Back to the sweet old fireside,
Buckler and sword upon his breast
Were crossed. His white brow wore a crest

Of scarlet furrowed deep where sped
A vagrant messenger of lead.
His bier with the fair flag was stoled,
Mantling the soldier, fold on fold.

No drum beat in the crowded street,
No note of bugle sounding sweet,
No cheering throngs along the road—
Alone the bearers bore their load,
Silent and full of pity then,
They felt God's sorrow, men to men;
And little gold-locks, who had seen
Only the splendor and the sheen,
Of war, to sudden wisdom grew,
Kissed the cold lips, and then she knew.

But Will They Do It?

Cleveland Plain Dealer: With a little practice almost everybody can learn to say "Conservation of our natural resources."

Where Is the Tariff?

Milwaukee Journal: Immense herds of deer caribou emigrated from Minnesota to Canada a few years ago. Now they are reported as coming back. Bands are continually crossing the line in the vicinity of Warroad. Must we endure all this? Not a cent of duty has one of them paid. Our native deer threatened by the pauper deer of Canada. Executioner Cannon, do your duty.

THE WEATHER.

It was fine weather again this morning; sky clear, sun bright and temperature warm, though the fresh west wind kept it from getting hot. The weather man expects fair weather tonight and tomorrow, without any great change in temperature. Last night's lowest temperature was 40 degs. and yesterday's highest was 66 degs.

A year ago today a northeaster was on and it was foggy and cool.

The sun rose this morning at 4:24 and sets tonight at 7:44, making 15 hours and 20 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Light to copious rains fell during Thursday or last night over the Red River, upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys, lake region, Atlantic states, Oregon, Washington and Western Montana, attending a barometric depression central this morning over Manitoba, and temperatures have also risen throughout most of the Southwest. The barometer continues high over New England states and off the Oregon-Washington coast. It is somewhat cooler this morning over upper Mississippi valley states. Generally fair weather may be expected in this locality during tonight and Saturday."

POINTED REMARKS.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Why do women enjoy weeping at a matinee?" said he.

"I don't know," answered she. "Why do men enjoy getting angry at the umpire?"

Houston Post: "Yes," said the landlady, "a man must be proud who has risen from nothing."

"That's so," replied the star boarder looking sourly at the table, "but no man likes to sit down to it."

Chicago Tribune: The isthmus mosquitoes gathered enthusiastically around the genial secretary of war.

"Here's a candidate," they hummed, "exactly to our liking."

At the succeeding banquet it was agreed by all present that a very enjoyable time was had.

Chicago Tribune: "What do you do," asked the fair bridge player, whispering to the man sitting behind her, "when you have a hand like that?"

"I generally swear," he answered.

Philadelphia Press: "It's hard," said the sentimental landlady, at the dinner, "to think that this poor little lamb should be destroyed in its youth just to cater to our appetites."

"Yes," replied the smart boarder, struggling with his portion, "it is tough."

Washington tSar: "So you think it is a good idea to give your audience much in the way of statistics?" asked one campaign orator.

"Not too much. Just enough to let him rest up and get a little hungry for another anecdote."

Philadelphia Ledger: "What are you thinking about?" he asked as the hour grew late.

The girl blushed. "I was thinking of the rain," she said.

"But you blushed."

"Well, I was thinking whether to lend you an umbrella, knowing you would make it an excuse to come again, or to let you sit out the storm and have it over at one dose."

Philadelphia Press: "Lady," began Hungry Higgins, "I'd thank yer fur a meal ticket."

"Ah!" exclaimed the bright housekeeper, "you're one of these after-dinner speakers."

"Not exactly, lady, or I wouldn't be so hungry. I ain't got so much as a chestnut about me."

Democracy's Only Chance.

New York World: Mr. Bryan has had two opportunities to appeal to this non-Democratic vote and failed both times. In 1896 he had the Democratic nomination, the Populist nomination and the Silver Republican nomination, and the benefit of broken and demoralized party lines, yet his vote was less than the combined Democratic and Populist vote of 1892. In 1900 he had a similar opportunity and polled fewer votes than in 1896. If he is again the candidate in 1908 he will do worse than in 1900.

The only chance of the Democratic party this year is to present a new candidate, identified with none of the old feuds, who has no record of disaster to defend, who has proved that he can carry his own state and draw votes from the Republican ticket. Johnson has twice demonstrated this, just as Bryan has twice demonstrated that under his Populistic leadership defeat is certain.

Cincinnati Enquirer: The Hon. John A. Johnson of Minnesota, being one of the governors called into consultation on a matter that had the appearance of veriisimilitude, cut a good deal of a figure in Washington, and made an indelible impression on men who will have much to say in the Democratic national convention. He entered enthusiastically into Mr. Roosevelt's exploitation of the timber and river interests. Mr. Bryan was doubtless invited as a compliment. Anyhow, he was on hand, and advocated the proposed development. But Bryan was not a governor, and did not count for much. Mr. Roosevelt is evidently a Johnson man, so far as the Democrats are concerned; but he may have made a mistake. Governor Johnson has of late been showing a great deal of strength and the more careful and conservative opinion has been that he would make a better and more promising candidate for president than the "old commander." Governor Johnson was much swollen at Washington, and that apparently without his connivance. He simply had a commission as a governor. He has had many ups and downs as a possibility. At this writing he is decidedly uppish.

CANNON AND HIS SATELLITES.

Le Sueur News: What are the people going to do when it comes to voting for the Minnesota congressmen who sit idly by and permit Uncle Joe to be a dictator? Who placed him where he is? Who made the rules? Where were the Minnesota congressmen then and where will they be in November?

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: Joe Cannon is the most vital issue before the American people this year.

Willmar Tribune: Joe Cannon is still in session, calmly lighting his cigar now and then with one of the burning messages from Teddy.

Mankato Free Press: Joe Cannon may be a good old soul, but he is behind the spirit of the age. He fails to keep step with present day progress. He should be invited to go way back and sit down.

Cannon Falls Beacon: Either Speaker Cannon is a fool or he is a traitor to his country, and in either case he should be deposed and a man who has change of temperature of party need for legislative action and the country's need of effective laws for control of corporations elected in his stead.

Le Sueur News: It is a wise congressman who can come home from the session and show that he has done something.

Rochester Post and Record: It is stated that Speaker Cannon is costing the Republican party thousands of votes. If one were to judge by the sentiment expressed here, the estimate is low. Many a Republican congressman will be defeated next fall by Cannon. President Roosevelt has warned him of what may be expected unless there is an immediate change. It will do no good. But perhaps it may be the quickest way of getting rid of him. "Every cloud has its silver lining."

Hendrum Review: It's just like throwing water on a goose's back to approach Speaker Cannon on the subject on placing wood pulp and print paper on the free list. If "Uncle Joe" doesn't find a bunch of knockers among the newspaper men when he gets to running for the presidency then we will loose our guess.

Wahkon Enterprise: It is reported that President Roosevelt called Speaker Cannon to the White House recently and "talked turkey" to him in regard to the manner in which he is blocking progressive legislation. It's a pity the president couldn't have fired the Cannon and be done with him.

Walker Pilot: The muffled boom of the Cannon boom sounds as though it might be spiked.

Little Falls Herald: The president, with the help of 160 Democratic congressmen, and a few Republican congressmen, is trying to get Speaker Cannon to do something. It's a queer situation, but if good results are accomplished, the people won't mind the queerness.

Walker Pilot: Cannon's trust ideas aren't all on paper.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Many a weak man loves strong drink.

Not to need an excuse is far better than a poor one.

Most people wouldn't believe a candidate for office under oath.

There's takes place many a slip after the cup has been to the lip.

Marriage is a failure only when one or both parties to it are failures.

When a man starts out to paint the town the police are pretty sure to catch him red-handed.

All Depends on "Us."

Puck: The gentlemen responsible for the "Let Us Alone" slogan should be extra fastidious in the choice of their associates. They owe it to themselves to establish above suspicion the character of "Us." If by "Us" is meant honest men, attending to their business in a way interfering with no other man's rights, "Us" emphatically should be "let alone." If under the banner of "Us" march men or interests whose speciality is not honesty, whose business practices are contrary to law and to the national welfare, and who lustily join in the cry of "Let Us Alone" because they hope thereby to scare off pursuit and possible punishment, such types of "Us" should positively not be "let alone," no matter how loud they or their hirelings scream. Men whose grievance is real, whose legitimate business has been put in jeopardy by fool legislation, or threatened by blackmail thinly disguised, may safely rely on American common sense to right their wrongs, but such men should bear everlastingly in mind that they suffer not fundamentally from crude and hasty legislation, but inevitably, and in company with everyone else in the United States, from the reckless, flim-flam, public-be-damned methods of the men or interests that the law for the first time is now trying to check. These men and these methods are what now give occasion for the cry in good faith of "Let Us Alone;" not the more recent attempts of justice to cope with and to control them. It is not essential to the average man's daily existence that the forest grafters of the West be "let alone." It is not a requirement for the average man's prosperity that the parties of a secret rebate, which puts small shippers in the poorhouse, be "let alone." In order to safeguard the average man's pursuit in life it is not at all important that light-fingered financiers, private speculators with depositors' or investors' money, be "let alone." No man, no matter who he is, has rights so vital that, to perpetuate them, injustice, oppression and crime must be "let alone." No "Let Us Alone" man, who is on the level, can afford to have a crook or a hypocrite for a side partner.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Brainerd Dispatch: With a membership of over 900 and $16,000 in the treasury the Duluth Commercial club is able to do things for the city.

Hibbing Tribune: Supt. Denfeld of the Duluth public schools is out with the plan for school all the year around and forenoon sessions only. The scheme may be good pedagogics but it will never be popular. If they ever get to hear of it there will be a wail of rebellion from the "kids" and the mothers of the land will rise up and sweep Mr. Denfeld right out into the garbage. No sane mother would consent to have her offspring thrust upon her for the whole of every afternoon in the year.

North Branch Review: The St. Paul Dispatch is getting about what the Duluth News Tribune usually gets after it his vigorously supported some candidate for political honors. They are saying that it was the Dispatch's support which really defeated Mr. McKibbin for mayor of St. Paul.

Madison Independent Press: The Duluth Herald is of the opinion that the nomination of Johnson for the presidency means success for the Democrats in November. Yes, but there's the rub. Mr. Bryan is the man booked for the nomination, and, later on, defeat at the polls.

Albert Lea Times-Enterprise: The Duluth Herald thinks that the way meat is soaring in price, it will soon be a luxury for the very wealthy. Pretty near that point now!

Biwabik Times: Sometimes we feel as though the range people should support range candidates, no matter if the candidate is unfit. Duluth's propensity to hog it all grows tiresome. Come, let's get together and seize a number of the county offices and if defeated give the Democrats a vote that will cause the Duluth gang to sit up and take notice.

Aurora News: While you are passing you might notice that both the News Tribune and Evening Herald of Duluth have as nifty a pair of cartoonists as any of the dailies.

Ogilvie Sentinel: The Duluth Evening Herald is certainly a most ardent supporter of Governor Johnson in his presidential candidacy and aspirations, and is doing all within its power to promote the governor's chances for the nomination at the Denver convention. The Herald is true-blue, all through, and it is the sincere hope of every loyal and patriotic Minnesotan that its candidate—our chief executive—may emerge from the contest triumphantly victorious.

Eveleth News: The political campaign that will culminate in the fall election is on in full force in St. Louis county. The range will show Duluth a few things and will give the Duluth candidates a run for their money. The range will have a strong candidate for sheriff and perhaps for probate judge. Duluth has monopolized most of the offices long enough and a change is about due.

"A Constructive Statesman."

Chicago Inter Ocean: The Minnesota Democratic platform avowedly reflects the views on national questions of the Hon. John A. Johnson. As Governor Johnson is at least a presidential possibility, his views are of national interest.

The first notable feature of the Johnson platform, from Republican viewpoints, is its unusual caution and reserve—unusual in a Democratic platform of late years. It does not affect to find a "permanent issue." It puts forward no panaceas. It does not shriek. The word "denounce" nowhere appears.

And there appears in this Democratic platform several paragraphs which, with slight allowances for the Democratic viewpoints of the whole, would be accepted by any sober-minded Republican convention as statements of political truth and embodiments of American common sense.

It is evident that the Democratic party has found what it has looked for twelve years, a leader who looks soberly at American institutions as they are, with American eyes, despite his Democratic spectacles—a leader of the temper of Samuel J. Tilden and Grover Cleveland, and of the men who made the Democratic party one which it was at least not impossible for the people to trust with the great business of government.

The Hon. John A. Johnson of Minnesota may not be nominated for the presidency by his party. It seems hardly probable as yet. The country has been led too far the other way. Yet on the face of the record the Democrats of Minnesota, in presenting him to the Democrats of the nation, are fully justified in terming him "a constructive statesman."

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

WILL TAKE STRING WEST

Elliott & Runquist Campaigners Not to be Brought to Duluth.

Local Horsemen Anxiously Waiting for Continued Fine Weather.

The possibility of fine weather for a few days is hailed with joy by the horsemen, who have been anxiously waiting for a chance to work out their speeders on the West end track. A string of about twenty-five horses owned locally are stabled at the park, but they have been confined to their stalls for the past two weeks and the trainers have had little chance to work.

Elliott & Runquist, the heaviest owners of speed horses in Duluth and lessees of the West end park, have made a switch in their plans on account of the poor weather conditions. Instead of bringing their campaigners to Duluth from their farm at Mora, Minn., as originally intended, the string will be taken direct to Fargo and worked out on the track there preparatory to going on the North Dakota circuits in June. They will be run on the International and Central circuits, where the best racing in the Northwest will be seen this season.

Lon Matthews, who had charge of the Elliott-Runquist string at the local park last season, and, who has been at Mora all winter, will take out the campaigning string and will not be here this year. The green horses in the string, of which there are many, will be brought to Duluth, probably next week, and will be worked out on the West end track all summer under competent drivers. They may be sent out on the track next fall, providing they show sufficient ability to make them winning possibilities.

The North Dakota circuits will be played strongly this year by Duluth horsemen. C. R. Rust, Dr. McKay, Capt. Sullivan and several others have speedy ones which will be taken out and they will be given to the track at the West end for strenuous training during the next two weeks. Billy Randall has a string of seven at the track, all except one or two of which are green, and he says some of the colts are showing promise of great speed for fall campaigning. Black Chief is in fine form this year and is counted as a winner.

The Tri-State circuit meeting here will not take place until September and by that time, the horses owned locally will have swung around the International and Central circuits and will be in fine shape to go after the money. The Tri-State will have a good list with heavy purses and it is expected to revive the sport here.

World's Pennant Raised.

Chicago, May 22.—After an hour's concert, during which the teams paraded the park and raised the "world's championship" penant, won by the Chicago National league team from the Detroit Americans last fall, Chicago showed a reversal of championship form by losing to Boston 3 to 11. Mayor Busse threw the first ball from an upper box. Boston pounded the three local pitchers at will, Flaherty pitched a winning game, keeping his hits well scattered, except in two innings. SUTTER AND MILLER SIGN

Welterweight Wrestlers to Meet in Duluth Next Week.

Young Miller, St. Paul's crack welterweight wrestler, and Otto Sutter of Cleveland, Ohio, will meet on the mat at the Temple roller rink next Wednesday night in a catch-as-catch-can match scheduled to be for the welterweight championship of the United States. It is one of the biggest wrestling cards Duluth has had in some years, and the followers of the game are taking considerable interest in it.

Miller came up in a meteoric way in St. Paul during the past year. He first broke into the limelight through going against men in theater exhibitions, and it soon became evident that he had all kinds of ability. A good manager took him in hand, sent him against all comers in the welterweight division and he has never been beaten. St. Paul sports believe that he cannot be thrown by anyone his weight, and they will back him heavily against the Cleveland boy.

Sutter blew into Duluth a couple of weeks ago with a record of victories a yard long. He has met everybody of any consequence in the welterweight class, and Fred Bartle, the welterweight champion of the world, failed to throw him in thirty-five minutes. Sutter has been working out in No. 1 fire hall, with Martin Johnson and Charlie Sutter, his brother, and those who have seen him work say he has all kinds of science and strength to spare. He believes he can throw Miller, and he found no trouble in finding local backers.

FAVORITES ARE BEATEN.

Long Shots Win Choice Stakes on Oakland Track.

Oakland, May 22.—Yada was heavily backed to win the first race at Oakland yesterday, but the best the favorite could do was to be second to Marwood. In the second event Mintal English got away well and won handily from Middie. The Milbrae handicap resulted in a victory for Entre Nous, the longest shot of the race.

AUTO ROAD TO BRANCH

Boat Club Members Will be Able to Go in Machines.

Half Mile of Construction From Highway to Club House.

The construction of a road from the main highway between West Duluth and New Duluth to the Spirit Lake branch of the Duluth Boat club is considered feasible by officers of the club, who made a trip this week to look over the situation. About a half mile of construction would be necessary at the nearest point of the main road to the branch and the cost would be insignificant in consideration of the benefit to be gained.

The road is designed to be a means for automobiles to gain access to the branch, the lack of which is one of its disadvantages at present. It can only be reached by water and many of the members of the club are anxious to make the trip in their machines. The matter has been discussed for some time, and when it comes up again, the officers will put their seal of approval on it and will probably order the construction. The plans will be carried out within a short time, so that the road will be completed by the time the branch is formally opened.

The barnch, which was established only last season, will be a popular feature of the club this season. It is ideally located for outing purposes and found favor with the club members as soon as it was opened last year. The cafe enables the members to spend any amount of time there, the cottages providing accommodations for the night.

The club will feature week-end excursions to the branch house, providing transportation accommodations by water. The new road will give the automobile owners means of making a pleasant trip and it will be used extensively. A fast motor boat will also make trips from West Duluth for the accommodation of members.

And then came the deluge. The fans wait patiently for the first clash between the men of O'Dea and Morrow's crowd, for the series which has now been cut to five games, will be the real test of the ability of the Sox. They just about held their own with Winnipeg. They lost the big end of the series, but showed that they could wallop the Maroons at times, and they measure up just about evenly.

Brandon, however, has taken five straight games from Bill McNeil's Fargo outfit. Fargo was lamentably weak. Whether Brandon's victories were due to Fargo's weakness or Brandon's strength is a question. The series with Duluth will answer it. Duluth and Winnipeg are about even and set the standard for the league. Brandon either runs ahead of the standard, or Fargo falls away off, and the final series of both teams in Canada will tell which is true.

A shakeup is promised in the Sox when they return home. On the showing in the Winnipeg series the club needs strengthening. Stickers are wanted, and wanted badly, and they will be secured if there are any lying loose around the country. The team batted .250 in the series at the Manitoba metropolis. Either they have not found their batting eyes, or they cannot stick, and a few more games will prove one of the contentions.

Al Cummings can be secured and Eddie Wills has already been added to the staff, the pitching department will be helped out considerably. Schmiler has been subjected to dismissal proceedings already, and one of the other pitchers will probably get it also. Krick is pitching well and will stick. There will be one or two changes in the infield and a similar number in the outfield, and the team that will face Winnipeg here for the opening series will be materially different from that which dropped the big end of the series just completed.

Walter Griffin's pipe has clean done gone out. Young Mike O'Keefe, whose postoffice address is Superior, Wis., poured a whole bucket of water into the tobacco receptacle, and, to make it good, jammed a wad of asbestos into the end that carries the fire. Mastah Griffin is much disappointed.

It happened this way. Mr. Griffin, who has been fighting in and around Duluth for some time, invaded the East and made a trip up into Canada with wonderful success. When he returned to the Zenith City, the followers of the fight game, who saw him work, thought they had a regular mint on their hands. Walter was run into a couple of exhibitions and showed more class than Colin in a field of green 3-year-olds. They were fighting Walter up the ladder, always with a big purse and much betting for a fight with Joe Clements in sight.

O'Keefe was picked for the semi-finals, which were pulled off at Virginia the other night. He was a dead sure thing for the black. Nothing to it but a few wallops and Dreamland for the Hibernian. But the gentleman from Hibernia slipped one over to Walter's jaw, and Griffin had a few visions that weren't on the cards. The lights went out and the crowd went home. Walter is in deep, dark, dank despair, and Joe Clements is fairly hungering for an opponent. Poor Walter.

"Never bet on anything that can talk," is an old adage among the wary followers of sport, and it's good advice in a large number of cases. Of all sports where talkers may chin to their own advantage, wrestling is the worst, for it is the most easily faked and the hardest to detect.

This Young Miller-Otto Sutter match, which is to be staged next Wednesday night, can be nothing but "on the square," when the situation is sized up. They are both little more than boys starting in at the game. They have never been defeated, and can't afford to lose by agreement. They are dead in earnest, with honors more at stake than money. The reputation of neither is made, and only the man with a settled reputation can afford to lie down on the mat. Good wrestlers are too plentiful for chances to reach the top to be spoiled by a fool agreement.

The prospects of a good, square wrestling match for Duluth is refreshing. The Duluth followers of the game would shy at Gotch and Beell. They have seen them. But Miller and Sutter come from different sections of the country, have hundreds of friends who are aiding them in honest endeavors to reach the top in their own class, and would kill themselves off forever by attempting anything that isn't strictly in the sport. The boys are both good, as their victories show, and the match is one of the best sport cards Duluth has had served up in many a day.

WHITEHEAD TO MEET ULLRICH

Duluth Middleweight Will Probably Fight Pride of Superior.

Walter Whitehead, the colored middleweight, will probably meet Curley Ullrich at Thief River Falls within a week or two. Negotiations are on, and if the promoters of the match meet Whitehead's terms, he will stack up against the Superior man.

Whitehead has ability in the ring, and has showed it several times. He fought a fine draw with Tom McCune at Ely a few weeks ago and has kept in fine condition since.

Curley Ullrich is a great card at Thief River Falls. He has beaten several good men there, and the fight fans think he cannot be beaten at his weight. Whitehead has a wallop in either hand and plenty of science, and Curley will probably receive a tap on the jaw that will spell quietus.

POOR SCORES IN SINGLES

Five-Man Teams Postpone Games in Bowling Tournament.

The five-man games scheduled in the city handicap bowling tournament for last night were postponed and some of the singles went on instead. Street, Mitchell, Burke and Smith rolled, but they failed to come within striking distance of the high scores held by Berini and Sam Olsen. The scores follow:

Street, 0	179	193	211—583
T. S. Mitchell, 15	143	169	185

NOLAN IN GREAT GAME.

Canfield is in Bad Way in Handicap Pool Match.

The ninth block of 100 points in the handicap pool match at the Central billiard hall was won by Nolan last night, who scored 137 balls and caught up to his mark, while Canfield was running 95. The total score is: Canfield, 895; Nolan, 675.

Nolan probably played the best game of his life. He made almost impossible shots, and, while Canfield practically had the match won before the game, he is now in a doubtful position. If Nolan is in the same form tonight, he will win easily as he must score but 75 while Canfield is scoring 105. Nolan made runs of 18, 25 and 31. The last match will be played tonight and if Canfield fails to score 105 before Nolan pockets 75, he will forfeit $20 under the terms of the match.

RUBE WITH UNION LEAGUE.

Eccentric Pitcher is Claimed by the Outlaw Organization.

Philadelphia, May 22.—President Lawson of the Union League of baseball clubs made the announcement today that "Rube" Waddell, who refused to go to Boston Wednesday with the St. Louis American league team, has signed a contract with the Philadelphia team of the Union league.

Thousand Miles on Wheel.

London, May 22.—T. A. Fisher of London has broken the world's record for road cycling, covering a thousand miles in 91 hours, 1 minute, lowering the previous record by twelve hours.

Lennon Buys Suggs.

St. Paul, May 22.—President Lennon of the St. Paul baseball club yesterday bought Pitcher George Suggs of the Detroit Americans. He played last year with the Memphis team.

Brandon Club Officers.

Brandon, May 22.—The first annual meeting of the shareholders of the Brandon Baseball club was held this week, and the following directors were elected: W. G. Weatherstone, A. H. McInnis, R. J. Smith, W. Cameron, J. Dillon, H. Maley, D. Latimer. At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were elected: President, W. G. Weatherstone; vice president, Dr. Latimer; treasurer, P. Maley; secretary, Rupert Magee.

THE PRESIDENT MAY RETALIATE

May Veto Buildings Bill if Other Measures Are Not Passed.

Washington, May 22.—President Roosevelt already has "taken notice" of the $32,000,000 public buildings bill, although that measure is still in conference between the two houses of congress. He has asked Secretary Cortelyou to prepare a report on the measure to guide him in determining whether to sign or to veto it. Mr. Cortelyou is asked to include in his report, first, whether the condition of the public funds justifies so large an expenditure for public buildings at this time; second, the amount of future expenditures which will be made necessary to complete the new projects authorized in the measure, and, third, an opinion based on the expert judgment of the supervising architect of the treasury as to the necessity for each of the projects provided for.

That there is a connection between the president's desire to be fully informed as to the public buildings bill and his desire to have passed an anti-injunction bill, and also his desire to have bills passed appropriating subsidies for ocean steamers, is declared to be most obvious. It is conceded that no measure passed at this session is more toothsome to members of both houses than the public buildings bill.

The prospect of having this bill vetoed would cause emphatic concern and alarm. Meanwhile, the president is continuing his personal work with members to induce action on the anti-injunction proposition and to persuade house members that the senate subsidy provision contained in the post-office appropriation bill should be accepted. The report, which Secretary Cortelyou will lose no time in preparing, will undoubtedly be convincing along its designed lines.

POST CARD NOVELTY.

Plate-Marked Oilette Cards Unique for Beauty of Design.

Raphael Tuck & Sons Co., New York, have issued a special post card novelty for 1908. They are "plate-marked oilette" post cards—real gems of art—in which the "oilette" process is seen to the greatest perfection. Each little subject is set in a plate-marked center, on specially prepared stout board, with wide margin, imprinted with little and appropriate quotations, forming an exquisite mounted miniature picture in delightful colors. These "plate-marked oilette" post cards represent the very latest artistic cards, as unique for beauty of design as for quality of workmanship. They more than uphold Tuck's acknowledged superiority in the post card trade of the world.

BUILDS 26-INCH BLOCK.

Shoemaker at Reno, Nevada, Erecting Three-Story Building.

Reno, Nev., May 22.—On a plot, twenty-six inches wide, a three story building, the narrowest for its height in the world probably, is being constructed on Center street. It will not be used as a convention hall. Neither Mr. Taft nor Mr. Bryan could enter the door to acknowledge his nomination, although Mr. Fairbanks might. It is not intended for a millinery shop for "Merry Widow" hats, and it will not be a saloon as there is no room to stagger in it. H. C. Gordon, a shoemaker, leased the ground from the bank and built the slim structure. He sleeps on the top floor and cannot turn around on his cot. His narrow bench is on the second floor. Customers slide into his store on the ground floor and in his show window he displays one at a time, a Chicago pair of shoes.

NO REDUCTION IN PRICE OF STEEL

The Result of a Conference of Representative Manufacturers.

New York, May 22.—That there is to be no reduction in the price of steel was the statement made by F. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, yesterday, after a prolonged meeting of representative steel men from all sections of the country.

Last night the visiting steel men were entertained at a banquet by the United States Steel corporation. The meeting, which had been scheduled for today, to further consider the scale of prices, has been cancelled.

Judge Gary's statement follows: "At a meeting of representatives of the principal manufacturers of steel in this country, the opinion was expressed by each one present that the prices of steel are reasonable and should not be reduced; that reduced, prices would not increase purchases; and that most of their customers do not expect or desire any change. The opinion was unanimous that the meetings should be discontinued for the summer months, unless the chairman should deem it advisable to meet at any time for reasons which did not now appear."

ANTI-INJUNCTION BILLS.

S.S.S. RIDS THE SYSTEM OF CATARRH

Even in its early stages Catarrh is a most distressing ailment, caused by the stuffy feeling in the head, ringing noises in the ears, watery eyes, difficult breathing, continual "hawking and spitting," etc., but when the blood becomes thoroughly saturated with the impurities which produce the disease it becomes a serious and often dangerous disorder. Then the bronchial tubes are attacked, the bladder and kidneys diseased, and often the lungs become affected by the constant passage of impure blood through them and Catarrh terminates in Consumption. The impurities and poisons in the blood which produce Catarrh can never be removed through the use of sprays, inhalations, washes, etc. Such treatment cannot reach the real cause, and their use alone should never be depended on to cure the disease. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter. It goes down and attacks the disease at its head, in the circulation, and removes every trace of the impurity that is causing the trouble. Then as rich, purified blood is carried to all parts of the system the symptoms gradually leave, the health is improved, and S. S. S. makes a permanent cure of the trouble. Special book on Catarrh and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER

HAVE NEGLECTED TO TRY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

The One Remedy Particularly Suited For the Most Common Feminine Ills.

To women who suffer, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold. At special periods a woman needs medicine to regulate her blood supply or her life will be a round of pain and suffering. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are of untold value to women at such times, for they increase that portion of the blood which absorbs oxygen, the great supporter of organic life. In this way they may be said to make new blood. They are good for men, too, but are adapted in a special way to the needs of women and growing girls.

Mrs. Florence O. Bloom of Sullivan, Ill., whose husband is a superintendent for the Illinois Bridge and Iron company, says that from her fourteenth year to her eighteenth she was in a miserable condition, suffering from weakness common to women.

She continues: "I was in bed for months, and for a long time could barely drag myself around. My blood was poor, my nose bled very often and I had a very fickle appetite. Each month I suffered from agonizing pains, with my knees drawn up to my stomach. It was necessary to give me morphine to relieve the pain. I ran down in weight from 140 pounds to 90 pounds in less than a year. I began to despair of ever getting well, and I was indeed but a wreck of my former self.

"I was under the care of local physicians for nearly three years, but grew worse under their treatment. Then we learned of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through our druggist. My mother urged me to try them, but I had given up all faith in medicine. However, I tried the pills and found, to my astonishment, that they relieved the pain some. I continued to use the pills and gained rapidly, and today I am in still perfect health, never having had a sick spell of any consequence since.

"I willingly tell of my cure for the benefit of anyone suffering as I did. It is a duty I owe to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for I gained health from them when death seemed inevitable."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. They are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drug and cannot injure the most delicate system.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Barns and Livestock Destroyed by Fire Resulting.

Blue Earth, May 22.—One of the worst electrical storms ever experienced in this section passed east over this country Wednesday evening. Six barns and one house are reported to have been struck by lightning. The barn of Dr. McLaughlin in this city was hit by a bolt and burned; also the burn of R. Underdahl, costing $2,000, was burned and seventeen head of stock perished.

NEVER CLAIMED MONEY.

Bank in Liquidation Sends Coin to State Auditor.

St. Paul, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. G. Iverson, state auditor, has received from the Pipestone County Bank of Pipestone, now in liquidation, $410 which was deposited in the bank Aug. 10, 1893, on a certificate of deposit due in six months, and which never had been claimed. The deposit is in the name of C. F. Howell, and his present whereabouts are unknown to the bank.

The money will remain in the hands of the state auditor, and unless claimed within ten years, it will escheat to the state under section 2970 of the revised statutes of 1905.

CITY IS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR CLOCKS DESTROYED.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 22.—City Attorney John T. Kelly holds in an opinion that the city is under no obligation to pay for street clocks destroyed in the midnight raid of former Mayor Becker on March 5. W. E. Schmidt & Co., had a clock damaged and presented a claim for $500. Mr. Kelly holds that the clock "was subject to summary removal and abatement being an obstruction to the street, notice to remove which had been formally given."

LISBON, N. D., HOTEL IS DESTROYED BY FIRE.

The furniture was valued at $6,000, with insurance of $4,000. The owner, C. E. Horton, had leased the building to F. F. Farrar of New England, whose losses amount to $1,500. It was the only hotel in the city, and citizens are already planning to build a new structure.

Can You Tell Time By Your Stomach?

Dr. Spaar, the noted stomach specialist, says that any healthy person can tell the time of day by their stomach. He explains by saying that it is a sub-conscious feeling due to the activity of the healthy nerves of the stomach calling for food. He says dyspeptics or people with any stomach disorder cannot tell time by an hour or two. When questioned as to the prevalence of stomach disorders, he stated that probably fifty per cent of adults and twenty per cent of all children have dyspepsia in some form. The symptoms are distress after eating, fickle appetite, heartburn, heart palpitation, headache, dullness, languor, weakness and nervousness. No better treatment can be found than this, relieving quickly and supplying plenty of digestive fluids: Get two ounces of syrup of Ginger, two ounces of essence of Pepsin and one ounce Comp. essence of Cardiol. Mix, shake thoroughly and take one or two teaspoonfuls after each meal. A spoonful before eating will induce a good appetite. Very fine for old people and children with weak, sickly stomach, and can be used freely without creating any drug habit. Most stomach nostrums contain opium, but this is pure extracts and essences.

CAUGHT NEAR DEER RIVER

Two Alleged Horse Thieves From Southern Minnesota Taken.

One, Entangled in Matrimonial Alliance, Fleeing From Woman.

Mankato, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Knapp and Frank Phillips, the men who were brought back from Brainerd yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Donahue and Deputy Sheriff Phillips, were arraigned upon two warrants, later in the afternoon, each charging them with grand larceny in the second degree, George W. Sugden being the complaining witness in each case. They pleaded not guilty to both charges, and their preliminary hearing was set for May 25 at 9 a. m. and in default of $300 bail each they were committed to the county jail.

The men left Madison Lake about the time of the robbery and drove 255 miles with a horse and buggy belonging to Phillips. They had reached the lumbering district, and the stolen goods were found in a lumber camp near Deer River, and the men were arrested near there. Knapp is a resident of Madison Lake, but Phillips hails from North Dakota.

A Little Romance.

There is said to be a little romance connected with Phillips' presence in Madison Lake. It is related that he had a correspondence with a widow living near there, and that it was arranged that he was to come there and if he was satisfied with her he was to marry her. It is said that when he arrived he considered her to be out of his class on account of her age, and that he then proposed that she settle with him for $1,000, on account of the trouble and expense that he had been to, and his disappointed feelings, etc. She did not have the money, but did give him what she had, which was $4.70, so it is related. He then left with Knapp.

NOTED DIVINE CALLED BEYOND

Rt. Rev. Abbot Edelbrock, Leading Minnesota Churchman, Dead.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rt. Rev. Alexius Edelbrock, O. S. B., former abbot of St. John's Abbey, died at the rectory of St. Anselm's church, New York city last Monday, after a long period of infirmity and illness.

With the passing of the Rt. Rev. Alexius Edelbrock, the community at St. John's loses one of its most distinguished and energetic superiors. Last week word was received that the esteemed prelate was failing, but no one anticipated that the end was so near. His remains will arrive in Collegeville today, where the obsequies will be held Saturday morning, interment to be made in St. John's cemetery. A large delegation of the clergy of the abbey and diocese will be in attendance.

Rt. Rev. Abbot Edelbrock was born in Duelmen, Westphalia, Sept. 12, 1843. At the age of 5 he emigrated with his parents to this country, remaining in Indiana three years. Here he lost his mother, and Mr. Edelbrock with his second wife and Alexius removed to New Vienna, Iowa, in 1853. Soon after the family left for Minnesota, settling in St. Cloud where in company with the Hon. J. P. Wilson they became the founders of the Granite City.

Rev. Alexius studied for the priesthood in Philadelphia and Canada. Returning to St. John's in 1867 he made solemn vows and was ordained priest by Bishop Grace of St. Paul, on Sept. 30 of the same year. From 1867-1857 he was president of St. John's college and after Bishop Steidenbusch had been appointed vicar-apostolic of Northern Minnesota in 1875 Father Alexius was elected second abbot of St. John's abbot. Since 1889 he has been laboring in New York and founded St. Anselm's church and was busy up to the time of his death gathering funds for a parochial school. In ecclesiastical circles he was widely known and was appointed president during the third plenary council of Baltimore in 1884.

SOLD "DOCTORED" OLEO.

Nicollet Island Individual Punished for His Crime.

St. Paul, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state dairy and food department is gratified with the prompt conviction of A. J. Olson, a Minneapolis man accused of peddling throughout the Twin Cities oleomargarine color with coal-tar dye to represent dairy butter. He lives at 24 Maple place, Nicollet island, where forty packages of the "doctored" oleo was seized. It has since been destroyed on the order of the court by an agent of the department.

Olson was guilty of several offenses. It is illegal to sell "oleo" as butter; it is illegal to sell oleo colored to represent butter; and it is also illegal to use coal-tar dye in coloring any food product.

BANNER FISH STORY.

Sturgeon So Large It is Mistaken for a Log.

Neenah, Wis., May 22.—While fishing near the dam on the Fox river, James Durvin, aged 13, stuck his spear into what appeared to be a log. Before he could move, he had been jerked into the water and was nearly drowned before assisted to safety. Instead of a log the object speared was a monster sturgeon, which, when finally caught with the spear still sticking in it, was found to measure 73 inches in length and weighed over 200 pounds. The fish is the largest seen in these waters for many years. The combined efforts of three men were required to carry it home.

HIS DEATH ACCIDENTAL.

John Thorp, Having Sister Here, Did Not Commit Suicide.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The latest theory respecting the death of John Thorp, who was found dead in the jail at Ladysmith, is that he did not commit suicide by hanging, but that death resulted from accidental strangulation.

Thorp, who had been incarcerated in the jail at Ladysmith, was found dead in his cell Tuesday morning when the officer in charge went to give him his breakfast. At first sight it appeared to the observers to be a case of suicide and such was the story sent out.

When the body arrived here yesterday, though, more facts came out, and on the death certificate strangulation was given as the cause of demise. It is said the body was found in the bunk with the head entangled in a chain in such a manner as to shut off respiration, and that it was very possible the man got into the fatal position accidentally.

The deceased is survived by two brothers in this city. Ole, who lives over the schoolhouse on Fulton street, and Andrew, who resides on Balcom street, also a sister in Duluth.

LAUNCH NEW BOAT.

"Flying Dutchman" Takes Water on Little Pine Lake.

Perham, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new launch "Flying Dutchman" built this winter by Messrs. Herman Schmidt, George Schoneberger, Louis Johnson and Emil Keerbs was launched on Little Pine lake this week. The exercises at the launching was extremely impressive, but was successful. Herman Schmidt has been elected captain of the party, while the other members belong to the crew. The colors are gray, each member having natty gray suits and caps to match. The club is looking for a suitable place on which to build a house, and it is their intention to add new members during the season. Their motto is "gesundheit."

DRUMMER'S HARD LUCK.

Recovers Pocketbook, But $100 in Cash is Missing.

New York Mills, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. C. Mieckelson, a traveling man who travels for the Simmons Hardware company, got off the train here a few days ago to be ready for the next day's work, and his pocketbook came out of his pocket accidentally and fell on the platform and he did not miss it until the next morning. Christ Kimberlin found it on the platform all water soaked, there being a rain during the night. There was about $100 in the pocketbook with some other papers, also one check for $25 from his house payable to him. The money and check had disappeared, evidently some one having seen the pocketbook and noted its contents and just removed the money and check and laid it back for some one else to find.

LAWSUIT MAY RESULT.

Red River Farmers and Logging Company Are Outs.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A recent freshet in the Red Lake river may result in an interesting lawsuit for damages. Recently the high water in the river was forced by a jam of logs about four miles south of Thief River Falls to cut a new channel. This it did in a complete and satisfactory manner for the river, but not for the owners of the million feet of logs, that were left high and dry in the original bed of the river and half a mile from the stream in its new course. The East Grand Forks Lumber company, the owners of the logs, has had a large crew of drivers endeavoring to haul the logs to the water, but the work is exceedingly difficult and has been abandoned. Hans Jacob Hanson is the owner of the land through which the river now runs. An effort was made by the company to dam the river at its new outlet, but this was found to be impracticable, for it had cut clear through the soil to the hardpan and the expense would have been excessive. The farmer claims heavy damages from the company for hauling logs across his land and he has forced the drivers to desist from further work in this direction. Those farmers along the old course are also disappointed at the action of the river, as they have large and costly farm homes erected along the water course, building there on purpose to take advantage of the river for stock etc. A solution of the problem has not been found to date and the valuable logs, if permitted to remain out of water for the season, will become of much less value by reason of worms. It is probable that the courts will be called on to determine the rights of all concerned.

DOCTOR SOLD LIQUOR.

He Must Stand Punishment for Violating the Law.

Ada, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state supreme court having affirmed the judgment of the district court in finding Dr. Budworth of Shelly guilty of selling liquor illegally, the accused will have to take his punishment. When Budworth was convicted last fall Judge Grindeland suspended sentence pending appeal, but as the lower court has been affirmed the doctor will be brought before the judge today or tomorrow to be sentenced.

STORM WAS TERROR.

Wednesday's Visitation of Elements Worst Ever at Minot.

Minot, N. D., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The storm that visited this section Wednesday was the worst on record. So many electric wires were blown down that electric power was shut off and the newspapers had to resort to old time hand setting in order to get out at all.

The storm was one of the worst that has ever visited Minot. The rain, sleet and wind has raised havoc with the wires. Several large telephone poles on the hill were blown down. Telephone and electric wires were in a chaotic stage and while the men were trying to disentangle them it was necessary to discontinue the power.

DORMITORY'S CLOSE CALL.

Struck by Lightning, Fire Smolders for Several Hours.

Owatonna, Minn., May 22.—Lightning struck Kelly hall, the boys' dormitory of Pillsbury academy, a four-story building, Wednesday night. The bolt hit the fire escape at the roof, running along the iron and entered a third-room by one of the iron braces. There was a bed against the wall at that place and the lightning set the mattress on fire.

The occupant of the bed, Clarence Dahl, a 12-year-old boy from Brownsville, Minn., was awakened about 11 o'clock by the smoke and went into another cadet's room to sleep, closing his own door. The fire smouldered until 6:30 a. m., yesterday, when it was discovered and put out.

The room was gutted, but the building being fireproof, no damage was done elsewhere.

The same boy was knocked out of a chair last year by lightning. It is considered a miracle that he was not killed last night.

There was about 300 boys in the dormitory, and had the building not been fireproof, several lives would probably have been lost.

HELD FOR DAMAGES.

Acquitted of Attempted Murder, Assailant Faces Civil Suit.

Marquette, Mich., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Tempery, who was acquitted by the jury in the circuit court Tuesday after being tried on the charge of attempting to murder Ed Raymond, is now held in the county jail on a civil suit for $5,000 damages instituted by Raymond, who wants to recover for the injury he sustained, loss of time, expense incurred, etc. Tempery's stay in the jail is indefinite, as the case was brought under a statute that permits him to be held as long as the plaintiff pays his jail board, he failing to adjust the claim.

HANGING IN ROOTHOUSE.

Prosperous Farmer, Living Near Calumet, Takes His Life.

Houghton, Mich., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Olaf Pietela, a prosperous farmer living near Calumet, was found dead last night, hanging by a rope from the roof of a roothouse on his farm. It is supposed the man was demented. Pietela was 45 years old, and leaves a large family.

Pond erected at Lake Calhoun, the first house in what is now Minneapolis. The tablet is finished by the Native Sons of Minnesota. WILLMAR MADE HAPPY OVER FEDERAL BUILDING.

Willmar, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Willmar is to have a government building, a fine building erected by the Federal government for the use of the postoffice, and possibly for other purposes. Congressman Volstead succeeded in securing an appropriation of $50,000 for building and site. It was included in the omnibus appropriation bill which was reported last Thursday and passed by congress last Friday. A telegraphic message from Congressman Volstead to Postmaster Crosby Friday afternoon confirmed the good news.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Waukesha—Mrs. Terrie M. Sumner, aged 64, the only woman member of the Waukesha county bar is dead of heart disease at the Wallbridge house, where she was residing. Mrs. Sumner was formerly Terrie M. Meahl and was born in the town of Genesee, where her father, John Meahl, was an early pioneer. Mrs. Sumner was admitted to the bar, Dec. 20, 1890.

Chippewa Falls—Four stringent ordinances relating to the regulation of saloons have been introduced in the city council. They provide for the closing of saloons at 11 o'clock p. m. week days and all day Sunday; and for screen in doors and windows during closing hours.

Appleton—Fire started from some cause as yet unknown, broke out in the Appleton Toy factory and before it was placed under control by the fire department, had badly damaged the stock and buildings. The loss is estimated at $8,000 to $10,000.

Beloit—Because indications are that large numbers of residents of Rockford, Ill., which went dry at the spring election, will come to Beloit for week-end sprees, the Beloit council is now at work on an ordinance to raise the license fee from $500 to 1,000.

Rice Lake—John Johnson, watchman for the Milling company, was found dead in a car of wheat Wednesday morning. The coroner's jury verdict was heart trouble. He was an old soldier, and former alderman.

Milwaukee—While engaged in a search for her husband, against whom she was prepared to swear out a warrant for non-support, Mrs. J. S. Dodge of Milwaukee dropped dead on the street in Chicago Monday night. The woman lived in Milwaukee and two years ago went to St. Louis. Her husband deserted her there. It is alleged, and she and her children came to Milwaukee.

Ashland—John Mattias and Mat Gugoluoski, implicated in a fight at Mellen, in which Officer Parks was stabbed while trying to separate the two men, were brought to the county jail at Ashland and locked up. They will be held until the extent of the officer's injuries are known. He will probably recover soon.

DENIES HE IS RICH.

Senator Hansbrough Says Story is Campaign Lie of Enemies.

Fargo, N. D., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—United States Senator Hansbrough prints a communication in a local paper denying the report that he is worth $300,000 or $400,000, which he alleges is being claimed by his enemies who are circulating the report to injure his candidacy for re-election. He alleges that the backers of C. B. Little, the Bismarck candidate for senator, are industriously circulating the report against him, adding that they have spent enough corporation money to enrich a dozen men."

Continuing he says:

"I take this means of denying the truth of the evil report and challenging my traducers to prove their charge. I will assist them in every way possible way in getting at the facts. I will turn over to them for inspection my check and bank books (and it will not take long to examine them), and my keys to all trunks or boxes that I may have; will give them an accurate inventory of all my property of whatever kind, and if when they are through with the investigation they find that I am worth as much as 10 per cent of the amount they claim I am worth, I will donate one-half of it to any charity they may name.

"I am not making a money campaign. I am going to the people for their support upon the belief that they will sustain me upon merit and upon my record. I have no corporation affiliations whatever, and am not and will not be under the control of any political boss."

GRAND DUKE NOVELIST

Cousin to Czar is Author of "Never Say Die."

Is a Popular Man in England—Banished From Home.

London, May 22.—Probably the czar is awaiting eagerly an advance copy of a novel that will be published in England this week, for the author is his cousin, the exiled Grand Duke Michael, the first of the mighty Domanoff family to venture into fiction, and it is hinted that the book will contain more than a little autobiographical matter. Its title is "Never Say Die."

Of course, it will be said that his royal highness got a secretary to write the novel with him—but, as a matter of fact, he didn't. I have it on the best authority that the grand duke wrote every word of that novel with his own hand, and that until it was ready for publication, no one saw it except his wife, the beautiful and brilliant Countess Torby. He wrote most of it at his English country seat, Keele Hall, and then went to his villa in Cannes on the Rivera, to read the proofs.

Great care has been taken that none of the contents of the book should leak out in advance, but the publishers, Collier & Co.—of which firm Hall Caine's son, Ralph, is the head—have now permitted the publication of the rather remarkable introduction to the book, which, like the rest of the story, was written originally in English and has not yet been translated into Russian. This introduction is such an unusual sort of thing for a royal highness to write that it is worth quoting in full, and is as follows:

Reasonable Preface.

"Belonging as I do to the imperial blood, and being member of one of the reigning houses, I should like to prove to the world how wrong it is in thinking—as the majority of mankind are apt to do—that we are the happiest beings on this earth. There is no doubt that financially we are well situated, but is wealth the only happiness in this world? Take, also into consideration the many official duties belonging to our position and how much more we are exposed to public opinion than simpler mortals. Which is the greatest happiness in this world? Surely, love for a woman—the choice of our future wife and family life. And even in this we have not the facilities of private individuals. We have less choice, and there is often the question of religion. So it will be easily understood what a terrible lottery marriage in our position is, and why, consequently there are so few happy unions."

Unlike most of the Russian grand dukes, this latest accession to the ranks of the novelists is one of the most popular men in England, where he has lived most of the time since his exile from Russia some seventeen years ago because of his marriage, his wife being the daughter of Prince Nicholas of Nassau by morganatic peerage with the Countess Merenberg, daughter of the famous Russian poet, Pushkin. The Countess Merenberg was, therefore, not of simon pure royal blood, although she was a niece of a king of Sweden and related to a good many other European royalties.

Sentenced to Banishment.

It was for this reason that the Czar Alexander, who controls the matrimonial affairs of the grand dukes, "forbade the banns." The Grand Duke Michael insisted, however, and was at once deprived of his grand estates and his rank in the army, and sentenced to banishment. He has a goodly private fortune, however, and probably the lovely Countess Sophie was well provided with funds also. Queen Victoria interested herself in the pair and tried to get the czar to forgive them, but he would not listen. When King Edward ascended the throne he and Queen Alexandra took the exiled grand duke and Countess Torby (as she was known after her marriage) into their intimate circle, and owing to their influence the present czar not only restored to the grand duke his title in the army, but gave him promotion in rank and rescinded the sentence of exile. He was not fully pardoned, apparently, for he never returned to Russia. Probably the Countess Torby does not wish to go until she can have the rank and position suitable to her station.

The Grand Duke Michael Michaelovitch, by the way, is not to be confused with the much-disliked Grand Duke Michael Nicholaevitch, who is often credited with being the grim power behind the throne in Russia. The new novelist, though a royal highness, puts on far less than the average rich private citizen, and the Countess Torby, unlike a good many royalties who are called beautiful ex-officio, as it were, is genuinely lovely.

The story goes that the grand duke first saw her at Cannes on a runaway horse and spurred after her and rescued her, lifting her fainting from her saddle and falling desperately in love with her there and then. They have three charming children, and are at present staying at their villa in Cannes and spending a good deal of their time playing golf.

Valued Same as Gold.

WORKS OF THE DEVIL

Are "Merry Widow" Hats and "Hipless" Skirts, Says Pastor.

Chicago, May 22.—"Merry Widow" hats, polka-dot veils, "hipless' skirts and high heels are all the devil's contrivances, says Rev. W. A. Bartlett, pastor of the First Congregational church. Here are some of Rev. Mr. Bartlett's views on fashion, with which he startled youthful members of his church:

"Do not let the world dictate to you concerning the clothes and hats you shall wear. I believe the devil uses the fashions to make fools of people, as much through these things as in what we call sins.

"Why should a good-looking Christian girl rig herself up with a hat the size and shape of a platter stuck on the back of her head, held on by a perforated mummy cloth, drawn tight across her nose and other features till her own mother would not know her from a bandaged patient waiting for the ambulance?

"She has a short skirt, which is well enough, but it reveals too often a No. 6 foot crammed into a size 3 shoe, with a two-inch heel stuck in the middle, making a gait like that of a boy who has fallen into the water with his clothes on and is making a desperate effort to walk as if he enjoyed it."

LOW WAGES IN ENGLAND.

London, May 22.—More than 100,000 railway employes in England are working at a wage of less than $5 a week. Only about 11 per cent get more than $7.50 a week.

OPEN SECRETS.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken the many users of his medicines into his full confidence. Thus too he has absolutely and completely removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them REMEDIES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION,

Dr Pierce's medicines are now in a class all by themselves--being absolutely and in every sense Non-secret.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R.V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this booklet it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, and with the use of specially designed chemical apparatus, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health.

The exact proportion of the several ingredients used in these medicines, as well as the working formula and peculiar processes, apparatus and appliances employed in their manufacture, are withheld from publicity that Dr. Pierce's proprietary rights may not be infringed and trespassed upon by unprincipled imitators and those who may be piratically inclined.

Dr. John Fyfe, of Saugatuck, Conn., Editor of the Department of Therapeutics in THE ECLECTIC REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) one of the chief ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription: "A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator and always favors a condition which makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system, cannot fail to be of great usefulness and of the utmost importance to the general practitioner of medicine."

"Helonias more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent."

"The following are among the leading indications for Helonias: Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women, constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys: menorrhagia, ("flooding") due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhea, arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and an anemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensation in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is rich in all the medical properties of Unicorn root, or Helonias.

MAY GIVE HIM TITLE

King Would Thus Honor His Friend and Ambassador Reid.

American Woman's Sons Refuse Her Request to Become Statesmen.

London, May 22.—Of course everybody's tongue is busy wagging over the coming marriage of Jean Reid and the Hon. John Hubert Ward, brother of the earl of Dudley. We all know that the latter was paying marked attentions to the American heiress, but very few of us thought that he would win out. You see, he had so many rivals possessed of ever so exalted titles and unlimited money. With the exception of the earl of Dudley himself, who is fabulously wealthy, the members of his family have not any too much of the world's goods. I know, as a matter of fact, that the daughter of the American ambassador could have had her pick of a dozen of the most eligible bachelors in the United Kingdom. I am keen to hear what Lord Acheson, Lord Dalmeny, son and heir of Lord Rosebery, and the youthful duke of Leinster, all of whom have been casting sheep's eyes in the direction of the fascinating Miss Reid, said when they heard the news.

Although I cannot say anything definite on the subject, I hear from the gossips that the king will confer a title on the prospective bridegroom. His majesty would be thus not only honoring his personal friend, but would be also paying a pretty compliment to the American ambassador and to his daughter, whom he admires very greatly. For many years the Dudleys have been on terms of the closest friendship with both the king and queen, and it is said that the Honorable John, who is equerry to the king, is his closest friend and confidant. What he doesn't know about the king's private affairs is not worth going out of the way to discover. His knowledge of what is going on about his majesty is said to surpass even that of Lord Knollys, the king's private secretary.

There is a further bond of affection between the royal family and the future husband of Jean Reid in the person of the dowager countess of Dudley, the mother of John Ward. She is an especial chum of both the king and the queen, and has a house in Richmond Park for life—a gift of the former. Incidentally she is one of the most beautiful women in English society. I understand that the king knew how matters stood for some time past, and materially assisted his equerry in his efforts to win the hand of the popular American. His majesty and Jean Reid had a long confidential chat on the subject at Biarritz a couple of weeks ago. The king is a great matchmaker, and may have had more to do with this one than either you or I can guess.

Lady Naylor-Leyland, whom you will perhaps remember as Jennie Chamberlain of Cleveland before her marriage, is having no little trouble with her son, Sir Herbert Naylor-Leyland. The fond mother has already mapped out a career for her offspring. Ever since he was old enough to understand she has been cramming him full of politics, and she intends that she shall some day be prime minister. At any rate, she has been leaving no stone unturned towards that end. But, unfortunately for this American woman's ambitions, her precocious youngster, who is but 17, has ideas of his own on the subject of a career, and has definitely and determinedly decided upon the army. He has been influenced in this by his pal, Prince Edward of Wales, future king of Great Britain, who, although he is now a cadet at the naval college, is nevertheless, destined for the army. To add to the poor mother's distracted state of mind, I hear that her second son has hit upon the navy as a career, and refuses to relinquish the idea.

Well, Lady Randy did come back from the continent to fight for her "dear little Winnie" at Manchester. Sad to relate, he was defeated in spite of her efforts. I hear that she feels his setback much more keenly than does her son and that she broke into tears on hearing the returns. Winston Churchill himself accepted defeat much as his famous father would have done, and tried to comfort his mother with a cheery "Buck up, dear; better luck next time."

The strain of campaigning landed Mrs. Cornwallis West (otherwise Lady Randolph) in bed. Winston, who is by no means strong, was also done up by the fight. He never spares himself at an election and during the strenous days at Manchester he was compelled to fortify himself with egg flips.

I don't know just how Winston's bank account stands, but I understand that his pay as a cabinet minister will come in handy to keep the wolf from the door, so to speak. For the last ten or twelve years he has worked hard in politics for the love of the work, yet a man can't be expected to go on like that forever.

At this moment, I suppose, he could have his pick of half-a-dozen heiresses for the mere asking. But "our Winston" is not a marrying man. He says he is too busy to give the gentler passions a single thought. I believe he has no inclination that way. As a matter of fact, there is no doubt that his opinion of matrimony has been colored by the experience of his cousin, the duke of Marlborough, husband of your own Consuelo Vanderbilt. Winston and he are great chums and the duke's constantly administered advice has been "Winston, old chap, keep your freedom at any price."

THE CITRUS CROP.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 22.—The total citrus crop for the season will aggregate more than 28,000 carloads. Of this, more than 5,000 were lemons. Navel oranges total 17,000 crates. Valencias something more than 4,000, and other varieties about 2,000. According to conservative calculation, the returns to growers will be $15,000,000, of which amount for hauling the fruit to market the transportation companies will divide $8,000,000.

COLONIAL TRAINING.

Berlin, May 22.—In accordance with a suggestion from the imperial German government, the senate of Hamburg has agreed to establish in that city a colonial institute for the training of officials in the colonial service and of intending settlers in German colonies.

MARKED FOR THE REAPER

About three years ago Mrs. L. Hetkes of 819 Kirkham street, Oakland, Cal., called at our office with a girl 13 years old, the latter weak and listless. She stated that she had lost a daughter through kidney disease and the doctors now told her this one was in the same fix and that she could not live but a short while.

The mother was nearly distracted. We told her that kidney disease was really inflammation of the kidneys and that it was in fact incurable under the old diuretics, all of which were kidney excitants, but that an emollient for kidney inflammation had been discovered and that the child would probably recover. The mother took the treatment with her.

We skip three years.

A few months ago Mrs. Hetkes called with a beautiful young girl, who was the very picture of health. She introduced her as the dying patient of three years ago, and told us to refer anybody in the world to her. She stated the recovery was complete about the eleventh week.

For the only emollient for inflammation of the kidneys, the world has ever seen, ask for Fulton's Renal Compound. Literature mailed free.

SUCCESS OF DRAMATIST

His Sudden Rise From Penury to $1,700 a Week.

Now Has Three Successful Comedies at London Theaters.

London, May 22.—W. Somerset Maugham's experience ought to gladden the hearts of would-be dramatists, whose number is estimated at about one-third of the total playgoing population in England and America. They say that "Mrs. Dot," which was produced here by Charles Frohman and Arthur Chudleigh at the Comedy theater on Monday night, with Marie Tempest in the title role, had been kicking about in managers' pigeonholes for three years until it had become so disreputable looking that it had to be retyped. Yet its success was assured from the first ten minutes. The first-night audience forgot to look bored and critical and "ha-ha-d" unrestrainedly, because it couldn't help itself.

This "dark-complexioned," saturnine, unromantic looking man of 30-odd now has three comedies going in fashionable London theaters, all of them big successes, and another announced by Lewis Waller; whereas, a year ago, he was almost unknown. One play of his called "A Man of Honor," had been produced and had attracted a little attention among the young "intellectuals" but had not been a financial success.

"Lady Frederick" a Great Hit.

Finally, through some lucky chance, his "Lady Frederick" was put on as a stopgap at the Court theater last autumn, with Ethel Irving in the principal part. It is safe to say that Maughan could have had a half dozen contracts to sign the very next morning if he had been so disposed. The play outlived its allotted term at the Court and moved on to the Garrick, where it also outlasted its lease, and on the same night when "Mrs. Dot" was produced at the Comedy, "Lady Frederick" moved a third time to the Criterion and apparently is going as strong as ever. A few weeks ago "Jack Straw's Castle," by Maugham, was put on, with Hawtrey in the principal part, and this likewise made an instantaneous hit.

"Lady Frederick," contracted for when the author was unknown, probably brings him only a per cent of the gross receipts, or perhaps a little over—say $400 a week net to the author. "Jack Straw's Castle" probably nets him at least $600 a week, and "Mrs. Dot" will certainly yield him $700 a week—a total of $1,700 a week from London theaters alone. American rights will soon be bringing him as much more, and the English provinces, Australia and the continent will presently add their quota. The publishers are after the lucky dramatist also for the book rights of his plays. J. M. Barrie once had three plays all making money at once in London, but with this exception, Maugham probably breaks the record.

Tree 21 Years a Manager.

Herbert Beerbohm Tree, greatest of English actor-managers and producers, just celebrated his coming of age as a manager "on his own." Twenty-one years ago he opened a season at the Comedy theater with Outram Tristram's play, "The Red Lamp"—which he still retains in his repertory, reviving it not longer than last spring—and so big a success did it prove that he was able out of the proceeds to take a lease of the Haymarket. Nine years later he built his present home, His Majesty's, with the backing, it is said, of the Rothschilds.

One of Tree's greatest distinctions is the fact that he has made Shakespeare "pay." Even Sir Henry Irving came to the conclusion during the management of the Lyceum that it was necessary, in order to furnish the funds for his gorgeous Shakesjearean productions, to alternate them with something of the nature of popular melodrama. But at His Majesty's the bard has filled the coffers, and modern authors have occasionally almost emptied them. In his courage, his almist unlimited ambition and his praiseworthy subordination of the considerations of the box office, there is a striking similarity between Mr. Tree and the late Richard Mansfield.

CHINESE ARE FRIENDLY.

Correspondent Declares Foreign Travelers Are Cordially Received.

Pekin, May 22.—A correspondent who has been traveling in Southern China for the last three months reports that everywhere he was received with that friendliness and good feeling which is now the common experience of foreign travelers in the interior of China. Two intelligent officers traveling in the adjoining provinces of Kiang-si and Ngan-hwei had an experience similar to his. He draws attention to the untrustworthy messages regarding the interior of China, periodically telegraphed from Hongkong, describing insurrections, sanguinary engagements and frontier struggles. He says that the foreign missionaries, Protestants and Catholics, who number several thousands, are distributed at short distances throughout the empire, and no serious movement of any kind could develop without their knowledge. All recent reports from inland missions are wholly favorable.

The reports of the falling health of the emperor and of the dowager empress, telegraphed abroad are insonsistent with thee xperience of Sir Robert Hart, who, in a recent private audience, found the former looking better than at any previous audience in the last four years. The latter he found older, but showing a remarkable retention of energy.

THE ANNUAL OUTPUT OF FOREST PRODUCTS.

Washington, May 22.—The annual output of forest products in the United States has been estimated by the department of agriculture as amounting to $1,200,000,000. These figures were for 1906. This compares favorably with the entire mineral output, which in the corresponding year approximated $1,750,000,000. The largest item of value in the lumber production was 40,000,000,000 board measure feet of lumber, valued at $650,000,000. Next in order was firewood, of 100,000,000 cord, valued at $350,000,000. These two items together make a billion dollars, or 83 per cent of the entire forest output.

GOSSIP OF THE CAPITAL

One of Australia's Favorite Stories Has Been Discounted.

Congressman Burke is the Banquet Idol of Pittsburg.

Washington, May 22.—Congressman Smith of the southern district of Illinois, has discounted one of Australia's favorite stories by actual experience. Australia bushmen are noted for long periods of silence. The story referred to concerns two bushmen who lived in a shanty and herded sheep. One day one bushman hearing a noise, said: "Ram's fighting."

The other took exception. "Bears," he said.

A week later the bushman who first spoke came into camp.

"It was rams, all right," he remarked.

The other began to pack his traps.

"What's a'matter?" asked the other.

"Gon'a quit this place. Too much argu'fyin'," said the other.

Congressman Smith beats this. He was campaigning in his district and was being driven about the country by a livery stable employe. They came to the banks of the Wabash. The yellow stream suggested fish. Congressman Smith, to be amiable, asked:

"Like fish?"

"Yep," answered the driver.

Nothing more was said.

The next campaign Congressman Smith was again campaigning in the same district. By chance he had the same driver, and they again came to the banks of the Wabash. The water once more suggested fish.

"How?" asked Congressman Smith.

"Fried," answered the driver.

When Congressman William P. Hubbard was elected to the house to succeed Capt. B. B. Dovener, the West Virginians predicted great things for him. Mr. Hubbard is a big, brusque man and an able corporation lawyer. His stature is imposing and he has brains enough for two ordinary men.

When William Owens Mercer Dawson was nominated for governor, Mr. Hubbard was the leader of the Dawson forces against those of Charles P. Teter of Philippi. The convention opened with the factional lines drawn sharply. There were sharp replies and bitter accusations of fraud, bribery and political trickery. Zachariah Taylor Vinson of Huntington and Judge Reese Blizzard of Parkersburg led the Teter forces. Senator Stephen Elkins was chairman. Congressman Joseph Holt Gaines was a delegate.

In the morning Dawson's name was placed before the convention, and shortly after, Teter's. Then began the battle. All afternoon the balloting went on, the delegations removing coats and vests in their enthusiasm and forgetting all about lunch and recess. Newspaper men wrote with both hands and Senator Elkins ever and anon mopped his troubled face with an enormous handkerchief and looked uncomfortable, wishing, doubtless, that he could be extricated from a most embarrassing and delicate position.

It was finally the hour of 6 in the evening and there had not been a nominee. Then one of the Teter delegates moved that the convention adjourn until the next day. The Dawsonites did not want this, because they feared they would lose strength over night. The delegate, in an impassioned appeal, stated that the delegations had been traveling all night, and they hadn't eaten for twelve hours, and that they should adjourn in the name of humanity.

"I am sure Mr. Hubbard wants to eat," shouted the delegate.

"I had rather vote than eat," said Hubbard, and the voting went on harder than ever.

One of the most approachable men, either in the upper or lower house of congress, is James Francis Burke, of Pittsburg, a Republican statesman of great fame and honor in his home town and of much esteem and respect in Washington. Mr. Burke is the friend of every newspaper man who desires an interview or a bit of information.

In Pittsburg Mr. Burke might be termed the banquet idol or the king of after-dinner speakers. He takes the place of Chauncey Depew in his home town, and no big public function is complete unless the kindly face of the lawyer-congressman is present.

Mr. Burke used to be a newspaper man before he became a lawyer. Perhaps his political faculty has something to do with it, but anyone who seeks a conference with him can obtain it, no matter how great is the stress of business. Mr. Burke is a diplomat, too. Sometimes a reporter enters his office.

Will Mr. Burke see him?

The surest thing you know.

Then comes two or three pointed questions about something which Mr. Burke doesn't want to discuss.

"Ah, my friend," Burke will say, "this is a delicate subject, and if you do not object I shall write out my statement instead of giving it to you verbally."

Then he takes a pen and writes:

"When Mr. Burke was seen today he was quite reticent concerning the Smith case, in which he is retained. In reply to all of the questions which were asked him he politely refused to divulge any information. He intimated strongly, however, that a sensation might be developed if certain tentative plans are followed out."

Then he smiles and says: "Thank you; goodbye."

Richard Bartholdt of St. Louis, is one of the most democratic of the Republican members of the house. Mr. Bartholdt is chairman of the public buildings and grounds committee, and this position gives him a rank of high importance in public affairs. When a town wants a new postoffice or a new government building, they begin to shine up to Mr. Bartholdt, saying honeyed words and inviting himself and his committee to partake of the hospitality of the city.

The chamber of commerce of a Pennsylvania city decided to invite Mr. Bartholdt's committee and a special car took the congressman across the intervening states to Pittsburg, where they were met by a large and enthusiastic delegation of citizens. Congressman James Francis Burke and Andrew Jackson Barchfeld were to do the honors.

A special train was in waiting to take the visitors through the industrial belt. At the Westinghouse plants the party alighted. The workmen—scores of them—who did not happen to be engaged at the time, surrounded the sightseers.

"Gee, pike the swell," said they, looking at Mr. Bartholdt. There stood the Missouri statesman, resplendent in frock coat, spotless linen, high silk hat and patent leather shoes. His good-natured German face, goateed in approved fashion, gleamed with interest.

Kerchoo! Bartholdt had sneezed. And then, to the amazement of all, he pulled a big, red, handsome bandanna handkerchief from his hip pocket and blew his nose. When he returned the kerchief he inadvertently left part of it exposed, and thus he spent the rest of the day.

CANADA'S BUFFALO HERD PASSED WINTER WELL.

Lamont, Alta, May 22.—The Buffalo herd, which is coralled near this town, has wintered well, and since the round up commenced in Montana last year less than 1½ per cent have been lost.

Arrangements are being made to bring up another 300 head; Michael Pablo is getting them together on his ranch in Montana. Pablo has built a fence twenty-three miles long, from the mountains to his home, and the buffalo are driven along the fence into the corral. Last year he had 185 horses and sixty-three men on the range for three weeks, but he found this too expensive and has adopted the new plan for getting the remainder of the herd.

The Boston

for nearly forty years one of the leading St. Paul clothing stores, thinks this of the Gordon Hat:

"What makes the Gordon Hat popular?

It is not always easy to analyze the elements that produce popularity in men's apparel. Sometimes we think the large demand for the Gordon Hat is due to the effective manner in which it is advertised; again, when our most particular trade asks for the Gordon season after season, we are forced to believe that its popularity is due to the inherent virtues of the hat itself—its quality and always right style.

We think the favor in which the Gordon Hat is held is due to a combination of both elements."

It Reached the Spot.

Mr. E. Humphrey, who owns a large general store at Omega, Ohio, and is president of the Adams County Telephone company, as well as of the Home Telephone company of Pike county, Ohio, says of Dr. King's New Discovery: "It saved my life once. At least I think it did. It seemed to reach the spot—the very seat of my cough,—when everything else failed." Dr. King's New Discovery not only reaches the cough spot, it heals the sore spots and the weak spots in throat, lungs and chest. Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. EXAMINATIONS HELD BEHIND BARRICADES.

St. Petersburg, May 22.—Every day amazing incidents are chronicled calculated to remind the government that the normal smoothness of Russian life is still only surface deep. For example, the examinations at Kazan university were held behind barricades, to the accompaniment of the unceasing vociferations of an angry crowd. The cause of the uproar was the government's refusal to authorize female outsiders to present themselves for examination, because the university is already overcrowded with genuine students. The authorities allowed a large number of girls to attend the lectures, but declined to have them examined, because the bulk of them lack educational qualifications, while many care nothing about study.

This prohibition provoked an organized boycott on the part of the girls' sympathizers, and the examiners, on entering the university, were speedily surrounded by a surging crowd, which barred the way to the lecture rooms, odering them to abandon their intention of holding the examinations. The professors, crushed and browbeaten, managed to take refuge in the numismatical museum, where the iron bullet-proof gates were closed heavily behind them. Outside the wrathful throng continued to threaten, shout and hammer the doors, while inside the men of science serenely proceeded with their interrogatories. For several hours the numismatical museum was thus converted into a fortress.

ANGLICAN GATHERING

Conference in London Will be Greatest in Church's History.

Bishop Tuttle Will Preside at One of the Meetings.

London, May 22.—It has required close upon five years of careful study to arrange the details of the Pan-American congress, which is to be held in London from June 15 to 23. The congress will be the means of bringing together what will probably be a gathering unique in the history of the Anglican church. Delegates from all portions of the habitable globe have been selected to take part in the deliberations, and it is a striking commentary upon the eagerness of churchmen to profit from the discussions on so noteworthy an occasion that only one of the 291 Angelican dioceses had up to a fortnight ago notified of its inability to be represented. The exception is a small diocese in the United States. The objects for which churchmen and churchwomen are being called together from all corners of the earth are manifold, and the clergy and laity alike are confident that nothing but good can come of the communion of the church at home with the leaders of thought in those distant parts where their coreligionists are striving to spread the gospel. In one respect the gathering will be in marked contrast with the annual meetings of church congresses. Not only has every diocese throughout the world been asked to send delegates, but the program of subjects to be discussed has only been framed after all the dioceses have been consulted. The congress is also dissimilar to the decennial Lambeth conferences, in that clergy, laymen and women will take part in the discussions, as well as bishops.

Church's Most Important Meeting.

The five years devoted to preliminary discussions and study have been well spent, and there is every reason to believe that the congress will fulfill anticipations of being one "of trained experts." The archbishop of Canterbury has described the congress as being "a gathering of churchmen and churchwomen of such a character and on such a scale that its importance may easily equal, or even surpass, that of any similar assembly in the long history of the church's organic growth." The primate considers that the congress will have an important bearing upon the Lambeth conference, and in a letter to the clergy and laity of the See of Canterbury his grace says:

"Such thought and counsel and united prayer on the part of those who are in touch, at home and abroad, with the immeasurable variety of human needs will be of vital assistance to the bishops when the following month they are gathered at Lambeth for quiet counsel and for joint resolve."

The work which lies before the congress is so stupendous that it is hard to conceive the possibility of concluding its labors within eight days. But those responsible for the arrangement of the program have, after anxious consultations, assured themselves that by dividing the work into a proper number of sections, and be securing a sufficient number of big halls, the subjects for consideration at the congress will be properly debated. The whole work of the church is to come under the review of the conference.

Bishop Tuttle Will Preside.

It has been arranged that during the congress there shall be a meeting each night at 8 o'clock at the Royal Albert hall. On Tuesday, June 16, the archbishop of Canterbury will occupy the chair, and he will be succeeded by the bishop of Calcutta, the archbishop of the West Indies, the bishop of Missouri (Bishop Tuttle, presiding bishop of the church in the United States) the archbishop of Cape Town, the archbishop of Sydney, the bishop of London, the bishop of Stepney and the bishop of Kensington. Those entitled to take part in the proceedings must be either members or delegates. Each diocese or missionary jurisdiction outside the British Isles may appoint not more than six delegates, who may be bishops, clergy, laymen or women, and all delegates coming from abroad will be honorary members of the congress, and will be offered hospitality. All dioceses within the British Isles also have the right to appoint six representatives, but they will be members of the congress, the qualification for membership being the purchase of a guinea ticket.

The membership tickets, from the proceeds of the sale of which the expenses of the congress are being defrayed, are being eagerly applied for. About 4,000 applications have already been made, and there are some functions at which not more than 5,000 people can be accommodated. One of these is the thank offering service at St. Paul's. A proposal has been made that supplementary tickets should be issued in the event of the ordinary members' tickets being overapplied for, and that the late applicants should receive cards which would entitle the holders to be present, at all section meetings, but would not extend to them the privilege of attending the reception and thanksgiving service, where space is limited. Official reception of the congress will be at Knobsworth, Herts, Lord Brathcona having invited all the members to an "at home" at the seat of the Lytton family. The proceedings of the congress are not to be entirely confined to members.

COREYS BREAK INTO SOCIETY

Are Received at Exclusive Golf Club Near Versailles.

Paris, May 22.—William Ellis Corey opened a campaign Wednesday for the entrance of himself and his wife to the best Parisian society, with great diplomacy and surprising success. Instead of attempting to entertain reluctant aristocrats at the chateau he presented Mrs. Corey at the Laboulie Golf club, near Versailles.

The Coreys arrived in a big touring car just before luncheon, when the clubhouse was crowded with the best known people in Paris. Mrs. Corey, who was demurely dressed in gray, proved a great attraction. Among those who asked to be introduced to her was Grand Duke Cyril of Russia, and by a lucky chance she was drawn to play with him in a mixed foursome next Tuesday, which is ladies' day at the club.

Mrs. Corey was introduced to many French aristocrats, and, seeing the success she had made, a number of American members who had been rather cold at first crowded around to share her triumph.

Mr. Corey showed evident pride and pleasure at his wife's debut in exclusive cosmopolitan society. His satisfaction took the form of walking up and down with his hands in the pockets of his white flannel coat, smiling on the red-coated flunkies and tipping them on every possible occasion with large silver coins.

Mrs. Corey was modest and gracious and in nowise disconcerted by the open admiration of the princely and ducal golfers.

PERSIAN CONSUL NEARLY LYNCHED

Attacked Odessa Journalist on Account of Newspaper Charges.

Odessa, May 22.—An extraordinary affair occurred in the theater here one night last week, M. Zaitchenko, the Persian consul, narrowly escaping lynching at the hands of an infuriated audience, after he had attacked and seriously injured a well-known local journalist, Dr. Tzenoffsky.

The affair was a sequel to a series of articles contributed to an Odessa newspaper by Dr. Tzenoffsky, in which allegations of the gravest character were levied against a person who, at first, was not named. A couple of days ago in the Odessa News, Dr. Tzenoffsky openly stated that the man against whom his denunciations had been directed was none other than M. Zaitchenko, and as a consequence the latter challenged him to a duel. The challenge was declined by Dr. Tzenoffsky, who declared that the only weapon he would use was the law.

Both men attended the theater on the occasion of the premiere of "Isidore Duncan," and during the performance the consul approached his adversary and struck him a heavy blow on the back of the head with a bludgeon. Dr. Tzenoffsky fell back senseless, and was removed for first-aid treatment to an ambulance station, amid a scene of almost indescribable uproar. No man in Odessa is more popular than the injured journalist, while the newspaper attacks had aroused public feeling against the consul to a dangerous pitch, so that the police and the theater attendants had the utmost difficulty in keeping the infuriated people back. Had they once obtained the upper hand, M. Zaitchenko would most certainly have been killed.

JOHNSON AT RICHMOND

Urges Local Agricultural Schools to Teach the Children.

Government Should Provide Banking System for Whole People.

Richmond, Va., May 22.—Governor Johnson of Minnesota, as the guest of the Cotton Manufacturers' association, spoke at the City Auditorium last night. He was heard by an audience of several thousand, and was given numerous applause. Governor Johnson made only indirect references to his candidacy for president.

"At first," he said, "I could not understand why I had been invited here to address these manufacturers. I thought that probably because I had been a little before the public eye I was brought down here to satisfy the curiosity of the people in the Southern region. Since the returns published coming in from Alabama and other states, I am not sure that there is any curiosity to be satisfied, or probably it was satisfied before I got here.

"The North Star state and the great industrial Northwest, the land of bread and butter and iron ore, have made me the bearer of cordial greetings to you, the industrial representatives of the Old Dominion of King Cotton, and to this historic mother of states and of presidents.

The Northwest's Great Crop.

"We of the spring wheat belt of the Northwest also pride ourselves on the production of a great crop. Minneapolis, which enjoys the substantial honor of being the world's greatest primay wheat market and also the chief milling center for the production of wheat flour, receives about 90,000,000 bushels of the annual wheat product and converts the major portion of it into 15,000,000 barrels of flour, for feeding the human race on five continents. But the producers of hard wheat and the potentates of patent flour take off their hats to King Cotton when it comes to volume of national income produced.

"The mission of America in clothing the world is not fulfilled by the export of raw cotton. Your presence here today is testimony to that. The world wants the finished article. American labor in the mill and factory must supplement that in the field. Too long has this country been engaged in the business of exporting its soil fertility to furnish European mills with the best and cheapest raw materials on the globe, and thereby at the same time depriving American labor and capital of a foreign market for American finished products. But that period is passing. Today the American mill looms large on the horizon of international commerce.

Industrial Education.

"One of the needed improvements is that of industrial education, both for the field and for the factory. The productive power of a nation is measured by the capacity of the industrial unit—the industrial worker. Agricultural colleges and experiment stations are doing a great missionary labor, but agricultural local schools, to more thoroughly reach the children of the plantation hands are urgently required. In the factory the necessity of industrial education is still more greatly marked.

"We have the greatest gold stock and circulation medium in the world, but its congestion in a few reserve centers, is such that when the South and West desire to use a part of their surplus to move their crops, their just demand produces a panic in Wall street. For this unnatural and dangerous condition the government is responsible in two particulars: First, in establishing a national banking system which concentrates the banking reserves of the country in a few centers; and second, in depositing the government funds in those congested centers, instead of at the industrial points, where the money is needed for the legitimate necessities of production and transportation. These conditions are in the power, as it is the duty, of the government to remedy, and thereby provide a banking system for the whole people, instead of for the bulls and bears of the stock exchange.

Control of Railroads.

"The necessity for a firm, public control of the private railway is so thoroughly entrenched in the American mind, that agitation is now less needed than a practicable working plan for effectual control. States and nation are alike aroused. The largest problem is to avoid conflict between states and nation in defining the boundaries of control; and the greatest danger now apparent is the temptation of the Federal government to attempt a centralization of all railway control in itself to the exclusion of the rights and powers of the states."

AGAINST CHILD LABOR.

New Italian Employment Law on Women and Children.

Rome, May 22.—Under the new Italian employment law, persons of either sex, under twelve years of age may not be admitted to industrial establishment, workrooms, building operations, outside work of any kind, or to mines and tunnels. Women of less than twenty-one full years will not be admitted to dangerous labor of any kind. Persons of either sex of from twelve to fifteen full years may not be employed in any labor more than eleven hours a day, nor can females of any age be employed for more than twelve.

Children and minor women may never continue longer than six hours without interruption. Night work is forbidden for all females and for males of less than fifteen full years.

DELEGATES ELECTED BY THE KELLY FACTION.

Washington, May 22.—The six delegates elected yesterday by the "Regular," or Kelly faction of the District of Columbia Democracy to the Denver convention, were instructed for Bryan. President Roosevelt and his policies were severely arraigned in a speech by Senator Gore of Oklahoma, and Governor Johnson was referred to as "future president of the United States."

CAVALRY OFFICERS

Considerably Worried Over the Poor Outlook for Promotions.

Washington May 22.—Cavalry officers are considerably worried over the poor outlook for promotions in that branch of the service for some time to come. At present there seems to be no prospect for ending the stagnation which has lasted for some time.

Promotions in the cavalry were more rapid before the war with Spain than those in any other branch of the service. Last year in the cavalry, three lieutenant-colonels were made colonels, and in the infantry six lieutenant-colonels received their promotions. In the other grades the difference is still greater. For instance, in the cavalry, four majors were made lieutenant-colonels and in the infantry eight majors were advanced; five cavalry captains were promoted, and twelve infantry captains were made majors; twelve cavalry first lieutenants were made captains, while in the infantry twenty-six first lieutenants were advanced to rank.

FIT IN A SHOE IS PARAMOUNT

¶ Fit is the first point to observe in buying shoes.

No matter how nice a shoe looks, if it doesn't fit it is of no practical use.

We have no monopoly on the best leathers, of the best shoemakers, or the latest methods. But our salesmen know how to fit shoes properly so that they will be most comfortable, wear longer and give more satisfactory service.

We want the man or woman who has never had a really satisfactory fit in shoes to learn for the first time what real foot comfort is by having a Suffel salesman fit your foot.

Children's feet deserve more study and attention than the average salesman gives them. We devote the same care in fitting children's shoes as we do on grown folks.

When a Suffel salesman fits your foot you will appreciate true comfort. Don't deprive yourself of it any longer. Your next pair of shoes is awaiting you at Suffel's.

FREEDOM WAS BRIEF

John Wilson is Discharged From Custody and Rearrested.

His Attorney Will Institute Habeas Corpus Proceedings at Once.

John W. Wilson's liberty was short-lived.

Judge Ensign, yesterday afternoon, dismissed the indictment charging Wilson with attempting to obtain money under false pretenses, and the defendent was a free man for a few minutes.

Half an hour afterward he was rearrested on a warrant charging the same offense, and will be araigned in the municipal court some time today. If the court finds there is sufficient evidence to warrant it, Wilson will be bound over to the next grand jury, which will not convene until the first week in September.

In event Wilson is bound over to the grand jury, his attorney, W. E. Green, will start habeas corpus proceedings in the district court to secure his release.

After the state had all its evidence in yesterday, Mr. Green moved for a dismissal on the ground that the indictment was faulty. Wilson, so the state claimed, obtained $50 from Thomas P. Bradley by false pretenses.

At the trial it developed that Mr. Bradley gave Wilson the Duluth Log company's check for $50 and that, after Wilson had indorsed it, Bradley sent out and had it cashed for him.

The court granted a motion for a dismissal because there was a possibility that Wilson, if convicted, might be placed in jeopardy a second time for the same offense, on complaint of the Duluth Log company. A question was raised as to whether Mr. Bradley or the log company was out the $50 if it was obtained in an illegal manner. The court pointed out the fact that the check, after Wilson indorsed it, became his own, and that the check, signed by Mr. Bradley as treasurer of the Duluth Log company, made the company the payer of the same.

The warrant on which Wilson was arrested the last time charges him with obtaining $50 from the Duluth Log company under false pretenses.

Mr. Green asked the court yesterday to direct a verdict in favor of Wilson, but Judge Ensign denied the motion, his dismissal leaving the matter so that the state could rearrest Wilson on the charge of defrauding the log company instead of Mr. Bradley.

DAM BILL GOES TO VOTE AGAIN

Agreement at White House on Overriding President's Veto.

Washington, May 22.—At a conference at the White House yesterday agreement was reached by which the Rainy river dam bill is to be reported to the house for passage over the president's veto. This action is to be taken in a way that will not put the president in the attitude of reversing his position on the question of taxation of grants for the use of waterpowers, and it will also relieve members of the house who vote for its passage of any charge that they are opposed to the president's policy.

This happy condition is to be brought about through the medium of a report to be presented by Representative F. G. Stevens of St. Paul.

Those present at the conference with the president were Secretary Garfield, Representatives Hepburn, Stevens and Bede and E. W. Backus of Minneapolis.

Rug Faking

Do you know what a "Constantinople wash" is?

Or that some rugs are made of glue and a finely cut wool—which washes away in cleaning?

Or that there are quite a number of factories where rugs are made "Antique" over night?

Before buying your next rug read Rug Faking, in this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST. It is by a rug expert; it explains fully the many tricks of the wily fakir, and shows you (which is more to the point) how to detect them.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE IN TRIAL OF ABE RUEF.

San Francisco, May 22.—After being out for forty-three and a half hours, the jury in the trial of Abraham Ruef, the former political boss of San Francisco and central figure in the bribery graft prosecution, against whom wholesale indictments were returned, failed to agree upon a verdict and was discharged at 5 o'clock yesterday by Judge Maurice T. Dooling. The specific charge against Ruef in the trial just closed was the offer of a bribe of $1,000 to Former Supervisor Jennings P. Phillips to influence his vote favorably upon an electric railroad franchise applied for by the Parkside Realty company.

The jury, which went out at 9:30 Tuesday night, stood six to six upon the first ballot and remained so without a change.

INCREASED PAY FOR ARMY MEN

Generals and Lieutenant-Generals Will Not Get Raise.

Washington, May 22.—The army appropriation bill, as it now stands, admits no increased pay for generals and lieutenant-generals. The pay of major-generals, brigadier-generals, colonels, lieutenant-colonels, majors, and first lieutenants are each increased $500 a year. Captains are increased $600 a year, second lieutenants $300, and cadets $100. Enlisted men receive an average increase of 35 per cent. This makes the new pay of the officers as follows: Major-generals, $8,000; brigadier-generals, $6,000; colonels, $4,600; lieutenant-colonels, $3,500; lieutenants, $2,000; second lieutenants, $1,700; cadets $600. Under the new schedule, mounts and horse equipment will be provided for all officers below the rank of major who are required to be mounted. If an officer provides his own mount, he will be recompensed $150 a year for one mount, or $300 for two. No bounties are allowed for re-enlistment.

SPREAD OF THE PLAGUE FEARED

Porto Rico Health Board Plans Campaign of Sanitation.

San JJuan, P. R., May 22—As a result of the alarming information received here from Venezuela of thea ppalling havoc made there by the ravages of the bubonic plague, and the possibility, not to say probability, of the fearful disease reaching this island, the superior board of health has drawn up and submitted to Acting Governor Willoughby a series of sanitary measures to be immediately enforced with a view of warding off an invasion of the terrible malady.

The most important of these measures is the recommendation that the Federal administration at Washington be petitioned to at once prohibit all communication between this country and Venezuela, as also with such of the neighboring islands as fail to take a like precaution, this measure to be enforced by a fleet of gunboats or revenue cutters to patrol our coasts.

The Red D line of steamers that ply between New York, Porto Rico, Curacao and Venezuela are considered a menace to the health of this island, for though they no longer enter the port of La Guira, where the plague is raging, they still go to Puerto Cabello, and it is feared that the germs may be brought from that port by persons who may have succeeded in making their escape from La Guira and Caracas.

The many islands in the neighborhood, and a knowledge of every cove and creek capable of affording shelter to the fast-sailing, light-draught smacks make it an easy matter for the wily skippers to evade vigilance and land their plague-bearing passengers in a place of safety, and it is to be feared that the disease will make is appearance in the West Indies. This evil traffic can only be stopped by a well-organized patrol.

OPERATION RESTORES MIND.

Nebraska Woman's Case First of the Kind on Record.

Norfolk, Neb. May 22.—After having been violently insane for three years, the mind of Mrs. Michaelson, a Platte Center, Neb., patient in the Nebraska state hospital for the insane at Norfolk, has been almost completely restored to its normal clearness as the result of a surgical operation for gall stones. If her reason is permanently restored, as Dr. G. A. Young, superintendent of the hospital, now hopes, it will be the first case of record of the kind in the medical and surgical world.

TWICE CURED OF SKIN TROUBLES

First Case a Rash Which Itched and Stung—Threatened Ten Years Later With Blood-Poison in Leg—But Both Times the Sufferer's

RELIANCE IN CUTICURA PROVED WELL-FOUNDED

"About twelve or fifteen years ago, while living in West Virginia, I had a breaking-out, and it itched and stung so badly that I could not have any peace because of it. I saw three doctors and they did not agree on what it was, so one of them gave me something that he called medicine, but I called it soda water. I might just as well have washed in rain-water. Then I got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent and began to get better right away. They cured me and I have not been bothered with the itching since, to amount to anything. About two years ago I had la grippe and pneumonia which left me with a pain in my side. Treatment ran it into my leg, which then swelled and began to break out. It got in pretty bad shape, so I went to a doctor. He was afraid it would turn to blood-poison. I used his medicine but it did no good. So I sent for another set of the Cuticura Remedies. I used them three times and cured the breaking-out on my leg. Now I won't be without Cuticura. J. F. Hennen, R. F. D. 3, Milan, Mo., May 13, 1907."

MUCH WORK IS PLANNED

Public Affairs Committee Will be Active This Year.

Road Commission for St. Louis County is Advocated.

The public affairs committee of the Commercial club this year will be even more active than usual in the interests of the general public. A special subcommittee will take up the matter of road building in St. Louis county, to see if some better method of administering the road funds cannot be devised.

According to W. A. McGonagle, the county and township officers in charge of the work are honest and conscientious, but the method of distribution provided for them is wrong. He expresses the opinion that there should be a commission in charge of the county's road building, of which the chairman of the county board would be a member, as well as the county surveyor. A superintendent of construction also would be provided for.

Other matters to be investigated by sub-committtes this year will be taxation in Duluta, the cost of living here, the methods and cost of street paving, and the proposition of a fire tug for the harbor.

T. W. Hugo, chairman of the public affairs committee, has announced the appointment of the following committees for the year:

Taxation and assessments—Chairman, D. O. Anderson, E. P. Towne, O. C. Hartman, C. W. Elston, George H. Crosby.

WIRES ARE A MENACE

High Voltage Cables on Same Poles as Telephone Wires.

W. M. Hibbard Says Same Poles Should Not be Used.

The danger of having high voltage wires on the same poles with telephone wires is shown by the accident this morning, which cost the life of Stanley Musolf, according to W. M. Hubbard of the Zenith Telephone company.

"The council has been considering for some time an ordinance to compel the two telephone companies and the electric company to use one set of poles," said Mr. Hubbard this morning.

"At the present time there are a number of places in the city where the telephone companies use the same poles as the electric company, and for the purpose of reducing the number of poles the council has been trying to pass this ordinance.

"We have objected to it on the ground that it would be a menace to life and property. Where the high voltage wires are on the same poles with the telephone wires there is always danger of such an accident as this. Of course it is a good idea to cut down the number of poles if possible. They are more or less of a nuisance, but life should be considered first, certainly.

"Anybody can handle one of our wires which carry a voltage of about 100. The one Mr. Musolf grasped carried about 2,300 volts, I understand, and the arc light wires of the company carry about 4,000 volts."

J. F. McKanna of the Duluth Telephone company admitted that there might be more or less danger in placing the two sets of wires on the same poles, but claimed it would be no greater than having the two sets of wires on different poles on the same side of the street.

"They would be just as close together if they were on different poles as they would if they were on the same set of poles," he said.

BEDE SITS IN WILLIAMS' LAP

Minority Leader Rather Disgusted at Act of Minnesotan.

Washington, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house was in a rather nervy frame of mind this morning, during the presentation of the conference report on the postoffice appropriation, and Speaker Cannon almost broke his gavel to maintain order.

While Mr. Overstreet of Indiana, chairman of the committee on postoffices and post-roads, was attempting to speak, there was such a buzzing of conversation that he called for order. The speaker, who seemed to be somewhat out of temper, demanded that "all gentlemen should take their seats and cease conversation."

It happened at that moment that F. Adam Bede was conversing with John Sharp Williams, standing beside his desk in the aisle. When the speaker's request and demand that all gentlemen take seats was made, Mr. Bede, not finding a seat convenient, took one upon the knees of the leader of Democrats, John Sharp Williams, much, apparently to the disgust of that gentleman. He (Williams) blushed like a schoolgirl, and apparently suggested to Mr. Bede that it would be more dignified if he sat upon a chair provided by the government, rather than muss up his Mississippi jeans with the tails of his frock coat. Mr. Bede took the hint, and it was then up to Mr. Williams to call for the yeas and nays on the adoption of the conference report on the postoffice bill.

CIRCUS MAY NOT COME.

Small Show, Headed for Range Towns, Meets Misfortune.

The Campbell Bros. circus which is expected to pass through Duluth Monday on its way to the range towns, may present a somewhat dishevelled appearance, owing to the fact that its tents were blown down at one of the smaller towns in the western part of the state, Wednesday evening.

The circus is one of the smaller shows, playing the country towns. It played Duluth last year, advertising low admission prices and thus saving money on its license. After the people got inside the tent, however, they found themselves held up on every side, and may of them left in disgust before the performance commenced.

The show also left the grounds littered with refuse, and the board of public works was put to considerable expense repairing the streets and sidewalks which were damaged by the circus wagons.

DIVORCE OF CLERGYMAN

Causes Him to Lose Votes in Contest for Bishops.

Significant Changes in Leaders' Positions in Methodist Conference.

Baltimore, May 22.—The results of two ballots for bishops were announced at the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today. Neither ballot produced an election, but they disclosed significant changes in the positons of the leaders, the chief feature of which was the drop of the Rev. Charles L. Goodell, pastor of Calvary M. E. church, New York city, from the fifth to the tenth position, with a loss of 153 votes from the last proceding ballot. This was believed to be due to the publication of a story that Dr. Goodell was a divorced man. Dr. Goodell, in a statement to the Associated Press, attributed his loss of strength to that fact, and also admitted the truth of the charge against him, but added that he divorced his wife on statutory grounds and did not remarry until after the death of his first wife.

The vote for the leading candidates on the fifth ballot follows: Total effective votes cast, 757; necessary to a choice, 505; Rev. Drs. Edward H. Hughes, Greencastle, Ind., 479; Wilson S. Lewis, Sioux City, 461; Charles W. Smith, Pittsburg, 459; William A. Quayle, Chicago, 391; Charles L. Goodell, New York, 388; David G. Downey, New York, 337; Joseph B. Hingeley, Minneapolis, 311; H. F. Stuntz, Madison, N. J., 280; Henry C. Jennings, Cincinnati, 250; Richard J. Cooke, book editor of the Methodist Episcopal church, with residence in New York, 240; M. C. B. GRAND STAND IS CONDEMNED Athletic Park Structure Needs Repairs Before Season Opens.

The grand stand at Athletic park has been condemned by Building Inspector Kielley. Before the fans are allowed to crowd it to capacity it will have to be strengthened.

The grand stand is a wooden structure, and has been standing for several years. It is braced by wood throughout, and some of the supports are said to be in a decayed condition. The management of the Duluth ball team has been notified of conditions, and doubtless the necessary improvements in the structure will have been completed before the first game of the season is played here this month, for it will not take long to do the work required.

CONDITION OF JEWISH PEOPLE

President of Hebrew Immigration Society Visits the City.

Paul Laskoff, president of the Hebrew Immigration society of Hamburg, Germany, who is making a tour of the United States investigating conditions affecting the Jewish people, spent several hours in Duluth yesterday looking over the city and conferring with immigration officials and Rabbi Lefkowits of the Temple Immanuel congregtaion.

The society of which Mr. Laskoff is the head is supported largely by the Baron de Hirsch fund and its object is to assist deserving Jewish people emigrating from Russia and to find them suitable homes in different parts of the world. The heaviest Jewish immigration movement is to the United States and Mr. Laskoff came to this country to study the conditions under which his countrymen are living here.

The Hebrew Immigration societies and charities organizations are spread out all over the world and they are becoming more and more interested in the problem of congestion in the larger cities. Efforts are being made to distribute the Jews, so that the wretchedness of the life of the East side of New York may be a thing of the past. Efforts are being made to place the Jews in the smaller towns and cities of the country and the New York and Chicago organizations are working with the foreign societies to accomplish that end. Every encouragement is given the Jews to leave the large cities and establish themselves in the smaller towns, where they have a better chance to become successful.

Mr. Laskoff was very much interested in the statistics showing the importance of Duluth in the Northwest, and he was supplied with a fund of valuable information regarding the city itself and the territory tributary to it.

Sparta People Said to Desire Another Addition to Gilbert.

Eveleth, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is considerable talk of a new addition to Gilbert, to accommodate Sparta business people who wish to locate there. Since the mining people are not hurrying to move Sparta to its proposed new location, the business men of the new town are looking longingly for lots in Gilbert, but as the most desirable ones have been taken up, the Sparta people wish the townsite owners to open up the adjacent land for lots.

The council at Gilbert early in the week discussed the matter of a village lockup. The clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for it.

There are plans on foot to organize a village volunteer fire department. The Gilbert mine people will make arrangements with the village for the use of its hose and fire apparatus in return for representation on the fire team. Six saloon licenses were granted.

The Commercial club at Gilbert was to have a meeting last evening, but through some mistake there was no meeting. The club will get together for some needed work in a short time.

STATE AUDITOR PRAISES ITASCA

Nearly Two Million Acres of Land, 12,000 Population.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ag State Auditor Iverson will offer 35,000 acres of state land in Itasca county for sale at the courthouse here Wednesday, July 8, interest attaches to a statement the state official has issued relative to the benifits to be found in this section of the state.

Auditor Iverson after commenting upon the importance of the county in a mineral, agricultural and lumber way, speaks of the healthful climate and continuing says: "The area of Itasca county is 2,844 square miles making 1,819,676 acres of land and of this amount 128,788 acres are water. The population of the county is 11,529, which may be spoken of as a mixed class, so far as nationality is concerned.

"The surface of the county is in some places rolling and rough, while in other parts we find large level tracts stretching for miles. Where the timber has been cut off, dense popple thickets have made their appearance, which speaks for the fertility of the soil, which is clay loam in some parts and a black loam in others, but all kinds of farm produce is grown here with great success.

"Several lines of railroad traverse the county in all directions and Grand Rapids, an enterprising city, is the county seat, while a number of thriving villages are found in different parts of the county. There is an abundance of timber on almost every section of land in the county and the new settler finds in it a valuable asset, as he can easily erect warm houses, stables and sheds for his stock. A large paper mill is operated at Grand Rapids, furnishing a steady market for pulpwood and no one need be idle winter or summer. Farm products finds a ready market as the mills and mines operated in this county employ thousands of men.

"Itasca county has a bright future and only awaits the arrival of thrifty settlers to develop the agricultral resources and make it one of the best and richest counties in the state."

They think they could give the White Sox a run for their money, if they had the opportunity.

STIRRING UP A CONTROVERSY

Grand Juror Says News Tribune Story is Silly Sensation.

Dwight E. Woodbridge, a member of the recent grand jury, brands the attempt to stir up a controversy between the school board and the grand jury members as a silly sensation, without justification.

The News Tribune this morning published a story to the effect that the grand jury's "charges" against the school board had "created a sensation throughout the city."

"There is no foundation for the statement that the late grand jury had made charges against the Duluth school board," said Mr. Woodbridge today.

"The only paragraph relating to school matters contained in the jury's report reads as follows:

"'The jury received a communication suggesting investigation of certain matters touching the school district of Duluth, but considered it unnecessary to so investigate.'

"It seems that a signed letter was received by the jury stating that there was possible opportunity for graft in the annual expenditure of about $90,000 by the school board without due auditing, and that Supt. Denfeld had engaged a certain incompetent teacher. The jury knew that all the auditing required could be had from the state auditor's office, if any one felt that its own auditing was insufficient. Also it knew that Supt. Denfeld did not engage teachers. But the majority of the jury felt that mention should be made in its report of written communications. Therefore the mention of this one, coupled with the statement that no investigation was necessary.

"This would seem slim foundation for indignation or a sensation, and both are confined to a very limited circle."

MULAI HAFID APPROACHES FEZ

France Greatly Disturbed Over Success of Usurping Sultan.

Paris, May 22.—The prospect of the early entrance into Fez of Mulai Hafid, the usurping sultan of Morocco, a circumstance that would give him possession of the three capitals of Morocco, Fez and Mequinez, compels France reluctantly to face the possibility of having to recognize him as the legitimato sultan of the empire. No move to this end yet has been made, but it is realized today in official circles that the position of Sultan Abd-El-Aziz is becoming increasingly critical and desperate. Although Abd-El-Aziz has retaken Safli and presumably has an army marching to retake Morocco City, the army sent toward Fez, under Gen. Bagdani, has been blocked by the Nebi Naszen tribesmen.

In spite of the fact that the French government officially has assumed a position of neutrality between the two sultans, French action in Morocco has been based steadily upon the theory that Abd-El-Aziz would win and his downfall will be a keen disappointment. If it becomes apparent that Mulai Hafid must be recognized, France will consult with the power that signed the Algeciras convention.

Fez, Morocco, May 22.—Mulai Hafid, the usurping sultan, made his entry into Mequinez yesterday. He was escorted by the viziers, and his arrival was attended with much pomp. He rode through the streets amid the cheers of the people and the booming of cannon. Salvos of artillery were fired as the news of his arrival was read from the mosques.

The road from here to Rabut is still dangerous; only a German courier has been allowed to pass.

LOCAL HARBOR LEADS THEM ALL

Statistics Show It to be Foremost American Port.

Statistics being compiled by Secretary H. V. Eva of the Duluth Commercial club show that the traffic of the Duluth-Superior harbor is now the foremost American port; that the tonnage record exceeds that of New York, during 1907, by approximately 400,000 tons. Chicago's tonnage record is about half of that of Duluth's.

Secretary Eva is carrying his investigations further and expects to have comparative figures of the tonnage records of London and Liverpool, with a view of showing Duluth to be the greatest shipping port of the world.

Some of the coastwise trade at New York harbor is not credited to that port, but this is more than counterbalanced by the fact that the Duluth-Superior harbor is open only eight months in the year, while shipping goes on in the New York harbor the year around.

COURTHOUSE WILL COST ONE MILLION DOLLARS

Granite May be Used in Place of Sandstone.

Courthouse Commission Asks County Board for Appropriation.

St. Louis county will have a million-dollar courthouse.

The courthouse commission will ask the county board this afternoon for an appropriation of $1,000,000 to cover the cost of a courthouse constructed of granite.

A meeting of the courthouse commission will be held later in the afternoon or this evening to award the contracts for the new building. The bids for the whole structure and on the classes of construction have been listed, and comparative statements have been drawn, so that the commission is about ready to award the contracts as soon as the county board determines how much money it will appropriate for the purpose.

A special meeting of the county board was called for this afternoon, to take action in the matter of the appropriation for the courthouse, also to pass another resolution providing for the issuing of certificates of indebtedness to raise funds to be put in the general revenue fund to take care of the payments for the property acquired for a courthouse site under the condemnation proceedings.

The courthouse commission held an executive session in its rooms in the Providence building, with Mr. White of the firm of D. H. Burnham & Co., the Chicago architects, at which meeting the details relative to various materials in some of the bids were discussed and the comparative figures submitted were gone into carefully. The commission decided to ask the county board for the appropriation now, instead of waiting until the June meeting.

While the members of the courthouse commission are reticent concerning the matters discussed at the executive session this morning, it is understood that one of the important questions considered was whether the courthouse should be constructed of sandstone or granite. The commission, it is said, has recommended to the county board a building of granite, at a cost of about $30,000 more than a sandstone building of the same class would cost.

Contract to Chicago Firm.

It is generally believed that the Chicago firm of Landquist & Ilisley will be recommended by the Chicago architects for the contract and that the biggest part of the contract will go to that firm on its bid of about $550,000. The building itself, it is understood, will cost, under the contracts, about $730,000 to $740,000, while the additional expense, which brings the total up to the $1,000,000 mark, will be spread over the granite used in construction, the heating and plumbing and grading.

Most of the bids submitted for the courthouse are said to have been made on the basis of Bedford sandstone construction. It is rumored that the courthouse commission received what is regarded as an exceptionally low bid for Minnesota granite and that the commissioners favor construction of that material even if the total expense is raised to $80,000 or $100,000, the argument being used that the courthouse is going to cost the county so much less than was expected that the taxpayers will be willing to pay a little more to have an all-granite building instead of a structure of sandstone.

City Must Follow Suit.

Some doubt has been expressed as to whether the taxpayers generally will like the idea of paying the extra $80,000 for a granite courthouse. Some of the taxpayers who have an eye to the future, particularly those residing in the city, suggest that if the county goes ahead with a granite courthouse it is practically forcing the city to follow suit when it erects a new city hall in conformance with the grouping plan, also the government, when it builds in accordance with the same plan.

It is argued that the city taxpayers will be forced to put up $80,000 to $100,000 more for a city hall than a similar structure of sandstone would cost, that the granite industry is under the control of a few people who could hold up the prices after the county has decided on a building of that material, while the Bedford sandstone is said to be subject to some keen competition.

As soon as the courthouse commission awards the contracts, the list of bids will be made public. The Herald has already given the figures submitted by the several contracting concerns bidding for the general contract and members of the commission have admitted that the figures stated were very accurate. There were about 400 bids in all, including the class bids.

UMBRELLA AS A LIFE BUOY.

Paris has been pleasantly surprised by the exploit of a stout, middle aged cook named Madelaine Duprat, who saved two lives with an umbrella, says the New York Sun.

A dressmaker's apprentice, a pretty 18-year-old girl, Julie Jallini, having been deserted by her sweetheart, jumped into the Seine. Finding the water too cold for comfortable suicide she set up a wail, in response to which a man—who of course could not swim—jumped in to her rescue from the Quai Malaquis.

Then they both began screaming, the crowd on the bank screamed and the French police ran up and down gesticulating with great efficiency; but Madeline Duprat was on the job. She was crossing the Pont du Carrousel with a big green umbrella—Parisian variation of the gamp—under her arm when she heard the screams, and looking over the parapet saw the two drowning people drifting in her direction.

With Madeline to see was to act; she hopped on the parapet and raising the umbrella by way of parachute jumped into the water.

She couldn't swim any more than the two others; but the umbrella hitting the water concave side down held her up.

The two others as they came drifting down with the stream grabbed it also and between them they balanced it so that it did not capsize. As they were swept under the bridge an eddy brought them close to the shore, whereupon the gendarmes reached over the bank and hauled them ashore and hustled them to the nearest brasserie, where ponies of brandy could be administered.

When the matter was reported to Prefect Lepine of the Paris police he wrote a letter of congratulation to Madeline, and it is understood that the municipality of Paris will vote a sum of money and a life saving medal to her for her original exploit.

MAN EATING TIGER.

J. D. Rees in the Calcutta Statesman: I have lived for weeks alongside quite small, well defined forests containing tigers. Looking down from the hillside I could always tell when a tiger was on foot, where he was walking and when he lay down to rest, for all these movements were reported by screaming birds and chattering apes from the treetops.

By the like telegraphy and by the woodcraft which is born in them, by the interests and habits of countless generations, the villagers are perfectly well posted regarding the great beasts, and particularly regarding the tigers, in their neighborhood. The man eater is well known over the whole of his sometimes very extensive beat.

A sportsman arriving—provided the villagers have confidence in him, and this is a large provision; for they must know their man—will have no difficulty whatever in being accurately informed concerning the maneater's movements, but whether he will persuade th villagers to help him to get up to his quarry will depend entirely upon his personal reputation.

It is easy enough to build a little leafy screen in a tree over a pool and to sit and doze there night after night till the tiger comes to drink in the moonlight and cannot be missed, but it is quite another thing to beat out and face the man eater on foot. Consequently the sportsman does not always get taken up to the man eater, but this is not because the villagers do not know where he is, or rather she, for it is the female who generally preys on man.

The indiscriminate offer of rewards in no way tends to the destruction of the real man eater, while it insures the wholesale extermination of the useful, indeed indispensable deer and pig stalker and the cattle lifter.

SKYSCRAPERS OF ROME.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "The skyscraper is no modern invention," says a St. Louis architect, well read in the history of his profession. "In all the ancient cities where brick or stone was available high houses, within the walls of the city, were very numerous because of the lack of ground space for building.

"In the days of Augustus the tenement houses in Rome became so high as to be dangerous and laws were passed condemning a number of tenement rows and ordering them to be taken down, while at the same time a law was enacted limiting the height of all future tenements to 70 feet. For palaces and public buildings there was no limit.

"After the burning of the city in Nero's time the streets, which before were no wider than our alleys, were made broader; some of them, through the business part of the city were forty feet wide, and some of the great thoroughfares were sixty.

"The tenement height was lowered to eighty feet, and as a consequence the city spread far beyond its walls. The average height of a ceiling in a Roman tenement was a little over five feet; the windows were open holes in the wall, stopped in cold weather with board shutters. So the worst modern tenement is a palace compared with the skyscraper home of the poor when the empire was at its best."

TALK THAT SELLS MINES.

San Francisco Chronicle: They were in a group in the St. Francis lobby talking Rawhide prospects.

"Let's go up to Bonneau's room," suggested one of the gathering. "Too many people down here listening to everything we say."

"And you claim to be a Nevada mining man?" asked Frank Bonneau in a low voice. "Talk like this means sales, man. We stay right here as long as there are interested listeners."

Then, resuming his normal voice he laughed and continued: "Well, right after he made that lucky strike he flashed a new suit which was a wonder. He had hoofed it into Nevada without a bean. Now look what he's worth. Front of a saloon one day a fool practical joker slipped up behind and lighted his celluloid collar. Jury brought in 'justifiable homicide' and he gave the joker's family a cool $50,000, which was big money for them, but nothing for him with his rock running $600 to the ton."

WHEAT HAS WEAK TONE

Market Sells Off During Latter Part of Session.

Flax is in Good Demand and Closes Strong.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 22.—Wheat was a little easier at the close of today's session in the American markets. There was nothing to stimulate prices and the active options just poked along until the close, which showed fractional losses from yesterday.

Argentine shipments were about as estimated. Shipments of wheat were 3,552,000 against 3,224,000 bushels last week and 4,144,000 bushels a year ago.

It is estimated that the world's shipments of wheat this week will be 5,200,000 bushels, exclusive of North America.

Some durum wheat was worked for export during the session in Duluth.

Liverpool closed ¼d to ½d lower, Budapest unchanged, Antwerp unchanged to ⅛c higher and Berlin ½c lower.

The July option closed ¼c lower in Duluth, ⅛c lower in Chicago, ⅜-½c lower in Minneapolis, ⅜c lower in New York and ⅝c lower in Winnipeg. The September option closed ¼c lower in Duluth, ½c lower in Chicago, ⅝c lower in Minneapolis and ⅝c lower in New York.

July corn closed ⅜-¾c lower in Chicago and ½d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed unchanged in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—The late strength in America yesterday was offset by the fact of liberal Argentine shipments, and as a result, the market here was ¼d to ⅜d lower at the opening with offerings larger. Following the opening, there was a further decline of ½d to ¾d. Later, however, shorts became nervous and the leading firms supported and covered freely, prices advancing ¼d to ½d from the opening with the principal strength being in the nearby months. There was an improved demand for spot, bullish reports from Roumania helped the advance. At midday the market was firm and unchanged to ¼d higher than Thursday.

"Corn was steady and unchanged. Later the market advanced ¼d owing to covering by belated shorts."

Car receipts at Duluth were 42 against 65 last year, and at Minneapolis 123 against 235 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 165 against 303 last year. Chicago received 27 against 37 last year. Winnipeg received 101 against 229 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 359,000 bus., last year 526,000 bus. Shipments 487,000 bus., last year, 515,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 190,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 502,000 bus., last year, 363,000 bus. Shipments 471,000 bus., last year 545,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 91,000 bus.

Wheat was quiet after the first hour in the Duluth market, May wheat was inactive and closed ⅛c lower than yesterday at $1.05⅞. July wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.06⅛, advanced to $1.06¾, declined to $1.06⅛ and closed there, a loss of ⅛c from yesterday. September wheat was inactive and closed ⅛c lower than yesterday at 92¾c.

Durum wheat closed ⅛c lower and cash spring wheat was unchanged.

Flax was fairly active, although the market became rather quiet during the latter part of the day. May flax was inactive and closed ⅞c higher than yesterday at $1.22⅛. July flax opened unchanged at $1.22⅜, advanced to $1.27⅜, declined to $1.23½ and closed there, a gain of ¾c over yesterday. September flax opened ⅛c higher at $1.23, advanced to $1.24, declined to $1.23¼ and closed there, a gain of ½c over yesterday. October flax opened ¼c higher at $1.22, advanced to $1.22½ and closed there, a gain of ¾c over yesterday.

Oats closed 1c higher and the other coarse grains unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Trade in Wheat Light, But Prices Hold Generally Steady.

Chicago, May 22.—Trade in wheat was light at the opening of today's market but prices were steady chiefly because of damage reports from Roumania and Bulgaria where rain is said to be badly needed. July wheat opened ⅜c to ½c lower, at 89⅝c to 90½c, and sold at 90⅝c after touching 90¼@c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 192 cars against 183 cars last week and 340 a year ago.

A slight rally took place about the middle of the day on covering by shorts, July advancing to 91⅛c. Later prices declined somewhat on realizing sales. The close was weak with July off ⅛c at 90⅛c.

The corn market opened firm but eased off on realizing sales. Trade in the May option was light and the prices inclined to drag. May opened ¼c higher at 77⅜c but speedily dropped to 76⅜c. July corn opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@⅝c higher, at 69⅛c to 69¾c and sold at 69¾c. Local receipts were 182 cars with 61 of contract grade.

The market became weaker as trading advanced, and May dropped to 75c and July to 65½c. The close was weak with May 2¼c lower at 75½c and July off 5⅝@¾c at 65⅜c.

The oats market was dull and steady. July oats opened unchanged at 46⅞c and sold at 46¾c. Local receipts were 180 cars.

The provisions market was weak because of profit-taking sales which offset higher prices for live hogs. July pork opened unchanged at $13.72½ and sold at $13.65. Lard was 2½c lower at $8.50 and declined to $8.50. Ribs were 20c lower at $7.40 and sold at $7.35@7.37½.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Easy, But Firms Up and July Sells for $1.06.

Minneapolis, May 22.—Wheat was easy at first on larger Argentine shipments than expected and a blight recession in Liverpool, but later it firmed up, and July sold at $1.06. The winter wheat reports coming in here were less favorable, and too much rain was the report from the Red River valley. Duluth sent word of a small stock of wheat unsold and export inquiry continuing for durum wheat. The local elevator stocks promise a decrease of 375,000 bus for the week. Receipts today were 123 cars against 238, in Duluth 42 against 65. The market was uncertain in tone later, and after the noon hour heavy selling began and the July price lost ⅜c to $1.05@1.05¼, where it held until the close, finally closing at that figure. $1.05⅛. July opened at $1.05½; high, $1.06; low, $1.05¼; close, $1.05¼; September closed 91⅜c; May closed $1.07.

Cash demand was about the sameas yesterday. No. 1 northern bringing 2½c @3c over July and No. 2 northern, ½@1c over. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.07⅛ spot, $1.07⅝ to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.05⅝ spot; $1.05¾ to arrive; No. 3 wheat, $1.00@1.03; No. 3 yellow corn, 69¾c; No. 3 white oats, 50⅝@⅞c.

No. 2 rye, 77¼@78¾c.

Barley was a more active market but was hardly as strong as yesterday, quotably unchanged to 1c lower, closing at 55@65c.

Flax strong and in good demand at 1c over Duluth July closing $1.24½. Bran in bulk unchanged at $21.75@22.00.

No change of any consequence is noted in the flour trade. Demand today was moderate. Shipments, 37,860 barrels. First patents, $5.45@5.60; second patents, $5.30@5.45; first clears, $4.25@4.35; second clears, $3.55@3.65.

SLOWINGTON'S BANK ACCOUNT.

New York Sun: "How time flies for nothing," said Mr. Slowington, "and for another, this not being a proverb or a saying of that sort but just a statement of fact, I've been rich for a long time without knowing anything about it.

"Close on to twenty years ago I put $5 in a savings bank and then forgot all about it—maybe at that time I didn't have any more money to put in; but day before yesterday I came across that old bank book in the bottom of a trunk, and it was sure enough a pleasant surprise. I'd got money in the bank.

"And then I thought I'd take the book down and get it written up, get the interest put down and have the additional fun of looking at that—see how much it had come to and all that sort of thing, you know; so yesterday I goes down to the bank and hands in the book, and the clerk takes it and looks at it and says:

"'You're just in time; this account wound have stopped drawing interest in about three months more. You know, accounts on which no deposits are made stop drawing interest after twenty years.'

"And then he goes over to a desk and puts the interest down, this taking him only about a minute, for you see they keep all the accounts written up on the books of the bank, and then he brings it back to me and says pleasantly:

"'Now you better put in another dollar before the time's up, and then the account will be good for another twenty ears.'

"And I put in the dollar right on the spot; but I'm not going to let it run so for another twenty years; this time I'm going to keep that book in sight, and I'm going to feed the account a little occasionally and see it grow. I like the looks of that interest."

DOCTOR'S LIFE SPAN.

British Medical Journal: Doctors as a class are more subject to illness than their fellow men and their expectancy of life is less than that of most. An explanation of this is readily found in the anxieties caused by responsibilities which must weigh heavy on every man of right feeling; in the amount and trying nature of the work the doctor has to do; in irregularity of meals and broken sleep; in exposure to weather and to infection; and last but not least, in the scanty remuneration which his labor too often brings him.

The combined influence of all these causes is sufficient to undermine the strongest constitution long before a man has reached the limit of threescore and ten. A comparison of tables compiled by statisticians in different countries gives doctors an average of 57 years at death.

Doctors as a class are especially liable to certain diseases. Setting aside affections, due to exposure and infection, the practice of medicine levies a disproportionate tribute from its professors in the form of diseases of the cardio-vascular and nervous systems. Angina pectoris has been called the "doctor's disease;" neurasthenia deserves to be ranked in the same category, and severer forms of neurosis are, as might be expected, common among men whose profession compels them to live at the highest tension both of brain and nerve force.

It is scarcely to be wondered at, therefore, that the narcotic habit is so common among doctors. After all, what shortens the doctor's life is overwork, mental and bodily strain manifesting itself at the point of least resistance.

WOULDN'T LET THE KING IN.

Tit-Bits: When King Edward desires to pay a call on a personal friend a message to this effect is sent earlier in the day. This rule is almost invariable, but on one occasion his majesty neglected the precaution, and on arriving at the house of his friends found the hosts out of town and the charwoman in charge.

The king desired to go in and write a message, but was asked by the cautious caretaker for his card, and as that was not forthcoming she declined to let him in. "He was a very pleasant, civil spoken gentleman," she told her employers on their return, "but as he hadn't a card I left him outside."

It was only some time afterward that the master of the house discovered to his horror the identity of the visitor.

You can sell your real estate—and anybody else's—anywhere—any time—most any price (if honest)—if you can write or procure a convincing ad.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Suit Against New Haven Road Caused Slump in Prices.

Market Closed Easy at About Lowest Point of Day.

New York, May 22.—The opening prices for stocks showed the advancing tendency, in force at the close yesterday, still strongly in evidence. Trading was brisk. Pacific Mail advanced 3, Missouri Pacific 1¼, and Reading, Erie first preferred and American Smelting 1.

Higher prices were recorded before the market reacted. Union Pacific and Reading were in exceptional demand. The advances scored in the opening rise were practically wiped out in the later decline, which drove Amalgamated Copper 1⅜ below yesterday's closing, North America 1½ and St. Paul & Northwestern 1.

Announcement of the filing of the government's suit against the New Haven for violation of the anti-trust law induced heavy selling of stocks in all parts of the list. Declines of a point or more from last night's level became quite general. Prices rallied a fraction at noon. Bonds were heavy.

A recovery in the market cancelled the forenoon losses in the Hill and Harriman stocks, St. Paul, Reading and American Smelting, but when prices reached a parity with yesterday's closing the market weakened again. Pacific Mail reacted to 1½ below last night on reports that the ship subsidy measure had been defeated

The market closed easy at about the lowest. Prices moved very uncertainly and ran off late in the day to a lower level than earlier. St. Paul's decline reached 2¾, Reading's 2, and Pennsylvania's 1⅝. Rallies were small and indecisive.

COMMISSIONER LADD ON STAND IN FLOUR HEARING.

Fargo, N. D., May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A start has been made on the hearing of the bleached flour cases. Commissioner Ladd some months ago concluded bleached flour was injurious, and prepared a bulletin giving the results of his investigation. The millers of this state secured a temporary restraining order. Testimony is now being taken before a referee preparatory to the formal hearing. Commissioner Ladd has been on the stand for two days.

SUPREME COURT

Affirms Two Cases Sent Up From St. Louis County.

St. Paul, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among the supreme court decisions today were the following:

Ida Aho as administratrix de Bonis non of the estate of John Aho, deceased, respondent vs. Republic Iron & Steel company, appellant, an action to recover damages for the death of an employe of the steel company, in which it was alleged that the administrator made a fraudulent settlement with the defendant. Order of the St. Louis county court affirmed.

Theodore Ascher company, appellant, vs. Mrs. Agnes Lanyon, formerly Miss Agnes J. Stewart, respondent. Affirmed. From St. Louis county.

The supreme court today held that the records of a church trial were not admissable as evidence in a law court. The decision was filed in a case from Carver county, the title of which was Anna Harms vs. Fred M. Proehl.

The court held that in mitigation of damages, the defendant might show that he heard the charges against the plaintiff, and the evidence at a church trial and believed them to be true.

TELEPHONE COMPANY WINS.

Gross Earnings Tax in Lieu of All Other Taxes.

St. Paul, May 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court filed a decision today in the case of the state against the Twin City Telephone company that interprets the constitutional amendment adopted in 1896, authorizing the levying of gross earnings taxes against telephone and other companies.

The case went to the supreme court on appeal by the state from an order of the Ramsey county district court. In proceedings to enforce payment of delinquent taxes on St. Paul property, owned by the Telephone company, the company secured judgment in the lower court, which was affirmed today. It had paid its gross earnings tax imposed by chapter 314, laws of 1907.

The company claimed that the gross earnings tax was in lieu of all other taxes and assessments, and the state claimed that the exemption provision of the law was unconstitutional, and that all property of telephone companies was taxable precisely the same as the property of ordinary citizens.

As passengers from Duluth can reach here at midnight Friday night and catch the train north, sportsmen from both the Twin Cities and Duluth can enjoy two days at International Falls or intermediate points and get back to their work on Monday.

RAILROADS

REFUSES TO CONFIRM IT

B. B. Haugen Will Not Discuss Reports Regarding Arrow Line.

Says Trains Will be Running in Eighteen Months.

B. B. Haugen, general representative in Duluth of the "Arrow Line" was seen this morning regarding the story published in The Herald last evening to the effect that the Harriman interests were behind the new electric road. He refused to either deny or confirm it.

"The rumors and stories about the Twin City & Lake Superior railway, which popularly is called the Arrow Line, are almost as amusing as they are numerous," he said. "If railway men find any pleasure in the belief that the Harriman interests are behind this enterprise, I, for one, would not do the least to displace such a misconception.

"It is true that the great Southwest will be brought much closer to the Head of the Lakes by the building of this railway, and we are glad of it. It is true that, besides opening a vast amount of territory between here and the Twin Cities, Duluth and Superior will be immensely benefitted by the construction of this line, and we are glad of it. It is equally true that while some people are passing them along, we are sawing wood, and can assure the people who are interested that eighteen months from now trains will be running on the new electric line and put Duluth and Superior within two hours of the Twin Cities.

"Whether Harriman is behind this undertaking, or it is principally backed by Mike and Ole and Peter, the work is going right ahead."

THE HOUSE WILL NOT EXPEL LILLEY

No Further Action to be Taken on Congressman's Case.

Washington, May 22.—No action looking toward the expulsion of Representative George L. Lilley of Connecticut from the house is contemplated. This statement was authoritatively made today to the Associated Press.

When the special committee appointed by Speaker Cannon to investigate the charges brought by Mr. Lilley against the Electric Boat company submitted its report to the house last Tuesday and more so after the report had been read on the floor that next day, there was much speculation as to the probable outcome. The severity with which Mr. Lilley was handled in the committee's findings, gave color to a report that these were to be made the basis of a resolution of expulsion. The following authorized statement, made today is contrary wise and conclusive:

"The house of representatives has nothing more to do with Mr. Lilley so far as the investigation episode is concerned. The special committee investigated fully Mr. Lilley's charges and reported its findings to the house. The house by a substantial majority adopted that report. No further action in the matter is contemplated. The case is closed."

BOY BROKE CAR WINDOW

Street Car Crews Make Complaint Against West Duluth Hoodlums.

The Conductor Egged by Loafers, Had to Change His Clothes.

Charles Johnson, a 10-year-old boy residing with his parents at Fourty-fourth avenue west and Third street heaved a rock through the window of a westbound West Third street car while on his way home from school yesterday afternoon. Fortunately there were but few passengers in the car and these escaped the flying glass. The street railway company's inspector who happened to be on the car, caught the youngster and took him home where a session was held with his parents. The investigation showed that young Johnson threw the rock at the car "for fun," that he and other boys in that part of the city had frequently stoned the street cars and had come to the conclusion that such practice was one of their special privileges.

Numerous complaints have been made of the conduct or some of the young hoodlums who live along the West Third street line and who have made it a practice to throw stones and other objects at the street cars some times in day light, but oftener in the evening.

A gang of boys is said to congregate on the corners near the Fifty-seventh avenue west car line in West Duluth for the purpose of annoying the car crews. These boys it is alleged attacked a street car crew with decayed vegetables and eggs, one evening within the past few weeks, and nearly drove the men and the passengers from the car. The conductor had to leave his car in the West end and change his clothes before going into the downtown district.

Not only the street railway men but the patrons of the cars in that portion of the city affected are complaining of the seeming lawlessness of the boys and they suggest that the practice might be stopped by the breaking up of the street corner gangs and the making of an example of the worst offenders.

Fine is Remitted.

Charles French, who was arraigned before Judge Flack of the West Duluth justice court this morning on the charge of assault brought against him by James McArton, was fined $5 and costs, the fine being remitted with the understanding that the moving blocks over which the quarrel arose, should be returned to McArton.

It is alleged by McArton that French had some house moving blocks which belonged to him, but when he asked for them French became indignant and struck him with a garden rake.

MURDERED SIX PEOPLE

Charge Against James Brimmingstall of Dowagiac, Mich.

Police Say He Has Confessed to the Killing of Two.

South Bend, Ind., May 22.—James Brimmingstall, aged 40 years, is under arrest at Dowagiac, Mich., twenty-seven miles from South Bend, charged with six murders. The police say he has already confessed to two, and Prosecutor Bresnahan is confident the prisoner will admit the other crimes. His arrest followed an alleged attempt to make his wife his seventh victim. She escaped and appealed to the police. It is possible that Brimmingstall will be subjected to further "sweat-box" examinations today, and that he will be held on a charge of murdering David Huff here last June.

The police say he confessed to killing a man in Kansas whom he had a grudge against, and was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. After his release, it is alleged, he killed a companion and received a sentence of three years. He gave no names.

The list of Brimmingstall's alleged victims, according to the officer, is:
Man in Kansas, name not given. Brimmingstall was 16 years old when this crime was committed.
Railroad man in Missouri, name unknown, killed seven years ago.
Two men sleeping in a tent in Missouri, names unknown to officers.
David Huff, Dowagiac, June, 1907.
Smith Hortium, Dowagiac, February, 1908.
Mrs. Brimmingstall, apparently distracted, appealed to Prosecuting Attorney Bresnahan for protection. She said that "Jim" was going to kill her; she could not go to sleep for fear he would break into the house and murder her. She gave hints that caused the charges to be brought against her husband.
David Huff, an aged citizen of Dowagiac went to the Brimmingstall home to live a year and a half ago. He deeded them his property on their promise to support him for the remainder of his life. One night last June a scuffle was heard in an upper room of the house. Huff was found dead in bed with the bed clothing very much disturbed. Brimmingstall said that Huff had a violent illness, and eventually choked himself to death with the bed clothing. The body of Huff was buried next day and the apparent haste caused comment.
In February of this year, Smith Hortium disappeared. There are several circumstantial evidences tending to connect Brimmingstall with the disappearance of Hortium.
Hortium's body was found frozen in the ice of a nearby stream. His money had disappeared.

THE BEST INVESTMENT

Is one which pays the largest dividends for the greatest length of time. No investment however good it may seem, is really good unless there is some return for your money. The greater and more constant the return, the better the investment. In buying mining stocks in good properties, honestly promoted and conservatively managed, you are getting one of the cleanest, most profitable and most satisfactory sources of income possible to secure. There is only one thing better and more profitable than a mine and that is the smelter which reduces its ore.

In presenting our methods of ore reduction to your attention and setting forth its superiority over any other system, we desire to emphasize the fact that it is in no sense of the word an experiment, an untried or unproven process. Nor is it a theoretical idea to be some time worked out.

Is a demonstrated success. The experimental work has been done. There are no new-fangled ideas or processes involved. The principles are identical with those now in use in the great smelting centers of the world. The results produced are the same as by the most modern and accepted type of coke smelters.

Because we use oil as a fuel at less than one-half the cost of coke; because we need fewer operatives; because we handle our product from first to last more economically and because our plant costs less to build and maintain; we effect a saving of from 20 per cent to 50 per cent over the present cost of smelting.

The Union Smelting & Refining Co.

Owning the rights, patents and processes of The Universal Oil Smelter, is incorporated under Arizona laws; its capital stock is $1,000,000, divided into 200,000 shares of a par value of $5 each. The stock is fully paid, non-assessable and non-forfeitable. There is no personal liability to the stock holdings. The officers and directors are experienced mining and smelting men and capable of properly managing the corporation and conducting the business for which it was created.

The company is exhibiting a model of a complete plant, showing in detail the entire operation of smelting by its system.

This model is exhibited at 301 Burrows Bldg., Duluth, where you are invited to call and see exactly how the results are accomplished. It is exhibited here primarily for the purpose of closing contracts for the erection of smelters on properties owned or controlled by Duluth capital.

One and possibly two contracts here are now being negotiated on well known properties, which, if accepted will result in greatly increased values of the mining companies' stock and corresponding benefit to the smelting company.

The company, however, aside from any contracts sought to be obtained here, have already contracted to build two plants in Mexico of 25 tons per day capacity each and two plants in Arizona, each of 100 tons per day capacity. These plants aggregating 250 tons daily capacity are to be built and in operation by January 1st, 1909. The company also intends to construct a 200-ton per day custom plant in Yavapai county, Arizona. The smelting company installs these plants solely upon a royalty basis. This royalty commences from the initial run and continues during the life of the patents. In the contracts already secured, the royalties average $5 per ton. At the custom smelter the operation will net from $8 to $15 per ton.

The total contracts already assumed and those to be made this year, require an expenditure of $200,000. To secure immediate funds beyond its own present resources, the company has decided to offer a portion of its treasury stock for public subscription in order to install the plants above mentioned.

THE COMPANY OFFERS, SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE, 20,000 SHARES, PAR VALUE $5.00 EACH, OF ITS FULLY PAID, NON-ASSESSABLE, CAPITAL STOCK AT PAR.

The proceeds from the sale of the stock to be used for the construction of smelters as outlined above.

As to Profits

No investor makes an investment without considering the probable earnings of the stock he buys or the probable figure at which the stock will sell. At least, he should not.

The earnings of this company and the amount of probable dividends is limited only to the ability of the company to build and operate plants. The field is unlimited and the demand for smelters to accomplish the results obtained by this type will never equal the supply.

Based only upon the contracts now had and estimated on a basis of 250 tons per 24 hours, with an average operation of 300 days per year at $5 per ton net royalty, the net annual earnings of the company will be $375,000, equivalent to $1.87½ per share or 37½ per cent on the total capitalization. On the usual basis, with this earning, the stock will sell at $15.

The earnings of the company's own custom smelter of 200 tons per day, computed at an average of $10 per ton on a 300-day year basis, will be $600,000, equivalent to $3 per share.

The combined plants will, therefore, show an earning of $975,000 per year or practically $5 per share. At this rate the stock should and no doubt will sell at $50 or more. Each succeeding year will add to the earnings in proportion to the number of plants built and at the same time each previous years' earnings are maintained upon a fixed basis.

While these earnings and results may seem large, it is only necessary to point to the operation of the "Smelter Trust," its capitalization, its earnings, the dividend paid and the value of its stock.

It is unnecessary to further argue the merits of this enterprise or the value of an investment in its stock. All are so apparent that no question remains. The extremely low capitalization of the company and the certainty of constant and steadily increasing dividends, makes this unquestionably one of the best investment offerings ever made.

THE COMBINATION OF QUICK RETURNS, ABSOLUTE SAFETY, LARGE PROFITS AND INCREASING VALUE OF THE STOCK, ARE FEATURES NOT TO BE OVERLOOKED.

The privilege of subscribing to this issue of stock is open only for a limited period. The books were opened Wednesday, May 20th, and will close Monday, June 1st, 1908. The price per share is $5. If desired, payment may be made as follows: One-fifth cash, balance in four equal monthly installments.

Five per cent discount for cash will be allowed if payment is made at time of subscription. This will be the only offering of treasury stock at the present time. Should it be decided later to offer more of the stock, it will be at a price of not less than $7.50 per share. The stock will be listed on the principal exchanges.

The right is reserved, in event of over-subscription, to reject any subscription either wholly or in part.

Present indications are that the stock will be quickly subscribed. We suggest prompt action in securing your allotment.

The books are open and subscriptions are being received at the office of A. H. W. Eckstein, 301 Burrows building, Duluth.

You are invited to subscribe.

COUNTY OPTION PROBLEM LIKELY TO MAKE TROUBLE IN THE REPUBLICAN CAMP

Leaders Admit They Are Confronted by a Serious Crisis.

No Early Date for the Democratic State Convention.

Democrats Will Put Up a Full Ticket for Congress.

St. Paul, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The most embarrassing situation that has confronted a political party or its leaders for a number of years is that which now confronts the Republicans in this state, for in the county option problem they see a dilemma which is bound to make great trouble for them. The three leading candidates for the nomination for governor—Young, Heatwole and Jacobson—are pronounced in favor of the proposition, two of them having declared for it this year and the third having for a long time been a worker for legislation of that kind. But the shrewd and sagacious leaders of the party see danger in the adoption of such a recommendation and believe it would be fatal to success. The leaders in the party admit they are confronted with a crisis in the party, which, if not handled with the greatest tact, will surely lead to a defeat, not only of their candidate for governor, but the entire state ticket.

The situation from a Democratic standpoint is much better. The leaders

OLD SOLDIERS MEET JUNE 17

Annual Encampment of North Minnesota Veterans at Akeley.

Akeley, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual encampment of the old soldiers of Northern Minnesota will be held in Akeley on June 17-19. Tents will be pitched on the shores of the beautiful Eleventh Crow Wing lake, in Lakeside Park. The old soldiers of Akeley and its citizens extend a cordial invitation to the veterans of Northern Minnesota to be present.

Prominent G. A. R. men of the state have already informed the arrangements committee that they will be present. The encampment is to be in the nature of a continuous camp-fire, and is for the exclusive entertainment of old soldiers and their families. The park contains excellent springs, and the lake affords the best boating and fishing.

PLAN A BIG CAMPAIGN

Presbyterians to Arrange a General Evangelistic Movement.

Will be Under Direction of Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman.

Kansas City, May 23.—It is expected that the Presbyterian general assembly, now in session in the city, will make plans for an Evangelistic campaign, to be begun within a year, to touch every part of the world, to be under the direction of Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman and the expenses to be borne chiefly by laymen. John H. Converse, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia, who, in the last several years, has given more than $250,000 for Evangelical work, is said to be the leader in the movement. The inability of Mr. Converse, John Wanamaker and Rev. Henry C. Vandyke to attend the assembly has caused general regret.

Of the 9,929 committees making returns of membership, 4,188, or 42 per cent of the whole number, showed memberships of fifty persons or less. It is said that 55 per cent of the Presbyterian churches have seventy-five members or less.

A special missionary exhibit was opened today for the instruction of Sunday school children in the Second Presbyterian church here. The exhibit includes idols, fetishes, clothing and many other curious things which have come from the lands visited by Presbyterian missionaries. Rev. Dr.

VIOLENCE IS SUSPENDED

Night Passes Without Renewal of Trouble at Cleveland.

Details of Arbitration Still Delay Settlement of the Strike.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 23.—Marked by a night of absolute quiet, in contrast with the violence of the preceding twenty-four hours, negotiations for peace in the street car strike were continued today. The declination of Glen K. Shurtleff to act as third arbitrator brought with it the necessity of further discussion of a name to complete the proposed arbitration board. Only the matter of the disposition of the men pending the arbitration proceeding prevented a vote on the arbitration articles being taken last night.

President Dupont refused to accept Arbitrator Avery's suggestion that the strikers, pending arbitration, take their old positions. An alternative suggestion that the arbitration board at once decide the position of the men during arbitration was also rejected by President Dupont of the Municipal Street Railway company.

The company formulated articles of submission to arbitration to go to the men today, together with a counter proposition that, pending arbitration, enough men to complete the service will be taken back, those hired losing their seniority.

It is the opinion of Vice President Behner and President Farasay of the local union that the men will emphatically vote down the arbitration proposal of the company. The vote will be taken today. The men will vote "yes" or "no" upon a proposition to submit to full arbitration their seniority rights and the binding force of the Cleveland Electric Railway company's labor agreement upon the new company.

INDIANS HAVE TUBERCULOSIS

Forty-Eight Per Cent of Alaskans Suffering From the Disease.

Seattle, May 23.—Forty-eight per cent of the adult Indians of Alaska are suffering from tuberculosis, while practically all of the children are suffering from some disease, is the report of Capt. Paul Hutton, assistant surgeon, U. S. A., who has arrived in Seattle from Fort William H. Seward with a detachment of the Tenth infantry. Capt. Hutton, when he went North, last summer, had instructions to make a special investigation of the health of the Alaskan natives. He will go East at once and make a special report on conditions as he found them to the commissioner of Indian affairs. The only salvation, he says, lies in sending instructors and medical men North, and compelling the Indians to observe sanitation.

TRAMP STEAMER ASHORE OFF NEW JERSEY COAST.

New York, May 23.—A steamer has gone ashore on Brigantine Shoals, off the New Jersey coast, according to a dispatch received by the United Wireless company, here, today. Life savers have gone to her rescue, but had not returned to shore up to 9:30 o'clock this forenoon.

The steamer is the Hornsee, a German tramp, of 1,000 tons.

The vessel is from Cuba with a cargo of sugar. The steamer lies easy on Little Beach Shoals, about five miles north of here.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ethel Brown, a chorus girl, with the Merry Maidens company, which played at the Dewey theater recently, died late yesterday at the city hospital. She was taken to the hospital in a critical condition from a hotel several days ago. The company left her at the hotel without a word regarding her and disbanded a short time ago in Chicago. "Ethel Brown" is not the girl's true name and the hospital authorities have not been able to locate any of her friends or relatives, and as a result the body lies unclaimed. Throughout her illness she steadfastly refused to divulge her real name. Investigations are being made in the hope that the girl may be identified and her body given a decent burial. She was 20 years old.

INDIANS FIND BODY OF NORTH

Was Fisherman and Perished Month Ago With Alex Kittson.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Joseph North was found near Turtle river, late last night, by Indians. North and Alex Kittson embarked in a row-boat one month ago and returned for a house-boat across Cass lake. Since then nothing has been heard of them. There is little doubt but that Kittson was also drowned. North was a fisherman and has no relatives here. Kittson is a son of the late Commodore Kittson of St. Paul, and was considered the best cruiser and guide in Northern Minnesota.

PRESIDENT GIVES PROMPT DENIAL OF DIFFERENCES AT MEETING OF CABINET

CHARLES J. BONAPARTE,
Attorney General of the United States, Who Is Said to Have Threatened to Resign on Account of Differences With the President in Regard to Bringing Suit Against the N. Y., N. H. & H. Railroad.

Rumors That Bonaparte Threatened to Resign Are Unfounded.

Alleged Trouble Said to Have Arisen Over N. Y., N. H. & H.

Suit Against Road Decided Upon Over Three Months Ago.

Washington, May 23.—The White House today made a public and official denial of a story that serious difference arose yesterday between the president and Attorney General Bonaparte over the question of bringing suit against the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, the story going so far as to say that Mr. Bonaparte had threatened to resign. The White House statement, which goes into detail, is corroborated by the personal statements of cabinet officers.

The statement, made public by direction of the president, follows:

"The story is a mere invention. There was no difference whatever between the president and the attorney general over the New York, New Haven & Hartford suit. Yesterday morning attention was called from Massachusetts to the fact that the Massachusetts state court had already acted against the trolley lines so far as Massachusetts was concerned and the suggestion was accordingly made that the action should be brought in one of the other states, inasmuch as the purpose of the suit had already been achieved so far as Massachusetts was concerned. The president put the suggestion before the attorney general and asked him to bring it up at the cabinet meeting, which was then but half an hour off. As a precautionary measure the newspapers that had the announcement on the bringing of the suit were asked to hold it up. The matter was then discussed in the cabinet and it was decided that the action of the state court in Massachusetts would make no difference in the course of procedure by the government, and the newspapers were at once notified that the announcement of the bringing of the suit would stand. There was no division of opinion in the cabinet, and not the slightest friction or even discussion of any kind between any of the cabinet officers and the president, or among the officers themselves. The suit in question was detrmined on some three months ago. The only question discussed yesterday was as to where it should be brought."

MISSISSIPPI RIVER GIVES UP BODIES OF UNKNOWN DEAD NEAR MINNEAPOLIS

FRANCOIS COPPEE,
The Famous French Poet and Dramatist, Who Is Dead.

Remains of Middle-Aged Man Found With Wound in Forehead.

Body of Woman Pulled Out Near Town and Country Club.

Both Bodies Are at the Morgue and as Yet Are Unidentified.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The unidentified body of a middle-aged man was pulled from the Mississippi river late yesterday afternoon and taken to the Hennepin county morgue. An inspection of the body there found a wound in the forehead, which gives rise to the theory that the man was murdered, the wound being a bullet wound. Notations in a small notebook to the effect that the unknown man had recently drawn money from the bank, the amount being over $1,600 and that only 17 cents was found on his person, seem to lend strength to the murder theory. Nothing in the man's pockets which might identify him could be found. Nor does the body compare with any description of missing men which the police have in their possession. The body is being held at the morgue for identification. The police are working on the theory that the man's death was not caused by his own hand. The hole in his forehead is such a one as could hardly have been made by a floating log in the water, and is in such a position on the forehead as to preclude suicide. The body is in such a condition from its long immersion in the water that a very close examination is impossible.

Two fishermen, Ed Howie, 321 Nineteenth avenue south, and Andrew Waskey, 627 Oak street, both of Minneapolis, late Friday afternoon hauled ashore, near the Town and Country club, the body of an unidentified woman, which was being rapidly carried down stream.

Coroner Miller was called and ordered the body taken to the city morgue. So far the body has remained unidentified, though one of the men who found the body told Coroner Miller he thought he had seen the girl working in a Minneapolis department store. There is little doubt that the body floated from Minneapolis, because it came from above the government dam.

CHICAGO POLICE ARREST SUSPECT IN HOLMES CASE.

Chicago, May 23.—The police today arrested Henry Long, a colored man, on suspicion of being connected with the murder of R. C. H. Holmes, the purchasing agent of the Commonwealth Edison company. Long endeavored to sell a diamond to Edward Kenyon, a grocer, but beyond this fact, there is no particular evidence against him. The police believe that the diamond may have been stolen from Holmes, who carried one of about the same size as that which Long was trying to sell.

Low Bids on Courthouse Stimulate Country's Building Operations.

Give Eastern Capitalists Courage to Go Ahead With Work.

St. Louis county and Duluth have set the pace for the country this season in large building contracts.

As a result of the low bids that were received in Duluth for the construction of the new courthouse some Eastern capitalists have determined to erect a big $15,000,000 office building in New York city.

D. H. Burnham & Co., the Chicago architects, who have the contract to furnish the plans and specifications for the New York building say that the men back of the project were influenced to go ahead with the building plans this year on the strength of bids submitted for the St. Louis county courthouse, the same indicating the lower cost of construction and material this year than in previous seasons.

The contract for the new courthouse in Duluth is the first large job to be let in the country thus far this year, and, it is claimed, interests all over the country that have been contemplating building enterprises have been watching the situation here with a view of getting a line on the possi-

Seattle, Wash., May 23.—With 100,000 visitors in the city, Seattle is waiting for the arrival of the Atlantic battleship fleet this afternoon. All of the railroads, electric lines and steamships have been pouring visitors into the city for several days, and many thousands will arrive today in time to see the naval parade.

The people of Seattle will present to Admiral C. S. Sperry, commander-in-chief of the fleet a magnificent key, made of virgin gold, as a token that the door of the city is open.

Tomorrow night the Japanese residents will give a big fireworks spectacle in the harbor, as a compliment to the men of the fleet. Every available steamship and launch on Puget sound will be put to use today to greet the battleships. The city has been elaborately decorated.

Upon the arrival of the fleet, 50,000 street car tickets and 8,000 theater tickets will be distributed to the men who come ashore. Tomorrow evening the chamber of commerce will give a reception to the officers at the new Washington hotel. Four thousand invitations have been issued to the public.

CAT'S FINE FUNERAL.

Pet Angora Given Sweller Burial Than Some Humans.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., May 23.—Mrs. Cora Van Dine's valuable Angora cat was buried here yesterday in state. The police were asked to act as pallbearers, and Lieut. R. S. King was chosen to deliver the tribute. Mrs. Van Dine purchased a beautiful casket for the cat, and everything was done at the burial in accordance with the custom at human funerals. The cat was a present of Mr. Van Dine to his wife and she prized it highly.

NO PENALTY PRESCRIBED

For Bankers Who Violate the Law Regarding Loans.

Bryan Insists It Should be Made a Criminal Offense.

Chicago, May 23.—A spirited tilt between William J. Bryan and James B. Forgan, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, was a feature last night at the dinner of the Bankers' club of Chicago in the Auditorium Annex. Mr. Bryan, in the course of an address to the bankers, found occasion to say:

"It appeared in the Walsh case, here in Chicago, that the law as to loaning by national banks is directory only, and that no penalty is attached for the loan of more than 10 per cent of the bank's capital and surplus to one individual.

"No penalty, at least except such as may be imposed in the discretion of the comptroller. And what is the situation? If a bank loans more than the prescribed 10 per cent it is notified not to do it again. If the bank continues to loan more than 10 per cent it is again notified not to do it. If it keeps on it keeps on being notified. Am I not right?"

A coterie of bankers and businessmen in the rear of the room laughed. This was too much for Mr. Forgan. The president of the First National indeed had shown several indications.

MR. HARTMAN OWNS WHEEL

Blocks Sale of Amusement Device by White City Receiver.

Gave His Personal Note to Pay for the Apparatus.

C. W. Stilson, receiver for the Duluth Amusement company, has advertised for bids for numerous "attractions at the White City," among which is a "Ferris Wheel."

O. C. Hartman claims the wheel as his personal property, and Judge Cant, acting on Mr. Hartman's application, has ordered the receiver not to advertise the sale of the wheel, or receive bids for the same.

According to Mr. Hartman, the Duluth Amusement company determined to buy a wheel for the season of 1907, but as there was no money in the treasury to pay for the apparatus, it was agreed among the directors that they would pay for the wheel if the company did not take care of the debt.

It is claimed that the company could not pay for the wheel, which cost about $1,950, when it was deliverd in June, 1907, and Mr. Hartman guaranteed the payment to the builders of the wheel, the Eli Bridge company of Roodhouse, Ill. In the following September Mr. Hartman gave his promissory note for the wheel the directors of the amusement company having determined to surrender all interest in the apparatus to the bridge company, or anybody who would assume the claim. It is claimed that under the terms of the note the title of the wheel was vested in the builders, until they got their money.

Mr. Hartman claims the amusement company turned the wheel back to the builders, and that the builders resold the wheel to him. He objects to any sale of the wheel by the receiver to raise funds to help pay off the indebtedness of the Duluth Amusement company.

LENNON BIDS JAIL GOOD-BYE

Secures Release From Custody on Writ of Habeas Corpus.

Michael E. Lennon, an Eveleth attorney who was bound over to the grand jury next September on the charge of embezzlement, regained his freedom this morning by habeas corpus proceedings. Lennon was represented in the proceedings by John A. Keyes.

Lennon based his application on the ground that the commitment made by Special Municipal Judge McInnis, of Eveleth, was faulty and Judge Dibell sustained the argument by ordering the defendant's release from custody.

It is claimed that Lennon failed to turn over to a client certain money that he had collected on a judgment.

CITY NOT TO TAKE PART

No Public Celebration in Duluth the Fourth of July.

Mayor Haven Thinks the City Too Large for It.

No public celebration will be held on July 4.

Mayor Haven says he does not believe Duluth will make any effort to have a general celebration on Independence day. In the past such events have not been a success. Duluth is too big.

Anybody wanting a good, old-fashioned Fourth of July time should take a train to one of the range towns which is planning on big doings on the national holiday.

"The small town is the place to have fun of the old-time variety July 4," said Mayor Haven today. "Country people come in from miles around, and everybody digs in to make merry. Everybody knows everybody else and, as all have the same object in view, they generally are highly successful in rounding up a full measure of joy.

"It is different in a city as large as Duluth. There is too much of an air of formality about proceedings, and most people consider it a bore to have to partake in such a celebration. The city is too large, and people cannot mix in well enough. Fireworks alone are not sufficient to make the day a success. There has to be the right spirit along with it, and people must be enjoying themselves to make any celebration a success."

Circus day will open in Duluth Monday with the grand free street parade by Campbell Brothers Shows, at 10 a. m. sharp, and will continue to amuse with the two big preformances, at 2 and 8 p. m., in the big waterproof tents, at Twenty-ninth avenue west and Third street.

TEAMS PLAYING DOUBLE HEADER

Four Games Will be Played in the Northern League.

Winnipeg, Man., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four games are being played in the Northern league today. After three days of rain, the weather cleared up and today is very warm. Duluth meets the hitherto unbeaten Brandon team in two games, and Fargo plays here.

Fargo is supposed to have a medium team, but it played in hard luck at Brandon. The games here today will be called at 4 and 7 o'clock, and the weather will bring out large crowds. Williams, the new Winnipeg pitcher, has arrived and will try out today.

BELTRAMI COUNTY PEOPLE AFFECTED BY WITHDRAWAL.

Bemidji, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recent withdrawal of considerable portions of government lands in Lake and St. Louis counties with the possibility that it will be used for national forest reserve has taken from entry at the Duluth land district a large number of the timber claims in which people living in Bemidji and other parts of Beltrami county are very much interested.

During the past two years quite a number of people living here have made filing on stone and timber claims in the country northeast of Ely, where there has probably been as good timber claims as anywhere in the United States. In fact, locators have made a lot of money in securing these claims for applicants. Among the locators who have made that country is Nels Otterstad, who has located many people on claims in that vicinity.

When the recent ruling was made withdrawing the lands mentioned, Mr. Otterstad decided to go to visit the Duluth land office and also the territory involved in the order.

Mr. Otterstad has returned from his visit to a point forty-five miles northeast of Ely and he reports that there are a very few claims left in that country which are not effected by the recent order.

AUTO BUSINESS IS BOOMING

William A. Ryan Says Big Factories Are Rushed With Orders.

"Though every other line of business has felt the financial stringency of last fall in a more or less degree, the automobile industry escaped," said William A. Ryan of Buffalo, Western district manager of the E. R. Thomas Motor company, who is in the city today, calling on E. J. Filiatrault, the local representative. Mr. Ryan says the sales of automobiles this spring are the heaviest in the history of the industry, and the Thomas plant has increased its working force instead of curtailing it, as other industries have been forced to do.

Mr. Ryan is fairly bristling with stories of the New York-to-Paris race, in which the Thomas car won the first lap to San Francisco, and is in a fair way to win the cup, by entering Paris before the other cars. The cars have now started from Vladivostok, the French car having been withdrawn and only the American, German and Italian cars remaining. The Thomas Flyer, the American car, is being driven by Capt. Hansen, who has spent several years in Siberia and knows the ground, and Mr. Ryan says, if anybody can pilot the car over the steppes, Hansen is the man.

NO DANGER IN GRAND STAND

Inspection of Ball Park Structures Shows They Are Safe.

Building Inspector Kelley visited Athletic park this morning and thoroughly inspected the grandstands and bleachers.

The stands were found to be safe in every particular. The heavy timbers are in first class condition and the building inspector reported that they were amply strong to support any number of people that might be crowded into them.

The published report that the grand stand was unsafe and had been condemned by the building inspector was untrue. The building inspector was requested to make an inspection to guard against accidents, however. He did not visit the park until this morning, when he reported that no repairs or alterations were necessary.

Busy West End Department Store Holds Spring Opening.

Today the John J. Moe & Sons company is holding its spring opening in its finely remodeled store, and the event is being celebrated by unusual features. The store is beautifully decorated with live palms, in which are hung cages of canary birds, which furnish an unusually fine musical chorus. Between 2 and 3 p. m. the firm gave away to its lady patrons over 1,000 cut flowers.

From the opening of the doors the big establishment was thronged with one of the biggest crowds in its history. Unusual values in every department drew hundreds of shoppers, economically inclined, and they were not disappointed. The expressions of approval on the handsome appearance of the store were many.

TO ADJOURN TUESDAY.

Business of Congress is Now Well Cleaned Up.

Washington, May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Tawney has prepared a resolution, which will be presented on Monday, providing for an adjournment of this session of congress on Tuesday. The business of congress is well cleaned up and it is now thought an adjournment can be had on Tuesday.

Without a roll call, the house today agreed to the conference report on the omnibus pension claims bill, providing for pensions to several hundred persons. Mr. Williams' statement that he would not insist on the yeas and nays was greeted with applause.

FILES ITS ANSWER.

Boiler Works Has Counter-Claim Against Engineering Company.

The Northwestern Steam Boiler & Manufacturing company today filed its answer in the suit of the Great Lakes Engineering works for $10,000, damages alleged to have been sustained by delay in the delivery of two Scotch boilers, constructed by the boiler company for the steamer W. G. Mather, constructed in 1905 by the Great Lakes Engineering works at their plant in Detroit.

In the answer the defendant claims that the delays were caused by changes made by the engineering works in the original plans for the boilers, which delayed the company in placing its orders for material and caused the material to be purchased at a greater price than would have been the case had the boilers been constructed under the original plans. A counter claim for $10,878 is presented for the delays alleged to have been caused by the engineering works' changing its plans.

Grant & Sullivan are attorneys for the Northwester Steam Boiler & Manufacturing company, and Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell for the Great Lakes Engineering works.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC AND A WARNING!

P. T. Barnum, the great showman, used to say that the American peope liked to be humbugged. Perhaps they do when they are spending a holiday and their spare change at a circus or sideshow, and that was what Barnum was talking about. It is certain they do not like to be humbugged when they are buying merchandise.

The business of the old firm of Johnson & Moe was built up by Mr. Moe, who was the sole manager, upon the principle of strictly square dealing, both in selling and in advertising, and that principle is adhered to by the new firm of John J. Moe & Sons Company, at the old stand.

During Mrs. Emma J. Johnson's closing out sale of her part of the Johnson & Moe stock now going on, there have appeared in her advertisements some of the most surprising and ridiculous statements as to Johnson & Moe's former prices, as compared with her closing out prices. For instance, she advertises "Ladies' Belts, white embroidered, leather, silk, etc., all kinds and descriptions, some with handsome buckles, J. & M.'s price to $1.25, your choice at 3½ cents." In order to test the truth of this amazing advertisement and to protect the public, we took the trouble to send to Mrs. Johnson's store to purchase some of these pretended bargains. Our representative called for some of these 3½ cent belts (advertised with J. & M.'s price to $1.25) and purchased three for 11 cents. We found these belts never came from Johnson & Moe's stock at all and instead of being $1.25 values, if we had ever had them in stock, we should have been ashamed to ask more than 3 cents for them. They were soiled and shopworn, and looked as dirty as the train of a white dress on a rainy circus day—evidently the derelicts of a bankrupt stock attempted to be foisted on an unsuspecting public.

In the same closing out advertisements of Mrs. Johnson were advertised, "Ladies', Misses' and Children's Stockings—Lisle thread and cotton, fast black and fancies and ribbed with triple knee, J. & M.'s price to 50 cents pair, 9½ cents." Our representative also asked for and purchased one pair of ladies' stockings and one pair of children's stockings from these 9½ cent goods. We found these stickings to be such as Johnson & Moe ordinarily sold at 12½ cents per pair, and on sale days at 10 cents per pair, or three pairs for a quarter, instead of 50 cents per pair, as referred to in Mrs. Johnson's advertisement. A part of Johnson & Moe's ticket, with their name stamped thereon, was on the stockings, but the bottom of the ticket, with Johnson & Moe's selling price written thereon had been artfully cut off—the public can surmise the reason.

We had another person go and buy three yards of dress goods from Mrs. Johnson's advertised list as follows: "Dress Goods. The season's choice things, wool and silk mixed. All popular kinds and very stylish. Mostly light colors." Johnson & Moe's price to $1.75 yard. Your choice 27½ cents." These goods we found had never been in Johnson & Moe's stock, and instead of being a $1.75 a yard goods we should have blushed to ask over 25 cents per yard at any time or place, even during a sale.

We do not object to legitimate advertising. We do not object to Mrs. Johnson selling Johnson & Moe's $1.25 belts for 3½ cents, their 50 cent stockings for 9½ cents, nor their $1.75 dress goods for 27½ cents—if she wants to—for if she does, she wil be in business only while the stock lasts.

That is nothing to us. Our business goes on just the same, and we are doing a first-class business any way. What we do warn the public against is being misled by such ridiculous advertising as is above referred to.

Don't be taken in by the advertisement of a three-ring circus with pins for entrance fee—and when you get in you find only the bearded lady with wet standing room for the spectators.

CROWDS HEADED FOR FIELD MEET

With bands of color on their arms, pennants on canes and colors streaming proudly from their breasts, apparently all the school children in the city are headed toward the West end driving park this afternoon, where the interscholastic track meet is being held, with The Herald trophy as the principal prize.

The meet has been stirring the schools to intense rivalry for weeks past. Under the tutorship of Physical Director Al Olson of the Y. M. C. A. boys' department, the boys have been training strenuously and the entries are numerous.

Twelve schools are entered and the crowd of enthusiastic children will present a wide variety of colors and yells. The records made last year are expected to be badly smashed, for the boys have shown ability in their preliminary trials.

ATTENTION!

All members of Co. A will assemble at the Armory tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. promptly, to attend Memorial services.

REPORT OF SAGAN-GOULD MARRIAGE IS REVIVED.

New York, May 23.—The report that Prince Helle de Sagan and Mme. Anna Gould were married in Hoboken, N. J., before they sailed for Europe on separate steamers last April was revived today. According to the report current today, Prince de Sagan and Mme. Gould were married at Hoboken the night before the prince sailed for Europe.

No record of the marriage was ever made, but, though the laws of New Jersey require persons having the power to perform marriage ceremonies to file the copy of the certificate within thirty days, no penalty attaches to failure to comply with the rule.

THE NEW STEINWAY

FIVE-FOOT-TEN-INCH

Miniature Grand Piano

Is proving a constant and increasing source of wonderment and delight to all musicians and music-lovers. Scientific experiments and acoustical researches have determined the exact size, namely, five feet ten inches, necessary to reproduce the remarkable attributes and qualities of our larger Grand Pianos. Any Grand under this size crosses the danger line, as it cannot yield a tonal result superior to that of the discarded Square or the present Upright Piano. The full, rich and sweet tone of the Steinway Miniature Grand and its dainty appearance are already giving the utmost satisfaction to thousands of purchasers, and we recommend a thorough examination and trial of this unique instrument to anybody desirous of possessing a Grand Piano, but who does not wish to exceed the investment of $800 in a Piano purchase.

CAN ATTEND STATE MEET

Postmasters of Minnesota Have Been Granted Leaves of Absence.

Stamp Sellers Urged to Attend Gathering for Mutual Benefit.

Long Prairie, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Postmaster W. T. Callahan of Long Prairie, who has taken an active interest in the formation of an association of the postmasters of all classes in Minnesota, similar to those being formed in other states, has received a letter from First Assistant Postmaster General Granfield, granting all postmasters leave of absence, not exceeding five days, in which to attend the proposed meeting, to be held in St. Paul June 9 and 10. The letter from the assistant postmaster general reads:

"Washington, April 30, 1908.—Mr. W. T. Callahan, postmaster, Long Prairie, Minn.—Sir: With reference to your letter of the 25th instant, you are informed that an order has been issued granting postmasters in the state of Minnesota leave of absence for as many days, not exceeding five, as may be necessary to enable them to attend the first annual meeting of the Minnesota Association of Postmasters, to be held at St. Paul June 9 and 10, 1908. Respectfully,

"C. P. GRANDFIELD,
"First Ass't Postmaster General."

Postmaster Callahan is accordingly sending out the following letter to all the postmasters in the state:

"My Dear Sir: The postoffice department has granted the postmasters of the state leave of absence to attend a meeting of the postmasters of all classes, to be held at St. Paul on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 9th and 10th of June.

"Said meeting is called for the purpose of organizing a Minnesota Association of Postmasters. E. Yanisa, postmaster in St. Paul, has kindly made arrangements for us to use the federal courtroom in the federal building, thereby assuring us pleasant quarters, and we expect a large attendance and a profitable gathering. More than two-thirds of the states in the union have associations of this kind, and why should the postmasters of Minnesota neglect this matter any longer?

"An association of this kind is, in reality, a school for the postmaster. Come and meet with us and have a heart-to-heart talk with the postmasters of the state and you will return home with new energy and a determination to be a better postmaster.

"You are requested to give this notice as wide a circulation as possible among the postmasters and to notify every postmaster in your county of this meeting. The success of this meeting and future success of the association depends to a great extent upon your efforts.

"Do you want to be a charter member of an association of this kind?

"Don't forget the date and place, and be sure to be present if possible. Hoping to meet you and make your acquaintance on the above dates, I remain, fraternally yours.

"W. T. CALLAHAN,
"Postmaster."

MAPLE VALLEY IS NOT LEGAL TOWN

Judge Hastings Makes Ruling of Importance in Oconto County.

Marinette, Wis., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Hastings has given an opinion that involves the validity of the organization of the town of Maple Valley, Oconto county, and also the ownership of much land in the northwestern part of Marinette county, valued at thousands of dollars. Included in the latter is Lake Orwig, a summer resort, owned by Milwaukee parties.

The case is that of the Sawyer-Goodman company vs. Robinson, to test the validity of the tax title won by the defendant. The defendant had a tax title to land supposedly owned by the plaintiff. The suit was to annul the tax title on the ground that when the town of Maple Valley was created it left the town of Oconto, in which the land was situated, noncontiguous. In creating the town of Maple Valley, a district was cut from the center of the town of Oconto, leaving portions of the town of Oconto on either side of Maple Valley, noncontiguous. The seat of government was in the southern portion of the town of Oconto. The Sawyer-Goodman company claim the north portion was without government and nontaxable, and for that reason the tax deed obtained by the defendant was illegal.

The court holds that the creating of the town of Maple Valley was void, because it left territory in the town of Oconto noncontiguous.

An appeal will be taken. When the new county of Marinette was created the disputed portion of the town of Oconto was included in the new county.

HAD BEEN MINER SIXTY-ONE YEARS

Remarkable Record of Capt. Edward Jones Who Just Died.

Iron Mountain, Mich., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—First employed in mines at the place of his birth in Cornwall, Eng., William Edward Jones, whose death occurred here during the week, had, with one exception, labored beneath the surface of the earth for a longer period of time than any man in the Lake Superior region.

Those who excel his record anywhere in the globe, in fact, doubtless could be numbered on the fingers of one hand. He was a boy of 14 when he first began underground work, and from that time until illness compelled him to cease his toil, six weeks ago, at the ripe age of 75, he was employed in mines in England and the United States continuously for sixty-one years.

Capt. Jones had worked in tin, coal, copper and iron properties, yet while he had had many hair-breadth escapes from fatal accidents, he had never sustained serious injury. His last post was with the United States Steel corporation, at its big Chapin mine, of which he was one of the most valued employes. The record of Capt. Jones is excelled by that of Capt. John McEnoree, who, ever since the property was opened in 1858, has been in charge of mining work at the Steel corporation's Hard Ore mines at Ishpeming, previous to which he was employed for fifteen years or more in mines in Cornwall and this country.

WILL DISCUSS WHITE PLAGUE

Meeting of Doctors at Walker Sanitarium During July.

Akeley, Minn., May 23.—Dr. G. H. Lowthian of this village, secretary of the Upper Mississippi Medical association, is preparing a program and making preliminary arrangements for a tuberculosis meeting to be held at the Walker state sanitarium July 14. It is expected that about 100 physicians will be in attendance, and papers will be read by Doctors Barclay, Bell, Taylor, Bracken and Westbrooke of Minnesota, experts on consumption. Other specialists of national prominence will also be present.

It is intended to make a complete study of diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis. Dr. Lowthian is arranging the program, which will be sent out to every physician in Northern Minnesota, including the ninety examiners for the sanitarium, who are located in every county in the state.

The secretary is also making arrangements for a day's outing on Leech lake and a visit to Sugar Point, the place where Maj. Wilkinson and several soldiers were killed by the Indians several years ago. The doctors will also visit the agency.

BOOMS NORTH DAKOTA.

Commissioner Gilbreath Soon to Issue New Monthly.

Bismarck, N. D., May 23.—W. C. Gilbreath, commissioner of agriculture, has in the press an issue of the North Dakota Monthly, to be out shortly, that will be of especial interest. It will contain, besides an article by himself giving comparative statistics of agriculture and stock raising, one by Charles B. Cheney of the Minneapolis Journal on the resources and development of North Dakota, and another by Allen Reed of the World Today on the remarkable growth of this state during the past six years. Building improvements, manufacturing and business advancement are also exploited.

The building was designed by Archibald Echweller of Milwaukee, and will be of the most modern type with its principal feature a large library. SAVED FROM RAIN BARREL.

Norway Youngster Came Near Losing His Life.

Norway, Mich., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only because a carpenter chanced to be shingling a house on the opposite side of the street, and because his attention was attracted by a commotion that appeared to come from a barrel of rain water, is the 3-year-old son of P. A. Dehlman of this place still in the land of the living. The child was "playing boat," and while floating chips in the barrel he lost his balance and plunged into the water, head foremost. Only his feet protruded. These attracted the carpenter's notice when on his way across the street to investigate, and the child was rescued in quick order. It was barely in the nick of time. It was only with considerable effort that the youngster was resuscitated.

DOINGS AT AKELEY.

Charles F. Scheers Denies He Will Run for the Legislature.

Akeley, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Rev. J. T. B. Smith and children are visiting Frazee friends while Mr. Smith is attending the general conference at Baltimore.

The Akeley Herald states that Charles F. Scheers of the Akeley Tribune is a possible candidate for the state legislature, but the latter denies that he will be in the race this year.

The comic opera "Mikado" will be produced at the Grand opera house Friday, May 29, by home talent. It promises to be the best attraction ever brought to Akeley, amateur or professional.

The Northern Realty company reports a large number of new settlers coming into this vicinity this spring. Many tracts of farm lands are changing hands and a vast amount of clearing is in progress.

The Woman's Relief Corps of this village presented beautiful large silk flags yesterday to the public schools of Akeley. The presentation speech on behalf of the relief corps was made by C. F. Sheers and were received by R. F. Pray, secretary of the board of education. National songs were sung by the 500 pupils assembled in front of the school. The flags will be placed on standards in each of the school rooms. G. H. Alton, state high school inspector, was in the village Friday and inspected the local high school to ascertain if it came up to the standard required by the state for aid. After thorough investigation of the schools and the work of the pupils and staff he made a trip over the surrounding country to note the progress of the development of the country and of the nature of the soil and other natural resources that might support the village of Akeley after the pine mills have ceased operating. Mr. Alton stated that the land in this vicinity was superior to that of the Red River valley and that it was settling up rapidly.

CLEANING UP BACK YARDS

Municipal Cleaning Day is Being Observed in Duluth.

Many Citizens Have Already Made Their Premises Presentable.

Clean up!

This is cleaning day in Duluth, and it is ideal for the purpose intended. Mayor Haven first set last Saturday as official cleaning day, but bad weather made operations in this direction rather difficult, and it was thought best to postpone the event one week.

The public generally has been going ahead on its own hook, and in several sections of the city spring cleaning work is complete. Today the finishing touches will be added. Under general direction of the mayor, the health officers and the police department will keep close tab on residents of Duluth and see that they keep their premises in a presentable condition after such promises have been cleaned.

FIGURES ON PAVING.

It Costs Less in Duluth Than Other Cities.

While City Engineer McGilvray has not completed his work of gathering statistics showing the comparative cost of street paving in Duluth and other cities of the country, he has enough figures on hand to satisfy himself that this work is being done cheaper here than elsewhere.

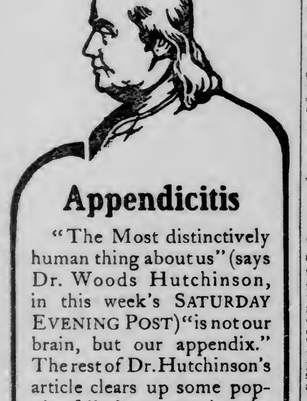
In Duluth the tar macadam, or bitulitic pavement, costs about $1.25 a square yard. In Troy, N. Y., this kind of paving was put down last year for $3.25 per square yard. At Niagara Falls the cost was $2.40; at Providence, R. I., $2.25; at Charlotte, N. C., $2.15; at Ann Arbor, Mich., $2.03, which was the cheapest price quoted outside of Duluth. In Portland, Me., the cost was $3.19 per square yard; at Fort Worth, Tex., $2.33, and Toledo, Ohio, $2.38.

MAY DIVIDE DIOCESE.

Rome, May 23.— It is believed in Vatican circles that the Cleveland diocese, rendered vacant by the recent death of Bishop Horstaung, will be divided in two and that Toledo will be the head of the new diocese. Manager John Farrelly, spiritual director of the American college in Rome, and Rev. J. M. Koudelka, one of the consultors of Cleveland diocese, probably will be made bishops, the former of Cleveland and the latter at Toledo.

PENSION FOR FAMILY.

Rio Janeiro, May 23.—A bill was presented in the chamber of deputies providing a pension for the family of Lieut. Fonneca, the young Brazilian army officer who recently lost his life in a balloon ascension here.



Appendicitis

"The Most distinctively human thing about us" (says Dr. Woods Hutchinson, in this week's SATURDAY EVENING POST) "is not our brain, but our appendix." The rest of Dr. Hutchinson's article clears up some popular fallacies concerning the appendix; it will amuse him who has lost this useless little organ, and inform him who is afraid that he may have to lose it.

Why Plays Fail is the title of a vastly interesting article by Daniel Frohman, giving a lot of "behind-the-curtain" information about the successes and failures of the past few seasons.

The Most Common Cause of Suffering

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. In many cases the relief from pain, which is at first temporary, has become permanent, while in old people subject to chronic rheumatism, often brought on by dampness or changes in the weather, a permanent cure cannot be expected; the relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. 25 and 50-cent sizes. For sale by all druggists.

FIVE YEARS OF TRAVEL

Hector A. McLean Returns After Many Strange Experiences.

Duluth Boy Visited Nearly Every Large City in America.

Exactly five years ago today, Hector A. McLean, a Duluth high school graduate, and later a Princeton student, who was employed as a reporter on the Duluth News Tribune, got up from his desk and announced that he was going to spend five years traveling about the country and seeing things for himself.

The following day he left for Minneapolis, and during the five years that followed he visited almost every large city in the United States, and followed newspaper work in at least half a dozen of them.

After working for some time on Minneapolis papers, he went to Denver, and was employed on the Denver Post and Rocky Mountain News, there. From Denver he went to the Southwest, working in El Paso and several other Texas cities. Later he went to Los Angeles, and returned East from there.

After a short rest in Duluth, he worked eastward, always with New York in view. He worked in Cincinnati, Buffalo, Philadelphio and finally landed in New York, as correspondent of the Philadelphia North American. Later he went with the New York American as a copy reader, and during the last few months has been employed there.

The New York newspaper game proved too strenuous for him, however, and a few months of the rush and irregular hours of morning newspaper work in New York made him a physical wreck. Last Tuesday night, while working at his desk, he suddenly found himself unable to guide the pen in his hand, and he decided that it was time to quit. Resigning his position, he took the first train home, and will spend a year at some outdoor employment trying to recuperate.

During his five years of wandering. "Hec" has had many strange experiences. He participated in a bull fight in Mexico, taking the place of a matador, and had as a companion in a newspaper office in Philadelphia the hero of Richard Harding Davis' famous story, "The Derelict." He has "covered" murder stories in New York; "did politics" in Denver, and "exposed" graft in Minneapolis. At 25 he is a nervous wreck, but he has crowded more strange experiences into five years than most men have had in fifty.

ELECTION OF COMMISSION

To Consider Merger Causes Warm Debate Among Methodists.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 23.—The delegates to the Methodist Protestant conference engaged in a spirited controversy yesterday over the election of nine members to form a committee to meet a delegation from other denominations to arrange the terms of a merger. There was considerable opposition to making President Lewis chairman of the commission, because of his pronounced views in favor of union with the Methodist Episcopal church.

In the end Lewis was elected by a substantial majority. A layman was next chosen, without opposition, and then Rev. Dr. M. G. Jennings, editor of the Methodist Protestant organ in this city, was nominated and met with strong opposition, because he is not an enthusiast for the proposed union. After a somewhat acrimonious debate, it was decided to reconsider the election of the one man chosen and have President Lewis name the commission from the list presented, each conference to suggest one name. This was a decisive victory for the union forces.

bilities for lower cost of construction and material than in previous years.

The bids submitted for the courthouse in Duluth are said to have been a revelation to the architects and to large interests in various other cities, by reason of the fact that the estimates were based on the cost of construction and material in previous years, when both were high, and the bids are taken to indicate that all classes of big contract work will be done more cheaply this year.

The county, it is claimed, has easily saved from $400,000 to $500,000 by reason of the delay in building operations until this year. Although the taxpayers have, to some extent, been disappointed over the delay in the erection of a new courthouse, this is a case where the delay has saved them a large amount of money.

The year 1908 is now conceded to be the logical year for the building of a courthouse and there are many who predict that the county could not have hit on a better time to get its new structure.

in earlier parts of the speech of not being in accord with the speaker.

Mr. Forgan raised his hand deprecatingly. "But the law has been changed," said Mr. Forgan, who apparently did not hear Mr. Bryan use the words "capital and surplus" in leading up to his point. "The law now forbids loaning 10 per cent on capital and surplus."

"And is there any penalty?" demanded Mr. Bryan, in an aggressive voice, and turning to look at Mr. Forgan, who sat to his right, four seats away, at the speaker's table.

"There is no penalty," said Mr. Forgan, "but the law is now enforced."

Mr. Bryan gathered himself together, leaned forward and extended his arm into his fighting position.

Law Not Enforced in New York.

"Will anyone tell me that the law was enforced in New York during the panic?" he cried.

He waited. There was no answer. Mr. Forgan said nothing.

"I will stake my reputation," cried Mr. Bryan more vehemently than ever and speaking slowly, "that the law was not enforced in New York during the panic."

Another pause. The room was entirely quiet. Bankers looked at Mr. Forgan. Mr. Forgan looked at the pink carnation before him. Mr. Bryan regarded the chandelier.

"And I will ask further," resumed Mr. Bryan smilingly, "that if the law had been enforced in New York during the panic, the panic would have been a great deal worse."

Everybody laughed at that, including Mr. Forgan, and the atmosphere became clear again.

Mr. Bryan then proceded to unfold his theory that the criminal law should be applied to bankers who infringe the 10 per cent provision.

"In my most emphatic belief," he said, "it should be made a criminal offense for a bank official to loan more than 10 per cent of the capital and surplus to one person. The criminal law should be applied to such a person. Don't you agree with me?"

"Well," he said, "whether you agree with me or not, let me tell you that 15,000,000 depositors in this country will agree with me in the proposition.

Mr. Bryan declared for the guaranteed banking system, such as Oklahoma has, where every bank stands sponsor for every other bank. He said that, unless such security were offered to depositors to prevent them from banking with the government by buying postal orders, or from sending their money to Europe to be banked in one of the government banks there, this country would be forced to yield to the demand for a postal savings bank.

A. W. Halsey of New York delivered an address today.

Dr. Susan La Fleshepicotte, an Omaha Indian from Nebraska, the first Indian woman graduated from a medical college, was one of the most interesting speakers at yesterday's meeting of the Woman's Board of Home Missions. Describing her work in charge of the church on the Omaha reservation, she said that she started with a congregation of three Indians, all of whom did not attend regularly. Now she has under her care 1,250 Indians.

"What is most needed now," she said, "is some one to begin the work of educating the illiterate white people, 1,250 of whom share our reservation with us."

Reports of Committees.

Reports of committees were again the important business before the assembly today. The report on legal matters connected with the union with the Cumberland Presbyterian church showed that litigation growing out of the union has arisen in eleven states. In two states, Illinois and Georgia, cases have been appealed to the supreme courts, and the suits there have been decided adversely to those opposing the union. A case is now pending in the supreme court of Tennessee. With so many suits pending, the committee asked that the several synodical committees be requested to assume the responsibility of handling the various cases as the respective situations may require.

It was recommended that the moderator be authorized to appoint a committee of eleven, five ministers and six elders, of which the moderator shall be chairman, to succeed the committee on "pastoral oversight," appointed by the Decatur assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. This new committee shall have charge of all legal matters arising from the union of the churches, provided that all expenses incurred by the committee be procured by contributions from organizations interested.

Discussing the importance of educational church literature, Rev. B. H. Fullerton, the moderator, said:

"The press is the greatest power in the country today. Its influence is everywhere. Presbyterians, in their optimism, are too apt to conclude that, with this great power directing public affairs, all would be well, and have relaxed their efforts in the matter of educational literature. The church needs to lay more emphasis on religious education. The board of publication is devoting its energies to this work and is showing us that the most effective results come through the children."

That more than half a million dollors have been collected and disbursed to the several funds, to which the women's board of home missions contributed during the last year, was shown by a report from that society.

A popular evangelistic meeting will be held in Convention hall tonight, at which Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman will be the principal speaker. The music will be under the direction of Charles M. Alexander of Birmingham, England.

The visiting delegation will be given an automobile ride this evening over the parks and boulevards of the city. Four hundred cars have been contributed.

One of the important reports presented today was that of the board of ministerial relief. The report showed that it had on its rolls for the year ending March 31, 1908, 1,067 names—436 minister, 550 widows, forty orphan families, fourteen women missionaries, twenty guests in the Merriam House, seven at the Thornton home. This is the largest number ever upon the roll. The receipts from all sources were $374,024, the largest in any year except when the Centennial fund was raised. The balance in the emergency fund is $37,828.

BONANZA MINES IN GREAT DISTRICT!

WHITESIDE PROPERTIES FORGING TO THE FRONT IN MOGOLLON DISTRICT. ZOOK & TELLURIUM SHOWING BETTER VALUES EVERY DAY.

Reports received from the manager of the Whiteside Exploration, Mining & Milling Co. prove without a doubt that our former estimates were correct and that we undoubtedly have two of the greatest gold mines in New Mexico. These mines are not isolated properties, but as a matter of fact lie in a district famous for high grade values. They are near the famous Last Chance, a world beater, and in the same mountains as the Top mine, which indicates average values running $2,000 to the ton. All these mines are in what is known as the Mogollon District. There has scracely been a month in the past two years when some mine in this district has not made good. Eastern capitalists are now flocking in and furnishing capital to develop undeveloped properties. Property adjoining the Zook is on the market at $15,000,000.

TO THE WHITESIDE EXPLORATION, MINING & MILLING CO., DULUTH, MINN.

Gentlemen:—I submit the following information for your benefit on the Zook and Dorsey properties, known as the Golden Link Mining claims.

The property lies near the head waters of Big Dry creek, in the very heart of the Mogollon mountains, and within the Wilcox mining district, eight miles north of our present holdings and 12 miles west of Mogollen camp (Mineng), where the famous Last Chance mine is located. This property is only accessible by trails, at present, over which the necessary supplies and mining implements can be packed by burros, mules and horses.

The geological build in general is very eruptive in character and is similar to that of the famous Last Chance mine, some 12 miles away.

The dykes running in an easterly and westerly direction, while the veins and leads, which carries the values, run opposite in a northerly and southerly direction, and which lies usually in contact. The enclosing rocks are andesite, porphyry and porphyryatic quartz.

From my examination of Zook and Dorsey property, I find the claims are located along a fine Fisher vein, which lies in contact, which passes through the country and pays no attention to dykes, but when coming in contact with any, the vein becomes more or less fractured and broken up, until it passes through, but after passing through, it again resumes natural strike and dip, which is respectfully N E and S W—60 degrees to N W, or again, if the Dykes should happen to be running in nearly the same direction it may follow the hanging wall for a considerable distance before running its natural trend. Such are the conditions on Zook, after passing through an immense porphyry dyke it follows along the hanging wall for a distance of nearly 2,000 feet before resuming its natural trend and dip. Here is where the best values are found, which occur in ore chutes from 50 to 150 feet apart.

Tunnel site can be obtained and almost any depth along on the vein can be secured. Six of the eight claims are located along the vein for a distance of 9,000 feet.

The vein is from 2 to 5 feet wide and the values are found sometimes on the hanging wall, then again next to the foot wall. The ore occurs in chutes. The vein matter consisted of quartz, more or less decomposed, highly mineralized and all carrying some values, and is absolutely a free milling proposition near the surface, but I believe from indications, that with depth the ores will resemble that of Mogollon ore and will have to be treated similar, by concentrating and cyaniding processes. The ore chutes are undeveloped to date, although several tunnels have been started below them for that purpose, but have not been driven far enough.

Enclosed you will find assay sheets, returns of fifteen samples I secured along the vein for about 3,000 feet. While taking the samples I avoided the high-grade ore chutes, trying to secure an average of the vein outside of the ore chutes.

There are three known ore chutes to date and proven by development. Now, as to whether they are of any length or not I cannot say, that will have to be proven by development, although I firmly believe that we will find richer and better values below. The vein matter being a free milling proposition on or near the surface, the values have been constantly reaching down for years and years past, the vein being an old water course, which drains that part of the mountain slope.

FACILITIES AND RESOURCES

There is abundance of timber suitable for building and mining purposes on the claims, below and above the mine, in fact I believe there is millions of feet on or near the claims handy.

Abundance of water for water power, in fact sufficient for handling 50 stamps, which passes the claims.

The property is accessible only by trail at present, over which the necessary supplies and mining machinery can be packed on burros, mules or horses.

I stated in my first letter, which I sent with the option, that there was considerable ore in sight, in fact there is, in tunnel No. 1, No. 2 and the shaft, ore which would pay with a mill on the property. The values in the ore chutes run from $10, gold and silver, up as high as $500 per ton.

Now, after a careful analysis of the ores I would suggest a concentrating and cyaniding process for treatment of the ores, for with depth I believe the values will change to a sulphide, although there will be more or less free gold, but of the silver values I feel confident that they will change to a sulphide and we will also have a little tellurium to contend with, with evidence of platinum.

RICHARD WHITESIDE,
Manager and Supt. of the Mines.

REPORT ON TELLURIUM

WHITESIDE EXPLORATION, MINING & MILLING CO.

Gentlemen:—I had R. S. Allen, a mining engineer from Silver City, yesterday and today, and we went all over the Tellurium property. He says we have the best undeveloped property in New Mexico. He says that he has heard about the Tellurium claims, but never believed they were half as good as represented until now, after an examination.

He says, by looks of rock coming out of the drift, we are liable to strike the ore at any time within the next ten days.

We are in 40 feet in the drift at the 160-foot level and rock is changing to different color. The first time the team goes to town I will send you some nice specimens for the office. There is some very nice rock on the old dump. There could be a couple of tons picked that would go from $20 to $1,000 to the ton, but you would have to have an expert to pick it.

Lee Meter was up with Mr. Allen and he is a good judge of telluride ore and he showed me high grade ore I had never seen here before. He worked for Maguire & Peterson when they shipped the high grade ore and he helped to pick it. He told me he wanted to get a lease from Maguire & Peterson, but they would not give it to him for the reason they thought he didn't have enough money to put it through.

I tell you we have a good big property here.

For the benefit of any sceptical who are not able to investigate for themselves, I would advise them to write R. S. Allen, mining engineer, Silver City, New Mexico, or any expert mining man that they may know, for you need not be afraid, both of our mines will stand the test.

RICHARD WHITESIDE.

At Directors meeting, May 21, it was decided to place a block of 20,000 shares at 50c per share. Stock can be bought at One-fifth cash and One-fifth each 30 days till paid for.

BOY NEARLY LOSES LIFE TRYING TO SAVE BROTHER

West Duluth Lad Makes Heroic Attempt at Rescue.

Younger Brother Slips From Log and is Drowned.

While heroically trying to rescue his younger brother from drowning near the Merrill & Ring mill this afternoon, John Nygard, the 11-year-old son of William Nygard of 517 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, narrowly missed losing his own life.

The younger boy, a lad of 8 years, sank from sight and his body has not yet been recovered.

The two Nygard boys and Mike Winness, a companion, were playing on the logs in the boom, when the wind shifted and the boom broke. The two Nygard boys were on one log and young Winness on another. The Nygard boys fell into the water, and the older boy, who could swim a little, made a heroic attempt to rescue his younger brother. He failed, however, but did not give up the effort until he was exhausted.

Meanwhile young Winness was clinging to his log and shouting for help. Fred Woodward and Sandy Forbes, two longshoremen, saw the predicament of the boys and went to their assistance. They rescued the older Nygard boy and young Winness, but were unable to recover the body of the younger Nygard boy.

The West Duluth police and M. J. Filiatrault are dragging the bay, but up to 3 o'clock the body had not been recovered.

PARISHIONERS OFFER PROTEST

Baltimore, May 23.—John S. Huyler of New York, a delegate to the Methodist general conference, and an active supporter of Dr. Goodell, pastor of Calvary M. E. church, New York city, for the Episcopacy, has received a telegram protesting against the "injustice suffered by their pastor," and desires it to be known that he enjoys their fullest confidence. The message was signed by G. A. J. Norman, president of the board of trustees, and W. E. Heritage, secretary of the official board of Calvary church.

The conference today voted to adjourn sine die until Monday evening, June 1.

The special order for today was the report of the committee on temperance, which was read by Governor Hanly of Indiana. B. Lee Peagett of Portland, Or., followed with a minority report. The two reports were in perfect accord in denouncing the liquor business, but differed in their recommendation of the methods to be employed in bringing about its downfall.

A favorable report will be made by the committee on revision by the proposal that members of women's home and foreign missionary societies be admitted to the quarterly conferences and the committee on temporal economy has decided to recommend that the laymen of all conferences be authorized to form laymen's annual conferences, their meetings to be held in conjunction with the annual conferences of the ministers.

JURY CONVICTS ACCUSED MEN

Peterson and Aja Are Found Guilty of Robbing Anderson.

Andrew Peterson and Frank Aja who were indicted for robbery in the third degree were convicted by a jury in Judge Ensign's room yesterday afternoon.

The accused men, it is claimed, in company with Andrew Anderson, visited a Lake avenue saloon one evening during the early part of April, and had several drinks. After they left the saloon Peterson and Aja are said to have assaulted Anderson and robbed him of about $61.

Trial of the case of the state against George Conway, indicted for burglary in the second degree was started in Judge Ensign's room after the Peterson-Aja case was disposed of by the jury. Conway, it is alleged, entered a room in the New Branch hotel, occupied by A. Blychart, and was caught before he could get away with any valuables. Conway is defended by C. C. Colton.

GETS SMALL VERDICT.

O'Hara's Claim of Damages Did Not Impress the Jury.

Patrick O'Hara's claim for damages for injuries received when a street car hit his rig near the ore dock last November did not make much of an impression on the jury. A verdict of $217.50 against the street railway company was returned in Judge Cant's room yesterday afternoon. This amount, it is said will just about cover damage to the plaintiff's rig.

According to the testimony O'Hara was driving east on the west-bound car track when, to pass a car approaching him he drove directly in front of a car coming up behind on the east bound track. O'Hara and his rig were knocked off the track and down a small embankment, the wagon being wrecked. Thomas Woods represented the company and John Jenswold, the plaintiff.

THE NUMBER IS GROWING

There Are Now 176 Licensed Automobiles in Duluth.

Complete List of Local People Who Own Machines.

Duluth has 176 licensed automobiles. Several more machines have ben ordered, and it is expected the total, before the end of the season, will be 200. Last year there were about 148 licenses all told.

The feature of the automobile market in Duluth since last season is the increase in the number of electric runabouts, and in the number of women driving them. This style machine is a favorite with the ladies, and there are a good many of them used in Duluth. With the general run of machines, gasoline is used as the motive power almost to the exclusion of anything else.

The fact that there are not many good country roads for automobiling in the vicinity of Duluth has held down the number of machines purchased here, but they are coming into more general use at the Head of the Lakes every season.

Following is a list of Duluth automobile owners, with their license numbers:

AMONG THE PLANTS

Planting is being done a week ahead of last year, and this is all right, provided a sheet is thrown over the plants should a frosty night occur. It is some trouble but you will be well repaid by extra root growth and extra top growth next month, for the early planted stock is always the best, although our hard rains and heavy winds give the plants a battered look, and I was too cautious when I first came to Duluth, but have learned that a Northern frost does not cut a plant as badly as it does further South.

There is plenty of time yet to sow the garden vegetable seeds; also tender flower seeds and a few early tomato plants can be risked, but this is not what I wanted to speak of now. It is the poor man's garden, the fellow who can't afford the costly flower beds that the rich have, and let me tell you something: The bed that cost $20 does not always give as much pleasure as the one that cost 20 cents, and there are quite a number of things that can be purchased from the florists at that price per dozen—the asters for instance, a dozen of the right sort will give lots of bloom from the last of July until heavy frost and they are charming in their many colors. Then we have the dwarf annual phloxes, the marigolds, corn flowers, stocks and pinks to draw upon. These are generally so cheap that almost anyone can have a few, and the small gardens do just as much to make a pretty city as the large ones do, and when a few flowers get into the garden, we generally see the premises kept in a little better order than they were before.

This is the last time we shall chat about plants. I have sold my place, and the new owner will take is next July. Pleasant have been our relations and I shall leave you all with regret for I have made many warm friends among you.

BRYAN TALKS ON BANKING

Need Emergency Currency or Public Will Demand Government Bank.

Chicago, May 23.—W. J. Bryan made a plea before the Bankers' club of Chicago last night for an emergency currency that would enable the state as well as the national banks to relieve a money stringency and sounded a warning that the people would demand the government bank unless absolute security for deposits can be assured them.

He spoke on the "Banking Business" before several hundred members on the occasion of the 104th regular meeting of the club.

Mr. Bryan said that he believed that emergency currency should be issued by the federal government and loaned to the banks.

"I do not know," he said, "why a state bank should not be thus aided in the matter of relieving distress. In my opinion the state and the national bank should be placed on the same footing when it comes to the question of securing emergency currency."

He said that he believed that our present banking system, with 20,000 independent banks, more nearly meets the needs of the people of this country than a system like that of the Bank of England would do, but, he declared, that the system needed a general overhauling.

Question of Security.

On the question of affording security to the depositor, Mr. Bryan declared that the temptation to gamble was the source of most of the great bank failures, and suggested the necessity for a law that would remove this temptation from persons who handle other people's money. It is not enough, he said, to make banks reasonably secure. We must provide a banking system, he said, not only for "reasonable" people, but for "unreasonable" ones, and he called it a short-sighted policy of the bankers to resist a just demand from 15,000,000 for absolute security.

"If the banks of this country refuse to give this security," he continued, "it is they and they alone who will be responsible if this government is driven to establish a government bank. If the government savings bank comes, the $500 deposit limit will not last through more than one session of congress. If you bankers refuse to give the security the people demand, there can be no doubt of the future popularity of the government banks. I would rather have guaranteed banks than government banks, but when the time comes, I will stand with the 15,000,000 depositors for the bank of absolute security."

Among other cures for the banking ills of the country, Mr. Bryan suggested the adoption of the system recently inaugurated in Oklahoma, where, he said, every bank in a certain district stands behind every other bank, the plan being worked out through a one-quarter of 1 per cent tax on the amount of all deposits.

"With the guaranteed bank," he said, "there would be no need for the government savings bank, except in a district where there was no guaranteed bank. I believe it is possible to bring about this measure of security without injustice to any one. The bankers themselves will secure enough additional profit through increased deposits to justify them in the additional outlay."

F. W. RIESLAND DIES.

Was Veteran of the Mexican and Civil Wars.

Frederick William Riesland, father of Dr. D. W. Riesland of Duluth, died, at the age of 84 years, yesterday, at the residence of his son, 224 Fourth avenue west. Mr. Riesland, who was a veteran of the Mexican and Civil wars, died very suddenly of paralysis. He was stricken in the morning and died two or three hours afterward. The remains will probably be shipped to Spokane, Wash., where his wife is buried.

The deceased was born in Saxony, but came to America when a young man. He fought through the Mexican war under Gen. Scott, and served all during the Civil war in the Twenty-ninth Minnesota regiment. Six sons and four married daughters survive him.

Mr. Riesland came to Duluth about four years ago, and has since been living with his son, the doctor. He made many friends in the city and was very well liked.

NEW CASES FILED.

Dupont asks $2,150 for injuries received in the railroad yards at Virginia when some cars collided and some rock was shaken on his head and body.

SCHOOL GIRLS

Most of our ambitious young American girls work too hard at school.

Many teachers have little or no judgment about pushing a child beyond her endurance. They ought to know that girls especially have a danger period. Often, too often, utter physical collapse is the result, and it takes years and years to recover lost vitality.

Many a young girl has been helped over this critical period, and been prepared for a healthy womanhood by SECRETARY J. H. WADE RESIGNS UNDER CLOUD.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 23.—James H. Wade, for twenty-five years secretary of the University of Michigan, submitted his resignation yesterday to the board of regents and it was unanimously accepted. The resignation followed an investigation of the university finances, which Attorney General Byrd has been pursuing for several weeks. The investigation centered around the alleged improper use of university property, such as coal and painting and building materials and workmen's time to an amount estimated at about $5,000.

Prof. Martin L. D'Oage was appointed acting secretary to sign this year's diplomas.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

A loss estimated at $10,000 was caused by a fire at San Francisco Friday night which consumed several frame buildings at Sacramento and Market streets. The fire was caused by a lighted cigarette which fell from the hands of James Burns, a lodger who had fallen asleep in the Harbor hotel.

Canton, Ohio, was selected as the meeting place for the seventeenth triennial session of the general synod of the Reformed Church in the United States in 1911.

A telegram was received at the state department from Hector De Castro, the American consul general at Rome announcing the death there of Charles M. Wood, the vice consul general. He was a native of Vermont.

J. J. Straub, a seaman on the New Jersey, was killed at Bellingham, Friday evening and F. Lutinsky, third master of arms of the same vessel, was seriously injured in a street car accident.

It is reported from Alaska, W. Va., that a stage coach was swept down stream at a ford near Williamsport, Grant county, Friday and the driver, two passengers, and the team were drowned.

MOOSE LAKE MEMORIAL.

Moose Lake, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next Sunday morning, at the regular hour for services, the few old soldiers who live in this vicinity and their many friends will gather at the McCabe Memorial church to hear the Memorial sermon by Rev. Richardson. It has been the custom of late years, wherever Memorial day has been observed to set aside the Sunday preceding the day for special services for the honored few who still survive. The Big Consolidated Shows of the now famous Campbell Brothers will exhibit in Duluth, Monday, May 25, showing, this season, added attractions in every department of amusement and making it the greatest canvas show in existence. The parade will take place at 10 a. m.

COUNTY OPTION PROBLEM

are lying low and are awaiting developments. They are thus prepared to take advantage of any mistakes which the Republicans may make.

The Republican state convention will be held here July 1 and the county convention June 25, the official call having been issued this week. The date for the Democratic state convention was left in the hands of a committee to be appointed by Frank Day, chairman of the state central committee, and he will appoint this committee in a short time. Whether they will meet to fix the date for the convention before or after the Denver convention is not certain, but whenever they meet they will fix an early date. For several years the Democratic state convention has been held during state fair week, on account of the reduced railroad rates. This year the fare may be the same during fair week as other weeks, yet it is probable that the state convention will be held either during fair week or shortly before that.

Everybody concedes that if Governor Johnson should accept the nomination for governor another time, he would win in a walk. One may ask any politician, Republican or Democrat, if Johnson would be elected if he is nominated this year, and the same answer is given in each case, that Governor Johnson's personal popularity would land him in a third term.

Nevertheless, the Democrats are not banking on Governor Johnson's renomination as the only hope of success. There are several men in the party, prominent men, well known as leaders, wise politicians and able men, who could be elected. It would be especially easy in view of the divided and chaotic situation in the Republican party.

The Democrats will put up a full ticket for congress this fall. In the First district, J. F. D. Meighen of Albert Lea, a nephew of the well known Tom Meighen of Fillmore county, is being groomed for the Democratic nomination. It is believed that he is preparing material regarding Congressman Tawney's record which will make him a formidable opponent of this lieutenant of Speaker Cannon.

Congressman W. S. Hammond will, of course, be a candidate for another term from the Second district and his record will help his election greatly. The fierce warfare between the factions in the Republican party will make a breach which it will be impossible to heal.

In the Third district, Frank Glotzbach, who made a winning run for the state senate in a Republican county and who since made an enviable record, is believed to be in line for promotion.

In the Fourth district, Tom Kane and Dan Lawler, both of them well known in the district as forceful and eloquent speakers and good vote-getters, are mentioned for the nomination.

The Democrats in the Fifth district are booming Harry Lund, the man who electrified the recent state convention with one of the best speeches made there. Lund is an able lawyer and a shrewd politician and is of Swedish decent.

There is plenty of good material in the Sixth district. The present congressman has been unfortunate in many of his appointments and is not the popular man that he was a couple of years ago.

The Seventh has long been regarded as hopelessly Republican, but the mention of the name of Victor E. Lawson of Willmar has given new hope to the Democrats of the county. The district has a strong prohibition trend. It is believed that Lawson, who is a fine speaker, would stand a chance of winning in this district.

In the Eighth, W. E. McEwen is in the public eye, and there is little doubt that if he should consent to the use of his name with the aid of labor votes and the split in the Republican party, he would make a formidable campaign.

In the Ninth district, C. A. Tullar of Warren, a wealthy retired farmer, who was recently honored by being made a delegate to the Democratic national convention, will doubtless enter the field. He is a gentleman who has made a study of economic questions and who will meet Congressman Steenerson on the stump and convince the people that they no longer wish to be represented in congress by a man who will submit to the tyranny of Boss Cannon.

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT.

St. Louis Times: When Father Coffey said that the three great influences of the age are the church, the newspaper and the stage he said the last word on a big subject.

Philadelphia Record: Urban Methodists asked the general conference to relax the ban upon dancing, cards and the theater. But the rural vote has come in and the prohibition will stay. Habits don't change so fast in the country as in the city and the force of tradition is stronger.

Kansas City Star: Happily a decline in theology would signify not the least abatement of pure and undefiled religion. The power of dogma may continue to subdue indefinitely without showing any influence whatever on the growth and expansion of morality or the basic factors of right living.

New York Tribune: They do say down Baltimore way that if the indefatigable heresy hunter's charges against four of the bishops of the Methodist church fail he will make at the next general conference charges of maladministration and heresy against the whole church, excepting only himself.

Baltimore American: A men's church has been established in Atlantic City, which, it is hoped, will be made popular both through its positive and negative qualities. The positive virtues are pipes, cigars and moving pictures through the sermon. The negative virtues are the absence of "merry widow" hats and general feminine frivolity. The idea of the enterprising mind which started these unique services is that evidently it is better for men to smoke here than hereafter.

ENLARGE STAPLES HOTEL.

To Make Many Improvements in the Staples Caravansary.

Staples, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the contracts for enlarging and remodeling the St. Charles hotel was let yesterday afternoon, George Mosher of this city agreeing to do all except plumbing and heating the building for something like $15,000. Contracts for this will be let June 1. The building, when completed, will have cost close to $20,000, and will consist of building an addition on the east side out to the alley, building a new sample room at the north side, on Third street, and putting an entire new front in the present building. Other improvements will also be put in, one of which is to be an enlarged office, with tile floor.

CAN'T SLIGHT CONTRACTS.

Crookston City Council Will Hold Contractors to Line.

Crookston, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The street and bridge committee of the Crookston city council has declared war against any slighting of city contracts in the future. The cement sidewalk contracts are not up to the standard in some instances of late, being underlaid with a foundation of sawdust which cannot be expected to sustain the weight or afford the firmness desired. The street and bridge committee held a council of war in the office of City Treasurer Caroll and at the next meeting of the city council there will be doings.

HEADACHE AND INDIGESTION

MR. FREDERICK BINDENBERGER.

Mr. Frederick Bindenberger of Cranford, N. J., who is 73 years of age, thought he was too old to work at his carpenter trade, as he was troubled continually with headache, indigestion and pains which seemed to be rheumatic.

On the advice of a friend Mr. Bindenberger started taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which completely cured him. He now has a good appetite and can do as good a day's work as any man.

Recently Mr. Bindenberger wrote.—"Previous to three years ago I thought I was too old to work any more at my trade as a carpenter. I was tired out, had what seemed to be rheumatism in my back and shoulder, had indigestion, headache and was pretty generally broken up. I was advised by a friend to take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, so I bought a bottle. I kept getting better; what seemed to be rheumatism left me; my appetite came back; I began to feel like doing something, so I went to work and have worked ever since taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey every day. I have only lost four hours since last November and that was on account of the snow being too deep to get to the shop until noon. I feel as young as I did thirty years ago and can make some of the younger ones hustle. I will be seventy-three years old next August if I live until then and I guess I will.

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

It cures nervousness, typhoid, malaria, every form of stomach trouble, all diseases of the throat and lungs, and all run-down and weakened conditions of the body, brain and nerves. It is prescribed by doctors and is recognized as the great family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Price $1.00. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Write Dr. R. Curran, Consulting Physician, for a free illustrated medical booklet and free advice. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

WIRES HARD HIT IN NORTH DAKOTA

Late Storm Did Worst Damage in History of State.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern railroad has placed a large gang of linemen at work on the line from Churchs Ferry west to make repairs made necessary by the disastrous sleet and wind storm of Wednesday. The damage to wires and poles is the most extensive in the history of the railway in North Dako. It was stated that on the ground west of Rugby, 75 per cent of the telegraph poles are lying on the ground. Wires for miles are a tangled mass ,broken and twisted.

On account of the wire trouble being so serious, the local headquarters of the Great Northern found it necessary to send James Arnold of the Grand Forks telegraph office of the Great Northern to Granville to assist the linemen in restoring communication. He will have charge of the line between Devils Lake and Minot until the wires are working again.

Scores of linemen are being employed in the work. Twenty men were sent out from Grand Forks alone. The Northwestern Telephone company has also sent a big force of men to repair the lines, and the Soo is trying to get the damage repaired. Old linemen who are at work state that the damage is the worst they have ever known to be a result of sleet.

It is feared that there will be some suffering among sheep and other stock on account of the heavy snowstorm in the vicinity of Williston and in Eastern Montana.

Trains were operated with difficulty between Devils Lake and Minot yesterday, on account of the wires being out of order.

A message from Minot says that city has been completely cut off from the outside world as far as telegraph and telephone connections are concerned, as a result of the sleet storm. Over 100 telephone wires are out of order in Minot, and electric light wires were put out of business in some sections.

AT THE LYCEUM

"Toodles in Holland" Will be Produced Under Auspices of T. P. Getz and Modern Samaritans ---"At Vassar" on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Next Friday and Saturday night and Saturday matinee, "Toodles in Holland," a big musical comedy, will be seen at the Lyceum, and the Modern Samaritans of Alpha Council No. 1 will present their first effort in the amusement line. Under the direction of "Tommy" Getz, who staged "A Night in Bohemia" and "King O'Keefe," about 100 of the best local singers have been rehearsing for three weeks, and the quaint little play, which opens at Proctor and takes "Toodles" and "Pussy Pumpkin" to Amsterdam to see the little Dutch kids, with the flaxen hair and wooden shoes, is already in good shape and nothing is to be done now but to add the finishing touches.

Gen. Cranston, postmaster at Proctor, who is given the cognomen of "Foxy Grandpa" by an artist for the comic supplement of a Sunday newspaper, is pestered to death by his little grandchild, "Toodles," to take her on a trip to Holland, she having seen the souvenir post cards with the quaint little girls and boys in their native costumes. Learning that the young ladies of Miss Flycash's seminary are going to give a lawn fete for the benefit of the "Pink Home for Pale Plumbers," presided over by Dr. Schwartkopf, Foxy Grandpa decides to deceive Toodles and, with this end in view, he hires the comedians and chorus of a stranded opera troupe, known as the "Girl from Holland." His plan is to get Toodles asleep and take her to the party. Upon her awakening she is to be told they are in Holland. Toodles learns of the deception and decides that she will turn the laugh on her grandpa. She disguises herself as a little Dutch boy and succeeds in having the general incarcerated in an insane asylum. She introduces, at a very opportune time, two of the boys and one of the comedians as his wife and daughters. The play is replete with funny situations, and the music is catchy and new. In the cast will be found Clara Collier, Flora McDonald, Little Jessie Beatty, Walter Smith, Joe Schwartz, W. S. Elick, Mina Clark, Joe McLaughlin and Don Clark. The chorus is composed of seventy-five girls and boys with excellent voices, and the pony ballet in the Dutch songs and dances is especially pleasing.

Mr. Getz promises that "Toodles in Holland" will surpass any of his former offerings.

STRONG STOCK COMPANY.

Willard Mack Secures Many New Artists for Summer Engagement.

These are indeed busy days at the Lyceum theater. Every one connected with the house from the property boys to the scenic artist is working day and night getting everything in readiness for the opening of the Mack-Leone players, which takes place Monday, June 1.

Word has been received from Mr. Mack that he has secured Marshall Farnum for the summer. Mr. Farnum is a brother of Dustin Farnum of "The Virginian" fame and will be remembered as the star of "Society and the Bull-Dog," by Paul Armstrong, author of "Salomy Jane." Miss Helen Holmes, who is well known in Duluth, will play the leading roles in support of Mr. Mack and his company. Miss Holmes has been seen here as leading lady for W. H. Stoddart in "The Bonnie Brier Bush," for Dustin Farnum in "The Virginian," and for Max Figman in "The Man on the Box." Percy Leonard, late of "The Shepard King" company, will play the juvenile parts and Miss Agnes Bilal will play the ingenue roles. Frank Tobin, who was also seen here last summer, will again be with the company. In addition to the new members, all of the old favorites, who were seen here last season, will be retained and Duluth will have, without a doubt, one of the strongest stock companies in the country.

"CUPID AT VASSAR."

College Play Portrays Best Type of an American Girl.

Kate Newton, the heroine of the new musical college girls' play, "Cupid at Vassar," is not only the basketball champion, but the representative American college girl. She has a clear mind, a clean heart and a well developed muscle. She is high spirited, and, when she thinks that her lover, John Willett, has set his eyes elsewhere, it doesn't take her all day to decide to give him a lesson, which she proceeds to do by telling her assembled friends that she has accepted John's rival, Amos North. She means to stand by her decision too, and it is only after she finds out that her accepted suitor has been the snake in the grass all through the four acts of the play, plotting with his weak mind as cleverly as he could to break up the understanding between her love and the man of her choice, and going to lengths that only confessed criminals are accused of going, that she loosens her grip on the scoundrel and allows him to drop back into the pool of deceit and falsehood that was his natural habitat. Florence Gear plays this remarkable girl, and will appear in the part when "Cupid at Vassar" comes to the Lyceum on May 26 and 27.

"The Ham Tree."

Klaw & Erlanger's production of George V. Hobart's new musical novelty, "The Ham Tree," in which they will present the famous black-face comedians, McIntyre and Heath, is an innovation in musical plays. This attraction will be the bill at the Lyceum on June 3.

McIntyre and Heath have been before the public in negro acts for more than thirty years, and they are regarded by all authorities of the stage as the two ablest men in their line of impersonation. They are surrounded by an excellent company, which includes a great chorus of dancing girls and boys. A dancing team of thirty appear in one feature of the performance. "The Ham Tree" is a notable play, not only because of its departure from beaten paths in musical production, but also from the standpoint of scenery, costumes and equipment. The cast of principals includes Alfred Fisher, Jeanne Towler, Belle Gold and Carolyn Gordon.

AT THE BIJOU

All the Numbers on Next Week's Bill Are Feature Attractions---"Lady Raffles, Queen of the Handcuffs" Will Visit Duluth.

Commencing Monday matinee, an all-feature program is billed to appear at the Bijou. Heading the bill will be Parmet and Russell, who offer their "Singing Travelers, in a Trip Around the World in an Airship." The singing in the act is by a quartet of well-known vaudeville singers. The act is a scenic novelty that is different from any other act, and has been one of the big hits in vaudeville the past season. The electrical storm and other effects are said to be exceptionally good.

In C. Grant Gardner and Marie Stoddard, the patrons of the Bijou will see what is claimed to be one of the best acts in vaudeville in the skech line, entitled, "Vaudeville Frivolities." Both Mr. Gardner and Miss Stoddard have appeared in the best of the larger road attractions, as well as having had long runs in Eastern cities. Their vaudeville offering is said to be fully up to their best work in other branches and a first-class act is assured.

A gymnastic feature of much merit will be "The Three Herbert Brothers," who are sensational American acrobats. They will perform some of the most daring and difficult feats ever seen on the local stage.

A bright comedy skit and singing act will be presented by Carrie Ezier and Josette Webb, entitled "The Actress and the Maid." Miss Ezier is a clever comedienne, who is full of bright and refined comedy. Miss Webb has an excellent singing voice.

As a special and added feature, the management has secured Sirronge, the Lady Raffles, who is beter known as the "Queen of Handcuffs and Shackles" She frees herself from the most complicated and modern handcuffs in the shortest possible time. Sirronge is the talk of every city where she displays her mysterious feats, without the aid of keys, picklocks or any assistance whatever. She has mystified the police officials in every country with her remarkable performance. She will appear at each performance next week.

Isadore Silver will sing a new illustrated song, entitled "Star of My Love."

The moving pictures will be "The Peaceful Inn" and "The Hunchback Brings Good Luck." Matinees are given dally at 2:45, and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved in advance by either telephone. A school children's matinee is given Saturday afternoon, at 2:30, and performances Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

New Operetta in Vaudeville Makes a Departure—How Savage Was Worsted, But Made a Fortune on "The Merry Widow."

New York, May 23.—Its all in that sensuous, languorous, seductive waltz strain, forming the accompaniment of the kiss which the tenor bestows upon the lips of the prima donna, that raises the mischief in the audience. Of course, no kiss has ever been seen in public in which the two principals work overtime quite like these, to create the necessary illusion of rapture, but it is the waltz strain that forms the yeast that starts the ferment in the audience. It is called "The Love Waltz," a one-act operatta on the Viennese model, which is now running at the Fifth Avenue theater, as a feature in the high-class vaudeville bill offered there twice a day, including Sunday.

When the handsome tenor in his brilliant Pandor uniform glues his lips to the lips of the princess, after the playful pantomine that forms the prelude, and they glide across the stage, hither and yon, like two shadows merged into one, with one pulsing music apparently beating in consonance with the rhythm of their heart throbs and sustaining their long osculatory conjunction till they vanish behind the scenes, there is always an emotional disturbance in front of the house.

Some women treat it as a joke and have a mild form of hysterics of suppressed laughter, and here and there a loud, derisive shriek breaks out among the feminine contingent. But some take it seriously, and, after gazing a while, hold their hands before their eyes to shut out the spectacle. Whether they looked through their fingers I was unable to make out, for I was far back among the standees. But all over the house, while this new love waltz is in process of evolution on the stage, the effect is electrical and the spell works like a bromo seltzer.

It discounts Anna Held' s notable achievements in this direction and is a wonder worker as a sensational novelty. The waltz is as delicate as the daintiest piece of lace and as elusive as a cobweb—a trickling stream of seraphic music, with an ecstatic sob somewhere in the middle that vibrates through your soul like the plaintive sigh of a lovelorn maiden. It is "The Merry Widow" and "The Waltz Dream" reduced to an act and as brilliantly presented by a company of about twenty people, most attractively costumed, and on the whole quite well played and sung. The atmosphere is practically the same as the two more pretentious works, and the plot is similar to the plot of the Strauss opera.

When Augustus Thomas launches his next play, it is reasonably safe to predict that it will be on a theme dealing with a strong central character who is a Jew. Thomas has an insidious way of promoting interest in himself and his works, and he improved the opportunity afforded him one afternoon last week of telling a specially invited audience that the coming great play would glorify a man of the Hebraic race.

"The next big play," he said, "that is coming, and coming very soon, is of the Jew. Not the Jew of Shakespeare's time, nor the Russian Jew, or the suffering, persecuted Jew, but the great American Jew, who is philanthropic, far-seeing, and above all, sweetly domestic."

The occasion of this delivery was a discussion of "The Better Outlook of the Drama," at the Hudson theater for the benfit of the League of Political Education, in which William H. Crane, Mrs. W. J. Le Moyne and Charles Renn Kennedy, author of "The Servant in the House," participated. Kennedy has speedily become an interesting personage since the success of his preachy play with its strong symbolic characters, and he carried some of his sermonizing into his delivery. He said a number of good things, and among others, this: "The truth is that this same better outlook for the drama is within you. It depends upon you, and the courage with which you band together to enforce it, whether America shall produce a national drama which shall take its place among the proudest movements of that kind in any age."

Mr. Crane deplored the fact that there are not enough Shakespearean productions at present, and contended that this, in conjunction with commercialism, has much to do with the stage of today.

One of the surprises of the past week was the announcement that Henry Miller has severed his connection with the Shuberts, and cast his fortunes with Klaw & Erlanger through a business alliance with Frank Mc Kee. The significance of this step is to be sought in the events of the recent past. Some severe and caustic remarks were attributed to Klaw & Erlanger anent Miss Anglin's acting ability at a time when both she and her manager, Mr. Miller, were very improperly overshadowed by specially promoted favorites who could not act half as well as they. The answer to this depreciatory estimate was Miss Anglin's triumph in "Zira," and her subsequent success in "The Great Divide." But the Shuberts had been instrumental in bringing about this commendable state of affairs. They formed with Mr. Miller and Miss Anglin a tripartite partnership to take the Princess Theater, whose space had long been unfamiliar with the echoes of applause. In "Zira" Miss Anglin showed her true mettle as a fine artist, and when her long engegement came to an end, Brown of Harvard," moved in and added new laurels to the brows of the three partners. Miss Anglin suddenly rose, deservedly enough, from a discredited position to one of commanding importance. To her judgment and ability much of the ensuing success of the triple allianec is attributed. It was she that dicovered Nazimova in an obscure theater on Third avenue, and brought her into the limelight of publicity on the English-speaking stage through her influence with Henry Miller. It was she who picked up Moody's drama of "The Great Divide," in Chicago, and produced it under obstacles. Now she is one of the most widely-heralded actresses of the American stage, and about to extend her triumphs to another continent. They made a few inevitable mistakes between their successes, but the general summary of the results achieved by the combination in the face of discouragement shows a big balance on the right side of the ledger. Miller became recognized not only as a good actor but as intelligent stage director, and his artistic judgment is largely responsible for the success of the different plays, including "The Servant in the House," presented by his associate players, and another money maker. It is doubtful if any other manager would have undertaken this production.

For these and other reasons it created surprise when the announcement was made that the Shuberts and their artistic partners had parted company and the latter had gone over to the camp of their former enemies. The reason assigned for the change is that the Shuberts provided them with undesirable bookings through the season, and cut short their engagements in Boston and Philadelphia. Accordingly the Savoy, where "The Servant in the House," is now playing, will be the producing theater of the Miller attractions next season, instead of Daly's.

A prince is ordered to marry the princess of a foreign court whom he has never seen. He has met a charming girl in Brussels some time before and loves her. It was the princess under an incognito. The prince exchanges roles with one of his officers in order to inspect his intended bride without being known, and the princess, likewise parades under another name. The two meet and recognize each other from their Brussels days, and it is then that the love waltz is introduced. When they meet again it is to go to the altar, neither knowing that the other is the right one until they are about to take each other's hands and now behold themselves in their rightful characters as the prince and princess. The little operetta forms a distinct innovation in vaudeville, and its hearty reception argues favorably for the success of the series of De Koven musical pieces which are to be introduced next season.

The fact that "The Merry Widow" receipts in New York were more than half a million dollars proves that Col. Savage made no mistake when he acquired the rights from George Edwardes, the London manager, under the peculiar circumstances that marked the transaction.

Edwardes is the father of musical comedy in the British capital, and was looking around for some novelty to tempt the jaded appetite of his clientele, when he heard that Vienna had gone completely music mad over a new comic opera.

He crossed the channel and went to the Austrian capital, heard "The Merry Widow" and sought Franz Lehar, the composer, behind the scenes. Lehar wanted $10,000 cash and $140 a week of nominal salary as conductor during the run of the opera. On no other terms would he part with the English and American rights. Edwardes asked for twenty-four hours to take the proposition under advisement. He went back to his hotel and began to figure. He didn't object to the weekly stipend, but he hesitated about the $10,000. Now, usually he who hesitates is lost. But in this case it won. For, when Edwardes went into the breakfast room of his hotel the next day he spied a familiar face at one of the tables.

"Hello, Colonel," said the London impresario; "what are you doing in Vienna?"

"I'm after the American rights of 'The Merry Widow,' said Col. Savage. Edwardes smiled complacently.

"I believe I'm ahead of you," he said. "I have the rights for both countries, and it's going to cost me something handsome. But I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll sell you the American rights for $12,000 and $140 a night royalty."

Savage merely thrust his hand into an inner pocket, took out his checkbook, and in five minutes the transaction was closed. Everybody was happy. Edwardes went back to London with the score of "The Merry Widow" and $2,000 in his pocket; Col. Savage hastened to the United States with the American rights, and Lehar retired to his magnificent suburban home, paid for with $10,000 of Savage's money.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell sailed for London last week, declaring that when she next returns it will be under Belasco's management. The statement created considerable surprise, but was partly confirmed by Belasco, who admitted that negotiations between him and the English actress had been pending. Apparently no agreement had been reached when Mrs. Pat went aboard her steamer, but as Belasco is going to England this summer he may meet her and conclude arrangements for her appearance under his management.

When Belasco and Mrs. Carter parted he had a play ready for her on which he staked high hopes. It is a play with comparatively few characters, but with a powerful woman's role. The fact that Blanche Bates did not get this play is assigned as one reason why she is disgruntled with Belasco and will not be under his management again. Before that is settled, however, there is likely to be a lawsuit. Belasco will attempt to hold Miss Bates to her contract, and Miss Bates is said to be equally determined to break away from her present manager.

She has accumulated a handsome fortune and owns a good farm at Ossining. It is not indispensably necessary for her to work if she does not choose to do so, but Miss Bates is ambitious and regards herself as in the prime of her power and popularity. Hence she will not submit to being relegated to obscurity through a misunderstanding with her manager. In the meantime it is not known that Belasco has a play ready for her, even if she remains under his management.

"TOODLES IN HOLLAND."

NEWS OF THE WEEK AT THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL

THE HIGH SCHOOL DRAMATIC CLUB.

Only two more weeks of grinding confronts the impatient high school students, who long for the happy days of vacation to arrive and with it the joyous summer sports. A few preliminary examinations handed out on Thursday, the seniors being tendered a surprise by Prof. Lambert with an "examination on the voice." On the same day the juniors tussled with the spelling tests. On Thursday and Friday of next week the seniors will finish up their work by taking their final examination and will make merry while the other classes plug through theirs the following week.

The sudden change of date for the senior farewell caused a small stampede among the girls who had charge of the spread part of the program as well as the swains who usually take a week or so coaxing their courage up to the point where they can ask a fair maid to accompany them. In spite, however, of the abnormal condition of things, the party was a momentous success for their hosts, the seniors.

A new sport has been installed among the last of spring pleasures, which has gained a strong foothold, especially among the seniors. During the past week a beautiful prize loving cup has been on exhibition in Room 208, Desk 4, which is to be competed for by any two scholars, male or female, who are up in their conduct and do not belong to the Junior "P. D. Q." gang. The contest is to be pulled off on the bay, where the teams will compete in canoes. Six entries have been made and the event will take place on the first nice day.

Prof. Heston, track coach, is being held away from the weather man by main force for this was to have been the gala year for the track men. Many plans were formed and carried out, many prizes were bought and put on exhibition to keen the young hopefuls sturdily at their duties. These things brought forth the best squad the school has seen for many years, causing many records to be looked upon as trifles, but after the squad had been training a few days, a snowstorm set in. The meet was to have been held last Saturday and was looked forward to as a great affair. A raw northeaster kept all but a few freshies at home. The meet was then postponed until yesterday, when the spring showers proved too much for the muddy tracks at the park, so no meet will be held now until a pleasant day arrives next week.

The freshmen are also glowering in the weather man's direction, for they claim that he stole a march on them in sending bad weather Wednesday afternoon, when they were to have met the juniors to decide the baseball championship of the school. The "youngsters" have won from the other two classes and are confident of downing the '09 team. All the baseball fans have been busily engaged in keeping tab on the faculty who claim that they are going to wallop the seniors next Tuesday. It is rumored that Professors Phillips and Sprague have been perfecting a speedy battery that will puzzle any senior that will take chances at batting.

The English students have decided that Miss Mildred Washburn, Miss Della Smith and Dean Coventry have perfected the best senior essays and on class night they will honor the audience by reading them.

The senior chemistry laboratory has a very wierd appearance these days as the chemists are busy analyzing solutions to obtain metals, causing vapors, fumes and odors of great variety to issue forth in abundance.

Everybody is impatiently awaiting the coming of the "Zenith which will appear in a week or so. Much labor and time was spent on the book and it is full of many ingenious little oddities which will make it the best ever.

Miss Wells of the faculty, was hostess at a function in honor of the senior girls this afternoon. The class colors were profuse and beautiful, and the girls reported a dandy time. After the party the girls proceeded in a body to the school to superintend the class spread.

A crowd of the "09" attended the reception given by the Blaine high school of Superior in honor of their champion basketball team.

don, meanwhile producing Kennedy's new plays, "The Winter Feast," and "The Idol Breaker." By that time Miss Anglin will be back from Australia and be ready to begin her engagement at the Savoy in Percy Mackay's "Mater." Following this production will come William Vaughn Moody's second play, "The Faith Healer," which is expected to create as great a sensation as "The Great Divide." Miller will not return to New York till the fall of 1909, in a new play, meanwhile presenting "The Great Divide" on tour and in London. It is said that the only remaining interest combining the Shuberts with the two artists is their third share in "The Great Divide." Mr. Miller, according to a statement attributed to him, expects to prove in the next three years "that art and commercialism can and should go hand in hand."

In an interview given a London journalist the other day Charles Frohman confessed that the principal reason for his going to London as a producing manager was to refute the charge that had been brought against him by rival American managers that he did not do anything original, but depended upon European successes for his American presentations. He also said that in moving into London he profited by the experience of other American invaders who had failed. He did not attempt to instruct London as to what Americans thought they needed in the English theaters, but confined himself to studying London conditions, and tried to give them what the British public professed they cared for.

Margaret Anglin closed her American tour in St. Paul last night and started West immediately, in order to reach Vancouver in time to sail for Australia on May 22. Louis Nethersole will be Miss Anglin's business representative on the Australian tour.

David Warfield, accompanied by his wife and sister-in-law, sailed for Europe last week, to be gone three months. Mr. Warfield will visit Germany, France and Italy by easy stages, and will take a rest of that period. Upon his return he is to present "The Grand Army Man," and afterwards will make a revival of "The Music Master." This means that the London plans have been abandoned and that Warfield is not to play there.

"The marriage of William Ashe" in dramatic form in London seems to have met with about the same fate that it did in this country. Fannie Ward has been highly praised by the critics for her work in the role of Lady Kitty, but the play is spoken of as weak and unconvincing. Marc Klaw, who produced it in London, says this was due in a measure to the high opinion the critics had formed of the book that was the story for the play. He also contends that critics should not read a novel before they see a play based upon the story of the same.

Ralph Edmunds, long associated with the Metropolitan Opera house in New York, both under Maurice Grau and Heinrich Conried, has been promoted to the business management of the opera and will relieve Sig. Gatti-Casazza of the business worries of that task. Drury Underwood will succeed Mr. Edmunds as the press agent.

The Shuberts last week closed a deal for the erection of a new theater in Boston, which when completed will be devoted to their attractions when they play the Hub. This means that the present working arrangement with A. L. Wilbur, whereby the Shubert attractions have been playing the Majestic theater, will end as soon as the present contract with Manager Wilbur terminates.

In the appellate division of the New York supreme court last week a contract suit was decided which put another legal phase upon the drawing of theatrical contracts, as far as engagements of actors are concerned. The law holds that unless otherwise provided, the engagement for a weekly salary is a stipulation to play from one week to another, and that the contract is not binding for the entire season, as was supposed. This will mean that players who demand season's engagements will have to so stipulate this in their contracts to make the responsibility legal.

C. M. S. McClellan, who has not written a big play since "Leah Kleschna," has just completed another drama called "A Matter of Money," in which he goes after the American commercial development known as trusts. He also says the play is an attack upon the rabble instinct that has grown up in American business circles. The play will be produced next fall by Liebler & Co., and if successful in this country will be sent to London later.

There is some legal tangle as to the rights of "The Truth" in this country, and the Shuberts, who produced the play, with Clara Bloodgood as the star, have engaged Ida Conquest to present it for some special performances this month, with a view of protecting their rights to the drama.

Emma Janvier, who was a personal hit in "Fifty Miles From Boston" when seen here last season, has decided to try a monologue in vaudeville. It will be modeled after the style of her specialty in the Cohan piece. George V. Hobart has written a new song that Miss Janvier called "Of Course, That's Nothing To Me," which she will introduce into her act when she starts her season this week in New York.

The close of "The Warrens of Virginia" after its season's run at the Belasco theater in New York has given Frank Keenan a short vacation, and he leaves next week for Europe, where he will spend some time before returning to his summer home at Lake Chautauqua. S. Miller Kent, the actor who has been playing in "Raffles" all season, recently closed his season and was hurried to New York, where he is now confined in a private hospital suffering from a disease that he baffled the most skilled diagnosticians. Late last week it was said that the actor was in a serious condition.

The Madison Square Garden company is suing Henry W. Savage for nonfulfillment of his lease on the Garden theater in New York, which is part of the big show building. Savage occupied the house for three years, and it is claimed agreed to renew the lease this season, but has not done so. The year there has been a failure, and the company claims that either one of the Savage productions that were made at other theaters in New York would have kept the garden open for the entire season.

The Jews have joined forces with other races in the matter of endeavoring to suppress stage caricatures of their people. A Pittsburg sectarian paper has taken up the fight against the ridiculous stage Jew as he has long been portrayed in cheap vaudeville, musical comedy and burlesque shows. To what extent they will be able to handle the nuisance is a matter of conjecture.

Last week marked the last public appearance of Kellar, the famous magician. In over thirty years Kellar has forced his way to the very first ranks, and retires with a snug fortune and a well-earned reputation. He has elected to establish Howard Thurston as his successor and leaves the field of magic to that young entertainer. Kellar will retire to a ranch in Southern California, where he hopes to spend his days in peace and quietude.

The annual meeting of the Actors' Fund last week demonstrated the unusual drain on the resources of that charity this season. The report showed that the receipts for the year were $96 669, with expenditures of $122,904, leaving a deficit of $26,234. This will be made up by collecting the annual dues on the fourth week of next season.

George Alexander has just brought out Pinero's latest play, "The Thunderbolt," in England, and it seems to have met with a brilliant success. The play is a study of middle-class life in that country, and deals in a cynical spirit the relations of several husbands and wives who are making a play for a considerable fortune that is the stake. It is said to possess all of Pinero's deft constructive charm and is powerful for its character drawing.

BOY MAY BECOME A CARUSO

Metropolitan Opera Company Offers to Sign a Contract With Him—All Depends Upon the Decision of His Mother.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 23.—Unless the mother of Harry Sakolsky, the boy tenor, approved by Enrico Caruso, withholds her consent, the former bootblack, who has been discovered to have one of the finest voices in the world, shortly will be a member of the Metropolitan Opera company, with a future of fame and fortune practically assured. Mrs. Sakolsky, the poor Jewish widow in whose hands for the present lies the fate of the vocal prodigy, has received through Prof. M. H. Stevenson, the boy's instructor, a letter from the manager of the company saying if she would give written consent a contract would be signed binding Sakolsky for five years and obligating the impresario to train him for grand opera. Whether she will realize what the opportunity means to her son is uncertain. He never has been away from her for a day, although he is 15 years old, and the money he earns by singing in synagogues is the family's sole support. Sakolsky has four sisters as well as his mother to maintain. If he joins the company he may not be able to provide for them as well at first as if he stayed here, although in a few years he can keep them in style superior to that of many princesses in their native Russia. No one knows which way the woman's decision will turn.

Musical circles in the last couple of days have shown much interest in the youngster who sprang into nation notice by singing to the satisfaction of Caruso and other members of the opera company. To musicians, of course, he is only a voice. It is merely incidentally interesting to them that for years he made his living by selling papers and blacking boots, and that his home in the hill district still is one of poverty. It is recognized by those who have heard Sakolsky that the young Russian Jew in the next decade may be one of the most celebrated singers in the world. His voice is likened to Caruso's, and it is believed with further training it will attain all the robust richness of the Metropolitan star's tones. If the operatic world followed a custom of the prize ring Sakolsky doubtless would go before the public as "Young Caruso." His appearance is much like that of the Italian, though his temperament seems calmer. When he sang selections from "Gioconda" and "La Donna e Mobile" from "Rigoletto," Caruso himself appeared to be struck by the resemblance.

No other member of the Sakolsky family ever has shown the smallest musical talent. Mrs. Sakolsky and her daughters were unaware, until four years ago, that their son and brother was a born singer. The boy, then 11 years old, when his mother brought him here from the province of Grodno, Russia, after the death of his father, showed great fondness for the music in the synagogues. On his first visit to the Beth Hanedrosh Hagodel synagogue in Washington street, his voice, then a juvenile contralto, attracted attention by its roundness and sweetness. Solomon Grofman, now cantor in a fashionable synagogue in New York, occupied the same position in the Washington street place of worship. He took Sakolsky to Prof. Stevenson, who began training the lad's voice, and, when it changed, recognized it as a tenor of exceptional beauty. When Caruso came here the professor obtained from him a hearing for Sakolsky, and the impression the boy made on the famous artist led to the offer from the Metropolitan company.

SIRROUJE,
The Lady Raffles at the Bijou.

SAYS LYING IS A DISEASE

Noted Medical Publicist of Paris Asserts It Comes Like Paresis and Creates an Irresponsible Condition.

Recently in Paris the court of cassation declared through the mouth of its presiding judge, in a bourgeois divorce case, that a certain witness was "not only incapable of speaking the truth, but that, apparently, he could not even think it," says the New York World. In other words, the said witness was declared to be irresponsibly mendacious, and that he was a congenital or hereditary liar. Naturally enough, the Paris press seized upon the incident and gathered the opinions of medical experts as to the extent to which irresponsible mendacity existed in human nature. The results can hardly be said to be encouraging, and a pathetic enough consideration is the undoubted fact, according to medical testimony, that the habit of lying may, all unconsciously to ourselves, overtake us at any period in life, and follow us down to a dishonest grave.

Dr. Pieron, who is a medical publicist of note in the French capital, says that the brain in the course of its development—that is, up till the fiftieth year in average men—may at some point or other develop a malformation which will have the effect of destroying the ratiocinative or reasoning faculty. Like paresis, of which mendacity is a kindred disease, it may come upon the most truthful and the least suspecting man without a moment's warning, and just as the result of a sudden "kink" occurring in the cerebral structure.

Lying, says Pieron, is not by any means a monopoly of women and children. The male grown-up, even if he does not naturally evince the tendency to exaggerate or invent—a certain indication of degeneracy—is always liable to become a victim of the lying habit. The natural and spontaneous liar who has reached maturity lies because he is physically or mentally still an infant, and can neither exercise any power of criticism either subjectively or objectively, and is wholly devoid of reasoning as to the effect his lies produce upon his hearers or upon their objects. He will lie maliciously just as recklessly or as easily as he lies spontaneously or simply, the result being incalculable as far as he is concerned. They are, unfortunately, amenable to the influence of stronger wills, and can, under quasi-hypnotic power, be made to assert almost anything, the truth or untruth of their declaration being to them not only an entirely absent consideration, but without the scope of their mental or moral purview.

The so-called harmless liar, says Pieron, differs only a slight degree from the malicious or brutal liar for motives of revenge, jealousy or cruelty. The physical malformation is almost identical in both cases, the diqerence being only one of morbidity and a more diseased condition of the nerve cells which produces the state of hysteria, of which lying is perhaps the most pronounced symptom.

The children of drunkards and lunatics, more than any others, evince the disposition to lie and to deceive, and it is an unfortunate fact that considerable ability and even religious and conscientious spirit—as for example in money matters—may exist side by side with the tendency toward mendacity. In women who are the children of lunatics and drunkards the lying spirit often manifests itself, although a keen sense of honor is still preserved in the common dealings of life. The woman remains, however, wholly unconscious of her lapse, say, in cases of infidelity. She is, says Pieron, in the position of a person who has no recollection of having done wrong. She will deny her guilt and lie away her soul, really in good faith, simply because she refuses to persuade herself that she is doing wrong or that she has done wrong. Though such a woman were preparing to commit an offense, she would still deny her guilt, even though there had been a thousand witnesses of it.

This is not moral perversion, for the moral sense in woman is rather a reflection of the sense of honor or justice in a man than an active and original quality. It is simply that in such women, even as in men of similar mentality, the ideas cease to co-ordinate or to become logical at a certain point in the cerebral digestive process. It is just like this: If a psychopathic liar were to look out of a window and see a camel with one single hump the sight of the animal would, in the normal way, strike upon the retina and having ratiocinatively declared itself to be a camel, would figuratively travel down the optic nerve and pass into the brain. At a certain junction of nerve lines the camel would—unconsciously to the psychopathic liar—switch off the original nerve line it was intended that it should follow. Having become paralyzed, so to speak, the camel would while germinally remaining a camel in the liar's mind change its proportions relatively to its actual condition. It would, when left to the choice of other rails in the "junction," develop into a two-humped or even a three-humped camel. Its pads would grow ten times their original size; its hide would from light brown become a bright red, its neck would become longer than that of a giraffe. All this because the central idea became derailed in the liar's mind, and the cerebral "stomach" refused, owing to its diseased state, to digest the primary conception.

Lying of this kind is, therefore, a disease, and must be so accounted. Nevertheless, the existence of such beings in the world should be noted by the health authorities, since they are so easily influenced by unscrupulous persons. Where the disease of such a person can be diagnosed and recorded, the legal testimony is not of more validity than would be that of a gramophone.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER HAS PLAN TO PROTECT PIKE SPAWN FROM SUCKERS

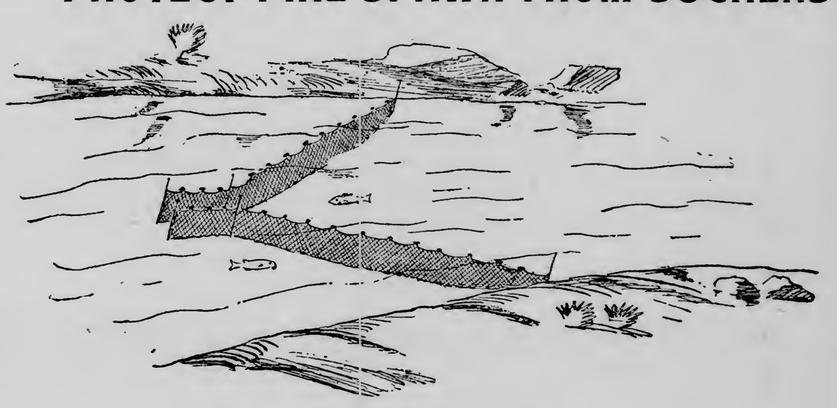

DIAGRAM SHOWING PROPOSED NET.

County Commissioner E. M. Patterson of this city ,who has more than a local reputation as an enthusiastic follower of Isaac Walton, has devised a scheme which seems to promise protection to the pike spawn in the Northern Minnesota rivers during the hatching out process.

Mr. Patterson's idea is the result of careful study of the situation, following reliable information from a logger on Pike river, who says that every spring, following the spawning season, the suckers run up the river and devour the greater part of the pike spawn. The logger told Mr. Patterson that, from his personal observations, there have been times when the spawn was from eight inches to a foot thick in Pike river, just below the rapids, after the pike had spawned and gone down stream. The informant claims that as soon as the pike left the suckers rushed in and, being a voracious fish, they almost cleaned out all the spawn before the hatching took place.

Mr. Patterson's idea is to stretch some inch or one and one-half inch mesh nets from the bank of the river, toward the center, and somewhat down the stream, the ends to come within a foot or two feet of meeting. From each end of the nets in the middle of the stream, two wings, about five or six feet long and parallel with the banks, are attached, the nets to either be anchored or attached to piles driven in the river bed.

According to Mr. Patterson's theory, the nets should be placed immediately after the pike have gone up to the spawning bed, or as soon as they commence leaving the same. He believes that the pike, seeking their way down stream, will strike the nets on either side of the middle of the stream and follow them to the outlet, passing through the narrow passageway between the wings.

When the suckers begin heading for the spawn beds, Mr. Patterson figures it out that they will strike the nets and follow them toward the shore line; that not one in a hundred of the schools of suckers will find the narrow opening in the middle of the stream.

If this scheme will work out as Mr. Patterson believes it will, the pike can easily make their way from the spawning beds, and the percentage of suckers that get in to eat the spawn will be so small as to cut no figure. Mr. Patterson thinks that the nets should be left in a week or ten days from the close of the spawning season, after which the young fish are hatched out and are able to take care of themselves.

The idea, it is said, can be worked out in other northern stream, as the St. Louis river, just below the rapids, where the pike go to spawn verey season. In streams where there is a possibility of logs of branches from trees floating down stream to tear or displace the nets, Mr. Patterson says that ample protection would be given the nets by stretching a boom of logs across the river immediately above the nets.

It is figured that the nets and other equipment required to carry out Mr. Patterson's idea would not cost over $150 to $200 for each of the principal streams where the pike spawn every spring, and it is possible that the state fish and game commission might, by the adoption of the scheme, save a great deal of the spawn that is destroyed by the suckers every season.

Mr. Patterson expects to take the matter up with the fish and game commission, and will present his scheme for their criticism or approval.

BELLINGHAM ENJOYS NAVAL SPECTACLE.

Bellingham, Wash., May 23.—The first division, comprising seven of the Atlantic battleship fleet, yesterday furnished the citizens of Bellingham and this section of Washington one of the most interesting spectacles in the history of the state, 3,500 sailors and marines from the ships parading through the principal streets to martial music before 100,000 people. The day was the crowning one of Rear Admiral Sperry's visit to this picturesque port.

The chief social event was a ball given to officers of the fleet at Fairyland rink.

Port Townsend, Wash., May 23.—Unbounded hospitality at every hand has followed the official welcome to Washington state, proferred to the officers and men of the battleships Kearsarge and Illinois at this port by Acting Governor Charles E. Coon, who came here from Olympia for the purpose.

DANDELIONS HAVE A VALUE

Are Used for Greens by Many European Races.

A little woman, bent with years and much stooping over, may be seen every forenoon that isn't stormy, hunting through the vacant lots and along the streets on certain parts of the hillside. As she walks along she scans the ground closely, and from time to time bends over and cuts a greenish plant at the root, thrusts it into a little sack carried on her back, and resumes her search.

This little old woman, who is one of the first signs of spring, is a gatherer of dandelions. Toward the middle of the day she can be seen on her way back to her home, weighted down with the bulging bag of greens on her back.

This woman is an Italian, and is only one of many of her countrymen and women in Duluth who realize that nature has many things to offer that are not generally appreciated. In Italy and in other parts of Southern Europe, dandelions are sold the same as any other vegetable, and are in general demand for table use.

One of the things that surprise the French and Italians, when they get accustomed to the ways of this country, is to find that dandelions are here regarded as little better than weeds and that few Americans in the cities have developed a fondness for them. Those who go to the country learn, of course, that dandelion greens are as much an article of diet in the spring as home-made sausage in the winter time. They find, too, that the vegetable markets in country towns never keep dandelion greens for sale, because they can be had anywhere for the picking.

A dinner of mushrooms and dandelion greens, prepared in the way the Italian women know, may be strictly curean charms.

The First Money.

When metals were first used for payment they were simply weighed. The next step was the issue of pieces of gold and silver that had been weighed, and in time it became the custom to mark the exact weight and value on each piece. The value of the best beer is easily recognized by the name, "Golden Belt Beer," on the bottle or case. This is a sign of unequaled excellence in a wholesome malt tonic. See that the case that goes into your cellar is so marked. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Duluth Branch Minneapolis Brewing Co.

The merchant whose mind is too often alienated from planning and devising his advertising is falling into business peril!

SOX LOSE TO BRANDON

Duluth Men Fail to Hit Blackburn and Are Blanked.

Brandt Pitches a Good Game, But O'Dea's Team Scores Two.

Brandon, Man., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—With Brandt pitching nice ball and the Sox fielding without a misplay behind him, Duluth failed to win from Brandon yesterday because they couldn't hit the ball. Blackburn, a new pitcher, was in the box for Brandon and he held the Sox to three hits and won, 2 to 0.

The game was a dandy from a spectator's point of view. Both pitchers were given fine support and fielding stunts aplenty were pulled off. Strike outs were few in number and the fielders were kept busy picking them out of the air and scooping them out of the dirt. Both teams were robbed of hits several times and crowd was kept right on edge all through the game.

A couple of timely swats won for Brandon. In the fifth inning Mills drew a base on balls and Custer sacrificed him to second. Blackburn came to the front with a nice single to center field and Mills scored from second base. In the eighth McGraw landed one safely, stole second and Sam Menefee cracked one against the fence for three sacks, scoring McGraw.

Manager O'Dea was out of the game on account of illness and Menefee went to first, McGraw playing his first game in the field. The Duluth boy made good with two safe clouts, though he didn't have anything to do in the field.

The game wound up with a sensational play by Summers. He picked off Ness' long drive in center field, and, by a beautiful throw to first base, doubled O'Brien and retired the side.

FITWELLS TO PLAY SUPERIOR

Cummings Will Pitch Against Wisconsin City Stars Sunday.

The amateurs will again hold sway at Athletic park Sunday afternoon, when the Fitwells will meet the Superior city team. The Superior club is not the same that the Fitwells humbled a few weeks ago, but is made up of the best players in the city across the bay and should put up a good article of ball.

The Fitwells are strong this year, with several additions to the team of last season. Earl Cummings is pitching the finest kind of ball and his performance in the box will be worth seeing. Brownlee, the southpaw, who was with the Kelley club, and Schulz will do the throwing for Superior. The teams will line up as follows:

Superior—	Position.	Fitwells.—
Schurch	c	Schaefer
Brownlee, Schulz	p.	Cummings, Arsenau
A. Buchanan	1b	Sturm
H. Buchanan	2b	Winters

MEET AT KANSAS CITY.

Athletics of Many Universities Contest on Track and Field.

Kansas City, May 23.—Athletes from the state universities of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, the three Iowa universities—Iowa, Drake and Ames—and Washington university of St. Louis, took part in the intercollegiate meet at the New Elm Ridge field this afternoon. Ames entered the largest track team, twenty-six men. The University of Iowa sent 16; Nebraska, 15; Drake, 19, and Washington, 6.

It was the first annual meet of the seven schools composing the new Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic association, and all of the colleges sent their best men.

The field, laid out in the center of the old race-track, in front of the huge grand-stand, was so large that several of the events went simultaneously.

ROSEBEN IS BEATEN.

Priscellain, Split Favorite, Wins Easily at Belmont.

Belmont Park, N. Y., May 23.—On a muddy track Priscellain, 2 to 1, split favorite with Roseben, easily won the Claremont handicap, 6½ furlong on the main track at Belmont Park yesterday. He was heavily played as his recent races have been good. Roseben was a receding favorite, opening at 7 to 5 and drifting back to 2 to 1. King Cobalt was second four lengths before Roseben.

WAR CANOES A FEATURE

Novel Races Will be Held by Boat Club.

The "Eight" is Swamped —Membership List is Closed.

War canoe races are going to be one of the big features of the season of the Duluth Boat club this year.

The club has ordered two big war canoes and they are expected to arrive at almost any time. Crews are already being organized, and some exciting races will be held this summer. The canoes seat sixteen men, and they travel as fast as a four-oared shell. The sport is very popular in the East, and the war canoe races are a feature of all the big regattas.

Crews are being organized among the lawyers, the bankers, the board of trade men, the Wolvin building employes, and others who are members of the club. Probably six or eight crews can be organized in this way, and a series of races will be held on Saturday afternoons.

Four-oared crews are now being organized among the oarsmen to compete for the Kelley-Killorin medals.

Four handsome gold medals are offered for the best four-oared crew in a club. Any four members of the club can get together and enter in the race. "The more the merrier," is the theory of the directors, and if possible eight or ten crews will be organized.

The formal opening of the club will be held next Friday evening, when the annual meeting and a smoker will be held. Officers will be elected at that time, and it is likely that the present officers will again be chosen. The members are so delighted with the improvements that are being made at the club this year, that they are anxious that the officers and directors be given every opportunity to carry out their plans in full.

The "eight" had a chilly bath Thursday evening. The oarsmen were out for their regular evening row and were caught in a sudden gale, which sprang up from the southwest. Before they could get back to the clubhouse the shell filled with water and swamped. The life savers rescued the men, and they all reached the clubhouse in safety.

The men who are trying out for the crew this year are an exceptionally heavy squad. It is the best material Duluth over had for an eight-oared crew, and under the coaching of Dr. F. L. Lyman it is believed that a winning eight can be turned out. The eight has not yet been fully made up, but it will be chosen from some twelve or fifteen men who are trying for the positions in the boat.

The Spirit Lake branch is now open and is proving more popular than ever. Big improvements have been made there this year, and the pretty little resort is a great favorite with picnic parties.

In spite of the wishes of the officers and directors, and against the policy they adopted, the club has become an "exclusive" affair. The membership list is now closed, and there is already a waiting list, which is growing every day. No more members will be taken in this year, unless some of the old members drop out.

The club was forced to adopt this policy, as the membership list outgrew the accommodations, and if any more members were taken in it would have been at the expense of the comfort of the 800 who now belong to the club, and their families.

What steps will be taken next year will be decided upon later. The club may enlarge its main house and increase its membership limit, or it may allow matters to remain as they are for another year.

The Sox played their best game of the season. They speared them one-handed, scooped them up like big leaguers and kept the crowd of Brandon fans right on edge. But they didn't hit that old ball and they lost.

There isn't much in it for those pitchers to go into the game and work their heads off, when nobody behind them will hit the ball. Swell fielding teams are all very well, but hitting scores runs and unless runs are sent over the plate no team will ever win a game.

What the Sox needs are a few swatters, who can be depended upon in a pinch to clout one out and make the hits that come before count for something. The team hasn't a man now, who is there in a pinch. Notice the Brandon squad. There's always somebody there in the proper place to pick out a nice one and drop it in the garden, where nobody happens to be loitering around. That's the kind of thing that counts and the Sox can't pull it off.

Nobody could ask any better fielding and pitching than the Duluth squad has been showing up north. Krick, Brandt and Murray are all in fine shape. The fielding is great. But the whole team hasn't hit much more than .100 and until a few men are added, who can hit the ball hard and often, they'll be lingering around the bottom looking for scores.

Just as predicted, that Brandon club is the most dangerous in the league. It has the pitchers and fielders and in addition to all that, the hitters. Big Sam Menefee, Custer, Wagner, Mills, Livingston, O'Dea or McGraw is likely to break up any game with a clout that lands a dull sickening thud on the boards of the fence for out on the boundaries of the lot and the team that beats Brandon must have a fine gang of pitchers and some hitters of their own. Duluth hasn't the hitters. But be of good cheer. They're coming.

Just what effect the lavish expenditure of coin by over-zealous backers of baseball on the range will have on the sport in that district isn't hard to guess. Anybody, who has seen baseball come and go in towns where a few fans lose their heads and shoot their coin, doesn't have to speculate very long before he fixes two years as the limit of professional baseball in towns such as Virginia and Eveleth.

It's all very well to be a "good sport." But the best of the sporting fraternity hate to see everything going out and nothing coming in. Virginia and Eveleth have had teams of out and out professionals. They are paying salaries, which, if continued, will mount up to anywhere from $1,200 to 1,500 a month. The men are of Class D or C calibre and they will not jump contracts to play independent ball if they could earn the same amount of money playing in an organized. So the salary lists there will easily amount to as much as that of any Northern league club.

It all right to go out for championships and there's some satisfaction in winning a transient honor, even if you do have to pay heavily for it. But any community will stand for sport in doses just fitted to its need and no more. Double the dose and add about as much again there's bound to be a reaction.

A few men are playing the "good sport." act on the ranges. They are footing mighty heavy bills, with little chance of return. The teams will play two or three games a week, draw from one to six hundred people, get about enough money at the gate to pay for the equipment and the "good sports" will go down into their pockets for the rest. They'll get tired of it after one or two seasons of that kind of thing; and then the poor fan, educated to a taste for lobster a la Newberg will tra with a sigh from common shrimp and sardines and wonder why corner lot baseball ever had any attractions for him.

The popularity of Battling Nelson is fading very fast. The Dane seems to be getting in bad at every turn. His latest break has caused one San Francisco critic to speak harhly of the Dane. The roast in part reads as follows:

"Here's the dope on this candidate for the debris pile and persistent challenger of the champion. Jack Clifford, a third rater, gives him a close call. Jimmy Britt who was tapioca for Gans and a chopping block for Packey McFarland, nearly kills the Dane at the auditorium in a twenty-round bout and at Los Angeles the native son again hammers the Battler all over the ring for ten rounds. Britt licks Nelson and McFarland makes Jimmy look like a novice. Then there is Unholz. The Boer bamsted Nelson for ten rounds at Los Angeles and Gans trims the Dutchman in eleven rounds. And yet Nelson has the nerve to challenge Gans. But does he think he can win? No. If he did he wouldn't insist upon the purse being split. To the ash-pile with this dub."

Bert Sincock, the Calumet boy, who pitched in the Northern league part of last season, is making a record in the University if Michigan, which appears to warrant Cincinnati's having signed him for a try-out with the Reds. He accompanied the Michigan team on its Eastern trip, went in against Cornell and lost his game by a score of 3 to 2 in sixteen innings. The record isn't one to be sneered at and Garry Hermann is probably well pleased with the prospects of his "find" making good.

Dick Thorsen, the southpaw from the Duluth corner lots, who was signed by Lima of the new Ohio state league last spring, has been let out and will soon be filing the pill on the lots hereabouts again. Thorsen's downfall wasn't much of a surprise to his friends, any more than will a sudden rise to fame be some time in the future. Thorsen has ability in plenty, with all of Rube Waddell's eccentricities and a few of his own, which cut him off from a good many victories. He has a arm that's a winner, but a head that's fierce. He's likely to hold a team to one hit and then throw a ball over the grandstand and chuck away the game. Given a few years under a good tutor and he'll be a good pitcher, but for the present, he just fits the stumplands.

PARADE OF BALL TEAMS

Uniformed Amateurs Will be in Line on Opening Day.

Efforts Being Made to Strenghten Hitting of Sox.

The management of the Duluth ball club has conceived a unique idea for the celebration of the opening day next Thursday. Instead of the parade being participated in only by the two ball teams and the city officials, it is planned to make it a grand baseball pageant, with every team in the city taking part.

Secretary Kuehnow of the Duluth club has invited every uniformed ball team in the city to form in the line and display the baseball strength of Duluth. The Board of Trade, Wolvin building, F. A. Patrick, First National Bank, Kelleys, Fitwells, Scott-Graffs, Columbias, Spaldings and many other clubs are prospective participants in the line and, if all turn out, the parade will be a novel affair.

Plans for strengthening the White Sox are going on and there will be several changes when the team arrives here after the Canadian trip. Eddie Wills is already here and he will be a valuable addition to the pitching staff. Pitcher Williams of Sioux City in the Western league, has been turned over to Duluth by "Ducky" Holmes, and has been ordered to report. He has been in the Western league for several seasons and is said to be a good one.

Al Cummings' acquisition is still doubtful. He is making a strong fight for his place on the Atlanta team and may yet land. Even if he doesn't keep his place this year, Atlanta will not release him outright, but will farm him out to some club in the South, with a string attachment to pull him in at any time. If the plans to farm go through, Duluth will try to secure a loan of him for the season and the Atlanta strings will remain. The fans would be glad to have Cummings return, as he would strengthen the pitching staff materially.

A heavy hitting outfielder is also in sight, and he may be secured. Roarbaugh, who was touted as a wonder, has yet to make his first hit. He is playing a good game in the field, but hard-hitting outfielders are wanted, and Roarbaugh may lose his job if he doesn't brace up. Of course, he may not have found his eye yet and, judging him from advance notices, he should break loose to crack a few boards off the fence soon.

The strengthening of the hitting department is the one object of the management now. The pitching staff appears to be all right, and the fielding couldn't be better, but hitters are needed badly and they will be secured at any cost.

NONE EVER COMES BACK

Showing of Terry McGovern Emphasizes Axiom of Prize Ring.

(By Ed W. Smith.)

Chicago, May 23.—Do they ever come back? I don't think so.

Terry McGovern, once known as the most terrible of all, until a young man known as Corbett punched his aspirations full of holes, tried the feat of "coming back" at Philadelphia Saturday night, and his attempt must be put down as an absolute failure.

He essayed to whip Tommy Loughrey in six rounds, a feat that was none too easy for Packey McFarland but a short time back.

Terry stuck to the finish, and was greedy, seemingly, for the work in front of him, but he didn't do much to Loughrey.

He knocked the Eastern lad down once cleanly, but was himself floored toward the end of the affair and finished in a dred and wabbly condition, an indication that, despite his hard training, he found it next to impossible to get into any sort of condition.

Some of the Eastern writers naturally give Terry credit for putting up an excellent battle, and claim that he had the shade over Loughrey, but a consensus of the reports indicates that Loughrey proved the better man at the sprinting distance of six rounds, and that, had the battle been a longer one, Terry undoubtedly would have been forced to take the county.

Terry's case is hopeless, no matter how Joe Humphrey and his other friends may argue to the contrary. It is not the first time McGovern has been tried out with the idea that he may be as good today as he was before Corbett rammed his right onto the jaw and put him out of the running as featherweight champion.

Terry was matched with Jimmy Britt in New York not so far back and made a fair showing in a ten-round contest, that might or might not have been on the level as far as Britt was concerned. He also was pitted against Battling Nelson. In neither of these contests did he show that careful training would set him right again.

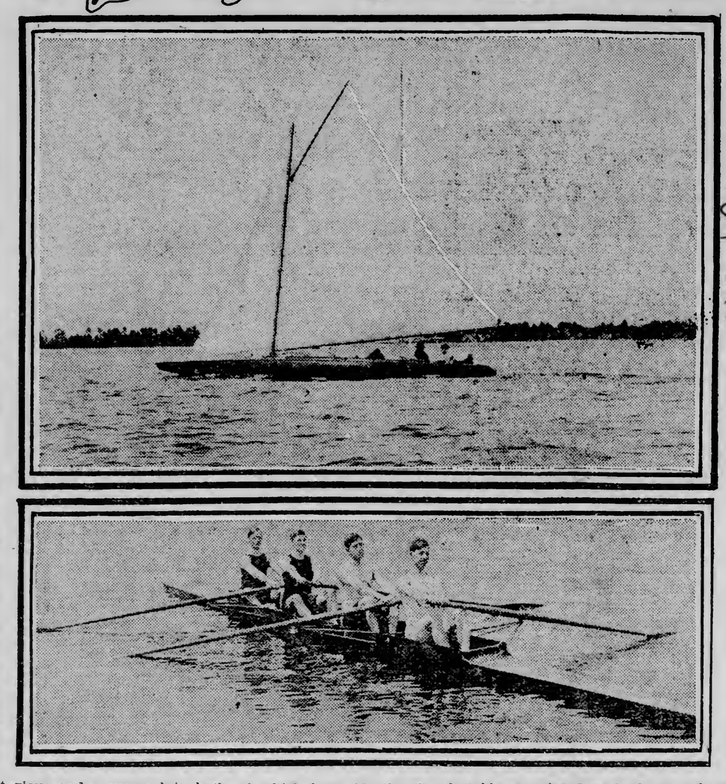
When Terry was here boxing with Young Corbett, not a great while ago, he looked to weigh close to 160 pounds. Indeed Corbett weighed 175 and looked every pound of it.

Humphrey then had the bug in his mind that Terry would do as a fighter and be a factor among the lightweight battlers of the day. He said he was going to give Terry a strong try-out and then seek matches for him with some of the good men.

Terry's wild life and his wild career in the ring have told on the boy. Terry hasn't the brain necessary, and the brain is a bigger factor in a pugilist's life than the layman supposes.

I don't believe any of them ever come back. We have had too many examples—too many failures. In these days a man must be fighting all the time. A year's idleness kills most of them.

SEASON FOR SUMMER SPORTS IS OPENING



Year after year Duluth has become more and more a city of summer sports. Its location, its climate, the temperament of its people, all contribute to the popularity of outdoor amusements, and the clubs, which foster health-giving sports, have grown with even greater strides than the city itself.

From the small boy on the corner lot, who, with a two-bit glove and a yarn ball, enjoys himself day in and day out at one-old-cat or a more pretentious copy of the national game, to the staid business man, who swings a golf stick or pulls a halyard, every man, woman and child is interested in some branch of sport, which has its vogue in summer and contributes to health, amusement and physical beauty.

Aquatic sports are fostered by the Duluth Boat club and Duluth Yacht club, both of which have ideally situated clubhouses on Park Point. To the primary reasons for their existence is added a social side, which is none the less attractive, and the social affairs on the point in the cool summer evenings are among the most attractive features of both clubs.

The golfers have full play on the grounds of the Northland Country club at Fortieth avenue east and Superior street. The grounds are spacious and well arranged, the clubhouse is comfortably appointed and the members enjoy life at the club.

Tennis has its large quota of followers. The Endion Tennis club, the principal organization of its kind in the city for a number of years, has given way to the Longview Tennis club, which will flourish at Twenty-fifth avenue east and Fourth street this season. There are numerous other smaller organizations and private courts in the city, where the racquet is swung vigorously by the young people.

HIBBING AT VIRGINIA

Range Fans Are All Worked Up Over First Series.

Eveleth Team to Make Debut Against Columbias of Duluth.

There will be fireworks on the range today. At Virginia the Hibbing and Virginia teams will clash for the first time, and at Eveleth "Butch" Kennelly's professional squad will make its first appearance against the Columbias of Duluth. The dose will be repeated tomorrow afternoon.

"Beat Hibbing" is the one cry of the Virginia fans. They have spent all kinds of money to get a team that will turn the trick, and if it fails today, there will be gloom in Virginia tonight. Hibbing is a hard team to beat. The men work together almost perfectly, and the nine that can beat them must be good. Virginia has a crowd of good fielders and stickers and pitchers, who have been working well this year. There is hope in the hearts of the Virginia fans, and if Hibbing isn't beaten tonight, deep despair will take its place.

"Butch Kennelly has a pretty nice ball team at Eveleth. With plenty of money at his disposal, he went to the Twin Cities and picked up a crowd which he thinks has the makings of a trouncer for Hibbing and Virginia. The Eveleth fans are baseball mad and will turn out in force to see the Columbias take a couple of walloyings—maybe.

PREDICTION FULLFILLED

James A. Rector Runs Hundred Yards in 9 2-5 Seconds.

Virginia Man the Best Sprinter World Has Ever Known.

New York, May 23.—The past week has seen two of the most marvellous athletic performances in all the history of sports. The surprising thing, to athletics throughout the country, is that the record-breaking has been done by a practically unknown athlete in a remote state.

James A. Rector, formerly of Lawrence academy has run, in competition, a 100-yard dash in the remarkable time of 9 2-5 seconds. Repeating in another set of games within a week he made th edistance in 9 3-5 seconds, equalling the world's record held by Arthur Duffey and Dan Kelly. This second performance was made in the dual meet on Saturday between Virginia and Hopkins.

Rector not only won his event in world's record time, but he did it in a way that leaves no possible doubt of the accuracy of the timing. The man who ran second to him, a well-known runner by the name of Ashby, is always good for 10 1-5 seconds. Rector beat Ashby a full ten yards. When Dan Kelly ran his 100 in 9 3-5 seconds his field was close up. Of course Kelly was pitted against faster men.

For years rash prophets have predicted that some day an athlete would run 100 yards in 9 2-5 seconds, but to tell the truth few sport followers expected to see the great records of Duffey and Wefers and Kelly go so soon.

By repeating in this way two record-breaking runs within a week, Rector of Virginia places himself among the best of the point-winning champions. Bernie ran scores of races in 9 4-5 seconds, then world's record time. He was a sure winner whenever he started from scratch. Many times a majority of timers caught him in 9 3-5, but always some unfortunate technicality kept him from getting the record.

Duffey ran in 9 3-5 seconds only once—in the intercollegiate championships. He accomplished 9 4-5 seconds several times, although not so often as Wefers. Duffey ran and won all over the world.

Dan Kelly has run in world's record time only once, so far as the 100-yard race is concerned, but he has also equalled the 200-yard record, and has come near the best figures in the broad jump.

There is a great future ahead for Rector of Virginia. He is being trained now for the Olympic team tryouts, and if he wins, as he surely will, unless some accident causes him to break down, he will have a chance to make a new world's best mark in the sprints in London, with the eyes of all countries turned towards the finish line.

Some day an athlete will run 100 yards in 9 seconds. Ten years ago they would have locked a man up in Matteawan for making that prediction. But times change in athletic sports more, perhaps than in anything else. American athletic progress is one of the wonders of the modern world. Today all but a few of the long-distance running records and the broad jumping record are held right here in the land that Columbus found. American athletes are taking a lead that all the strong men of other lands are unable to overcome.

BEELL BEATEN AGAIN.

Dr. Roller Downs Wisconsin Wonder in Straight Falls.

Seattle, Wash., May 23.—Dr. B. F. Roller of Seattle won from Fred Beell in two straight falls last night. The bout lasted 46 minutes and 5 seconds. The second was won in 35 minutes and 38 seconds.

MEET POSTPONED.

Track Not in Condition for High School Interclass Event.

The interclass track meet of the Central high school classes, which was scheduled for this afternoon, has been postponed until Monday afternoon. Trainer Heistand of the high school boys concluded yesterday that the condition of the track would not permit of the meet today, so it was postponed and will be held Monday afternoon, providing no rain comes in the meantime and spoils the track.

The school athletes are all in fine condition, and it is expected some records will go. There is intense rivalry between the classes and the members of the classes will turn out in force to cheer their athletes.

Canfield Wins Match.

Canfield won the handicap pool match at the Central billiard hall by scoring 165 last night, while Nolan was making 39. Nolan gave promise on the previous night, when he finished with but 75 to go to Canfield's 165. Canfield started out strong last night, scoring 36, 27, 13 and 4 in his first four innings. The first run was the highest of the match, with Nolan's run of 31 second. The final score was: Canfield, 1,000; Nolan, 714.

Easy for Hazelwoods.

The Hazelwood Juniors defeated the Oneota sluggers by a score of 1 to 3 yesterday. The batteries were Marman and Lamquist for the Oneotas and Anderson and Ness for the Hazelwoods.

TEN THOUSAND DOLLAR CHECK FOR PEARY.

Washington, May 23.—Commander Peary, of Arctic exploration fame, sent this telegram to President Roosevelt yesterday:

"Ten thousand dollar check just received from Zenas Crane, Dalton, Mass."

President Roosevelt replied as follows: "I heartily congratulate on the magnificent gift of Mr. Crane. It would have been a real misfortune from a natural standpoint if there had been any failure to equip your expedition.

IKE WEIR IS DYING

John L. of the Little Fellows Passing Away at Boston.

Spent Half a Million Earned on Track and in the Ring.

Chicago, May 23.—Ike O'Neil Weir, the Belfast Spider, is dying.

A "John L." of the little fellows, said to have gone through half a million dollars earned on the track and in the prize ring, is fading away without friends or money in a Boston hospital of internal troubles. He is about 40 years old.

His name sets working the memories of sport lovers of other days and many stories are being told of the little fellow in and about Chicago sporting headquarters.

In Chicago he is best remembered for his long draw fight with Tommy Murphy at a show near here, which Parson Davies ran off and Billy Myer refereed. This was the fight in which Harry Gilmore came to the rescue of Murphy, who was blinded, lanced his puffed eyes and brought his man around to a draw. Toward the end of the fight Gilmore had Murphy slipping his head to take Weir's stabbing lefts and this crippled the little Irishman's hands. After that many a round went by without a blow.

Weir would say: "Why don't you fight?"

Murphy would retort: "If I had eyes like yours I'd fight."

"If I had hands like yours I'd put you away," Weir would come back.

Weir came to America in 1887 and had one of his principal fights in Minneapolis. He was a light-footed, supple boy, nervous as a colt and always in action. He met Tommy Warren in Minneapolis, John Byrnes, a sprinter, refereeing. It was called a draw, though many thought Weir should have had the decision.

A story is told of Weir on his training runs for this fight. At the end of his route an old Irishman kept a roadhouse and Weir stopped for a nip of ale the first day out. The old fellow was sitting at one end of his bar and took a long time to get up and waddle down to where his prospective customer was standing. As soon as he got near the fighter, who was tired of waiting, Weir said: "Ah, there!" and skipped out without ordering.

The next morning this was repeated and again Weir skipped out, crying, "Ah, there!" The third morning, about the time Weir was due, the old man seized a heavy water pitcher and waited behind the door. When Weir stuck his head in the old man bounced the pitcher on it, crying, "Ah, there!" as he did so. And Weir came back to the training quarters with his head cut and bleeding.

Again Weir was training in Chicago and Danny Kelly, the little amateur fighter from Toronto, was sent out on the road with him. When they came back Kelly said:

"I'll never go out with that fellow again."

"Why?" he was asked.

"Well, when we come to those old fellows cleaning up the road, with their backs down, Weir would play leap frog with them and would get out of reach before they could hit him with the shovel. That left me to dodge 'em."

Weir was given a benefit at McGurn's handball court. He played the piano for the crowd, varying his performance by occasionally lifting one heel and the other to pound the keys, to the great indignation of McGurn, particularly when Weir failed to spend sufficient in the place to offset the damage done.

RAY LAMPHERE IS INDICTED

Grand Jury Brings in Seven True Bills Against Him.

La Porte, Ind., May 23.—In returning seven true bills against Ray Lamphere, yesterday afternoon, the La Porte county grand jury also indicted Mrs. Bella Gunness for the murder of Andrew Helgelein of Mansfield, S. D. No warrant was issued for Mrs. Gunness, as she was declared officially dead by the verdict of Coroner Mack, but in order to vote a true bill against Lamphere as an accessory in the killing of Helgelein, it was necessary to indict Mrs. Gunness as the principal. Lamphere is now officially charged with arson, five murders, and being an accessory in the Helgelein murder.

Separate bills were voted against Lamphere for the murder, in the first degree, of Mrs. Bella Gunness and her three children, Philip Gunness, Myrtle Sorenson and Lucy Sorenson.

Lamphere was not arraigned and this will probably not be done until the cases are set for trial. Bench warrants were served upon Lamphere in jail last evening. Prosecutor Smith said that it would be impossible to report the Lamphere cases until June.

The digging yesterday, under the direction of Sheriff Smutzer, resulted in the unearthing of a human skull, which it was decided belonged to one of the three bodies dug up in the chicken yard two weeks ago.

Judge Richter has appointed Fred K. Pitner, administrator of the estate of Andrew K. Helgelein. This is preparatory to the filing of suit by the Helgelein estate against the estate of Bella Gunness for the return of $2,900, which it is alleged Mrs. Gunness secured from Helgelein.

Whooping Cough.

"In February our daughter had the whooping cough. Mr. Lane of Hartland, recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and said it gave his customers the best of satisfaction. DEATH IS HORRIBLE

When it Comes Through the Neglect of Nature's Danger Signals—Weakness and Loss of Virility. It is Slow But Sure.

There are no other ways of effecting a cure than the natural.

Miracles and other wonders belong to the time of Christ. Other than natural methods, like Dowieism, etc., always have proven to be false.

This was told to a reporter by the most successful of men's Specialists of the Progressive Medical association.

Most of the diseases are caused either by accidents of infections or germs, like typhoid fever, pneumonia, grip, consumption and others. Again other diseases are the natural consequences of faulty metabolism, which is to say that one internal organs, as the Liver, Kidneys, Bowels, Spleen and Lungs are brought into a suffering condition by constant faulty eating, drinking and living. This in turn will form poisonous material in the body, which slowly but surely, brings on suffering and your early death. Each organ excretes its own poison. If the liver is at fault, you will always feel tired, the skin on the face and abdomen is sallow and your eyes appear yellow. If the Kidneys are suffering, you will feel it in your back, your urine is red and if you leave it stand for 24 hours you will find brickdust or other sedimentary deposits on the bottom; the active poisonous material, however, stays in the body, and in turn causes poisoning of the heart muscle, and by exposing the body to cold temperature, a sudden contraction of the blood vessels follows, which crystallizes the uric acid most usually between the joints and often in the muscles; these crystals are like fine needles and are causing the severe pain which every rheumatic sufferer experiences. All these troubles are curable in the hands of Specialists. You need not suffer of any chronic disease whatever, if you make up your mind and go to the Progressive Medical Specialists; you will find they will cure you of all chronic diseases, no matter how long you have them; they can cure you because they have devoted their life and labor to the study of a special class of diseases. However, they accept men only and there is no one who can cure them as well as these Specialists. Whatever disease you have and no matter how long, go and consult the Specialists; they will not charge you anything for it. Their offices you find open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. GIANT NEW FREIGHTER SLIPS INTO THE WATER AT SUPERIOR

VIEW OF NEW BOAT TAKEN JUST BEFORE THE LAUNCHING.

Promptly at noon today the steel bulk freighter E. F. Durston, constructed for the Wilkinson Transportation company of Cleveland was launched at the yards of the Superior Shipbuilding company. The launching was carried out without a hitch. Every vantage point in the vicinty of the slip was crowded with people, who enlivened the proceedings with the customary cheers as the big hulk slik into the waters.

Mrs. Ward Ames, Jr., of Duluth acted as sponsor for the ship and broke the bottle of wine over the bow as the boat moved into the water. In the launching party, which occupied a platform near the bow of the boat were: Mr. and Mrs. Ward Ames, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dalrymple, Mr. and Mrs. William White, Mr. and Mrs. William White, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leach, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. John Panton, Miss Catherine Hubbell, Miss Agnes White, Richard Grant and Roy Wolvin.

Capt. Ralph Lyon, commodore of the Wilkinson Transportation company, representatives of the Shipbuilding company and other marine men road on the boat as she dipped into the water.

The Wilkinson is 452 feet over all, with a 52-foot width and 28-foot depth. She has a net capacity of about 4,000 tons and will be used in the general trade on the lakes.

The launching party made the trip from Duluth to Superior in the Shipbuilding company's launch, Isley, and returned immediately after the launching, to be entertained at dinne rat the Kitchi Gammi club by Roy Wolvin.

NO PROFIT FOR OWNERS

Returning of Ships Light is Proving Expensive Proceeding.

Ore Men Predict No Change for Next Thirty Days.

Cleveland, May 23.—Taking coal to the head of Lake Superior at 30 cents, and to Milwaukee at 40 cents, and coming down light is not very profitable. That is what a number of steel steamers that were chartered during the winter have had to do, and the Lake Superior traders will be lucky if they break even.

The vesselmen want to be fair with the shippers, and in a number of cases sent their boats out, although there were no down cargoes in sight. The ore men say that there will be no material change in the situation during the next thirty days. With very little demand for ore and stocks of about 15,000,000 tons at the furnaces and Lake Erie docks, the movement of ore will be light during the next month.

A number of ships that have made a trip have been laid up and more of the big freighters that are in commission will have to be sent to the docks. The engineers of some of the big fleets have not been ordered to report for duty, and the list includes vessels that are operated by shippers. With the big ore firms holding their boats there is nothing for the independent owners to do but stand pat and wait until tonnage is wanted in the ore trade.

Very little ore has been sent forward from the mines up to date, and all the vessels that have secured cargoes were loaded at Ashland and ports at the head of Lake Superior. No ore has been loaded at Marquette, and vessels that are waiting at Escanaba cannot get cargoes on account of the dockmen's strike. The dock managers at that port will not deal with the union.

The local coal shippers are in pretty good shape. They are getting a fair supply of tonnage, but few of the vessels that are loading will start until cargoes are more plentiful at the upper lake ports. The vesselmen and shippers say that there is no money in operating under present conditions.

The lake trade is dull in all branches, and the picking is just as thin for the underwriters as it is for the vesselmen. When any business shows up the insurance men land on the job like a bee on a posy. The manager of a large local fleet announced that he would be ready to talk shop this weer. Nearly all the underwriters between New York and Chicago were at his office the next morning before he arrived, and he was not delayed by the street car strike, either.

ONLY TWO CHARTERS.

Ashland and Hall Will Take Coal to Portage Lake.

Buffalo, May 23.—Two charters complete the day's list, the steamers Ashland and Hall of Portage at 40 cents. An evidence of the condition of trade is found in the fact that none of the boats cleared from Tonawanda light Thursday. There is a slight change in the canal business for the better.

LUDWIG NOT DAMAGED.

Life Saving Crew Releases Light Steamer at Whitefish.

Sturgeon Bay, May 23.—The steamer Mary Ludwig of Muskegon which was stranded on Whitefish point during the fog Thursday night, was released shortly after noon yesterday by Kredgling. There was no tug in port when the accident occurred and the life saving crew went to her assistance, the men continuing to work from 9 o'clock Thursday night until their efforts were crowned with success yesterday afternoon. The vessel which was bound from East Shore ports to Menomonie in light trim, was not damaged.

RHOADES IS ASHORE.

Small Steamer, Bound for Milwaukee, Goes on at Sheboygan.

Sheboygan, May 23.—The steamer Joshua P. Rhoades bound from Buffalo to Milwaukee with 800 tons of aard coal, ran ashore at Graco harbor during the heavy fog Thursday night. She is out three feet and leaking some. The captain is awaiting instructions from the owners.

LOCKS CARRIED AWAY.

Steamer Calvin Collides With Gates in Welland Canal.

Port Colborne, May 23.—Three gates of lock 18 in the Welland canal were carried away by the steamer D. D. Calvin, while passing through the canal yesterday. Damages to the amount of $3,000 or $4,000 were sustained, and will cause a delay of navigation for two or three days. The Calvin is owned by the Calvin Company of Kingston, and was bound up from Kingston to Toledo light. She is lying on the bank in a leaking condition.

FEW COAL CARGOES.

Shippers Having Trouble Securing Tonnage to Move Cargoes.

Cleveland, May 23.—Owing to the scarcity of down cargoes, there are few small vessels on the market, and coal shippers are having some trouble moving cargoes of that class. Forty cents is being paid to the Soo, and rates to Portage range from 20 to 30 cents. The steamer Castalia and the steel steamer Fitzgerald arrived yesterday from Lake Michigan ports with light tonnage to load coal.

NEW BIDS WANTED.

Major Fitch Receives New Information on Wreck of Alex Nimick

May 5 Maj. Graham D. Fitch, United States engineer, received bids for the removal of the wrecked steamer Alex Nimick off White Fish Point, but the bids were considered too high for recommendations to Washington for acceptance, after which further inquiry was made as to the present condition of the wreck. The information was given in a letter from James A. Carpenter, keeper of the life saving station at Vermilion, Mich., and is as follows:

"In reply to your letter of the 15th inst., will say that I received same after returning from an inspection of the wreck of steamer Alex Nimick. The water was smooth and we had a fine chance to see what was left of her. The engines are thrown over on their side, and fourteen feet of water over them, boilers close by with about twelve feet over them, her hull seems to be about all gone, none of her cargo in sight, cannot tell how badly her engines are broken up, but must be some as the moving ice throughout the winter would strike them. There was only one person here to view the wreck. I mean prospective bidder."

On the new information, proposals for the removal of the wreck will be received at the engineer's office up to and including June 1. The material saved from the wreck is to be the property of the contractor.

No Boats Loading.

The harbor today presented the strange condition for this time of the year of not having a boat loading with grain. There were only two clearances from the lower lakes for Duluth yesterday, and, as far as local conditions are concerned, the situation is stagnant. There is little grain to be moved and the line boats will take care of all of it. The Maritana and Baker have left the Missabe docks and there are only two or three boats at the Allouez docks.

To Experiment With Turbines.

One of our largest ocean steamship companies has decided to continue using the old style reciprocating engines, but in addition will try the experiment of combining the two, thereby getting better results at about one-third of the cost. The time for experimenting is just when it is a question of curing ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Most everybody decides at once to get a bottle of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters because its past record of cures proves it to be the best. If you are still experimenting with this or that remedy—stop it at once, and follow the above plan which has already benefited thousands. It cures and prevents poor appetite, headache, biliousness, costiveness, insomnia, dyspepsia, indigestion, heartburn, sour risings, liver troubles, female ills and malaria, fever and ague. Labor Unions Honor the Memory of Stanley R. Musolf.

In honor of Stanley R. Musolf, whose life was ended suddenly yesterday morning by coming in contact with an electric wire, and who was a member of the trades' assembly, it was voted, last night, at the meeting of that organization, to drape the charter for thirty days.

The regular trades' assembly meeting, held last evening, in Kalamazoo hall, was very quiet, no business of any interest coming up. Besides a few communications of small importance, there was little business. The meeting was adjourned before 9 o'clock.

MERRY RACE ON LONDON ROAD

Members of Boys' Department Had Ride They Will Remember.

Out on London road last evening there was a merry automobile race.

Ten of Duluth's largest and fastest automobiles were loaned to the boys' department Y. M. C. A. for the annual auto ride of the members, and some of the chauffeurs took advantage of the opportunity to settle some long standing arguments regarding the speed of their respective machines. The boys were not loath to have chauffeurs "let her out" and the youths had a ride they will remember.

About sixty boys enjoyed the trip, and to many it was the first ride in an automobile.

The following men loaned their machines for the occassion:

Messrs T. F. Cole, Henry Bridgeman, H. R. Spencer, P. S. Anneke, C. A. Duncan George Stone, Wilbur McLean, Dr. J. J. Eklund, Judge J. T. Hale, R. J. McLeod and P. McDonald.

LYCEUM—"The Burgomaster."

"THE BURGOMASTER."

Old Favorite of Musical Comedies Mellows With Age.

"The Burgomaster," the pioneer of musical comedies, mellows with age. Peter Stuyvesant was just as funny, Willie Van Astorbilt just as dapper, Ruth, the country girl, just as winsome, and Doodles just as fidgety last night as the first time the comedy delighted an audience at the Lyceum.

The crowd wasn't large, but it was appreciative. Gus Weinburg and Ruth White are the principal excuses for "The Burgomaster" still being on the road, for Gus' comedy is genuine and Ruth's charming filling of the masculine part and effective use of her sweet soprano voice attract people to see and hear her again and again. Weinburg has a new line of comedy that hasn't detracted from the piece any by its introduction. His curtain speech is a scream.

One never tires of the music of "The Burgomaster." It has a dash to it all its own and reaches a degree of excellence not usually attained by the popular airs of the musical comedy. There are a few new songs introduced, of which "How Many Have You Told That To," by Ruth White and a sextette is the most notable.

The company measures well up to its principals. Marie Grandpre has has a pleasing stage presence and a good voice. George McKissock has the best male voice in the company. The chorus girls are pretty and have vocal ability and the men, though in the background for the most part, make the best of their small opportunities.

He who has not seen "The Burgomaster" has missed seeing the rarest gem of the musical comedy stage and he who has seen it will not lose anything by a few hours of pure comedy and tuneful melody.

ORE HELD TAXABLE.

St. Paul, Minn., May 23.—Ore taken from underground mines and stored in stock piles, awaiting shipment, is taxable as personal property, according to an opinion given to the state tax commission by Assistant Attorney General George W. Peterson.

The opinion holds that when the ore is severed from the land it ceases to be realty and becomes personalty.

The objection was raised by the companies operating underground mines that, under the recent system of assessing the ore in the stock piles, the companies are really subjected to a double taxation. The tax commission requested an opinion of the attorney general as to whether the statute relating to the subject would permit the minerals in the stock piles to be considered as part of the real property belonging to the company.

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

SHIPPING FROM THE MESABA

Alexandria Mine Will Be Steady Shipper This Season---Stripping Operations at the Mountain Iron Continued Night and Day.

Virginia, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A cargo of ore was shipped from the Alexandria mine of the Republican Iron & Steel company, last week, and that property will ship steadily for the remainder of the season.

The Lincoln mine of the Virginia group is shipping about thirty cars of ore a day, loading direct from the shaft, and the first trainload went over the Missabe road to the Duluth docks Wednesday. As yet these are the only shipping mines in the Virginia district.

Stripping operations at the Mountain Iron mine are being continued with three shovels, night and day shifts, as they have been all winter, with the result that the area of ore stripped has been considerably increased over that of last season. The mine is certainly a monster and will be in a position this year to make as large or a larger output than any other on the range if the ore is demanded. Drilling is now in progress at the northwest corner of the property, proving up the extent of the ore body in that direction. The south line of the pit is now directly adjoining the village and, judging from appearances, the ore extends under the town for some distance. When shipping will be commenced from the mine is still problematical, but will probably be started about the first of June.

The Iroquois mine of the Rogers Iron Mining company, to the southeast of the village, is shipping from both shaft and stockpile over the Great Northern road. The ore in stockpile is very soft, and big loading records are made with the shovel.

On the property immediately adjoining the Iroquois to the west, one of George H. St. Clair's drills is at work exploring for a company of Eveleth and other range citizens, who recently took a lease thereon. One hole was drilled to the north of the Great Northern track, and another has been started just to the south of the track. A test-pit was first sunk to a depth of seventy-two feet at this point. Near the bottom of the pit a taconite capping was encountered. This was removed and apparently good indications of ore

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Only a Few Cargoes of Ore Yet Shipped---Few Mines Have Resumed Work and Further Curtailment is Reported.

The passing of another week sees little improvemnt in the mining situation in the Lake Superior iron region. Only a few cargoes of ore have yet been shipped, these from the Head of the Lakes and from Ashland. The docks at Marquette are not in commission, and at Escanaba, on upper Lake Michigan operations have been halted by the intervention of the open shop question, a number of bulk carriers arriving there having been compelled to depart for the lower lakes without taking loads aboard. Few of the many mines that have been on the idle list for some time past have resumed work; there has been, in fact, further curtailment.

The Steel corporation, which recently put its Menominee range properties on half-time, the crews at the Chapin, Aragon, Mansfield and Dober now being employed only alternate weeks, has cut its force at the Champion mine, on the Marquette range, to the extent of wrought on only one shift since the first of the year. At few shafts anywhere in the Lake Superior region is more ore being stocked than is necessary to take out in the course of development work, and it appears to be the general policy to keep down production as much as possible.

No district has been hit harder than have the Crystal Falls and Iron River fields, at the western end of the Menominee range, where out of a total of twenty-seven mining properties all but nine are inactive and these nine are being operated with materially less than the normal forces. Exploratory work has been curtailed in similar large measure, and numerous options have been surrendered, only those tracts considered to offer particular promise having been retained.

Shipments From Gogebic.

Judging from the rate at which shipments are already being made from the Gobebic range, more ore will be forwarded from that district this season than was expected some weeks ago. It appears, in fact, that the Steel corporation will draw proportionately heavier from the Gobebic this year than from either the Menominee or the Marquette, which in some quarters is taken to indicate a desire to conserve supplies in the latter districts—both of which are tributary to the docks at Escanaba, on Lake Michigan—for use at the big new works at Gary, Ind.

The first Gogebic ore went out from Ashland during the week. It was from the Steel corporation's Norrie. East Norrie and Pabst mines and Ogilvay, Norton & Co.'s Montreal and Eureka. The Chicago & Northwestern Railroad

VERY IMPORTANT DECISION

To Mining Companies Operating in Arizona---Homesteader Plea Fails in Globe Case Disposed of by Phoenix Land Office.

Bisbee, Ariz., May 23.—In the contest of Anton Trojanovich and John Cramer, mineral claimants, and B. Bracca, claimant under homstead entry, for a parcel of land lying just outside the city limits of Globe, on the west side of Pinal creek, the United States land office at Phoenix decided last week in favor of Trojanovich and Cramer, the mineral claimants.

The decision is an important one, as there is a large number of similar cases pending in the land office which the decision just rendered will doubtless affect.

The property awarded Trojanovich and Cramer is now under bond to eastern parties for $400,000, with an eighteen months' limit. Now, since litigation is practically over, a diamond drill will be sunk 1,500 feet to tap the interloper vein of the old Dominion property. Mining experts and government geologists state that this vein may be expected at a depth of 750 to 1,000 feet.

The land's value for mineral purposes as against its adaptability to agricultural purposes was the bone of contention before the land office. The hearing was set for March 16, at which Cramer and Trojanovich were represented by their attorneys, Rawlins & Little, who were yesterday informed of the finding of the office.

Bracca contended that he would make the land available for farming by a system of terracing.

The property has long been regarded as among the most promising possibilities in the Globe section. At one time a $50,000 option was allowed to lapse because of the litigation growing out of the homstead entry.

The homesteader has a right of appeal, but it is thought that the long time that has been taken for thorough investigation of the case and the very complete and incontrovertible evidence as to the character of the land on which the merits of the case depended and must again be made the basis of decision if appealed, will be strong reasons for dropping the action.

There are other cases of a similar nature soon to be brought before the land office, but the hearing of the decision in this case will doubtless relieve some of the anticipated suits and loosen up a few properties that are now tied up with conflicting claims.

OLD MINE TO BE REOPENED

Stonewall Mine in Arizona to be Developed After Quarter Century of Idleness---Was Operated for Its Richest Silver Ore.

Globe, Ariz., May 23.—Abandoned after large quantities of very rich silver ore had been extracted and several big fortunes amassed as a result of its almost fabulous richness, the old Stonewall mine, located sixteen miles northeast of Globe, has been reopened and will be systematically developed by the McMillen Stonewall Mining company, after its quarter century of idleness.

The new company is reopening the property with a large three-compartment shaft at a point within a very short distance from where it has been demonstrated that the vein is 100 feet wide between walls to a depth of 600 feet. That the vein continues on downward, growing in width and richness with depth, there is little doubt.

During the early days the mine was operated solely for the very richest ore it contained, and no effort was made to save any ore that showed values less than 50 per cent. By following out this reckless and extravagant manner of mining, the operating company of thirty years ago left standing in the mine, blocked out, a vast tonnage of ore that will return the present company a handsome and continuous profit for many years to come. Even the old dumps contain sufficient values to make their reduction profitable, and with a crude mill put up to test the ore, employing the hyposulphate of sodium reatment, coarse ore is being taken from the dump, and sufficient values extracted to convince the most skeptical that by crushing the ore a very close saving of values could be made. The ore does not contain arsenic, antimony or sulphur, therefore it does not require preliminary roasting, which makes it very desirable for trysulphate or any other treatment of free milling. As soon as the shaft is completed to a depth of 400 or 500 feet, the company will undoubtedly erect a plant harmonizing in size with the known ore bodies.

It is believed by mining men generally that in addition to the silver values, that at a depth of 1,000 feet the new company will develop copper sulphides and have a valuable by-product.

EAST BUTTE RESUMES WORK

Shaft Will Be Sunk to Depth of 2,000 Feet and the Property Developed Thoroughly—Butte & Buxton Company Incorporated to Open Mines West of Butte.

Butte, Mont., May 23.—After being closed down for about eight months, mining operations were resumed by the East Butte Mining company Monday morning. Information was received in this city from Frank Sullivan, president of the company, who has been in the East for several weeks in the interest of the company, that a scheme to finance the company and provide it with a large amount of working capital had been carried through successfully.

Operations on a larger scale than ever before will be commenced at once, and with almost unlimited capital behind it the company will proceed to develop the property thoroughly. It is probable that the first work will be that of sinking the shaft to a depth of 2,000 feet, and stations will be cut on the 1,000-foot level and thereafter at intervals of every twenty feet.

The shaft is now down to a depth of 900 feet, where a large station has been cut, and where a pumping plant has been installed. On this level, in cutting the station on the south side of the shaft a hidden vein of large proportions and carrying high-grade ore, was opened, and there is little doubt that at 1,200-feet depth an immense body of high-grade ore will be developed.

The 900-foot level is in what is known as the secondary enrichment, the shaft having passed through an iron capping carrying only small values between the 600 and 800-foot levels. On the 200, 300 and 400-foot levels the East Butte company has some very good copper and silver values and considerable copper glance. On the 900-foot level the ore shows strong indications of making rapidly into glance.

The property is splendidly equipped with a three-compartment shaft, first-motion double drum Nordberg hoist and a battery of four boilers.

From shaft No. 11, located about 900 feet south of shaft No. 1 which was formerly known as the Dutton shaft, a crosscut north on the 400-foot level is being run to connect with the working on the same level of shaft No. 1. The lower shaft will be sunk to a greater depth.

The East Butte company made regular shipments of ore for several months prior to and up to the time that the Washoe closed down last winter, and during the past year has produced more than $600,000 worth of ore.

It will only be a short time until the company will be enabled to commence the shipment of ore, as the upper levels are free of water and men may be put to work at once in taking out the mineral. The shaft has only about 300 feet of water in it, and it will take only a week or so to pump it out. The machinery is in excellent condition, and the pumps underground were painted and oiled thoroughly before the pumps ceased to work.

Operations have been resumed in the Neversweat mine, one of the Anaconda company properties, after having been idle for several months. At the same time the machinists were on a strike and no effort was made to repair the engine. When the order to resume was issued by John D. Ryan on March 2, a force of men was put to work on repairs, and the hoist is again in commission. The Neversweat will give employment to about 200 men and will produce about 250 tons of ore a day for the present. The output gradually will be increased.

Articles of incorporation were filed during the week by the Butte & Buxton Copper Mining company, capitalized for $3,500,000, with the par value of shares fixed at $10 each. The directors of the company are Peter Lackner, Charles O. Savage and Charles F. Fasal. James B. Higgins has been chosen as consulting engineer.

The property of the company consists of thirteen full claims located on a lowlying spur of the Rocky mountains about ten miles southward of Butte, and within two miles of Buxton, a station on the Oregon Short Line, from which there is a natural grade for the building of a track directly to the property.

While the claims are located in a section which has never been developed for copper values, the great veins of the Butte district are easily traced from the Anaconda hill in a southwesterly direction and directly through the claims of the Butte & Buxton company. The formation is identical with that of the Butte hill, being a basic granite with the same characteristics. There is a mineralized zone about one-half a mile in width which strikes through the granite, having one eruptive dike of porphyrite diorite and quartz porphyry about 100 feet in width, trending through four of the claims.

Quite a large amount of development work has been done, fully sufficient to prove the vein system, and most of it has been done on the Linda quartz claim. The work consists of a tunnel which has been driven into the mountain for a distance of nearly 200 feet, giving a vertical depth of about 130 feet.

From the tunnel a number of drifts and crosscuts have been run, all of which have gone a long way toward proving the mineral value of the property. The principal drift has been run along the footwall of the dike for a distance of about 350 feet, and two crosscuts run into the diorite toward the hanging wall twenty-five and fifty feet respectively.

It is the intention of the company to sink a shaft to a depth of at least 1,000 feet and to run a crosscut to the veins at a depth of 300 feet and afterward at intervals of every 100 feet. Plans for the financing of the company practically have been completed, and it is contemplated to commence operations within the next few weeks.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Ojibway Has Reached Kearsarge Lode, But Rock Cannot be Called Rich—Wolverine Making Cheapest Copper of Any Lake Superior Mine—Developments at Atlantic Encouraging.

Houghton, Mich., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ojibway has reached the Kearsarge lode, by a crosscut from No. 2 shaft, at a distance of about 100 feet, instead of about 70 feet, as was expected. The appearance of the Kearsarge lode is typical, containing the plainly-marked amygdules so characteristic of this bed, and the amygdules are charged to some extent with copper, but the rock cannot be termed rich. This, however, is by no means to be considered discouraging, as the richest of the Lake Superior copper-bearing beds have alternations of poor ground with rich, and a mine is made by the average, rather than by the extremes of richness or poverty in metallic contents. The appearance of the Kearsarge lode, at the point where cut by the Ojibway, is what miners would call kindly—that is, the rock has all of the physical charactristics of good copper rock except a profusion of the metal itself, and that doubtless will be found at a near-by point. As the Kearsarge lode is rich a short distance south of the Ojibway line, and as the lode itself is of full width and strength, and of excellent physical character, a finding of rock with more copper would appear to be merely a matter of opening enough ground to get a fair average of the rock. To judge a mine from a single crosscut is about as reasonable as to attempt to get a bird's-eye view of Boston from a single window of the Bunker Hill monument. At No. 1 shaft of the Ojibway a sump has been cut, as the shaft is making water rather freely.

At the Wolverine no mining is being done above the fifteenth level, and the rock mined during the past three months is, if anything above the average of the three years past. The mine is furnishing about 1,100 tons of stamp-rock daily, and, so well systematized are the various departments, that everything moves according to schedule, there being months at a stretch in which the Wolverine furnishes no news. The Wolverine is making the cheapest copper of any Lake Superior mine, and the properties in the world that are actually turning out cheaper copper than the Wolverine probably could be named on the fingers of a single man—leaving him his thumbs at that.

Rapid sinking in No. 1 shaft of the Hancock Consolidated is impossible, the broken and badly shattered hanging wall giving considerable trouble and requiring the close attention of the timber gang, with heavy timbering throughout. No. 2 shaft is sinking at an average speed of eighty-five feet per month, or a trifle better than 1,000 feet per annum, which is an excellent average for deep work through hard ground. The shaft has just passed the 900-fot level, and the ground is considerably broken at times, necessitating close timbering. The final depth of the shaft has not been determined, and the management will be guided by circumstances in the matter of crosscutting. The Hancock has available for exploration and exploitation a considerable stretch of territory lying west of anything that has been developed by the Quincy, or by any other mine of the Portage Lake district, and the prospect that a thorough test will be given the little-known horizon between the Pewabic amygdaloid and the Atlantic ashbed is of interest to mining men generally. There are various theories as to the prospects of this horizon, but the best test is that of actual exploration, which is a thing to be given by the Hancock under the most favorable circumstances, by means of crosscuts at sufficient depth to render the test a fair one, and with the possibility, not to be had with diamond drill borings, or thoroughly exploring any promising bed encountered by means of drifting.

Recent developments at the Atlantic have been decidedly encouraging. Sinking has been discontinued, for the present, in Section 16 shaft, now bottomed twenty-five feet below the sixteenth level. The skipway will be completed to the sixteenth level early next week, and a second skip will be placed in commission tomorrow in the south compartment, permitting the working of skips in counterbalance. The sinking of this shaft has averaged about eighty feet per month from the turning of the first sod on Aug. 7, 1906. From now on attention will be turned to determining the location of the Baltic lode on this property. The drift on the twelfth level has been discontinued, after penetrating about thirty feet of stamprock of good average grade. Four power drills are in use crosscutting at various points on the twelfth level, and with the increased hoisting facilities to be provided by the second skip, drifting south will be resumed on the twelfth level, to connect with the twelfth level north drift of No. 5 Baltic shaft in order to secure better ventilation. A second tale compressor of fifteen drills capacity is being installed at the Section 16 plant and a fourth boiler has been set.

Superior is at the ninth level, and as work has been in progress steadily for several years, considerable ground has been opened, and the reserves available for stoping are being added to with increasing rapidity, each month, as depth is gained and the number of openings increased. The average of ground opened is very good, probably not equal to that of the Baltic or Champion, but better than the Trimountain, and as a whole the Superior is now developed to a point where even the skeptical must admit that it is a mine. It has not been determined at what date production is to begin, and possibly stoping for the mill will not start until next year, though the property is now in shape to supply several hundred tons of stamp rock daily, on short notice. The original plan for securing connection with the Copper Range railroad seems to have been abandoned, as a new survey has been made to secure connection with the railway of the Atlantic Mining company. This would seem to indicate a likelihood that the milling will be done elsewhere than at the works of the

THE LOST SIX-SHOOTER MINE

Story of Development of Lost Mine That Reads Like Fiction—Has Vein Twelve Inches Wide That Carries Not Less Than 66 Per Cent Gold.

Bouse, Ariz., May 23.—No doubt the story of the lost Six-shooter mine is familiar to some people who read this, and it is a fact that such a mine exists and has been located beyond a doubt by two prospectors named Otis and Rogers, of Bouse. It was well known that these men had in their possession a chart supposed to have been made by the original discoverer of this famous mine and have been for some time prospecting the country near their camp, where it was supposed to be located. A few days since Otis confided to the writer the information that the long lost mine had been found and located, and describes it as being a vein of at least twelve inches in width, carrying not less than 66 per cent gold.

The story of the discovery of this Monte Carlo and the trail of blood which led thereto reads like fiction although Mr. Rogers claims to have all the facts necessary in his possession to prove that such a mine was discovered in the Plomosa range of mountains not far from where the mining camp of Bouse is now situated.

The man who first discovered this famous mine carried away more than $3,000 worth of ore in a buckskin sack on his back, and the events which led to the finding of this rich strike, as related by Rogers, were as follows:

A young man by the name of Deluth, who resided in New York, became infatuated with a most beautiful young lady in Boston, by name of Cary, whose father was a banker of wealth and influence in that city, and they were to be married at an early date, but a short time before the marriage was to take place his father became involved in serious business reverses and became a bankrupt whereupon the young lady refused to allow the ceremony to take place. In a fit of despondency, caused by being jilted by his love, young Deluth decided to cast his lot and his fortune with a party of gold seekers in 1849, going to the coast of California. Accordingly he wrote a letter to his heartbroken mother as to his intentions and another to his unfaithful sweetheart, saying that he was going to seek his fortune in the wild West and asking her to be true to him and await with open arms his success and safe return with the gold he had seen in his dreams. So he started for the diggings, going first to Chicago and thence to the then frontier town of St. Joe, where he took the overland stage for Denver and the Pike's Peak country. Not finding gold enough there to satisfy his desires, he proceeded via the old Santa Fe trail to Texas, where he engaged in cowboy pursuits for a time, but ere long he again dreamed of his sweetheart and the gold necessary to win her, and decided to push on to the gold fields. Accordingly he took a sailing vessel at the port of Galveston for San Francisco. Here, upon arrival, he organized a prospecting party of twelve and started for the desert in quest of the yellow metal, which was reported at that time as being in immense quantities in the Indian country and the desert valleys.

In Death Valley.

After traversing Death valley, most of the time without water, they crossed the desert to a point at or near where Searchlight is now located, and, according to the chart which Otis and Rogers have in their possession, they reached a place which now bears the name of Furnis creek, where two of their party perished for want of water. From where Searchlight now stands they pushed on to the Colorado river, where they crossed on a raft at what is now Needles, as the old chart refers to this place as being about fifty miles above the finger monument. After crossing the river the party was surprised by the Apache Indians and six of them were killed.

Captured by Indians.

They were now reduced to four in number, and making a raft of logs they managed to steal away and floated down the river to where Parker now is, where they were ambushed by Apaches and the entire party captured and carried toward the mountains to the east for probably thirty miles to a place where there were four sharp peaks and water in a natural iron tank, which will be readily recognized by prospectors of the Iron Tanks. Here the Indians made camp with their captives, and each morning at sunrise they would burn one of them at stake. This continued until each of the party had been put to death except young Deluth, who, by gnawing the cords which bound him succeeded in making his escape on the night before he could expect execution in a like manner to that of his late companions. Securing a little water in a skin bag together with his sixshooter and overcoat, he set out in a northerly direction toward two peaks which are now known as Planet peaks, which Deluth felt sure were in the region of the Bill Williams river, the mouth of which they had passed on their way down the Colorado.

Deluth Escapes.

He knew that it was impossible to reach civilization across a hot desert so he cautiously made his way toward the north, skirting along the sides of the range until morning, when he was afraid to proceed further, lest he should be discovered by the Apaches and again taken captive. By this time he had reached a point where the range of mountains ended in low foot hills, which presently receded into a low sandy plain, which stretched off to the north. Here he made camp under some palo verde trees in a small ravine, where he was protected from the sun's hot rays, hoping to obtain some sleep and wait for nightfall, so he could make his way to water. From where he was concealed he could see the finger monument on the Colorado river which he had passed some days

IT WILL BE A VALUABLE MINE

Discovery at Gem Shaft of the Globe Consolidated Leads to Belief That Very Profitable Mine Has Been Uncovered.

Globe, Ariz., May 23.—Developments in the Gem shaft of the Globe Consolidated properties during the past year lead unmistakably to the conclusion that one of the largest and perhaps one of the most profitable copper mines in the Globe district has been uncovered. The vein that has just been crosscut from the Gem shaft was seventy-six feet wide and there were fifteen feet of 2 per cent copper sulphide ore. The crosscut entered the vein from diorite and after passing through entered quartzite, which demonstrates that it is a contact vein, and once the quartzite is penetrated it is expected that there will be another vein on that side of it. The flow of water has increased from 140 to 250 gallons a minute, which is a very encouraging control. The seventy-six-foot vein also carried, in addition to the sulphide, corbonite, oxide and hematite. The contact vein, which is expected to show up on the other side of the quartzite, is believed to be the Taylor. It has a fine surface showing. The ore found in the drift on the vein in the Mallory workings is of fine quality, assaying 6 per cent copper, 19 per cent iron and 25 per cent sulphide. The vein has widened from one to four feet. The southerly crosscut from the Mallory shaft is in 378 feet and is in diorite. The discovery in the Gem shaft places the Globe Consolidated properties in a class with the best mines in the district, and guarantees a big, profitable producer. Local mining men who have examined the properties throughout, say that the Globe Consolidated is now on the eve of becoming one of the greatest copper producers in the Southwest.

The Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company has reduced its force of about thirty-five men at the Continental mine to about six men. A similar cut will be made in the Keystone in the next few weeks.

Between twenty and thirty men are being employed by the leasers of the Buckeye mine, a property of the United Globe company. The leasers are Link Bell and Frank Hubbel, Fanning & Pruitt, Kelley & Tucker, Anderson, Edward, Curtis & Savage.

N. L. Amster has agreed to advance the owners of the Keystone Copper company the sum of $6,000 with which to take up the mortgage on their property. The mortgage is now held by the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company. The property adjoins that of the Miami Copper company. At the present time Mr. Amster has formed no plans regarding the property and that while he may provide funds for development, nothing has been decided upon. The only connection of Mr. Amster with the property up to date is the advancing of the necessary funds to secure control of the mortgage on the property. Mr. Amster is the president of the Arizona Commercial Copper company of Globe, the president of the Shannon Copper company of Clifton. He is identified with the interests of the Paine, Webber & Co., of Boston. At the meeting of the stockholders one block of one-fourth of the stock held by J. R. Finletter was voted against the Amster offer. Fully two-thirds of the stock, however, voted in favor of the offer. The whole deal is subject to an examination to the title of the Keystone company.

THE CONDITIONS AT BISBEE

About Only New Work Being Done is at Sacramento Shaft of Copper Queen---New Handling System Being Established.

Bisbee, Ariz., May 23.—Conditions in the district remain about the same as the previous week, the shipments remaining the same. The only new work which amounts to much is being done at the Sacramento shaft of the Copper Queen company. At this property the ore-handling system is being installed—that is, the equipment which will handle the ore after it is raised to the surface. Work was begun this week on the steel structure which will extend over the five sets of tracks, and which will deliver the ore from the mine to the waiting ore cars. This work is being done by the Kenwood Bridge company of Chicago, Ill. The ore will be raised by skips to the surface, where it will be delivered onto a belt conveyor, which will carry it to the structure over the railroad tracks. This structure will be 800 feet long and 42 feet wide and will extend over four sets of tracks. The ore will be delivered from the conveyor belt to small bins located a short distance apart, about a car length, from which it will be run into the cars. With this equipment the company will be enabled to load fifty-two cars simultaneously, the ore coming from the mine in an endless stream.

At the new powerhouse of the Copper Queen the machinery is gradually being put into operation, but it will be some time before it will be running in full operation. A wall of concrete building blocks is being built between the boiler room and the portion of the immense building which contains the machinery.

The railroad tracks between the Holbrook and the machine shops is being prepared for double tracking.

At the powerhouse of the Oliver of the Calumet & Arizona company additional machinery is being installed this week. The most important is a motor for converting the alternating current into direct use for the Warren-Bisbee street car line.

ELY'S COPPER PROPERTIES

W. B. Thompson of the Nevada Consolidated Company Returns From Tour of Inspection---New Concentrating Plant is Nearly Ready.

Boston, Mass., May 23.—William B. Thompson of the Nevada Consolidated Copper company, has just returned from an inspection trip to the Nevada Consolidated and the Cumberland Ely properties in Nevada and the Utah Copper company's property at Bingham, Utah. In speaking of the Utah Copper company, Mr. Thompson says that it is now handling 5,000 tons of ore a day and producing in excess of 3,000,000 pounds of copper a month. It is handling the ore through its own concentrator, but its concentrates are smelted at the Garfield plant of the American Smelting & Refining Co. The Copper production now is made at a cost of less than 9 cents a pound. As the work progresses and operations get further away from the capping, the cost of production will be reduced to under 8 cents a pound.

The new concentrating plant is now fairly under way and should be fully completed by early fall. When it is completed, it will be able to handle 7,000 tons of ore a day and to produce in excess of 5,000,000 pounds of copper a month, and at a cost of less than 8 cents a pound. It will be remembered that this ore is produced from open cuts with steam shovels and ist actually gotten out at about 25 cents a ton.

President MacNeil and General Manager Jacklin, Mr. Thompson says, are deserving of full credit in the institution of the enterprise and for its attendant success. It is due to the success of their experiment mill that the Guggenheims and their associates were induced to enter the Ely field.

Mr. Thompson states that he visited the works at Ely, including the concentrator and smelter at that place. The first unit of the new concentrator of the Nevada Consolidated company, was started last week, while he was present. The ore used was from the Cumberland Ely mine and the experimental run was considered entirely satisfaotory.

The ore averaged 3.4 per cent in copper. The first section of the plant should be in full operation this week and operating regularly on ores. The second unit of the plant should be in operation by June 1 and the smelter should also be starting up by that date and actual product should be turned out by or before July 1. The three sections of the plant will be completed and in full operation by early fall and the Nevada Consolidated should then be producing 2,000,000 pounds of copper a month, and the Cumberland Ely about 2,500,000 pounds a month, and all its production should be made under 8 cents a pound.

By fall, therefore, the Utah Copper production of 5,000,000 pounds a month, the Cumberland Ely of 2,500,000 pounds a month, and the Nevada Consolidated 2,000,000 a month, will aggregate 9,500,000 pounds or at the ratte of 114,500,000 pounds a year. It is calculated by Mr. Thompson that within two years the output of the three companies will be materially increased.

ORE OF FABULOUS RICHNESS

Tapped by Diamond Drill at the Sycamore Property North of Jerome, Arizona---Returns of $550 to the Ton.

Prescott, Ariz., May 23.—News of what appears to be among the most important mineral strikes of recent years in the Verde district was brought here by J. C. Scott, superintendent of the Verde Grand Copper company, and Joo Larson, president of the Boston-Jerome Copper company, who report that a body of ore of remarkable richness was recently tapped by a diamond drill on the properties of the Sycamore Mining and Development company, twelve miles north of Jerome. They report having several specimens of this ore of the drill, which fairly glitter with free gold, besides varying values in silver and copper.

The ore was found at a depth of 450 feet, and the drill had been pushed down to the 500-foot mark, the core still showing that the bore is in the ledge. One sample of a few feet passed through gave returns of $550 to the ton. Specimens of the ore will assay thousands of dollars to the ton. The company is composed of Fort Worth, Tex., capitalists, and the management has now under consideration the sinking of a deep working shaft as soon as arrangements can be made to commence the work. There is already a working shaft sunk to a depth of over 200 feet on the ground, in which work was suspended some time ago. The gases and foul air encountered produced one or more fatalities among the miners employed in sinking. The claim in which the new find was encountered is located in a schist belt immediately east of the Verde river, from which the lime capping common to that immediate section, has eroded. Miners and mining engineers, familiar with the ground, are unanimous in the opinion that one of the greatest mines in the entire Verde district will be developed there.

OWN SOME LAND.

The Herald has for many years counselled home-owning, and it has never overlooked an opportunity of championing the cause of home-buying against the plan of home-renting or, worse still, boarding.

There is something about the ownership of a piece of solid earth that is like no other sense of possession that man can enjoy. Your stocks can depreciate in value with wonderful quickness and dismaying permanence. Your valuable securities may turn to waste paper, as the wealth in a dream turns from gold to dead leaves. Your money may vanish in a broken bank, in a misjudged investment, or down a well. Your good clothing will wear out, your hat will go out of style, your affections may prove misplaced—something in short, is likely to happen to almost any cherished possession you may have.

But if you handle it properly, there isn't much that can happen to your piece of land, and there is nothing that can take away all of its usefulness and value. Whether it is country acres or city lots, it is earth. If it isn't good for anything else you can grow things on it, and so long as you have a place that will grow things good to eat, you can't starve.

Buy a piece of land. Whether you buy it in the country or in the city is not so important as it is that you should buy it. If you have a few acres in the country, you have the prospect that it will advance in value and the certainty that when those who pay you your salary find that you are too old to be worth keeping any longer you can go back to that bit of land and dig a living out of it.

If you buy a lot in the city you have, perhaps, greater chances of an increase in value, particularly if you buy it in a city whose prospects are so splendid as those of Duluth. If you haven't money enough to buy it, save enough to make a payment, and then you will be tied to something that will make you save, even if your habits in the past have been improvident.

But when you buy land, don't buy the first thing that is offered to you, and don't pay a fancy price for it. Look for a bargain. Consider the probabilities of future growth. Think whether the tendency of the community is to grow toward your lot or away from it. Consider the market for real estate in the particular neighborhood you may be thinking of buying into; whether there is a ready sale for land there, in case you wish to dispose of your holding later.

Many a comfortable fortune has been based on the initial possession of a single piece of ground. Certainly you will never have a fortune of any kind if you don't begin by owning something, and there is nothing you can own that is as imperishable and as certain as a piece of real estate.

There is great comfort in the feeling that you own something worth owning. It may sound paradoxical that one can be made free by tieing one's self up, but the best way to make yourself financially free is to tie yourself up to a piece of ground. In it you will find the potentiality of independence. You may sell it at a profit, or you may build a home upon it, and in either event you win. When you own nothing, and your income goes out in rent and living expenses, you invariably lose.

YOUNG MEN IN CITIES.

Albert B. Wolfe, professor of sociology at Oberlin college, has been studying the problem of the "roomer" in cities. He finds the "roomer" to be "the typical young American in the city—the man behind the counter, the office man at the desk, the skilled mechanic, unmarried and free to gravitate where wages are highest." He points out that every large city has one or more rooming house districts, and that the rooming house is not to be confused with the low-grade lodging house. The rooming house may also be a boarding house, but Prof. Wolfe's investigations show that with the multiplicity of restaurants the majority of rooming houses make no provision for boarders.

Such young men as Prof. Wolfe has been studying are very independent beings, and it is quite possible that they would resent being classed together as a sociological problem, but that is just what they constitute. These young men are the leading citizens of tomorrow, and the character of their citizenship and the value of their accomplishments depend in no small degree upon the influences that affect them now.

Their situation, free and independent as it is, is not what the average mother would wish for her son. There is little restraint, and the freedom which is one of the chief merits of their situation is quite likely to become a menace. Too often there is a lack of the refining influences of social contact with good women. Always there is the utter lack of home influences. The associations are in a large measure what the young "roomer" makes them, and yet bad associations will crowd in from every side, and must be deliberately avoided if they are to be successfully withstood.

Even the old-fashioned boarding house is better than the rooming plan, because it does furnish human society of a very fair order. The roomer, if he has not a large acquaintance, too often chooses between the loneliness of his room and the fact that he can always find in degrading social contact in the saloons or in the streets.

The Y. M. C. A. reaches out and takes hold of a large number of these men. It provides them with a pleasant club, where they can meet in social gatherings relatively free from evil influences. It provides them with reading rooms, gymnasiums, study classes, religious meetings; it finds them positions, locates them in pleasant and wholesome lodgings, and it often furnishes rooms in its own buildings. The new Y. M. C. A. building in Duluth, which the generosity of the citizens made possible, will provide all these pleasures and conveniences in an unusually elaborate and effective way.

In view of the need of attention to the welfare of the "roomer," the Y. M. C. A. becomes a very great and very useful social force. In some cities attempts are being made, with a good show of success, to raise money for Y. M. C. A. dormitories to house the young men. It would seem that the energies of the association could hardly be bent to a more promising and laudable end than this.

A FOOL AND HIS FOLLY.

The other day a man in New York named Black committed suicide, and left behind him a note explaining his act. He said that he was born into the world without being consulted, and consequently no one has a right to judge him. He declared that he found no beauty in life, "nothing but hypocrisy, deceit and selfishness."

Usually—almost invariably, in fact—the act of self-murder presupposes the existence of insanity. In this case, however, the reasoning of the suicide is clear enough to remove that excuse, and to make it plain that a defect in character, instead of a defect in mentality, is responsible. It is not for us to blame this man; it is not for us to judge; it is possible that heredity bestowed upon him the defect that spoiled his life, and that he was no more responsible for it than he was for his birth.

But his reasoning is worth analyzing, because it is so absurdly false and forms such an unconscious self-condemnation. In the first place, while he was not consulted about his birth, this man, like all other men, was put into the world for a purpose: to develop the best that was in him and to give it forth for the world's betterment. It was his duty to serve, to devote his life to some useful endeavor that would leave the world better off than he found it. Instead of that he made away with himself, and by denouncing humanity he denounced himself.

He found no beauty in life; nothing but hypocrisy, deceit and selfishness.

Beauty and truth and faith and unselfishness do not crowd in upon a man from without, but are developed from within. The man who has no beauty in his soul will find none about him; but the man or woman who has graces of soul will find graces in all around them. The person who is selfish, deceitful and hypocritical will find nothing but selfishness, deceit and hypocrisy in the world about him.

Life is what we make it. Those who do not make life to suit themselves do not live. If one would find beauty and truth about him, he must first cultivate beauty and truth within him. Invariably, every man will find the world a reflection of the inner nature for whose making he is entirely responsible. If that inner nature be clean and sweet and beautiful the world will be, for him, clean and sweet and beautiful.

To have come to the tragic state which would permit him to write that note to the world, this man must have utterly neglected his duty to himself and to mankind. His is the logical conclusion of a life of selfishness. He chose to be selfish—we know nothing about his life but it can be recreated from that final note as the geologist recreates an antediluvian reptile from a fossile bone—and he found nothing but selfishness about him. Had he chosen to be unselfish, had he worked to bring out for the world's benefit the best that was in him, he would have found the world unselfish and it would have given him the best it had.

PROFANITY ON THE STAGE.

It is very curious how promptly the reward of laughter and applause comes to the cheap actor who seeks to win favor by uttering an oath upon the stage. That is why actors who have no other claims to the favor of an audience repeatedly indulge in the practice. If they can't win a laugh any other way, they know that an explosive "damn" at an unexpected moment will always bring it. And then they behave just as though they really believed that the laughter was a tribute to their own art!

Decency and good taste are wholly at war with this practice, but it will continue just so long as audiences continue to yield the laugh that is expected. The actors do not appear to realize that the laugh that greets the stage oath is not the laugh of approval, but the laugh of surprise. The shock of the unexpected epithet startles the laugh into being, and the next moment half the audience is ashamed of itself for laughing, and contemptuous toward the actor for resorting to so cheap a device to make the laughter come.

Profanity is vulgar, anywhere and at any time. It is a confession of grossness and of ignorance. The man that has to swear to express emphasis shows himself ignorant of the possibilities of the language, and besides proving that his knowledge of his own tongue is inadequate, proves also that his tastes are coarse and his nature lacking in a proper sense of decency.

It is a pretty poor play that has to depend upon profanity to "make it go." It is a very poor actor who cannot win a laugh from his audience otherwise than by flinging an oath at it. A stage situation which will not hold itself up without profanity is weak enough to be discarded, and a play that depends upon situations so supported has no place on any stage, and should go into the waste basket.

It is pleasant to note that the majority of managers and actors know these things, and that in the greater number of productions no language is tolerated that could not with perfect propriety be used in drawing rooms. Yet every theater-goer knows that there are still plays so worthless, situations so weak, actors so vapid and inadequate, and managers so ignorant of public tastes, that profanity is deemed necessary.

The managers and actors who permit it do not know public taste. They see only that the stage oath invariably produces a sudden, rather nervous burst of laughter, but they are not keen enough to see how little real merriment there is in it, nor to realize that the audience immediately feels that it has been tricked into laughing. Any audience resents being tricked into doing anything it doesn't want to do; audiences in that respect are a good deal like people. The experience cannot fail to produce a feeling of resentment that is at once damaging to the effect of the play and permanently injurious to the reputation of the actor.

THE WIRE PROBLEM.

Until that future time to which everybody looks forward hopefully, when all electric wires will be underground and out of sight and the possibility of danger, the only thing about the wire problem that is perfectly clear is that it is a very difficult one to solve otherwise than by burying it with the wires.

With a view to lessening the bewildering tangle of wires and poles, the city council has been considering an ordinance providing that telephone and electric light wires shall be strung upon the same poles. The tragic death of a telephone lineman yesterday caused by his coming in contact with a high voltage electric light wire showed that there are already instances where the telephone and electric light wires are upon the same poles, and it also showed one of the dangers of that method of handling the problem. This man's death was clearly due to the fact that the electric light wires, carrying a deadly voltage, were close to the telephone wires upon which he was working.

It is easy to imagine, in addition to this danger which has been already too well proved, that there might be others. Perhaps it is an unlikely contingency, but it is not pleasant to contemplate what might happen to a careless user of a telephone if the telephone wires were crossed with the high voltage electric light wires by any accident.

The representative of one of the telephone companies pointed out in The Herald last evening that the wires would be just as close together if they were on different poles so long as the two sets of poles were on the same side of the street, and there is no doubt about this. Nothing could be gained by having separate sets of poles if they had to be aligned on the same side of a street or alley. On the other hand, the confusion of the city's thoroughfares would be even worse than it is now if new sets of poles had to be put in for one set of wires on the opposite side of the street from the other set.

It is not pleasant to have the streets full of poles and the air full of wires; neither is it pleasant to know that there is danger in placing the wires too closely together on the same poles. The problem is an important one, and in many respects an unnecessary one since everybody knows that it could be solved in a minute by requiring that all the wires shall be placed underground.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

The old age pension plan, which is having great vogue in Europe, has not yet reached this country, and when it does it will have a desperate time of it if large property interests are as closely allied with the government as they are now. But in Europe it is a very live question, and it has been adopted in Germany, is likely to be soon applied in France, and has good future prospects in England.

In Germany and France the contribution principle applies, under which the workers provide the pension fund, but in England the proposed plan throws the entire burden upon society.

The theory of the contribution plan is that workingmen who expect to benefit from the old age pension system when they are superannuated must contribute from their wages to the pension fund. In Germany they are required to contribute 2 per cent of their wages during thirty years in order to be pensioned at 60 years of age. The same provison is made in the pending French measure, which is likely to pass. It was passed in 1906 by the French chamber of deputies, but was held up by the senate because of the additional burden it would impose upon the nation's finances.

As it stands, nobody could get a pension until thirty years have elapsed, but there is a proviso that covers workingmen who can prove that they are over 60 and have worked continuously for thirty years. The senate has objected to this provision, but has consented to accept it if the expense is limited to $20,000,000 a year until contributions provide an independent pension fund.

There is no provision for contributions in the British measure. This plan is opposed on the ground that it is unfair to tax economical laborers, who are able to care for themselves, in order to provide pensions for those who do not save enough to provide for their own old age.

The theory of the plan which places the burden directly upon society, without requiring contributions from the workingmen, is this: Every laborer who spends an average lifetime in productive work gives to society enough more than his wages to warrant society in providing for him when he can no longer work. Wages tend, almost inevitably, to hover close to the bare cost of living. They leave little margin for saving for old age. A workingman who starts at 20 years of age and works until he is 60 has given forty years of productive energy to society. He has received from society little more than his board and keep. When he can no longer work, is it fair for society to condemn him to starvation or the almshouse, or should it provide him with a living through a pension system? Suppose, during his forty years of productive labor, his work yielded society $4,000 a year, and suppose society, through his employer, had paid him $450 a year. In that case he has certainly produced enough not only to pay for his education and upbringing until he was 20, but for his care after he reached 60 years of age until his death.

The no-contribution plan is economically just. The contribution plan is better than nothing. The present condition, where the worker is denied sufficient wages and steady enough work to permit saving, is horrible with its constant menace of helpless dependence, when society, through with him because he is no longer productive, casts him into the waste heap to starve or become a pauper.

The house passed the bill providing for publicity of campaign expenses, but hampered it with an amendment that the machine hopes will kill it in the senate. This is "four-flush reform."

The house earned one "good conduct" mark by killing ship subsidy.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Some misguided practical joker or an embryo swindler tried to work a hoax or some sort of irregular deal on a Superior street establishment yesterday, but as far as could be learned, the store lost nothing but some of its employes' valuable time.

The incident had its culmination at the McKay hotel, where the enterprising clerk put a spike in the wheel of the instigators of the plot.

"Where are you going with that package, boy?" asked the clerk, as a lad staggering under the burden of a couple of big suit boxes, made for the elevator.

"Dese things goes to Mrs. Umpt-umpty in parlor Q," replied the urchin.

The clerk shook his head, doubtfully. Then he looked in the book and finally announced:

"There is no such person at this hotel and there is no parlor Q."

"Dat's funny," said the boy, displaying the name and address plainly written on the boxes.

The store was called up on the telephone and there they verified the addresses all right, but were astounded when they learned that Mrs. Umpty-umpty did not live at the McKay and that the hostelry did not contain a Parlor Q. They said that a well dressed woman had ordered the suits sent up to the hotel, where she would try them on. They were glad to get the suits back again when they found out the true facts.

"It is something of a mystery to me that every young man doesn't take out a sick and accident policy in some reliable insurance company, in addition to his regular life insurance, if he has any of the latter," said V. W. Hawkins at the Spalding. "There are so many good companies now, and so easy are the terms of payment, that everybody making anything above actual living expenses can afford to have such a policy.

"There are several different kinds of insurance, of course, and any of them are good, provided, of course, that the company, society or order is a responsible one. Fraternal insurance is all right, and so is the other kind. But a fellow should have some protection, either of one kind or the other, or both.

"You would be surprised to know how many people do not carry any insurance at all. It is due to carelessness more than anything else. Insurance, especially sick and accident insurance, appeals to the business man as a good business proposition, and you seldom run across a business man who does not carry one or more policies.

BREEZY TRIFLES.

Philadelphia Ledger: "What's the matter with your airship?"

"Nothing," replied the inventor. "But you smashed it."

"That wasn't the fault of the ship. It would fly all right if the earth would get out of the way."

Washington Star: "Work is something that none of us can avoid."

"That's right," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "Even if you hire somebody to do your work, you've got to work hard to keep him from loafing or spoiling something."

Houston Post: "Why does your friend look so blue?"

"His mother was lying at the point of death, and he promised to get her an automobile if she would live."

"But she died?"

"Nope, she lived."

Baltimore American: Manager—How did the woman look who put in this matrimonial advertisement?

Clerk—For one thing, she was dressed fit to kill.

Manager (nervously)—Then I guess we had better not insert it.

Washington Star: "Is that man a lobbyist?"

"My dear sir, there are no lobbyists. But there must be patriotic people who give members of the legislature advice on public needs entirely outside their own range of experience."

Philadelphia Press: "I notice," said the determined young woman, "that you don't care to sit alone in the parlor here with me any more."

"Oh, I don't know," replied the lover, who was growing cold. "Why?"

"Well, I just want to remark that you'll either have your courting in here or your hearing in court."

Catholic Standard and Times: "But are you sure you love me?" asked Miss Shrude.

"I swear it!" replied Mr. Yerner. "I value you as I value my life."

"Ah! but do you value me as you value your life insurance?"

Baltimore American: "The animal trainer who was a witness in that damage suit showed the effects of surroundings in his testimony."

"How so?"

"He displayed so much horse sense in answering dogmatic questions categorically."

Spare Moments: Mrs. De Weary—And so you have been married five years and are as much in love with your husband as ever?

Mrs. Cheery—Yes, indeed.

"Hum! What business is your husband in?"

"He's captain of a sailing ship."

Filipino Suffrage.

Philadelphia Record: There are people who say the Filipinos are not quite as fit as themselves for the duties of self-government. They will find little evidence of their assumption in a bill which has been introduced in the Philippine assembly to provide for woman suffrage with the condition that no married woman can vote without the written consent of her husband.

THE WEATHER.

This morning it was brilliantly clear and comfortably warm, but later clouds began to cover the sky, and the weather man intimates the possibility of more northeaster tomorrow. He says it will be cloudy and cooler, with possible showers and fresh to brisk northeast winds. Last night's lowest temperature was 46 degs. and yesterday's highest was 66 degs.

A year ago today it was clear and cool with a northeast wind.

The sun rose this morning at 4:22 and sets tonight at 7:46, making 15 hours and 24 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Barometric depressions central over Arizona, New Mexico and British Columbia caused light to heavy rains during Friday or last night throughout the Rocky Mountains, the Central valleys, Upper Saskatchewan, Manitoba, the Northeastern lake region and New England states, and warmer weather in the Northwest. The barometer is high over the Northern and Eastern states. Indications favor more or less cloudiness in this locality tonight and Sunday with a possibility of showers attending the easterly movement of the Southwestern low pressure."

The Ill Wind.

We used to live where we had stairs 'nd
an attic of our own,
And I slep' in a back room on the second floor, alone,
And nearly every night I'd seem to hear things overhead,
Or dream that they were ghosts that come and stood beside my bed.

Ma told me it was on account of wicked things I'd do,
And every night I'd wish I had a little brother, too,
Like Willie Jones has got, because it doesn't scare you so
To hear the noises when you ain't in bed alone, you know.

Pa loaded up with stocks last spring—it's on account of that
We sold our house, and now we all live in a little flat,
And pa and ma sleep right across the narrow hall from me,
And I don't have to go upstairs to bed alone, you see.

Ma frets around a lot because they robbed
pa of his pile;
She has to cook the meals herself, and we can't live in style;
But I ain't sorry that we ain't got things
we had before,
For I don't have to go upstairs to bed alone no more.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: It takes a good deal of the pleasure out of anything to be able to afford to do it.

People who have a rich relative talk so much about it because he never mentions it.

Generally a man can fall in love with a girl by her thinking so, or saying so, whether she thinks it or not.

A woman has a lot to learn to understand a man, but she never has to learn any of it to make a fool of him.

Successful oratory is where the other fellow can't answer back because the orator was the only one invited to speak.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

On Letting Oneself Go.

Take up almost any one of the recent books on psychology and you will find such expressions as these: "Let yourself go," "unclasp the machinery," "relieve the surface tension." What do these phrases mean? Simply that in the judgment of some of our most thoughtful men the time has come to make an earnest plea for the expression of personality in terms of the individual life. They think that most of us imprison within ourselves forces and capacities, enthusiasm and aspirations which, if only allowed outlet, would increase our happiness and effectiveness in the world.

Their message to us is, in substance: "You are too self-contained, too precise, too formal, too proper and conventional. Let yourself go now and then; give your real self a better chance."

It is easy to understand what has brought about such a status as this. The conditions of modern life make for the repression of personality. What scope for the exercise of it has the man who stands all day long at a machine, or who does some other purely mechanical task which he has been doing for perhaps ten or twenty years?

Moreover, the human congestion in many communities makes for the same result. There are almost too many of us in some parts of the world. We get in one another's way. And because we are so close to one another most of the time we are often forced to hold ourselves within conventional restraints, to be polite rather than sincere, to pare down the expression of our views to accord with the crowd to conform, because of the powerful influence of close and constant contact, to other people's way of doing things.

Our villages used to abound in odd, eccentric characters, whose shrewd observations delighted the admiring circle of listeners at the country store. You find a few rare survivals here and there, but as modern life becomes more intense and crowded they become scarcer and you know not where to look for them in the long, monotonous rows of dwellings in city streets.

Nevertheless, the play of personality must not be lost in the twentieth century, and need not be. There is something precious and personal in each of us that we it to ourselves and the world to cultivate, in the face even of great obstacles. However big a crowd may be you never see in it two faces exactly alike. There is something distinct in every one of us which must be evoked, and the more of it that can be brought into play the richer our life becomes and the more we serve mankind. The most interesting character in Gilbert Parker's thrilling novel, "The Weavers," is Lacey, the genial, ebullient Chicago man, with his plunges up and down, and his merry salutation, "Give my love to the girls." We can pardon a good deal of crudity and kiddishness in a man who is putting his best self into his work and giving his best self to others.

Even toilers with their hands from morn till even, even bookkeepers, who do nothing but add up long columns of figures, even home-makers, who drudge away at apparently endless tasks, can find outlet for their personal qualities if they will. When the machine stops for the night they can hasten home, toss the baby in their arms and expend a little concrete affection on the wife. They can use the chinks of time in such ways that which is best and most personal in them shall be finding nourishment and exercise. Perhaps, also, in their daily labor, however monotonous, they can bring to bear reserves of personality. And even in the monotony of grinding toil, great thoughts of God, duty and immortality may flood the soul and unlock closed treasure houses of feeling and power. And so I say again, "Unclasp the machinery; let yourself go."

THE PARSON.

Poor Old Bryan.

Henry Watterson in the Courier Journal: The Roosevelt platform has been constructed out of loose planks stolen from the Bryan platform. It is the Bryan platform with federal veneering—the Bryan platform slicked over with centralization goose-grease—the Bryan platform, trimmed about the edges and painted sky-blue. Poor old Bryan! We are sorry for that man! He has to stand on his own platform; a little time-worn and weather-stained—some of the rear timbers a trifle rickety—yet, on the whole an honest platform and his own! He will not have to box the compass, nor square the parallelogram; just to tell the people a plain tale from the hills—from God's country—representing the real wants and needs of the people. That is all.

Vain!

ROOSEVELT, WILLIAMS AND THE STANDPATTERS

By SAVOYARD.

(Copyright, 1908, by E. W. Newman.)

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has made the declaration he is a Republican before he is a tariff revisionist; his letter to Edward H. Harriman, just before the election of 1901, shows that he is a Republican before he is a trust-buster, and his acceptance of the Allison amendment (that was forged in Wall street) to the Hepburn rate bill, of agonizing memory, discloses that he is a Republican before he is an octopus-chaser. Indeed, there is nothing plainer than that President Roosevelt prefers any abuse that protects rather than allow the Democratic party any credit for any sort of reform. For instance, John Sharp Williams had the Republican majority surrounded and short of victuals the other day in his campaign for free pulp and free print paper, but when the president came on the scene with his characteristic sensational message and thundering in the they hear his name, and the present word of and concerning tariff reform in the white document. Rather than get an honest and constitutional tariff, according to his definition of it in his writings; rather than get it with Democratic aid aid, President Roosevelt will be as much of a standpatter as Aldrich or Dalzell or the American Economist itself. And yet the land is full of Democrats, who throw their ready hats high in air and shout applause every time the Republican party—and to some leader of the Democratic party has given the Republican president a certificate of good political character.

In 1860 the Republican party pretended to be a descendant of Thomas Jefferson. In 1896 the then Democratic papacy canonized Abraham Lincoln as a saint of the Democratic calendar. In 1908 there are hundreds of thousands of honest men who delude themselves into the absurdity that they are Democrats, and who actually think Theodore Roosevelt is a good Democrat. As to the Republican party being a child of Jefferson, the thing is too silly to discuss. So far from Abraham Lincoln being a Democrat, his entire political life was a constant warfare against that party. He was a Hamiltonian. He idolized Henry Clay. He positively hated Andrew Jackson, and yet Ben Tillman and W. J. Bryan will quote you Abraham Lincoln for good Democratic doctrine. Roosevelt would have mugwumped in 1884 along with Henry Ward Beecher, Carl Schurz, Horace White, George William Crutis, George Fred Williams and that set, but for the fact that it is a moral impossibility for Theodore Roosevelt to voluntarily assume any position or do anything whatever that he thought would tend to the advantage of the Democratic party. Let those who believe in Roosevelt's Democracy read what he said of Jefferson and Jackson. And then I wish every Southern state would pass a law compelling every Southern Democrat to read his letter to President Jefferson Davis.

This very year the Lord has delivered the Republican party into the hands of the Democracy, but the Democracy, to all appearance, absolutely refuses to take charge of the captive:

Who seeks and will not take, when once 'tis offered,
Shall never find it more.

President Roosevelt, the leader of the Republican party—and to msoe seeming, the leader of the Democratic party also—has made a plea in confession and avoidance, and Elihu Root, the Melanchthon of this Luther, dressed it in the gorgeous raiment of sophistry, viz.:

The tenth amendment to the Federal Constitution is confessed; but it is avoided and rendered nugatory by construction—that is to say, a state has reserved rights, but if it neglects or refuses to exercise them it becomes the right and the duty of the federal establishment to usurp them. If that is not the literal annihilation of state sovereignty and the concentration of all political power at this capital I wish somebody would tell me what it is. Here is an example: That prodigy for suggester political mischief, the Hon. Albert Jeremiah Beveridge—he of the recondite mind and the verbose speech—sees in child labor an evil, and in thousands of instances it is an evil. It is the right of the states to prohibit its abuse. Some of them have neglected to exercise that right. Thereupon Mr. Beveridge, in the teeth of the Constitution and in contempt of the adjudication of the supreme bench, strives to prohibit child labor in the states by act of congress. If that is to be allowed, what in the name of common sense is the use of a state legislature, or a state itself? If, by act of congress, child labor can be prohibited in the states, so can adult labor by the same method be abolished. Admit this principle, and congress can say that no man shall labor in the production of an article that enters into interstate commerce without first joining a labor union. And as the labor union has gone into politics and offers to swap so many votes for so much legislation, no one need be surprised if we have that for a "paramount," or at least a "cardinal," in all the platforms of 1912.

Theodore Roosevelt, the head of the Republican party, and William J. Bryan, the head of the Democratic party, have cordially approved and zealously advocated the Beveridge plan of abolition of states' rights.

The Republican party declares that tariff abuses must be reformed by the friends of those abuses, which means that shepherds should be drafted from a pack of wolves. The Republican party has no more intention to reform the abuses of the tariff than it has to legislate for the regulation of the tides of ocean in Hampton Roads. And if it really sought to reform the tariff it would be as impotent for that purpose as it is to command the showers of April or the droughts of August. But as to that last it has the blasphemous impudence to claim credit for good crops.

Now here are twin paramounts—states' rights and tariff reform—ripe fruit waiting to be plucked by the Democratic party. But the Democratic party thinks it is fixing to carry Kansas and will not only alienate New York, that is indispensable, but actually it is sought to make New York as surely Republican as Maine or Iowa. Never was there in this world an entity so fortunate in its adversary as the Republican party has been for twelve years.

As for the Republicans in congress, John Sharp Williams has got them on the hip. Roosevelt put a club in John Sharp's hands, and he cracked the heads of the standpatters unmercifully. Sam Jones said that it was "the hit log that hollers," and so it is in the Sixtieth congress. To give the impudence an air of respectability the speaker introduced a resolution to appoint a committee to investigate the paper trust. Many of Chicago is chalk man. I attended one of its sittings, and was reminded of an anecdote of Tom Marshall, who was arguing a demurrer before a hostile judge on one occasion. Every few minutes while Murray was speaking, his honor would interrupt and put questions that made it manifest that, in the opinion of the court, Marshall had a hopeless case. Finally Marshall turned to his associate counsel, and with an aside that the bar in a roar, said: "Now, who's on the other side of the case beside the judge?" It did not think it necessary for the paper trust to support Mr. Mann with other counsel.

Except the cruel tariff duty that was on quinine, the tariff on print paper is the most indefensible ever levied, though the Republican tariff of 1883 taxed Bibles and let in free playing cards; and I am not so certain that the same condition does not maintain under the Dingley tariff. I am sure Bibles are taxed now—Bibles printed in English. The tariff on quinine was for the encouragement and promotion of disease, pain, sorrow, misery, death. It helped the doctor, the undertaker, the grave-digger, the tombstonemaker. It protected malaria, that saps physical energy.

When quinine was taxed, it sold for $4 an ounce. One of the most brilliant men, one of the most eloquent orators I ever knew, was Jim McKenzie. He it was who secured free quinine for the American people. His speech was argument, ridicule, invective. In very shame and in very fear, congress passed the bill that reduced the price of quinine as much as 80 per cent. He ought to have a monument, "cloud-capped the summit," and when his eloquent tongue was forever silenced, and his manly form was pillowed to its final rest, every man, woman and child of America was his debtor.

Well, just as the tariff on quinine was a tax on health and a protection for disease, so is the tariff on print paper a tax on culture and a protection for ignorance. The Dingley schedules have allowed the paper trust to extort from the American people untold millions. Nor is that all. These schedules have deforested immense areas of land and inflicted stupendous losses on account of floods. Indeed, we have this spectacle: The duties on wood pulp and print paper put a premium on the cutting of timber, and there are bills before congress to buy lands for the cultivation of timber. Here is the paper trust turning forests into bleak desert wastes and then it is urged that the government tax the people to buy the lands and replant them in trees. Canada has eight acres of forests to our one acre. All our wood pulp should come from Canada, and print paper from Canada, and the rest of the world should be free.

The Republicans in congress are between that devil of a John Sharp William and that Dead Sea of an enraged public press. If they had put pulp wood and print paper on the free list it is an admission that the tariff is a tax, and some impertinent and intelligent farmer of a close district in Indiana, or Illinois, or Iowa, would be sure to ask: "You gave the newspapers free raw material, why did you not give me free farm utensils?"

And there is the devil of this whole business. For once the G. O. P. is in this fix:

You can and you can't;
You will and you won't;
You'll be damned if you do,
And you'll be damned if you don't.

For this we may thank John Sharp Williams—for Roosevelt has recanted, as usual—but it is a barren victory John Sharp had gained for us if the Denver convention shall lack the sense to take advantage of it.

THE POPULAR SCOTCH BLACK & WHITE SCOTCH WHISKY

A MAN OF THE PEOPLE—JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA

By Agnes Deans Cameron.

"A lover of books, but a reader of man;
No cynic and no charlatan.
Of the mettled breed, yet abhorring strife,
And full of the mellow juice of life."

I have disproved the truth of two aphorisms—the first, the worm-eaten, "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country;" the other, "Every woman in Minnesota swears by John Johnson."

During a week's still-hunt in the North Star state, I asked one hundred and one people in all walks of life, from sheriffs to boot-blacks, what they individually thought of their governor, and discovered two women who do not walk shackled behind the chariot of this Man of Destiny. One is an Englishwoman, a purveyor of drugs in the little town of St. Peter, who recalls Kipling's prayer for "one good subordinate" by remarking sententiously as she passes out "Mother Graves' Soothing Powder." "No, he ain't much shucks; any man can succeed if he has a good secretary."

The second lady, I forgathered with in the train out from St. Paul. She was a soft-eyed, much-bedizened squaw, heavily hung with bead-chains, and ear-terraced with three pairs of coin-earrings. Correcting my easy salutation of "Mary" with "Mrs. Bright Eagle, Sioux City," she declared herself innocent of Governor Johnson and all his works, reducing me to flight and confusion of face by demanding in her turn, "How many papoose, you?" But these two were the exceptions, the other ninety and nine while differing pole-wide with the wisdom of Minnesota's governor in specified instances, were a unit in declaring him to be "a good man," "a square chap," "as straight as they make them." Of politics we did not speak.

The Outer Man.

This man has a talent for friendship. On the train and in his private office in the state capitol I spent seven or eight hours in close conversation with Governor Johnson trying to find out what it is that constitutes his charm and draws all sorts of people to him. It surely is not his beauty. A very tall Swedish housemaid confided to me the other day that Easter was coming on and she had "no faller," (sadly) "Ay tank I don't find one long enough." Minnesota's governor surely is long enough. He slouches up to you, a full fathom of loose-jointedness.

His gait baffled me for some time. At last I got it. In a Park Zoo away off on Vancouver's Isle-of-Pines, a Canada lynx night and day lurches up and down in its ten feet of cage, this is the gait of the man.

Seated, his legs are in the way, he winds them round his chair, and in the midst of an argument startles you by depositing one of them in an impersonal and detached way on the table in front of him. Not so with his eyes, blue, alert, and framed with their fringe of radiating wrinkles. He knows exactly what to do with these, they are fastened on yours with a glance that challenges a directness of speech to match his own. The jaw is strong and full of meaning and the nose good in itself. But it is not put on straight, and this without making the governor two-faced gives him two distinctly-different countenances, "one to face the world with, one to show a woman when he loves her." Every man needs these two.

Early Reading.

It was the night run from Chicago to St. Paul, and we had just dined. One of the staff came along and handed the governor a couple of cigars, for which in my heart's heart I blessed him. Smoking, and after such a good dinner! Could the fates have been kinder! "Now what do you want me to talk about? "Anything but politics," I answered, watching the ring of fire creep round the cigar. "Tell me about yourself—what you read when you were a little chap."

"Well, once I got started, I read everything I could reach; took the shelves straight ahead—it was all interesting. (With a smile.) I think I read everything in that attic, where an old town library had been dumped and distrained for rent, except, perhaps, the blue-books, statistical reports and tables of logarithms. The thing was getting well started. I was reading one day a book, 'The Boys of the Order of the White Cross.' I remember it was a red book, with the letters B. O. W. C. in white across the front cover, when a teacher in the Presbyterian Sunday school, Capt. J. C. Donahower, came along.

"He turned the book over and gave it back to me, saying, 'It's a pity to waste your time on weak stuff like that. If you will promise to read two books that I will name, I'll pay a dollar and a half for six months' subscription to the old library for you.' Of course I promised, and started in on his choice, 'The Conquest of Peru' and 'Ivanhoe'; they were a bit difficult to get interested in in their first chapters, but they held me from my sleep before I got through with them. After that, the thirst for reading was a flood—a very torrent—I couldn't get enough. I read Dickens and Scott; I read Shakespeare and declaimed whole scenes to myself at night, and I think I got as much pleasure out of it as I derived from Keene's 'Richard the Third' and Modjeska's 'As You Like It' in after years.

"Yes, I liked and still like poetry—Moore and Byron and Burns—and I find time for reading still. My wife joined the Federation of Women's Clubs and they took up the study of modern France and Italy. I closely followed the course with Mrs. Johnson; we read together in the evenings.

"You know, I left school when I was 13. My last teacher, Mr. E. S. Pettijohn, who is now assistant state treasurer, did more to wake me up mentally than any other teacher I have had. I hated to leave. However, some winters after I hit upon an expedient for widening my vocabulary. I think it is a good scheme. In my general reading I made it an unflinching rule to copy down every unusual word I came across. Each evening I hunted up the derivation, pronunciation and meaning of every word that had puzzled me, and these I wrote down carefully in a numbered list in a notebook. Each morning before work I read my list over and tested my memory on it. Before the winter was over I had added many thousands of words to my stock-in-trade. I keep up this habit; there is a clear delight to me in the learning of new words. Spelling reforms? (Quizzically.) Yes, no doubt it is needed, but I have neither the knowledge nor the ambition to attempt it. Every man to his trade; I'm no educator."

GOVERNOR JOHN A. JOHNSON.

The first cigar had burned down by this time, and to tempt him to light the other I hazarded, "If you should be sentenced to live out the rest of your days on a desert island, Governor, and might take with you into exile three books only, which would you take?" Without a moment's hesitation came the reply, "Shakespeare, the Bible and the Iliad."

His "Affidavit Voice."

There is great charm in the voice of Governor Johnson; it is what first attracts you to the man. If I should be asked to describe it in one word, I should call it an affidavit voice. Every word and sentence is measured, gets its full and clear enunciation, and comes to you with a deliberation which would seem to say, "This is my thoughtful opinion, by which I am prepared to stand till the last scroll crumples up and the final testimony is handed in." In our many hours of conversation he did not make one poetical or other quotation nor one attempt at a joke. In his boyhood days John Johnson sang in the church choir. Called upon last week by four old schoolmates, one of the ladies asked rallyingly, "What did you sing, Johnny?" I thought it was tenor," was the delicious reply, and no one seemed anxious to more closely classify it.

A Fisherman and a Fan.

"No, I am no hunter," said Governor Johnson. "It gives me no pleasure to see the blood spurting from a stricken deer. I have never killed a bird, or a squirrel, or a rabbit, and I never want to." The governor does not carry his objection to "sport" as far as some extremists; he is an enthusiastic fisher and so is Mrs. Johnson. Together with book and lunch and fishing tackle they have explored every lake in Northern Minnesota, and Mrs. Johnson can tell you where to expect the best baskets of trout and bass and perch, sunfish and cropples; among the young people of St. Peter five or six years ago she was the only woman who aspired to cast for bass.

But from the days when a store bat and ball and a catcher's mitt looked bigger than an auto does now, baseball has been John Johnson's game, and he has never gone back on his old love. "I never miss a league game when I can help it," says the governor, and down in St. Peter they tell you of an historic game in which "Johnny" earned deathless kudos. Judge Marr tells the story: "It harks back to the fire in the pineries, the great Hinckley fire of 1894, when the trapped men, women and children rushed for succor to the lakes and streams, and 438 people perished. Our county fair got up a benefit baseball match for the burned out families, the great battle of 'the Fats and the Leans;' Johnny was the star fielder for the Leans, and we cleared $1,500 for the sufferers. The superintendent of the insane asylum umpired the game."

Talks on Education.

"My ideas on education?" said the governor. "Well, I've had very little of the education that schools give, and I'm old-fashioned, too, you know. I think both boys and girls should be given a certain amount of manual training, but I would subordinate this to the good old-time reading, writing and arithmetic. We are apt in these days of hurry to get out of touch with the virtues of thoughtfulness and thoroughness, and it isn't kindness to a boy to smooth away all difficulties from his path and make it ever for him plain sailing—it doesn't fit him to do earnest work in hard places; a certain amount of grind is good for the soul of a boy.

"I think one year's time of every American boy and girl should be devoted to the study of the Constitution of the United States which, of course is founded on the Magna Charta and the various bills of rights of Great Britain. I'd have each child learn our Constitution inside and out, so that before he left school he could pass a legal examination on every part of it, be able to tell when and where and why it was adopted and exactly what it stands for. This is in my opinion a better way to teach patriotism than by shouting and idly flapping flags. I have the last few years come in contact with public men of all ranks and kinds, and it is to me appalling to realize how little the average American knows about the constitutional history of his country. He can give you every detail of Bull Run and Shiloh, but there are other battles than the bloody ones, and when a child once realizes that some one has agonized and suffered to give him the freedom he enjoys there is planted in that child the germ of unselfish citizenship.

"There's another schoolroom detail that I would have attended to were I the superintendent of public instruction," continued the governor. "I would make it an offense for any teacher to hang any geographical map on any other than the north wall of his schoolroom. If a child always looks to the north when he is studying a map, east is always true east to him, and west, west. In my old schoolhouse, the ragged map I studied from hung on the south wall, and as a consequence I have never been able yet, after forty years' wandering in the wilderness, to get the points of the compass properly straightened out. The sun never rises in the right quarter of the heavens for me."

Robbing Peter to Pay Paul.

The little town of St. Peter, Minnesota, with its scant five thousand population, has been called "The Incubator of Governors," having sent four times a chief executive to the state capitol—Governors Swift, Austin, McGill and Johnson; but it is the last one that has made St. Peter famous. Through the name and deeds and personality of John A. Johnson, St. Peter has become known outside the borders of the state, and the name Minnesota has been called to the notice of doubters in the effete East, who ask incredulously, "Can any good thing come out of the North?" The story of the life and early struggles of this man of the people has been told many times. We know him as the son of a dissipated father and a mother so poor that hunger and cold and the direst want were what the lad lived with and battled against through all the years of his childhood and early manhood.

We see him leaving school at 13 to help support his brothers and sisters and the brave mother of the little flock. At 15, he assumes the headship of the family, telling his mother that she must take in no more washing, he has received a "raise," and will "engineer things now." What did he do? What can a little boy in a country town do, a boy with no special education or training? He "clerked it" in the various stores, tried his hand at them all, helped his father in the blacksmith shop, served in a clothing store, in the corner grocery, and in the village drug-shop.

But in the meantime, he did two other things, accumulated two assets which have since stood him, and will continue to stand him in good stead. John Johnson, the lad without money or influence, or special incentive was, thanks to the books in that musty old attic, acquiring an education broader and deeper and richer than that which many universities give to their sons. I asked Governor Johnson what he thought of Cecil Rhodes' scheme of scholarships; he was not especially enthusiastic regarding the value of English university training for American boys. I had in my mind the thought that he himself was the very kind of a boy that Cecil Rhodes would have delighted to help. Bliss Carman's lines seem to me to wonderfully apply to John A. Johnson—"A lover of books, but a reader of man, and full of the mellow juice of life."

In digging into that old library, the long-legged stripling (facing a Minnesota winter in an alpaca overcoat in order that his mother should have every cent for the common needs) never lost his touch on the boy-life and girl-life around him. In every tea-party, summer picnic, village bun-fight, or talkfest, "Johnny" was the central figure. He knew everybody, and everybody liked him; the boy was a born leader.

It was this combination of the wisdom of books and the knowledge of human nature which made astute Henry Essler, looking for a partner for his newspaper business, say as he saw Johnson walking along the street, "That's my man."

The man is honest, clear-headed, sane. In a little town it is impossible for anyone to live a Jekyll-and-Hyde life and keep it hidden. If you have an ungovernable temper, if you keep the butcher waiting for his money, if you get drunk on Saturday night, all your neighbors will know it, know it and remember it to the second and third generation.

That is why I went to St. Peter to learn of this man. The most sensational evidence comes from a young druggist, who declares, "For a year or two, Johnson and I were the last of our bunch to go to bed. He was working on the paper and I was in this business. Johnson used to say, 'What's the good of bed, anyway? When you wake up, it's a case of work again.' So we were night-hawks; if he had any money, he'd spend it like a prince. He had plenty of sand—but not any in his gear-box."

People believe in Johnson in his straightforwardness and simple directness. It was because of this that they sent him to the Minnesota senate, and again robbed Peter to pay Paul, by making him for two terms governor of his state.

Jest in Earnest.

They tell two prophetic jests connecting Johnson with the governorship. At the time of the World's fair the Minnesota state building was to have been dedicated by the state governor, Nelson. Mr. Nelson missed his train, and the delegation of Minnesota editors said they would see their building properly christened and admitted into the sisterhood of states. A speech was called for, and the boy orator pushed to the front. Johnson gave the address and was dubbed "Governor" for the rest of the holiday jaunt.

The self-styled druggist "night-hawk" tells the other story. "We were in the Twin Cities for a holiday—three couples of us. We saw 'The Prince of Pilsen' in Minneapolis in the afternoon and were to see 'Ben Hur' in St. Paul in the evening. We took a team and drove across. Johnson had the lines. The new state capitol was nearing completion. As we came within sight of the building, Johnson leaned back and said jestingly, 'I'll invite you girls to come in for another holiday when I dedicate this building.' He had about as much show of dedicating it as I have of christening the next heir to the throne of Morocco. The girls mocked him and asked if he expected them to sit on the grass while he did the dedicating. We all admired the lines of the building as the marble caught the light of the sinking sun, and Johnson turned serious and said, 'But that would be an honor.' The nomination for governor came that year. By a peculiar party split-up, Johnson was put up to run as a Democrat in a Republican state. He was elected, and in due time he dedicated the building. But we didn't sit on the grass."

Johnny-on-the-Spot.

Kipling says somewhere, "Do not expect him to speak; he has done the deed." It is not from Governor Johnson that one gets stories of his own bravery—like Jack Bobs, "We do not advertise." There are two incidents of the boyhood of this clean, wholesome American that one likes to hear and pass on.

Mr. Thomas Downs, an old Grand Army man, one time sheriff of Nicollet county and now custodian of the state capitol, lived opposite John Johnson when he was general utility boy in the drug store. Mr. Downs says: "It was a clear evening in the fall. My team of fast horses was hitched up to a light buggy; my wife and daughter were seated inside, all ready to start for a drive. The driver went back to get a buffalo robe, and either this or something on the road startled the nigh horse, and in a moment the team had bolted. My daughter reached the lines and jerked the horses toward the fence, throwing out her mother and further terrifying the team. Just then Johnny came around the corner on his way to supper. In a flash he saw the danger and, making a leap at their heads, soon had the plunging horses by the bits. He hung on like a good fellow, and, reaching for the lines, helped my daughter out.

"Leaving the neighbors to look after the women, Johnny jumped into the rig and gave those horses all the exercise they were hungering for. He drove them from one end of old St. Peter to the other and round half a dozen blocks, bringing them home dripping and neck. My wife always says he was the prettiest boy she had ever seen when he came back with the roses in his usually pale face and his eyes sparkling with the spirit of the conflict; he certainly looked good to her."

The other story belongs to the drug store days, and was told by a young newspaper man in St. Peter. John Johnson was trmaping through the woods back of St. Peter, and he the nick of time came upon a demoralized and badly scared crowd of youngsters. They had been hunting and by a clumsy accident Albert Olson had his arm almost literally shot off. No one seemed to know what to do. Johnson took off his own vest, tore out the lining, and managed to staunch the bleeding. His drugstore knowledge, picked up from country doctors, who must be able to deal with every emergency was invaluable in this instance and undoubtedly was the means of saving Olson's life.

The Manner of Man.

"What is your favorite character in all the world of books?" I had asked Governor Johnson. "O, 'Les Miserables' is to me the strongest work of fiction ever written; and Jean Valjean the man I most admire. He suffered as few have suffered, and he was a man through it all; he never quavered, never sank down. The man who can go through poverty and trial and suffering without whimpering, without compromise, without yielding up his character, is the man before whom I uncover."

Earlier in the day the governor's old teacher, Mr. Pettijohn, had said to me: "Governor Johnson is a Democrat and I am a Republican, but when we form our estimate of a man, politics makes no difference, nor does creed; manliness only counts." It seemed pretty good doctrine for a school teacher to inculcate, and I thought I had found one pupil into whose mind the lesson had sunk deep and stuck.

There is no desire to paint Governor Johnson as a perfect man and the epitome of wisdom. Like the rest of us, he has much to learn, much to adjust, much to widen out into, perhaps something to unlearn. The gods be is trying to measure up to are delightfully strong ones like those of Scandinavian folklore, rugged and resourceful humans who never take wild flights and develop into bulls and swans and blood red dragons. The man is dependable, and has his feet on the ground.

Even a timid, or "scared', advertiser' is not in much harder plight than an indifferent one. No store will thrive in the hands of either!

SOCIETY

THE WEEK has been a busy one and although there has been no array of brilliant social functions people generally have been much occupied. The first part of the week was especially well filled for many of the people of the city. The three concerts presented by the Duluth Oratorio society in the second May Festival made a brilliant opening for the week. The rummage sale, conducted by the women of the board of the Children's Home, was an unexpected success. In fact, so successful was the sale—more than $300 being realized—that it has been decided to make the rummage sale, as well as the Charity ball, an annual feature of the Home society. Many who did not know of the plan of the board for raising funds did not contribute to the sale, but are anxious to do their share next year. With a longer period of preparation, it is expected that the sale may be arranged with better system and with less labor for the active workers. Although weary, the women of the committee are delighted at the success of their effort, and the money will be a most welcome addition to the funds for the Home.

Weddings and their attendant galeties occupy the center of attention and in fact here is little other entertaining. With the advent of the warmer weather, the outings, sailing parties, beach suppers, river trips and the like, are the favorite forms of amusement.

THE LATEST FRENCH CRAZE GETS AS FAR AS CHICAGO

THE DIRECTOIRE COSTUME.

Chicago is as far west as the new directoire costume has reached. The much talked of costume for women which the ultra fashionable designers say threatens to become in vogue, appeared on the streets of Chicago during the current week. The advance opinion of society women concerning the directoire suit is such that it is not likely to make its appearance in Duluth—at least during this season.

Miss Bertha Carlisle of the Joe Weber company wore the first one to be seen in the West.

The costume, which is said to have been imported from Paris, is of "London smoke" French cloth. It has a close-fitting skirt, and is slashed on the right side, slightly above the knee, exposing blue satin trousers, which also are tight-fitting. The whole effect is extremely tight, form-clinging.

The trimming is blue, with a lace jabot and lace cuffs. The buttons throughout are trimmed blue agate and gold, with double loops. A set of blue satin buttons runs down the side of the skirt, which is cut full directoire, heavily embroideried and walking style.

Under these is seen a pair of black patent leather, French heel shoes, of gaiter effect. All is surmounted with a full directoire hat of blue, with buckle of brilliants and a large bunch of ostrich plumes of a darker shade of blue. Blue gloves, short length, and a blue cravat complete the effect.

How He Got the Answer

A little boy ran into a grocery store one day with a memorandum in his hand.

"Hello, Mr. Smith," he called out to the grocer. "I want 13 pounds of coffee, at 32 cents a pound.'

"Anything else, son?" asked the grocer, trying hard to recall the name of the boy.

"Yep, I want 26 pounds of ham, at 18 cents a pound; seven and a half pounds of bacon, at 20 cents a pound; five pounds of butter, at 29½ cents a pound; 11 pounds of granulated sugar, at six cents a pound. Now, have you got all that, sir?"

The grocer ran over the list, the customer meanwhile checking off the articles on his own memorandum. When finished he said: "Yep, that's all. Now, what do they all come to, sir?"

The grocer ran up the figures and gave the boy the answer. "And where am I to send the things?" asked the grocer, preparing to weigh out the articles.

"Oh, nowheres, sir. It's my arithmetic lesson, and I had to git the answer somehow. Thank you for your trouble, sir."

WHEN A GIANT CAME TO ANT-TOWN. BY MAUD WALKER.

The ants of Ant-Town were a very busy little people indeed. Never an idle hour did they spend, but worked from the dawn of day till long after the sun had set. And they were a happy little people, too, although it would seem as if they had few pleasures, for to work all the time is rather a hardship with boy-kind and girl-kind, and is not quite natural. And the old saying that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" is true in the case of humankind. But not so with ant-kind. Those industrious little fellows love nothing so much as work. Indeed, it is doubtful if they could live in idleness.

And so it was that the ants of Ant-Town were the busiest ants in all the world—or so every one who knew them said. There were real families among them, just like the families of our own kind; there were the papa ant, the mamma ant, the little sons ant and the little daughters ant. And each family had their own home, a section in a hill, a hill belonging to the whole community of ants. And the hill was for all the world like a great apartment-house in a city. As you know, an apartment house is filled with corridors, halls and suites of rooms. And many families live under the one great roof, each family having one of the suites with its own private hall.

And so it was with the Ant-hill. It was nothing more or less than a big apartment-house, where dwell hundreds of ants, each family having its own cell, or little flat, so to speak.

Now, in this great apartment hill there was one family that attracted the attention of a dear little girl, who lived in a big house—a real house, you know—on the hill, just above the place where the ant apartment-house stood. This little girl's name was Polly Dear, or that is what her mamma called her. It was always "Polly Dear!" here, and "Polly Dear!" there, and "Polly Dear" everywhere. The ants had heard the name so many times that they had grown quite used to it, and in their own way loved it well.

But the strange thing about it was that Polly Dear looked to the ants like some huge monster, the top of whom their eyes never had had the power to reach. They could see the feet of Polly Dear quite plainly; also they could see the bare legs above the sandaled feet, and the dimpled knees, that looked so big and queer. Then fell a lot of ruffled white stuff and blue checks, and above these moving things would stretch long arms, with fat hands at their ends, hands that would clap and clap and make great noises like wind and thunder. So thought the ants of Ant-Town on hearing Polly Dear clap those chubby hands, which in truth were very small as seen by a real live human. But ants see things in a strange way, you know. Their being so small makes everything else seem to them of gigantic proportions.

And that is how it happened that Polly Dear was thought of in Ant-Town as a giant. But ants, like children, grow to trust and love those whom they have found to be their friends. Polly Dear was known to be the friend of all the ants in Ant-Town, and especially of the one family I have just mentioned. The way Polly Dear had come to single out this one family was this: One morning, as she sat watching the ants working about their apartment-hill, she saw one great ant carrying a huge load on his back, a load three or four times as large as himself. Behind him went a swift, little ant, slender and pretty. Beside her ran two smaller ones, whom Polly Dear thought to be a boy and a girl. The great ant was no doubt the papa; the slender, pretty ant, the mamma, and the little ones the son and daughter. That was the way Polly Dear figured it out. And she watched these four particular ants very closely, and became assured that she was right in her supposition regarding them. Yes, the four kept together all day, working side by side in completing the hill where they were to have a home. Polly Dear supposed they were at spring house-cleaning, for they kept running in and out of the hill, carrying such loads of dirt in their mouths. Then they would occasionally go away down the road, running right through bits of weed or grass—never going round, but over or under—and fetch bits of food in the shape of a dead worm or bug to their apartment-hill. It was a wonder to Polly Dear to see the size of the loads these little workers could carry without effort. They traveled as fast with a load as without one.

When dinnertime came Polly Dear had to go away, for her mamma's voice was calling from the top of the hill, "Polly Dear! Come to dinner!" But as soon as Polly Dear had gotten through the meal she ran down to Ant-Town again, for the sun was still about an hour from sinking behind the line of blue timber in the West.

As Polly Dear drew near to Ant-Town she was surprised to see a boy—a dirty-faced, ill-kept, little urchin—striding toward her place of destination. He carried a little spade in his hand and, no doubt, meant mischief, for he would stop every now and then to dig into the earth with it. Polly Dear ran faster and faster, determined to reach Ant-Town before this bad boy should do so, for she feared he might do the ant hill harm.

"Hello, kid!" sang out the dirty-faced urchin as he and Polly Dear neared Ant-Town from different directions. "Where'd you come from?"

"From my home, Boy," replied Polly Dear. "Where'd you come from and what do you want here?"

"I come frum down the holler," said the boy, grinning broadly. "An' I'm goin' to spade up this ant hill. I seen it yesterday when me'n paw came a-past here frum town. I like diggin' up ant hills, I do."

"Well, you aren't going to get to dig up this ant hill," declared Polly Dear in a very emphatic voice. "This place belongs to me, it does."

"Ha! ha! ha!" roared the boy, raising his spade and making a dart for the ant hill. "How'd you git a-holt of this place, I'd like to know? I reckon it's as much mine as it's yours. Mebby I'll show you what I'll do with it." And the boy took a strong hold on his spade and set the edge of it's blade on the ant hill.

In another minute spade and boy were rolling over in the sand down the hillside, and Polly Dear, her eyes flashing fire, her hands clenched firmly into hard little fists, her whole body shaking with excitement, stood the victor, for she had, with one mighty thrust, pushed the bad boy from the edge of the ant hill, and then thrown his spade after him.

"Now, don't you come back here, Boy," she called to him, shaking her fists. "If you do, I'll—" But Polly Dear didn't say just what she would do, but the gleam in her blue eyes and the threat in her voice made the bad boy understand what she meant. Gathering himself and his spade from among the bushes and weeds, the naughty fellow betook himself off in a hurry, glancing back occasionally to make a wry face at the defiant little girl who so bravely stood her ground. After he was out of sight Polly Dear sat down beside the ant apartment-house, saying to the head of her favorite family, for he was just coming out with a huge load of dirt, a few confidential words:

"Say, Papa Ant, I just had a battle with a dreadful giant, who had come here to destroy you and all your family and friends. Well, he got the worst of it, I reckon and isn't hardly likely to return. But if he should do so—well, won't I just give him the hardest pounding he ever had in all his naughty life? I'll grab him and throw him into the creek and give him a good washing, for it wouldn't do him any harm, it wouldn't. You see, I'm going to protect your dear little ants and your property, too. I love to watch you work; it's as good as playing games. And I haven't a sister nor a brother, so I have to find my own companions. Mamma and Papa give me toys—dolls and Teddy bears and such—but they can't even move of themselves. Now, I like you much better than toys, for you're real little people and build such splendid houses and provide yourselves with food. Oh, you certainly are little dears, and I'm going to keep a watchful eye on you. And tomorrow I'm going to bring some teentsy-weentsy bits of sugar and meat and some cake crumbs and lay around the door of your house. Won't you have a picnic, though, with all your food brought to you? But it won't do to bring it too often, for then you might begin to get a bit lazy and forget how to find it yourselves. Then you'd not be ants any more. So I shall not do a thing to spoil the fine reputation you have for work, but just once in a while shall fetch you a little picnic spread to give you a holiday."

"Polly Dear! Polly Dear! come—it's getting late" cried a loving voice from the hilltop. "It's my mamma calling," explained Polly Dear, rising, "so you'd all better go in and have your dinners or suppers and then go to bed, for it's time to quit work for today." And Polly Dear, kissing her chubby hand foward the ant apartment-house, ran up the hill to her own big, comfortable home, where a fond mother and father were awaiting her. And the ants stopped long enough in their work to look after the strange and powerful giant, whose tall head their eyes had not yet had the power to reach. "A very good giant," said one man ant to another, in their own queer language, of course. "Yes, indeed," replied the second ant man, laying down his load for a moment. "And something tells me that we were saved from a terrible fate today by that same giant. I don't know what it is, but I seem to feel it in my bones." And then all fell to work again.

In another minute spade and boy were rolling over in the sand down the hillside.

PLAYTIME.

In the garden during summer
Kittie went to play
With her little comrade, Junie,
And they stayed all day.

'Neath the green tree, tall and spreading,
Where their playhouse stood,
With its play walls all about it
Of big sticks of wood.

A flat stone did form a table
Where they drank their tea;
And they oft invited guests in—
Nell and Annie Lee.

Kittie played she was Miss Pickles—
She liked the name, you know;
For, although she said 'twas sour,
'Twas very good, also.

Junie played she was Miss Candy;
(To offset Kittie's sour)—
And Miss Pickles with Miss Candy
Played there by the hour.

MARY GRAHAM.

IN THE TREASURE HOVEL.

BY HELENA DAVIS.

For two months Fred and Laura Jones' mother had been ill with rheumatism and the doctor had said that she could not get well unless she moved into a more healthful place. Her present home was in a basement room of an old tumble-down tenement-house in a great city. Mrs. Jones had been employed in a laundry as starcher before her very serious illness, and had managed to lay away enough to keep her during the two months' illness of which you have been told. But at the expiration of that time the last cent had been spent for rent, fuel and food, and now eviction, and possibly starvation, stared the poor sick woman and her two children in the face, for the week's rent was past due and the agent was expected to have eviction papers served on the suffering woman who lay helpless in her bed.

Repeatedly the poor neighbors had begged Mrs. Jones to go to the city hospital, where the poor were doctored without charge, but the mother would shake her head, saying: "I can't leave my little Fred and Laura. I am all that they have in the world. I must stay with them and let my friends—though as poor as myself—and my children do what they can for me. I've always been a strong woman and I'll pull through this all right without having to leave my children alone."

And so the weeks had dragged by. Mrs. Jones not improving, but growing gradually worse. And then the money gave out, and want, with sickness, came to torture the poor mother and her little ones. The agent had called four times for the rent, the last time saying: "I'm offul sorry, Miss Jonze, an' I wouldn't pester you 'bout the money of the durn ole rat-trap belonged to me; but youse know how it is. I git me walkin' papers served on me ef I don't git the rent. An' me losin' me own job wouldn't help youse a bit; for the next chap as got me place would begin by turnin' ye out into the street. So, it's pay er——" And the ignorant agent, whose "job" depended upon the promptness of his collections, pointed his thumb toward the street door. "As I wuz sayin', I'm blamed sorry for all youse, I am. But pity don't pay rent ner put grub inter the mouth, does it?"

And a few days later the eviction notice was served on Mrs. Jones, sick in bed and without food or fuel in the house, and two little hungry mouths wanting bread. "It's up with us, Freddie and Laurie," she said, her face drawn with the pain of rheumatism and hunger.

"What are we to do, I wonder?"

"The neighbors can't help us," said Fred, "for several of 'em are about to be evicted themselves. We're all poor alike in this house."

"An' all over this part of the town," declared Laura, a child old for her years. She had suffered poverty, and seen others suffer so much in her few years that she had little of the child left in her poor little heart and mind. The thought of food, clothes, rent, employment for her mother had clouded her life thus far. And it was much the same with Fred, who, however, had more of hope and cheerfulness in his makeup than had his older sister. "Say, ma," said Fred, "once when I went clam-diggin' with the Anderson boys I seen a little old shack standin' empty close to the beach. And I'll bet there isn't any owner to that place. We all went in there and fixed our lunch, and the Anderson boys said it was a deserted hovel where an old miser had lived once, and that all the fishermen and clam-diggers that lived near the spot said it was haunted. Now, I'm not afraid of haunts, are you, ma? And I'm in the notion of going out there today and findin' if the place still empty, and if it is we'll just go right there and live til you are well again. It's so fine out there—with all the fresh air you can breathe, and so much sky overhead that it makes your eyes ache tryin' to look at it all to once. Oh, the clouds was just beautiful the day I was there. I never seen such a sight. It was glorious, ma, honest it was." And Fred's eyes gleamed with the pleasure of recollection as he grew enthusiastic over a rapidly formed plan.

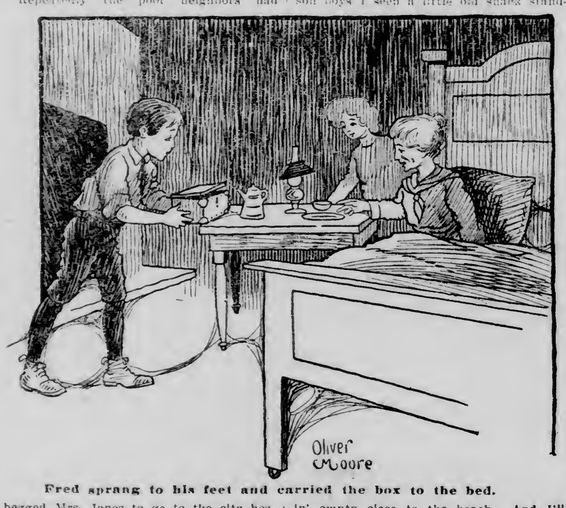
"But, Freddie, it takes money to move. And after we're moved it takes more money to get food and fuel," explained the mother.

"There's a big hill not far away where lots and lots of trees grow. I could go there and get wood—plenty of it."

"But what would you eat?" asked Laura, like her mother, a bit doubtful of her brother's plan.

"I'll dig clams, and all that we don't eat I'll sell," said Fred, hope in his young voice. "Lots of men make a good living diggin' clams."

Then a neighbor came in to bring a bit of food for the needy woman and children, and Fred, unobserved, slipped from the basement.



Fred sprang to his feet and carried the box to the bed.

About midnight he returned home in good spirits, waking Laura, who had fallen asleep in the one rocking chair beside her mother's bed. "Come, Sis," he said in a voice of good cheer. "There ain't no time to be sleepin' ner dreamin'. This time tomorrow we'll be set in the street 'less we make some arrangements about a hotel. You see, tomorrow the officers will set us and our furniture out of here. If ma was well 'twouldn't matter so much; but her being sick makes it look a different color. So, let's be packin' tonight."

"But, child, where are we to go?" asked the sick mother, who had not yet been asleep. Her anxiety over their distress and her own physical sufferings had kept sleep from her eyes. "We can't go anywhere without rent money."

"I've found a place where there ain't no rent," said Fred. "Folks are afraid of it 'cause they say it's banted. But I know there ain't no such things as spooks. Anyway, even a banted house is better in a storm than no house at all, I say. Well, I've already seen the little old Dutchman what has the express wagon, and he has promised to carry us and our goods to the new place if we're ready to start by 4 o'clock. He says he must be back in time to get his trade. So we've got to hustle tonight, Sis."

And Laura and Fred did "hustle" that night, and when 4 o'clock arrived their worldly goods were ready. The Dutchman was on time to the minute, and soon, with Fred's assistance, had the wagon loaded to its capacity.

"Well, we'll not have to be set on the sidewalk today by the officers," said Mrs. Jones, climbing up to a seat on the wagon beside the old driver. Fred and Laura managed to find a "place to hang on to," to quote Fred, at the rear end of the wagon. Then, with a cluck from the old Dutchman the one horse started with his load.

After two hours of riding—the first hour rumbling over the city paving stones—Fred directed the driver to turn to his left and round a ledge of rocky cliff that pointed into the sandy beach. There a rude but comfortably large stone hut came into view in the center of a tillable patch of garden. A few trees shaded the front yard, but as the sands from the sea often encroached upon them through the power of the winds, they were not full of vigor. However, the spot was not unchearful. To the front of the hut ran the line of rippling bay full of craft, while behind stretched wooded hills and farm lands. But the hut itself seemed isolated, there being no neighboring house within several miles of it.

"Here we are at home till ordered by someone with more right than we have to git out!" shouted Fred, leaping from the wagon. "And now, Mr. Sneider, if you'll lend me a hand we'll have your wagon empty in a jiffy. First we'll fix mother's bed; then we'll get the other traps into the house. And as soon as I sell clams enough I'll be down to your corner where you and your wagon hang out and pay you for today's job."

"That'll be all right, son," said Mr. Sneider, hurriedly unloading the wagon. Then, half an hour later, and just as he was departing, he slipped a dollar into Laura's hand, saying: "Git something for your ma to eat. She can't wait for clams. And if the boy ever has the money he'll make it right with old Bill Sneider. I'm poor, too; but not sick. So, I can work and keep grub on the table." Then he was in his wagon, rattling back toward the city.

Fred had found driftwood enough to make a fine fire in the open fireplace, and Laura, who worked with a will, soon had a bed ready for the exhausted mother, who declared that in spite of the fatigue of her long ride she felt better already for having left the basement room of the ill-kept tenement-house. And so a week went by, Fred having found employment with a fisherman down in the bay. He earned a dollar a day, and that kept them in necessaries.

On the first Saturday evening after they had moved into their new quarters—which so far had produced no signs of being "haunted"—Fred sat beside the chimney corner digging into the dead ashes with a sharp piece of stick. He had not taken the time to clean the fireplace out on the day of their arrival, and had built the fire for a week over the ashes of former fires. As he sat plunging the stick idly into the accumulation of old ashes he felt it strike against something very hard. He stooped down and thrust his hand into the debris, and to his wonder felt something very much like an iron box. Without a word to his mother or Laura (the two were still at the supper table that had been drawn close to the sick woman's bed) he got down on his knees and began to unearth—or unash, rather—the mysterious box. After several minutes' hard work he drew forth a small, metal-covered box, fastened with a padlock. In the lock stuck the key, which Fred turned. The lid flew open, and on the top of the contents lay a yellowish bit of soiled paper. Fred ran his eyes over it and read these badly scrawled words:

"To whoever finds this box: Be it known that I, the one-time owner of this treasure, tired of life, have departed to another world. Whoever is brave enough to come into this house and live here may possess the treasure found herein. It is told throughout the county that this place is haunted, and that I, its owner, am a wizard. Men avoid me. So I go to a better world and leave to whoever may find this box its contents, providing they live in this house and clear the place of the wicked slander."

Fred sprang to his feet and carried the box to the bed, where his surprised mother and sister read the strange message contained therein. Then the three eagerly undid an old cloth which was wrapped about many coins of large denomination. After these were laid on the table and counted there proved to be five hundred dollars in gold pieces and a deed to the "house and grounds," together with many tax receipts. Mrs. Jones looked over the dates of the latter, and seeing that the taxes had fallen due several months before, said to her son: "Fred, if you want to keep this place you must hurry to the city tomorrow and pay up the last year's taxes. Then I reckon the place will be ours. But, to make sure of it, you'd better see old Mr. Sneider; he'll advise us what to do. Now, isn't this the luckiest day of our lives, children? Why, I'm almost well already." And Mrs. Jones smiled contentedly.

"I call this place the treasure hovel, instead of the haunted hovel," laughed Fred. "And not a word to anyone till we've fixed it about the deed. Plenty of folks would rob us of what we've got by right. Why, the owner says the one who lives here is to own the place and the treasure. And I reckon we're going to live here for awhile, anyway."

"Indeed we are," cried Laura. "Why, we're all so happy in the country."

A Funny Mistake.

A dainty little maiden,
In the long ago,
Went into the meadow
Where the blossoms blow.

A bumble-bee was flying
'Round the flowers rare,
And it thought the maiden
Was a-growing there.

On her cheek it lighted
And took a little nip.
"Ah," it said, "this blossom
Is mighty sweet to sip."

The Nightingale.

The nightingale, the "sweetest and most renowned of all British songsters," holds a place in classical mythology. The following is quoted from Professor Newton's version of the pretty story:

"Procne and Philomela were the daughters of Pandion, King of Attica, who in return for warlike aid rendered him by Tereus, King of Daulis in Thrace, gave him the first-named in marriage. Tereus, however, being enamored of her sister, feigned that his wife was dead, and induced Philomela to take her place. On her discovering the truth he cut out her tongue to hinder her from revealing his deceit, but she depicted the story on a robe which she sent to Procne, and the two sisters then contrived a horrible revenge for the infidelity of Tereus by killing and serving to him at table his son Itys. Thereupon the gods interposed, changing Tereus into a hoopoe, Procne into a swallow and Philomela into a nightingale, while Itys was restored to life as a pheasant and Pandion (who had died of grief at his daughters' dishonor) as a bird of prey, the osprey."

HIDDEN PROVERB.

A well-known proverb is hidden in the following seven sentences, each sentence containing one word of the proverb, the words appearing in their regular order:

Never look a gift horse in the mouth.
Sometimes the wise man knows less than the fool.
Man is often his own worst enemy.
A dumb woman keeps a secret well.
Let a man keep close guard of his tongue.
We think our own children better than the children of others.
A feeble mind thinks itself capable to counsel with the great.

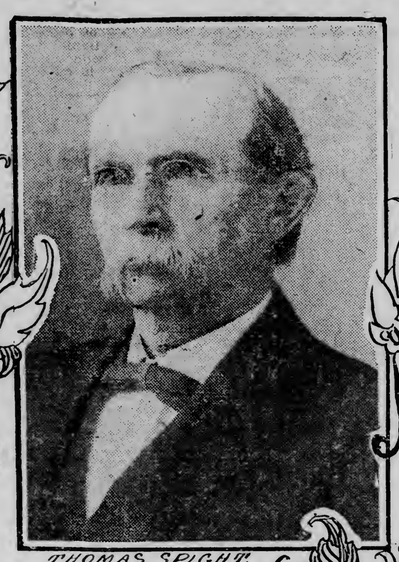
DAREDEVIL CIVIL WAR FIGHTERS

WHO ARE NATIONAL LEGISLATORS

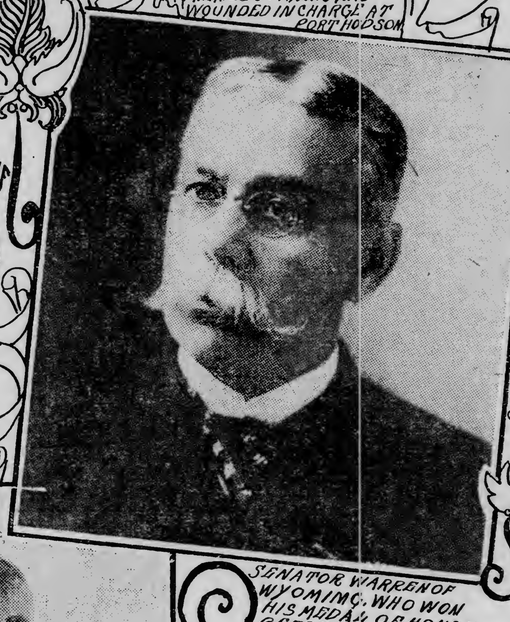
SENATOR H.A. DU PONT, ONE OF THE FAMOUS ARTILLERYMEN OF '61-'65.

REPRESENTATIVE BRADLEY OF NEW YORK, A MEDAL OF HONOR MAN.



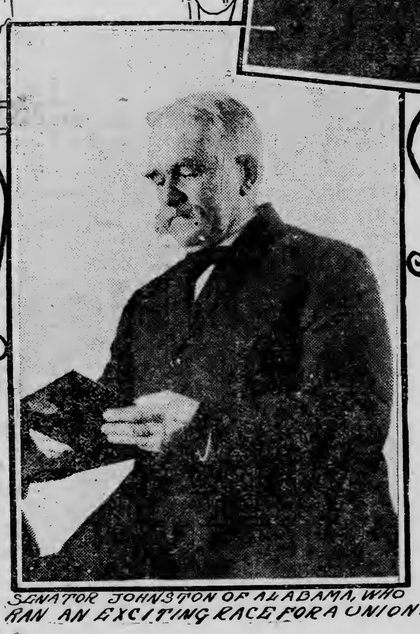
THOMAS SPIGHT.

SENATOR NELSON OF MINNESOTA, WHO WAS WOUNDED IN CHARGE AT PORT HUDSON



SENATOR WARREN OF WYOMING, WHO WON HIS MEDAL OF HONOR BEFORE PORT HUDSON.

G.W. GORDON



SENATOR JOHNSTON OF ALABAMA, WHO RAN AN EXCITING RACE FOR A UNION FLAG.

By JOHN S. HARWOOD

(Copyright, 1908, by the American Literary Press.)

IN the present congress there are eighteen senators and thirty-four representatives who fought on one side or the other in the civil war—thirty-four for the Union and eighteen for the Confederacy. The war records of all these national legislators show that they fought valiantly for what they thought was right. In addition, the records of not a few on each side reveal the fact that they were regular daredevils in battle. Among the Federal daredevils are four congress medal of honor men, and among the Confederate veterans are such well known men as Senator Johnston of Alabama, Representative Spight of Mississippi, Senator Daniel of Virginia and Representative Gordon of Tennessee, each of whom performed deeds in the heat of battle that probably would have won them congress medals of honor had they fought for instead of against the Union.

Of the medal of honor men two are in the senate—Warren of Wyoming and Du Pont of Delaware—while the medals in the house are won by Henry H. Bingham of Pennsylvania and Thomas W. Bradley of New York.

Any one who ever has read a good account of the Battle of the Wilderness will recall the exceedingly bloody character of the fighting, the fierce assaults of the Confederates being a feature of the contest. As a result of these persistent onslaughts many of the Union troops at last gave way and began retiring in great confusion. Then it was that Henry H. Bingham, captain of Company G, 140th Pennsylvania infantry, who had distinguished himself and been wounded at Gettysburg less than a year before, jumped into the breach, and by exhortation and disregard for his own skin succeeded in rallying a portion of the broken line and, what's more, led it, cheering, into the thick of the fight again.

This occurred on May 6, 1864, Spottsylvania was fought the following day and the day after that. In that battle, Capt. Bingham received his second wound. A third bullet was stopped by him at Farmville the last year of the war. He was awarded his medal of honor August 31, 1893, but before he was mustered out in 1866, he had been brevetted major, lieutenant colonel, colonel, and finally brigadier general for distinguished gallantry. "Handsome Harry," as he is called by his congress colleagues and his constituents, is fairly worshipped by the G. A. R. men of his state. At national encampments he is one of the veterans most sought after, and in congress is among its most popular members.

Bradley's Gallantry.

Seriously wounded at Gettysburg and again bored by a bullet at the Wilderness, it was at Chancellorsville, just a year and three days before Bingham won his medal, that Representative Bradley displayed that gallantry that led congress to issue him a medal of honor on June 10, 1896.

Bradley at the time was sergeant of Company H, 124th New York infantry, and he was less than a month past his nineteenth birthday. Suddenly, at the height of the fighting, the discovery was made that the supply of ammunition was running perilously low. Did no fresh ammunition arrive in a few minutes the company would be without food for its guns. There was only one thing to do and it was done—a call was made for volunteers to go and get ammunition.

Sergeant Bradley volunteered and was accepted, "and alone, in the face of a heavy fire of musketry and canister," he "went and procured ammunition for the use of his comrades." So simply reads the ground of award. But if you should chance to run across a surviving member of Sergeant Bradley's company and ask him about the incident of the sergeant's trip for ammunition he will not deal in language so simple. Among other things he will tell you that so deadly was the Confederate fire at the time that not a member of the company who knew of Sergeant Bradley's undertaking in their behalf ever expected to behold him alive and in the flesh again. And he will tell you, too, how the battle-begrimed men, when they beheld their comrade return laden with ammunition, let out a cheer that could be heard above the roar of battle, and then, inspired by the brave deed, returned to the grim work of plugging at the "Johnnies" with more vigor than ever. It was while he was fighting before Petersburg that Bradley received his third body badge of courage. By the time the campaign terminated at Appomattox was on he had won a captaincy, and because of his display of daring in that campaign he was brevetted major.

Corporal Francis E. Warren, like Sergeant Bradley, won his medal of honor by stepping forward when a call for volunteers was made. And it was twenty-four days after Bradley had secured ammunition for his company that Warren became a member of the little column of volunteers before Port Hudson called by their comrades "The Forlorn Hope."

"The Forlorn Hope."

Corporal Warren lacked a month of being 19 years old and was a member of Company C, Forty-ninth Massachusetts infantry, which, on May 27, 1863, was called upon to furnish a few men from each company to perform the dangerous undertaking of preceding the regular troops with fascines to fill the ditch of the earthworks before Port Hudson, so that the artillery and infantry might cross in case of success in the sally. Warren was among the very first of his regiment to volunteer.

While "The Forlorn Hope" was forming the guns of Port Hudson were silent, supposed on the outside on account of the shelling that Gen. Banks had given the Confederate stronghold, but really because the Confederates were saving their ammunition for the expected siege. But when "The Forlorn Hope," bearing the fascines, left the sheltering wood and headed for the ditch, the field became one mass of iron. The air was full of it; it literally rained and hailed iron.

The colonel, and, in fact, every officer commanding "The Forlorn Hope," was killed, and about three-fourths of the men were killed or wounded. Of the remaining number only those survived who happened to fall on the field or sought shelter behind the stumps and trees. Gen. Bartlett, at that time commander of the regiment, went into the field on horseback and fell with two severe wounds, his horse being killed within two feet of the wood after leaving cover. Corporal Warren, though not permanently injured, was knocked down, the fascine that he carried being struck by a cannon ball, and he lost consciousness for several hours.

Warren celebrated his seventeenth birthday by enlisting in the army. For some weeks previously he had longed to enlist, but refrained from doing so because of family opposition. When he got to the Hinsdale, Mass., academy, where recruits were being enrolled, and learned that a bounty was being held out as an inducement to enlistment, he started to turn on his heel and go back home; he did not want any one to think that he was enlisting for a mere pittance of $150. But sober second thought came, and with never a thought as to what any one would think he marched up to the enrolling desk to sign his name.

A little line of men was ahead of him. As the boy waited his turn to put down his name he felt a touch on his elbow. Turning, he found himself looking straight into the face of his father, who, only a few hours before, had again forbidden him to enlist, on the ground that he was yet too young for war. But this time there was no note of parental command in the father's voice, and the words that were spoken to the boy ring as clearly in the senator's ears as they did on the day his father looked down at him with parental pride and said:

"Emory, I knew you would be here, and I knew you would enlist, and that I could not keep you from doing so. And, to tell you the straight truth, I should have been disappointed not to find you here. I am proud of you, my son, and I'll do all I can to help you."

Warren at the time enlisted for nine months; the North then thought thatthat the war would be over in that time or less. But not until the war was over did Warren lay down his gun.

A West Point Graduate.

The only West Point graduate among the congress veterans, Senator Du Pont, the fourth medal of honor man, was 26 when he displayed that gallantry on the field of battle which, on April 2, 1898, got him the coveted decoration.

Who has not heard of the battle of Cedar creek and Sheridan's ride from Wincheste, twenty miles away, to stem the tide of Confederate victory? It was at this battle that Capt. Du Pont, in command of the Fifth United States artillery, when the Union line had been broken by the onrushing Confederates, voluntarily exposed himself to the enemy's fire, solely by his own efforts and example kept his men by their guns, and so checked the advance of the enemy. And to round out the brave deed he brought off most of his pieces when the reason for the stand he had made was over.

Long before that time Capt. Du Pont had become one of the two famous artillerymen of America—the other was Maj. John Pelham of Stuart's Horse Artillery and one of Du Pont's West Point classmates. Descendant of a famous French fighting family, when he graduated from West Point in May of '61, Du Pont refused to take the three months' leave due him, and at once headed for the front. In the autumn of that year he was placed in command of a six-gun battery of twelve-pounders.

Lieut. Du Pont had his own ideas about horsing the battery, and his father, agreeding to foot the bills, secured Secretary Cameron's permission for his son to equip the battery according to his own taste. A month or two later the battery, with every one of its horses a blooded bay, went past its commanding general in review. Lieut. Du Pont was called before Generals Scott and McClellan to receive their compliments. "Yours is the handsomest battery—the best horsed and the best equipped—that I have ever seen," said McClellan. "I know it will give a good account of itself."

Soon after that it did begin to give a splendid account of itself, and as a speedy result Du Pont's battery thereafter was almost invariably given the post of honor—of course the greatest danger—among all the artillery of the Army of the Potomoc.

Four times was Capt. Du Pont brevetted and thrice he was offered staff rank and thrice refused the honor. When Custer and Merritt were made brigadier generals of volunteers, after Chancellorsville, Du Pont was offered similar promotion. "No," was his answer, "I'll stick to what I understand." And stick to it he did until the war's end. Then he went to making powder instead of burning it. An artillery history of the great battles fought in Virginia would be peppered with the name and deeds of Henry Algernon Du Pont and his guns.

Some Confederate Daredevils.

Of course none of the Confederate veterans in either branch of the national legislature holds a congress medal of honor. Nevertheless, some of them were as daring in battle as were Warren and Du Pont, Bingham and Bradley.

There is John H. Bankhead, the senior senator from Alabama. He was stopped three times by Yankee bullets; a soldier has got to be in the forefront of the thick of battle to get wounded so often. Senator James B. McCreary of Kentucky was a major and lieutenant colonel under Morgan and Breckenridge. He, too, was wounded and he spent some time on Morris Island in company of "The Yanks" as a prisoner. Senator Daniel of Virginia has a brilliant war record stretching from the first Manassas, when he received his first wound, to the Wilderness, when he got his fourth wound, which so crippled him that he was reluctantly forced back to civilian life. His bravery is summed up in the statement that he was a member of the famous "Stonewall brigade."

Joseph F. Johnston, junior senator from Alabama, took part in as exciting a race for a Union flag as probably occurred in the whole war. This race—a duel for honors—was one of the little "human interest" incidents centering about the battle of Spottsylvania Junction. As a first lieutenant in Rode's division of Lee's army, Senator Johnston took part in the recapture of the line from which Battle's brigade was driven. And he was so well in advance of his own line that there was only one man to contest with him for the honor of reaching first the flag of the Thirty-ninth New York. Johnson's rival was Maj. Brooks of the Twentieth North Carolina, and the major got the coveted flag because some Yankee was inconsiderate enough to fell Lieut. Johnston with a bullet just as he was reaching for the flag, a good hand or two in advance of Brooks.

Like a good many other Civil war fighters on both sides in congress, Senator Johnston quit school to shoulder a musket. He was then under 18 years old; indeed, most of the veterans in congress were under age when they took to war. He began as a private; his conduct during the battle of Shiloh won him a second lieutenancy. He remained with the Western army until after Chickamauga, in which his right arm was broken by a gunshot, his first of four wounds. He was in Early's campaign in the Shenandoah and in all the battles around Petersburg. At the battle of Newmarket he was seriously wounded for the second time, and in March of 1865, while before Petersburg, he received his fourth, and his third serious wound. Just before this, his last battle, he had been promoted to captain of Company A, Twelfth North Carolina infantry. Truly an adventurous war record.

Two of the eight Confederate veterans who are in the house were particularly daring in battle—George W. Gordon of Tennessee and Thomas Spight of Mississippi.

Three Times Captured.

Representative Gordon holds the congress record as a prisoner of war. Three times he was captured, the last time to be held in Fort Warren, Mass., until the war was over. He was also dangerously wounded once but despite these four inconveniences to which the Yankees subjected him, Gordon managed to do his part in every battle in which his command fought except two—Nashville and Bentonville. When these were being decided he was feasting on Federal food down East. Representative Gordon began his Civil war career as a drill master for Tennessee troops. Soon after he entered the service of the Confederacy, and by his bravery became captain, then lieutenant colonel, next colonel of his regiment and finally brigadier general in 1864.

Thomas Spight, the only ex-Confederate in the Mississippi delegation, went from college into the army when a mere boy. He enlisted as a private and went through all the intermediate grades until he became a captain before he was 21. In years he was the youngest officer of his rank in the line in the famous Walthall's Mississippi brigade. He was in nearly all of the battles that were fought in the Western department while it was under the command of Generals Beauregard, Bragg, Johnson and Hood.

Wounded several times, he was seriously wounded once. This was at Atlanta, on July 22, 1864. Weighing only 125 pounds, Capt. Spight was carried by two litter bearers one and a half miles to the field hospital. He had bled almost to complete exhaustion, and it was necessary to cut a bullet from his body. The surgeon thought it proper to administer chloroform. To this the wounded man objected, and the bullet was taken out with him looking on.

Representative Spight feels that to the devotion and careful nursing of his negro servant, a boy about his own age, he is indebted largely for the preservation of his life while suffering from his wound. The old servant is still living; he draws a Confederate pesion from the state of Mississippi, and his old master has impressed upon his children that if the servant outlives him they are never to allow him to suffer for need of anything in their power to give him. Capt. Spight returned to his command on crutches when Gen. Hood was moving forward toward Nashville, Tenn., in the winter of 1864.

In the far-famed Battle Above the Clouds, Capt. Spight was in command of three companies of Walthall's brigade, which constituted the greater part of the Confederate force engaged against Hooker's corps. He and his command were surrounded, overpowered and nearly all captured. Spight himself, by desperately risking his life between the infantry fire on one side and a Federal battery on the other, managed to escape.

The Youngest Captain.

When the Confederate army was reorganized, Capt. Spight, though the youngest officer of his rank in his regiment, was the only one of the captains retained, and he was in command at Greensboro, N. C., when the regiment, on April 26, 1865, stacked arms for the last time. Besides being distinguished among the warrior-congressment as the youngest captain in the service on either side, Representative Spight is the only national legislator who took part in what has been called the greatest snowball battle in all history.

After the Confederate army retreated from Chattanooga in November of 1863 it went into winter quarters at Dalton, Ga. Here it was overtaken by a heavy fall of snow. At first only a few individuals began snowballing one another, but the intoxicating fun rapidly extended to companies, then to regiments, brigades and divisions, until practically the entire army was engaged in the only battle of the war which resulted in no serious casualties.

"One of the peculiar incidents of the war which demonstrated the 'brotherhood of man' and at the same time illustrated what Gen. Sherman meant when he said, 'War is hell,' occurred on the picket line just before the Battle of Lookout Mountain," Representative Spight told me the other day. "The two lines were separated by Lookout Creek, with the Confederate pickets on one side and the Federal pickets the other. By mutual consent hostilities were suspended until an attempt to advance was to be made by one side or the other. Although the orders were strict that there should be no communication, the 'boys' had a very pleasant time for a few days. The Confederates had plenty of tobacco and no coffee. The Federals had coffee and but little tobacco. The result was a satisfactory exchange of commodities. On the Confederate side we would load up a little bark canoe with tobacco and push it across the creek. When it reached the other shore it was unloaded and filled with coffee and returned.

"On the morning of Nov. 24 the Yanks, true to their manhood, shouted across the creek, 'Look out, Johnnies, we are coming!' and the fighting commenced.

"What a sad commentary upon the brutality of war! Here men of the same race and blood, who had spent the days in pleasant, friendly intercourse, now, at the order of their respective commanders, without provocation of offense, began to kill each other. 'When will the nations cease to have war?'"

Senator Nelson's Charge.

It was during the siege of Port Hudson, where Senator Warren won his medal of honor, that his Minnesota colleague, Knute Nelson, also showed that he was made of real stuff. On June 14, 1863, when Nelson, who went through the war as a private and a "non-com," was a little over 20 years old, an attempt was made to capture Port Hudson by storm. Two charging columns were set in motion. The regiment to which Nelson belonged, the Fourth Wisconsin was at the head of one of these columns, which advanced to the attack over an open abandoned sugar-cane field and was exposed to the fire of the enemy for something like three-quarters of a mile. The boys in blue, with the Badgers valiantly leading, advanced right up to within a few rods of the breastworks, but by that time there were so few of the column left standing that they were unable to get inside.

Nelson was among the handful that got closest to the breastworks. He was only eight or nine rods away when he was laid low by a bullet penetrating a hip and was unable to proceed further. The attack took place early in the morning, about sunrise. All that day Nelson lay on the battlefield. At dusk he attempted to crawl back to his own lines, was observed by a Confederate picket posted outside the works, made a prisoner and taken inside the works and placed in the hospital. Here he remained until July 9, when Port Hudson fell, and the Mississippi was open again.

"I received as good care as their own wounded," said Senator Nelson, "but provisions ran out, so that during the last ten days of the siege our food consisted of a little cornbread, mule meat and sassafras tea."

After he rejoined his company and had recovered from his wound, Nelson fought for his country until the end of the war. Then he took to law, like a majority of the veterans on both sides in congress, and it was not long after he became a lawyer that he got into politics, also like a great majority of the Civil war men in congress.

Foraker and Keifer.

The story of Senator Foraker's Civil war bravery has been told often. The same is true of the battlefield daring of Representative J. Warren Keifer of Ohio, who entered the Union army as a major on April 27, 1861, and on November 30, 1864, was appointed brigadier general by brevet for "gallant and distinguished services during the campaign ending in the surrender of the insurgent army under Gen. R. E. Lee."

Fourteen years old when the war broke out, Representative Philip Knopf of Illinois enlisted in the One Hundred and Forty-seventh Illinois Infantry and served until the regiment was mustered out at Savannah. Representative Hull of Iowa was so badly wounded in the charge of Black river, May 17, 1863, that he was compelled to resign his captaincy in the Twenty-third Iowa. The other well-known Iowa representative, W. P. Hepburn, was a dashing captain and major and then lieutenant colonel of the Second Iowa Cavalry.

Representative Isaac R. Sherwood of Ohio enlisted as a private in an Ohio regiment the day after Lincoln made his first call for volunteers. He took part in the first battles of the war—Phillipi, Laurel Mountain and Carracks Ford—the only distinction. Because of his intrepid fighting qualities he was promoted to be a major of his regiment on the recommendation of all his brother officers. Beginning with the Morgan raid in 1863 to the muster out in July of 1865, he commanded the One Hundred and Eleventh Ohio during its entire field service, in that time taking part in no less than thirty battles and engagements, many of them of the first order. Because of conspicuous gallantry displayed by him at Resaca, Franklin and Nashville he was made brevet brigadier general.

When his own state of Pennsylvania would not take him because its quota was full, Representative William H. Graham, with some companions, chartered a steamboat, sailed it down to Wheeling and got into "the late scrimmage" as members of the Second Virginia infantry, which later became the Fifth West Virginia cavalry. Representative Graham, who was 17 when he became a soldier, saw much hard fighting under three noted cavalry leaders, Averill, Cook and Sheridan, and a bullet found him at the Battle of White Sulphur Springs. When the armies were facing each other at Appomattox under a flag of truce, he was sent to carry a message to Gen. Sheridan, thus witnessed Lee's surrender, and was given permission by Sheridan to announce the news to the Union army, which he did as he rode back to his command, and thus gained unique distinction.

George W. Cook, representative from Colorado, has the distinction of having been the youngest chief regimental clerk in the entire Union army. He was 14 when he was placed in this position, which he filled for an Indiana regiment for eighteen months. Prior to becoming clerk he had been a drummer boy for various Indiana regiments in the Army of the Cumberland. In order to become a drummer boy he ran away from home when he was 12. This was in 1863, and from then on till the close of the war he was a boy soldier in fact and deed as well as in name.

Representative Cook's was a fighting family. His father, who was a lieutenant in the Thirteenth Indiana cavalry, died of disease contracted while a soldier. His mother was a daughter of an ensign and lieutenant in the

THE CRIPPLE CREEK DISTRICT

Stratton's Independence Big Cyanide Mill to Start Next Month---Work Begun on Garibaldi Tunnel in the Leadville District.

Cripple Creek, Colo., May 23.—The big Stratton's Independence cyanide mill will be in active operation by June 1. At present fifteen sets of lessees are operating above the 950-foot level, and their product is being held in reserve for treatment by the company's mill. This is the largest mill operating in the district—capacity, 250 tons daily.

The old Kimball dump at Gillette will be treated by the cyanide process as soon as the Gillette mill is remodeled. Work is now in progress.

The Wild Horse mill has just ended a twenty-five-days run, from which a $2,000 retort was realized. The ore treated came from the Ramona dump and had an average of $1.60 a ton. This is the acme of cyanide treatment for the camp's low oxidized ores. The mill will now treat $6 to $8 ore from the 200-foot workings of the Silver Tip claim of the United Gold Mines company and from the 300-foot level of the Wild Horse mine.

A cleanup from thirty days' run on the W. P. H. cyanide mill has just resulted in a retort worth $7,000. The ore treated carried $4 to $6 per ton values. It comes from the Jerry Johnson dump.

The North Star and Mountain Monarch claims of the Roxanna Mining company are being plotted for leasing. The deepest shaft in the mine is only 300 feet.

Stratton's Independence mine will be leased on a new basis—the leases expiring after six months. Royalties will be graded from 10 to 50 per cent. The United States Reduction and Refining company's plant at Colorado City will treat all ores shipped, the company's mill at the mine treating only the low-grade ores.

The El Paso Consolidated shipped ninety cars of ore in April on lessees' account, the ore averaging from $60 to $100 a ton.

In extending the Joplin tunnel's east drift on the Gambetta vein, a four to twelve-inch streak, carrying one ounce in gold, 100 ounces in silver, 60 per cent lead and 7 per cent copper, has been uncovered. The ground has been opened for 150 feet, with 12 to 15 inches of pay ore the entire distance. Tals ore averaged 52 ounces in silver and 60 per cent lead before the streak was discovered. The tunnel penetrates Republican mountain, Georgetown, Colo.

The syndicate which recently took over the holdings of the Hall Tunnel company, under bond and lease, will install new machinery, drive the tunnel 1,200 feet to its objective, the 2,500-foot level of the Colorado Central, and extensively develop the property throug laterals on eight and ten known lodes encountered in 2,700 feet thus far driven. The tunnel, it is estimated, will drain the water from thirty miles of workings of the Colorado Central property. The territory is among the richest in the Georgetown district.

The Ball Mountain Mining & Tunnel company has started work on the Garibaldi tunnel, Leadville district, which has been idle for twenty-five years. he objective is the famous Sunday vein, which yielded much high-grade ore through the Sunday shaft. The tunnel is now in 1,300 feet, and its head is 1,000 feetm fro the vein, which is 780 feet below the surface. The tunnel has already passed three veins of high-grade ore. The new company is capitalized for $500,000, and its directors include M. A. Nicholson, Winters, Morrell, George E. Keeler, L. A. Reynolds and Percy Hamm.

were found underneath, as the last material thrown out of the pit would indicate. The drill was then installed. It is believed that there is a very good chance of finding a mine here.

The Wacoatah and the Brunt properties, to the east of the Iroquois, remain idle, and there is little prospect that anything will be done at these mines the present season. The pumps at the Brunt have been pulled and the mine allowed to fill with water with the idea if stripping the ore body but owing to the quietness in the iron business, it is improbable that anything will be done until next season.

The exploratory work on Section 9, west of Mountain Iron, which was promoted by John Harrington, and in which a number of Virginia citizens were interested, has been discontinued. Considerable ore was found, but it was of very low grade, and not merchantable at this time, even if a considerable body should be developed.

Fair progress is being made in the stripping of the Virginia Silver property, adjoining Virginia on the north. This week the mine was looked over by H. H. Grace and P. E. Bradshaw of Superior, and J. B. Foraker, Jr., of Cincinnati, who are interested in the royalty. It is reported that one portion of this mine was leased at a royalty of $1 per ton, and another portion at 75 cents per ton, and that about 3,000,000 tons have been proved up. It is expected that further explorations will reveal considerable more ore. It is only a little more than three years ago that efforts were first made to obtain possession of this property, and as the state and the Federal government both claimed it there was prospect of a long legal wrangle over its possession. But happily the different claimants got together, effected a compromise, and all will have a share in the royalty, which will amount to more than $2,000,000, while as a result of the agreement Virginia will have another big mine on the active shipping list, after 600,000 yards of overburden have been removed.

company's big new No2 dock is nearly completed now, and will probably go into commission about the middle of the coming month. It is somewhat larger than the same company's "Twentieth Century," plat at that port, having a storage capacity of approximately 90,000 tons, and it will furnish adequate facilities for a decade to come. Ten million feet of timber have been used in its construction. The Wetherbee dock at Marquette is also in commission for the time being, the result of a cave-in that has necessitated a suspension of mining operations for several weeks while repairs are being made.

After having been continuously in blast for upwards of six and one-half years, during which period it has produced 250,000 tons of charcoal pig iron, the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's furnace at Gladstone, Mich., will go out of commission about June 1. Taking advantage of the lull in the trade, the company will reline the stack and make other needed repairs. This work will require some two months' time, after which the date of the resumption of operations will depend upon the state of the iron market. With the closing of the Gladstone stack, all three of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's furnaces will be out of blast. The big Pioneer plant at Marquette was shut down a few weeks ago, after a continuous run of four and one-half years, and the Carp furnace at South Marquette has been idle since last fall. The Ashland, Wis., furnace of the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company is to be closed for several months, also to permit of necessary repairs. It has been operating steadily for three years past.

Railroad Has a Mine.

In the course of one and one-half or two years the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company will be getting returns from a new source of income. Ore having been found on a tract of its land in the Swanzey district of the Marquette range, the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company has taken the property over under lease and has started the work of opening the deposit. Once the mine is developed, the railroad company, as owner of the fee, will be drawing revenue in the way of royalty on every ton of ore produced. With ordinary methods followed, sinking would be difficult for the reason that the overburden is of sand and of unusual thickness; but in this case the ground is to be penetrated by means of the air-lock system, and as depth is attained, walls of reinforced concrete will go down until the ledge is reached, the result being a complete and permanent shaft firmly anchored in the rock capping overlying the mineral body. Getting the shaft down to the ledge will be a work of months. There is 110 feet to go, and with the water level reached at twelve feet down, progress through the quicksand will be slow. Once the shaft is in the rock, the air-lock will be dispensed with, and sinking thereafter will be carried on with the usual practice.

This new mine of the Cleveland Cliffs company has been named the Northwestern. The concrete foundations are now going in for the engine and boilerhouses. In the same vicinity the Cleveland Cliffs company is developing the Smith property, and it is about to undertake the opening of still another mine. It is already operating the Princeton No. 1 and No. 2 and the Austin and the Stephenson, in the same district. In proximity to all these mines it is building the town of Gwinn, which will be a model community and the metropolis of the Swanzey region. Forty dwellings, many of them double houses, have been completed; the erection of business structures has been started, and a force of 200 men will be busy for months in installing the water and sewer systems, a work that was started last year. The shaft at the Northwestern will be the fourth of its kind in the Lake Superior region. One has recently been completed at the Smith; the others are at the Bangor and Syracuse mines of Pickands, Mather & Co., on the Mesaba range.

A new Sullivan direct hoisting plant, recently delivered, is being installed at the Prince of Wales mine of the Steel corporation's Regent group at Negaunee, Marquette range. The work will require a number of weeks. The plant is a duplicate of the hoist erected at the Companion Blue mine a month ago. A novelty in the Lake Superior region is a steel bridge just completed at the Prince of Wales. Of an average height of 90 feet, the structure extends from the enginehouse to the new steel shafthouse, a distance of more than 200 feet. The cable used in the operation of the cage and the ore skips will be suspended beneath the bridge, on top of which is a four-foot passageway for the use of mine employes. The structure was erected by the American Bridge company.

Operations at the Hemlock.

Contrary to the usual order of things at this time, operations are being actively prosecuted at Pickands, Mather & Co.'s Hemlock mine at Amasa, at the northern edge of the Crystal Falls field, Western Menominee range. Well styled "the Old Reliable," this property is working 140 men on full time. A peculiarity of the Hemlock ore is that portions of the deposit are well suited to the manufacture of paint, and considerable consignments of this product have latterly been going forward by rail to paint factories in various parts of the country, the shipments averaging five cars a day. This has been sufficient to take care of the daily hoist and permit of lively development work.

In the Iron River district and in the territory adjacent thereto, Pickands, Mather & Co. continue the operation of the Baltic and Caspian mines, though on a comparatively small scale; they are opening the Fogarty property, south of the Caspian, and they are exploring the Bucholtz tract and lands in the vicinity of the Dober mine and near the old village of Atkinson, on the Paint river. The Baltic is working one shift of men. The operations at the Caspian are directed in large part to experimentation as to the best method of draining the heavy overburden of sand in order that the caving system of mining may be introduced, and the work has been attended with signal success.

Of the Corrigan, McKinney & Co. group of mines on the Western Menominee, the Kimball, Lamont, Fairbanks, Crystal Falls and Armenia are idle; the Tobin is working only a quarter of the force usually employed, the Great Western only about one-third, and the Dunn has similarly retrenched. Good-sized stockpiles are in evidence, particularly at the Tobin, Great Western and Dunn. Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Baker property, a newly developed proposition northwest of the Steel corporation's Dober mine at Iron River, is still being operated, but on a meagre scale. Options on tracts in the Morrison Creek country have been given up.

At the Gibson Property.

The Rogers-Brown interests are conducting vigorous work in the endeavor to make a mine out of the Gibson property, near Amasa. They are operating at the South Dunn property, with the same end in view, and they are exploring the old-time Chicagon tract, also lands near the Dober. The option on the Hector, in 43-35, has been surrendered. The Huron company's Youngs mine, south of the Fogarty, is idle, and the Barnette property, an option on which had been held by the same concern, has been abandoned. All mining work has ceased at the Mineral company's Nanaimo mine at Iron River. The James, Konwinski and Sherwood are held by this company also, but at none of them is much work being done.

Oglebay, Norton & Co.'s Bristol mine, at Crystal Falls, is closed down, as are the Chatham properties, in the Iron River district and options to explore various lands in the Stambaugh valley have been surrendered. The Hollister mine, at Crystal Falls, is being tested by M. A. Hanna & Co.; the Kinney property, northwest of the Baltic, is being developed by the Zimmerman interests, and the Florence Mining company of Lauterbach, Thalman & Co., of New York is drilling the Hall property, in the Iron River district. The Steel corporation's Dober is employing ninety men, the Mansfield seventy. In each case on half-time, and the Michigan and McGillis properties are idle.

of the Boston & Montana Consolidated Copper and Silver Mining company was held in Butte recently and the old directors, Sidney Chase and James Phlips, Jr., of Boston, David B. Hennessy and Andrew B. Graftus of New York, John D. Ryan of Butte, were re-elected. Out of the 150,000 shares of stock 149,541 were represented at the meeting. No other business was transacted.

A. H. Wethey, general mine manager for W. A. Clark, says the report that Clark has sold his Montana interests to the Amalgamated company is not true. Mr. Wethey, contrary to statements by other Clark representatives and Amalgamated interests, declares that no negotiations for the sale have ever taken place. Mr. Clark has been making a trip through Arizona and California. His interests in Butte include the Stewart, Original and Elm Orlu mines, the Butte Reduction works, the street railway system, a bank and other interests.

The North Butte Extension Mining company has cut another stringer of mineralized rock in its shaft, and it carries some good assays of copper. The stringer was cut at a depth of 527 feet and at a depth of 555 feet it had widened to two feet. The ore in the seam is chalcopyrite specked with copper glance.

For the first time since the organization of the Barnes-King Development company the mine more than paid expenses during March and April, and showed a small net earning for each month. The detailed report for March shows that 5,655 tons of ore were milled and the heads from the bullion output were $4.97 a ton and the tails were 49 cents a ton. The bullion output was 1791.25 ounces, for which the United States assay office paid $25,320.13, less assaying charges of $119.80. The silver ran higher than usual in the bullion. The mine worked full time in March, two shifts a day. Twenty-five per cent of the men employed underground are engaged in development. The ore mined came: 18 per cent from the South End above the 190 foot level, 29 per cent from the Santiago ore body and 43 per cent from the North End. The Santiago is the most important ore body in the mines, and it continues to look well. During the second and third weeks in April there was an unaccountable rise in the value of the tailing, the loss running as high as $1.20 a ton. The ore assays from car samples ran from $4.30 to $13 per ton, the high assays coming from the Santiago ore body.

Calumet & Hecla, which owns a controlling share interest in the Superior Copper company.

Isle Royale is running six drills in No. 6 shaft, and several cars of rock are being sent to mill daily. Drifting is in progress on the second level and sinking below the third level is to be resumed at once.

A circular rockhouse of steel is being built at No. 6 shaft, and other surface improvements are under way at that point.

Shafts 15 and 16 of the Calumet & Hecla, on the Osceola amygdaloid, are at the sixteenth level, No. 17 is at the ninth level and No. 18 is sinking for the second level, at a depth of about 180 feet. The Calumet & Hecla is now operating 318 power drills, this being the largest number in use by any Lake Superior mine of either copper or iron, and probably is the largest number of rock-drills in use at a single mine anywhere in the world.

Shafts 19 and 20 of the Calumet & Hecla, opened on the eKarsarge lode, remain idle. The pumps were pulled and hoists removed last October, and it is likely that these shafts will remain idle until such time as favorable developments in the southern drifts of the Centennial warrant resumption of exploratory work south of the Centennial line. The deepest of the Calumet & Hecla Kearsarge shafts is down a quarter mile, and both are substantially timbered with concrete and steel.

Developments at the Lake Copper company continue favorable, the shaft and drifts remaining in the same phenomenally rich ground as for several months past. All that is required to make one of the largest and richest amygdaloid mines of the district of the Lake is that the present showing shall continue. In fact, the showing could fall considerably below its present amazingly high mark and allow the Lake to become a very big and rich mine.

Exploratory work for the extension of the Lake amygdaloid is in progress at neighboring properties, but as yet none of these have succeeded in picking up the Lake bed on adjoining lands.

before, and near as he could judge he was perhaps thirty-five or thirty miles southeast from it. The ravine in which he had taken shelter was between two small buttes and in a secure place, where discovery by the redskins was not probable. While making a rough sketch of the range and surrounding country, which he hoped would be of service to him should he miss his way, he sought a flat rock on which to do his drawing, and in so doing he disturbed a rattlesnake, and to kill it or drive it away he picked up what seemed to be a rough boulder but which was so heavy he was compelled to take both hands to lift it in position to throw. This distracted his attention for a moment, during which the snake escaped into the weeds and undergrowth about the trees, and Deluth turned his attention to the rock, which, upon investigation proved to be not less than half native gold, which had become dislodged from a small vein outcropping near his head, which carried even more gold than the piece which he had at first discovered. Feeling sure that this was the treasure of which he dreamed and which would enable him to obtain his heart's desire, he eagerly sketched the outlines of the map, and secured two or three more pieces, which he intended to carry to some settlement and dispose of. Scarcely waiting for night to come on so eager was he to reach water and habitation, he abandoned his sixshooter and overcoat at the place where he had made the discovery and started cautiously on his way. He could very well get along without the overcoat by traveling at night, and the sixshooter he had no use for, as he had no ammunition. He had gone but a short distance when a sandstorm came up and he became completely bewildered, not being able to keep in sight of the peaks to the north, toward which he had directed his steps. It soon drank all the water he had saved, his tongue became parched and swollen, and when the hot sun came out next day and beat down upon his head he was soon completely lost and crazed with thirst. How long he was lost on this terrible desert will never be known, but he finally wandered into the camp of two old prospectors on the Bill Williams river, who gave him water, and cared for him to the best of their ability, but it was not long before it was plain to them that he was out for his last prospecting trip.

When the prospectors first discovered him coming toward their cabin they saw that something was wrong with him, but not until, with a wild yell, he dashed for their well, down which he went head first, did they realize that he was crazed with thirst. All the care they could give him failed to restore him to strength, and after relating the story of his adventures and showing them the chart which he had made, he passed away and was buried on the banks of a little wash near the river, where his grave, with its rude headstone, may be seen to this day. Realizing that the rock which he had given them was immensely rich in gold, the two men made two trips to where it was supposed to have been found, as near as could be determined from the chart, but to no purpose, as they never could find the ledge from which it was taken. On reaching a settlement the ore was forwarded to the mint, from which more than $3,000 was realized by the prospectors.

One of the prospectors, who was Rogers' grandfather, left him the chart, with the advice that it would be more valuable under lock and key than in use in an effort to locate the lost mine. However, it is certain that the mine has again been located, as Otis a few days since, in panning what appeared to be a piece of rich float, discovered three large petrified buttonholes, which beyond a doubt were from the overcoat of young Deluth, and Rogers reports having found a ledge close by, where there are croppings for a considerable distance, and the question of the exact location of the rich gold ledge would seem to be only a matter of a short time.

THE LABOR MOVEMENT

The existence of mankind upon the earth is and has been one of struggles, the men of power having always used the power they wield to their self aggrandizement and to the interests of the class in society of which they are members.

There is a division of the people in the society of today, and that division cannot be hidden. It is plain to be seen by those who would look beneath the surface of existing conditions, and can and must be recognized by both divisions. The individual of wealth, or the employer, has had and is having today the use of a freedom that he would deny to his employes, and yet he maintains that his interests and those of his employer are the same, but he denies them the right to organize into a union that would aid them in their struggle for a better living.

The employer is considered a very wise, and in many instances a very learned man. These we do not dispute as long as we continue to look to the interests of our employer, but as we do so, as we listen to his learned sayings, do we not see and feel that what we have gained in the past is being taken away from us, while we listened to them and were unconscious of what the words he used meant? There are some employers who are very just, humane, and who try to do what they can for the upbuilding of the workers, but there are others who are built to even be allowed to attend the much vaunted fires of a superstitious hell. Their actions here on earth are so revolting, so inhuman and so brutal, that when we come in contact with them, it makes us shudder at the thought of what they might do.

We, the union men, are denied the right of organizing ourselves into a union, through which we could compel our employer to meet us upon the questions that we know would aid us, but we soon learn after we look into the questions, that our interests demand one set of conditions, while his demand another set. It is impossible for us both to meet upon what would be just to both, for the reason that we, the workers, are the salt of the earth, but our employer denies this statement and says it is not true. But when we learn the true facts, the very capital owned by him was at one time the product of our labor. The very money with which he carries on his business is the wages we have earned, and compelled to spend for our living, and after doing so, he gains control of the money spent by us. It is the same money we will receive at the next pay day, but the employer speaks of "My Capital." Has he ever given thought to the question where his capital came from? More than likely he has done so, but he never lets us know about the things he thinks of in his spare moments. The employer must think a little for himself, he must look back over the hard beaten path of our civilization, he must recognize what a great factor the union has been, what it has done for humanity, what it has tried to do for the women and children and the upbuilding of the wage earner. The boss may laugh today, for his laughing days as boss are few indeed. You, the Morlocks of greed! You, the sparks of infamy, laugh at our miserable condition, you mock our women, you profit by the position in which you place them; you murder our children by compelling them to work in the factories; they are the angels of our earth, they the apple of our eye; you compel them to work, to use their brain power that you may coin them into dollars, you compel them to weave the nerves and their very lives into cloth, that you may profit by it.

The employer does all these things. He prays to the same one and just God as we do. He begs and pleads for mercy of Him who sits on high, that sees every falling sparrow. And yet our worthy boss see fit to organize a union of his own, which it seems, is powerful enough to buy courts, to buy the judges and lawmakers. He condemns us for forming union men. He claims we usurp the rights of others; our union is nothing more than his own; it is a recognition of the fact that class interests are in conflict with the best interests of all, but we are driven to organize for self preservation, as it is the first law of life. We use the best methods possible under the conditions; we aim to harm no one, but he seems at times to throw flaunts at us that may cause us to do unmanly things at times. The employer will be confronted with a workingman's union that will be as forceful in its demands for the workers as the manufacturers' association is in its demands for the employers. We will be compelled by economic necessity to organize a union, the like of which the world has never seen as yet, one that will be in a position to force from the employer the right that belongs to the workingman, and it will not be necessary for the worker to commit acts that will not be in accord with the needs of the people, and if trouble should arise it would come from the ranks of the employer and not from the ranks of the workers.

THE BEST INVESTMENT

Is one which pays the largest dividends for the greatest length of time. No investment however good it may seem, is really good unless there is some return for your money. The greater and more constant the return, the better the investment. In buying mining stocks in good properties, honestly promoted and conservatively managed, you are getting one of the cleanest, most profitable and most satisfactory sources of income possible to secure. There is only one thing better and more profitable than a mine and that is the smelter which reduces its ore.

In presenting our methods of ore reduction to your attention and setting forth its superiority over any other system, we desire to emphasize the fact that it is in no sense of the word an experiment, an untried or unproven process. Nor is it a theoretical idea to be some time worked out.

The Universal Oil Smelter

Is a demonstrated success. The experimental work has been done. There are no new-fangled ideas or processes involved. The principles are identical with those now in use in the great smelting centers of the world. The results produced are the same as by the most modern and accepted type of coke smelters.

Because we use oil as a fuel at less than one-half the cost of coke; because we need fewer operatives; because we handle our product from first to last more economically and because our plant costs less to build and maintain; we effect a saving of from 20 per cent to 50 per cent over the present cost of smelting.

The Union Smelting & Refining Co.

Owning the rights, patents and processes of The Universal Oil Smelter, is incorporated under Arizona laws; its capital stock is $1,000,000, divided into 200,000 shares of a par value of $5 each. The stock is fully paid, non-assessable and non-forfeitable. There is no personal liability to the stock holdings. The officers and directors are experienced mining and smelting men and capable of properly managing the corporation and conducting the business for which it was created.

The company is exhibiting a model of a complete plant, showing in detail the entire operation of smelting by its system.

This model is exhibited at 301 Burrows Bldg., Duluth, where you are invited to call and see exactly how the results are accomplished. It is exhibited here primarily for the purpose of closing contracts for the erection of smelters on properties owned or controlled by Duluth capital.

One and possibly two contracts here are now being negotiated on well known properties, which, if accepted will result in greatly increased values of the mining companies' stock and corresponding benefit to the smelting company.

The company, however, aside from any contracts sought to be obtained here, have already contracted to build two plants in Mexico of 25 tons per day capacity each, and two plants in Arizona, each of 100 tons per day capacity. These plants aggregating 250 tons daily capacity are to be built and in operation by January 1st, 1909. The company also intends to construct a 200-ton per day custom plant in Yavapai county, Arizona. The smelting company installs these plants solely upon a royalty basis. This royalty commences from the initial run and continues during the life of the patents. In the contracts already secured, the royalties average $5 per ton. At the custom smelter the operation will net from $8 to $15 per ton.

The total contracts already assumed and those to be made this year, require an expenditure of $200,000. To secure immediate funds beyond its own present resources, the company has decided to offer a portion of its treasury stock for public subscription in order to install the plants above mentioned.

THE COMPANY OFFERS, SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE, 30,000 SHARES, PAR VALUE $5.00 EACH, OF ITS FULLY PAID, NON-ASSESSABLE, CAPITAL STOCK AT PAR.

The proceeds from the sale of the stock to be used for the construction of smelters as outlined above.

As to Profits

No investor makes an investment without considering the probable earnings of the stock he buys or the probable figure at which the stock will sell. At least, he should not.

The earnings of this company and the amount of probable dividends is limited only to the ability of the company to build and operate plants. The field is unlimited and the demand for smelters to accomplish the results obtained by this type will never equal the supply.

Based only upon the contracts now had and estimated on a basis of 250 tons per 24 hours, with an average operation of 300 days per year at $5 per ton net royalty, the net annual earnings of the company will be $375,000, equivalent to $1.87½ per share or 37½ per cent on the total capitalization. On the usual basis, with this earning, the stock will sell at $15.

The earnings of the company's own custom smelter of 200 tons per day, computed at an average of $10 per ton on a 300-day year basis, will be $600,000, equivalent to $3 per share.

The combined plants will, therefore, show an earning of $975,000 per year or practically $5 per share. At this rate the stock should and no doubt will sell at $50 or more. Each succeeding year will add to the earnings in proportion to the number of plants built and at the same time each previous year's earnings are maintained upon a fixed basis.

While these earnings and results may seem large, it is only necessary to point to the operation of the "Smelter Trust," its capitalization, its earnings, the dividend paid and the value of its stock.

It is unnecessary to further argue the merits of this enterprise or the value of an investment in its stock. All are so apparent that no question remains. The extremely low capitalization of the company and the certainty of constant and steadily increasing dividends, makes this unquestionably one of the best investment offerings ever made.

THE COMBINATION OF QUICK RETURNS, ABSOLUTE SAFETY, LARGE PROFITS AND INCREASING VALUE OF THE STOCK, ARE FEATURES NOT TO BE OVERLOOKED.

The privilege of subscribing to this issue of stock is open only for a limited period. The books were opened Wednesday, May 20th, and will close Monday, June 1st, 1908. The price per share is $5. If desired, payment may be made as follows: One-fifth cash, balance in four equal monthly installments.

Five per cent discount for cash will be allowed if payment is made at time of subscription. This will be the only offering of treasury stock at the present time. Should it be decided later to offer more of the stock, it will be at a price of not less than $7.50 per share. The stock will be listed on the principal exchanges.

The right is reserved, in event of over-subscription, to reject any subscription either wholly or in part.

Present indications are that the stock will be quickly subscribed. We suggest prompt action in securing your allotment.

The books are open and subscriptions are being received at the office of A. H. W. Eckstein, 301 Burrows building, Duluth.

You are invited to subscribe.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Indications of Better Business Well Distributed Throughout Country.

New York, May 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly Review of Trade says: Encouraging reports predominate, and for the first time in six months the indications of improvement are well distributed throughout all departments. Gains are small in many cases and unfavorable weather has retarded retail trade at some points while comparison with last year still shows decreases, but as compared with preceding months, satisfactory exhibits are found everywhere. In the leading manufacturing industries orders have increased and the output enlarged.

Lower prices for pig iron brought out a large tonnage of new business, and furnace operators did not find it necessary to make further concessions, although several prominent consumers are waiting for still better terms. Buying was most liberal in foundry iron, and several contracts covered deliveries far into the future. As accumulated stocks are reduced there is a disposition to enlarge the output, making it probable that the active capacity on June 1 will show a substantial increase over the low point touched on May 1.

Textile markets show distinct improvement, buyers exhibiting interest, and prices of some cotton goods are higher. Sales for the week were larger than any date, and the auction brought better figures than expected. In some cases the upward tendency checked contracts for future delivery, but this business is merely deferred, as stocks will soon ned replenishing.

Exports to China have been resumed, although not on a large scale, but any business of this nature is considered encouraging, yet the advance in prices checked Red Sea buying, that had footed up a fair total of small orders. Many duplicate orders are reported for woolen goods, a much healthier situation existing than for many weeks, although some lines are more active than others. Both fancy and staple worsteds sell freely, some mills running overtime on "resist" fabrics, but clothiers discriminate against wool goods, except the finer grades.

Footwear salesmen in the Western territory have secured fair contracts, but New England's manufacturers report that the business compares very unfavorably with previous years. A better feeling is apparent in the leather market, sales covering more than immediate needs in some cases, and there is less anticipation of further reductions in quotations. Upper leather is in much better position than at any recent date, tanners no longer accepting the extremely low bids that formerly secured shipments. An upward tendency is noted in hides, the difference in prices being much greater than the seasonable improvement in quality warrants.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup is best for women and children. Its mild action and pleasant taste makes it preferable to violent purgatives, such as pills, tablets, etc. Get the booklet and a sample of Orino at all druggists.

C. W. Arnold Writes Regarding Arrest of Frederick Potts.

C. W. Arnold of Minneapolis, who has been conducting a vigorous campaign against immoral and fake advertisements, writes the editor of The Herald regarding the recent arrest of Frederick W. Potts of Minneapolis, accused of using the mails for fraudulent purposes. Mr. Arnold says:

"There are several victims in your part of the state that will be glad to know that this fellow may get his just deserts. I have been after the inspector's department at Washington concerning Potts for the last three year, writing about two letters a month. I don't know whether they did it to get rid of me or not, but I don't think I ever stayed by but one case longer."

Potts is accused of having advertised for agents, guaranteeing them a salary of $20 weekly and expenses on the deposit of $15 to cover the cost of samples. Mr. Arnold claims that the advertisement was a swindle.

DEMAND FOR LOCAL REALTY CONTINUES QUITE ACTIVE

Alexander McDougall Purchases the A. W. Kuehnow Residence at 1005 East First Street for About $15,000—Numerous Sales of Good Building Lots Have Been Made in the Eastern and Western Ends of the City and Several Residence Sales Running From $2,000 to $6,000 Have Been Closed.

Unfavorable weather during the early part of the week acted as a sort of a damper on the local real estate market. Business has been picking up, however, during the latter part of the week and, on the whole, quite a number of trades have been made. Interest has been centered pretty much in the progress of the courthouse plans at Second street and Fifth avenue west. The courthouse commission met yesterday afternoon and awarded the contracts, and work on the excavation for the foundations will begin by the middle of next month. The work is to be pushed as rapidly as possible, with a view to having the building ready for occupancy in two years. Inquiry for good building lots is reported to be somewhat stronger, and several sales of that class of property have been closed up this week. The home-building germ is still working, and this year will see quite a number of tenants getting into homes of their own.

The largest residence property sale of the week was that of A. W. Kuehnow's home at 1005 East First street to Capt. Alexander McDougall, for a consideration understood to be in the neighborhood of $15,000. The house was built a few years ago and occupies a fifty-foot lot on the upper side of First street, in one of the best residence districts in the city. Mr. Kuehnow expects to erect a smaller home on Twenty-second avenue east, and will also build a four-flat building on Jefferson street, for rental purposes. Capt. McDougall's former residence property, at the corner of Second street and Fifth avenue west, has been acquired by the county, through condemnation proceedings, the property to constitute a portion of the new courthouse site.

Burg & Hawkins report the sale of eight lots in the East end, for improvement during the coming year. The same firm has sold two small dwellings on lots in the West end.

A. W. Kuehnow, the land man, has sold to F. Schultz, a German farmer from Enid, Okla., a 160-acre tract in section 24-47-19. Several of Mr. Schultz's relatives expect to buy farms in this part of the country soon. They formerly owned farms in Southern Minnesota, which they sold a few years ago and located in Oklahoma. Mr. Schultz says that Minnesota soil looks pretty good to him after all, and he is coming back.

A transfer was recorded this week, running from D. A. Petre to Wilhelm M. Miller, covering the easterly thirty-three feet of vacated Fifth avenue east, adjoining lot 1, block 22, Portland, and the westerly eight feet of the same lot, Portland division. The consideration was $6,000.

The county of St. Louis now owns the Spalding property in fee simple, a warranty deed having been executed to the county by Mrs. Electa W. Spalding this week. Mrs. Spalding has been paid the award of the appraisers appointed by the court in the condemnation proceedings, the same being something over $51,000.

Katherine Kenney has purchased from R. G. Kelzer the residence property in the East end, described as lot 5, block 76, Endion.

Frank Heimick has sold T. F. McNaught lots 8 and 9 and a part of lot 10, in block 36, Portland. The lots are located on East First street. The consideration was $4,850.

George H. Ebert reports the sale this week of 400 acres of mineral land on the Vermilion range, and forty acres of farming land near Pike lake.

Whitney Wall, secretary of the Duluth Real Estate exchange has received information from W. M. Ellis, secretary of the Chicago Builders' alliance, in answer to inquiry, some interesting statistics as regards the comparative real estate taxes in various prominent cities of the country. The information comes in the nature of a summary of an investigation made by Mr. Ellis, the data being secured by communications to two prominent real estate firms and the comptroller in each city investigated, asking them for full information both as to the law and the practice of assessing real estate in their respective cities. Their figures have been reduced to a $100 basis of actual cash valuation. The data is said to be entirely reliable.

To intelligently compare the rates it was necessary to know the law and custom relating to special assessments also. Communications were addressed to the street commissioners in the various cities and the desired information was obtained.

Reduced to a condensed form, the information is as follows:

Ratet of taxation on each $100 of cash valuation in the central business district of the following cities, for the years 1903 to 1907:

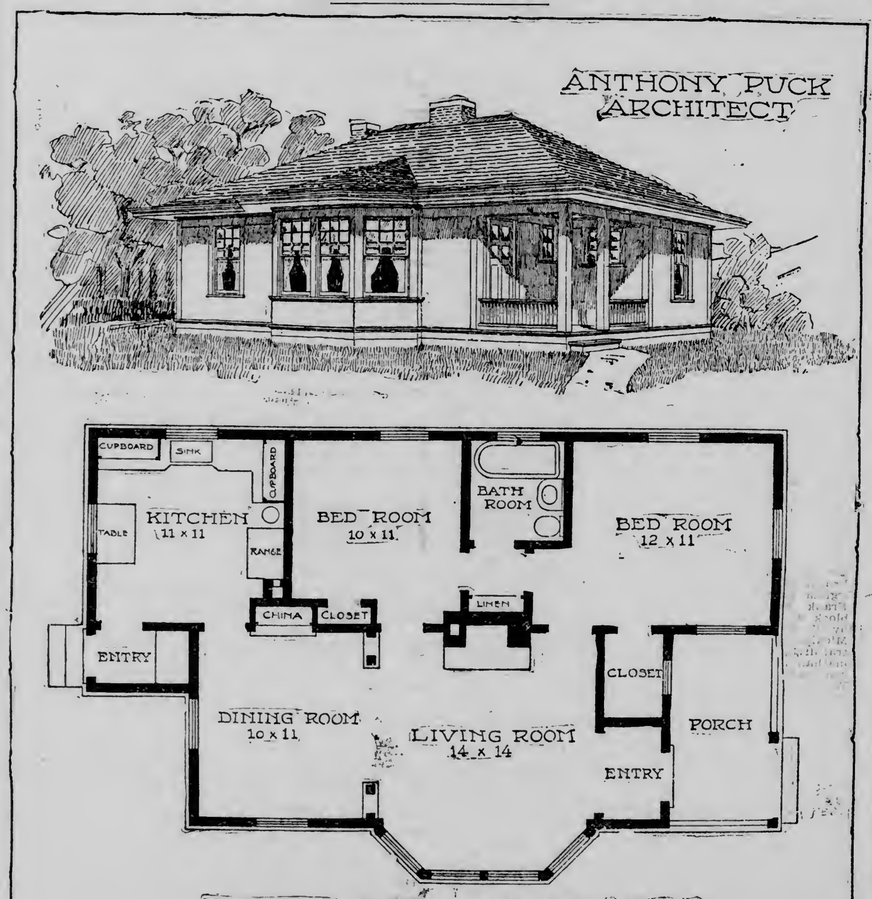
COSY BUNGALOW WHICH WOULD COST $1,600 TO BUILD IN DULUTH



DESIGN FOR A BUNGALOW

The above illustration is of a cozy and conveniently arranged one-story cottage, or bungalow. It is designed to be built at the lowest cost consistent with comfort and utility. It could serve as well for an all-the-year-around-home, as a summer cottage, the construction being warm and the rooms so arranged as to be easily heated.

The living room, with its large bay windows and alcove dining room, is the principal feature of the plan. Opening from the living room on each side of the fireplace are two roomy bedrooms, connected by a passage from which the bathroom is entered. One side of the passage is occupied by a linen cabinet. Each bedroom has a closet, the larger of which has outside light. The dining room is made to look attractive by its built-in china closet and columns and beams dividing it from the living room. The size of the kitchen and arrangement of its equipment make it complete and unusually convenient. A rear entry is provided with space for refrigerator.

The low broad effect carried out in the detail and construction of the exterior gives the bungalow its charm of appearance.

The plans do not call for a basement, the foundation being of concrete piers.

The outside dimensions are 23 feet by 40 feet. The height of ceiling is 9 feet. Floors throughout are of clear maple, and the finish oak. The dining room has a plate rail, and living room a brick fireplace with oak mantel shelf. Cupboards in kitchen are of birch.

The cost complete of such a home built in Duluth or vicinity would be $1,600.

The weather man has promised a dry day, and it is expected that fully 2,000 spectators will be on hand to root for their several schools. The grounds are in splendid condition.

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION

First Meeting Since District Became a Regular Diocese.

Many Clergymen and Laymen Will Attend the Sessions.

The first annual convention of the diocese of Duluth will be held in Duluth next week and will be attended by Episcopalian clergymen and laymen from all over Northern Minnesota. This is the first meeting since the missionary district of Duluth was recognized by the convocation of the American church as a regular diocese.

The sessions will be held Wednesday and Thursday in Trinity Pro-Cathedral, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. It is expected that about thirty-five clergymen and fifty laymen will be present.

The opening service will be held Wednesday morning in the pro-cathedral, when Rev. Irving P. Johnson, rector of Gethsemane church, Minneapolis, will preach.

Following the service there will be a business session, at which Bishop Morrison will preside. An intermission will be held at noon for luncheon, which will be served by the ladies of St. John's church, Lakeside. In the afternoon the business session will be continued.

Wednesday evening a banquet will be held for the delegates, clergy and laity and the Sunday school teachers of the diocese. The affair will take place in Trinity hall and will be given by the ladies of the local Episcopal churches, under the direction of Trinity guild. An interesting program for the evening has been prepared.

The regular business of the diocese will be transacted Wednesday, and Thursday will be devoted to the Women's auxiliary and discussions of home and foreign missions. At the missionary service, under the auspices of the auxiliary, in the morning, Rev. J. Johnson, a full-blooded Ojibway Indian, will preach. Mr. Johnson was formerly stationed at Kewatin, Canada, where he did good work, but is now working among the Indians at Harth Earth.

The Women's auxiliary will hold a business and missionary meeting Thursday afternoon, at which Mrs. J. D. Morrison will preside. The visiting clergymen will be shown the beauties of the city, which enerainment will conclude the convention.

If any one has any doubt as to the virtue of Foley's Kidney Cure, they need only to refer to Mr. Alvin H. Stimpson, of Willimantic, Conn., who, after almost losing hope of recovery, on account of the failure of so many remedies, finally tried Foley's Kidney Cure, which he says was "just the thing" for him, as four bottles cured him completely. He is now entirely well and free from all the suffering incident to acute kidney trouble. At all druggists.

GOVERNMENT NOT SATISFIED.

Will Do Nothing in Case of Insane Man.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The government is not satisfied with the proof furnished by Grand Forks county to the effect that Knute Nystu, who has been in the Grand Forks county jail a couple of weeks because of insanity, contracted the disease which brought about his present condition through service in the Philippines, and for that reason will take no steps in the matter. Judge Hassell has received word from Fort Des Moines to that effect. The county officials are in a quandary as to what to do with the prisoner, for, though he is plainly not a Grand Forks county resident, there seems to be no means to learn where his home is or where he should be cared for.

Mr. John Riba of Vining, Iowa, says, "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold." Sold by all druggists.

CIRCUS WAR FOR DULUTH

Ringling and Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows Coming the Same Week.

Lively Competition Between Two Great Exhibitions Expected.

Duluth is to be the scene of a lively circus war during the next month, as Ringling Brothers' circus is already advertised to exhibit June 26 and the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace shows are coming here June 22.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace show is practically the only one of great size not controlled by the Ringlings and an exciting advertising and boosting contest may be expected between the promoters of the two big exhibitions.

Ringling representatives were here several days ago; arranged for a license and a lot and already have some of the show's advertising out. Today Fred Wagner, general contracting agent of the Carl Hagenbeck and the Great Wallace Shows combined, is here, making arrangements for the appearance on June 22 of his entertainment.

The taking over last spring of the Barnum & Bailey show by Ringling Brothers left the Hagenbeck-Wallace show the only large, so-called independent circus in the field. Ringling Brothers therefore look for great opposition only from the Hagenbeck-Wallace people. The routes of the other big shows, the Ringlings lay out themselves, according to the best circus methods, but they have nothing whatever to do with Col. Wallace's forces.

In any territory in the United States the Hagenbeck-Wallace shows would find opposition, probably, from one of the shows controlled by the Ringlings, but in Duluth they will contest for business and circus honors with Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows, the aggregation which made the Baraboo, Wis., boys' original fame and fortune.

The spectacle of two of the largest circuses in the world competing here will be an interesting one. The big shows come only four days apart. First, the Hagenbeck-Wallace show on Monday, June 22, and the Ringling show Friday, June 26.

Probably the old-time circus stunt of "covering" the opposition show's paper during the night will be employed as well as other interesting tactics by the advance forces of the big organizations.

There will be nothing half-way about the competition, as the Ringlings are the circus kings of the country and have money to burn, while Col. Ben E. Wallace, proprietor of the Hagenbeck-Wallace shows is many times a millionaire and known as a fighter.

RAINY RIVER DAM BILL.

Likely to be Passed Over the President's Veto.

Washington, May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The probability is that the Rainy river dam bill will be passed over the president's veto today.

Those directly interested, it is understood, have made an agreement with President Roosevelt which is satisfactory to the executive. The Rainy River Improvement company's representatives were visitors at the White House today and made certain sugestions and promises which seemed to meet with the approval of the president, and if the bill is repassed he will not withhold his approval.

COAL BED IS FOUND.

Good Quality of Lignite Reported in Stearns County.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The coal which was recently discovered on the farm of Frank Bechtold near St. Joseph, is said to be of excellent quality. Fred Schroeder, the St. Joseph miller, who has been investigating the find, states that the lignite is undoubtedly good for fuel purposes

Samples of the lignite have been sent to the state department for examination and a report is expected to be received within a few days. The discovery of the coal was made by Mr. Bechtold while digging a well. He located a hard substance about twenty feet beneath the surface. The deposit is said to be several feet in thickness.

It is believed that the vein is a continuation of the deposit which runs through the Collegeville hills. Several deposits of coal have been discovered in the same vein during the past few years. Although St. Joseph people have had considerable confidence in the other coal mines they have never been able to secure reasonable propositions from the farmers on whose land the deposits were found. One farmer wanted $3,000 cash for the privilege to investigate.

The coal on the Bechtold farm is said to be considerably better than any which has yet been located. Fred Schroeder of St. Joseph, states that he has investigated most of the finds and has never seen any that could equal the fuel found on the Bechtold farm.

DINING CAR SUPERINTENDENT ILL.

St. Paul, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. P. Tourtelot, for many years superintendent of dining car service on the Northern Pacific, is seriously ill at St. Joseph's hospital, with an attack of paralysis. Mr. Tourtelot suffered a stroke of paralysis Wednesday morning in his office and was immediately hurried to the hospital. Although the stroke was not thought severe at first, Mr. Tourtelot's condition is now serious.

MANY DEATHS FROM FAMINE.

Mombasa, British East Africa, May 23.—More than forty thousand deaths have resulted from the severe famine prevailing in the Usoga province of Uganda. The government is feeding 50,000 of the natives. Crops are a complete failure and there is prospect of much suffering during the next few months.

NEW PARK AS PLAYGROUND

Lake Shore Property Will be Fitted Up for Sports.

The Newly Formed Playground Association Holds Meeting.

The Duluth Playground association, formed one week ago, met this morning in the council chambers at the city hall, perfected its organization and discussed plans relative to the playground movement. Probably the first playground of the kind desired will be established at Twelfth avenue east and London road. Bishop James McGolrick submitted the following statement of the object and needs of the association, and the general plan of work mapped out:

"The park commissioners have already taken measures to institute apparatus for the younger children in the parks and under proper supervision. The general committee must, however, secure grounds for athletic exercises, baseball and other outdoor amusements, and collect the necessary funds for apparatus and intelligent training.

"The city, extended as it is, will need at least two playgrounds in addition to those already in the public parks. A very much needed part of the work of the committee would be the preparation of a bathing place on one of the creeks, where, under proper care and under proper sanitary conditions, children of both sexes would find, at fixed times, a swimming pool of pure, clear, running water.

"The preparation of such a place would not be very costly, and would be of inestimable value. Wading pools and sand courts should not only be arranged for school children, but for boys and girls who are engaged in earning a living during the day. With careful guidance the playgrounds will improve the young both morally and physically. Children brought up with such health-giving exercises cannot but develop into sound men and women. The Playground association, therefore, appeals to the citizens of Duluth to aid the good work and contribute towards its maintenance."

Three Classes of Members.

A constitution was adopted at the meeting. It provides for three classes of members. Those contributing $1 or more annually will be classed as associate members; those contributing $10 or more a year will be classed as sustaining members, and those contributing $100 or more to start with shall be classed as life members. Much interest is being taken in the playground movement, and it is believed little difficulty will be encountered in getting all the funds needed for the purpose of establishing and operating the grounds in different parts of the city. The association will work in conjunction with the park board in conducting the grounds. The annual meeting will be held the first Monday in May each year.

A board of twenty directors was elected at this morning's gathering. Following is the list: R. D. Haven, C. L. Codding, Luter Mendenhall, Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge, W. E. Magner, Julius Barnes, Henry Perrault, W. B. Getchell, Phil Bevis, Bishop James McGolrick, Mrs. H. C. Marshall, Hon. John Miller, Rev. Arthur H. Wurtell, Miss Jean Poirier, W. S. Moore, Rev. H. K. Madsen, Mrs. Wesley Feetham, Mrs. A. W. Hartman, Miss Ruth Roberts and L. A. Barres.

Five were appointed as an executive committee, as follows: R. D. Haven, Rev. Arthur H. Wurtell, Watson S. Moore, Miss Jean Poirier and Rev. H. K. Madsen.

Mayor Haven agreed to take up the matter of incorporating with the city attorney.

Rev. Wurtell, chairman of a committee to look after certain preliminaries in connection with the playground movement, recommended that Physical Director Frey of the Y. M. C. A. be secured as general director of the playgrounds, if he can spare sufficient time. Phil Bevis, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., said he would look the matter up. The report suggested that some of the older boys be secured as assistants to the general director. Mothers were urged to encourage the children to frequent the grounds.

It was also suggested that suitable shelter from rain be provided at all the parks, for the accommodation of children and their parents. It was recommended that the playgrounds be open for use from 10 a. m. to 12 m. and from 1:30 p. m. to 5 p. m., leaving it optional with the executive committee whether they shall be open in the evening or not. They will be closed Sunday mornings, but will be open Sunday afternoons, and at 4 o'clock on the Sabbath day some prominent citizens will be selected to deliver an open air address on some timely topic.

The report said the greatest need for a playground was in the western portion of the city, and suggested Lincoln and Fairmont parks as possible locations. A good many communications have been received from the Adams school district, asking for the location of a playground there.

Miss Ruth Roberts, Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele and Luther Mendenhall were appointed a committee to look farther into the matter of location. Rev. Wurtele, B. Silberstein, W. B. Getchell Watson S. Moore and Mrs. Woodbridge were appointed as a membership committee.

Meetings hereafter will be at the call of the executive committee.

LAHR IS ARESTED.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Lahr, the saloonkeeper at Opole, Stearns county, who shot Vinus Esser at that place Monday night, during a row in the saloon, hsa been arrested charged with assault in the first degree. He has been released on $3,000 bonds. Lahr claims he fired in self defense. Esser is still alive and is said to stand a chance of recovering.

Calumet, Mich., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the Red Jacket Congregational church, of William Mundy who died at his home on Pine street Wednesday, aged 73 and was one of the oldest engineers in the employ of the Tamarack Mining company.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Recommendations by the Committee of Credits for Student Activities.

Inspection of the Cadet Corps Was Highly Complimented.

Minneapolis, May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The special committee appointed to investigate student activities, with a view of determining as to what credits should be allowed, has, after careful work, made the following recommendations, which will be taken up at the faculty meeting today:

Members of the Glee and Enterpean clubs may be allowed to register for courses in the music department, which is under the instruction of Prof. Scott, and to receive one credit for each semester of work.

Band work should be encouraged, and the committee also recommends that credit be given in the remission of a certain part of their tuition.

The university orchestra should be put in charge of a specialist on the violin, who has had experience in orchestra work. Further, it is recommended that a course in violin be added to the curriculum, on a par with the course in piano. Under these conditions, two hours credit will be allowed for the year's work.

No credit is recommended for mandolin work.

In regard to publications, the committee suggests that the managing editor and associate editors of the Daily be given three semester credits for a year's work, providing the standing of the work be of sufficient value to warrant it. No credit for Gopher, magazine or Minnehaha to be given.

For debate and oratory, credits, not to exceed six in all, should be given.

A course in drama ought to be instituted, for which two credits for a year's work should be given.

No credit is recommended for the efforts of literary societies.

Thursday the parts for the specialties to go with the senior play were announced. There are to be six specialties, including parts for about 120 members of the class.

Wednesday was given over to inspection of military drill, and all other classes for the day were excused. The inspection is annual, and is conducted by Capt. Sigerfoos. The first call was sounded at 9:10 o'clock, and the drills continued until late in the afternoon.

About 550 men compose the cadet corps, and they made a fine showing this year, carrying off every movement in military drill and tactics with pronounced ability.

In the morning, Capt. Lennihan, President Northrop, Regents Wilson and Owen, Capt. Sigerfoos and Prof. Haynes, accompanied by the commanding officers, reviewed the troops. Inspection and parade followed. The crack squad exhibition brought forth very complimentary words from Capt. Lennihan.

The U. of M. band also received commendation for its playing and marching.

The afternoon was spent in platoon movements and military tactics. Pillsbury hall was the center of the gathering of enthusiastic onlookers during the whole inspection.

Friday night the annual senior smoker to the juniors will come off. The "Dignities," with their one-year younger brothers, were seen squatted, Indian fashion, about a bonfire, passing the traditional "Pipe of Peace."

The occasion, which marks the last communal gathering of the upper classmen, is noted especially for the good fellowship prevailing. Stories, responses and stunts of all kinds were indulged in, and a lively time was the result.

WHEAT HAS FIRM TONE

American Markets Are Stronger at the End of Short Session.

Little Easier Feeling in Flax at the Close Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 23.—A good buying demand stimulated the American wheat markets today, and at the end of the short session, prices showed a fractional gain over yesterday. Most of the strength was in Chicago.

The buying was quite good in Duluth during the day, foreigners bidding for some wheat. Some durum and spring was worked for export. In addition to the sales of durum wheat for export during the past two days, Duluth has sold 500,000 bus of No. 1 northern wheat to Eastern mills an it is said that there are only about 1,500,000 bus of wheat in Duluth unsold.

Liverpool was soft at the close, but the continent was strong. Liverpool closed ⅝@¾d lower, Paris unchanged to 5c higher, Berlin ⅝c higher and Budapest ⅛c higher.

The July option closed ⅜c higher in Duluth, ⅝c higher in Chicago, ½c higher in Minneapolis, St. Louis, ¼c higher in New York, ⅜@½c higher in Kansas City and ⅛c higher in Winnipeg. The September option closed ¼c higher in Duluth, ½@⅝c higher in Chicago, ½c higher in Minneapolis and ¼c higher in New York.

July corn closed ¾c higher in Chicago and ¼d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed ½c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat as a result of the weakness in the American markets yesterday, the more favorable American crop and weather reports, larger Bradstreet's exports and predictions of larger world's shipments on Monday, the market was quiet at the opening and ¼d lower. Pressure was in evidence during the morning, until just before the close, when some weekend covering stimulated a firmer undertone, with a slight advance in prices. At the close, the market was steadier and ⅜d to ½d lower than Friday.

"Corn was steady and ½d higher. The strength was the result of shorts covering in May."

Car Receipts at Duluth were 18 against 106 last year, and at Minneapolis 147 against 218 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 165 against 324 last year. Chicago received 98 against 36 last year. Winnipeg received 29 against 279 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 407,000 bus, last year 416,000 bus. Shipments 578,000 bus, last year 205,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 465,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 498,000 bus, last year 521,000 bus. Shipments 485,000 bus, last year 637,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 18,277 bus.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Commission Houses Good Buyers of Wheat, With Prices Weak.

Chicago, May 23.—Commission houses were good buyers of wheat at the opening of today's market, but prices were weak because of a decline at Liverpool. Later prices rallied slightly on a fair buying demand. July wheat opened ½@¾c lower, at 89⅞c to 90c and sold at 90⅛@90⅝c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 233 cars against 209 cars last week and 369 cars one year ago.

The market held firm for the remainder of the day. The high point for July was 90¾@90⅞c. For this point prices reacted slightly on profit-taking, but the close was firm with July ⅛@⅜c higher at 90⅝@90¾c.

The corn market was strong because of firm cables, and wet weather in the corn belt, which interferred greatly with planting operations. May corn opened ⅛c higher at 75¾c and sold at 76c. July corn was unchanged to ⅛c higher at 65⅜c to 65½c and sold at 66¼c. Local receipts were 250 cars with 70 of contract grade.

May corn ranged between 75¼@76¾c. The high mark for July was 66¼@66⅜c. The market closed firm with May ½c higher at 76c, and July up ¾c at 66¼c.

The oats market was firm, chiefly because of the strength of corn. July oats were unchanged at 46⅝c and sold at 47c. Local receipts were 160 cars.

A decline of 10c in live hogs caused an easy market in provisions. July pork was unchanged at $13.62½. Lard was 5c lower at $8.42½. Ribs were off 2½@5c at $7.32½.

Close—Wheat: May, $1.01⅞; July, 90⅝@⅞c; September, 86⅞@87c; December, 87¾c. Corn—May, 76c; July, 65½c; September, 64⅝c; December, 55⅝@⅞c. Oats—May, old, 47¼c; May, 51⅜c; July, old, 47¼c; July, 45½c; September, 37¼@⅜c. Pork—May, $13.42½; July, $13.57½; September, $13.72½ @13.85. Lard—May, $8.37½; July, $8.42½; September, $8.30. Ribs—May, $7.22½; July, $7.32½@7.35; September, $7.55@7.57½. Rye—Cash, 83c. Barley—Cash, 63@67c. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, $1.01¼@1.02; No. 3 red, 98c@$1.02; No. 2 hard, $1.00½@1.04½; No. 3 hard, 93c@$1.02½; No. 3 spring, 97c@$1.07; others, nothing doing. Corn—No. 2, nothing doing; No. 3, 74@76c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Lower Cables Weakened Wheat at Opening, But It Soon Recovered.

Minneapolis, May 23.—Liverpool cables were ⅜@½d lower when that market opened and the effect here was weakening, July opening at $1.04⅞. But it jumped quickly to $1.05⅝. The crop reports were not so good, too much rain in the winter wheat states, and Hessian fly news also. The statistical figures were bullish. In the local field the elevator stocks decreased 324,111 bus for the week, and the total now in store is 4,413,931 bus. For the one day since compiling the report there is an additional 50,000 bus. Stocks are now 7,588,000 bus less than a year ago. The local receipts today were 147 cars against 218. Winnipeg got 29 against 279. The close was firm. July opened at $1.04⅜; high, $1.05⅞; low, $1.04⅜; close, $1.05⅜@⅝. September closed at 91⅝c; May, $1.00⅞.

The cash wheat market was in good condition with No. 1 northern 3c over July and No. 2 northern 1c over. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.08⅜ spot, $1.08⅜ to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.06⅜ spot and to arrive; No. 3 wheat, $1@1.03⅜; No. 3 yellow corn, 69½c.

No. 3 white oats, 50¾@51¼c.

No. 2 rye, 77¾@78¾c.

Barley was steady to a shade easier. Close, 55@65c.

Flax stronger and 1¼c over Duluth July. Close, $1.24⅝.

While the situation is not so strong, bran in bulk is still quoted $21.75@22 by the millers and demand pronounced satisfactory at the prices.

The flour market closed the week rather duller than at the opening. There were spurts of buying during the week with directions for immediate shipment indicating light stocks of flour, but the aggregate business of the week was not greater than the week before. Today's orders were moderate. Shipments, 49,499 barrels. First patents, $5.45@5.60; second patents, $5.30@5.45; first clears, $4.25@4.35; second clears, $3.55@3.65.

WILL DISCUSS THE SALOONS

Not Much Else Booked for the Council Monday.

From present indications, the saloons will take up a good portion of the time at the council meeting next Monday night. Alderman Trevillion's amendment to the license ordinance leaving a loophole for the saloonkeepers to wiggle through in getting a renewal of licenses within a year after being convicted of a violation of law, will come up for consideration, and it is liable to result in some heated arguments.

Alexander McQueen, convicted of selling liquor contrary to the ordinance, has been cited to appear before the council Monday night and show cause why his license should not be revoked. A similar summons may be made upon Charles Korth, the West Duluth saloonkeeper accused of selling liquor to minors. Korth has always had the reputation of conducting an orderly and law-abiding place, according to the police and city officials.

The report on the proposed Armory improvements will be ready by Monday. It is proposed to reconstruct the front stairs to the building and provide two or three additional rooms for the new militia company.

Mayor Haven's garbage ordinance will again come up, and it is expected it will pass without any particular opposition. The board of public works will have some sewer contracts in for approval. None of them is very large. There will also be some petitions for new improvements. One is for grading four blocks of Fifty-fourth avenue east and Tioga street, calling for an expenditure of $9,500. This expense is due to the fact that three ravines will have to be filled in to complete the grade. The petitioners do not ask for pavement this year. That will come later.

REPORT AGREED TO.

Washington, May 23.—The conference report on the fortifications appropriation bill was agreed to by the house today. The effect of the action is to send the bill to the president for approval. The report gave rise to no debate, although a roll call was necessary to secure its adoption.

BAD SLUMP IN STOCKS

Thrown Over in Large Volume and Declines Were Heavy.

Market Closed Furiously Active and in a Demoralized Condition.

New York, May 23.—Demoralization, accompanied by unrestrained selling of securities, caused today's stock market to be the weakest since the panic last fall. The professed motive for most of the selling was the inference drawn from the government suit against the New Haven railroad for violation of the anti-trust law. There has been much speculative buying of stocks on stock market gossip that assurance might be felt of future softening of the rigors of prosecution of the railroad corporations, and the effect of the new movement on the speculative mind was dreaded. Moreover, the week's action of the market has demonstrated its top-heavy condition from over extensions of the long interest and the heavy profit-taking already effected by the conductors of the campaign. All semblance of support disappeared from the market today. Union Pacific slumped 6, St. Paul 6, Southern Pacific 5, Reading 4, Illinois Central 4¼, Northern Pacific 3⅜, Missouri Pacific and St. Louis general list all the way from 1 to 2 points. Some feverish rallies showed the eagerness of the bears to take profits on the short side, but the closing tone of the market was demoralized.

New York, May 23.—Opening prices of stocks showed some violent declines, and the whole list averaged a substantial fraction lower than last night. Canadian Pacific and St. Louis Southwestern preferred dropped 2¼; Louisville & Nashville, 1¾; Anaconda, 1⅜, and Union Pacific, St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and General Electric a point. The trading was active and stocks were freely offered in all parts of the list.

Continuous selling weakened prices further, the market showing no signs of support. The transcontinental stocks were the leaders in the break, especially St. Paul and Union Pacific. The copper stocks showed some resistance. Louisville & Nashville yielded 3¼, St. Paul 3⅛, Union Pacific 2¾, New Haven 2⅝, Illinois Central, 2¼, Northern Pacific, Wisconsin Central and Consolidated Gas 2, Southern Pacific and Distillers' Securities 1¾, and Missouri Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Ontario & Western and North American 1½. There was a fractional recovery at 11 o'clock, and the market became dull.

The market closed furiously active and in a demoralized condition. The market continued to suffer from lack of any measure to support prices and stocks were thrown over in increasing volume and for what they would bring. Leaders of the recent advance were in turn most acutely affected in the slump. St. Paul broke 6, Union Pacific 6½; Southern Pacific, 2; Illinois Central, 4¼; Reading, 4 and Northern Pacific, 3⅝. Rock Island preferred, 3⅜; Missouri Pacific, 3⅜ and Great Northern preferred, 3. Declines in the general list varied all the way up to 3. Some feverish rallies reflected hasty short covering.

Copper Gossip.

Boston, to Gay & Sturgis: The general market today lost as much ground in two hours as it had gained in two weeks, showing the hollowness of the late movement and its manipulative character. The same forces that put them up were apparently the cause of their going down. Such a movement is however very extraordinary and the market should in a measure right itself. Locally stocks held well and but little liquidation occurred. Better prices should be seen at least temporarily early next week.

NIGHT RIDERS RIDDLE HOUSE WITH BULLETS.

Ripley, Ohio, May 23.—Night riders last night destroyed the tobacco beds of Walter Hook, six miles from Ripley. Hook fired at the men and in return they riddled his house with bullets. One bullet came within two inches of hitting the baby. Troop B, which is patrolling this section, was soon on the scene. It is said that some of the riders were recognized and arrests are expected.

SUPERIOR NEWS

STRANGE PLACES TO STEAL.

Telephone Booth and Public Library in Superior Are Burglarized.

Clifford Williams was arrested yesterday on the charge of stealing $18.10 from a telephone booth belonging to the Douglas County Telephone company in Superior. It is alleged that he was caught in the act. He admits stealing $4 from another booth in the Hammond block recently. Williams claims he committed the thefts, as he needed the money to feed and clothe himself.

A gang of boys in Superior is suspected of breaking into the public library and of robbing the till of 40 cents in pennies. The money comprised the fines collected on books that were not returned in time by patrons. The boys met in a candy store and divided the booty. They were absent from their homes yesterday, and the police believe they are hiding about the city.

Lost Roll While Sleeping.

Matt Furi, a bartender at 1803 Third street was arrested yesterday on the charge of being implicated in a robbery that is said to have occurred at the saloon. John Hill, a woodsman is the complaining witness. Olga Hendrickson, a woman who was with Hill is missing and the police are looking for her. She is believed to have a hand in the alleged theft. Hill is positive that he was relieved of $150 while he was sleeping.

Board Rejects All Bids.

By reason of an oversight in the advertising for the bids on the contracts to finish up the county hospital for the insane, the county board of supervisors had to reject all the bids. The error was not discovered until yesterday afternoon when a meeting was held for the purpose of awarding the contracts. It is believed that lower bids will result from the re-advertising of the work.

SILAS B. FOOT DEAD.

Head of Well-Known St. Paul Firm Passes Away.

Red Wing, Minn., May 23.—S. B. Foot of the firm of Foot, Schulze & Co., St. Paul, died at his home here Friday. He had been in failing health for some months.

S. B. Foot was one of the most prominent and widely known men of the city and state, and his taking off takes from earth one of those men who helped to lay the foundations of the community and the commonwealth of Minnesota.

Silas B. Foot was born in New Milford, Pa., November 7, 1834. In 1857 he came to Minnesota and settled at Red Wing. He opened a retail store, dealing in general merchandise. Later he traded his business for real estate and subsequently exchanged his property interests for a stock of shoes and went into business, under the firm name of Foot & Sweney.

A few years later he purchased the latter's interest and the firm of Foot & Sterlin was organized. This firm was succeeded by other partnerships, when in 1881 it became the manufacturing shoe firm of Foot, Schulze & Co. of St. Paul, of which Mr. Foot continued to be the senior partner until his death. He is survived by four sons and one daughter. The funeral will be held Monday.

Kidney complaint kills more people than any other disease. This is due to the disease being so insidious that it gets a good hold on the system before it is recognized. Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent the development of fatal disease if taken in time. At all druggists.

Much Maneuvering in Election of Bishops in Conference.

William Quayle of Chicago Elected on Tenth Ballot.

No One is Chosen on the Eleventh Contest.

Baltimore, May 25.—There was no election of a bishop on the eleventh ballot.

Baltimore, May 25.—Rev. Dr. William A. Quayle, pastor of St. James church, Chicago, and a lecturer and author of wide repute, was elected bishop on the tenth ballot at the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, thus breaking the deed-lock which has existed since the second ballot. The vote which was taken last Saturday and counted today, resulted as follows:

Total 734; necessary to a choice 458.

Rev. Dr. William A. Quayle, Chicago, 519; Wilson S. Lewis, Sioux City, Iowa, 483; Homer C. Stuntz, Madison, N. J., 458; Charles W. Smith, Pittsburg, 444; Robert McIntyre, Los Angeles, 389; Edwin H. Hughes, Greencastle, Ind., 367; David G. Downey, New York, 317; Joseph B. Hingeley, Minneapolis 165; Daniel Dorchester, Jr., Pittsburg, 160; Richard J. Cooke, New York, 141, M. C. B. Mason, colored, Cincinnati, 138; Henry C. Jennings, Cincinnati, 136; Charles T. Goidell, New York, 131; Frank M. Bristol, Washington, D. C., 107.

Another ballot was taken for the remaining five bishops yet to be named and consideration of the report of the committee on education which formulated the details of the reorganization of the board of education, freemen's aid and Sunday schools into three separate societies resumed. This report was the special order last Friday, but was laid aside on Saturday for the presentation of the report of the committee on temperance.

O. P. Miller, treasurer, submitted the apportionments for general conference expenses as follows:

Northern Minnesota conference—Crookston district apportioned $302 and paid $203; Litchfield apportioned $403 and paid $277.90; Bradford paid $75; Duluth apportioned $503, paid $209; Minneapolis apportioned $805, paid $661.

TO BE WED IN FRANCE

Sagan-Gould Banns to be Published Next Sunday.

Each Party to Have Absolute Control of Own Fortune.

Paris, May 25.—M. Cachard, attorney for Mme. Anna Gould, who is at present engaged in preparing the contract for Mme. Gould's marriage to Prince Helie de Sagan, asks the Associated Press to deny absolutely the story that the couple were secretly married at Hoboken, N. J., on the eve of their departure from America last month. As stated in these dispatches, the Gould family's opposition to the marriage has been withdrawn. The banns will be published next Sunday and the marriage will take place a fortnight later, the French law requiring that the banns be published ten days in advance of the wedding. There will be both civil and religious ceremonies, the latter under the Protestant rite. The couple will be married under what is known in France as the Separation of Property Regime, each party to remain in absolute control of his or her own fortune, which, in the event of death, shall not pass to the survivor, but to the heirs of the deceased. After the marriage the couple will reside in France, the idea of selling Mme. Gould's magnificent mansion on the Avenue Malakoff, and country seat, the Chateau Marais, and living abroad, which was contemplated, having been abandoned.

Count Boni de Castellane, the divorced husband of Mme. Gould, is prepared, the moment the banns are published, to bring suit to transfer the charge of the children to himself, on the grounds that the prince is not fit to be a father. The count evidently is not yet apprised of the exact situation, as he imagines that Mme. Gould is still hesitating with regard to the marriage. He counts upon the continued opposition of George Gould, who, he says, is expected in Paris within a fortnight.

There is an intimation from sources friendly to Mme. Gould that Count Boni would not dare bring suit for the custody of his children, as it would assuredly provoke the revival of certain damaging matters, affecting him which, heretofore, have been held in reserve.

STABBED BY PARISHIONER

Father Lubeley of Salisbury, Mo., Attacked After Mass.

Severely Cut in Temple and in Neck by Assailant.

Sallsbury, Mo., May 25.—The Rev. Father Joseph F. Lubeley, aged 33 years, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church of Sallsbury, was stabbed twice with a pocket knife and perhaps fatally injured in church yesterday morning by Joseph Schuette, a prosperous farmer living near here, who is believed to have become suddenly demented. The stabbing occurred in view of forty worshippers, many of them women. The injuried man was taken to a nearby residence, where his wounds were attended to by physicians. His condition is critical.

Immediately after Father Lubeley had finished high mass, he started to leave the church. At the door he was rushed upon suddenly from behind by Schuette, who stabbed him twice, felling him. The first blow from the knife struck the priest in the temple and the second cut a deep gash in the neck, just missing the jugular vein. The crazy man was about to stab the priest a third time when Mrs. Barbara Ginter and John Gates, both members of the church, caught his uplifted hand. In the struggle which followed Schuette stabbed Mrs. Ginter in the hand and inflicted a painful cut on Gates' arm. A dozen men came to the aid of Mrs. Ginter and Gates, and overpowered Schuette. Struggling and fighting, he was taken to jail.

Glared Constantly at Priest.

During the service Schuette sat in the rear of the church. It is said he glared constantly at the priest as if in great rage. The forty worshipers were leaving the church and the priest stopped in the doorway to shake hands with a woman.

It was not until the priest fallen,

CONDUCTOR IS STABBED

St. Paul Man Receives Eight Wounds From Drunken Passenger.

St. Paul, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. A. Thern, a student conductor on the Interurban line, was badly stabbed in a fight with a drunken passenger Saturday night, and is now lying at Cobb's hospital in a serious condition.

Thorn was riding on the back platform, on his way home from work, when a drunken passenger boarded the car. The passenger became abusive when the regular of the car asked him for his fare, and finally seized the conductor. Thorn grabbed the passenger and, when the car stopped and the gates opened, threw him off. He was pulled off himself and the two men rolled in the street.

Thorn finally broke away and boarded the car. Then he found he had been stabbed and went to Cobb's hospital. There it was found he had received eight stab wounds on the arm and leg and, though none of them are fatal, yet there is danger from blood poisoning.

HEAVY RAINS HAVE PUT OUT BIG FOREST FIRES.

Washburn, Wis., May 25.—Forest fires which have raged in Bayfield county during the past couple of weeks, have at last been extinguished by the heavy rains of the past few days. The fires were mostly in the western part of the county in the cut-over timber district, but in some places much valuable standing timber was damaged. At one time the town of Iron River was completely surrounded by fire. Ashes and smoke almost choked people who happened to be out of doors. The town was not damaged.

HARRY K. THAW A LUNATIC; MUST REMAIN IN ASYLUM

Judge Decides That White's Slayer is Now Insane.

Orders That Writ of Habeas Corpus be Dismissed.

Both Points Brought by Thaw's Attorneys Are Overruled.

HARRY K. THAW.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 25.—Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, will not be released from the lunatic asylum. This is the decision reached by Justice Morschauser of the supreme court, in an opinion filed early this morning in the matter of Thaw's application for release on a writ of habeas corpus.

Both points brought up by Thaw's attorneys are decided against him. The justice declares that Thaw is now insane and should not be allowed at large, and he further declares that the commitment to the lunatic asylum by Justice Dowling, after the last trial of the case, was entirely legal.

Thaw's lawyers will today apply to the court for permission to place Thaw in some other institution than the Matteawan asylum, and by stipulation with the district attorney, the prisoner will be kept in the jail here until Justice Morschauser renders a decision. The justice is holding court at White Plains this week and will not be able to hear the application before next week.

The Judge's Decision.

Judge Morschauser's decision is as follows:

Upon application duly made, a writ of habeas corpus was allowed by which Harry K. Thaw was directed to be produced in court. In the petition, it is alleged, that said Thaw is illegally imprisoned and restrained of his liberty by Amos T. Baker, acting superintendent of Matteawan state hospital, a state institution for the insane.

Thaw's detention is attacked upon the grounds:

First—That he is now sane.

Second—That the act under the provision of which he was committed and detained is unconstitutional and the court was without jurisdiction to issue the order of commitment and such order was null and void.

The return on the writ alleges that said Thaw is now insane and that the statute providing for the confinement of said Thaw is constitutional and valid and that the court had jurisdiction to make the order of commitment.

The events leading up to the commitment of Thaw are, in brief, as follows:

On June 25, 1906, Thaw shot and killed one Stanford White. He was indicted for this act in the county of New York and the indictment charged him with murder in the first degree. On Jan. 23, 1907, he was brought to trial on this indictment and during the progress of this trial, on application of the district attorney under Section 658 of the code of criminal procedure, a commission was duly appointed to ascertain whether at the time of the trial said Thaw was in the state of idocy, lunacy or insanity so as to be incapable of rightly understanding his own condition, the nature of the charge against him and of conducting his defense in a rational manner. The commission afterwards returned to the court that it was their opinion that at the time of their examination, said Thaw was sane and was capable of understanding his own condition, and the nature of the charge against him and conducting his defense in a rational manner. This conclusion was reached in acordance with the purpose of the statute. The trial proceeded and resulted in a disagreement of

SUDDEN RISE IN RIVER AT DALLAS, TEX., CAUSES THE DEATH OF SEVERAL

Railway Bridge Goes Out and Six Men Are Drowned.

Fifty Families Are Marooned in Submerged Section of City.

Seven People Dead at Fort Worth—Storm in Oklahoma.

Dallas, Tex., May 25.—One man was drowned in sight of many people, who were powerless to save him; fifty families marooned in a submerged section of the city, the electrci power house engine rooms under water, street cars out of commission, two bridges destroyed and hundreds of people homeless in the suburbs, are a few of the results of a flood which followed a sadden and terrific rise in the Trinity river early today.

A section of the Texas & Pacific railway bridge went down at noon today. Fifteen men were thrown into the river, six being drowned.

At noon the river was still rising. The village of West Dallas, across the Trinity river, is partially inundated and hundreds of amilies were forced to seek higher places. The Commerce street bridge, spanning Trinity river, was partially washed away and there is no travel between the cities.

Street car bridges are under water and traffic over these lines has been

M. FALLIERES, President of France, Who Has Arrived in England on a Visit to King Edward.

FALLIERES IN ENGLAND

President of France Arrives for Visit to King Edward.

Given an Enthusiastic Naval Welcome on Reaching Dover.

Dover, May 25.—The French cruiser Leon Gambetta with President Fallieres and the members of his party on board, arrived here from Boulogne shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon. The visitors were given an enthusiastic naval welcome from the assembled British ships of war, under command of Lord Beresford.

Paris, May 25.—The series of important visits of the chiefs of state this summer which include the visit of President Fallieres to Scandinavia and St. Petersburg, and King Edward's visit to Emperor Nicolas, were inaugrated today with the departure of President Fallieres for London. The president, accompanied by Foreign Minister Pichon, traveled on a special train to Boulogne, where the party embarked on the French armored cruiser Leon Gambetta for Dover.

Great preparations have been made on the other side of the channel to give President Fallieres a reception worthy of the cordial relations existing between the two countries.

The Anglo-French press comments with enthusiasm on the important political results of these visits in cementing the Anglo-French-Russian understandings, which now are regarded almost as a new "Triple Alliance."

Boulonge, May 25.—The city was gayly decorated with flags and bunting in honor of the coming of President Fallieres, and he was given a splendid welcome. After greetings from the military and civil authorities, the president was presented with the keys of the city.

After these ceremonies the presidential party went on board the cruiser Leon Gambetta, which flew the flag of Vice Admiral Jauregulbe. Accompanied by a flotilla of torpedo boats and destroyers the cruiser then left for Dover.

BIG ENGINES IN COLLISION

Four Men Narrowly Escape Death in St. Paul Yard.

St. Paul, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four men narrowly escaped in a head-on collision between two trains which occurred on Bunker Hill in the Mississippi street railway yards at 5 o'clock Sunday morning.

A Wisconsin Central train was standing on the track waiting to be let into the yards when an Omaha train suddenly rounded the bend at Bunker Hill and the switch being open, entered the same track.

It had proceeded about five car lengths before the engineer discovered that he was confronted by a huge engine attached to another train. Then he and his fireman both leaped from the cab. The crew of the Wisconsin Central engine did likewise when they saw the danger in which they were placed.

They were just in time for the two great engines came together with a terrific crash and with such force that they were hurled from the track and their front portions reduced to scrap iron. Five of the Omaha cars, loaded with grain, were telescoped and transformed into kindling wood.

FIREMAN KILLED, ENGINEER HURT

In Collision of Two Freight Trains on Northern Pacific.

Fargo, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—A headon collision on the Northern Pacific railroad at Buffalo, forty miles west of here, this morning, caused the death of Fireman E. J. Rossiter, and Engineer R. J. Kaboe is thought to have been fatally injured. Both were brought to Fargo.

The trains were both freights, and it is claimed that a misunderstanding of orders caused the accident. The weather was very cloudy and foggy at the time of the collision.

SENSATION PROMISED

In Trial of Millionaire Clubman for Killing Cabman.

Gaston Philip Arraigned for Shooting Frank Macaboy.

Washington, May 25.—The trial of Gaston C. Philip, the millionaire clubman of New York and Washington and scion of a prominent family, who a year ago shot and killed Frank B. Macaboy, a cab driver, was begun today before Justice Job Barnard in criminal court No. 2.

Much interest is manifested in the trial and vigorous efforts will be made by counsel for the young clubman to substantiate his plea of self-defense it is said on the other hand that testimony of a sensational character will be brought out by the prosecution. The government is represented by Assistant District Attorneys McNamara and Turner, while the defense is represented by Henry E. Davis and A. I. Heyting.

The Arlington hotel was the scene and May 18, 1907, was the date of the tragedy. The two men came to the hotel, where Philip was a guest, after an all-night ride in the latter's automobile. It is said that Philip and Macaboy had quarreled over a fee the latter demanded for acting as guide. Philip entered the hotel and was followed to his room soon after by Macaboy. An altercation occurred in a corridor and a shot was fired. A bell boy summoned a clerk, who found Macaboy on the floor with Philip leaning over him, pistol in hand. The bullet had entered Macaboy's chest near the heart. The clerk who went to the fifth floor, where the shooting occurred, took a revolver from Philip and persuaded him to go to his room. Philip walked to his room, threw himself on the bed and was soon fast asleep, not realizing that he had fatally wounded his companion, who Minneapolis, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following a fire at the Hennepin Avenue Methodist church, Hennepin Avenue and Tenth street, last night, which did damage to the extent of $10,000, a huge chandelier, measuring fifteen feet in diameter, crashed to the floor and was reduced to wreckage. The congregation had been dismissed thirty minutes before.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by crossed wires, as the chandelier refused to light when the janitor turned it on early in the evening.

CONWAY HAD GOOD STORY

Climbed Over Hotel Transom to Get His "Lid."

Jury Acquits Him of the Charge of Burglary.

George Conway was acquitted in the district court this morning of the charge of burglary in the second degree. The jury decided that Conway's story as to how he happened to be caught in another man's room in the New Branch hotel in this city was plausible, and they gave him the benifit of the doubt.

The state claimed that Conway was caught in the room with burglarious intent; that he was about to steal something when the occupant of the room woke up and turned in an alarm.

Conway claimed that he was drunk, very drunk, in fact; that he was looking for the office of the hotel and happened to see a light through the transom of a room there. Unable to get in at the door, Conway claimed that he stood on the doorknob and, in peering over the transom he bumped his head and his hat fell inside the room. He had to get the hat, and the only way that suggested itself was to climb over the transom, which he did.

C. C. Colton defended Conway. The jury was out about twenty minutes.

The indictment charging Albert Brooks with grand larceny in the second degree was dismissed by Judge Ensign this morning on motion of the county attorney, and Brooks was discharged from custody. The dismissal was based on the fact that the state had insufficient evidence on which to go to trial. Brooks, it is claimed, stole $16 from a fellow woodsman in the Denver hotel of this city.

It was expected that the case of the state against Charles Heikkall, indicted for assault in the second degree, would come on for a trial at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Heikkall resides on the range.

CONFESS TO DYNAMITING

Four Street Car Strikers Are Under Arrest at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 25.—According to a statement given out by Chief of Police Kohler today, four striking conductors and motormen have confessed to taking part in the dynamiting of street cars in various parts of the city last week. These men are now in custody. It is also stated that a number of other arrests in connection with the dynamite outrages will be made today.

Cars on nearly all lines were operated on practically normal schedule today. No trouble of any kind has been reported.

A vote of non union men was taken today upon orders of A. B. Dupont, president of the traction company. If the vote of the non union men is in favor of their taking before the arbitration board an equal chance with the old employes for places, then the strikers will go back to work immediately, taking places secondary to the present motormen and conductors, until the arbitrators adjust the whole situation.

ESCAPED IN MEN'S CLOTHES

Arkansas Man Says He Has Letter From Mrs. Gunness.

Laporte, Ind., May 25.—Counsel representing Ray Lamphere, charged with the murder of Mrs. Bella Gunness and her three children, have received a letter from a man in Arkansas, whose name they will not make public, who positively declares that Mrs. Gunness escaped in men's clothing. The writer declares that he, not later than May 3, five days after she was burned to death according to the official statement of Coroner Mack, received a letter from her. He says he will produce this letter and turn over other letters and will also give additional information regarding her if he is personally interviewed by the officer either in Laporte or at his home in Arkansas. The writer is known to Mayor Darrow and H. K. Worden, attorneys for Lamphere, having formerly lived in Marshall county, this state, and therefore credence is placed in his statements.

"Duke" Got a Scare.

"Duke," the saucy little fox terrier pup, whose license is paid by John T. Lanigan, but who belongs to every "rounder" in Duluth, was the worst frightened dog in town today.

"Duke" was greatly excited by the circus parade, and set up a most persistent chorus of barks when the big wagons hove in sight. He would run up to each in turn and pay his tribute of barks. He was quivering with excitement, and was just warming up to his work in good shape, when the elephants came along. "Duke" did not see them until they were almost on top of him. Then his tail dropped, and with a frightened yelp he started for the tall uncut. He was still going when last seen, and he will probably be a sadder and wiser dog when found.

SENATE BEGINS "MARKING TIME"

Wastes Hour or More in Hearing Journal Read at Length.

Washington, May 25.—The senate began "marking time" again when it convened today. The journal was read at length in order to prevent the passage of any measures that might result in further delaying proceedings in the house.

During the reading of the journal Mr. Beveridge made the usual motion that the further reading be "dispensed with." He has been trying for several days to secure consideration for the government employes' liability bill and the bill providing that the date of packing shall be placed on canned meats. Mr. Kean, who had been placed "on guard" by the Republican leaders, objected on the ground that the clerk at that moment was reading a "most important report."

The reading continued and the senators poked a number of jibes at the Indiana senator, who received them with the utmost good nature.

STILL HOPE FOR AN AGREEMENT

By House and Senate on Some Portions of Currency Bills.

Washington, May 25.—The postponement of the final adjournment of congress has had the effect of causing a renewal of the efforts to bring about an understanding between the two houses on the currency question. There were no formal conferences today, but there have been some exchanges of views among invidual members of the senate committee on finance and the house committee on banking and currency, with the result that an informal proposition has been made for an adjustment which would include some of the provisions of both the Aldrich and the Vreeland bills. It is now suggested that the house might be brought to accept the emergency bond provision of the senate bill, providing the asset features of the house bill in modified form also could be incorporated in the proposed compromise measure.

Everybody Invited.

The impression seems to have gone forth that the copper smelter, being exhibited by the Union Smelting & Refining company, is for the benefit of mining men and mine owners only. We have been asked to correct this impression, and extend, on behalf of the above company, an invitation to every one desiring to see this smelting plant in miniature to call at the office of A. H. W. Eckstein, 301 Burrows building, where those in charge will be pleased to exhibit the plant and explain the system.

MOTHERS ARE HEARTBROKEN

Search Being Made for E. Zwald and Jules Westra.

Because Edwin Zwald and Jules Westra of Grand Rapids, Mich., decided to take their savings and seek their fortunes in the big outside world, without the knowledge of their parents, Mrs. Zwald, mother of Edwin, has worried herself into a condition in which her life is despaired of. The boys started West, and it is thought they may be in Duluth. The local police have been asked to help in the search for them. Zwald is 15 years old and Westra is 17. Both have light hair and blue eyes. They weigh 115 and 128 pounds respectively.

The mother of the Westra boy is also heart-broken over the disappearance of her son. Fruitless search has been made for the two boys, and they have been traced as far as Milwaukee. It is hoped they will inform their parents of their whereabouts. The lads left their homes the night of April 30, levaing notes, which stated that they intended to earn some money for themselves, and that they would ultimately return. They took their bank accounts, amounting to $35 with them.

They evidently intended to go to Bowdle, S. D., where the uncle of a companion lives. They inquired at Milwaukee for rates to Bowdle, but instead of going there immediately, purchased tickets to St. Paul. Fred Zwald, a brother of the missing lad, has been dear to Bowdle, but could find no trace of the wanderers, either there or at St. Paul. It is hoped the boys will in some way learn of the conditions at home, and will telegraph for money with which to return. As neither has anything to fear at home, it is probable that they will not take extra precautions to keep their location secret.

When they left Grand Rapids, Zwald wore a cap, had on a gray coat and sweater and dark, long trousers. Westra wore a cap and medium shade, checkered suit.

NELSON EXPLAINS.

Says Trouble Arose Over Misunderstanding Among House Members.

"Amendment inserted in senate read as follows; 'for additional site for United States postoffice and other government offices at Duluth, Minn., $95,000. Trouble in house occurred from fact that it was believed part of site already acquired was wanted for a street.'"

The foregoing telegram was received from Senator Knute Nelson this afternoon, and explains itself. The bill passed the senate after Senator Nelson had introduced the amendment making the appropriation for Duluth, as shown by an extract from house files, published in another column of The Herald this evening.

HE GOT OFF EASY.

Stearns County Man Who Stabbed Another, is Punished.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Warczecha of the town of Holding, who was indicted by the grand jury for assault in the second degree, entered a plea of guilty of assault in the third degree Saturday, for which he was given a sentence by Judge Taylor of thirty days in the county jail and $50 fine, together with the costs, which will probably amount to $100.

Warczecha, on the night of Jan. 22, at Holding, had a scrap with John Pyka, a dangerous weapon being used. The scrap was a free-for-all family fight, in which both Pyka's and Warczecha's were huddled up so that you couldn't tell which from t'other, and the outcome of it was that Frank Pyka was stabbed, which deed was alleged to have been done by a younger Warczecha boy. This lad was not arrested.

NELSON KNEW HIS BUSINESS

Story That Senator Misunderstood Situation Proves False.

That Senator Nelson did not misunderstand the situation at Duluth and that he was responsible for the $95,000 appropriation for a new postoffice site being included in the senate bill, is shown by a copy of the house files No. 21897 which was received in Duluth today.

One of the items in the bill, according to the copy of the files, reads "for additional site for United States postoffice and other government offices at Duluth, $95,000."

A dispatch from Washington to the morning paper yesterday, reads as follows: "Owing to a misunderstanding of the situation by Senator Nelson, the Duluth item of $95,000 for purchasing additional ground, came near going under."

Senator Nelson, according to the house files, understood the situation thoroughly, and the bill passed the senate with the Duluth item included.

ESTIMATES CUT AGAIN

Believed That Only 20,000,000 Tons of Ore Will be Moved.

Lake Carriers May Set Date for Start Late in June.

Estimates of the ore movement for 1908 have again been revised and the figures is now placed at 20,000,000 tons, or just one-half of the amount taken down the lakes in 1907. It is now said that the start will not be made much before June 15 and the general movement may not begin until July 1, after which there will be plenty of time to move every ton of ore the shippers care to have placed on the docks in lower lake ports.

Five cargoes of coal arrived in the Duluth-Superior harbor yesterday and this morning, the largest amount brought in here this season at any one time. The W. G. Pollock brought the first cargo to the Duluth dock of the Northwestern Fuel company, which still has a pretty large stock on hand from last season's shipments. All five boats have ore cargoes in sight for the return trip from the Allouez dock.

Cleveland coal shippers that have small cargoes are having trouble moving them and in some cases, advances over the regular rates to the Copper country range from 30 to 50 cents. Practically all of the coal taken to the Head of the Lakes and Lake Michigan ports has been by contract vessels.

Owners of small boats cannot break even carrying coal to the Head of the Lakes and returning light, and, on account of the scarcity of the cargoes here, there are few vessels of that class on the market. The lumber shippers have about all they can do to care for their own vessels and there is very little demand for outside tonnage in that trade.

The Allouez docks continue to ship ore pretty regularly and the shipments for May will be quite heavy, although nothing approaching the record of normal years. At the Missabe docks, the movement is about over for the time and the meeting of the Lake Carriers at Cleveland June 1 will decide future movements.

STEAMERS RELEASED.

Manch Chunk and Rhodes Proceed on Their Way.

Cheboygan, Mich., May 25.—The steamer Manch Chunk, which went aground on Lighthouse Point Saturday, was released that night. She apparently was not damaged and proceeded on her way down the lakes.

The wrecker Favorite released the steamer Joshua Rhodes yesterday afternoon from Grace Harbor, where she was stranded Saturday. About 600 tons of coal were jettisoned before she was free. The Rhodes left for Milwaukee last night, with one or two of her compartments filled with water.

TRIAL TRIP SOON.

Finishing Touches Being Put on New Steamer Durston.

The finishing touches are now being put on the steamer E. F. Durston, which was launched at the Superior shipyards Saturday and the boat will be ready for its trial trip in about ten days. The machinery and furnishings were nearly all installed before the boat was sent into the water, and there is comparatively little to be done on it before it is ready to go into commission.

The A. E. Nettleton, which was launched at Wyandotte April 11, has been taken over by the Wilkinson Transportation company, which also owns the Durston. The company, which is new in marine circles, will not become active until about July 1. A watchman will be put on the Nettleton and it will be held at Detroit until the company is ready to start.

Excursionists Arrive.

The steamer Huronic of the Northern Navigation company arrived from Port Arthur this morning with seventy-five excursionists, celebrating Victoria day by making a trip to the United States. The crowd was smaller than expected, on account of the rain at Port Arthur yesterday and the unfavorable prospects. The boat had a good trip through the fog, however.

Shoals in Harbor.

Chief Engineer Strale of the Inland Steel company, reports that there are a number of sandy shoals in the approach to Indiana harbor which have depths of from 15 to 19 feet over them, and which are not shown on the charts. Until a new survey is made of this locality mariners should use caution in approaching the harbor. It is the intention of the company in the near future to establish a light on the head of the north pier. Further notice will be given when this light is exhibited.

FISHERMEN HAVE WET EXPERIENCE

Duluth Nimrods After Brook Trout Found Conditions Bad.

The local fishermen who turned a deaf ear to the weather forecast for Sunday in the Lake Superior region, returned to their homes sadder and wiser last evening.

Even though the weather man announced that he would hand this district a "northeaster," few had any idea that he would overdo it. The fellows who spent the day tramping in the rain along nearby streams, wet underbrush and woods and then walked or drove home in a soaking rain, backed by a gale, will not soon forget their experience.

Many Duluth parties left Saturday evening for nearby trout streams to be on hand for the early morning fishing, while many others drove to the streams at an early hour Sunday morning. The men first on the stream got a few hours' fishing without the rain, but those who did not get started until nearly noon were unlucky.

The steady rain not only discolored the water in the streams, but by last evening some of the streams were raging torrents.

THIS IS CIRCUS DAY IN DULUTH

Campbell Brothers' Shows Will be Seen at Two Performances.

Campbell Brothers' great consolidated shows are here today. Their circus tents are pitched at Thirty-second avenue west and Third street.

The show arrived yesterday and the lot was immediately covered with straw so that the ground would not become wet. The arena is hard today and the waterproof tents insure protection for those who go. There will be a complete performance this afternoon and this evening.

The circus came on two special trains early yesterday morning and the work of hauling the equipment to the lot began at once. Only such tents as were actually needed were pitched yesterday, the larger ones not going up until this morning.

Although it rained most of the time many visitors were attracted to the lot yesterday to get a peek at the fascinating circus wagons and the menagerie. The Campbells have a well fed, well groomed bunch of ring and work stock and a very complete collection of wild animals.

Many people viewed the parade on the principal down town streets this morning. It was exactly a mile long and contained all of the looked-for features. The costumes and equipment all looked bright and new.

CHARGE IS 'SHORT CHANGING.'

Harry Wade, Professional Tattoo Man, Placed in Jail.

Harry Wade, charged with having attempted to short change the clerk in a Park Point store, was arrested, Saturday afternoon, by Detective Irvine. It is claimed that he entered the store at the south end of the aerial bridge and presented a $2 bill in payment for a package of tobacco.

He was given $1.95 change, and as soon as he had the money he threw a nickle on the counter, saying: "Why, here is a nickle, you can give me the bill back."

He denied that he had been given any change. Detective Irvine happened to be passing and he was summoned into the store. The arrest followed. Wade says he is a professional tattoo artist. The police think he may be following the circus, which is in town today.

DESERTER GIVES HIMSELF UP

Left Army While Intoxicated—Wants to be Reinstated.

Remorse overtook Leon H. Porter, a deserter from the United States army, and today he is held a prisoner at the local recruiting office. He will be delivered to the government officials at Fort Brady, Mich., from which post Porter deserted.

In voluntarily surrendering himself to the Duluth military authorities Porter hopes to be reinstated in the army after judgment has been passed upon his case. He claims that he deserted the army while under the influence of liquor, on May 17, after having served for about a year.

With head hanging low, and the look of shame in his face, Porter walked into the recruiting office and announced that he was a deserter from the army and that he was ready to take the consequences for his act. He was placed under arrest and will be returned to Fort Brady under military guard.

The young man says he had no intention of deserting the army and is sorry for the act. He is ready to take any punishment that the government officials may deem necessary in the case. His greatest hope is that eventually he may be allowed to rejoin the army.

LITTLE DOUBT OF KITTSON'S FATE

"Fisherman's Favorite" Probably Perished With North.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a search of fifteen hours for the body of Alex Kittson, who with Joe North left the dock here about one month ago, presumably for a trip across the lake, the searching party was unable to find Kitson's body. At first there was a slight suspicion of foul play on Kittson's part, but all doubt of this was overcome when the posse discovered the rowboat they left in, near Cedar island. They also found Kittson's coat and a part of the provisions the men had. There is little doubt that Kittson was also drowned. Indian Agent Smith has sent out another posse of Indians to search the lake for Kittson's body.

The body of North was taken to Bemidji Sunday by Deputy Coroner Lake. The deceased is not known to have any relatives. He made his living chiefly by hunting and fishing. Shortly prior to being drowned he was under the eye of the game wardens, as he is said to have ignored the game and fish laws.

Kittson was known as the "fisherman's favorite." Living in this section for the past fifteen or twenty years, he became acquainted with every spot on the lake and in the forest. He was a son of Commodore Kittson of St. Paul and served several years in the army. He is survived by a wife and one daughter.

MISSED LEADING CHURCH MEMBER

Pastor Could Not See Him Behind Merry Widow Hat.

Newburgh, N. Y., May 25.—"Let me say this: If there is anything that will destroy the spirit of worship it is the Merry Widow hat standing between you and the preacher," said the Rev. J. H. Reid, in the course of an address to the Young Women's Christian association. During the week Dr. Reid is editor of the Walden Citizen. On Sunday he is acting pastor of the Congregational church of this city.

"Every dress," he said, "should be a work of art, and the laws of art and health should govern rather than those of fashion. Don't bring your large hats, with great plumes, to church. The other night I missed from my congregation the face of a man who is always present, and whose presence always inspires me. I wondered why he was absent. After a time I found that while he was really present, he was totally eclipsed by a Merry Widow hat."

IS KNOCKED FROM TRAIN.

Circus Employe Run Over and Nearly Killed.

Brainerd, Minn., May 25.—(Special to the Herald.)—Lying all night in the cold beside the Northern Pacific railroad tracks near Wheelock, with one leg crushed at the ankle, was the fate of George Rickard, a laborer with the Campbell Bros.' show, which passed through here Friday evening enroute to the iron range from Staples. Rickard was found by Conductor Feathers who went east on an extra freight, passing Brainerd early Saturday morning. Rickard was brought to Brainerd and placed in the Nothern Pacific hospital, where his leg was amputated at the ankle. He is resting easily and will live. According to his story he was knocked from the circus train, which passed here about 9 o'clock in the evening and was unnoticed by the passenger trains which passed in the night, and was conscious when found after day light.

FLOODWOOD'S NEW BANK.

Floodwood, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Floodwood organized a state bank last week, with a capital of $10,000. When the time came for subscriptions it was found that nearly $15,000 was subscribed and some of the monied men were compelled to cut down the amount of their subscriptions. This shows a prosperous condition of the village, as nearly all the shareholders are of Floodwood. The officers have not been elected yet, but the following will probably make up the list: M. H. Schusseler, president; A. D. Haish, vice president; C. D. Rutherford, cashier; W. A. Baune and M. W. Johnson, directors.

HARRY K. THAW, A LUNATIC, MUST REMAIN IN ASYLUM

the jury. On the sixth of January, 1908, said Thaw was again tried on said indictment and acquitted on the ground of insanity.

Sent Thaw to Asylum.

Thereupon, the learned justice presiding at the trial, upon the evidence made an order reciting the verdict and that the court deemed the discharge of said Thaw at that time to be dangerous to public safety, and directing that said Thaw be detained in safe custody and be sent to the Matteawan state hospital, there to be kept until discharged by due process of law.

The proof and evidence on the part of the respective parties have been ably presented and the matter has been submitted.

Thaw, at the time of his trial for homicide, as a defense, pleaded insanity and presented proof to show his insanity at the time of the killing of White and, by the proof offered in his behalf, the jury was convinced that he was insane and acquitted him upon that ground.

I am satisfied from the evidence adduced before me, that the mental condition of Harry K. Thaw has not changed and I find that he is now insane and that it is so manifest as to make it unsafe for him to be at large.

To review the voluminous evidence adduced on the hearing would necessarily lend them this opinion.

Thaw was committed pursuant to Section 451 of the code of criminal procedure, which reads as follows:

"Section 454. When a defendant acquitted on the ground of insanity, the fact to be stated with the verdict—commitment of defendant to state lunatic asylum.

"When the defense is insanity of the defendant, the jury must be instructed, if they acquit him on that ground, to state the fact with their verdict. The court must, thereupon, if the defendant be in custody, and they deem his discharge dangerous to the public peace or safety, order him to be committed to the state lunatic asylum until he becomes sane."

The question of the constitutionality of this law is assailed by the relator in that he claims there was no notice given to Thaw of a hearing, upon the question of insanity, that no hearing was accorded to him; that he has been deprived of his liberty without due process of law, and that the statute under which he was committed does not provide a method by which his mental condition as then existing, should be legally ascertained, or any method by which his sanity could be shown.

The people contend that Thaw was not deprived of his liberty without due process of law, because he knew that if he chose to prove upon the trial of the indictment that he was insane when he killed Stanford White, and if that defense was successful and the jury acquitted him of the charge against him on that ground, it became the duty of the court, if it deemed his discharge dangerous to the public peace or safety, to order him to be committed to the state lunatic asylum until such time as he should be legally adjudged sane. He had the right to appear in person and to be represented by counsel, and he had the right to introduce evidence of his present sanity.

If, upon the evidence and the verdict of the jury, the court should decide his discharge to be dangerous to the public peace and safety, and commit defendant to an insane hospital until sane, under the provisions of Section 454 of the code of criminal procedure, and Thaw, having had this opportunity of a full hearing, this right to be present in person and by counsel, this right of offering proof in his own behalf, as to his present sanity and to be fully heard in his own behalf, there was no violation of Article 1, Section 6, of the constitution of the state of New York, nor of Article XIV of the United States Constitution.

Thaw Had Opportunity.

Thaw had the opportunity on the trial to introduce evidence of his mental condition at that time, which he did not do; he should have known that the adjudication of the court would follow a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity; he was represented by able counsel, who urged the jury before whom he was tried upon a charge of homicide, to acquit him because of his insanity.

I have made a careful examination of the authorities and I do not find that this statute has ever been passed upon by any of the courts in this state. It has been in existence and operation for many years without question, and it is the duty of the court to presume in favor of the validity of the statute until its violation of the Constitution is established beyond all reasonable doubt, and upon such a determination, the result which may follow from one construction or another is always a potent factor and is sometimes in and of itself conclusive.

In construing this statute, it should be borne in mind that the safety and welfare of the community is of more importance than the freedom of the individual.

It is well settled that where there is a right of appeal, no court should declare in the first instance a statute unconstitutional unless its unconstitutionality is plain, especially when the statute has been long in force and its constitutionality has never been questioned. This may well be the rule when the effect of a declaration of unconstitutionality would be to free from needful restraint a number of persons of unsound mind, of whom it has been adjudged by competent courts that their going at large would be dangerous to the public peace or safety.

The relator claims that the statute does not provide a method by which Thaw can be discharged.

Method Provided for Discharge.

Section 29 of the insanity law provides "Any inmate not a convict, help upon an order of a court or judge in a criminal proceeding, may be discharged therefrom upon the superintendent's certificate of recovery, made to and approved by such court or judge."

I believe no injustice has been done to Thaw or will be done to him by depriving him of his liberty until such time as he can be discharged by the method prescribed by law.

Bearing in mind that the usual punishment for the act which led up to the detention of said Thaw is death, or a long term of imprisonment and that said Thaw escaped the consequences of such an act solely by reason of his existing mental condition, I do not deem it proper to allow Thaw his freedom, suffering as he is from some form of insanity, the possible recurrence of an attack similar to that which the jury believed he was suffering from he killed Stanford White.

In view of this existing mental condition of said Thaw, the safety of the public is better insured by his remaining in custody and under observation until he has recovered or until such time as it shall be reasonably certain that there is no danger of a recurrence of the delusion or whatever it may be.

The writ is dismissed. The order remanding the said Harry K. Thaw can be settled on notice pursuant to stipulation.

Thaw Talks.

After James G. Graham, his attorney, had shown him a copy of Judge Morschauser's opinion, Harry K. Thaw gave the reporters an interview as he more volubly about his case. He talked unreservedly on everything except his wife, and when her suit for annulment of their marriage was mentioned, he stood up and indicated that the interview was at an end.

His chief theme was the newspaper reports of the evidence on his trial. Much testimony favorable to him, he asserted, was not published, probably because it did not appear to the reporters interesting, while undue prominence was given District Attorney Jerome's cross-examination of Thaw's experts, because Jerome knew how to make it interesting. He said:

"Take for instance Dr. Jacoby. His direct testimony was conclusive, but not interesting; his cross-examination under Mr. Jerome was interesting and the newspapers printed it. Probably I should have done the same as the reporters in the same position."

Thaw did not discuss the action of the court. He said that Mr. Jerome had done what he deemed his duty.

Asked about a report that Evelyn Thaw would withdraw her annulment suit in order to have herself appointed a committee of her husband's property, Thaw said he had no fear of any such action. That was cheerful for a man who had just heard bad news.

Mrs. Thaw, Harry's mother, and Mrs. George Carnegie, his sister, visited him in jail today.

BASEBALL SEASON OPEN.

Parade Headed by Brass Band Inaugurates Eveleth Season.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local baseball season was opened up Saturday in a fitting style. A parade through the streets from the hotel by the Eveleth and Columbia teams, headed by a brass band, livened up the enthusiasm. At the park, Mayor Smith threw the first ball, opening up the season. The local team appeared for the first time in new light gray uniforms, making a fine showing. The men were roundly cheered as they took the field. About 350 witnessed a fast game, which was marred somewhat by the wildness of Bonham, the Columbia pitcher, who seemed unable to fing the plate. His place was taken, near the end of the game, by Owens, who fared a little better. Gebeau for the locals pitched a steady game, allowing but two safe hits. Metcalf, the local fielder, led the batting with two hits. Butch Kennelly, at first base, has become very popular with the fans in the short while he has been here. The final score was 9 to 2 in favor of Eveleth. Batteries, for Eveleth, Gebeau and Johnson; for the Columbias, Bonnam, Owens and Foster.

The Sunday game was called off on account of rain. Two fast games have been secured for Memorial day and Sunday with the Chisholm team on the local grounds.

The Hibbing high school team came over Saturday and in a five-inning game, beat the local high school team by a score of 11 to 5. The local team secured quite a lead in the first inning, but this was easily cut down by the Hibbing heavy hitters. A great deal of the score is attributed to the nervousness of the local players. A few Hibbing rooters accompanied their team. Corbin and Andrews did the heavy work for the local high school, while Hooker and Cobb were on the points for Hibbing. A return game will be played at Hibbing in two weeks.

The second team went over to Aurora Sunday to play the team of that town, and playing on a very muddy field were taken in camp by a score of 13 to 12. Batteries—Eveleth, Brinker and Shapiro; Aurora, Spaulding and Hoskins.

FLY TO PIECES.

The Effect of Coffee on Highly Organized People.

"I have been a coffee user for years, and about two years ago got into a very serious condition of dyspepsia and indigestion. It seemed to me I would fly to pieces. I was so nervous that at the least noise I was distressed, and many times could not straighten myself up because of the pain.

"My physician told me I must not eat any heavy or strong food, and ordered a diet, giving me some medicine. I followed directions carefully, but kept on using coffee and did not get any better. Last winter my husband, who was away on business, had Postum Food Coffee served to him in the family where he boarded.

"He liked it so well that when he came home he brought some with him. We began using it and I found it most excellent. While I drank it my stomach never bothered me in the least, and I got over my nervous troubles. When the Postum was all gone we returned to coffee, then my stomach began to hurt me as before and the nervous conditions came on again.

"That showed me exactly what was the cause of the whole trouble, so I quit drinking coffee altogether and kept on using Postum. The old troubles left again and I have never had any trouble since.' "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

VERY BOLD ROBBERY

Highwaymen Assault Man in View of Hundreds of People.

Pat Collins, Well Known to the Police, is Captured.

Three highwaymen attempted to rob John Scott on Superior street Saturday night, near Fifth avenue west. It was 9 o'clock in the evening, and hundreds of pedestrains were passing. The police say it was one of the boldest and most daring holdups ever attempted in the city. One of the three, Pat Collins, well known to the police, was captured, but the other two escaped, after putting up a fight against Patrolman Henry Mason.

Singling him out from the Saturday night crowd, the three men suddenly pinned Scott against the front of a saloon, two of them choking him into silence, while the third went through his pockets. Passersby thought it was a friendly wrestling match, and did not interfere. Patrolman Mason witnessed the struggle from across the street, and ran to the assistance of the victim. After clubbing one of the thugs and felling him to the pavement, he grabbed the other two and started with them toward the patrol box.

They had gone only a few steps when the two men attacked the officer. In spite of the blows rained on his face, Mason held the pair until he got to Michigan street. He made repeated requests of men in the curious throng surrounding them for help, but no one volunteered. Encouraged by the cowardliness of the men looking on, the robbers put up a desperate fight as they reached Michigan street, and Mason was knocked down by a blow on the abdomen. He struggled to his feet, and before the men could get away he swung his club on the head of one of them and knocked him down. The other abandoned the struggle and made a quick getaway, disappearing in the darkness down the street.

The captured thug was taken to the station, where he was found to be Pat Collins, a well-known police character. Mason gave a general alarm at headquarters, and in a few minutes Detectives Schulte, Irvine, Terry and Walsh were on the trail of the two highwaymen. One suspect was arrested, but Mason could not identify him. Collins has a bad record. He and a pal were arrested in Superior a few months ago in connection with the Lakeside robberies, but nothing was proven against him. He was sent to the workhouse in Superior for carrying concealed weapons.

Collins was arraigned in police court just before noon. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of attempted robbery in the first degree and was bound over to the grand jury.

SUDDEN RISE IN RIVER

suspended. Traffic on the interurban line, between Dallas and Fort Worth, has been discontinued. A section of the Texas & Pacific railway bridge has been washed away and service to the West side has been abandoned.

In the city proper there is likely to be much distress, as the water and light companies have been closed down, their plants having been flooded. A section of the Santa Fe railroad bridge has gone down and traffic over this line has been temporarily discontinued.

The financial loss will be heavy. People living along the river, below the city, were not prepared for the sudden rise. It came without warning, and during the early hours of the morning there were many narrow escapes from drowning. Owners of livestock were forced to remove their animals from the river bottom. A number of cattle and horses were carried away by the flood. This section of the city is peopled by the poor classes and there is already much distress among them.

Seven Dead at Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Tex., May 25.—Seven people are known to be dead, 5,000 are homeless, a dozen or more are reported to have been killed in Fort Worth and North Fort Worth as a result of the greatest rise in the history of the Trinity river, which beginning at 7:30 Saturday evening reached a climax at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. Five of the deaths occurred yesterday and two Saturday night.

Following the torrential rains of Saturday and yesterday, a volume of seven inches, the river went three inches above the record breaking flood of 1889.

Stock valued at many thousands of dollars, including 2500 sheep penned up in the stock yards in North Fort Worth was washed down stream and destroyed. The property loss cannot be estimated as yet. The paralysis of railroad service is almost total.

A woman, a child and three men, represent the known victims of the flood. The dead body of the woman floated past the foot of East Fourth street about daylight yesterday and created a panic among negro refugees.

Muskogee, Okla., May 25.—Not a railroad in Oklahoma was in operation last night as the result of the heavy rains and cloudbursts that have occurred in various parts of the state during the past three days. The last road to suspend operations was the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, which was forced to quit at noon yesterday when the bridge on the main line at Eufaula went down. To add to the disaster, the main supplying natural gas to the Indian Territory part of the state was carried away with the Clarksville bridge late today and the supply of gas for Muskogee and several other cities in the southeast part of the state has been entirely cut off.

seriously injured, that the parishioners realized what had happened. Frightened women shrieked and several swooned.

Schuette struggled desperately with his captors and refused to be quieted, even when his wife and five children, who had accompanied him to mass, hurried to his side. He was taken to jail struggling desperately.

Physicians, who were summoned to the house where Father Lubeley had been taken in an unconscious condition following the attack, dressed his wounds. The priest quickly regained his senses and despite the wound in his throat directed those about him. Later Father Lubeley had this to say of the affair:

Attacked From Behind.

"He attacked me from behind and I had no chance to defend myself. Fortunately, the first thurst of the knife grazed my temple. It would have killed me had it struck me direct. The doctors tell me the second blow missed my jugular vein by a narrow margin.

"Schuette and I were the best of friends and I never did anything consciously to incur his enmity. He must have lost his reason."

Another version of the attempted assassination is that Father Lubeley had publicly reprimanded Schuette for attacking a member of the congregation last Saturday.

MURDER TRIAL BEGINS.

New York, May 25.—What is expected to be the final scene in the Lamp Black swamp mystery was begun in Jersey City today, when Theodore S. Whitmore of Brooklyn was placed on trial, charged with the murder of his wife, Lena. Mrs. Whitmore's body was found in the swamp near Harrison, N. J., five months ago.

TROLLEY CARS IN COLLISION

Two Persons Killed and Many Hurt in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, May 25.—The street car accident late last night near Chestnut Hill Park, about twelve miles from the center of the city, in which two persons were killed and more than forty were injured, was one of the worst trolley crashes that has occurred here for a number of years.

The dead are:

MARY J. WAGNER, aged 44 years of Cornwall, Pa., and CHARLES ALLEBACH of this city.

All the injured probably will recover, although several are in a serious condition.

Six cars carrying more than 200 persons were involved in the accident. An open car, heavily loaded, was returning to the city, and when on the crest of a steep hill became unmanageable. The motorman shut off power and applied the brakes. The brake chain parted and the car ran backward down the hill at great speed. It crashed into the car following it and the force of the collision sent the second car back into a third and other cars at the bottom of the hill. All the trolleys were badly wrecked and scarcely a person in them escaped without injury, it being necessary to remove more than forty to hospitals. All the injured persons resided in this city. There were numerous cases of fractured limbs, but most of the injured suffered from lacerations.

The crashes of the cars and cries of the injured roused the quiet suburb of Chestnut Hill into instant action, and the residents formed themselves into rescue bands until the police and hospital physicians arrived. The injured, who were scattered all over the roadway were removed to the nearby residences and cared for. Later those who could not be sent to their homes were removed to the hospitals.

THE GROSS EARNINGS TAX.

The supreme court of the United States has declared the Texas law taxing railroads upon their gross earnings unconstitutional on the ground that it is an attempt to tax interstate business, which the court holds cannot be done by a state.

While there are marked differences between the gross earnings law of Minnesota and that of Texas, it is very interesting and suggestive to find that the point upon which the supreme court has ruled out the Texas law apparently applies also to Minnesota.

The Texas law taxed railroads 1 per cent upon their gross receipts when they lie wholly within the state. The decision is to the effect that even if the railroads are wholly within the state, the larger part of their earnings comes from interstate business, and that the conclusion that the law taxes interstate commerce is irresistible.

The Minnesota gross earnings law certainly taxes interstate business, too. It is aimed only at such part of the railroads as lie within the state, taxing them at 4 per cent upon their gross earnings. The tax applies to all intrastate business, and to a proportion of the interstate business "based upon the proportion of the mileage within the state to the entire mileage upon which such business is done." The tax only reaches the intrastate part of the traffic, but it certainly does involve interstate business, as the very language of the law clearly proves.

Minnesota's gross earnings law, we believe, has never been attacked in the supreme court of the United States. It is constitutional insofar as the Minnesota constitution is concerned, though it is wholly at war with the governing principles of taxation under the Minnesota constitution. It is, in fact, a part of the constitution itself.

The railroads will not test the law in the United States courts, because they are well satisfied with it. But that opens the way for a fair inquiry whether, if it is so eminently satisfactory to the railroads, it wouldn't pay the people to test it. Certainly railroads do not pay as much taxes as they would if their property was assessed upon a valuation basis, as other property is assessed and taxed. Real estate pays 12 to 15 per cent upon its gross earnings, as a rule, and the railroads are let off with 4 per cent.

The gross earnings tax is simple, convenient, and has much to recommend it. But in the form in which it has been fastened upon the state, under which the entire tax goes to the state and nothing whatever to the local subdivisions, great injustice is worked to the terminal cities, and in none is this injustice so marked as it is in Duluth, where approximately one-third of the property in point of valuation is wholly exempt from local taxes and assessments because it is railroad property and pays its taxes to the state.

The report of the supreme court decision at hand is meager, but it would seem very probable that if the Texas gross earnings law is unconstitutional, Minnesota's is unconstitutional, too. While the Minnesota law works reasonably well, it does not yield enough taxes, and as those that it does yield are not properly distributed, it might be a good thing to have it destroyed.

THE Y. M. C. A.

The opening of the new home of the Duluth Young Men's Christian association this week affords occasion for congratulating the association and the city that this valuable institution is in such flourishing condition. It is a great credit to the city, and a fine commentary upon the enterprise of the association's managers and the generosity of the citizens who contributed to the erection and furnishing of the new building.

The Y. M. C. A. has become a necessary adjunct to metropolitan life. It furnishes an excellent substitute for home influences to thousands of young men. For the youth of the city whose homes are elsewhere, and who are condemned to the loneliness of the boarding house or rooming house, it provides reading rooms, gymnasium, religious services, night schools, an employment agency, baths—in short, it combines in itself the functions of a home, a club and a fraternal association.

Few cities of Duluth's size—if any—are so well equipped in this respect. The new building, erected at a total cost of $210,000 and furnished at a cost of $25,000, is sightly, convenient and elaborately equipped. The association membership numbers 2,500, a splendid showing in itself. Nothing seems to have been overlooked in the effort to provide every possible facility for the pleasure and profit of its members. It will be the home of many of them, and for all it will be a safe, wholesome and pleasant place where idle hours may be turned to social, physical, mental and spiritual benefit.

FROM HOMES TO HOTELS.

While it is not much in evidence in the West, there has been in the past few years a very marked tendency in the larger cities, particularly among the well-to-do and the rich, to abandon the old-fashioned home and resort to the modern hotel.

"A notable phenomenon in this city and in other large towns," says the Chicago Evening Journal, "is the increasing number of people who are abandoning the home for the hotel and apartment house. It is estimated that during the last ten years no less than $50,000,000 has been expended on hotels in New York city, while the number of residents in the hotels and apartment houses is estimated at half a million.

"The growth of hotels in Chicago and the number of people who live in them present an interesting parallel. Not only have many new hostelries been built during the past decade, but at least two more huge structures are projected. If the tendency toward hotel life continues to increase, it will not be long before a majority of citizens who can afford the luxury will prefer the hotel to the home.

"And what is the reason for this striking development of these palatial structures? There are many reasons. In the first place, living in a hotel or apartment house is less expensive than living in equal luxury in a private house. The servant problem, which is most difficult for modern householders to deal with, is settled. The necessity of keeping up appearances also is brushed aside, while the entertainment of many guests is made unnecessary."

While this condition does not prevail in the West to anything like the extent it does in the East, and the change is undoubtedly less noticeable even in Chicago than it is in New York, there is no reason to hope that it will be confined to the East. It is certain to spread westward, and if Chicago gets it Duluth will ultimately have to deal with it, also.

And it is a bad, a menacing thing. It means, so far as a large element in the population is concerned, the utter destruction of the home life upon which we have prided ourselves so much, and upon which much of the nation's strength has been built. The element that is abandoning the home for the hotel, too, is the element that is best fitted by virtue of its wealth to provide a strong impulse toward better things in the nation. Yet when it gives up the comfort and congeniality of the home for the luxuries and hothouse living of the hotel, this element ceases to be a source of hope, and becomes a source of danger.

What can be expected of children denied the wholesome surroundings of a comfortable home, and brought up under the contaminating, unnatural and utterly false influences of a public hotel?

It is perhaps fortunate, in a way, that the people who prefer hotels to homes do not have children. The average family in the luxurious hotels and apartment houses consists of two—man and wife. Here and there one may possibly find a spoiled child, but the merry ring of child voices is seldom heard in the places for which these people have forsaken the American home.

THE PLAYGROUND MOVEMENT.

The organization of the Duluth playground association Saturday provided the basis for a movement that will be of incalculable benefit to the city and its people.

Properly supported by the enlightened citizens of Duluth, this association is certain to become a power for good. Without some such organization the playground movement would be intermittent, feeble and ineffective. With it, the movement can be made tangible, forcible, and productive of real results. The members have taken hold of it like people that mean business, and their preliminary plans are promising, while the officers elected are of a character to assure energetic and effective work.

Everybody believes in public playgrounds. Everybody realizes that in the cities, as well as in the country, children must have a place to play, and that if they do not have it their physical and therefore their mental and moral development must be stunted. Everybody sees, too, the dangers and disadvantages of leaving the children no place to play except the streets.

Yet to accomplish results, something more than a mere inert belief is needed. Belief must be galvanized into positive action, and that is what the playground association is for. It affords a center for unified work, a means of transmuting public sympathy into public activity.

Given public sympathy with a movement like this, and an organization in the hands of active citizens, there is yet one thing needed, and that is money. Playgrounds cost money, and until the city is in a position to spend more than it can now private funds must be used. These will come through membership fees, to start with, and everybody who believes in this work should join, paying $1 a year as associate members, $10 as sustaining members, or $100 as life members.

Get into the work and join the association.

A GINGERLY APPROACH.

Congress, with a view to the coming election, has taken action upon tariff revision. It hasn't changed any schedules; it hasn't threatened any serious attack upon the special privileges that are guarded by criminal tariff rates; its action has not brought the pallor of fear to the cheek of any trust.

With an agreement that nothing should be done about it until after the campaign is over, congress has passed resolutions providing that committees of its members shall, when they get around to it and feel that it will be perfectly safe, investigate the tariff schedules in the Dingley law and see what ought to be done about them.

The complacency with which the trusts have accepted this congressional action "toward tariff revision" is not difficult to understand. The investigation is to be made by the senate committee on finance, of which Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island is chairman, and by the house committee on ways and means, of which Congressman Payne of New York is titular chairman, but of which Speaker Cannon is the absolute monarch.

No wonder the trusts are not alarmed. Aldrich, who controls the senate finance committee, is the special envoy of plutocracy in the senate, all-powerful and ever-devoted to the interests of his constituents, the trusts. The house ways and means committee was selected by Speaker Cannon, the autocrat of the house and the special envoy of the "interests" in that body.

This is "tariff revision by the friends of the tariff" with a vengeance.

Under such auspices, tariff revision will be a farce, and that is exactly what the conspirators in the employ of the trusts wish to make it.

Tariff revision, to be worth while, must be done not by the "friends of the tariff" in the sense that the phrase is commonly used, meaning the friends of the trusts, but by the friends of the people.

The people have very few friends upon the house committee on ways and means and the senate committee on finance. Yet it is these two committees that are to investigate the tariff and probably prepare a new tariff law to replace the infamous Dingley law.

The people will be in luck if that new law is not more damnable than the Dingley law; if it does not, indeed, rivet the chains more securely upon the American people and make their serfdom to the "interests" more shamefully abject.

There is one way to head off this result, however, and that is to alter the make-up of congress. Little can be done with the senate, but it is possible to change the entire membership of the house. The Republicans will have a chance to retain their majority in the house by nominating strong candidates in place of the present incumbents who are bound to the wheels of the Cannon machine; candidates that will serve the people instead of the interests. If the Republican party fails to show good faith in this way, and goes into the campaign with its Cannons, its Paynes, its Dalzells, its Shermans and its Tawneys about its neck, the next house will be Democratic as surely as Nov. 3 rolls around.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

J. H. Dunleavy, who hails from Atlanta, Ga., was discussing with a crowd of traveling men at the Lenox last night "the greatest problem since that of slavery." The subject under discussion was that of prohibition.

"The attempt of the liquor interests to place saloons in one county of Georgia, after they had been effaced by the personal efforts of the late Sam Jones, was the cause of the anti-liquor wave that swept through the South like a great prairie fire," he said. The defeat of the intentions of the saloonkeepers in this county, where after the death of Jones it was confidently expected the liquor interests would carry out their will, gave those opposed to the saloon the first idea that state-wide prohibition was anything more than a dream.

"You have no conception of the force that was brought to bear upon the members of the state legislature. Those in favor of retaining the saloon were greatly in the majority. But petitions, from the people all over the state, told to the representatives that the people were thoroughly aroused on the subject, while personal representatives of the organizations that had led in the work of rousing sentiment against the saloon were on the ground to lend their influences to that of the members holding out for the passage of a law declaring for prohibition within the state.

"The bill was finally passed and one of the strongholds of the liquor interests turned into a dry community. I must admit that they have many locker clubs through the South today, and that in other ways they are violating the true spirit of prohibition. But the great object has been accomplished—the shutting out of the saloon from the state. The regulation of these lesser evils will come in time. With the driving out of the saloon will also come the abolition of kindred evils."

Mr. Dunleavy states that the question of the criminal negro entered largely into the element of the abolition of the saloon. Just as the Atlanta race riots were caused by the alarm of the nameless crime in the South, just so did fathers and husbands and sons begin to realize that with the low negro saloon the South was putting a premium on crime of an unspeakable nature; that the abolishment of the saloon was necessary for the safety of the white women of the South.

He says further that the employers of negro labor have found that the efficiency of the negro has been increased very largely. Crime among the negroes has decreased, he claims, and the industry of the South has not suffered, as the saloon men declared it would, but, on the other hand has shown an advance under the prohibition law. So, while some of the old Southern aristocrats miss the mint julep and the hospitality that went with it, says Mr. Dunleavy, the most unreasonable opposer of the abolition of the saloon will admit that great good has already grown out of the passage of the law, which placed Georgia on record as opposed to the saloon and the attendant evils, and which has led other Southern states in turn to adopt similar measures.

"How do you spell bow?" asked a traveling man, deeply immersed in strewn leaves of his report, of a fellow-traveler who was sitting at one of the writing tables at the Lenox hotel last night.

"What kind of a 'bow' do you mean?" asked the one who had been appealed to.

"The kind of a 'bow' where you pluck your tile," came back the response.

"Oh, you spell that kind of a bow with a b-o-w; the other kind of a bough—the kind they hung little rock-a-bye baby in—they spell b-o-u-g-h."

"Well, I put one of these little rock-a-bye baby 'boughs' in my report, when the thing should have been just a plain, everyday slant of the lid kind of a bow, and if I don't borrow an ink-eraser and erase the d—n thing, the firm will think that I am more ignorant than I have ever admitted."

Still simplified spelling has its enemies.

The Man In Debt.

God have mercy on those who owe,
The honest-hearted who cannot pay;
Bearers of burdens of care and woe
Beneath the shadows from day to day!
Lord, look down with a tender grace
On those who struggle but cannot thrive;
The dust of failure upon their face,
From lost ideals for which they strive.

Train Your Memory.

Stuttgart Familienblatt: If men only realized how great an asset in life is a retentive memory they would take care to see that their children's memories were properly trained. The simplest method consists in learning every day a few lines by heart. None of our faculties can be trained so easily as that of memory.

THE WEATHER.

It was a wild night in Duluth. Most of the day and well into the night the rain came down in torrents, driven by a northeast wind that howled around the house viciously. This morning it was still cloudy, still damp, and still threatening. The weather man looks for showers tonight and probably tomorrow, too, though it will be warmer, and the wind will shift to westerly. Last night's lowest temperature was 39 degs. and yesterday's highest was 49 degs.

A year ago today a northeast rainstorm was in progress.

The sun rose this morning at 4:21 and sets tonight at 7:48, making 15 hours and 27 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Barometric depressions central over the Red River valley, Nebraska and Southern Alberta caused light to heavy rains Sunday or last night in the extreme Northwest, and in most districts lying between the ninetieth and one hundredth meridians. Very warm weather prevails in the Central valleys and Southeastern states, while temperatures of 40 degs. are the rule on extreme Western Lake Superior and over Wyoming. The barometer is high over New England states and off the Oregon-Washington coast. Showery and warmer weather may be expected in this locality tonight and possibly Tuesday attending the easterly movement of the low pressure areas."

Upper Lakes—Fresh to brisk winds tonight, southerly on Michigan and Huron and easterly on Superior; probably shifting to westerly by Tuesday night; showers and squalls.

A SMILE OR TWO.

Philadelphia Press: "Well," finally remarked Mr. Staylate, "I must be thinking of going. What time is it?"

"Oh," replied Miss Patience Gonne, "I'm sure it's later than that."

Chicago Tribune: Mrs. Chillicon-Kearney—Your husband, it seems, is quite a rounder.

Mrs. Goodsole—A rounder? Oh, you mean his shoulders. Yes, poor, dear Gregory just can't straighten up. He was always that way.

Chicago Tribune: "Who are you, madam? What do you wish? Why have you entered my house uninvited and unannounced?"

"Oh, don't mind me, ma'am. I'm just doing a little slumming in the homes of the rich."

Washington Star: "Why don't you get up a dollar dinner for your candidate?"

"I don't think is advisable," answered the campaign manager. "After a man has been at a dollar dinner for a half hour or so he grows impatient to go home and get something to eat."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I understand he claims to be descended from somebody high up."

"Yes, he fell out of his father's balloon and was miraculously saved."

Baltimore American: "Hamm, the great Shakespearean actor, has named all the people and creatures on his farm after characters in his plays, and appropriately, too."

"I know, but why does he call his servant boy, Romeo?"

"Because he attends to the boating."

"And what is the reason he named his prize hen Macduff?"

"Because he wanted her to lay on."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A theory is a splendid way to do a thing so long as you don't try.

The first essential to being a great man is for him to have no doubt about it himself.

A man can cut down his smoking and drinking if he's sick abed and thinks he's dying.

The reason a woman says the baby never cries at night is she believes it is never going to do it again.

What satisfaction a woman gets out of her husband's having a garden is how often she can catch him pretending to know things about it.

Seemed to Like It.

Washington Post: Most of the men who went to see the Widow Gunness' fine farm at Laporte, Ind., liked it so well that they stayed right there.

The Keynote.

New York World: Why Mr. Roosevelt should be angry at the selection of Senator Burrows to call the Republican national convention to order and make the keynote speech it is hard to understand. Promise and performance have so exactly squared in the administration that keynoting ought to be easy for any experienced statesman.

The Republican party favors economy in public expenditures and indulges in a more-than-billion-dollar session. It favors peace and wastes on war preparations in five years the price of an international waterway system. It demands forest preservation and lets Uncle Joe Cannon shelve the Appalachian bill. In the matter of child labor and employers' liability laws it has observed the Albany maxim: "Give the people what they want, but make the bill unconstitutional." It pursues "malefactors of great wealth" with implacable zeal, but has as yet put none in jail. It thinks well of publicity for campaign funds—Senator Burrows has from Mr. Taft a letter that says so—but please not until after one more campaign. It is for tariff reform when necessary, but suspects that the people are wrong in demanding it just now and refers the whole question to a stand-pat committee to determine.

With such deeds to fire the national heart, what matters it who has the empty honor of uttering the keynote words?

Hibbard has not closed the deal, but will do some extensive exploring, and there may soon be a complete copper mine in full blast within two miles of Two Harbors.

1904--ECHOES OF HARMONY--1908

Sandstone Courier: The Republicans do not seem to be able to get harmony in their ranks concerning the governor. Unless they want to continue having a Democratic governor in a Republican state, they had better unite on some candidate and all pull together. Four years of strife ought to convince all of the results.

Princeton Union (R. C. Dunn): Anyone who enters into a political partnership with Edward Thomas Young should not neglect to have the papers signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of reliable witnesses. But Mr. Heatwole has done business with Mr. Young before. It was Joel who made him attorney general.

Princeton Union: "The Republican party this year will cut some ice if it gets behind a Hennepin county man."—Senator J. F. Calhoun.

It is not ice that is needed. It is votes that are required. There are already too many cold and clammy unburied political corpses in Hennepin county. Why add to their number?

Faribault Journal: Two years ago Jacobson made another campaign, in which he appealed to the plain people. He was defeated. This year, acting on the advice of Bob Dunn, he tried something different. Perhaps with the help of the interests Bob can pull him through. But where do the plain people come in?

Anoka Herald: All this talk about Bob Dunn playing horse with Jacobson's boomlet in the hope that he could land the nomination in case Jacobson fails is tommy rot. Mr. Dunn stated his position fairly and squarely at the Republican congressional convention, and that statement stands good so far as we are concerned, for Bob Dunn has long since proved himself a man of his word.

Tower News: The Hibbing Tribune says that the newspapers whose idea of harmony is Bob Dunn may be picturesque, but they are not helping anybody. Let us suggest that Bob Dunn do his share toward harmony in the Republican party by silence and not dictation.

Redwood Reveille: Given a good candidate and platform so constructed that all Republicans can stand upon it, there should be no question of Republican victory this fall, no matter who the Democrats might nominate. But it will not come if the liquor interests and the railroads are allowed to name the candidate. The matter is worth thinking about seriously.

Breckenridge Gazette: "Anything to beat Young and Jacobson" is apparently the slogan just now of the astute but unscrupulous politicians who control the Republican party in Hennepin county. It worked two years ago. Will history repeat itself?

Albert Lea Tribune: Since Brother Heatwole and his followers are so vociferous in their demands that the other candidates declare themselves on this, that and the other thing, it may not be out of order for Joel to rise up and tell us just what caused his split with and separation from Bob Dunn. The really truly reason would be read with great satisfaction by all good Republicans. The little jolt handed the St. Paul Dispatch just whets our appetites for the whole story. Joel has the floor.

Julius Caesar, Safe and Sane.

Washington Herald: A stampede at Chicago! Never! The Hon. Julius Caesar Burrows is interposed to prevent it.

Who that knows the fame of the Columbian orator can doubt that his keynote will take the Roosevelt spirit out of the convention and convert it into the safest and sanest throng ever gathered to do a national duty? The national committee, with this purpose in view, has chosen wisely and well. Let the emergency come. The Hon. Julius Caesar will take care of it. Pin your faith to him for that.

A standpatter of high degree, a reluctant admirer of "my policies," the Kalamazoo statesman can be depended on to sound a keynote warranted to be soothing, soporific and megaphonic. The Columbian orator will be heard and listened to; he will be both resounding and inspiring. There will be no stampede while Julius Caesar stands within the breach. Never!

All hail the Hon. Julius Caesar! The gavel will be in trusty hands.

Pokes by Pease.

Anoka Union: Congress is paving the way for more Democratic victories.

Precious little enthusiasm amongst Republicans. They don't seem to care a wrap who is nominated for governor.

The actions of the Bryan Democrats indicate that they expect emoluments, in the event of Bryan's election. No other reason can be assigned.

Making Democrats is a work in which John A. Johnson has figured prominently, and yet Republican papers continue to boost him on every occasion. Better chop off.

It would be a good plan for the Republicans to defeat the sitting congressmen who are objectionable at the primaries and nominate men who can be elected in November, thereby preventing the election of Democrats.

A Justifiable Kick.

Boston Transcript: Citizens of Arizona do not like the advertising they are getting in the Stewart case. They think any one should feel gratified to be sent out there.

On the Other Foot.

New York World: Back taxes due the city amount to $22,000,000. How many of the delinquents would allow a debtor to owe $5 even for six months?

It Would Never Have Been Missed.

Lorain, Ohio, Times-Herald: Jupiter's eighth satellite has just been discovered, and just to think how long and how nicely we got along without it.

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Le Sueur Sentinel: Minnesota does not seem so very far West to politicians, since Johnson has become a national figure.

Fairmont Sentinel: The easy and overwhelming victory for Governor Johnson in the Democratic primaries proves that the people are not easily fooled, and especially by a few disappointed office seekers and sore-heads. If there was even a chance for our governor's name to be mentioned for the presidency at the Denver convention, common sense and justice demanded that his own state should be behind him. The people saw the point and were quick and emphatic to express their desires.

Hutchinson Leader: Good morning, Governor Johnson! Congratulations! Minnesota is still yours and thinks none the less of you for the enemies—few and far between—you have made.

Warren Sheaf: That Governor Johnson is the choice of Minnesota Democracy for president was demonstrated by his overwhelming vote over Bryan at the recent county conventions. The fight against him by the Bryan faction was unreserved and equivalent to a slap in the face. The after effects of it may cause trouble to the party in future campaigns.

Cass Lake Times: However strenuously the old G. O. P. may strive to keep the herd in line on election day, enough of their number will forget party lines to elect the man they have twice voted for, and John A. Johnson, if nominated at Denver, is as sure of carrying his own state as he was of being chosen for governor two years ago. There certainly is danger in the habit of voting outside of party lines. It breeds loose political habits and always leads to independence.

Syracuse, N. Y., Post-Standard: Political campaigns are trying, but a campaign of William H. Taft against John A. Johnson would at least be an honor to the country.

Detroit Free Press: Governor Johnson had a big boom at Washington, which city has no vote in a presidential election. But it ought to amount to as much as the Taft boost down on the canal.

Chattanooga Times: "Somehow or other Governor Johnson of Minnesota seems to be catching on, as the saying is, and Democrats all over the country are finding themselves interested in him without, perhaps, all of them knowing just exactly why. We are inclined to think this admiration for a man who has sprung into national fame only within the past two or three years comes from a sort of unconscious absorption of the man's wholesome Democracy as expressed at sundry times in his speeches, extracts from which have from time to time found their way into print.

Raleigh, N. C., Times: "His talk is talk that rings true, not only to Democrats who love the principles and traditions of their party, but to broad and reasonable Americans of every party faith that love fair play and honest speech."

Springfield Republican: If the vote in the Alabama primaries is three to one in favor of Bryan as against Governor Johnson it can hardly be called "close," as some of the newspapers are calling it. But the Johnson vote is at least large enough to indicate that if he had entered the field earlier and made himself better known to the Democratic masses over the country, the outcome at Denver would be much more in doubt than it is.

Milwaukee Sentinel (Rep.): Admits the esteemed Providence Journal, "Governor Johnson certainly has a personality that wins confidence and, what is more important, votes." Yes, that's why we object to him.

ALIENS ARE SENT BACK

August Anesa's Wife Must Go to Canada to Join Him.

English Woman Was Likely to Become a Public Charge.

August Anesa and Syrel Bourden didn't know they were suffering from trachoma, or they never would have left the United States. They took a trip to Port Arthur last Wednesday to look over the labor situation there. They couldn't see any very bright prospects, so they turned around and came back on the America, arriving yesterday morning. Both were turned back, for it may be easy enough to get out of the United States with a case of trachoma, but it's impossible to get in again. Anesa is 39 and Bourden 24 years of age and both are Belgians.

Anesa was furious, when Inspector-in-Charge Dean refused to allow him to land. He told a plaintive story of a wife and three little children on their way from far-away Belgian to join him in the land of the free. He said they will arrive in Superior this week, expecting to see him waiting for them at the station, but his pleas couldn't change the regulations and he went back to Canada.

Friends of the man were notified of the situation and they will meet the woman, when she arrives this week. If she wants to see her husband, who is now denied admission to the country, it will be necessary for her to extend her journey to Canada, instead of ending it here as she expected.

Mrs. James Barr, an English woman, who arrived on the steamer Huronic from Port Arthur this morning, was also denied admission and she will return to Port Arthur on the steamer this evening. In the judgment of Inspector-in-Charge Dean, she was likely to become a public charge if allowed to land, so was denied entrance.

COPPER STOCKS CLOSE HIGHER

The Market Has a Good Advance During the Session.

The copper stock market enjoyed a good advance today and closed at the high prices of the session. North Butte, Amalgamated and the other leaders were in the vanguard of the bulge.

North Butte opened at $62.50, advanced to $63.75 and closed at $63.50 bid and $64 asked. Amalgamated opened at $63.37½, went to $65.25 and closed at $65.25 bid.

Greene-Cananea opened at $9.50, advanced to $9.62½ and closed at $9.50 bid and $9.62½ asked. Butte Coalition opened at $22.62½, declined to $22.50, rallied to $22.82½ and closed at $22.50 bid and $22.62½ asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $109, declined to $108.50, rallied to $109.75 and closed at $109 bid and $110 asked. Anaconda opened at $39, advanced to $41.50 and closed at $41.50 bid.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $11.87½ and closed at $11.87½ bid and $12 asked. Globe sold at $5.87½ and closed at $5.75 bid and $6 asked, and Butte-Ballaklava at $7.50 and $7.62½ and closed at $7.50 bid.

Denn-Arizona closed at $2.87½ bid and $3 asked; Calumet & Sonora at $7.25 bid and $7.50 asked; Butte & Superior at $1 bid and $1.12½ asked, and Copper Queen of Idaho at $1 bid and $1.12½ asked.

Black Mountain sold at $4.25 bid and $4.50 asked.

Hayden, Stone & Co., in their weekly copper letter, say:

"The Butte Coalition is now producing the red metal at the rate of about 27,000,000 pounds per annum, with by far the greater proportion of its daily output of about 1,100 tons of ore coming from the Rarus working. From a source, the accuracy of which is not open to question, we learn that this copper is being marked at a cost under 8½c per pound. We are also advised that this rate of production will soon be gradually increased, until the figures compare favorably with those of North Butte.

"The Butte Coalition company wisely took advantage of the era of low-priced copper and operating costs for the extension of its developments, which, on the Minnie Healy, are of the highest importance. In the extension of the 1,300-foot level in this direction from the Tramway shaft a new discovery was made in the shape of a vein carrying 10 per cent copper for its width of twelve feet, while for a width of five feet the copper contents ran as high as 17 per cent.

"It will be noted that Butte Coalition is now mining about as much copper as when it was extracting 50 per cent more ore, a fact readily accounting in a measure for the decidedly improved operating costs.

"There has been a story going the rounds that in consequence of the economies effected the Butte Coalition, as well as the other Butte mines, has again diverted attention to the extraction of a lower average grade of ore. This is not true as applying to these properties individually or collectively, neither is the present yield being secured at the expense of good mining."

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper is firmer, but prices remain about the same as last week. Lake is 12c to 13¼c, and electrolytic is 12⅝c to 13c per pound. There is an increasing number of buyers in the market. Some considerable lots of copper have been sold to domestic consumers recently. Foreigners are bidding 12⅜c to 12.80c for large lots of electrolytic, but none is for sale below 12⅞c. These bids are inspiring both domestic producers and consumers with confidence. There is a disposition on the part of the large producers to supply the American manufacturers with copper a while longer at 13c, but it is quite certain that prices must be advanced soon. By the first of June copper should be selling for 13½c to 14c.

"The financial stringency brought to a sudden termination nearly all of the railroad and electric construction throughout the country, and caused a sudden suspension of the many plans for the electrification of steam railroads. As a result the consumption of copper in the United States fell off more than 60 per cent. In December and January it was estimated by excellent authorities that less than 20 per cent of the copper produced in America was being consumed here, whereas domestic manufacturers should absorb from 50 to 60 per cent of the output. It is believed now that home consumption has gotten back to 50 per cent of normal now, and that at least 30 per cent of America's copper production is being used at home. This, with the large increase in foreign consumption, is absorbing the entire product of the mines, and no surplus supplies of copper are accumulating.

"Economists, both scientific and practical, are giving more attention to the power question than ever before. Scientists are declaring that the coal supplies of the world will be practically exhausted in a generation, and advocating the conservation and use of water power everywhere. Transportation and manufacturing interests are astounded when they compare their coal bills with those of a few years ago, and are acquainted themselves with the advantages and economies which may be attained through the use of electric power. The outgrowth of this agitation and increasing interest will be a much more general use of electric power and a resultant growth in the consumption of copper. The future outlook for the metal market, therefore, is exceedingly bright. Users of copper will do well to fill their bins while the price remains at its present level. I feel very confident that the average price of copper during the coming ten or twenty years will be well above 15 cents a pound."

VERDICT OF SUICIDE

Will Probably be Rendered in the Case of Mrs. Shaw.

Milwaukee, May 25.—A Journal special from Hortonville, Wis., says: The coroner's jury impaneled to investigate the mysterious death of Mrs. Carrie Shaw, whose body was found in the mill pond at Hortonville on Wednesday last, heard several witnesses today, but nothing definite developed up to noon.

It is generally believed that when the jury brings in its verdict, late this afternoon or early tomorrow morning, that it will be a verdict of suicide.

It is said Mrs. Shaw was subject to epileptic fits and that during one of these she fell on a stove and was burned. She also broke a leg while overcome when she was roller skating on April 19.

IDENTITY OF "ETHEL BROWN"

Said to Have Been Anna Peterson of Two Harbors.

The mystery which surrounds the identity of "Ethel Brown," the chorus girl, who died without telling her name at the city hospital in Minneapolis, has been cleared up by Alice Douglass, formerly of the "Merry Maidens" company, who claims her home is in Duluth. Miss Douglass says that "Ethel Brown" is in reality Anna Peterson of Two Harbors.

According to her story, they were fast friends, and for this reason she stayed behind in Minneapolis when her company left, to take care of Anna Peterson, who was taken seriously ill there. She had saved a little money with the intention of taking music lessons in Duluth this summer, but rent, medicine and delicacies for the sick girl soon took it all. Finally, the patient became so ill that she had to be taken to the hospital, where she died Friday without telling her right name, though the doctors told her she was dying.

Miss Douglass claims that, although she has notified the parents of the dead girl at Two Harbors, she has received no word from them.

The theatrical people have raised a fund of $100 with which to defray the expenses of the funeral.

There is no Alice Douglass in the Duluth directory and what Douglasses do live here claim no knowledge of the chorus girl. Inquiry at Two Harbors fails to discover Anna Peterson's parents.

RELATION OF THE CHURCH

To Freedmen Discussed by the Presbyterian General Assembly.

Kansas City, May 25.—Education and the relation of the church to freedmen were among the important subjects considered today by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of America.

Rev. J. S. Dixon, secretary of the college board of the church, in discussing educational work, said: "In 1889 only 8 per cent of the men in theological seminaries were from denominational colleges. In 1908 in eleven instances, only 6 per cent were from un-denominational colleges. That is the result of the work that has been done by the college board."

Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, vice president of the college board, said that 85 per cent of the foreign missionaries come from the denominational colleges.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED

The Independent Polish Catholic Parish Holds Exercises.

Large Crowds Attend Services at New House of Worship.

St. Josephat Polish Catholic church, Fifth street and Third avenue east, was dedicated yesterday morning with appropriate services, which were attended by enormous crowds despite the inclement weather.

The new church is the property of the independent Polish parish, which broke away from the jurisdiction of the regular bishop of the diocese about a year ago and which has just completed the new house of worship at a cost of $30,000. It is of brick and stone and one of the finest churches in the city.

Not the least important of yesterday's dedicatory exercises was the laying of the cornerstone by the independent Polish bishop of Scranton, Pa. Although the church was completed, the cornerstone had not been put in place, space for it having been left and the building so constructed that the stone could be put in place at the last minute without doing any damage.

Special services were held in the church all day and were in charge of the parish priest, Rev. Father Kamil Sierzputowski. Members of the parish and their friends turned out in large numbers and the auditorium of the new church was filled at every service.

St. Josephat parish was organized about a year ago, when a number of Polish people became displeased with certain matters that had transpired in the church over which Bishop McGolrick has jurisdiction. The disgruntled ones withdrew from Bishop McGolrick's supervision and have been worshiping in the old Lutheran church at Second street and Second avenue west. Hereafter they will hold their services in the new church.

There are a number of independent Polish parishes in the country, and the bishop of Scranton has jurisdiction over all of them. The bishop is elected by the priests.

URGES MEN TO OWN THEIR HOMES

Bishop McGolrick Gives a Talk to Catholic Foresters.

Bishop McGolrick urged the members of the Catholic Order of Foresters, who held their silver jubilee exercises last evening in St. Clement's hall, to own their own homes.

He gave a general talk of the progress and advancement of the community and individual citizens. He declared that one of the best steps toward happiness and prosperity and enhancing the prosperity of the community was for the individual to own his own home instead of to rent it from some one else.

The bishop spoke about the advancement of the Order of Foresters and the good work it had accomplished since it was founded.

A. T. Rock of Superior gave a short history of the organization. Miss Mary Shesgren gave two readings and vocal solos were given by Mrs. E. P. Kriemer and John Golecz. Ed Sauer gave a piano solo, P. H. Martin, state chief ranger, presided during the exercises.

The exercises were well attended, despite the disagreeable weather.

Col. March delivered a short address, in the course of which he referred to the G. A. R. members as "comrades."

BUY SITE FOR CHURCH.

Presbyterians Will Have Handsome New Structure in West End.

The new Second Presbyterian church will be located at Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

The deal for the property, which is 50 by 145 feet, will be closed this week, and plans are now being made for a building costing about $20,000. The following committee is in charge of the work of raising the money for the new building: James Maghan, John G. Ross and Stanford W. Hill. A large percentage of the money for the building has already been secured as the congregation has been at work on its plans for nearly a year.

BURIES CAMPAIGN BILL.

Senate Refers It to Committee to "Age" Until Next Session.

Washington, May 25.—The campaign publicity bill with the Crumpacker amendment restricting representation, which was passed by the house, was laid before the senate Saturday. Without discussion the bill was reported to the committee on privileges and elections, where it will remain at least until the next session of congress.

For the second time in a week the ship subsidy proposition was on Saturday night voted down in the house by nine votes. Republicans announced that this ended their fight this session.

An increase in compensation to railroads for carrying mails was defeated.

The senate has adopted the conference report on the pension appropriation bill.

The resolution providing for a remission of a part of the Chinese indemnity growing out of the Boxer troubles of 1900 was adopted by the house, as was also a resolution increasing the pay of over a hundred of the house employes and officials and the conference report on the bill enlarging homestead entries in the arid regions from 160 to 320 acres was rejected, thereby finally defeating the bill.

SENIORS DANCE.

High School Students Hold Last Social Gathering of Year.

At a farewell banquet and dance, last Saturday evening, the high school seniors socially said goodbye to their alma mater.

At the banquet, Supt. R. E. Denfeld told of his regret at the coming departure from the school of the students who had been associated with him during the past four years. Principal Smith complimented the class upon its work, and said that he would be sorry to see them leave. There were also farewell addresses by the presidents of the three lower classes. Ralph Pineo gave a special toast to the senior girls.

After the banquet and speeches, the first floor was given over to dancing. The decorations were the colors of the class and school pennants. The dancing music was furnished by La Brosse's orchestra.

DRUNKENNESS A DISEASE.

Pastor Discusses Temperance at Meeting of Question Club.

Rev. L. A. Lumley, pastor of the West Duluth Congregational church, declared drunkenness was a disease, at the meeting of the Question club, Sunday afternoon. This statement came in response to the declarations on the part of one of the club members that much of the intemperance of the world was directly traceable to the church.

Rev. Lumley admitted that many of the churches were so poor that they could not cope effectively with the liquor evil, but emphatically refuted the statement that any of the blame for the intemperance of the world should be laid at the door of the church.

Other speakers declared that drunkenness was the result of poverty and discouragement, and that economic conditions would accomplish much in reducing intemperance.

SERVICES FOR HEROES

Memorial Day Sermons Heard in Several Local Churches.

Grand Army Men Are Guests of Honor at Exercises.

Deeds of the dead heroes of past conflicts, and those of the veterans who are still in the land of the living, furnished topics for several patriotic sermons in Duluth churches yesterday, which was an occasion for the annual Memorial day services.

Every year, on the Sunday preceding Memorial day, services of a special patriotic significance are held in many of the local houses of worship.

The old soldiers were the guests of honor at four churches yesterday. In the morning they were invited to attend services at Trinity pro-cathedral, Twentieth avenue east and Superior street and at the West Duluth Baptist church.

In the afternoon special morning services were held at the First M. E. church, Third avenue west and Third street, which were attended by the members of the G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, the local militia companies and the naval reserves.

In the evening memorial services were held in the Lester Park M. E. church and the pastor, Rev. J. A. Geer, preached a strong sermon.

Rev. M. S. Rice, the pastor, preached a memorial sermon at the special services held in the First M. E. church in the afternoon. He urged strongly the preparation of Memorial day for all time to come in the United States, and said that every effort should be made to interest the youth and children of the country in its purpose and patriotism.

Speaking of the Grand Army of the Republic, Mr. Rice said: "It is impossible for any generation of men to ever again exercise such a powerful influence on the destinies of this nation as you have."

Despite the fact that a heavy rain was falling, the services were well attended by the veterans and their friends.

At Trinity pro-cathedral, the veterans were escorted by the parish cadets, who made their first public appearance. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele, rector.

Members of Gorman Post of the G. A. R. were the guests of honor at the morning services in the West Duluth Baptist church. The pastor, Rev. Arthur J. Hoag, said in his sermon that patriotism could be shown not only on the field of battle, but in times of peace, by honesty in office, by public spiritedness, by a respect for the law and by purity in private life.

He described the politician who offered a bribe, the man who took one, the election judge who returned an untrue report, the capitalist who used unfair methods of building up his business and the strikers who violated the laws, as anarchists.

Rev. Mr. Hoag extolled the deeds and lives of the veterans of the nation's wars, some of whom were present at his service.

The Memorial day sermon, by Mr. Geer, at the Lester Park church in the evening, was heard by many members of the Grand Army and by members of local military companies and the naval reserves.

Special programs of patriotic music were given at all the churches.

THE INFLUENCE OF VISIONS

Dreams Have Changed Course of History, Says Pastor.

"The Influence of Psychic Elements in History," was the subject of a sermon preached by Rev. George R. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church, corner First street and Eighth avenue east, yesterday.

"Psychic phenomena have played an important role in the history of the race," he said.

"It matters in the end little if we call them hallucinations or imaginings, they are psychic facts and deserve as such as much consideration as other facts which meet us on the way of life. Dreams may be as Shakespeare tells us, the children of an idle fancy, begot of nothing but vain fantasy; nevertheless such a vain thing as a dream may leave a deep mark on a man's character. It may exert a lasting influence upon the life of an individual or a nation. It certainly is beyond cavil that dreams have played an important role in history. And if so, if a mere hallucination has turned the course of history, is it then less substantial than the armies and navies, which in their way make history? They, too, melt away like dreams. It seems to me that we must accept the experiences of mankind in their own way; we must rate them by what they accomplished, and not trouble ourselves how they came about. Certainly nothing but intellectual shallowness will lightly deal with them. What I mean by this, we shall see by a few familiar concrete cases.

"A Hebrew man, according to an old tradition is herding a flock of sheep on the slope of Mount Horeb. There one day he sees or believes to see a burning bush which is not consumed by the fire and out of this flaming bush comes to him a voice commanding him to go back to Egypt and to lead his countrymen into freedom. We may say that Moses only saw a rhododendron bush in full bloom and heard a babbling brook. But this does not change essentials. If we accept the tradition as a whole and believe that Moses believed to have seen this wondrous phenomenon, we must admit that this hallucination in the wilderness had a tremendous influence upon the development of history. We pass along this Hebrew history with its cruelty and slaughter, but with its sublime aspirations, and at every step a seer, a prophet, a clairvoyant. We read with awe some of these old prohpecies. Whence we say had these men the courage to utter such words, defying the political powers of the day? It was not merely a moral impulse. It was the fact that these men somehow believed that Jehovah himself had put the words in their mouth. Go farther along the history until you come to Jesus. Again visions and voices. There is a school of hypercriticism, which would cut out all what it calls 'miraculous,' not in accord with nature's law. But in such an attempt the entire Christian movement suffers and the rise of Christianity can not be understood. Little matter if we may accept the teaching of Jesus or his personality, we can not explain Christianity by simply placing at its head a man, who went about doing good like a Salvation Army captain. If the gospels teach anything, it is that Jesus had visions and revelations of the Godhead in a way that made him absolutely certain of his mission. I do not say that these visions or experiences of Jesus could be verified. I simply say, that his psychic experiences were real experiences to him. We must accept the resurrection story in the same way. I refer here also to the experiences of Constantine, the saints, of Joan of Arc, of Lincoln, of Luther, etc. They all alike bear testimony to the influence psychic phenomena have had upon history. It shows us how in this commonplace earth the Godhead is ever ready to meet us. To the rational mind such experiences may never come, but God will ever speak to mankind, if not out of the burning bush, yet in the flames of conscience and for us it is to obey that voice and to be mindful of the heavenly vision."

Mr. John Riha of Vining, Iowa, says, "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold." Sold by all druggists.

CAN CONTROL PUPILS.

Important Decision is Announced by Minneapolis Judge.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge F. C. Brooks' decision in the Pilkey case, filed Saturday, bears out the contention of Judge H. D. Dickinson, who ruled in the high school fraternity cases that the Minneapolis board of education has authority to make reasonable rules for the government of Minneapolis schools and pupils. Judge Brooks holds that the board of education may suspend pupils from a grade in which their work is unsatisfactory and compel them, if they wish to attend school, to re-enter a grade in which their work has been satisfactorily completed. Judge Dickinson held that the school board might, in the exercise of its power, refuse to grant a high school diploma to a student who belonged to a society deemed injurious to the morals of the student body.

Attorneys for Lindsay Pilkey say that they will appeal his case to the supreme court but it is generally conceded that Judge Brooks' decision puts an end to the controversy which has risen concerning the right of the school board to compel a student to enter a lower grade or to discontinue his work in school. The merits of the case were placed before Judge Brooks on the demurrer of Pilkey's attorneys to the answer filed by the school board.

TWO POLICEMEN ADDED.

West End Will be Protected From Gang of Hoodlums.

The entire West end of the city is now thoroughly patroled. Seven policemen are now making the rounds, where before there were only five, and the beats have all been rearranged.

Formerly from 1 o'clock in the morning to 8 o'clock only one patrolman covered the whole territory. Now, besides a lieutenant, there are always two men on duty.

Besides the early morning addition, a mounted policeman has been put on. It is thought that this change will put a stop to the lawlessness of the hoodlums who have been making the lives of the residents miserable in that end of the city.

DEATH IN SNOWSTORM.

Rancher in Montana Perished—Losses to the Cattlemen.

Butte, Mont., May 25.—Advices received from Eastern Montana points, remote from wire communication, tell of the severity of Wednesday's storm, the worst in the memory of the oldest settlers of that section of the state.

Peter Lohof, a rancher north of Forsyth, started from that place to go to a lambing camp, lost his way and perished in the deep snow and cold.

At Ekalaka, ninety miles southeast of Miles City, a storm has been in progress several days. Four feet of snow has fallen and when the messenger left Ekalaka it was still snowing.

Cattlemen at Miles City report that thousands of lambs born several days previous to the storm have perished.

It is feared that when reports have been received from the ranges sheepmen will be found to have sustained very heavy losses.

Fruit trees suffered severely in the fall of twenty-two inches of snow at Miles City.

TO LAUNCH BIG BATTLESHIP

Monster Warship Michigan to Take Water on Tuesday.

Washington, May 25.—Tuesday at Camden, N. J., there will be launched the battleship Michigan, the first American all big gun ship. The Michigan is a sister ship of the South Carolina, which, however, has not yet been launched, and represents the first attempt of the American government in the construction of a vessel the principal object of which is the carrying of as many heavy guns of even caliber as her displacement will permit.

The displacement of the Michigan is 16,000 tons as against nominally 17,000 tons of the English Dreadnaught class, which, however, are generally supposed to be much greater, due to overdraught.

Her main battery will include eight 12-inch rifles and two submerged torpedo tubes. On the main deck are to be four turrets, one turret less than in the English Dreadnaughts, but from these turrets the eight 12-inch guns, it is claimed, will be able to fire as many guns broadside as can be fired from the five turrets of the English Dreadnaughts.

The latest American Dreadnaughts, the North Dakota and the Delaware, now under construction, will have five turrets each, so constructed on the center line of the vessel that their ten guns can be fired broadside at once. The Michigan is to have also a secondary battery of twenty-two three-inch rapid fire two three-pounders, and several automatic and minor caliber guns destined for defense against torpedo attack.

The Michigan is under construction by the New York Shipbuilding company, her contract price being $3,585,000. She is about 50 per cent completed.

Miss Carol B. Newberry, the daughter of Assistant Secretary Newberry, has been named as sponsor for the ship. The launching will be attended by Mr. Newberry and a party of senators and representatives, naval officers and others from Washington. The arrangements for quarters on the vessel contemplate accommodations for 51 officers and 818 men.

RESTAURANTS THE VICTIMS

Short-Change Men Stick the Delmonico and Vienna.

The Delmonico and Vienna restaurants were worked for nearly $40 by short-change artists Saturday night. The men are thought to be traveling in the wake of the circus. The swindlers appeared about 9 o'clock at the Delmonico and one of the men asked the cashier to change a $20 bill.

He threw the bill on the cigar case, took up the smaller change in return, and then, while a second man attracted the attention of the cashier, substituted a $1 bill for the twenty, and walked out of the door. No suspicion attached to the other man at the time.

The police were notified at once, and a few minutes later another report came in to the police that the same game, for the same amount, had been worked on the Vienna. A gang of crooks generally follows a circus to work the crowds which congregate, and the police are on the lookout today. Some suspicious characters have been arrested, but no grounds for holding them could be found.

IRISH LEAGUE TO MEET.

Boston, Mass., May 25.—A call will be issued today by National President Michael J. Ryan for the fourth biennial national convention of the United Irish League of America, to be held in Feneuil hall, Boston, September 22 and 23. John E. Redmond, M. P., and the national secretary of the league in Ireland, Joseph Devlin, M. P., will come from Great Britain to attend the convention.

How to Get Well for 50 cents — in a Month

This is the trouble with nine people in ten who don't feel well:

The liver is torpid because of abuse. Because of wrong food and too little exercise.

The bowels have grown inactive. The waste of the system loads the blood with impurities.

Then one takes harsh physic—salts and pills—in trying to correct the wrong.

Thus the stomach and bowels become inflamed. The whole digestive system is upset.

All these results end quickly by the use of Cascarets.

One candy tablet, once or twice a day. In a month, or less, one knows what it is to be well.

Cascarets aid digestion. Harsh physic destroys it.

Cascarets gently stimulate the liver. Cathartics whip it to action.

Cascarets heal the bowels. Pills, salts and castor oil merely irritate.

If you tramped the woods for a month, ate coarse food, fruit and green vegetables, the result would be the same as a month with Cascarets.

But most people can't do that. For them, Cascarets bring the same results, just as naturally, just as effectively.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

FIXES NEW SCHEDULE

Water Rates Changed Only on the Highest Levels.

Water Board Submits Schedule to Missabe Road Officials.

Following the request of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company for reduced water rates in case the company contracts for a large amount of city water, to be pumped to Proctor for the use of the company in its railway shops and for private consumers in that village, the board of water and light commissioners has just adopted a new schedule of water prices.

There is no change of prices in the lower levels of the new schedule, the only changes appearing in the highest levels, or for the highest consumption.

Under the new schedule the monthly prices of city water are as follows: First 8,000 feet, 17½ cents per 100 feet; next 8,000 feet, 10 cents; next 60,000 feet, 7½ cents; next 100,000 feet, 5 cents (formerly the schedule read, "all over 76,000 feet at 5 cents"); next 311,000 feet at 2½ cents; all over 487,000 feet, 4 cents.

The board of water and light commissioners, in adopting the new schedule, calculated a quantity which, when consumed, would provide an average rate for the said quantity at 4 cents, this being the minimum price that the commissioners wish to establish. For this reason they appended to the schedule the final description, "all over 487,000 feet, 4 cents."

The new schedule has been submitted to the Duluth, Missabe & Northern officials, but the company has not yet take any action indicating whether it is satisfied or not.

If the rates are satisfactory and the railway company takes the water, the scheme will have to be submitted to the council for its approval, as the water is to be sold outside the city.

It is not believed that the railway company will reach the highest level of consumption under the new schedule for some years. The project is to take the city water to Proctor to be used by the company in its shops and by the people who reside at Proctor and close to the village limits. All the water will be metered to consumers, and the railway company cannot give the people of Proctor a cheaper rate than the people of Duluth are getting.

The elevation of the city water 550 feet at one lift means that the railway company will have to provide a powerful pump and a very strong pipe line. Check valves at regular intervals in the main line will prevent a back flow in case of an accident at the lower end of the pipe line.

LITTLE GERMAN IMMIGRATION

In Ten Years Dropped From First to Last Place.

Boston, Mass., May 25.—The startling change which has take place during the last ten years in the nationality of immigrants into the United States is made evident by a table of figures just issued by the Immigration Restriction league.

The hardy, capable German immigrant, which the league believes should be encouraged to come to this country, has gradually given away before the onrush from Russia and Southeastern Europe.

In 1887, 22 per cent of the total number of immigrants were Germans, who for the greater part moved into undeveloed country and helped build it up. The number of arrivals from Russia at that time was but 6 per cent of the whole; 10 per cent came from Italy and 9 per cent from Austria-Hungary.

In 1907, but 3 per cent of the immigrants were of the sturdy German stock; 21 per cent were from Italy; 23 per cent from Austria-Hungary; and 22 per cent were from Russia.

The complete table follows:

PER CENT OF TOTAL EUROPEAN IMMIGRATION.

	Germany	Italy	Austria-Hungary	Russia
1887	22	10	9	6
1888	20	10	8	6
1889	23	6	8	8
1890	21	12	13	8
1891	21	14	13	9
1892	21	11	13	14
1893	19	17	13	10
1894	19	15	14	14
1895	13	14	13	15
1896	10	21	20	16
1897	10	27	15	12
1898	8	27	18	14
1899	6	26	21	21
1900	4	24	27	21
1901	5	29	24	18
1902	5	29	23	17
1903	5	28	25	17
1904	6	25	23	19
1906	4	23	23	19
1905	4	27	25	21
1907	3	24	28	22

In the opinion of the Immigration Restriction league these figures call for grave consideration from all men interested in securing for the United States the class of immigrants which shall make for the best citizenship.

Prescott F. Hall, who has for many years made a study of the immigration question, and has published a volume upon that subject in the series of American Public Problems, was asked, yesterday, for some comments on the above figures. Mr. Hall said:

"The falling off of immigration from Germany almost to one-tenth of what it was twenty years ago is a subject for genuine regret. The German immigrants have been among the most valuable that the United States has received. They have done a great deal to build up the North Central states, and have distinguished themselves in every field of activity.

"The reasons for this falling off are various: such as the development of industrial life in Germany, and the diverting of German immigration to South America, where larger returns for investments and greater political power are open to them. Without doubt, one of the most important reasons, however, is the dislike of Germans to competing with the lower grades of Slavic and South-Italian labor, which has come to America in such large numbers in the last twenty years, displacing German workingmen in the Pennsylvania coal mines and in many of the industries in which factory labor is employed. This reason is indeed given by many of the Germans themselves; and the story of this supplanting of German labor is immediately written home by those already here, and this prevents the immigration of many who would otherwise come."

THE SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENTAL

Victor Lindquist Taken to Hospital With Bullet in Leg.

Victor Lindquist of 705 Garfield avenue was accidentally shot in the leg by John Nelson, 735 Garfield avenue, yesterday afternoon. Nelson was considering buying a gun from Lindquist, and was examining it in the home of the latter at the time of the accident. It was loaded, but he did not know it.

Nelson had examined the weapon before, and it was not loaded then, but it appears that a younger brother of Lindquist had slipped a couple of cartridges into it meantime. Nelson pulled the trigger twice before one of the cartridges exploded. The bullet entered the right leg, a few inches above the knee, and imbedded itself in the joint. Dr. Eklund had Lindquist taken to St. Mary's hospital, and today will use the X-ray to locate the bullet. The wound may result in a permanent stiffening of the joint.

COWFELT MISSING.

Feared That Duluth Man Has Met With Foul Play.

The wife and friends of Charles Cowfelt, a painter and paperhanger, believe that he has met with foul play. The man left his home last Monday morning, and has not been seen by friends or relatives since, except for the fact that he was seen on Lake avenue shortly after starting from his house.

The missing man resided with his wife and family at 805 East Second street. He was a contractor and left several jobs unfinished. He is not known to have had any money with him when he left home. Mrs. Cowfelt says she had no trouble with her husband. A diligent search is being made for him.

Newark, Ohio, May 25.—Mrs Ernst Terwilliger was found, yesterday morning, dead in her room, having been choked to death. During the day her husband, Ernst Terwilliger, was arrested on suspicion of having committed the crime, and later he made a confession. Last night he was lodged in jail, and such a large crowd gathered about the prison that police reserves were called out and guarded the place.

PROPHECY FULFILLED

Water is Found at 3,000 Feet it South Dokota.

Experience of the Burlington Railroad in the Black Hills.

Washington, May 25.—Only the seventh son of a seventh son has the gift of hidden water knowledge. With his witchhazel wand—and there is no authentic instance where a true water witch failed—he can locate wells of underground channels to a depth of forty feet or a little more. He will hold his forked switch in both hands and circle about, and when he crosses above a vein of water, the butt of the switch bends downward with irresistible force, thus locating, as by very magic, the spot at which he advises the digging of the well. The government geologists smile broadly at the claims of the born water finder with the witchhazel wand; nevertheless they do a little well-finding themselves once in a while, but based on geologic knowledge of water-bearing gravels and rock formations, nor are they limited to any forty or even hundred feet depths, at which they will promise the discovery of the liquid mineral. What would have been thought a century ago of a man that would predict that water would be found in a certain spot at a depth of 3,000 feet? Either that he was a consummate liar, or, if he were so unfortunate as to live to see his prophecy fulfilled, he would have been pronounced a dealer in the black art and a fit subject for burning at the stake. Yet this is exactly what has occurred in an instance just made public by the United States geological survey.

The Black Hills region of South Dakota is a dry country and the water supply problem is, in many cases, a serious one. Several years ago the Burlington railroad, which runs through the end of the Black Hills, concluded to sink a well, and applied to the United States geological survey for advice as to the underground conditions. N. H. Darton, a survey geologist, who has spent some years studying the geology of the Dakotas, made the prediction that the region of the proposed well site was underlain by water-bearing sandstones, which, at a depth not greater than 3,000 feet, would probably furnish a good supply of water, so the well was bored. Mr. Darton stated that some water might be struck in the red sandy limestones of the carboniferous formation, and this was the case; but he advised that provision should be made to bore to the lowest sandstones, the base of which would probably be encountered at a depth of about 3,000 feet.

Prophecy Within Twenty Feet.

The water was found in these sandstones, known as the Deadwood formation, which began at 2,920 feet and was penetrated to a total depth of 2,980 feet, when the flow of the well amounted to half a million gallons a day under a pressure of seventy-five feet, giving an ample supply for the railroad's needs and constituting one of the most noteworthy artesian wells of the country. The water is of a uniform temperature of 122 degrees Fahrenheit and of good quality, and the supply fully justifies the great expense of the undertaking. Several times the projectors of the enterprise were on the point of giving up the work, but they were urged to continue, the geologist being confident that the prospects warranted boring to the lowest stratum. When the great flow was struck, after boring more than 2,950 feet, the water proved bad—it was impregnated with mineral matter and valueless for boiler use. The railroad people were in despair, but again appealed to the government geologist. Mr. Darton expressed his belief that the main flow from the lower sandstone was good and that, as the lower portion of the well was not cased, the mineral matter had come down from the red beds above the water-bearing sandstone. Accordingly, he advised the sinking of a casing so as to cut off the source of contamination. This was done, and with the most satisfactory results. All of which goes to show the immense economic importance of the underground water studies of the federal geological survey and to what extent science may be depended upon to point the way for the practical development of natural resources.

JOHNSON GAINS IN MONTANA

Minnesota's Governor is Hailed as a Candidate Who Can Win.

Butte, Mont., May 25.—The Johnson sentiment in Montana is having a rapid growth, and Bryan is apparently losing ground in proportion among Democrats. Bryan has carried the state twice, his original free silver ideas creating a popularity for him among the miners that extended over his second campaign.

His candidacy for the nomination this year and the disorganized opposition had been accepted by Democrats in a cheerless spirit, but with the Johnson boom matters have changed, and the party leaders see a chance for the elimination of Bryan and the nomination of a candidate with a good chance for defeating the Republicans this fall.

The Democratic newspaper of Montana, formerly unanimous and vociferous for Bryan, have very little to say for him as a three-time candidate. The Anaconda Standard, the leading Democratic newspaper of the state, has criticized him frequently of late, commenting on his fleeting and changing policies and attitudes on great questions.

The anti-Bryan sentiment had its first party expression in the convention of Deer Lodge county, which instructed its delegats to work for Johnson in the state convention. After mentioning Jefferson and Bryan as the great leaders of Democratic principles and blaming the Republican administration for the present commercial depression, the resolutions declare:

"Fearful of a continuance of these unnecessary and intolerable conditions and doubtful of the result at the polls unless a strong and successful man is nominated by the national Democratic convention, and believing with the Democrats of Minnesota that the nomination of Governor John A. Johnson of that state, would insure success; therefore, we, the Democrats of Deer Lodge county, hereby instruct our delegates to the state convention to use all honorable means to name delegates to the Democratic convention who will vote for the nomination of John A. Johnson."

The state convention will meet at Bozeman on June 10. A strong effort will be made to secure instructions for Johnson.

In Butte, where Bryan was the idol of the miners and labor unions, the Johnson sentiment is growing stronger daily. Reports from other parts of the state indicate a similar growth of interest in favor of the Minnesota governor.

PASSED OVER THE VETO.

Rainy River Dam Bill Passed by House and Senate.

Washington, May 25.—For the first time in many years the house of representatives passed a purely local bill over the president's veto Saturday, when the time limit for the completion of the Rainy river dam, at International Falls, was extended for a period of two years.

To Congressman F. C. Stevens of St. Paul is due to a large extent the credit of the outcome of the question that has been before the president, the secretary of war and the secretary of the interior for two weeks. He convinced President Roosevelt that the veto was based on erroneous information, and the president readily consented to a compromise whereby the bill was to pass over his veto, the International Falls Improvement company to agree to a general proposition that the water power rights are not to be granted perpetually. The senate also passed the bill.

QUIET DAY FOR SAILORS.

Seattle, Wash., May 25.—The second day of the Atlantic battleship fleets visit in the harbor of Seattle was a quiet one. The holiday spirit of the occasion was dampened by a drizzling rain which fell at intervals throughout the entire day and evening. In the various churches special services were held and patriotic sermons were preached, many sailors subsequently being the guests at dinners of the communicants.

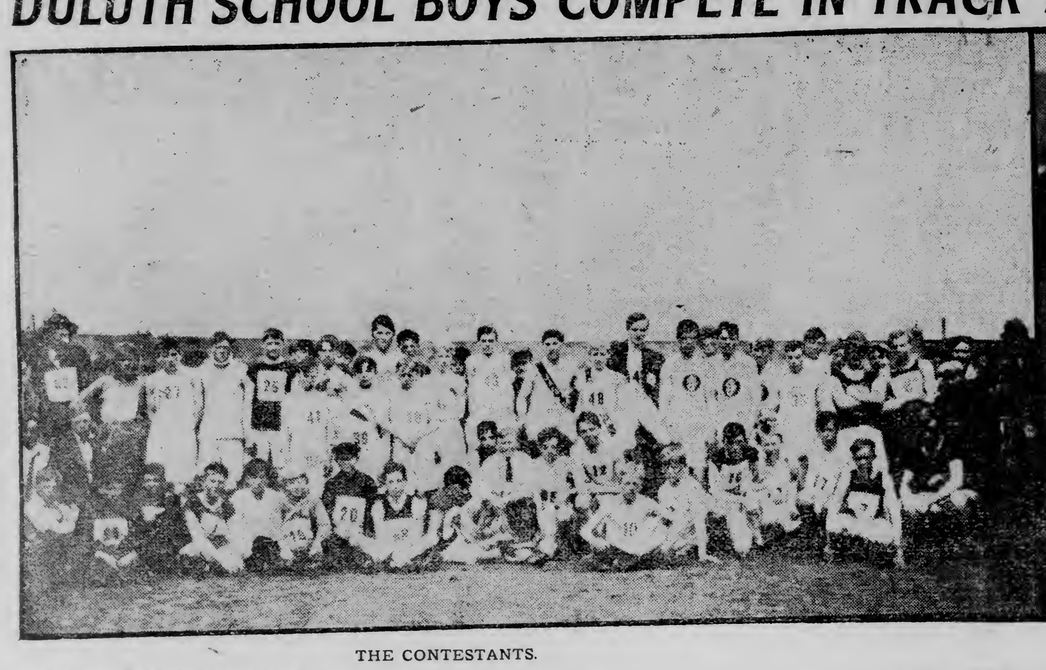
DULUTH SCHOOL BOYS COMPETE IN TRACK AND FIELD SPORTS FOR HERALD TROPHY



THE CONTESTANTS.

LINED UP FOR THE STARTER'S GUN.

RESULTS OF THE MEET:

Jefferson, 48 points.
Washington, 17 points.
Lincoln, 14½ points.
Endion, 6 points.
Lakeside, 2½ points.
Bryant, 2 points.
Jackson, 2 points.
Adams, 1 point.

Highest individual standing and winner of gold medal, Alphonse Walters, Jefferson school.

Robert Miller and P. Laugfald, both of Washington school tied for second, with 18 points each.

Herbert Helmer, Jefferson school, third with 17 points.

The Washington school students put up a strong fight against the strong Jefferson school team in the interscholastic track and field meet at the driving park Saturday, and lost by but one point, the Jeffersons winning the meet for the third consecutive time and taking possession of The Herald trophy.

The interest in the meet, after the first few events, settled principally in the contest between the Washington and Jefferson schools. There was little to choose between them and in every event their entries were close contenders. Several of the finishes were exciting and the 2,000 spectators were held breathless until the tape was reached.

The meet was the most successful ever held. The children and their elders turned out in force and every finish was accompanied by theexcited cheers of the partisans of the winners. The children were brilliantly decked in the colors of their respective schools and none of them lacked enthusiasm.

Alphonse Walters of the winning team was the star of the meet, and he was awarded the gold medal for the highest individual standing. Robert Miller and P. Langfald were responsible for most of the Washington school's points, and they were tied for the second highest standing. Herbert Helmer of the Jefferson school was third.

The half-mile relay, the big single event of the meet went to the Washington school team by a close margin. The Jefferson quartet made a pretty run, but the Washington boys took the lead in the first stretch and held it to the finish. The Lincolns were third.

All of the records were good. Peril of the Jefferson school went the 50-yard dash in six seconds, and Helmer of the Jefferson covered the 100 yards in 11 seconds, with Miller of Washington running him closely for the honors. The potato race and sack race caused considerable amusement, Ed Belanger of Lincoln winning both events from a big field.

The summary of the meet follows:

50-yard dash—Charles Peril, Jefferson, first; W. Lawrence, second; J. Wagner, Adams, third; time, 6 seconds.

75-yard dash—A. Walters, Jefferson, first; Matt Brown, Washington, second; W. Hutchinson, Lincoln, third; time, 9 1-5 seconds.

Potato race—Ed Belanger, Lincoln, first; Charles Peril, Jefferson, second; W. Lawrence, Washington, third; time, 1:24 1-3.

100-yard dash—H. Helmer, Jefferson, first; R. Miller, Washington, second; A. Olson, Lincoln, third; time, 11 seconds.

Sack race—50 yards—Ed Belanger, Lincoln, and C. Ericson, Lakeside, tied for first; W. Lawrence, Washington, third; time 11 2-3 seconds.

Quarter mile run—A. Walters, Jefferson, first; M. Brown, Washington, second; H. Helmer, Jefferson, third; time, 1 minute.

Three-legged race—50 yards—A. Walters and H. Helmer of Jefferson, first; W. Lawrence and M. Brown, Washington, second; Ed Belanger and R. Rice, Lincoln, third; time, 7 1-5 seconds.

Half-mile run—M. Brown, Washington, first; H. Helmer, Jefferson, second; A. Kelley, Jackson, third; time, 2:24 4-5.

Three standing jumps—R. Miller, Washington, first; D. McLeod, Jefferson, second; B. Pillsbury, Endion, third; distance, 26½ feet.

Hop, step and jump — P. Langfald, Washington, first; A. Kelley, Jackson, second; B. Pillsbury, Endion, second; distance, 37 feet 1 inch.

Half-mile relay—R. Miller, M. Brown, P. Langfald and G. Merritt, Wasington, first; A. Walters, H. Helmer, D. McLeod and J. Wagner, Jefferson, second; F. Bates, H. Nybro, G. Wallin and H. Hansen, Lincoln, third; time, 2:23.

SOX LOSE BY NOT HITTING

New Brandon Pitchers Holds Duluth to Two Hits.

Meneice Wins for Canadians With Two Timely Swats.

Brandon, Man., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Sox just cannot hit the ball. By failing to land with men on the sacks they lost another to O'Dea's wonders Saturday. Scolz, another new Brandon pitcher, let them down with two puny hits and the Angels won their seventh consecutive game by a score of 5 to 3.

Murray pitched ball that ought to have won and the Sox played a nice game in the field, but it was all to no avail, without the hitting to score runs. Scolz had them on the run all the way through. He only fanned four, but nearly every ball hit rolled harmlessly along in the infield, or dropped into the waiting mit of an outfielder.

Sam Meneice's big club was directly responsible for the Sox defeat again. Meneice sure has found his batting eye. In the first, with two on bases, he rapped one up against the fence for two sacks and scored both men. Again in the third when a run was needed, he rapped one safely and the man scored. McGraw continued his hitting, getting two safe ones out of three times up.

The Sox scored in the first inning. Voss drew a base on balls and Baker advanced him with a sacrifice. Mills dropped O'Brien's long fly and Voss scored. In the fifth, O'Brien's hit, Leighty's error and a wild pitched scored another and in the ninth, Murray walked and worked his way around on two infield outs and a wild pitch.

Summers and Leighty were both hit by Murray in the first, advanced on McGraw's sacrifice and scored on Meneice's two-sacker. In the third, McGraw singled, stole second and registered on Meneice's single. Two were added in the fifth and Murray held them safely after that, though Duluth could not overcome the lead.

FARGO WINS FIRST GAME

McNeil's Men Take One of Double Header From Winnipeg.

Teams Break Even in Two Well Played Games.

Winnipeg, Man., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo won a game. Likewise, McNeil's Brownies lost one. They broke even with the Maroons in a double-header Saturday, grabbing the first, 2 to 1, and losing the second, 5 to 4.

Both games were well played. In the first Clark held the Peggers safely all the way through, and Terry had the Trolley Dodgers badly worried. They managed to get to him in the sixth for a couple of well-timed hits and drove two runs across the plate, while a lone one in the third was the best the Maroons could do.

Sawyer gave the Brownies but two hits in the second game, but his wildness and poor support almost lost the game for him. Fargo scored four in the seventh round, and the calling of the game at 8 o'clock by agreement saved the day. Linderman was touched pretty freely in the second and third innings, the Peggers scoring enough to win.

Eveleth Beats Columbias.

The new Eveleth team had its first work-out Saturday, defeating the Columbias of Duluth by a score of 9 to 2 in a loosely-played game. There were many errors on both sides, but the Eveleth players found the Columbia pitchers pretty easy. Gebeau and Owens pitched for Eveleth and the Dulnthians couldn't do much with them.

When your food seems to nauseate take Kodol. There isn't any doubt about what it will do and you will find the truth of this statement verified after a few weeks' use. Sold here by all druggists.

On the question as to whether or not a good stroke can be developed this year, rest largely the success of the Duluth Boat club eight this season.

Never in the history of the club have there been so many big men trying for the crew. There are at least fifteen available candidates, every one of whom would have been considered a valuable man in former years.

The crew has not yet been picked, but it will probably be selected from the following men: Sinclair, Meyers, Goodwin, Hector, Colton, Rockwell, Crawford, Liggett, MacDowell, Dinham, Forgette, Walker, Nelson, Flynn and Hoyer.

B. J. Pierce, who stroked last year's crews, is unable to row this year, and the club is forced to develop a new stroke. Several men have been tried in the position, but no one has been selected as yet to fill the place permanently.

The position of stroke is a difficult one to fill, and particularly so this year. The qualities needed above all others, are steadiness and staying powers. With a crew averaging 175 pounds behind him, weight is not an essential quality. If the stroke can "kill" a crew, the kind the club will turn out this year, he should get results.

The weather has greatly handicapped the crews so far this year. Cold, rainy, windy days are not conducive to great enthusiasm over the sport, but, in spite of the weather, the candidates have been out every night when the weather would permit a shell to be launched without the certainty of its being swamped.

TRADERS WIN FIRST GAME

Wolvin Building Team Defeated in Loosely Played Contest.

The baseball teams of the Wolvin building and Board of Trade mixed up for the first time Saturday, and before a large crowd from the two buildings, the pit traders won by a score of 12 to 5.

Both pitchers did fine work, but some of the movements behind them were as wierd as the dance of a whirling Dervish. The outfielders of the Wolvin team were constantly twisting themselves into knots, and the ball dropped harmlessly to the ground, while the Traders legged it around the bases. Some of the heaves were horrible to behold.

Murphy, the southpaw, who whirled for the traders, had everything, and thirteen of the Wolvin men went down before him. Endres was wild, and wild pitches kept the Board of Trade men moving around the bases.

The rooting was good, the traders in the stand making good use of their pit voices to encourage their men to greater effort. Following is the score:

	R.	H.	E.
Board of Trade	0 0 2 3 0 3 4 0 x	12	9	6
Wolvin Building	1 0 0 0 4 0 0 0 0	5	8	7

VIRGINIA WINS FROM HIBBING

Brady's Men Lose Opener Between Rivals of the Range.

Virginia, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia baseball team, on which the local fans are pinning their hopes of honors for the season, obeyed the "Beat Hibbing" slogan to a nicety Saturday afternoon by defeating Tom Brady's Colts by a score of 6 to 4 in a well-played game. A crowd of Hibbing fans accompanied their team to Virginia, and a big crowd saw the game.

Currie, the Wisconsin state leaguer, was on the hill for Virginia, and he held the Hibbing sluggers well in hand all the way through. The work behind him was pretty crude at times, but he tightened up with men on the bases and got away very nicely except in the fifth inning, when Hibbing scored three.

Couture opened up for Hibbing and, after the Virginians had scored five on him in the first four innings, he was relieved by Lyman, who pitched nice ball in the remaining innings.

Yesterday's game was postponed on account of the rain and arrangements made for a two-game series Wednesday and Thursday at Hibbing. The rivalry between the fans of the two towns is greater than last year, and the two contests at Hibbing will bring out the greatest baseball ever seen on the range.

Following is the score of Saturday's game:

	R.	H.	E.
Virginia	2 0 2 1 0 0 1 0 x	6	9	4
Hibbing	0 0 0 3 0 0 1 0—4	7	3

Batteries—Currie and Billings; Couture, Lyman and Carroll.

BLAINE BLANKS NELSON DEWEY

East Enders Lose Second Game of High School Series.

The Blaine high school team tied things up with Nelson Dewey in the series for the Northern cup Saturday afternoon, winning by a score of 4 to 0. Conley of the East Enders pitched fine ball, but his support was pretty ragged. Clark held the East enders safely with men on bases and Blaine was never in danger. The teams will play one more game to decide possession of the cup. The detailed score of Saturday's game follows:

JUMPING STUMPS ON THE CORNER LOTS

Yesterday was a bad one for the corner lots. About fifty-seven varieties of games were scheduled for every available two by four lot in the city, but the small boy dolefully watched the rain fall in torrents and wondered why

'Twas ever thus in all my years
This cruel fate to me befell.
I never wanted to play ball,
But the rain came down pell-mell.

POSTPONE MEET AGAIN

High School Class Track Teams May Compete Next Saturday.

No Meet With Blaine and No Baseball This Year.

The high school boys are colliding with hard luck right along and the interclass track and field meet, postponed from last Friday to this afternoon must suffer another postponement on account of yesterday's rain. The track at Athletic park is a veritable sea of mud and the meet cannot be held for several days.

It is very probable that an effort will be made to pull off the events next Saturday afternoon. The boys are all keyed up for the contests, they have trained faithfully, and the second postponement is a distinct disappointment to them. The rivalry between the different classes is great and the meet will bring out the best sport of the year.

The interclass meet is the only venture of the high school on the track this season. The annual dual meet with Blaine will not be held, to the disappointment of the lovers of athletics. The boys did not get started until late this year, the interclass meet could not be held early enough to make selections for the school team and the enthusiasm was centered more in the contests between classes than those with outside schools.

There is good track and field material in the class teams. To make the selections would consume more time than the boys have at their disposal and they have given up the idea of meeting Blaine.

The baseball team has also dropped into non-existence. It was thought the boys would go out for the Northern Hardware cup this year and they were included in the series between the three high school boys of Duluth and Superior. However, it was found impossible to get the boys out and ready for the fray, so the game were forfeited and Blaine and Nelson Dewey allowed to fight it out between themselves.

BUSY WEEK IN SPORTING WORLD

Country Will See Varied Program of Athletic Events.

New York, May 25.—As always is the case in the week that ushers in the national Memorial day, the sporting program is a long and varied one, and embraces athletics, golf, tennis, polo, baseball, rowing, yachting and automobiling.

Chief of the athletic meets will be the big collegiate field and track sports on Franklin field, Philadelphia, next Friday and Saturday, in which the entered the star performers of the big universities.

Chicago, also, will see the Western athletes at work, striving for places on the Olympic team, Friday and Saturday, on Marshall field, and the Buffalo Athletic association will hold a meet at Kenilworth park, Saturday.

The rowing event of the week will be the Harlem River Regatta association's races on the Harlem, at New York, Decoration day. A number of out-of-town clubs have entered crews. In New York, Tuesday night, the try-outs for wrestlers, who hope to make the Olympic team, will take place.

For the automobilists, races have been arranged over the Readville track, near Boston. There will be hill climbing contests at Bridgeport and Wilkesbarre and races, including 100-mile event, over the Pimlico track, near Baltimore, on Decoration day.

The Atlantic, Sewanhaka, Corinthian, Indian Harbor, Bayside and Harlem River Yacht clubs will hold regattas on Saturday.

Hospital Tragedies From Constipation.

"Yes, operations are increasing, especially for appendicitis, rectal diseases and womanly troubles. My heart is touched by the great ignorance of the rich and poor concerning the important and proper care of the bowel passage. Children are robbed of health, wives and mothers made weak and sickly, young girls made thin and weakly, sallow and sickly, men are suffering from complications due solely to neglected constipation; while the death-dealing contagions and infections are mainly encountered where constipation has existed.

"Poisons accumulate, the blood absorbs them and the entire body becomes easily subject to coughs, colds and fevers. Never permit any member of the family to go over 24 hours without an evacuation.

"Something is needed to relieve promptly and eventually correct the morbid, inactive bowel muscles and nerves. The following has been used with success for years, treating old and young and curing what all else failed. Any leading druggist will mix it, or get the ingredients and mix it at home to insure against substituting:

"'One ounce aromatic fluid Cascara,' 'one ounce compound essence Cardiol,' and 'two ounces aromatic syrup Rhubarb.' Mix, and adults take from ½ to 2 teaspoonfuls after each meal. Children may be given five drops to a teaspoonful after eating. This may be used with ever increasing benefit until a cure is effected," says a kindly, motherly nurse-matron who has had great experience.

CRACK SHOOTING HAS FATAL END

An Eight-Year-Old Boy, Watching Demonstration, is Killed.

Minot, N. D., May 25.—A lamentable accident occurred on the grounds of the gun club at Portal in which Elmo, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Nelson, lost his life.

J. M. Hughes, a representative of the Peters Cartridge company, was giving an exhibition of fancy shooting with a .22-long rifle. He shot at a flying target and missing it, attempted another shot before the target reached the ground. The second shot also missed, and struck young Nelson in the heart, killing him instantly.

When Mr. Hughes realized the truth he fell in a faint and was revived with difficulty. Sheriff Lee of Minot was immediately notified.

Mr. Nelson is employed at the Soo roundhouse and Elmo was next to the oldest of a family of five children.

The matter will be investigated and if criminal negligence is found an arrest may follow.

NEW WALKER BUILDING.

Walker, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Daniel DeLury and Thomas Thompson will erect a substantial solid brick store building on one of the lots between William Dearing's place and the Farmer McCabe building. Pressed brick will be used for the front of the building, with large plate glass windows. When completed the store room will be leased by J. Emody, the jeweler.

DROWNED WHILE INTOXICATED.

Rhinelander, Wis., May 25.—The body of an unknown man was found Sunday in the power canal of the Rhinelander Paper company. There was nothing on the body to identify the remains. A man was seen to fall into the canal, but sank almost immediately. The gates were closed and the water was drawn off before the body was located. The man was evidently a woodsman and intoxicated when he fell into the water.

DIES GOING TO HOSPITAL.

Oshkosh, Wis., May 25.—While being hurried from his home at Norway, Mich., to Marcy hospital in Chicago, Kenneth Poule, son of John Poule, aged 3 years, died here on a Chicago & Northwestern train as the result of swallowing a "jack" used in a popular game. The object lodged in the aesophagus and it was hoped to remove it by an operation.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WARM ROAST FOR YOUNGER

Warden Wolfer Tells Former Bandit He is a Big Coward.

Will Clap Him in Jail if He Returns to State.

Stillwater, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cole Younger, ex-convict, former bank robber and all-round desperado, recently received a letter from Warden Wolfer that must have made his ears tingle, as the man in charge of the big state prison here plainly told the star actor in the famous Northfield affair that he was an arrant coward and better never come within the confines of Minnesota again.

Younger was anxious to get the conditions attached to his Minnesota pardon removed. He particularly objects to the condition that he shall never return to Minnesota. So he wrote asking Warden Wolfer to intercede with the state board of pardons to have the conditional pardon made unconditional.

Cole has received a reply said to have been one of the warmest roasts that ever went through the mails. Warden Wolfer told Cole his former friends in Minnesota once believed he was a brave man, and that after being granted a pardon, he would prove that by his mode of life. But now Warden Wolfer had all the evidence he wanted to justify the belief he was nothing but a coward.

Wolfer wrote further, that if Cole Younger ever again showed his face in Minnesota there would be no first debating in the courts whether the warden had the right to lock him up; the warden would at once seize him and place him behind the bars.

The letter was written by Wolfer some time ago, and Cole hasn't yet had the nerve to answer it.

It is said to be the old bank robber's desire to have the conditions of his pardon removed so he can tour through the North with his Cole Younger circus. One of his agreements for his pardon was that he would never exhibit himself in a public way, never enter the show business, and especially not attach himself to any circus.

HARVESTERS TO BE STATE-MADE

Machines for Farmers of Minnesota Coming From Penitentiary.

Stillwater, May 25.—A limited number of Minnesota farmers will be given opportunity this year of testing harvesters and mowers made in the new machine shop of the state prison. A dozen each of the machines will be ready for use by July 1.

Last August J. H. Downing, an expert in manufacturing harvesters and mowers, was brought here from Canada and made superintendent of the new state prison factory for making farm machinery. He was assigned shop room in a prison building and has ben busy ever since. Such progress has been made that there have been built, and will be ready by July 1, a dozen harvesters and as many mowers to be turned over to representative farmers of the state to be tested during the harvest.

Notwithstanding the fact that the matter has been kept quiet, it leaked out that machines are to be given to as many farmers as there are machine for trial, and Warden Henry Wolfer has received applications from 400 farmers for their use and expects hundreds more. It is not the intention to sell any machines this year. Those who try them will be expected to make a detailed report as to their work. If it is necessary to make changes after practical tests, these will be made and the manufacture on a big scale will begin, so that there may be sales to farmers of the state next year and thereafter.

The Minnesota harvester and the Minnesota mower will be the names, and the machines will be the best on the market. They will comprise all the desirable appointments and patents of all such machines in use, some patents having been been bought by the state outright, ohtrs secured by paying royalties. DEAD IN HIS CHAIR.

David McAllister Expires Sitting Upon Hotel Porch.

Bemidji, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of David McAllister, who died suddenly, was brought to Bemidji yesterday from Houpt and was shipped to Marinette, Wis., the old home of the diseased.

McAllister made the Bereman hotel at Houpt his home and was considered a privileged character around the hotel; he came and went as he pleased and had the free run of the house.

On Thursday night, about 11 o'clock, he went out of the house and sat down on the porch. Nothing was though of this as he had often done the same thing before.

The next morning McAllister was found sitting on the porch with his head in his hands, having died some time during the night.

Coroner Russell of Grand Rapids viewed the remains and decided an inquest was not necessary, death having been caused by appoplexy.

David McAllister was a member of the Masonic lodge at Marinette, Wis., and the members of the Bemidji lodge had charge of the body and shipped it to Marinette.

Mr. McAllister was married and leaves a wife and three children in Marinette. He was 45 years old and was well known in Bemidji, Blackduck and other points in Northern Minnesota.

MAIL SERVICE CHANGED

Between International Falls and Loman Goes Into Effect.

International Falls, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contractor Jameson has been trying to arrange a mail schedule between Loman and International Falls that would fit in with the steamer Itasca's run between this place and Baudette, and had secured an endorsement requesting that schedule be changed to read as follows: Leave International Falls at 6 a. m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Leave Loman at 1 p. m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. In answer to the petition an order was issued from Washington directing that the schedule be thus—beginning May 18th: Leave International Falls Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at 6 a. m., arrive at Loman at 12 m., returning leave Loman at 1 p. m. same days.

The Duluth Brewing company's block at the corner of Third street and Second avenue is fast nearing completion. A large force of men are at work and when done it will rank as one of the handsomest blocks of the village.

A change will be made in the fire engine station. An extension will be put on the opposite side of the dock and the engine house will be placed on a level with the upper dock, thus avoiding about a thirty-minute delay in getting the engine out in case of fire, as it is where it now stands.

Mr. P. A. Walsh, the present sheriff of this county, is the first one to announce his candidacy for this office through the Press.

HANCOCK IS RICHER.

Increase in Property Values in Year Reaches $140,000.

Hancock, Mich., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city of Hancock is worth $140,000 more than is was one year ago, according to the finding of the board of review. The assessed valuation of the city of Honcock this year is $2,575,000 as against $2,435,600 last year.

The general valuation is the same on the same property. The increase is caused by the erection of new buildings which were not assessable last year. Three structures alone make an increase of $50,000.

Taking the assessed valuation as a basis the estimated full value of Hancock property is something like $7,725,000, not so bad for a community of not over 10,000 inhabitants. The tax levied will be a total of $1.55 per hundred, bringing in about $20,000.

In addition to this $20,000 will be received from saloon licenses, making the whole available for city use $61,000. This, it is believed, will run the city for a year very nicely with other revenues if the water system is made self-supporting, which it will be when the new rates go into effect one week from today.

The mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Shaw remains unsolved. District Attorney Francis J. GOOD SWIMMER DROWNS; POOR ONE IS SAVED.

Neenah, Wis., May 25.—Within full view of his wife, who stood on the river bank, helpless, Charles Foxgrover, a business man, perished in the Fox river while fishing.

Accompanied by Eugene Roblee, he anchored his boat below the Neenah dam. Turbulent waters broke the anchorage, capsizing the boat and precipitating both men into the water. Foxgrover, who is an expert swimmer, was caught in the undertow and held on the bottom.

Roblee, who cannot swim, drifted swiftly down with the current and was rescued by others in nearby boats. He was unconscious when taken from the water, but physicians revived him.

Mrs. Foxgrover, in her paroxysms of grief, inflicted bodily injury on herself and had to be watched carefully to prevent further harm.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS GOOD.

J. C. Barber, Just From New York, Talks Encouragingly.

Brainerd, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. C. Barber, the wealthy Chicago car truck manufacturer, has returned to his place at Nokay lake, after a flying trip to New York city. He left here a week ago, called by wire to New York to meet the officials of the Harriman lines. While in the metropolis he took a large order for car trucks from them. Mr. Barber spoke enthusiastically of business prospects. He say that there is much building going on in the East, and that conditions are improving every day. The best feature of the improvement, in the opinion of Mr. Barber, is the fact that there is a solid cash basis for the business. In his many journeys to and fro between his home and business in Chicago and his place here, and his many visits to New York and other business centers of the country he meets many men and he says that he frequently hears a man say, "I could do so and so, but I will not do any more than I can pay for." This sentiment, he believes, prevails and will prevent over expansion, which would be as disastrous as business lethargy.

Mr. Barber is adding to the prosperity of Crow Wing county by the expenditure of about $500 per week, on his Nokay lake place, practically all of which is spent in Brainerd. He remarked regarding it that it was only a little, but every little helped. He expects to get the improvements at "Crows' Nest," his summer home, so far completed next week that his family will come on from Chicago for the summer.

WAS COIN COLLECTOR.

Man Arrested in St. Cloud for Being Drunk.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The police gathered in an old coin collector, as well as a coin distributor, yesterday when they took in tow J. A. Howard, charged with drunkenness, who was subsequently released on a suspended sentence. Howard was a regular walking coin collection. He carried about a hundred different coins from all parts of the world. Howard claims that he was employed as a machinist in Omaha and was laid off during the recent depression. He had about $300 in cash at the time. He laid around Omaha for three months, hoping to be put back to work. The shops are still shut down, however, so he decided to come north. He left all of his money with his family and decided to beat his way to the coast, where he hopes to secure a position. He took with him his collection of old coins, which are quite valuable as a safeguard. He states that he will not let go of any of them until he is forced to do so. Many of the coins which he has in his collection have been handed from generation to generation. His great grandfather was a great collector of coins and had several hundred different kinds. After his death the collection was divided among the heirs. Howard has in his possession the share his father secured. He had about fifty when he started and has succeeded in collecting as many more.

A number went down in the steamer Yukon to attend the funeral.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Devils Lake, N. D.—An effort is being made to have a district school located on the Chautauqua grounds. The establishment of the school would be a big thing for the summer visitors, as it would allow the children to go to school the entire season.

S.S.S. A CERTAIN SAFE TREATMENT

S. S. S. is the only safe and reliable cure for Contagious Blood Poison. It is purely vegetable, made entirely from healing, cleansing roots, herbs and barks, and in addition to curing this vile disorder, S. S. S. builds up every part of the system. Mercury and potash cannot cure the trouble; they can only mask it in the system for awhile, and when they are left off the disease returns, usually, in worse form than before, and the patient finds he has damaged his health with these strong minerals, which disease the delicate lining of the stomach, affect the bowels, produce chronic dyspepsia and often set up Mercurial Rheumatism. It will not do to trifle with a disease so powerful as Contagious Blood Poison, for every day it remains in the blood it is progressing toward a dangerous stage, and will in the end get beyond the control of any treatment. S. S. S. cures blood poison in the right way, it goes down into the circulation and removes every particle of the virus. No bad results are ever experienced from the use of S. S. S. It is gentle and pleasant in its action, and forty years of cures warrant the statement that S. S. S. is not only a safe but a certain treatment. Home treatment book on this disease and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

WHEAT HAS AN UP-TURN

Floods in the Soutwwest Cause a Bullish Market.

Flax is Firm at the Close in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 25.—Wheat had a good bulge all along the line during the session of the American markets today.

The demand was good from the outset on more bullish news concerning the domestic crops. The floods in Oklahoma and Texas are menacing the winter wheat, and this had a most strengthening effect on the market.

The foreigners are still bidding for the American wheat and some was worked for export during the session in Duluth.

Liverpool closed 3d higher, Berlin ⅝c higher and Budapest unchanged.

The July option closed ⅞c higher than Saturday in Duluth, 1⅛c higher in Chicago, ⅝c higher in Minneapolis, ⅝c higher in New York, 3-4c higher in St. Louis and 1c higher in Kansas City. There was no session in Winnipeg today, it being a holiday there. The September option closed ⅝c higher in Duluth and Minneapolis, ⅞c higher in Chicago and ⅞c higher in New York.

July corn closed ⅛c higher in Chicago and unchanged in Liverpool.

July oats closed 3-4c higher in Chicago.

Following were the world's shipments of wheat and corn last week, the week previous and the corresponding week a year ago, are shown as follows:

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"There was a steady undertone to the speculative wheat market at the opening and values were ¾d to 1d higher. Offerings were light and support good, stimulated by the strength in American on aSturday, rains in the American Southwest, continued drought in Roumania and a decrease in local stocks. Following the opening, pressure developed on the heavy world's shipments for the week, and especially to the United Kingdom which amounted to 4,568,000 bus against 2,560,000 bus last week, and prices lost ½d to ¾d with the principal weakness in the nearby months. At midday a slight recovery took place, although the market was exceedingly dull. At this time the market was ¼d higher than Saturday.

"Corn was steady and unchanged. The market was neglected."

Car receipts at Duluth were 19 against 61 last year, and at Minneapolis 196 against 329 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 215 against 390 last year. Chicago received 53 against 21 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 631,000 bus, last year 672,000 bus. Shipments 398,000 bus, last year 153,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 246,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 640,000 bus, last year 1,027,000 bus. Shipments 462,000 bus, last year 400,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 76,400 bus.

Wheat was fairly active during the session in Duluth. There was quite a little trading in the May option. May wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.06⅜, advanced to $1.07¼, declined to $1.07 and closed at $1.07¼, a gain of ¾ over Saturday. July wheat opened ¼c higher at $1.00⅞, advanced to $1.01⅝, declined to $1.00 and closed at $1.01⅛, a gain of ¾c over Saturday. September wheat was inactive and closed at 97⅝c, a gain of ⅝c over Saturday.

Durum wheat closed ⅝c higher, and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was rather quiet, but the tone was stronger at the close. May flax was inactive and closed ⅝c higher at $1.23⅝. July flax opened ⅝c higher at $1.24, declined to $1.23⅜ and closed there, a gain of ⅜c over Saturday. September flax opened ⅜c higher at $1.24, declined to $1.23⅜ and closed there, a gain of ⅛c over yesterday. October flax closed ¼c higher than Saturday at $1.22½.

Coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Firm With Trading Done Chiefly in July and September.

Chicago, May 25.—The wheat market was firm at the opening today, the trade being chiefly in July and September. Receipts in the Northwest were small, and Liverpool cables were firm. Heavy rains in the Southwest, which may delay harvesting, formed another bullish factor. July wheat opened ¼@⅝c to ⅝@¾c higher at 90¾@90⅞c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 268 cars against 251 cars last week and 421 cars a year ago.

The market was firm all day, chiefly because of damage reports from the Southwest. The high point for July was 91¼c. The close was strong with July ⅝c higher at 91@91¼c.

The corn market was quiet and easy. Trading in the May option was dull and prices were off 1 cent. Receipts were liberal, and the weather in the corn belt was considered favorable. May corn opened ½@⅝c lower at 75¼@75½c and sold at 75c.

July corn was unchanged at ¼c lower at 65⅝@66c and sold at 65¾@⅞c. Local receipts were 535 cars with 25 cars of contract grade.

The market was irregular, May being weak and the distant deliveries firm. The low point for May was 74⅝c. The close was irregular, May being wea and 1¼c lower at 74¾c, while July was firm and up ⅛c at 64c.

The oats market was dull and steady. July oats opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 47⅛@47¼c and for a time held within that range. Local receipts were 298 cars.

The provision market was easy because of a 15-cent decline in live hogs. July pork was 7½@10c lower at $13.47½@13.50; lard was 3½c lower at $8.40; ribs were a shade off at $7.37½c.

Close—Wheat: May, $1.02⅝; July, 91@91¼c; September, 87⅝@87¾c; September, 88¼c. Corn—May, 74¾c; July, 66¼c; September, 64⅝c; December, 56⅝@56¾c. Oats—May, old, 54¾c, May, 54 c; July, old, 47¼@47½c; July, 45½c; September, 37¼@38c. Pork—May, $13.47½; July, $13.57½; September, $13.37½@13.50. Ribs—May, $7.22½. Rye—Cash, 87@89c. Lard—May, $8.35. July, $8.40½c; September, $8.02½. Ribs—September, $8.30½. Barley—Cash, 63@65. Timothy, $4.15. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, $1.01@1.02½; No. 3 red, 95c@$1.00; No. 2 hard, 95¾c@$1.01; No. 3 hard, 93c@$1.02; No. 3 spring 95c@$1.00; others, nothing doing. Corn—No. 2, nothing doing; No. 3, 73½@74c. Oats—No. 2 and No. 3, nothing doing.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

The Prospect of Continued Rain Sends Wheat Up a Cent.

Minneapolis, May 25.—Oklahoma messages reporting rains and floods put wheat up a cent. There was too much rain also in the spring wheat country and a low barometer appeared on the map, the Eastern rim of it extending over the Red River valley, where there has already been abundant rain. The prospect for more rain tonight in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kansas and Oklahoma with a government report of 7.20 inches for Oklahoma and precipitation last week, created new buying. Locally the situation was strong. Minneapolis elevator stocks decreasing 150,000 bus for two days, while only 256 cars were received today against 329 a year ago, Duluth got 19 against 61. Selling came on the market apparently from Chicago, but it had little effect. A holiday in Canada delayed the visible supply figures, which are expected to show a heavy decrease. July opened $1.00@⅞; high, $1.00⅝@¾; low, $1.00⅜. September closed at 92c; May at $1.07⅜.

Cash wheat strengthened and No. 1 northern sold at 33½c over July, while No. 2 also advanced in premium and brought ½@1½c over. Demand was good for all milling wheat. Closing:

No. 1 northern, $1.03⅜@⅝; spot, $1.09⅜; to arrive, No. 3 wheat, $1.01⅜@1.05⅜.

No. 3 yellow corn, 70¾c; No. 3 white oats, 50⅞@51½c; No. 3 rye, 77½@78½c.

Barley sold to local maltsters on a range of 58@61c and there was a moderate outside demand; prices averaging about the same as Saturday. Close, 55 @65c.

Flax advanced sharply, selling at 1½c over Duluth July for the spot, No. 1 seed and bringing 3c over on sale of 1,000 bus to arrive. Close, $1.25.

Bran in bulk, $21.75@22, demand fair.

Flour was firmer in tone in a line with strength in wheat, but quotations were unchanged. There was a moderate demand today. Shipments, 30,342 barrels. First patents, $5.40@5.60; second patents, $5.30@5.45; first clears, $4.25@4.35; second clears, $3.55@3.65.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Opened Unsettled and Weak, But Soon Improved.

Prices Advanced in Final Hour and Close Was Strong.

New York, May 25.—The market opened exceedingly unsettled and for the most part weak. The first transaction recorded on the tape was of Brooklyn Transit at an advance of 2¼ over Sunday, in consequence of the veto of the Coney Island 5-cent fare bill. Subsequently transactions showed that only a few other stocks were supported for fractional gains, while wide declines were registered throughout the general list.

Losses ran from 1 to 1¾ in Union Pacific, St. Paul, Atchison, Missouri Pacific, Wabash preferred, Erie, Baltimore & Ohio, American Car, American Sugar, Anaconda and others.

General electric sold at a decline of 4 and Pacific Mail 2½; secondary quotations showed better prices in some cases, and the tone became somewhat irregular.

The market turned upwards and converted some of the early losses into gains of a point or more. The Saturday railroad stocks were bought heavily around low prices and led the recovery. The market receded again, Reading losing its earlier gain.

The vigorous rally having demonstrated the effectiveness of the supporting measures, the buying was cut down. Prices wavered from time to time. Bonds were irregular.

The market became very dull for a period after 12 o'clock, but prices were well sustained around the high level. Northern Pacific gained 1.

The market closed strong. Prices advanced another stage in the final hour. Union Pacific, St. Paul and Reading were lifted 2½; Southern Pacific, 1¾; Northern Pacific, 1½; Canadian Pacific and United States Steel preferred, 1; Pennsylvania, New York Central, Great Northern preferred and Anaconda, 1.

Copper Gossip.

N. S. Mitchell & Co., who recently purchased the brokerage business of Walter W. Carr, took charge of the Carr office. The following review of the Boston market came to the firm today: A moderate recession took place in the copper list at the opening, but the prices later recovered and trading became dull. Reports are coming to hand of a better demand from consumers for metal, and reports as to conditions prevailing in the West and the fair crop outlook leads us to believe that considerable activity will develop in the next few months in the industrial lines. The feeling among holders of copper stocks is rather optimistic and first visible signs of an active demand for metal should stimulate action in copper stocks.

BOAT MAROONED ON THE RIVER

Ladies in Launching Party Had to Walk Home.

"Go when the going's good," is a solid piece of advice that cannot, unfortunately, always be applied in certain situations. So Dr. D. H. Day learned yesterday.

Dr. Day's gasoline boat was going smoothly, but the weather was raving so furiously that the doctor decided to put into a slip, near the old docks on the St. Louis river. It was here that the good going ended.

The doctor decided to ship in to shore and await the passing of the storm.

A new dock had been built where an old dock had once been. Part of the underpinnings of the old dock was still standing underneath the surface of the water, and when the doctor's boat slipped its nose into the haven of rest, it also slipped its keel on to the wooden superstructure of the old dock and held fast.

The boat was held securely in the crib formed by the old wooden piling. The ladies of whom there were several in the party, were forced to get out of the boat as best they could. Something was broken on the boat by the rough passage over the old superstructure of the submerged dock, and there it was, as helpless as a truth fearing employe in a rebate cross examination.

It was necessary for the ladies to leave the marooned boat and walk across country-imagine cross country walking yesterday about four miles to the street car line. The doctor got home sometime this morning. It is said that he struck to the boat like the boy of burning deck fame.

FINES AGAINST OMAHA ROAD ARE AFFIRMED.

St. Paul, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The United States circuit court of appeals today affirmed the United States court conviction and the fines imposed on the Omaha railroad and its general agent, H. M. Pearce, in grain rebate cases, levied last year in Minneapolis. The appeal of the company is dismissed, the government's contentions in lower court being sustained in every particular. The fine on the railroad was $20,000 and on Mr. Pearce $2,000.

X-RAY FINDS CURE.

Birmingham (England) Cor. New York Sun: Dr. Hall Edwards, one of the X-ray pioneers, who has been a victim since 1893 of a cancerous ulcer caused by exposure to the rays and who was compelled to have an arm amputated, has continued his X-ray researches throughout his prolonged sufferings, concurrently studying his own disease and hoping to cure it. He believes he has discovered a successful treatment. If further experiments confirm his belief he will publish the treatment in a book he is preparing on X-rays.

He states that an operator can make himself immune from the baneful effects of the rays by wearing steel gauntlets lined with rubber and an apron coated with lead. Despite constant and often excruciating pain, Dr. Edwards is generally cheerful and active. Sometimes however, he is depressed by the fear that he will not live long enough to complete his book.

He positively insists that the brief exposure to the rays that patients undergo is harmless.

EARLY BALLOONING.

Chicago: In 1767, following immediately after the discovery of hydrogen, Dr. Black of Edinburg, pointed out that a vessel filled with this gas would rise in the air. Almost simultaneously the brothers Etienne and Joseph Montgolfer, who were paper manufacturers, as a result of reading Priestley's "

"BOOSTER" PUMP READY

West Duluth Now Assured of Reserve Water Supply.

Will be Used to Keep the New Reservoir Filled.

The "booster" pump, on Grand avenue and Forty-sixth avenue west, was completed and connections made with the city water main Saturday night. It is now ready to receive its power from the Great Northern Power company, as it is to be operated by electricity.

While the connections between the pump and the city main were being made, West Duluth was shut off from the city water supply, from 2 o'clock Friday afternoon until 5 o'clock Saturday evening. During that time the western extremity of the city was supplied with water from its own reservoir. This shows that if anything should happen to the water connections with Duluth, West Duluth could go for several days on its own reserve supply.

In building the West Duluth reservoir, it was not placed high enough above the Duluth water reservoir. To remedy this the "booster" pump has been installed, which will accelerate the flow of the water to the West Duluth tank, and keep the water there at the proper level.

DIES ON BARROOM FLOOR.

Old Man is Suddenly Stricken in West Duluth Saloon.

About 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning, death suddenly summoned Charles Julin, an aged man, while mopping the floor of Peter Deloyla's saloon, 204 North Central avenue.

Julin was alone in the saloon when he was stricken. He was found lying on the barroom floor shortly after he had fallen by Joseph DeChambeau, a bartender. Dr. S. S. Shannon was called and the body was removed to M. J. Filiatrault's undertaking rooms, where an autopsy proved that death had been due to pericarditis.

The deceased has no known relatives in West Duluth. He had lived in the city for about five years. The funeral will be arranged for by friends.

BODY NOT FOUND.

Search for West Duluth Boy, Drowned Saturday, is Unsuccessful.

The search for the body of Uno Nygard, who was drowned Saturday afternoon at the Alger-Smith mill, proved unsuccessful yesterday. All day long the boy's father, Carl Nygard, of 5211 Wadena street, assisted by the West Duluth police and a number of friends dragged the slip and exploded dynamite. It is thought that the strong current carried the body down stream and there is some doubt if they will be able to find it.

West Duluth Briefs.

The West Duluth fire department was called to the Alger-Smith mill yesterday morning at about 7 o'clock. A small fire had started in the slab conveyor, probably from a spark for the burner. The blaze was easily quenched.

About thirty-five members of the Willis A. Gorman post G. A. R. attended the morning service Sunday at the West Duluth Baptist church.

Yesterday's rainstorm made the game between the Oak Hall team and the Two Harbors team impossible. The Oak Halls and their followers went to Two Harbors to fill their engagement to play ball there, but the rain made baseball out of the question.

George E. Hanson has gone to St. Paul on business.

Frank Cruickshank returned from the range Saturday and spent Sunday with his brother, George Cruickshank. He expects to leave for his home in Chicago today.

RAILROADS

NEW WALL OF CONCRETE

Wisconsin Central Erecting Massive Structure at Twelfth Avenue.

Work is Making Better Progress Than Was Expected.

Work has begun on the retaining wall along the right-of-way of the Wisconsin Central. The wall will begin at Twelfth avenue west and extend about 200 feet toward the city. It will be of concrete, about twenty feet high at the lowest place and extending to a height of forty feet at its highest point.

Work on the Wisconsin Central is progressing very rapidly, and at the present rate the officials believe that the road will enter Duluth sooner than was expected at the beginning of the spring season.

IN EFFECT JUNE 15.

New Freight Rates to Winnipeg Points Are Announced.

It was announced this morning at the office of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railroad that the new schedule of freight rates between this city and Winnipeg will go into effect about June 15.

There will be no change on the through rate from here to Winnipeg. The changes that will occur in the new freight schedule will be on intermediate points. The rate on first class freight from here to Winnipeg will be 89 cents, the same as the present rate, with the other graduated rates on second, third and other classes remaining unchanged.

The new schedules is at the present time in the hands of the printer, but it will show an advantage to the shipper on intermediate points. The rate schedule will be based on the through rate charge, intermediate points being figured on that charge.

There are three roads to take into consideration when the new rates are being figured. Freight from here to points beyond the boundary will pass over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg and the Canadian Northern. The officials of the three roads believe the present through rate on freight to be as low as they can possible figure it with a profit to the roads, but have formulated a material decrease in the intermediate rate charges.

Through Sleeper.

Friday, May 25, the Northern Pacific will place in service a sleeper on train No. 1, leaving St. Paul at 6 p. m., which will be hauled through to International Falls. This will make it possible for passengers to take the train at St. Paul and wake up the next morning at International Falls.

Its importance to Duluth travelers lies in the fact that connections with the train will be made at Brainerd. Trains No. 13 and 14 will connect with Train No. 1 to and from Brainerd, so that Duluth passengers can have advantage of the sleeper which will be hauled to International Falls over the Minnesota & International railroad. In June and July the sleeper will leave every Saturday evening.

Low Rate is Made.

A round trip fare of $5 will be made by the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern from Duluth to St. Paul and return for the Shriners' convention, to be held in St. Paul during July. All of the Chicago roads have announced reduced rates for the convention, which fact has led other roads to make cheap rates.

Must Mark Shipments.

New York., May 25.—All railroads east of the Mississippi river operating in the territory covered by the "officini classification," after July 1, next, will refuse to receive for transportation shipments in less than carload lots, which are not marked plainly with the name of the consignee and the station, city and state of destination. Four hundred and sixteen railroads will participate in the enforcement of the new rule.

For many years past it has been customary for a large number of shippers to mark their package with an initial the key to which would be on the bill of lading. It was the theory that this saved time and also prevented competitors from observing the names of a shipper's customers on the outside of the package.

The railroad companies claim that great abuses have resulted from this practice and that it has been the cause of heavy losses to the railroads on claims due to losses in transit.

Railway Club Meets.

At the meeting of the Northern Railway club, held at the Commercial club Saturday evening, papers were read by W. H. Hoyt, assistant chief engineer of the Duluth & Iron Range road, and by Charles Cotter, traveling engineer on the same road.

The paper read by Mr. Hoyt was entitled "Some joint problems of the mechanical and operating departments of a railroad." This paper was originally read by D. C. Buell at a meeting of the Central Railway club of New York, and was read at the Duluth meeting by permission of the author.

Mr. Cotter discussed the use of brick arches in locomotives in his paper. Both papers were discussed by the members of the club.

TO AGAIN SUE ROAD.

Stephenson, Mich., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The litigation based on the claims that sparks from a locomotive was responsible for the havoc that was wrought, there is again to be submitted for trial in circuit court for Menominee county the suit of Wolfgang Stauber, a farmer, who is seeking damages from the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company because of the destruction of his barns, machinery, grain and stock by fire. The case came up at the last term and resulted in the disagreement of the jury.

THREE DROWNED.

Spokane, Wash., May 25.—John Sharpless, John Miles and a young Englishman named Richmond, all of Nelson, B. C., were swept over the falls in the Kootenai river yesterday and perished. It is believed that the men either miscalculated the force of the current or an oak broke and they lost control of the boat.

FOR A CITY BEAUTIFUL

New Plan for Improving Avenues in the East End.

Narrow Roadway and Space for Trees and Grass.

Real estate men of Duluth have started an agitation to bring about a change in the methods of beautifying the avenues in the East end. There is not enough traffic over some of the avenues in the district mentioned to require the whole width of the thoroughfare for teams, and in the past it has been the custom to place the curbing about eighteen feet from the sidewalks, using the intervening space for grass and the planting of trees.

The new system proposed is to place the sidewalks alongside the curbing, letting the extra eighteen feet of space stretch back of the walk and melt in with the lawns along the avenue; also planting the trees behind the walk, thus protecting them from horses, and providing certain other advantages. Those behind the plan claim a prettier effect could be obtained in this manner. The property owners are agreeable, for it would really be adding eighteen feet of land to their grounds, although the city would retain title to the strip, and so that it was used for no purpose other than lawns.

The trees are now planted next to the curbstones, where they are easily reached and killed by horses tied along the street. This would be impossible under the other system. There would also be an unbroken stretch of lawn clear to the sidewalk, which would be a great advantage, for the lots along the avenue have a depth of no more than 50 feet in many cases, so there isn't much opportunity for an attractive lawn. The city would provide a building line easement which would prevent the property owners erecting any permanent structure on the city property along the avenue, so an unbroken stretch of lawn from one end of the thoroughfare to the other would be provided.

It is argued that another advantage would be that the trees would be planted farther from the sewer pipes, and thus the danger of their roots doing damage to the sewer system would be greatly lessened, if not done away with entirely. It has been the experience of other cities that as the trees increase in size, their roots spread out toward the sewer in search of water, creeping through the joints and blocking the pipes, or breaking them in many cases. It is feared Duluth will have the same experience when her trees become older, unless steps are taken to prevent.

A change of the kind described could not be made in the avenues already improved, because of the location of the trees and the heavy expense of changing the sidewalks, but it is very likely that a system of the kind described will be employed in improving the avenues east of Twenty-fourth avenue east. The plan would allow a paved roadway twenty-four feet wide.

SUPERIOR NEWS

TOOK IT COOLY.

Woman Sought by Police is Found in an Ice Box.

Taking the situation in the coolest possible manner, Olga Hendrickson, who has been sought after by the Superior police for several days, was located late Saturday night in the ice box of a Third street saloon, where she claimed she was trying to avoid the sound of a thunderstorm she thought was coming up.

It is alleged that the woman, with Matt Turi, a bartender, rolled John Hill, a woodsman, for $150 Thursday night. They are both being held for investigation.

Had Wild Goose Chase.

The Superior police department set out on a wild goose chase looking for a cock fight Saturday night. The main was rumored to be set for Saturday night in the vicinity of the South side, near the tangles of "Sapho" park. But the officers searched in vain.

If any such bout had been pulled off, the police say they would have located it. They were given the tip by telephone. It is claimed that there has been no cock fights in Superior for more than a year, and that one was stopped by the police.

Asks Damages for Scalds.

Ignatius Beyenka, a former employe at the shipyard has sued the Superior Shipbuilding company for $10,000 damages for injuries claimed to have been received when he was badly scalded by stepping into a trench containing three feet of boiling water. The accident happened two years ago. Beyenka claims that he went to the engine room which was so dark that he could not see the water. He alleges that he was in the trench a few days before the accident and there was no water in it.

Frank Niehoff Dies.

Frank X. Niehoff died at 12:30 today at St. Mary's hospital, after a three weeks' illness of typhoid fever, complicated with pneumonia. He was on the road to recovery until Saturday night when pneumania set in. He has been unconscious at intervals since then.

Old Captain Dies.

Capt. J. D. Marcey, who was among the first to sail the Great Lakes, and who has been a resident of Superior for about twenty-five years, died early this morning at his home. He was 68 years old.

TWO FIREMEN NARROWLY ESCAPE ASPHYXIATION.

Minneapolis, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)— Capt. E. E. Cadwell of Engine company No. 6, and Louis Larson of Truck No. 1, narrowly escaped asphyxiation from artificial gas last night, while fighting a fire in the basement of the Harris grocery store, 1001 Nicollet avenue.

They were the first to enter the building. Cadwell fell first, and Larson called for help. In attempting to carry the captain out, Larson was overcome also. Other firemen carried the two men out. Cadwell revived very soon, but Larson had to be removed to the City hospital. He will recover. The damage to the store was slight.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON THE PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT UNIVERSITY EXERCISES

Addresses Alumni Association of Alabama State College.

Takes for His Subject, "Landmarks of American Liberty."

Freedom is the Product of Character and Toil.

Birmingham, Ala., May 26.—Governor Johnson of Minnesota was the principal speaker of the day before the alumni association at the commencement exercises at the State university in Tuscaloosa. His subject was "Landmarks of American Liberty."

In describing landmarks of American liberty he reverted 1,500 years before the discovery of America, because, he said, American liberty was cradled in the German wilderness. Anglo-Saxon freedom had come down through the centuries to the popular assemblies which decide the issues of peace in the American government of today. Freedom is no accident but the product of character on the one hand and of long centuries of toil and sacrifice on the other. Governor Johnson recounted the progress of development of liberty during the first ten centuries of English history, giving due credit to those reforms which are of German and Scandinavian origin. He said that the great fact which stands out sharply and clearly throughout the history of European migration to America is a dominant and universal aspiration for freedom.

Milestones of American Liberty.

"Magna Charta and the bill of rights, the charters and constitutions of American colonies, the Declaration of Independence and the articles of confederation, the Northwest ordinance of 1787 and the Constitution of the United States, Washington's farewell address and Lincoln's Gettysburg address, the doctrine of Monroe and the proclamation of emancipation, and last, but not least, the Constitution of

WORK AMONG IMMIGRANTS

Will be Pushed by Presbyterian Missions Department.

Every Field of Home Missionary Work Considered by Assembly.

Kansas City, May 26.—Every field of home missionary work was considered today by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States. Reports were submitted on the progress of the missionary efforts of the church among laboring men, immigrants, the Indians and all other classes at home which the church is trying to reach, and a general discussion of the subject of home missions followed.

The board for the first time in ten years reported a debt of more than $47,000, but it was explained that this was due to the assumption of the work of the Cumberland branch of the church. It was shown that during the last year there had been an increase of about $26,000 in the gifts of the churches and individuals for home missionary work. The financial panic is believed to have been responsible for the fact that the increased gifts did not largely exceed the increased appropriations.

The board reported its unsuccessful effort to find anyone both able and willing to superintend the work of the evangelization among the immigrants. Persuaded, however, of the need of an immigration department in the church the board has organized it electing as superintendent the Rev. Charles Stelzle, who will conduct the immigration department co-ordinately with the department of church an labor, but separate from it.

To Look Un Conditions.

The immigration department will inquire into the conditions of the social and religious life in the lands whence immigrants come. It will also seek to secure, either at home or abroad, men and women fitted to preach the gospel to their people. It will be a bureau of information for any locality where there are foreigners among whom the local churches desire to carry on christian work. It will also endeavor to be a bureau of education to as far as possible prepare, such literature in the various foreign languages as to be a

THE SCARCITY OF STUDENTS

For the Ministry is Problem Which is Vexing Presbyterians.

Kansas City, May 26.—An unsolved problem before the general assembly of the Presbyterian church is the scarcity of men for the ministry. In the discussion of the matter by the assembly yesterday some of the speakers blamed state universities and other undenominational institutions of learning for turning the thoughts of students from religious to commercial currents.

"With four million Presbyterian communicants," said the Rev. S. W. Sneed of Pittsburg, chairman of the board of education, "we have only 117 men in training for the ministry." Many colleges are yielding to the feeling against the ministry by putting Greek and Latin in curricula as elective courses, and many even resent the imputation that they are denominational institutions. "Fathers and mothers," said Dr. Sneed, "should be taught that it was wrong to take their children to baptism with the mental reservation that they should never enter the ministry."

The Rev. Joseph W. Cochran of New York, corresponding secretary of the board of education, said: "We are getting along with just two-thirds of the supply of ministers that we ought to have. We must either supply untrained men or import them from other denominations."

TO USE MONITOR AS A TARGET

Gunnery Tests Will be Made on the Warship Florida.

Norfolk, Va., May 26.—The United States monitor Florida sailed from the Norfolk navy yard today for Hampton Roads, preparatory to the gunnery tests in which the Florida is to serve as target ship. The Florida was preceded from the yard by the monitor Arkansas and the torpedo boat Morris, which will participate in the tests. The tests will begin Wednesday on the old South drill grounds, in lower Chesapeake bay. The tugs Mohawk and Reliance have been detached from the navy yard for use by newspaper correspondents and others designated by the secretary of the navy to observe the gunnery tests at close range.

The Florida is ready for the "battle." In the tower built on the monitor for the tests have been "dummy men," who will act as targets for sharp shooting from the other vessels. The Florida presents a unique appearance. It is the first time in the history of the American navy that tests of this kind have taken place. The monitor will be fired on as if she was a real enemy of war, this being for the purpose of ascertaining without question the formidableness of the monitor type of warships.

The Monitor is commanded by Capt. Quimby. The torpedoes to be shot at the monitor by the Morris will be repulled by a "torpedo net" about the monitor, below her water line. This will be the first test of the "torpedo net" by the American navy.

BATTLESHIP OFFICERS BANQUETED AT SEATTLE.

Seattle, Wash., May 26.—Two hundred guests, including Admiral Sperry and 100 officers Governor Albert E. Mead and Mayor J. E. Miller, were present at a banquet at the Rainier club last night. In the center of the dining room was a representation of a battleship made o flowers.

Speeches appropriate to the occasion were made by Rear Admiral Sperry, Rear Admiral W. H. Emory and Capt. Richard Wainwright. The army was represented by Col. Thomas C. Woodbury of Fort Lawton, Governor Mead, Frederick Bausman and Former Governor John H. McGraw. Governor Mead will today officially welcome the fleet to the state of Washington. This necessary formality had been postponed, owing to the absence of the governor in the East.

SEVENTEEN CHILDREN INJURED IN COLLISION.

Pottsville, Pa., May 26.—Seventeen children were injured, several of them fatally, last night when a score of boys and girls ranging in ages from 6 to 14 years climbed aboard a truck on the Philadelphia & Reading branch to the Lincoln colliery in the west end of the county and started it down the heavy grade. While going at a frightful rate of speed the truck collided with a car standing at the foot of the grade and both were almost completely demolished.

EXECUTION AS EXAMPLE

Hundreds of Foreigners Witness Hanging of Man for Murder.

Intended to Impress Penalty for Crime on Their Minds.

Pottsville, Pa., May 26.—In order that they may go among their countrymen and impress upon them the enormity of the crime of murder, and the terrible punishment that the law of this country calls for, a large number of Slavs, Hungarians, Poles, Italians, Russians, Lithunians and other foreigners were invited to attend the execution, here, today, of Felix Radzius, a young Pole, who, while intoxicated, murdered a woman and her child at Shenandoah, six months ago. The hanging took place in the yard of the Schuylkill county prison and about 500 persons were present. The execution was not a public one, in the sense that every one who went to the jail was admitted, but the sheriff was quite liberal in the distribution of tickets.

The idea of having present representatives of the various foreign elements in this section of the coal region originated with Sheriff Clay Evans, who thought the story of the execution, as told from the lips of the foreigners, will have a salutary effect on curbing the murderous tendency of some of the lawless element. Just before leaving his cell for the march to the scaffold, Radzius confessed to the Shenandoah murder, and said he killed a man in Russian Poland, three years ago, and that he fled to this country to avoid arrest. He appeared to be greatly relieved after admitting his crimes, and walked with a firm step between two priests to his death.

LAND FRAUD TRIALS TO BEGIN ON JUNE 2.

Portland, Or., May 26.—Terry P. Becker of Buffalo, N. Y., special assistant to the attorney general of the United States, has begun to arrange the evidence to be used in the untried land fraud cases which will be taken up by the United States district court on June 2.

The first case to be tried will be that against J. H. Booth, former receiver of the Roseburg land office.

Mr. Becker has announced that the indictments against Former Congressman J. N. Williamson and Binger Hermann, former commissioner of the general land office, will not be tried until late in the summer. Francis J. Heney of San Francisco, will have charge of the prosecution for the government.

The new vessel is known as an "all big gun" battleship, as it will carry eight 12-inch breech loading rifles.

EVELYN THAW WILL DECIDE

Whether She Will Withdraw Her Suit for Divorce.

New York, May 26.—Whether or not Mrs. Evelyn Thaw will withdraw her suit for annulment of her marriage to Harry K. Thaw, will probably be determined this afternoon, when a hearing on the case is scheduled to take place before the referee in this city. Following the decision of Justice Morschauser yesterday that Thaw is insane and must be kept in an asylum came a report that Thaw and his wife have becom reconciled, that Mrs. Thaw will withdraw her suit today and that she will ask to be appointed a committee of his estate. It is reported that Thaw's relatives will contest such an appointment, but Thaw has denied that he had consulted them about it.

Thaw's legal estate at present is said to consist of $2,400 a year bequeathed by his father's will. The control of his father's estate is in the hands of executors.

Early today the river is rising at the rate of six inches an hour and with such conditions as already prevail, the outcome when the crest of this second rush of water reaches the city cannot be foretold.

FLOOD WATERS RECEDING FAST

Damage Done in Oklahoma Estimated Close to $10,000,000.

Guthrie, Okla., May 26.—The sun is shining in Oklahoma today and the flood waters are fast receding. No additional loss of life is reported and the homeless are beginning gradually to return to their homes. The death roll remains at eight. With miles of tracks washed out and bridges damaged, the railroads are still demoralized; train service on many lines must remain annulled for several days yet, while on others only a partial service is possible. The damage to crops and railroads can of course be only roughly estimated, but a conservative figure places the damage close to $10,000,000. It marks the costliest disaster ever sustained either in Oklahoma or Indian Territory, or in the new state of Olahoma.

Hundreds of passengers are stalled at Shawnee, Tulsa, Muskogee and at other points.

ATTORNEY JEROME SHOULD BE REMOVED FROM OFFICE SAYS NEW YORK COUNSEL

WILLIAM TRAVERS JEROME, District Attorney, Who Is Warmly Censured in a Brief by Opposing Counsel.

Brief Presented to Court Warmly Roasting the Prosecutor.

Says He Shielded George W. Perkins From Prosecution.

Many Other Serious Charges Are Brought Against Him.

Elizabethtown, N. Y., May 26.—Closing arguments on the charges of dereliction preferred by a committee headed by William F. King against District Attorney William T. Jerome of New York county were heard today by Commissioner Hand, who was appointed by Governor Hughes to hear testimony on the charges. In addition to the oral arguments counsel for both sides submitted briefs to the commissioner.

Brief by Pierce.

The brief submitted by Franklin Pierce, counsel for the complainants, declared that every thoughtful man knows that conditions in New York county are "a hundred times more dangerous to the welfare of society than murder itself," and that "a graver calamity could not visit the people of New York than the continuation of the evil example and the disgraceful conduct of William Travers Jerome in the office of public prosecutor of New York county."

The brief is a document of nearly 200 printed pages, in which the charges against the district attorney are reviewed. Mr. Pierce argued that even in the investigation of these charges the district attorney has conducted himself in a manner warranting his removal from office. He declared that Mr. Jerome all through the examination threatened witnesses with criminal prosecution "and used other methods of that kind."

Mr. Pierce takes the ground that the district attorney's failure to investigate and prosecute the alleged "jury fixing" in the Metropolitan street railway cases was a case of neglect of duty, which was wholly inexcusable. "The extent of the existence of bribery of jurymen, bribery of court officials, tampering with witnesses and controlling by criminal methods the conduct of the whole court," said he, "is of the highest importance, because a universal condition of crime of that sort is in and of itself notice to the district attorney, and its continued prevalence over a long period of time.

FATHER RACES AGAINST DEATH

Winnipeg Man Hurries His Daughter to Pasteur Institute.

Minneapolis, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A mad dash in a cab from the union depot to the Minnesota Pasteur institute late yesterday was the finish of a 500-mile race against death, which Horace Randal of Winnipeg made to save the life of his little 10-year-old daughter, Florence. Several days ago the little girl was bitten by a dog thought to have rabies. The Winnipeg authorities made an examination of the dog's brain which showed the animal had been rabid. The Minnesota Pasteur institute is the nearest one to Winnipeg, and Mr. Randal lost no time in getting his child started after receiving the report of the health department. The little girl stood the long trip well, and, provided no complications develop it is thought she will be cured. The course of treatment is such, however, that several days must elapse before it can be definitely ascertained whether or not her life can be saved.

STEAMSHIP IS FLOATED

The Seminole Comes Off Rocks Apparently Uninjured.

New York, May 26.—The Clyde line steamer Seminole, which went ashore near Long Branch, N. J., was floated early today, apparently uninjured.

Dense fog banks lured two coastwise steamships—the Clyde line steamer Seminole and an unknown steamer—off their courses yesterday onto the shifting shoals that line the Jersey coast; caused a mid-river collision of two steamers last night in the harbor, which threw over 300 passengers into a state of panic; generally snarled ferryboat service in the harbor and kept two trans-Atlantic liners hugging the anchorage all night off Sandy Hook.

Repeated blasts of a foghorn gave warning to the life savers of the bay head and Manteloking life saving stations last night that another steamer was in difficulty on the bars. The name of the steamer was not learned and the story of the ship's stranding will not be known until the return of the life saving crews which went to the vessel's assistance.

IRISH TRAWLERS DAMAGE CABLES.

London, May 26.—The damage done to trans-Atlantic cables by trawlers on the Irish coast, which has become so aggravated during the past few days as to interfere seriously with the transmission of dispatches, was brought to the attention of Foreign Secretary Grey by Ambassador Reid at the foreign office this morning. Mr. Reid was not acting on instructions from the state department, but he took up the matter on the urgent representations of the managers of the cable companies. Sir Edward Grey promised his immediate attention and said he would do all in his power for the protection of the cables.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON THE PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT UNIVERSITY EXERCISES

Addresses Alumni Association of Alabama State College.

Takes for His Subject, "Landmarks of American Liberty."

Freedom is the Product of Character and Toil.

Birmingham, Ala., May 26.—Governor Johnson of Minnesota was the principal speaker of the day before the alumni association at the commencement exercises at the State university in Tuscaloosa. His subject was "Landmarks of American Liberty."

In describing landmarks of American liberty he reverted 1,500 years before the discovery of America, because, he said American liberty was cradled in the German wilderness. Anglo-Saxon freedom had come down through the centuries the popular assemblies which decide the issues of peace in the American government of today. Freedom is no accident but the product of character on the one hand and of long centuries of toil and sacrifice on the other. Governor Johnson recounted the progress of development of liberty during the first ten centuries of English history, giving due credit to those reforms which are of German and Scandinavian origin. He said that the great fact which stands out sharply and clearly throughout the history of European migration to America is a dominant and universal aspiration for freedom.

Milestones of American Liberty.

"Magna Charta and the bill of rights, the charters and constitutions of American colonies, the Declaration of Independence and the articles of confederation, the Northwest ordinance of 1787 and the Constitution of the United States, Washington's farewell address and Lincoln's Gettysburg address, the doctrine of Monroe and the proclamation of emancipation, and last but not least, the Constitution of

WORK AMONG IMMIGRANTS

Will be Pushed by Presbyterian Missions Department.

Every Field of Home Missionary Work Considered by Assembly.

Kansas City, May 26.—Every field of home missionary work was considered today by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States. Reports were submitted on the progress of the missionary efforts of the church among laboring men, immigrants, the Indians and all other classes at home which the church is trying to reach, and a general discussion of the subject of home missions followed.

The board for the first time in ten years reported a debt of more than $47,000, but it was explained that this was due to the assumption of the work of the Cumberland branch of the church. It was shown that during the last year there had been an increase of about $26,000 in the gifts of the churches and individuals for home missionary work. The financial panic is believed to have been responsible for the fact that the increased gifts did not largely exceed the increased appropriations.

The board reported its unsuccessful effort to find anyone both able and willing to superintend the work of the evangelization among the immigrants. Persuaded, however, of the need of an immigration department in the church the board has organized it electing as superintendent the Rev. Charles Stelzle who will conduct the immigration department co-ordinately with the department of church an labor, but separate from it.

To Look Up Conditions.

The immigration department will inquire into the conditions of the social and religious life in the lands whence immigrants come. It will also seek to secure, either at home or abroad, men and women fitted to preach the gospel to their people. It will be a bureau of information for any locality where there are foreigners among whom the local churches desire to carry on christian work. It will also endeavor to be a bureau of education to as far as possible prepare such literature in the various foreign languages as to be a

TO USE MONITOR AS A TARGET

Gunnery Tests Will be Made on the Warship Florida.

Norfolk Va., May 26.—The United States monitor Florida sailed from the Norfolk navy yard today for Hampton Roads, preparatory to the gunnery tests in which the Florida is to serve as "target" ship. The Florida was preceded from the yard by the monitor Arkansas and the torpedo boat Morris, which will participate in the tests. The tests will begin Wednesday on the old South drill grounds, in lower Chesapeake bay. The tugs Mohawk and Reliance have been detached from the navy yard for use by newspaper correspondents and others designated by the secretary of the navy to observe the gunnery tests at close ranges.

New York, May 26.—The Clyde line steamer Seminole, which went ashore near Long Branch, N. J., was floated early today, apparently uninjured.

Dense fog banks lured two coastwise steamships—the Clyde line steamer Seminole and an unknown steamer—off their courses yesterday onto the shifting shoals that line the Jersey coast; caused a mid-river collision of two steamers last night in the harbor, which threw over 300 passengers into a state of panic; generally snarled ferryboat service in the harbor and kept two trans-Atlantic liners hugging the anchorage all night off Sandy Hook.

Repeated blasts of a foghorn gave warning to the life savers of the bay head and Manteloking life saving stations last night that another steamer was in difficulty on the bars. The name of the steamer was not learned and the story of the ship's standing will not be known until the return of the life saving crews which went to the vessel's assistance.

IRISH TRAWLERS DAMAGE CABLES.

London, May 26.—The damage done to trans-Atlantic cables by trawlers on the Irish coast, which has become so aggravated during the past few days as to interfere seriously with the transmission of dispatches, was brought to the attention of Foreign Secretary Grey by Ambassador Reid at the foreign office this morning. Mr. Reid was not acting on instructions from the state department, but he took up the matter on the urgent representations of the managers of the cable companies. Sir Edward Grey promised his immediate attention and said he would do all in his power for the protection of the cables.

THE SCARCITY OF STUDENTS

For the Ministry is Problem Which is Vexing Presbyterians.

Kansas City, May 26.—An unsolved problem before the general assembly of the Presbyterian church is the scarcity of men for the ministry. In the discussion of the matter by the assembly yesterday some of the speakers blamed state universities and other undenominational institutions of learning for turning the thoughts of students from religious to commercial currents.

"With four million Presbyterian communicants," said the Rev. S. W. Sneed of Pittsburg, chairman of the board of education, "we have only 117 men in training for the ministry." Many colleges are yielding to the feeling against the ministry by putting Greek and Latin in curricula as elective courses, and many even resent the imputation that they are denominational institutions. "Fathers and mothers," said Dr. Sneed, "should be taught that it was wrong to take their children to baptism with the mental reservation that they should never enter the ministry."

The Rev. Joseph W. Cochran of New York, corresponding secretary of the board of education, said: "We are getting along with just two-thirds of the supply of ministers that we ought to have. We must either supply untrained men or import them from other denominations."

FARM SCHOOL IS FAVORED

Agricultural Committee of Commercial Club Endorses Idea.

A resolution favoring the establishment of an agricultural school in line with the grades of the public and high school courses, was adopted by the agricultural committee of the Commercial club at its meeting this noon. The resolution was adopted after a report favoring the project by the county superintendent of schools had been read to the members of the committee.

The action of the committee makes it probable that the school will be established at the opening of the school term next year.

A report from the chief of the bureau of soils was read in which the head of that department stated that the request for a soil survey of St. Louis county, which has long been urged by members of the Commercial club and other citizens interested in the welfare of the county.

The request that a branch of the Minnesota state horticurtal society be established here, was not acted upon. The request was deferred until the next meeting of the committee, when those interested in the establishment of the branch society will be called together and some action taken on the matter.

A Knowledge of Accounting a Necessity

No matter what your vocation is or may be, you should have a knowledge of accounting. You may not care to keep books for a living, nor may you wish to keep your own accounts, but you will certainly need to be in touch with the finances of your business, whatever it may be, and this necessitates your having a knowledge of the theory of accounts.

A normal outlay and a few months spent under the tuition of the teachers at the Duluth Business University, who are expert accountants, would prepare you to keep any ordinary set of books. Do not wait until you are in business and find you cannot get along without such training, as may do, but decide now to take a course at the Duluth Business University. You could not spend your vacation to better purpose.

Special courses and special rates for eighth grade students, high school students and teachers during the summer months. Location, 105-107 West Superior street, third floor.

MODERN CASTAWAY.

Chicago News: Few more stirring stories are recorded in the annals of the sea than that recently made public by the fifteen survivors of the British bark Dundonald, who were cast away on Disappointment island, in the Southern Pacific, on March 6 last. This isolated fragment of peat-covered rock is situated right out of the track of shipping, near the edge of the antarctic ice, and is barren and desolate to an almost inconceivable degree. Yet the men managed to subsist thereon for eight months, living on penguine flesh and seal meat, varied by an occasional dish of sea birds' eggs. They had, however, all but given up hope when they were rescued, November 16, by the exploring ship Hinemoa, which brought them in due course to New Zealand.

Considered simply as a feat of endurance, their exploit is regarded by old navigators in these waters as little short of marvelous. Four to five months is generally considered as about the limit during which castaways can exist under such circumstances in these latitudes. Indeed, the crew of eleven men belonging to the Norweglan ship Karl, which was wrecked on this very same group in April, 1883, were all found dead of starvation and exposure within less than nine weeks afterward.

Sailors cast away on uninhabited islands in more temperate regions, however, have managed to subsist for much longer periods. Thus, the crew of the Caroline, wrecked on Ducie island, in the South Pacific, 24 July, 1883, lived there quite comfortably until taken off in May, 1885; while two survivors of the whaler Essex were three years and four months on the neighboring Henderson island before being found and rescued.

A RAT-KILLER WARSHIP.

Hamburg Dispatch in Seattle Times: In view of the movement in England for the extermination of rats, it is of interest to know that the Hamburg harbor authorities have a veritable "battleship" engaged in the campaign.

The specially-built steamer Disinfector is employed here primarily for the destruction of rats on ships that have arrived from plague-suspected ports. The system used—poisonous gases, which do not damage property—was devised by Prof. Nocht.

A mixture of 5 per cent carbonic oxide gas, 18 per cent carbonic acid and 77 per cent nitrogen is conveyed from the Disinfector by pipes into the holds of the ships being treated, and, after thorough fumigation, currents of fresh air are blown through.

Many vessels have been successfully cleaned and countless thousands of rats destroyed. As many as 900 dead rats have been counted after one disinfection.

To find, to get, to let, to sell—is to Herald want advertise!

EDUCATION OF FOUR FILIPINOS

At West Point Strongly Objected to by Congressman Slayden.

Washington, May 26.—In the course of the consideration of the conference report on the military academy appropriation bill, in the house today, Mr. Slayden of Texas attacked the senate amendment, providing for the education at West Point of four Filipinos. Such legislation, he said, simply bound the United States by yet another tie to the Philippines. "It is a cheap bribe to the Filipinos," he charged, "and one of a series of efforts to break their loyalty to their own race and to the cause of Philippine independence."

It was not unlikely, he said, that these four Filipinos eventually would become leaders in revolutions against the United States. The association of the United States and the Philippines, he declared, "was conceived in greed, is supported by hypocricy and will end in disaster."

He predicted that should Secretary Taft become president the United States government would be run "as a mere annex to the Philippine commission and valued only as a contribution."

Discussing the attitude of the people of the Pacific coast toward the Japanese Mr. Slayden said: "They talk about yellow peril and vote for the black death. They may some day have cause to regret that a yellow sky in the east so absorbs their attention that they cannot see a black cloud in the south."

VICTORIOUS IN TWO DUELS.

St. Petersburg, May 26.—Prince Napoleon Murat, a descendant of Bonaparte's famous field marshal and whose grandmother was an American woman, Caroline Frazer, of Bordentown, N. J., fought two brothers named Plen in duels here today, wounding both of his opponents, one seriously, but himself being unharmed.

HIS KIND DEED.

Chicago News: "I saw a sight that touched me this morning," said the cashier. "It was a sight that restored my waning faith in humanity. It showed me that though a young man may be very foolish, very conceited, very pig-headed, very frivolous and various other things, he is not necessarily devoid of humane instincts or generosity. I was glad to see that sight. It warmed the cockles of my heart."

The bill clerk wiped his pen on the half potato which he kept on his desk and then finished the cleaning process on the lining of his office coat. He was apparently oblivious to the cashier's remarks.

"Charity is a sweet and holy thing, Johnny," said the cashier.

The bill clerk grunted.

"Modesty is a fine thing, too," continued the cashier. "Some young fellows I have known would have bragged about it the first thing. If they had relieved the necessities of the poor, ragged, homeless old man they wouldn't have been satisfied till all their friends, acquaintances and business connections knew about it. Even if they said nothing until questioned they would have worn such an expression of happy virtue that anybody would know they had done something out of the common. You look even more grouchy than you usually do on Monday mornings. Nobody would imagine that you had just done a kind action to look at you."

"Oh, cut it out!" said the bill clerk. "Not until I have laid my humble tribute of admiration at your feet," said the cashier. "I have to tell you that I honor you. You are the good young Samaritan who did not pass by on the other side, though there was a crossing quite available. You needn't blush, my boy. I was right behind you and saw the charitable act."

The bill clerk looked up, but the expression on the cashier's face was entirely serious.

"Well," said the bill clerk, "he looked as if he needed it, poor old guy!"

"Indeed he did," said the cashier. "He was a most pitiable object. At the same time I think nine young men out of ten never would have noticed him."

"Oh, I don't know," said the bill clerk, in a deprecating tone.

"Unless they happened to know that there was a young woman of prepossessing appearance walking close behind," said the cashier. "Of course you didn't know it when your hand went so readily down into your jeans, but there was a good-looking girl close at your elbow, just the same. I think she was impressed. I'll bet she said to herself, 'My! What a noble man! Aren't you glad to know that, Johnny?"

"Didn't I tell you to cut it out?"

"You are not rich," said the cashier. "I happen to know what your salary is and I can form a slight guess at your expenditures. I know that at this time of the week you couldn't be expected to have very much money about you. You borrowed 50 cents from me last night, if my memory serves me. Yet at the sight of misery your heart expands and your fist goes down into your pocket as readily—far more readily than if you were a millionaire. Fine! It isn't the amount of the donation that counts, it's the spirit; at the same time that nickel was as much to you as a $1,000 check would be to some people. It must have been at least 10 per cent of all the money you had in the world at the time."

"Well, let it go," said the bill clerk.

"I'm not finding any fault with you for squandering my half-dollar in that way," said the cashier. "I do not insist that you should be just before you are generous. I wouldn't have cared if you had made it a dime. But what made your jaw fall so, Johnny? It seemed to me that I saw all the bitterness of regret written on your face. It seems to me that it is still there."

"If you want to know," said the bill clerk, "I had just 30 cents and I gave the old stiff the quarter instead of the nickel. I didn't know it till I saw it in his hand and then I couldn't very well knock him down and take it away from him."

"I thought it was something of that kind," said the cashier.

"The bigger advertising" precedes and prepares the way for the "bigger store."

No one is apt to think more highly of a store than its owner does—hence his advertising should be so big that it will reflect his belief in his store's importance—and so continuous that it will have the force of iteration.

YOUR HOME will be healthier when you keep bottled Schlitz. The barley is food—the hops are a tonic. And the drinking of liquids flushes the system of waste.

Every doctor knows that most people drink too little. On this account, their systems become clogged with waste.

There lies the main good of watering places. They induce the drinking of water.

That is one reason why the drinking of beer is good for you. It leads you to drink more liquid than you would drink without it. And that liquid is both a food and a tonic.

The sturdiest peoples of the earth drink the most of it.

But be sure that the beer is aged, so it will not cause biliousness. And be sure it is pure.

Schlitz beer is all healthfulness.

Common beer is sometimes substituted for Schlitz.

"The mayor is not going far enough in his efforts to make Memorial day a holiday," said one of the Grand Army veterans this morning.

"He ought to force the saloons, theaters, picture shows and all the small stores to close all day as well as the Superior street shops, so that everybody may have an opportunity to observe Memorial day.

"Memorial day is too often made merely an occasion for a big 'drunk' by many people. If the day should happen to be a disagreeable one, which is by no means unlikely at this time of the year, it will simply mean that the saloons will be crowded, except during the hours from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., when they are supposed to be closed. People might better be buying merchandise than whisky, and every store and retail establishment of every kind should close if any do."

Most of the big stores along Superior street seem willing to acceed to the wishes of the mayor, the G. A. R. and its auxiliary organizations and the Retail Clerks' union, and close their doors on Memorial day, if all the stores do.

"We will close if the rest of the stores do," is the reply that most of the merchants give when questioned as to whether their establishments are going to be open for business next Saturday or not.

A majority of them agree that if all the stores closed Saturday but remained open late Friday evening, they would get all of the regular Saturday's business anyway, but they declare that they cannot afford to shut their shops if others in similar lines keep open.

Some stores have positively announced their intention of closing, however, no matter what the others do. Committees from the Clerks' union and Memorial day committee are calling on the other establishments today, and it is expected that it will be definitely decided before nightfall whether retail Superior street will observe Memorial day by closing all day or not.

The Gray-Tallant company, dry goods, and the Columbia and Big Duluth clothing stores have announced that they will be closed all day Saturday, but will remain open late Friday evening.

"We will close if the other clothing stores do," said Archie Kenny of the clothing firm of Kenny & Anker. Practically the same statement was made by one of the proprietors of the Oak Hall. The Fitwell is also willing to close.

At Freimuth's, Silberstein & Bondy's, Panton & White company and Gidding's it was announced that some decision in the closing matter would probably be reached today.

The Retail Clerks' union held a meeting last evening and decided to urge all the merchants on the street to cease business on the 30th, and its members are prominent on the committee which is calling on the storekeepers today.

SALOON LICENSE REFUND UPHELD

Decision Handed Down in Minneapolis Applies to Duluth.

A decision regarding saloon licenses that was handed down by Judge Andrew Holt in district court in Minneapolis yesterday is of interest to Duluth, in that it would apply here as well as in the Twin Cities.

Judge Holt upheld the brewing companies in their legal rights, but scored them strongly for methods employed in Minneapolis, in deciding that they need not pay into the city treasury money paid to them in liquor license refunds.

The decision is filed in the case of W. G. Calderwood against the Joseph Schlitz Brewing company, and it brings to an end, so far as the district court is concerned, litigation involving the city's right to more than $200,000 paid to the breweries on order of the council. Judge Holt holds that even though the payment of license funds was illegal, the companies cannot be compelled to refund the money.

Mr. Calderwood sought a judgment against the brewing companies for amounts paid them in refunds. In his suits he included as defendants city officials who had been responsible for the refund payments and had taken no action to recover in money from the brewing companies. Mr. Calderwood asserted that the city officials had been lax in their duties, and he sued as a taxpayer to compel the companies to refund the money.

Whooping Cough.

"In February our daughter had the whooping cough. Mr. Lane of Hartland, recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and said it gave his customers the best of satisfaction. We found it as he said, and can recommend it to anyone having children troubled with whooping cough," says Mrs. A. Goss of Durand, Mich. For sale by all druggists.

A HEAVY GRIST.

Nineteen Offenders Lined Up in the Police Court.

Nineteen men comprised the grist in police court this morning. Nearly all of them were drunks or vagrants. One was a beggar. His name was William Whitlock, and he drew a fine of $10, with ten days in the county jail as an alternative. It is claimed he used bad language, and some times physical force against people who refused to give him money when asked.

Nels Berglund was fined $1 and costs for being drunk. It took some time before he would plead to the charge, but finally he said he was guilty. He claimed to have taken only two glasses of beer, but when hard pressed for an answer, he said that was enough to make him drunk. The vagrants were arrested while sleeping in box cars or buildings about town.

SUPERIOR NEWS

League Will Reorganize.

A movement has been started in Superior for a new Improvement league with a larger membership and broader and more comprehensive scope of work. A preliminary meeting was held at the Commercial club yesterday afternoon and it was decided to hold a general meeting Friday evening at the same place for the purpose of effecting a reorganization. The old league has been instrumental in helping to bring about a number of improvements that tend to beautify the city, but the time has come when the members who have been the most active, feel that the work of the league should be broadened and that more citizens should become interested in it.

Saloonkeepers Arrested.

Charles Lord, Jr., William Wilkinson and Charles Waterbury, saloonkeepers and well known residents of Solon Springs were arraigned in the municipal court yesterday on the charge of selling liquor to a minor. Each saloonkeeper demanded a trial and furnished a bond in the sum of $100 for appearance at trial June 4. The complaint was made by Harrison Lord, aged 19 years.

T. J. Roth of Bee Hive is Stung.

T. J. Roth of the Bee Hive store was victimized to the extent of $24 yesterday by a forged check drawn on the First National Bank and purporting to have been issued by the Rogers-Ruger Lumber company to "John Jones." The man who presented it was accompanied to the store by a woman. He stated that he lived on Schuyler avenue. The police believe that more "John Jones' checks will turn up today.

No Damages for Christianson.

A special verdict in favor of T. J. Roth was returned in the superior court yesterday in the damage suit instituted by Charles Christianson for $5,000. Christianson sued for injuries received by falling into an excavation at the rear of the building owned by Roth. He claimed the place was not properly safeguarded. The defense showed that Christianson was intoxicated at the time of the accident and did not exercise proper care in walking near the excavation.

Will Close Stores.

The Superior merchants, with the exception of the grocers and butchers, will observe Memorial day by remaining closed all day. They will keep their places of business open Friday night, however.

SEARCH IS GIVEN UP

Finding of Body of Nygrad Despaired of Until It Floats.

Little Current in Slip and Body Would Not Drift.

After two and a half days of searching for the body of Carl Nygrad, the boy who was drowned in the Alger-Smith slip Saturday afternoon, the search has been practically given up. M. J. Fillatrault said this morning that he expects that the body will float by Saturday or Sunday, when it will probably be found.

The boy and his companions were several hundred feet from any one when the drowning took place, and consequently there seems to be no one who has any definite idea just where the lad went down. The open water of the slip has been thoroughly dragged and all the logs carefully inspected to see if the boy's body is not clinging to any of them, but with no success.

It is not thought now as at first that the current has carried the body down stream, for at the bottom of the slip there seems to be little or no strength of current.

RIP-RAPPING TORN OUT.

Storms Destroy Dock Work and Different Plan Will be Tried.

The repeated north east storms, coming as they have one on the heels of the other for the last week or more, have not allowed the work of rip-rapping the Ramsey street dock to be completed. Consequently, this last storm has again razed the dock to the water level, in spite of some piling that had been driven on the east side of it, and the partially finished rip-rapping.

Whitney Brothers have met with a great many reverses in the construction of the dock. They are now going to drive piles all along the east side and fill in with slabbing, which will be covered with rocks and dirt. The stone rip-rap has been given up, for during the past storm, the waves sucked the dirt from between the rocks, losening them and allowing them to roll out of place.

Men are now at work trying to repair the last damage done, and if no more storms interfere, they should have the dock in good shape by next week.

IMPROVE THE BUNGALOW.

Home of Dynamite Club at Fond du Lac to be Remodeled.

Extensive plans are being made by the Dynamite club of West Duluth for the general overhauling and remodeling of their bungalow at Fond du Lac. A party of the Dynamiters expect to go up the river to their summer camp and start work on the proposed improvements by May 31.

The members of the club plan to make their outing place suitable for winter as well as summer. They will enlarge the house and shingle its sides, so as to keep out the winter blasts. They also will add to their supply of furniture and decorations.

The Dynamiters' bungalow was built three summers ago, when they leased the property on which it stands. Each summer they have made it a gathering place for their outings, and it has materially strengthened and held the club together. All the work will be done by members of the club, as they have members from every trade represented in their ranks.

The bungalow promises to be more a source of pleasure this season than ever before, and all are anxiously waiting the time when the proposed improvements will be completed.

ACTORS IN CAMP.

Members of Mack-Leone Company Enjoying Life on the River.

On the Wisconsin shore of the St. Louis river, a little below the Branch Boat clubhouse, members of the Mack-Leone company are encamped. Saturday, Clay Clement, who played the leading role in "New Dominion," joined the little camp, with his wife.

The original party has been there for some time. Though the weather for the past week has been unfavorable, the members of the little camping party are said not to be in the least depressed, and will be sorry when the first of June forces them again to take up their rehearsings and hotel life in the city. They much prefer the Bohemian life they have been living on the wooded shore of the St. Louis.

ROBBER GOT LITTLE.

Unknown Man Touched George Beck's Pocket for a Handkerchief.

George Beck reported to the police that a man attempted to pick his pockets on the Sixth avenue west viaduct last night. The would-be robber secured nothing but a pocket handkerchief. Beck suspects C. Seibert, arrested on the charge of drunkenness, and the man will have a hearing this afternoon.

A passenger on one of the lake boats, while bound for the dock, says he heard Beck cry out that he had been robbed of his purse. Beck says he was walking across the viaduct, when a man came up from behind, thrust his hand into Beck's pocket, and ran away. All he got was a handkerchief, although the owner thought at first that his purse was gone. He and Seibert were together earlier in the evening, which led Beck to suspect the other as the guilty party.

MARINE NEWS

NEW BOATS ARE SAILING

Quietness of Marine Situation Not Reflected in New Vessels.

Steamer Jacob T. Kopp is Magnificently Constructed Craft.

Buffalo, May 26.—Notwithstanding the fact that business on the lakes has been exceptionally light thus far this season and the number of boats in commission now is smaller than for the corresponding time for several years past, during the past two weeks four splendid new freighters have arrived at Buffalo, making their initial appearance here, in addition to several which had been constructed a year ago. About two weeks ago the steamer J. J. H. Brown came down from Lorain on her maiden trip. She was followed a few days later by the new steamer William H. Truesdale, another of Brown & Co.'s new boats. Last week the new steamer Thomas Bartum put in her first appearance at this port, and then the steamer Jacob T. Kopp, owned by Boland & Cornelius, well-known vessel agents of this city, plyed into Buffalo harbor with a big grain cargo and is now unloading at the Electric elevator, having unloaded a portion of her cargo at the city elevator.

The steamer Jacob T. Kopp starts out with a record to her credit. She was built at the Ecorse plant of the Great Lakes Engineering works during the past winter and completed this spring. On her first trip she went to South Chicago and established a record there for loading a cargo of about 225,-000 bushels of corn at the South Chicago Elevating company's big Counselman elevator in nine hours and forty minutes. This is the record time for loading grain. Incidentally, the Kopp took out the largest grain cargo ever moved from South Chicago, its weight being 9,455 tons.

The steamer Kopp is a 500-footer. Her beam is 54 feet wide and she is 31 feet deep. No boat on the Great Lakes is a nearer approach to a model built freighter than the Kopp. Everything in her equipment is the most modern. The owner's apartments, consisting of a spacious parlor and three staterooms with bath, are unsurpassed by any freighter on the lakes. They are finished in oak and furnished with large easy chairs and all that is essential to comfort and even to luxury.

Capt. M. S. Peterson, one of the best-known and most successful masters on the Great Lakes, is in command of the new vessel, and Thomas Peterson is mate. George Haig is chief engineer. The captain's apartments and the pilot-house are marvels in their respective appointments. The crew's quarters also are conveniently located and of large dimensions. The dining room is simple and attractive, decidedly home-like and cozy. The galley is large and well appointed, as are also the pantry and refrigerator. There are seven complete baths on the boat. The engine room is exceptionally large. The ventilation and light are excellent and even the fire hole is cool, the ventilation in it being nearly perfect. The owners apparently have saved no expense in the construction of the vessel.

FEW BOATS MOVING.

Quietness in Local Harbor Likely to Continue for Weeks.

The quietness in the local harbor continues, with little prospect of better conditions for some weeks to come. The Lake Carriers meet at Cleveland next Monday to set a date for the opening, and it is believed they will not start until June 15, or possibly later.

In the meantime, a few coal cargoes are arriving and a few ore cargoes from Allouez and lumber cargoes from the local mills comprise the bulk of the lake traffic here. The Missabe docks have about completed their shipments for May and the grain has all been shipped, with the exception of what the line boats will take. Even the passenger boats have not yet begun, nor will they for about a month, so prospects will continue gloomy for some weeks yet.

ANCHOR IS MENACE.

Repairs on Steamer John Stanton Will Cost $10,000.

Cleveland, May 26.—Repairs on the steamer John Stanton, which is in No. 2 drydock at Lorain, will cost about $10,000 and the boat will lose considerable time. She will have to have four new plates.

The Stanton was damaged by striking a 3,000-pound anchor in the channel at Houghton. The steamer picked up part of the anchor, which broke when she struck it, and it was found when she was docked at Lorain.

The anchor which the Stanton struck was lost by the steamer Orinoco, Oct. 23, 1907. The captain of the Orinoco notified Engineer Banks, in charge of the Portage district, at once, but nothing was done about removing the dangerous obstruction from the channel. More damage will be done unless the anchor is removed

COUNTY BOARD WILL MEET JUNE 4.

Commissioners Will Give Hearing on Many Road Petitions.

The next regular meeting of the county board will occur Thursday, June 4. The board held a special meeting last week to act on the request of the courthouse commission for an increase of the appropriation for the new courthouse from $700,000 to $1,000,000, and to pass a resolution authorizing the county auditor to call for bids for the county certificates of indebtedness, which are to be issued in the sum of $900,000. So far as known now there is no new business in connection with the courthouse that will come before the county board at the next meeting. The courthouse commission will meet Wednesday, preceding the county board meeting to take action relative to the contracts that have been ordered with various individuals and firms that bid for the work on the new building.

There are a number of road hearings set for the next meeting of the county board.

J. L. WASHBURN IS BACK FROM SOUTH

Says Johnson's Prominence Should Please Every Minnesotan.

Looking greatly improved in health and possessing his old time vigor and strength, J. L. Washburn has returned to Duluth after a sojourn of several months in the South.

When interviewed by a Herald reporter today and asked regarding his sojourn away during the winter, he said that he had enjoyed the winter very much and that he had been comfortably situated in the country a short distance from the village of Tyron, which is on the southern boundary of Western North Carolina.

"The country is one of transcendent beauty," he said, "being a mountainous region, abounding in many beautiful streams and waterfalls and covered with a forest containing a great variety of trees and flowering shrubs, the particular location where we lived being upon the south side of the last range of the Blue Ridge mountains." Mr. Washburn says he spent his time horseback riding through the mountains and in general reading, and in keeping in touch by correspondence with his interests and that the stay of himself and family was rendered very much more pleasant and agreeable by frequent visits of friends from Duluth. He expresses the belief that all of that mountain country will sooner or later become the playground for the people from the North and East.

He says business conditions are fairly good in that region, although there is a vast difference between the activities of business in the North and in that section of the country. Mr. Washburn stated that it was certainly agreeable to any Minnesota man, without regard to politics, to realize the appreciation with which the governor of Minnesota is held throughout the South.

"Governor Johnson is a much talked of man in all of the sections of the South that I have visited," he said.

Would You Like a Piano In Your Home?

Most people would—but they imagine the price is so high, they couldn't afford one.

If you have that idea, you have probably been to some piano store where they ask four hundred dollars for a two hundred and fifty dollar instrument—this is done so they can give you a big discount for cash, or a big allowance for your old piano—it's the old style way of selling pianos—"get all you can," is the motto.

Our One-Price System—gives you a high-grade fine toned instrument—one that you may be proud to own, and it gives it to you at the very lowest possible cash price. You can really buy the piano here for what some consignment dealers have to pay for it, because we own every piano we sell; we buy for cash, and do business on a cash basis.

We can save you about a hundred or a hundred and fifty dollars if you buy your piano of us. You don't pay a double price, you get a high-grade instrument, and if you like you may pay it by the month.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON THE PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT UNIVERSITY EXERCISES

the forty-six states of the American Union are the milestones and landmarks of American liberty," Governor Johnson said.

He declared the progress of the republic is opposed by two dangers. One is a tendency of the Federal government to a centralization of power and the assumption of soverign powers not delegated to it by the Constitution and belonging to the state and to the people. The other is the power of centralized and predatory wealth, fostered by special privileges, and defiant of both the public welfare and the law of the land. "The exercise of these dangers is not only contemporary," he said, "but in a measure co-operative. Both threaten the liberty, the power of the people and the untarnished perpetuity of our institutions.

Development of Trusts.

"Although the profitable development of the great industrial trusts of today is largely due, first, to the special privileges of the Federal government, and especially to unreasonable and unjust tariff laws, which those in control of the government refuse to abolish or amend, and, second, to gross favoritism in administration and to lax interpretation and enforcement of the legislation and the laws, the very existence of these trusts is today urged as the reason why still further powers should be centralized in the Federal government, the states deprived of the Constitutional rights and powers, and the guarantees of the Constitution still further encroached upon, evaded and broken down.

"The inherent powers of this republic should not be delegated to the Federal government but should reside in the state and the people. They are the original sources of sovereignty and yet the present administration maintains the doctrine of inherent sovereignty in the government. Today the government of the United States denies the existence of the constitution and its immunity to our island territories.

"Shall we have a sovereign government or sovereign states and a sovereign people? Shall this republic, organized on the principles of the declaration of independence and under the provisions of the constitution desert its cause and produce an imitation of an old world empire, or shall it remain true to the principles of American manhood and shape its destinies by the landmarks of progressive American liberty? Shall we go back to the institutions and principles from which our fathers fled or shall we stand by those of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln and maintain the integrity of the republic?"

source of supply to those doing work among foreigners in the various parts of the country. During the past year the board has expended $28,000 on this department. This includes $9,000 spent under the supervision of the woman's board of home missions. The department has training schools to prepare ministers for this kind of evangelistic work.

The general assembly today took up another department of the educational work of the church when the colleges of the church were considered. The general assembly through its committee on colleges expressed its gratitude to John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie for their generosity in gifts to the Presbyterian colleges.

Home Missions.

The report of the board of home missions set forth that the receipts from living sources last year were the largest in its history.

"There has been some falling off in legacies," the report said, "but the gifts from the churches and individuals are larger than ever before, and the treasury of the Women's board has exceeded any former year by about $15,000. This, in a year of unsettled financial conditions, is a matter of profound thanksgiving to the head of the church.

"In several respects the work of the year has been tentative. In two directions the work assumed by request of the general assembly has developed upon the board important new plans and reorganization. The evangelistic work carried on in nearly all the missionary presbyteries has not only shown good results, but has given distinctive promise of still better things when the organization of the work shall have been better effected and when experience shall have guided to the wisest plans and the best methods. The work in the Cumberland branch of our church has been rendered peculiarly difficult by the suits entered by the anti-unionists in so many of the courts in the South. These suits are still in process, and the uncertainty which prevails as to the issue has interfered seriously with our work in nearly the entire field. Notwithstanding, much has been accomplished by the organization of presbyteries, the gathering together of scattered congregations, and the quickening of religious interest by evangelistic services very widely held. Those most conversant with the South and the Southwest are persuaded that rapid progress can be made as soon as pending ecclesiastical questions are settled, and that our church in that vast and rapidly developing region has an opportunity of unsurpassed promise.

"The Indian work, which is varied and extensive, meets with many limitations and difficulties by reason of various local conditions.

Church and Labor.

"The development of the department of church and labor has attracted the attention both of other denominations and of the public press. The reception accorded our ministers in the shop meetings is not without significance. The workingmen have a new conception of both the character of the minister as a man and of the nature of the gospel which he preaches. The fact that workingmen will attend a conference of employers and employes under the auspices of the church proves their confidence in us. Reports from our ministers indicate that the workinmen are responding to their appeal.

"The Women's board has done faithful service at home and on the field.

"The total number of missionaries at work was 1,539; missionary teachers, 442. The additions on confession of faith was 7,496; on certificate, 5,461, making the total membership 64,329. The churches organized were 115, and the church debt cancelled aggregated $124,300. The Sunday schools organized were 286, making the number 1,633, with a membership of 92,519.

"The receipts were $989,285, and the expenditures $1,038,548, being $75,155 in excess of the previous year. For the first time in ten years there was a deficit, amounting to $47,717, and this in the face of the fact that the receipts on current work account was the largest in the history of the board.

"We take up the work of the new year with a deep sense of responsibility, but with large expectations. We cannot stop. In all directions the demands are loud and the opportunity great."

If seven-tenths of the people who are looking for a place to live should read your ad. in The Herald would it not "help some?"

OPEN HOUSE AT Y. M. C. A.

Visitors Will be Welcomed at Association's New Home.

Five Days Set Apart for the Opening Exercises.

Beginning tomorrow afternoon and continuing for five consecutive days, the Young Men's Christian association will hold open house in its beautiful new building at Third avenue west and Second street. The entire building will be thrown open for the inspection of the public, and the corps of secretaries will be on hand to show the visitors around and point out the various points of excellence, in which the young men of Duluth will share in the future.

Although invitations have been sent by mail only to the contributors to the building fund, all citizens of Duluth are cordially invited to inspect the new building and will be admitted without ticket. The program for the opening sets each of the days apart for a different class of visitors. Tomorrow, from 3 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30 p. m., the members, contributors and subscribers to the building fund are invited. Thursday, from 2 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30 p. m., the pastors and their congregations, the Young Women's Christian associations, the young peoples' societies and other religious organizations will be entertained. In connection there will be a union service at 8 o'clock.

Friday, from 3 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30 p. m., the association will hold open house to the Young Men's Christian associations of Minnesota, the mayor and other city officials, the city council, officers and members of the police and fire departments, postoffice officials and employes, Commercial club, board of education, Federated Trades assembly, Kitchi Gammi club, Duluth Curling club, boat club, yacht club, Builders' exchange, naval reserves, militia and other organizations and their families. In the evening a dinner will be tendered the state executive committee by the board of directors.

Saturday, from 3 to 5 o'clock, there will be open house to the boys of Duluth 12 to 15 years of age and to the teachers in the public schools, and for the evening all men of Duluth, their wives and friends are invited.

The final event of the opening ceremonies will be the mass meeting for men in the assembly room. Edward W. Peck, state secretary of Minnesota, will address the meeting.

The officers of the local association are proud of their new building and are anxious that every person in Duluth inspect it, that they may know just what the city has provided for the moral and physical well-being of its young men. Every detail of building and equipment is modern and designed for the best results, and the members of the association look forward to its occupancy with pleasant anticipations.

ATTORNEY JEROME SHOULD BE REMOVED FROM OFFICE, SAYS NEW YORK COUNSEL

accompanied by great excesses makes it easy for him to procure facts showing criminal intent."

Shielded Perkins.

Taking up the case of George W. Perkins in the so-called political contribution case, the brief says:

"It is undisputed that Mr. Jerome would not furnish any evidence to the March grand jury and we have his own statement that if they had found an indictment against George W. Perkins he would have refused to sign it."

For the purpose of shielding Mr. Perkins from criminal prosecution, Mr. Pierce says, the district attorney instituted a proceeding "and thereby procured a decision which he says controls his action as against all other companies making campaign contributions."

The brief concludes with reference to the allegation that Mr. Jerome advised E. R. Thomas to employ a certain attorney when Thomas was about to be indicted in the banking cases; that he violated the law against gambling by shaking dice at a dollar a throw in a restaurant with the sons of Thomas F. Ryan, and that he dined with William Montgomery, a banker, who was under indictment, and "talked over the project of trapping another man—an alleged public officer into the commission of a crime and consented that this man under indictment shall go forth on such an errand as that, and the man goes forth and claims to have accomplished it."

RIVER AT FORT WORTH AGAIN RISING RAPIDLY

slight improvement. A conservative estimate places the loss of the railroads at around $1,000,000.

Thrilling rescues were reported from Currowton and Grape Vine. Thirteen men, women and children were caught in the overflow of the Denton river.

Their condition became so precarious that they were forced to hold the children upon their shoulders in order to keep them from drowning. These people stood in water almost to their necks for ten hours until rescued.

Thirteen railroad employes engaged in repairing a bridge at Grape Vine were hemmed in by the rising waters on Monday. They sought refuge on top of a big water tank and at last accounts were still on the tank surrounded by four miles of water. An effort will be made today to rescue them.

River Falling at Dallas.

Dallas, Tex., May 26.—After doing damage of over $1,000,000, drowning at least three persons and rendering 4,000 people in Dallas homeless, the Trinity river today is falling slowly. It is believed that when the water has receded it will be found that the number of deaths will be increased.

All of the workmen who were carried down with the Texas & Pacific railway bridge yesterday have not been accounted for. Frank Edwards lost his life last night by falling into the backwater on McKinney avenue in the residence district.

Dallas business men are raising funds to succor the distressed and homeless. The city is still without lights and water, the plants being inundated. A few street cars are being run by the power furnished by private companies.

CAMPBELLS' CIRCUS IN MUD

Show Has to Abandon Evening Performance in Duluth.

Campbell Bros.' circus, which was a clever show, even though not as large as Ringlings' and some of the other big leaguers, had a terrible time of it in Duluth.

Heavy rains had made the circus lot at Twenty-ninth avenue west and Third street so soft that it was harly possible to give a performance yesterday afternoon and the evening performance was abandonf altogether.

Considering the weather, a good sized crowd attended the afternoon performance, but the ground was so wet and muddy that it was very difficult for the performers, human and animal, to appear to any advantage.

The downpour which came after the afternoon performance and drenched the crowds leaving the tents, further discouraged the circus people, and they decided to give up the evening performance. Their wagons were so deep in the mud and their canvas so wet and soggy that they had a hard enough time getting it off their lot and loaded on their trains, without giving an evening show.

The Campbells are hoping for better weather on the range, where they will be for several days. Under more favorable conditions, they would have undoubtedly have drawn good crowds in Duluth, for they gave a good parade and have a lively ring performance. The show has been considerably enlarged and improved since last season.

RAILROADS

DAY TRAIN TO WINNIPEG.

Northern Pacific Will Install New Service to Canadian City.

Beginning May 31, Duluth people will be given an opportunity to travel to Winnipeg in one of the finest trains in the West. They will also be given an opportunity to travel by a day train, which will be an innovation, as heretofore the travel between St. Paul and connecting points to the Manitoba capital, has been during the night.

All railroads are tied up, but few trains being able to enter or leave Dallas.

The Northern Pacific will place a day service between St. Paul and Winnipeg to effect on the date mentioned, making connections at Staples with the Duluth trains. The new train will leave St. Paul at 8 a. m. and will connect at Staples with the Duluth train that leaves here at 7:05 a. m. The train will reach Winnipeg at 10:55 p. m., thus enabling travelers to leave Duluth in the morning and reach Winnipeg that night.

The Duluth train will also make connections with the North Coast Limited and the local service train at Staples.

This will be the first day train run from St. Paul to Winnipeg. A buffet, observation and dining car will be run. The train will be entirely new and will be as fine as modern car construction can devise. Travel between the Twin Cities and Winnipeg, and also between Duluth and Winnipeg has increased so within the past year that the officials of the Northern Pacific felt that the day train would meet with a long felt want.

The time of the Duluth train for Staples has been changed from 8:15 to 7:05 a. m.

Burlington Issues Bonds.

New York, May 26.—It was estimated today that the proposed issue of bonds of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway company at the present time probably will be $25,000 000 out of a total authorized issue of $200,000,000 secured by a blanket mortgage on the company's lines. The bonds will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum and will be sold at 95½ and interest.

J. P. Morgan & Co. will handle the flotation. It is not expected that there will be any syndicate.

NEW WEATHER STATION.

Ellendale, N. D., to Have One at Senator Hansbrough's Request.

Washington, May 26.—Congress having provided for several additional weather stations, to be erected in various parts of the country, Senator Hansbrough, chairman of the committee on agriculture, before leaving here, put in a claim for one of these stations for his state. The secretary has decided to comply with the senator's request and Ellendale, in Dickey county, has been selected by the senator and agreed to by the secretary as the place for the new station. Some years ago the senator secured a station for his own city of Devils Lake and later he got a $150,000 public building there. There are now three weather stations in North Dakota, one at Williston, one at Devils Lake and one at Bismarck. A site will be purchased by the government and the building costing from $12,000 to $15,000 will be erected thereon. An observer will be stationed there permanently. This is the first federal recognition received by Dickey county. Bismarck, Minot, Devils Lake, Grand Forks and Fargo having been provided for in the matter of federal institutions at the hands of Senator Hansbrough, Ellendale is now added to the list thus favored.

AS TO NEMESIS.

Chicago News: "More trouble!" sighed the nice old gentleman, as the little boy came to him, knuckling his eyes. "Dear me! Johnny, you certainly seem to have more than your share. I knew it was coming, I could have told you when I saw the state of your clothes that something was going to break loose. What did you want to wade around in the mud puddle for?"

"Just for fun," whimpered the little boy.

"Is it fun to get licked?" asked the nice old gentleman. "Haven't you been told often enough not to wade in mud puddles and spoil your clothes?"

"I didn't think they'd see me," explained the little boy.

"Hm-m" said the nice old gentleman, thoughtfully. "Well, that excuses you to a certain extent. It acquits you in a degree of the charge of foolishness. At the same time you might know that your shoes would give you away. Did you tell the truth when your mother asked you if you had been wading or did you say that somebody pushed you in?"

The little boy hung his head.

"You know that you should always tell the truth," said the nice old gentleman. "If you think you'll get the hide taken off you for telling it that's all the more reason why you should. You'll have the consolation of knowing that you've acted nobly. If irrationally, and besides you might be let off on account of your frankness. I don't say that you should make that consideration your prime motive, but it's as well to figure everything. But you had your fun, did you?"

"I don't know," replied the little boy. "I suppose as you look back on it you don't," commented the nice old gentleman. "Still, you say you did it just for fun. I haven't the least doubt that your imagined slopping around in that slush would be a particularly hilarious way of passing the time. You didn't think of the consequences at all. It was your idea of a good time, eh?"

"Yes, sir," admitted the little boy.

"I know, I know," said the nice old gentleman. "It seems hard for unsympathetic elders to believe, but I know. I suppose I've waded around in a great many mud puddles myself in my time and thought it was enjoyment. I didn't think about consequences, either, or how I solled myself."

"Did you get licked?" asked the little boy with interest.

"You'd better believe I did," replied the nice old gentleman. "Nemesis never fails; her feet are gum-soled and her spanking hand is heavy. I got it good and plenty. I splurged and splashed around at a great rate, never supposing that she was within a hundred miles of me, but she had her eye on me all the time, and when she finally got me face downward and heels up where she wanted me, the lesson was impressive."

"Did you ever do it again?"

"I am afraid it did," said the nice old gentleman. "Perhaps I didn't get in quite so deep the next time and I might have been pushed in by other naughty little boys once or twice, but in time I learned to keep out of the mud. That's what you must do. I'm a good deal like you now, Johnny. I don't know whether I had such a very good time, looking back on it. Mud isn't really nice. It's forbidden, though, and there's an attraction about that."

"Who was Nemesis?" asked the little boy. "Was she your mother?"

"No," replied the nice old gentleman. "She was a friend in disguise. She's an awfully good friend to lots of people and she's like lots of other good friends that people have—we like her better when she's visiting somebody else."

"Was she like Mrs. Bellins?" asked the little boy.

"I think you'd better run away and ponder what I've said to you now, Johnny," said the nice old gentleman. "I'm a little tired of answering questions."

What are your "lucky numbers?" Perhaps the number of the classified ads, in today's paper is one of your lucky numbers.

A QUESTION OF VERACITY.

Everybody's Magazine: "I am sorry, my dear neighbor," said Mehemed, in reply to Ali's request, "but I cannot please you. My son took the donkey this morning to the next village."

"I assure you," insisted Ali, "I shall take the very best care of him, my dear neighbor."

"Can you not take my word?" demanded Mehemed with a show of anger. "I tell you the donkey is out."

"But"—at this point the donkey began to bray loudly. "There. That is the donkey braying now."

"Well," said the justly indignant Mehemed, "if you would rather take my donkey's word than my word, we can be friends no longer, and under no circumstances can I lend you anything."

ACTION IS DEFERRED

Anti-Liddists Win Another Point in McQueen Case.

Council Turns Down Two Applications for License Renewal.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Took no action toward revoking Alexander McQueen's saloon license, but decided to let the matter run along until a decision in the case has been handed down by district court.

Directed Chief of Police Troyer to report to the council as to which saloonmen throw back their curtains and doors after closing hours, and which do not.

Turned down two applications for saloon licenses, Peter Peterson, 1610 West Superior street, and J. D. Campbell of the St. James hotel.

Granted saloon license of William McCullough, after holding it up for one week.

Directed that bids for addition to fire hall No. 3 be advertised for, and authorized the board of fire commissioners to advertise for bids for a new fire hall at Fifth avenue east and Seventh street.

The "dry" aldermen again lost out in the city council last night, and another precedent was established in dealing with the saloon question. Alderman Moore and the other liddists tried to secure a vote upon the proposal to revoke Alexander McQueen's saloon license, but a majority of the council voted to postpone action until after an appeal, which he has taken to the district court, has been settled.

McQueen was found guilty and fined in municipal court for keeping his saloon open after hours. Alderman Moore put up the argument that the municipal court conviction was enough grounds for the council to act, but Attorney McKeon, acting for McQueen, prevailed upon a majority of the city fathers to defer action until after the district court has settled the case, which will be in about three weeks, he said.

The grand jury indicted McQueen, and he will be given a jury trial in district court. Mr. McKeon and some of the anti-liddists contended that it would be unfair to the man to revoke his license before the case was finally settled in court. Alderman McKnight said the council should do its own thinking and not be governed by the courts.

It developed during the discussion that McQueen's bartender was convicted of a violation of the law less than a year ago. Alderman Moore said the council was derelict in giving a license in the first place, in view of this fact, and suggested that this was a good time to correct the mistake. Chief of Police Troyer said there was no doubt that the saloon was open after hours. McQueen admitted that men were in the place, but said they were merely passing from the front to the back doors. He said this was before 12 o'clock, and the policemen said it was about 12:50 a. m.

Those voting for postponement were: Filiatrault, Foubister, Hogan, Jordon, Ribenack, Shartel, Tessman, Trevillion.

The license of Peter Peterson, who conducts a saloon at 1610 West Superior stree, was held up by the committee on police and license. The committee said reports have been received to the effect that the place was not as law-abiding as might be desired, and they desired to investigate before the license was granted for another year.

J. D. Campbell's license for a saloon in the St. James hotel was turned down and the place will be closed when the license expires, June 1. Campbell's bartender was convicted a few days ago of having kept the place open after hours. The committee failed to report on the Trevillion amendment to the liquor ordinance, which changes the wording of the measure so as to relieve the saloonkeepers of responsibility for violations of the law on the part of their bartenders.

The police department was directed to furnish a list showing the saloon men who draw up their curtains after closing hours, and those who do not.

A resolution was adopted directing the board of public works to submit estimates of the cost of placing signs on telegraph posts, to designate streets and avenues in localities where such signs are not in evidence at present.

A resolution was adopted asking for bids for an addition to No. 3 fire hall, First avenue east and Third street. A petition against the establishment of a horse hospital on the site was read from property owners in that vicinity, and Alderman Shartel also argued against the location, saying it would be a hardship on the property owners. For one thing, he said, the horses would have to be exercised on the street, and the barn would not be located a proper distance from the sidewalk. Alderman Filiatrault said the hospital was really more of a paint shop, and that there were very few sick horses to be taken there. He said new horses in the department were put there to become acclimated.

The board of public works was ordered to advertise for bids for remodeling the Armory front, at a cost not to exceed $1,000.

A protest against opening an alley through their property was read from property owners in Rearranged Industrial Division, blocks 7 and 8, and Cowell's addition, St. Croix avenue.

Fred E. Hough, city electrician, reported that he had examined the electric cables and poles supporting them along Superior street, and that extensive repairs are now being made which will insure their absolute safety.

Mayor Haven asked for a graduated scale for circus licenses, so the small show would not have to pay as much for a license as the big show.

There was considerable talk over street lights. The city comptroller was asked to report on the size of the fund for new lights, and the lights will be ordered by the water and light committee as the fund will permit, and in localities where they are most needed.

The board of water and light commissioners reported that negotiations had practically been completed with the D., M. & N. railroad for a supply of water for Proctor, the water to be taken from the West Duluth reservoir and pumped to an elevation of 550 feet. The water will be used for domestic purposes, and also for use in the company's shops.

WAS DELIRIOUS WITH ECZEMA

On Chest, Back, and Head—Pain, Heat, and Tingling Were Excruciating—Nerves in Exhausted Condition—Sleep Badly Broken.

CURE BY CUTICURA SEEMED LIKE MAGIC

"Words cannot express the gratitude I feel for what Cuticura Remedies have done for my daughter, Adelaide. She is fifteen years of age, and had never had anything the matter with her skin until four months ago, when an eruption broke out on her chest. The first symptom was a redness, and then followed thickening and blisters, which would break and run matter. I took her to a doctor, and he pronounced it to be eczema of a very bad form. He treated her, but instead of being checked, the disease spread. It showed itself on her back, and then quickly spread upwards until the whole of her head was affected, and all her hair had to be cut off. The pain she suffered was excruciating, and what with that and the heat and tingling her life was almost unbearable. She became run down in health, and at times was very feverish, languid, and drowsy, and occasionally she was delirious. Her nerves were in such a low state that she could not bear to be left alone. In spite of the cold weather she would insist on having her bedroom window open, and would lean out on the window-sill. She did not have a proper hour's sleep for many nights. The second doctor we tried afforded her just as little relief as the first, and I really do not know what we should have done if we had not read how Cuticura cured a similar case. I purchased Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, and before the Ointment was three-quarters finished every trace of the disease was gone. It really seemed like magic. Her hair is coming on nicely, and I still apply the Cuticura Ointment as I find it increases the growth wonderfully. Mrs. T. W. Hyde, 1, Ongar Place, Brentwood, Essex, England, Mar. 8, 1907."

WILL THROW UP THEIR CONTRACT

McLeod & Smith Will Not Accept Courthouse Job.

McLeod & Smith, the local contracting firm that was awarded the $21,000 contract for the excavation, filling, grading, masonry and concrete work for the new courthouse, have notified the courthouse commission that they will be unable to accept the contract for the reason that their bid was too low. It is understood that a mistake was made in estimating some of the work.

The firm submitted a certified check for $1,100 with its bid and, in the natural course of such matters the check would be forfeited, but whether it will in this case depends on the action of the commission when it meets June 3. The bid is said to have been an unqualified one, but the commission, in view that it is a local firm affected, may release the bidders and return the check. The contractors claim that if they carried out the contract they will lose much more than the amount of the certified check.

The next lowest bid is said to be $43,000 or $45,000, the specifications covering a little more ground than the bid submitted by McLeod & Smith. The fact that the next lowest bid was over twice as much as that submitted by McLeod & Smith is said to indicate pretty clearly that the local contractors were much too low in their estimates of the expense of doing the work.

Glenn of New York is first vice-president, and Amos W. Butler of Indiana, secretary.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

Report in Favor of Absolute Prohibition is Adopted.

Rev. Dr. Charles W. Smith of Pittsburg is Elected Bishop.

Baltimore, Md., May 26.—In the Methodist general conference yesterday discussion of the temperance reports was begun. All throughout the day the supporters of the majority reiterated their unchangeable belief in absolute prohibition. It was the recommendation in the majority report indorsing local option and the Anti-Saloon league as the effective means to reach the desired result that caused the division in the committee and brought out two reports. Finally the minority report was tabled and the majority recommendations were adopted overwhelmingly amid tremendous applause.

Another Bishop Elected.

At 4 p. m., the delegates reassembled to hear the result of the twelfth ballot for bishop. They were rewarded with the announcement of the election of Rev. Dr. Charles W. Smith of Pittsburg. The ballot follows:. Total, 744; necessary to choice, 496; Smith, 511; Hughes, 477; Lewis, 465; McIntyre, 404; Stuntz, 390; Downey, 328; Hingeley, 168; Bristol, 159; Mason, 147; Jennings, 137; Cooke, 90; Dorchester, 82; Goodell, 61.

Dr. Smith is editor of the Pittsburg Christian Advocate and chairman of the judiciary committee of the general conference. He is an eminent authority on the law and history of the church.

Committee Sustains Mitchell.

A matter of importance in which there is widespread interest will be laid before the conference as a court of last appeal in the Methodist Episcopal church, in a report of the judiciary committee sustaining Prof. Kinkley G. Mitchell, who was declared a heretic by the Central New York conference, of which he was a member, and who was for the same alleged reason deposed from the chair of Hebrew and Old Testament Exegis in the Boston University school of theology some time ago. Mr. Mitchell ranks high among Hebrew scholars and his trial on charges of heresy was a noted one. The charges grew out of certain published writings of his, more particularly in his book, "The World Before Abraham." A committee of the Central New York conference investigated the charges, reported Prof. Mitchell guilty, and the report was adopted by the conference, without, it is said, the accused having been given an opportunity to defend himself. From this action of the annual conference, Prof. Mitchell appealed to the judiciary committee of the general conference, the report of which will sustain him of points of law, upon which (and not upon matters of orthoxody), the committee is competent to pass.

(By Rev. W. E. J. Gratz of Two Harbors.

The election of bishops was the chief subject of interest in the general conference during the past week. Dr. J. M. Buckley, the chairman, brought in the report of the committee on episcopacy. The committee asked for the election of ten new bishops, but, after a stormy discussion, it was decided to elect eight. Robert Forbes introduced a resolution that there should be no demonstrations of applause either by the conference or by the galleries during the vote for bishops or at the announcing of the ballots. "Let us conduct this work as befits the church of the living God," was a sentiment heartily applauded. On the second ballot, Rev. W. F. Anderson, D. D., of New York received 548 votes, and Prof. John L. Nuelsen received 540, and both were declared elected. They were escorted to the platform by Bishops W. F. McDowell and J. W. Bashford.

The New Bishops.

Bishop-elect Anderson was born in Morgantown, Va., April 22, 1860. He is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university and Drew Theological seminary. In 1887 he entered the New York conference and has been a pastor within its limits until at the last general conference, in 1904, he was elected secretary of the board of education. This position gave him a wide acquaintance in the church and endeared him to all who met him. A great career is predicted for him.

Bishop-elect J. L. Neulsen is one of the youngest members of the general conference, being only 41 years of age. He is a son of the only living minister among those who were originally sent to Germany by the Methodist church as missionaries. He was born in Zurich, Switzerland, Jan. 19, 1867. His earliest education was received in Germany. He received his A. M. degree at the Central Wesleyan college, Warrenton, Mo., and, after attending Drew Theological seminary, received his doctor's degree from the Denver university in 1900. For a number of years he has been teacher in some of the German theological schools. For three years he was professor at St. Paul's college, St. Paul Park, Minn., where the writer learned to know and honor him. He preaches regularly in German and eloquently in English. He is the author of several important recent theological volumes. It is expected that he will be appointed to the conferences in Germany and will take up his residence there.

After the election of Anderson and Nuelsen, nine ballots were taken, without any result. In fact, a deadlock resulted, which, when the conference closed on Saturday night, had not been broken. The leaders are Dr. W. A. Quayle of Chicago; Dr. W. S. Lewis, president of Morningside university; Dr. Homer Stunz of the Philippines; Dr. C. W. Smith, editor of the Pittsburg Christian Advocate; Rev. Robert McIntyre, D. D., of Los Angeles, Cal.; Rev. J. B. Hingeley, D. D., of Minneapolis; Dr. E. H. Hughes, president of De Paw university, Indiana, and Dr. David C. Downey. Which of these will be the six bishops to be elected no one can tell. The conference took the tenth ballot and ordered it sealed until Monday morning at 6 o'clock, when the tellers counted them and reported to the conference after the reading of the journal. Dr. Quayle was declared elected on this ballot.

Fraternal Delegates.

Another important matter that took a great deal of the time of the conference last week was the reception of fraternal delegates who bore greetings from other denominations and other branches of the Methodist church. Chief among these were Rev. John H. Goodman, representing the British and Irish conferences of the Wesleyan Methodist church; Rev. John Henderson, D. D., and Hon N. W. Rowell, representing the Canadian Methodist church; Rev. Collins Denny, D. D., representing the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and U. Sasamori, representing the Japan Methodist Episcopal church. Each of these brought greetings and delivered addresses calculated to bring Methodism of the world closer together. On Friday morning the Presbyterian church sent greetings.

Organic Union Favored.

Early in the session of this conference a committee of fifteen on federation was appointed to bring about as soon as possible an organic union between the various branches of the Methodist churches in this country. Letters asking for commissions to be appointed by their respective bodies were sent to the Methodist Protestant church, three Colored Methodist Episcopal churches, and the Methodist Episcopal church South. To these overtures the Protestant Methodist church was the first to respond. That body was in session at Pittsburg, Pa., and was visited in the interest of organic union by Bishop H. W. Warren, the senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church. He was most cordially received. The gavel was handed him and he was asked to preside over the Methodists who half a century ago had left the mother church. The following resolution was adopted by the Methodist Protestant church:

"That we respond heartily to the proposal of the Methodist Episcopal church, not unmindful of the difficulties to be overcome before a satisfactory conclusion can be reached, but ready to go as far and as rapidly in consummating a universal Methodism as the interest and integrity of our own denomination will permit, and to pray continually for the full realization of their and our hope."

The report agrees to the plan for a commission of nine Methodist Episcopal, nine Methodist Protestant and nine Methodist Episcopal Church South to formulate a church union plan, and requests that the Methodist Episcopal church allow the United Brethern to send nine commissioners to the joint body. This will be done, and the outlook for union is very bright.

Reform has been in the air at this general conference. Whenever the topic of temperance or any other reform matter was brought forward it was found to be a live wire. Some of the deliverances of the conference have been noteworthy. Governor Frank J. Hanley of Indiana is the chairman of the temperance committee and has been an ardent advocate of methods for immediate results, while he has been ably seconded by Governor Hoch of Kansas. Judge Charles M. Pollock of Fargo, N. D., is another of the stalwarts on this committee.

Child Labor.

The following deliverance on child labor was made:

"In the interest of financial gain and unscrupulous commercial methods and rivalry, there is laid upon the altar of greed many thousands of the children of our land.

"This is against every sense of justice and right and is opposed to the best interest of the home, society and the nation.

"This spirit of Mammon is opposed to the spirit of Christ.

"We the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, register our protest against such employment and pledge our suport to all measures, state and national, and all legislatures, state and national, and all philanthropic movements that are set to the prevention of this great evil."

"White Slave Traffic."

Here follows a resolution presented by Rev. C. W. Baldwin, D.D., which was enthusiastically adopted by the conference:

"It has become evident that a traffic in womanhood, known as the 'white slave traffic,' is becoming increasingly active in this cvountry, and during the last two years many men and women have been convicted and are in prison for luring young women across the ocean and from city to city by offers of employment, only to immure them in dens of vice, where they are often held in abject and hopeless slavery.

"The revelations in these cases and investigations in many parts of this country, notably in St. Louis, Chicago, New York, Denver and Oakland, have made it absolutely certain that there exists in nearly every American city places where similar conditions prevail, the victims of this horrible trafic coming sometimes from abroad, but very often from the homes of our people in America.

"This general conference entreats our members everywhere, in the name of womanhood—

"First—To do all in thir power to break up the national and international 'white slave traffic.'

"Second—To stimulate the formation of associations in every community to warn and protect girls and women and to improve local conditions.

"Third—To investigate instances of wrongdoing to girls and women, to care for them and to see that offenders are punished.

"Fourth—To encourage parents and teachers to educate boys and girls under their care in the laws of sex and thus protect them in health and character.

"Fifth—To co-operate with the national vigilance committee of every country in the suppression of the 'white slave traffic.' We appeal to President Roosevelt for the ratification of a treaty signed by almost every civilized government save our own and now awaiting the action of the government in Washington, the purpose of which to abolish this abominable traffic in womanhood, and that a copy of this paper be sent to President Roosevelt and to the secretary of state."

Race Track Gambling.

A letter to Governor Hughes of New York condemning race track gambling and other forms of vice and pledging loyal support to him in his splendid stand brought from the governor the following reply:

"Albany, May 13, 1908.—Rev. John W. Hamilton, D.D., Presiding Bishop General Conference Methodist Episcopal Church, Baltimore, Md.—My Dear Bishop Hamilton: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 12th inst., setting forth the resolutions adopted by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church with regard to the matter of race track gambling and the proposed legislation for the purpose of abolishing it in this state.

"Permit mg to express my high appreciation of the action taken by the conference, and of the assurance of your support in this contest to put an end to disgraceful conditions and to secure decent respect for the fundamental law of the state.

"With cordial greetings to those in attendance at the general conference, and with assurance of my high regard, I have the honor to remain, Very respectfully yours, CHARLES E. HUGHES."

TESTIFIES THAT THE GIRL KILLED HERSELF.

Iola, Kan., May 26.—Samuel Whitlow, testifying in his own behalf in his trial on the charge of murdering Miss May Sapp, yesterday, denied that he killed the girl, declaring that she committed suicide, because he told her their relations must cease. Later Whitlow, for the first time during the trial, showed emotion, tears coming to his eyes, as he swore that when he prepared his first written statement it was to protect his name and that of his family.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SWEPT CLEAN BY TORNADO

Path Three Hundred Feet Wide Marks Route of Storm.

Water Scooped Up From Lake Like Work of Cyclone.

Mankato, Minn., May 26.—A tornado late Sunday afternoon cut a clean path thirty-six miles from a point four miles east of Mankato to Lake Bellentyne.

Only one person, August Loeffer, was injured and he not seriously. His two barns were demolished, also Mrs. Wesley Abbott's barn and several other of her farm buildings.

The path was torn through the woods 300 feet wide. A heavy rain fell.

Nic Kleinschmidt was at his cottage at Lake Ballentyne when the tornado struck the lake. It passed a few rods from his cottage, and when it struck the north bank of the lake it seemed to go up into the air. A severe storm struck the west bay of Lake Madison and also Duck lake.

Mr. Kleinschmidt states that when the tornado struck Ballentyne lake it looked like an inverted funnel. The top seemed to be six hundred feet high, and the water under the broad end of the funnel seemed to be drawn up three hundred feet. The roar was much louder than he falls of Minneopa when there is a large volume of water. The ascending columns of water seemed to be white, and the top of the funnel dark. Where the tornado crossed the land it stripped the ground of grain. A huge elm tree was snapped off as smoothly as though it had been sawed off, and a telephone pole was broken off. The path through the fields are not over thirty feet wide, seemingly.

Beauford was also visited by a bad storm or tornado. The barn on Fred Busse's place was completely destroyed, and from there the torndao proceeded to the Ward farm, but it did no damage to the buildings there, and seems to have disappeared there.

Besides his wife and parents the deceased is survived by his brother Thomas W. Welch of this city, well known in Duluth.

PROPOSED MINNEAPOLIS EXCURSION BECOMES FROST

Bemidji, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—About a month ago the members of the Minneapolis Commercial club decided to run a special excursion from Minneapolis to International Falls, via the Northern Pacific and Minnesota & International railways.

Arrangements were being made by the Bemidji club to entertain the visitors for several hours while on their way to the international boundary and on their return trip.

A letter has been received stating that the excursion had been called off for the present. The letter was as follows:

"Brainerd, May 25, 1908.—A. G. Rutledge, Bemidji, Minn. Dear Sir—Referring to my letter of May 4, in regard to Minneapolis Commercial club excursion to International Falls about June 1. On account of the inability of that club to get enough members together at that time of the year to make a satisfactory showing they have concluded to postpone the running of the excursion for the present. Yours truly, W. H. GEMMELL, "General Manager, M. & I. Ry."

ONLY ONE "BEST"

Duluth People Give Credit Where Credit Is Due.

People of Duluth who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Duluth. Here's Duluth testimony:

Mrs. Lettie Cole of 467 Mesaba avenue, Duluth, Minn., says: "I am pleased to repeat what I have said again and again recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. Five or six years ago, when suffering from disorders of the kidneys, which had become aggravated by over-exertion and severe colds, I looked about in vain for a long time for relief, trying many different remedies, which were recommended to me, but not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills did I find the long-sought-for benefit. The first dose or two helped me and I continued taking them until the heavy aching through my back and kidneys was gone, and the kidney secretions had become natural. Doan's Kidney Pills improved my health in every way, and the results have been permanent."

NO GRAND STAND MAN.

Governor Burke Not Worrying Over the Republican Attacks.

Bismarck, N. D., May 26.—Governor Burke, who has returned from the meeting of governors at the White House at Washington, reports a delightful and profitable session of that body and is of the opinion that such meetings would prove profitable to the country at large if held every two or three years, but at some other point than Washington, owing to the political atmosphere there. He took a shy at the plank in the Republican state platform passed at Minot in which he was criticised for not voting as a member of the state equalization board for raising the railroad assessment. To this the governor says:

"After we had heard the arguments of the railroad attorneys I was in favor of raising the assessment or at least talking the matter over, but the vote was taken without any talk and as four of the seven members of the board voted for the old rate, I, as presiding officer, did not see any good could be obtained by making a grand stand play, so did not put the nays, it not being necessary. I could have made a protest against railroad taxes being too low, and gone on record against the action of the board, but I don't believe in grand stands. I am going to do what I think is right as governor of this state, and if the people do not want me, all they have to do is to say so at the polls. I have a better job awaiting me at Devils Lake."

CONVICTS IN QUARRIES.

Scheme of Highway Commissioner Earles of Michigan.

Menominee, Mich., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crushed stone imported from Milwaukee is to be used in paving work here this season. One cargo of the material has already been delivered by the steam barge Topeka. The fact that it is found necessary in this instance to go such a great distance for stone for street work serves to direct attention to State Highway Commissioner Horatio Earle's scheme of using convict labor in quarrying rock for use in road construction in Michigan, and which proposition is one of the planks of the platform on which he is seeking the Republican nomination for governor.

It is Earle's plan to establish a state quarry somewhere in the trap rock region of the upper peninsula, and presumably in the wilds of Keweenaw county, and to use as labor a portion of the Marquette, Jackson and Ionia prison population, now engaged in the manufacture of overalls, box shooks, reed furniture and binding twine. The crushed stone would be furnished to townships all over the state at a price somewhat less than cost, thus stimulating, as Mr. Earle's figures it, good roads work and incidentally benefitting both lake and rail traffic.

LLOYD IS BROUGHT BACK.

Husband of Aimee Lloyd to Stand Trial as Her Accomplice.

Rochester, Minn., May 26—After numerous delays because of various legal objections placed in his path, Sheriff Vine has succeeded in bringing Albert Lloyd, husband of Mrs. Aimee Lloyd, the confidence woman, who victimized several people in this section last year, and is now doing time at St. Cloud, back from Alabama on the charge of being an accomplice of the woman in her illegal operations.

When the district court of Birmingham, Ala., ruled that Lloyd would have to face trial in Olmstead county, Minn., and remanded him to the custody of Sheriff Vine, the prisoner asked for a stay of thirty days in which to perfect an appeal to the supreme court. At the last moment of the thirty days he decided not to appeal, probably for the lack of funds to pay lawyers. A detective, who has been watching him, immediately nabbed him and put him on a train for Chicago, at the same time wiring Sheriff Vane to meet him in that city.

District court opens a week from today and Lloyd's case is expected to come up among the first.

BROUGHT FIRST LOG DRIVE.

Daniel Stanchfield, Pioneer Minnesota Lumberman, is Dead.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Daniel Stanchfield, one of the earliest settlers at the falls of St. Anthony, the man who discovered the large lumbering possibilities of Minnesota and brought the first drive of logs to the present site of Minneapolis, died Saturday at Fort Logan, Colo.

He came here in 1847, about the time that Luther Patch, John Rollins, R. P. Russell, Sumner Farnham and other pioneers located at the falls and engaged in lumbering at once. He was the first practical logger to explore the Upper Mississippi and the Rum rivers. Discovering large bodies af pine, whose mercantile value had never before been recognized nor recorded, his report gave the logging industry its start. He was probably the first man to devote himself to logging in Minnesota.

He helped in the organization of the first boom company on the river and was one of the men who laid the foundation of the industry that gave Minneapolis its first great impetus.

Mr. Stanchfield was born at Leeds, Me., June 8, 1820, and was thus 88 years old.

PLANTS MANY TUBERS.

North Dakota Farmer Puts in 500 Acres in Potatoes.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. H. Pifer, the potato king of North Dakota, has planted 500 acres of the tubers this year. He thinks he will realize a handsome profit from the same. Everything on his farm is run by machinery.

The potatoes are planted, cultivated and dug by machinery, handled by machinery in his big warehouse and the seed is chopped into the proper size by machinery.

GOOD STRAWBERRY CROP.

Munising, Mich., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the Upper Michigan strawberry crop will be a record-breaker this spring is indicated from advices which come from the various farming districts where raising the fruit is a pursuit that has attained large proportions. The plants wintered well, and they are budding in a manner that promises an exceptional yield.

MARSHALL VERY CONFIDENT.

Progressive Candidate for Hansbrough's Shoes Optimistic.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Optimism of a rosy order is strong with Congressman Thomas F. Marshall, the Republican "progressive" candidate for United States senator to succeed Hansbrough. While here Sunday, after an extended tour of the western portion of the state, Mr. Marshall in discussing the outlook said:

"I was met at every stopping place by friends, largely from the country precincts who reported the conditions in their neighborhoods. The reports indicate plainly that the progressive cause is gaining ground. Our speakers are making many converts. Many people had been led to believe that the progressives are not Republicans. This idea is fast disappearing and as soon as the facts are placed before them they line up solidly for the cause of clean politics. It is a case with the oposition of a few men and many dollars against the masses.

"I was struck by the fact that the business men of the state are becoming alive to the situation and they are no more ready than the farmers to see North Dakota continue under machine rule. They realize that corrupt methods mean an injury to our material welfare and they are heartily supporting the movement to regain control of the state for the people.

"Speaking of myself, I was never more confident of winning the senatorship. I have enthusiastic and active supporters in every county and it keeps a large force busy sending out buttons and campaign matter in response to requests."

COW GOES MAD.

Infected With Rabies, the Bovine Chases Its Owner.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Walkely, a St. Augusta farmer who has lost several cows by hydrophobia, was in the city yesterday, and reports that another valuable milch cow went mad Thursday. The animal became violent and attacked Mr. Walkely. He was chased for some distance through a pasture and finaly succeeded in getting over a fence. The animal had every indication of being affected with hydrophobia. Mr. Walkely has asked the health authorities to make an investigation. He stated that several of the cows and hogs which were bitten by a mad dog have been kept with other animals and may have caused a spread of the disease.

A neighbor of his lost two valuable hogs only yesterday. Both were taken with hydrophobia.

MATRIMONY HER CHOICE.

Woman, About to Take Veil, Yields to Cupid's Blandishments.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., May 26.—A bridal instead of a nun's veil is the accidental choice of Miss Louise Weyenberg, niece of William Weyenberg of this city, when she became the wife of Peter Gonnering, a young farmer living near Freedom. The groom has six sisters, all of whom are sisters of the Notre Dame sisterhood. Miss Weyenberg had made up her mind to become a Notre Dame sister and came to the nunnery to spend a week to make sure that she would like the vocation. While there Peter Gonnering came to visit his sisters, and Miss Weyenberg met him. It did not take Miss Weyenberg long after that to make a decision between the nun's veil and cupid.

Says This Prescription Cures Rheumatism, and Purifies, Too.

The most cruel bodily ill to which we mortals are liable is rheumatism. It is a stubborn, torturing and often deadly disease. Frequently it is the ruin of mind, bodily health and fortune. When once it sets in it shows no favor between millionaire and workman. When it does not kill by the heart, it is apt to cripple and deform. Imperfect elimination of waste matter by the excretory organs, the bowels and urinary tract, also the skin pores, results in accumulations of uric acid and poisons in the blood and tissues. The restoration of the functions of the kidneys is absolutely necessary, and the following will undoubtedly do it. It is known far and wide as the "Gaut prescription," and any honest druggist will mix it for you. It purifies the blood, tones up the eliminative organs and seldom fails to cure rheumatism.

Mix in a bottle, one-half ounce fluid extract buchu, one ounce compound fluid balmwort and two ounces compound syrup sarsaparilla. The directions are to take one teaspoonful after each meal and one at bedtime, drinking plenty of water between meals, but little at the table. At this season nothing better can be used as a tonic and blood purifier.

GOVERNOR GRANTS IT.

Canadian Militia Allowed to Pass Through Northern Part of State.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson has given his consent to a company of Canadian militia passing through the state under arms. The request came from Elihu Root, secretary of state, and the governor's answer was returned by telegraph. The letter of Secretary Root follows:

"I have the honor to inform you that upon a request from the British ambassador, the appropriate customs officials will be instructed to extend the usual courtesies to Company A, Ninety-eighth Canadian militia, in uniform and with arms, on their entrance into the United States from Fort Frances, Ont., to the camp at Winnipeg. The company will enter the United States the first week in June by the Canadian Northern railway, and will, if necessary, make arrangements for the arms to be boxed while crossing United States territory.

"I have the honor to ask that permission may be granted by you for the militia to enter and pass through your state. If the permission is granted I shall be glad if you will advise me whether it will be necessary for the arms to be boxed."

Governor Johnson replied that the militia could pass through the state and that they need not box their arms.

TEXANS BUY MUCH LAND.

The General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

Nerves Wrong, Everything Wrong

Sleeplessness.
Sick headaches.
Nervous indigestion.
Tendency to worry and anxiety.
Sensitiveness to light and sound.
Weakness of bodily organs.
Neuralgic and sciatic pains.
Nervousness and irritability.
Discouragement, despondency, and dread of the future.

These tell of exhausted nerves and point to the approach of prostration, paralysis or locomotor ataxia. It is so easy to neglect diseases of the nerves, but they never right themselves. The system must be strengthened, built up and revitalized by such treatment as Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills, the greatest of nerve restoratives.

Mrs. J. H. Kuch, 671 Michigan Ave., Detroit, Mich., states:

"I suffered intensely from nervousness. It seemed as though the nervous system was entirely shattered, could not rest or sleep, no strength or energy. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills did wonders for me. I rest well, appetite is good, no more headaches, am gaining in flesh and my nerves are strong and steady."

CONGRESSIONAL THRIFT.

One of the many things congress hasn't done and isn't likely to do is to accept the proposal of Congressman John Wesley Gaines of Tennessee that the congressional mileage fee be reduced to 7 cents a mile. It is now 20 cents a mile, that figure having been fixed at a time when communication was much more difficult and expensive than it is today.

This mileage fee is not compensation in any sense. It is simply traveling expenses. If you get down to the rights of it, congressmen are no more justified in taking 20 cents a mile and traveling for 3 cents a mile than any other public servant would be in padding an expense account.

There is morally no difference between a congressman who takes 20 cents a mile for his traveling expenses when 3 cents a mile would cover all of his legitimate expenses, and a deputy United States marshall who took a trip costing $30 and put in an expense account of $200.

Yet congressmen not only take the 20 cents with great complacency, but they took it when they traveled on passes and their traveling expenses were little or nothing aside from what the porters and dining car waiters exacted from them. Not only that, but when Mr. Gaines proposes to reduce the fee to 7 cents, which would still yield a handsome profit, congress receives the proposal with sardonic amusement.

In the amount involved it isn't very important. The government can easily stand the expense, and if the congressmen think the mileage profits are necessary to give them all they are earning, they have the right to take them. But it would look better if they would arrange to get them in the form of direct compensation, which could be done by another increase in congressional pay. It doesn't look well to see congress continuing to compensate itself under the guise of an expense account, especially when that practice is being pretty well rooted out of other departments of government. It is no longer considered good form to pad an expense account, or to travel on passes and put in bills for railway fare. Congress would be setting a better example if it would get in line with the prevailing habit of honesty.

Congressmen get $7,500 a year in salary, to which they are entitled. If they are not worth that they are not worth anything. They get an allowance of $1,500 a year for clerk hire, and it is said that some of them manage to get away with part of this for their own uses. They get an allowance of $125 a year for stationery, and if they use only part of this allowance they pocket the balance in cash. They travel for 2 cents a mile, with additional expenses which another cent would easily cover, and they collect 20 cents a mile to reimburse themselves.

This is all very thrifty, but is it quite honest?

THAW DOES NOT GO FREE.

Whether or not young Mr. Thaw is insane is not nearly so important as the fact that he killed a man, and that it would be a very sad travesty upon justice if he were allowed to go free, perhaps encouraged to do it again—certainly to encourage others with similarly plethoric purses for purposes of defense.

The ruling of the New York justice that Thaw is crazy enough to warrant keeping him in custody, is therefore a righteous judgment.

Very likely the young man figured, or his attorneys figured for him, that it was all over when the jury in his murder case acquitted him on the ground of insanity. A great many people, accustomed to the power of money used for purposes of defense in criminal cases, feared that that was the end. They knew that if the young man had been a stevedore or a tramp or a humble clerk, his crime would have been followed by prompt punishment. He would have been hanged by this time or starting a life sentence in the penitentiary.

But his relatives had plenty of money to hire the best legal talent and the best expert testimony, and the result was his acquittal on the ground of insanity. It was a triumph for his attorneys, but as a finished product of the mills of justice it was not highly regarded. It would have been worse still if, after a brief incarceration in a lunatic asylum for form's sake, he had been allowed to go free. The judge who has declared that he is still insane apparently realizes this. If he was crazy enough to be acquitted, he is crazy enough to remain in an asylum for a while longer, if not for good.

ANTI-TAFT CLAIMS.

Those who accepted the announcement of the Taft managers that the fight was all over, and that the secretary of war had it without the chance of a struggle, will sit up and take notice again when they hear that the "allies,"—being those who hope to hold together the anti-Taft and anti-Roosevelt forces and rally them for a dark horse,—have issued a joint circular letter in which they display great hope.

"An analysis of the final tabulated statement issued by the management of the Taft presidential campaign," says the circular, "is all that is necessary to prove that the secretary of war has not enough votes to nominate now that all of the delegates to the Chicago convention have been elected."

This, being clearly under the head of important if true, and being so much at odds with preconceived convictions as to the situation, will bear following further.

In the Taft claims 584 votes, or ninety-three more than a majority, are claimed for the heir-apparent of the president, though it is admitted that 126 of these are contested. The allies claim that there will be nearly 200 contested votes, and apparently they give more importance to the contests than do the Taft people, who do not seem to consider them worth attention. The allies also claim that eighty uninstructed votes are included in the Taft claims. Thus the allies reduce the number of instructed and uncontested votes for Taft to "little more than 300."

The allies are probably correct in their assertion that "every uninstructed delegate signifies the failure of an effort to instruct for Taft," though it is not quite so clear that "the failure of such effort implies that even back of an indorsement of Secretary Taft was a doubt as to whether his nomination would be advisable when the convention meets at Chicago to deliberate upon the state of the party."

"The efforts of the Taft managers are naturally being centered," say the allies, "upon the creation of the belief that Secretary Taft has enough votes to nominate. The greater the anxiety and uncertainty on this point the bigger the noise. History will repeat itself at Chicago. No pre-convention favorite ever won a nomination for president in a Republican convention since the founding of the party, excepting William McKinley, and back of him was a tidal wave of popular sentiment which is not surging for Secretary Taft; and Harrison, in 1892, nominated by the officeholders and beaten by the people. Seward had two-thirds of the delegates to the convention of 1860 pledged. Blaine was within twenty-six votes of nomination on the first ballot in 1876, nearer than Secretary Taft will be. The fatal weakness of the Taft candidacy is that it is an absolutely machine-made product, not vitalized by popular sentiment. Its band wagon is loaded down with men who will jump over the wheel the moment the vehicle shows a sign of stalling, and the sign is in sight."

Perhaps the allies are whistling to keep their courage up, and probably their claims against Taft have more foundation in hope than in knowledge; but at any rate they shoot at a definite mark and hit it when they say that his "boom" is machine-made and not vitalized by public sentiment. But if their claims are correct, they simply mean that Roosevelt, and not one of the allies, will be nominated, and there would be no great regret among the people if it turned out that way.

THE POSTOFFICE APPROPRIATION.

Duluth needs $95,000 more from the government to complete the purchase of a site for the new federal building that is, in time to come, to become a part of the grouping plan which will include the courthouse and the city hall. It looks now as though the money were going to be forthcoming, though it is unfortunate that an item of this character should be subjected to the ignominy of being a part of the congressional "pork barrel" known as the public building bill.

The item has had some vicissitudes, and it is not yet through, though it has been agreed upon by both branches of congress. Now, however, it is tied up with the public building bill, which Speaker Cannon seems to have seized for use as a club to force the congressmen to vote for a currency bill. As most of the members of congress have one or more appropriations in the bill for new public buildings in their districts, it will be readily seen that the speaker yields a powerful weapon, because many of the congressmen figure on these appropriations to help them to a re-election.

It is unfortunate, too, that it was necessary to encumber the Duluth item with a proviso regarding payment by the city for land taken for street or other purposes, for if any part of the government's land had been taken it would have been as much for the benefit of the government as of the city and county. However, the city most assuredly expected to pay for any government property it concluded to take, so no great harm is done after all. When the speaker lets loose of the bill it will undoubtedly go through, and all will yet be well. The main thing is to get the appropriation, and who gets it and how it is secured are matters of lesser importance.

THE GROSS EARNINGS TAX.

The supreme court of the United States, as The Herald has already shown, has declared unconstitutional the gross earnings tax imposed upon railroads by the state of Texas, on the ground that it is a taxation of interstate commerce, and that this is something states cannot do.

Minnesota has a gross earnings tax law by which the railroads, on payment of a tax of 4 per cent upon their gross receipts from business transacted in this state, including a proportion of interstate business divided on a mileage basis, are exempted from all other taxes and assessments, including even special assessments for local improvements by which the railroads benefit. These taxes go entirely to the state, and are not apportioned to the localities in which the railroad property is situated.

While the railroads will not test the constitutionality of this law, it may be that there is some way the state or its citizens can test it, and a few figures will show that it might be worth while to destroy this law and replace it with something more adequate and more just.

The constitution of this state says that taxes shall be equal. Railroads pay 4 per cent upon their gross earnings, and the owner of improved and rented real estate pays about 15 per cent. This is not equality. Take the case of a piece of improved real estate worth $5,000 and rented for $500 a year, yielding 10 per cent gross on the investment. The valuation for purposes of taxation would be $2,500, and the tax rate at least 3 per cent. This would give a tax of $75, which is 15 per cent of the gross receipts. The railroads are let off with 4 per cent, and in the case of one or two lines the state supreme court had held that the state is bound by contrast to the old original rate of 2 per cent.

Turning it around and figuring it out another way makes the desirability of destroying the gross earnings tax law even more apparent than it is this way.

According to the Statistical Abstract of the United States, issued by the government, the value of railroads and their equipment in Minnesota in 1904 was $466,734,000. This was four years ago, and the value is certainly higher now than it was then.

If railroads were assessed for taxation upon the same basis as other property, the total assessment would be about half this estimate or $233,267,000.

The average tax rate through the state is about 2½ per cent. Applying this rate to what would be the assessed valuation of the railroads if they were taxed on the same basis as other property, and it is found that the taxes paid by the railroads would amount to $5,831,675.

The estimated receipts from railroad taxation on the gross earnings basis in Minnesota this year are $2,850,000. This is less than half the amount that would be paid if the gross earnings system were out of the way, and the railroads were taxed as other property is taxed.

The railroads pay 4 per cent on gross earnings, and the property-owner pays 15 per cent. The railroads pay $2,850,000 under the gross earnings system, and they would pay twice that under the ordinary assessment system.

Why should Minnesota retain the gross earnings system if it can get rid of it?

HOTEL GOSSIP.

A gray-haired man stood on the steps of the Spalding yesterday watching the passing of the circus parade with as much interest as that displayed by any of the innumerable small boys who thronged the sidewalk. Suddenly he sighed, "How time flies," he remarked to a companion. "It doesn't seem so many years ago that I used to get up at 4 in the morning, every time the circus came to Greensburg, Ind., so that I could follow the circus into town.

"That's where I got my first studies of natural history. One of the most impressive chapters on this study of the animal in captivity, was the knowledg that came to me of the vast amount of water required to quench the fires that burned inside the huge cavernlike stomach of the elephant.

"See that beast walking there," and the elderly gentleman pointed to one of the elephants that was passing. "I'll wager that that beast can drain twenty or thirty buckets of water. If he happens to have a raging thirst he will add several more to the amount I have named.

"One time, back there in Greensburg, another lad and myself hung around the outskirts of the town in the early dawn, awaiting the first glimpse of the approaching circus. Suddenly it loomed into view and we raced to meet it, running along the prairie road, yelling and waving our hats like a couple of young heathens. We followed the show into town, hung around while they unloaded the denizens of the wild, and finally got a job carrying water for the elephant. We were to receive a couple of tickets for the work and we were overjoyed at our good fortune in thus securing an opportunity of seeing the 'Great American circus.'

"As a boy on the farm I have plowed, pitched hay and done other onerous lines of labor that make that life about earning your daily bread by the sweat of your brow, seem foolish; yet never have I worked and perspired as I did that hot July day in carrying water to that weary and thirsty elephant.

"Fervently we thanked all the objects of boyish endearment that there was only one lonely elephant in the 'Great American Circus.' If there had been more, I believe that even the allurement of seeing the inside of the great top would have proved insufficient to drag our weary bodies over the stretch that intervened between Mrs. Hodson's cistern and the lot where the elephant remained monarch of all it surveyed.

"As I remember it, though time may have lent color to the number, we carried twenty brimming buckets of water to that thirsty beast. Our small arms ached with shooting, stinging pains. Our feet were sore with contact with the stubble of the lot where the huge water-consuming beast was tethered, and our spirits were sore with the drudgery of toil that would have smote the spirit of one of the slaves of the ancient Pharoahs.

"It was indeed an impressive glimpse into the inner details of natural history. It disclosed to our youthful and impressive minds a trait of the trunk-bearing beast which we were in little humor to admire. We only vaguely speculated at the number of pails the elephant—the medium of our transportation to the mystic delights of the circus—could swallow.

"Yes, indeed, time flies. It only seems a few years back when Eph Foland and myself were tearing down the turnpike to meet the weary circus cavalcade, the wild man, the two-headed woman, the swallower—all those creations that appealed to the boyish imagination. The delights of circus day. They mark the primrose period of youth. It is all changed now, though. Fancy has passed and in its place has come hard reality and disappointment. But how this circus does bring back memories of dear old Greensburg.

"Say, what do you say, Jim? Let's us go out to the show this afternoon."

A. G. Jaggard, who writes Kansas, Mo., after his name, and who is at the St. Louis hotel, says the American meat packing industry has undergone a radical change for the better during the past few years. You were going to say "The Jungle," but is is not to the epic of the hog that Mr. Jaggard attributes the betterment in the conditions surrounding the preparation of the meat that decorates our tables. It is rather, to the efforts of the agents employed by the government that Mr. Jaggard gives credit for engineering a reform in the methods of the packers.

Mr. Jaggard says that there was, of course, a hue and cry raised when the sensational Mr. Sinclair issued his story of Packingtown. But he also states that long before young Mr. Upton Sinclair betook himself to Chicago's west side and began the study of the methods surrounding the meat business, the government had inaugurated its campaign for the betterment of conditions in the packing houses.

The publication of "The Jungle," he says led to a great falling off in the use of meat. Noticeably was this true in the use of sausages and canned meats. The packers then realized, he says, that they must convince the people that they had reformed before the sales of their products would revert to the figures that prevailed before the expose of certain nauseous methods in vogue.

Mr. Jaggard says that the government convinced the packers that the way to convince the public would be to truly reform. Whether the packers were wholly selfish in the matter does not matter so much. The fact remains that the public is the gainer thereby.

However, Mr. Jaggard says that the government guarantees the fact that the reform will be permanent. They have insisted upon proper regulations, and the packers have found it easier to conform to these regulations than to disobey them. They have also found it an excellent way to regain the public confidence that was lost through the revelations of methods that turned the stomachs of strong men. Mr. Jaggard states that the story of "The Jungle" was greatly overdrawn. He does not state, however, that its object failed of its achievement. But he does state, and he says cattlemen, the most critical critics in the world, also agree to this statement, that the methods of the packers have undergone a decided improvement for the better, in regard to sanitary conditions within the past few years.

THE WEATHER.

All together, with a loud voice that will penetrate to the weather man's fastnesses upon the hilltop: "Enough!" The brush fires are out long ago, and the brush is drowned so that there can be no more for many a day; the crops have plenty of water, and we shall be lucky if they are not drowned, too. In short, there has been quite enough rain, and here comes the weather man predicting more showers tonight and tomorrow. Last night's lowest temperature was 43 degs. and yesterday's highest was 54 degs.

A year ago today there was rain with a little snow.

The sun rose this morning at 4:20 and sets tonight at 7:49, making 15 hours and 29 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Unsettled weather continues throughout the central valleys and Northwest. Showers fell over those districts during Monday or last night due to low pressure areas over the Red River valley and Wyoming, and moderately warm temperatures also prevail in the central valleys. The barometer is high off the Virginia and Oregon-Washington coasts. Conditions throughout Northwest favor more showers in this locality tonight or Wednesday."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A man believes what he has to, a woman what she wants to. The reason a woman loves a man is there's no reason for it.

One trouble about morals is they always keep getting in the way of your having a good time.

A woman likes to keep accounts of the house expenditures so she will never know what it costs.

Some men are so lucky in money matters they can work off a bad quarter easier than other people can get a good one.

The Song of Toil.

Sing me the song of the hammer blow
As it clings on the iron beam;
Sing me the song of the forges' glow
And the white-hot rivet's gleam;
Chant me the strain of the trudging feet
In the deep drumbeat of toil,
For the song is sweet in the busy street
And across the upturned soil.

Sing me the song of the brawny hands
And the shoulders ridged and wide,
Where the muscles rise like to cable strands
With the might of a strong man's pride;
Voice me the chant of the finger's skilled
And the rising dome and wall,
For the Lord hath willed that the men who build
Shall be honored over all.

Ye that have sung us the songs of war
And coying songs of love,
Know ye what labor was given for
And the grace 'tis fashioned of?
Know ye the song of the ancient years,
Of the rule and plane and plow—
The chant that cheers every one that hears
As it echoes to us now?

It echoes on through centuries
In the rip of the swinging saws,
And it shakes the souls of the men of ease
Till it gives their dreamings pause.
It has surged its way o'er the desert sands
And through cities long forgot—
For the strength that stands in a strong man's hands
Is a strength that falters not.

Sing me the song of the clanging sledge
And the wrinkled, sweating brow,
Of the foot that steps on the sky's thin edge
And the form that does not bow.
For I know that deep in the hearts of men
Is the song they hear at length;
It shall rise again as it pealed forth then
In the might of lusty strength.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of the Herald of This Date, 1888.

The marriage of Miss Isabella Cutler and Caleb H. Gowan of Cleveland will take place on June 6 at the residence of D. G. Cutler, in Duluth.

Work at the Hinsdale quarries has been resumed and a large force will be employed.

The United Empire has arrived from Port Arthur. Capt. Rbertson reports the ice in Thunder bay and neighborhood as dense and solid as in midwinter, and all the efforts of twenty-five or thirty ice-bound crafts could not budge it for weeks.

Chief Doran has received from Detective John O'Connor of St. Paul a galley of about twenty noted crooks, including the James Younger gang and all parties concerned in the memorable robbery of 1876 at Northfield, Minn., which landed the Youngers in prison for life.

Mrs. J. C. Schaefer has gone on a visit to St. Louis, her old home.

Henry Rankin and family have taken rooms at 631 West Superior street.

Charles A. Walrous, who has been engaged in the leather business on Fifth avenue west, left yesterday for the Pacific coast.

Rev. C. C. Salter has returned from the East, bringing an addition of $5,000 or $4,000 for the Bethel building fund. He has the promise of $1,000 more from Jay Cooke, as soon as the operations of the water power company have begun, which is expected to be very soon.

F. A. Richardson left today for Indianapolis as delegate from the Fifth Minnesota district to the Prohibition national convention. Z. D. Scott also goes as alternate.

George W. Peck, the humorist and popular editor of the Milwaukee Sun, has been induced to accept the Democratic nomination for governor of Wisconsin.

Hanson & Gyesdahl, the druggists, will remove their store to the new Leland block at the West end.

Al Boudin, the colored proprietor of the Zenith candy kitchen, died yesterday at St. Luke's hospital from typhoid fever.

Matthew Hockers has leased the Nemadji brick works.

Several members of the Swift Packing company of Chicago have been in Duluth the past few days looking for a location for a large cold storage and meat warehouse. They intend to put up a building that will cost about $15,000.

Owing to the recent heavy slaughter of nesting ducks and shameful destruction of spawning fish up the St. Louis river, some true lovers of hunting and fishing have decided to form a society having for its sole aim the better protection of game birds, animals and fishes in St. Louis county. C. P. Johnson of the Pioneer bookstore is largely responsible for the initiation of this movement.

Warroad Commonwealth: The present congress should not be accused of doing nothing. It is working out a change in the political complexion of Washington that will be noticed a couple of years from now to obtain from the representative chamber to the White House.

Kellihor Journal: Bryan will be nominated; Taft indorsed in Ohio; Johnson carries Minnesota, etc.—Oh, pshaw! give us something interesting. What's the score?

Walker Pilot: Politicians who are unostentatiously waiting for an office to catch up with them are generally found walking backwards most of the time.

Sauk Center Herald: It may be fun to play the political game for a business, but it's bound to knock a man out in the long run.

Johnson on the Back Stretch.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Governor Johnson is intermittent in his running. Sometimes he gets into a restful decline, and the hints of the wise people are that he has had his day. Then he revives and noses up with the best runners. He is in a strong spurt now—very possibly at a pace that will hold out till the 4th of July and will make him winner. This is not merely speculative. Perhaps it was his participation at the conference of governors at Washington that gave him the appearance of the leader. Nobody else in the gubernatorial contingent made so favorable an impression, in a general way, as he did. He was more communicative than usual, and nearly all he has said has been prominently printed, and it was known, in the parlance of journalism, as "mighty good copy." He has since made a flank movement for delegates in the South, and the Bryan men have been quick to put in their old claims, which have undergone some debilitation. Without prejudice or partiality, the Enquirer believes that the person of judgment will keep a quick eye on Johnson till the Denver convention. Steady Democrats have all along insisted that the party was not going to be left leaderless at the impressive hour. Judge Gray has a winning adherence and friendship, but his friends would be more hopeful if he would put his own personal magetism, if he has any, into the contest. Harmon is running for governor on a Bryan platform; says so himself. Bryan is the busiest person in the Democratic field, but is liable to wrecks on rough roads. Johnson is now moving at a good pace, and one that may be a staying one. The time may not have come to class him as a favorite, but he is unquestionably a man to watch. Possibly he is Bryan's bete noir.

Dining.

We may live without conscience, and live without heart;
We may live without friends, we may live without books;
But civilized man cannot live without cooks.

He may live without hope—what is hope but deceiving?
He may live without love—what is passion but pining?
But where is the man that can live without dining?

Sleepy, Not High and Mighty.

New York World: Governor Stuart of Pennsylvania had a unique experience the first night he arrived at the Washington conference. He had just got to sleep when some one began to bang on the door. "Who is it?" asked the governor, sleepily.

"Say, governor," said a voice, "I represent the Pittsburg ——. The bank of which 'Billy' Montgomery is cashier has been looted and Montgomery got away with a half a million. My paper says some high and mighty state officials knew all about it and are involved. Can you tell me anything?"

"Well, your dispatch lets me out, young man," said the governor, with a yawn. "I am neither high nor mighty. I am just sleepy. Goodnight."

SMILING REMARKS.

Baltimore American: "Those knights of old were queer chaps, weren't they?" said Willie, looking up from his illustrated history story book.

"Why?" asked Tommy.

"Because they seemed to be perfectly well satisfied with a lot of retainers, who, from these pictures, were nothing but pikers."

Philadelphia Press: "Why!" exclaimed the center pole to the tight-rope, "that fellow walks on you just as easy as can be; seems to come natural to him."

"Well," replied the tight-rope, "it doesn't come any more natural to him than to me. We both have to be taut."

Philadelphia Press: Tess—I actually believe some man is calling on Miss Passay.

Jess—The idea! What makes you think so?

Tess—I notice that instead of fastening her belt with ordinary pins, as she used to, she's now using safety pins.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: One thousand Chicago women applied to the city clerk for permits to wear sandals on the municipal thoroughfares.

The startled official shook his head.

"Sorry, ladies," he said, "but we have no funds with which to widen the sidewalks."

Washington Star: "I'm thinking of running for congress," said the village lawyer. "Will you vote for me?"

"No, sir," answered Farmer Corntossel, "I'm in favor of lettin' the present congressmen stay where they are. There's no good of continually takin' men and gettin' em out of the habit of hard work an' then bringin' 'em back home again."

WEST END

ALUMNI AT BIG SPREAD

Former Students of the Adams School Give Second Banquet.

About 150 Guests Attend Function in the West End.

Past and present students of the Adams school, Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street, made merry around the banquet board at the schoolhouse last evening, when the annual banquet of the Adams Alumni association was held.

It was the second annual spread of the association and far more successful than last season's function. The disagreeable weather kept few people away.

W. E. McEwen, who has been president of the alumni association during the past year, made a very happy toastmaster, and there were any number of clever responses. R. R. Forward, who graduated in 1889, gave some interesting reminiscences of life at the school in those days.

Dean Coventry responded to the toast, "The Alumni;" Myrtle Cox spoke on "The Adams Girl in Business;" Neal Beaton on "The Adams Boy in Business," and Oscar Hellam on "The Graduating Class." Andrew Johnson also gave a short talk.

Vocal solos were given by Misses Eva Adams, Nathalie Craig and Ella Mason and a number of selections were played by the Lincoln school orchestra.

Roy Hood was elected president of the alumni association for the ensuing year, and the other officers elected were as follows: Vice president, Miss Myrtle Craig; secretary, Francis Neff; treasurer, Dean Coventry; sergeant-at-arms, Ben Scheiger.

After the banquet and the election of officers, a dancing program was given. About 150 graduates of the school were present during the festivities of the evening.

Kids Must Keep Away.

The rains of the past few weeks have swollen the creeks so that some of them are rushing rivers now. Keene's creek, which runs through Lincoln park, is a torrent and parents of children living near the stream, below the park, are keeping a close watch on their youngsters.

YALE WILL GET HALF MILLION

Will of An Englishman Making the Bequest is Probated.

London, May 26.—The will of Archibald Henry Blount, who died a year ago, and which leaves the residue of the testator's estate to Yale university, was yesterday admitted to probate after it had been "solemnly proven." This unusual course was taken as the relatives of Mr. Blount, who were not mentioned in the will or left the smallest legacy, threatened to contest the instrument on the ground that Mr. Blount was of unsound mind when he made the will. To prevent the relatives from succeeding in breaking the will J. A. Barret, counsel for Yale university, called a number of witnesses, including a doctor who is one of the witnesses to the will, to prove that Mr. Blount was of perfectly sound mind at the time he signed the instrument and that he remained so until his death. The value of the residue to which Yale is entitled is about $450,000.

The mystery why Mr. Blount chose Yale university as his beneficiary has not been cleared up; none of his relatives or friends can explain why he left his money to the American college. He paid only one short visit to the United States in all his life, and he had no connections there. So far as is known he first notified the Yale authorities of his intention of leaving the college a sum of money in 1898, when he asked for the names of the college trustees so that he could mention them in his will. Later he sent to New Haven a copy of the will made that year, together with a short note saying his estate was valued at $350,000. Mr. Blount made a new will in June of 1907, a few days before he died, but it was almost identical with the will of 1898. In the meantime his property had increased in value. Mr. Blount had lived for many years at the Anthenaeum club but he left there a year before he died and settled himself in cheap lodgings, a circumstance which led his relatives to believe that he was not fully of sound mind. Mr. Blount died, however, in a sanitarium attended by the best specialists.

Henry Staddard and Lee McClung, treasurer of Yale university, were present in court when the will was proved.

OUTLOOK FOR DEFEAT OF BRYAN BRIGHTER.

Washington, May 26.—Things are looking brighter for the defeat of Bryan at the Denver convention, according to those keeping up the fight to name a presidential candidate, who will have a chance of winning. The result of the Florida primaries, in which the Bryan cause went down to defeat, has encouraged them to renewed effort.

Bryan has 410 delegates, while 260 others selected are either instructed for other candidate or are uninstructed. The claim is made that 126 of those not elected will be uninstructed.

Anti-Bryan leaders concede that Bryan is assured of about 616 delegates, fifty-two short of the two-thirds necessary to nominate. From now on, according to the anti-Bryan leaders, the struggle to determine who shall control at Denver will be confined to the South.

BUILDING BILL IS PIGEONHOLED

Held Up by Speaker Cannon to Force Currency Legislation.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The public buildings bill, after being agreed to by the conference committee, is being held up in the house by Speaker Cannon, who has pigeonholed it in an endeavor to force congress to pass some currency legislation.

The appropriation for the Duluth postoffice site, as finally agreed in conference, reads as follows:

"United States postoffice and courthouse at Duluth, Minn., $95,000 for additional ground, provided, that if at any time should any portion of the ground now owned, or hereafter to be acquired by the government, be used for street, park or other purposes by the city of Duluth, the secretary of the treasury be, and he is hereby authorized in his discretion, to sell to said city any part of such ground on such terms as he may deem to be for the best interests of the United States, and to deposit the proceeds of said sale in the treasury of the United States as a miscellaneous receipt; provided further, that in no case shall any portion of the ground now owned or hereafter to be acquired by the government be sold for less than its market value."

As the item was inserted originally in the bill by Senator Nelson, after Congressman Bede to get the house committee to make any appropriation, it read as follows:

"For additional site for United States postoffice and other government offices at Duluth, Minn., $95,000."

This was what the people in Duluth desired. When the bill got before the conference committee, the house members objected, and to save the whole item the proviso was added. Even with this proviso the item would have failed but for the influence exerted by Congressman Tawney.

EXPLORER MAY WED THE DAUGHTER OF A KING.

Hamburg, May 26.—The Fremdenblatt prints dispatches both from London and Christiania to the effect that a tender attachment exists between Dr. Nansen, the famous explorer, nutil recently Norwegian ambassador at the court of St. James, and Princess Victoria, the daughter of King Edward. The Fremdenblatt says that Princess Victoria, who is 39 years old, has been an admirer of Nansen ever since he lectured before the king. When Nansen became a widower last year the princess seemed to gain a new interest in the hardy Norseman and Nansen respectfully reciprocated her friendship. The Fremdenblatt declares that before Dr. Nansen gave up his ambassadorial post in London he made his affection clear to the king's daughter and Princess Victoria is said to have accepted her untitled suitor.

Major Powell Stackhouse of Philadelphia Passes Through Duluth.

Maj. Powell Stackhouse of Philadelphia, president of the Cambria Iron Mining company of that city, reached Duluth last evening en route for the Mesaba range, where he will visit the Mahoning mine. He was accompanied by his wife.

Maj. Stackhouse has been identified with the iron trade for the past fifty-two years. At the age of 68 years he is still actively interested in the business success of the company of which he is the head.

In speaking of the iron trade, Maj. Stackhouse stated that business conditions were very dull and that the iron trade felt the effect of general trade dullness in reduced orders and a greatly curtailed demand.

From a position of boy apprentice in the iron business, Maj. Stackhouse has worked himself up to his present position. He has learned all sides of the iron business and today is one of the best informed men in the business. Maj. Stackhouse left this morning for the range.

Portland, Or., May 26.—To recover 9,830 acres of the best timber land in Oregon valued at $1,000,000 and now in possession of C. A. Smith, the millionaire lumberman of Minneapolis, Minn., United States District Attorney John McCourt, yesterday filed bills of complaint in a suit of equity. The defendants named are Smith, his Portland financial agent, Frederick A. Krebs and Mealy Brothers, who are alleged to have secured dummy entrymen, and the entrymen themselves. Unless the Smith holdings are cancelled by June 4, ten days hence, it is said, Smith will have absolute possession.

GOOD THING FOR JACKS

Early Closing Gives Them Chance to Sleep Off Drunk.

The "Lid" Has Saved Many Woodsmen From Losing Roll.

The 11 o'clock lid has put an end to many of the methods that were employed by some of the Bowery saloons to relieve the simple woodsman of his "roll," according to a Duluth police officer, who formerly had a Bowery beat.

"Before the lid was put on, men would be kept in some of the Bowery bar rooms for days by the proprietors and their smooth confederates," said the officer. "Instead of being turned out at 11 o'clock as they are now, the jacks were urged to sleep on the saloon floor. A woodsman always hates to pay for a night's lodging when he can get it free. Sometimes there would be as high as thirty or forty men lying stretched out on the boards, all more or less drugged by the poor booze they had consumed during the day. In the morning when they awoke, they were invited by some booster of the house to have a morning eye-opener. The booster bought on the house and was always a good fellow. The early morning drink on an empty stomach freshened up the last night's jag. There would be more drinks and before long the men would be back on the floor again, down and out. This was kept up until the jack's winter earnings had departed and then he would be kicked out into the street as a dead one.

"The woodsmen were not over-scrupulous with their companions either. Sometimes when a stranger would come into the bar pretty far under the effects of liquor they would notice when he was buying that he had a pretty fair roll. Soon he would join the sleepers, only to be 'rolled' by some who were awaiting for just such a chance. The bartender, if he noticed, did not say anything, as he knew the money would come to the house eventually, anyway. In the morning when the man complained, he would be laughed at and told that he had been drunk and must have spent all his money the night before.

"Oftentimes a man from the woods came to town with the firm resolve not to drink. But when he left the train he would be joined by some jovial stranger who would invite him to have a drink and the first thing he knew the stuff served on the Bowery had got in its work, and he would follow the same course he had for years and return to the woods broken in purse, spirit and health. Sometimes he would be cautious and deposit, at the suggestion of his new friend, who was boosting for some saloon, part of his money with the bartender. But the bartender was onto his job. He would give him a receipt with the amount written on, but not the place of deposit, so when the woodsman awoke some morning a day or so later, his mind all muddled with excessive drinking and his pockets empty except for a worthless slip of paper, he would be in the same predicament that he would if he had spent it all. The police could not help him, for even if they happened to locate the bartender with whom the money had been deposited, he would claim that the man had spent most of it for drinks and would back up his statement by the books.

"But now since the law requires that every one has to be turned out of a saloon at 11 o'clock, the lumberjack has all night to sleep his drunk off and is free to meditate in the morning what a fool he has been making of himself, and quit while he has still enough money to get the much needed clothes he had been promising himself."

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—Florence Gear in "Cupid at Vassar."
BIJOU—Vaudeville. (Notice below.)

AT THE BIJOU.

This Week's Vaudeville Bill Contains Many Excellent Features.

Many mystifying feats are performed by Sorrenji, the Lady Raffles, who is at the Bijou this week.

Sorrenji's act consists of freeing herself from any set of handcuffs or shackles which can be secured. Last evening she was handcuffed and shackled and placed in a clothes sack, which was tied and sealed. The sack was placed in a trunk by a committee from the audience and the trunk was locked. In four minutes she appeared before the audience with her hands and feet free.

Wednesday night, Sorrenji promises to allow herself to be nailed up in a packing case furnished by any local merchant, and to free herself. Her feats are fully as mystifying as those of Houdini, and her act is the feature of an excellent bill.

Parmet and Russell provide a novel setting for a first-class singing act. Their songs would be well worth while in themselves, but they are worked into an entertaining little sketch called "Around the World in An Airship." It is a scenic novelty that is very much out of the ordinary, and some good comedy is furnished with it.

Gardner and Stoddard's act is a scream. It consists of eccentric dancing and piano playing, cornet solos and some very clever character imitations by Miss Stoddard.

The Herbert brothers are acrobats, and good ones. Their act contains many sensational features and some very difficult feats are performed with grace and finish.

Carrie Ezier and Josette Webb provide fifteen minutes of lively entertainment, with an act of songs, dancing and comedy, during which Miss Webb appears in some very stunning gowns.

"Star of My Love" is the title of the illustrated song by Isadore Silver this week, and the moving pictures by James McClellan show some excellent comedy films.

The bill as a whole is an excellent one.

Coming Attractions.

"Cupid at Vassar," in which Miss Florence Gear is featured, will be the attraction at the Lyceum this evening. The play is a story of life at the famous American college for women. There is a strong "love interest" running through it. The play is a Jules Murray production, and it has caused much favorable comment during its present tour. There will be a matinee tomorrow afternoon and the regular performance tonight and tomorrow evening.

* * *

Duluth people remember with no small degree of pleasure the visit of "The Ham Tree" last year. It is a Klaw & Erlanger production, in which the famous comedians, McIntyre and Heath, are featured. It will return to the Lyceum for one performance only on the night of June 3.

PLEADS GUILTY, THEN TRIES TO KILL SELF.

Ortonville, Minn., May 26.—Henry Spanyers, who pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary in the third degree, in district court, and was sentenced to eighteen months in state's prison, while at home bidding his children goodby, slashed his throat with a razor blade which he had concealed about his person. It is believed he will recover.

The offense with which he was charged was stealing a harness from a neighbor, against whom he had a grudge. It appears he was under the influence of liquor and was not entirely responsible for his acts.

CROOKSTON MEMORIAL PLANS.

Crookston, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The program for Memorial day has been completed and is one of the most elaborate ever planned in Crookston. Rev. Thomas E. Green of the Methodist church of this city will be the orator of the day and an elaborate musical program has been planned with a grand parade.

McGlogan, who was burned at her home, 442 Beacon avenue, Merriam Park, last Wednesday evening, died at St. Joseph's hospital Saturday night. Fully two-thirds of the surface of her body was burned and her physicians held out very little hope for her recovery. Mrs. McGlogan is survived by her husband, superintendent of telegraph of the Great Northern road, and two sons, Neil, of St. Paul, and Frank of Chicago.

The Most Common Cause of Suffering

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. In many cases the relief from pain, which is at first temporary, has become permanent, while in old people subject to chronic rheumatism, often brought on by dampness or changes in the weather, a permanent cure cannot be expected; the relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. 25 and 50-cent sizes. For sale by all druggists.

Cove, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—John McClure lost a valuable mare in a rather singular way last Saturday. He had led the animal to the river side to water when it became frightened at the appearance of Peter Soder's gasoline launch, reared up on its hind feet, and fell over dead.

LIGHTNING STRIKES PHONOGRAPH.

MISS BERTHA VANDERBILT,
The Assistant Librarian of Princeton University, Whose Mysterious Drowning in the Raritan Canal Is Now Being Investigated by the Police.

CHEEK.

Charles H. Wells of Stratford, Conn., took at the Madison Square Garden poultry show the prize for the best hen, and since then Mr. Wells has had innumerable requests from unknown people to be taken into partnership in the poultry business.

"The cheek of these requests is rather amusing," said Mr. Wells the other day. "For the contemplated partnership I am to supply the stock, the experience, the success; the other folks are to supply—I don't know what besides cheek.

"Their cheek reminds me of a church officer we used to have here in Stratford in the last century. This old man had dug the graves and taken up the collection in the church for thirty years, and for a long time he had been suspected of helping himself to money. For as long a time as possible no heed was paid to these suspicions and rumors, but in the end the thefts grew intolerably large, and when a marked $10 bill disappeared from the missionary box in the vestibule, it was felt that the old man must at last be called to account. The minister was appointed to the unpleasant task.

"Well, the next Sunday, after service, the minister, as he was putting away his notes, said gravely:

"'Martin, have you heard of the money that is missing from the box?'

"'Yes,' said the old man, imperturbably, 'I've been a-hearin' something about it.'

"'Martin,' the minister went on, 'this dreadful business lies between you and me. We are the only two who have access to the missionary box. Either you or I must be the thief.'

"Martin nodded.

"'It's just as you say, sir,' he agreed. 'Only you and me has access to the box, and I think the best way out of it'll be for you to pay one-half and I pay the other, and just say no more about it.'"

Pay the Price

Don't let anybody convince you that the cheapest beans are best

We pay $2.10 per bushel for the beans that we use. Yet beans can be bought as low as 30c. Ours are picked out by hand from the choicest Michigan beans, to get only the best.

We spend exactly five times as much to make our tomato sauce as the price of other sauce ready-made.

That's why some brands sell for less than Van Camp's.

The best beans are most economical. You'll serve them in place of meat

Cheap beans are not wanted often. Van Camp's can be served every day. Think what that will save you in labor. Think what it will save on your meat bills.

Beans are Nature's choicest food—84% nutriment.

Get beans with our nutty flavor— beans with our sparkling zest—and you'll find that you can't serve enough of them.

Van Camp's pork and beans baked with tomato sauce

You regard beans as heavy food, hard to digest, simply because you try to bake them at home.

Beans, to be digestible, must be factory cooked.

The heat of your oven can't break down their fibre. The fierce heat of our oven does. Then we bake in live steam, thus the beans are left whole. That's why they are nutty and mealy.

You don't know how good baked beans can be until you know Van Camp's

We get our delicious blend by baking the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together—for 90 minutes.

There are brands that cost less, yet pay your grocer more profit. He may want you to try them.

But you will never be satisfied with other beans—home baked or factory baked—when you once taste Van Camp's.

10, 15 and 20¢ per can.

NEW CATHOLIC PRO-CATHEDRAL

Great Preparations for Laying Cornerstone at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, May 26.—Guests in Minneapolis during the ceremonies attending the cornerstone laying of the new Catholic pro-cathedral, on May 31, are receiving every consideration in the perfecting of plans by the various committees.

"First aid to the injured" and "first guide to the guest," are the watchwords. Four hundred guides will be stationed throughout the city, at the various depots, hotels, street corners and rendezvous, and will direct even the most timid outsider to his objective point, while a guest of the city of Minneapolis.

Thirty-one physicians have signified their willingness to serve on the Red Cross brigade, and half a dozen emergency hospitals will be stationed along the line of march, in case such services should be required.

Committees are meeting twice each week and the most extensive plans are being arranged to the minutest detail for the comfort of the throngs who are expected to attend the cornerstone laying.

Features of the parade are being prepared by each parish interested in the success of this gigantic achievement. The young men of the Immaculate Conception church, numbering fully 250, will appear in the parade in uniform. The students of the Christian Brothers school are being drilled daily and will probably lead the Minneapolis portion of the parade, fully uniformed and presenting a difficult marching drill.

St. Stephens' and other parishes as well will turn out in parade, each wearing a distinctive uniform.

Heading the procession will be a representation of Father Hennepin landing at St. Anthony Falls. He will be seated in a canoe on a river of blue canvas, and attended by twenty Indians from some of the Catholic districts in Northern Minnesota.

Prominent church dignitaries, public men from throughout the state, and a representative showing from Duluth, St. Paul and many towns throughout the Northwest, will take active part in the ceremony, attending the laying of the cornerstone.

HATCHET TO BE BURIED

Manhattan and Brooklyn Democrats to Smoke Pipe of Peace.

Finger of Doubt Being Pointed at Rarest of Art Treasures.

New York, May 26.—With over a thousand Tammany braves mixing war paint for a $100,000 sortie over the trail to the Denver convention, rumors of big medicine in the Democratic tepee here are rife today. In spite of the factional war-dancing, in which the Manhattan and Brooklyn tribes are being allowed to indulge for the time being, those deepest in the know look today to seeing the pipe of peace handed around before the Fourth of July and a front, at least apparently unbroken, presented when the Democratic delegation embarks for the West. Such spectacles as the recent riot at Carnegie hall, it is realized by even the big bosses, do no good to the local Democracy in a presidential year, and it can be stated with authority that Big Chief Murphy will go far to placate the faithful of the party whose feelings he so rudely ruffled by his czar tactics in the state convention. New York has learned that its Democratic strength is seldom suffered to stay split when real campaigning comes on, and is taking the gala preparations of the Tammany delegates as a sure sign that the hatchet is about to be buried.

Fakirs Faked.

It is a wise connoisseur who knows his own painting, as the finger of doubt is now being pointed to the rarest art treasures in town. Even up at the venerated Metropolitan museum the authorities are today tip-toeing about and stealthily turning their most hallowed exhibits to the light in search for marks of sure identification. Art dealers who have fattened upon the easy credulity of wealthy patrons are aroused to keenest resentment of the cry of fake, and the near-critics who bought and passed their wares are eyeing each paint daub with silent suspicion. High art has for years been adopted as a convenient pose for aging men who have been beating out a fortune for scores of years with no thought or knowledge of its first tenets. That there is as patent fraud in this attitude of these late deserters from the ranks of business as in the canvas of a forged masterpiece is a fact which is reconciling the public here to the lamentations of the art-sting. Those who become fake connoisseurs should not complain if some of their purchases prove equally fake, is the moral which Gotham is pointing to the incident.

Spring Signs.

With green corn quoted high on a few menus and straw hats stacked in a respectable minority on the racks outside, the people of Manhattan island are today conscious of rushing the season. Three weeks away the days for donning the merry bachelor's bonnet have been set by custom immemorial, while real corn on the cob is never common property till well on to the Fourth of July. This year, however, all signs have failed in the presence of premature weather and all Gotham is bounding ahead of the old established conventions. Green grass, as well as corn, has for the first time in many years been proclaimed a luxury by signs forbidding its trampling throughout the parks. The rush of the crowds to the lawns ahead of the season has obliged the authorities to draw the line where formerly grass was kept to be rolled on as well as looked at.

Human Harbor.

That seven thousand sailors arrive every day of the year at one single stretch of this island's water-front was computed by veteran shipping men of the Chelsea district today. Where giant liners dock and scores of merchantmen warp in, hour after hour, a great modern hotel building is now being completed for Jack ashore at just this strategic point. In this new institute the American Seamen's Friend society hopes to provide for the seamen cast adrift a handy refuge from land sharks. Already more than $250,000 has been offered toward this unique sailor club, and it is expected that the $70,000 necessary to fit and finish it will soon be sighted, in spite of troublous times. As a harbor for the shipping of the world, New York has already pushed to the first rank; as a harbor for men of the sea, it will soon be made unrivaled.

Baby Booths.

Following the horse and dog, the baby has at last had a show of its own beneath the roof of Madison Square Garden. Mothers innumerable have this week flocked to this novel exposition to hear and see much on the care of their offspring. Under the sign of the stork, the show has become the center of a good deal of real interest, even in Gotham, where such things usually come in for secondary interest. Brooklyn has hitherto been the baby carriage borough for all the greater city, but now Manhattan has at last succeeded in focusing some attention on her family affairs.

HEIKKALI IS FOUND GUILTY

Jury Convicts Man Who Attempted to Shoot Patrolman.

Charles Heikkali, the young man who attempted to make targets of Patrolman McDermott and two pedestrians on Lake avenue, near the Bethel, on the evening of March 28, was convicted of assault in the second degree, in Judge Ensign's room, yesterday afternoon.

The evidence showed that Heikkali pointed a revolver at two men who were passing him. The men reported the occurrence to Patrolman McDermott, who approached Heikkali. When Heikkali saw the officer coming, he fired several shots, one of the bullets passing through the coat of one of the men he had previously threatened. Another bullet went through the sleeve of Patrolman McDermott's overcoat. The officer closed with Heikkali and disarmed him before he could take better aim.

Heikkali's only defense was that he was drunk and did not know what he was doing. This plea had no effect on the jury. Heikkali will probably get a reformatory sentence.

PORTUGUESE ROYAL HOUSEHOLD IS BROKE.

Lisbon, May 26.—The royal household of Portugal is being besieged by its creditors, and the newspapers of Lisbon are filled with notices of suits brought by tradespeople against its members. The courts already have awarded a butcher $270 and costs, the amount of an unpaid meat bill against Dowager Queen Maria Pia and the duke of Oporto.

This situation arises from the fact that the members of the royal household have not received a single penny from the state since King Carlos and his son were assassinated on the streets of this city, nearly four months ago, because the new civil list cannot be approved until after the financial accounting of the reign of the late King Carlos is completed, and this is held up by threatened revelations from Senor Carvalho, who was minister of finance under ex-Premier Franco, regarding money which went to members of the present government.

WILL EXEMPLIFY LODGE WORK

North Star Degree Team Will Entertain Knights of Pythias.

Invitations have been issued by North Star lodge, No. 35, Knights of Pythias, to Diamond and Kitchi Gammi lodges of this city, Nemadji lodge of Superior and the various range lodges, to attend a meeting at Elks' hall this evening and witness North Star's champion degree team put on the work in the third rank.

The degree team exemplifies the initiatory work before the recent grand lodge meeting of the Minnesota Knights of Pythias at Minneapolis and made a great hit. The team is comprised of about thirty members, who have been drilling for some time under the direction of Louis Dworshak and others. It is possible that a contest will be arranged this season between North Star's team and some of the best degree teams in Upper Michigan.

The meeting this evening is expected to bring out quite a number of visitors and arrangements are being made for the entertainment of the visiting knights.

BELLA GUNNESS HAD ACCOMPLICES

Fact Revealed by Search of Wisconsin Man for His Brother.

Laporte, Ind., May 26.—Mrs. Bella Gunness had accomplices. This was satisfactorily learned last night when Martin Gurholt of Iola, Wis., arrived to investigate the disappearance of his brother, Henry Gurholt, who left Iola in April, 1905, to go to Laporte to work on Mrs. Gunness' farm. Martin says that early in April a stranger came to Iola. He formed the acquaintance of Henry Gurholt. The stranger talked of the beauties of Laporte, said he had a sister, Mrs. Bella Gunness, who was in need of such a man on the farm. The result was that Henry Gurholt left for Laporte. He arrived here April 12. He wrote regularly to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gurholt, Scandinavia, Wis., but after a letter written July 4, 1905, they heard no more from him. He said nothing about leaving Mrs. Gunness, but in December, when Martin Gurholt wrote and made inquiries for his brother, the woman replied that he had left, had gone to Chicago with some horse traders, and if he had not returned home, she feared that he might have been waylaid murdered and robbed in Chicago, for he had some money with him. No further investigation was made until the present time. Martin Gurholt looked over the skeletons at the morgue last night, but he was unable to find one that he could say was that of his brother, though the teeth of one looked similar to the teeth of Henry.

GEN. MACKENZIE ON RETIRED LIST.

Washington, May 26.—Brig. Gen. Alexander Mackenzie, chief of engineers, was retired yesterday, owing to old age. Gen. Mackenzie had the distinction of being the oldest officer on the active list and the one of longest service. Upon his retirement he was presented with a beautiful gold-headed ebony cane by the employes of his office. It is generally understood that the selection of a successor to Gen. Mackenzie lies between Col. T. W. Symons and Col. Smith S. Leach, the former being on detached duty as a member of the New York state canal commission, and the latter at the war department as principal assistant to Gen. Mackenzie. Pending a permanent appointment Col. Leach has been designated to act as chief of engineers.

An Expensive Fad.

Of all the fads in the world, that of collecting and saving old and rare editions of printed books, is perhaps the most costly. The prices of many of these books run up into the thousands. Another fad that is growing more popular every day and one that can be enjoyed by rich and poor alike, is that of serving golden grain belt beer at mealtime. This beverage is refreshing and appetizing—an aid to digestion and a muscle builder. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing Co.

MRS. VANDERBILT GETS A DIVORCE

Wife of Alfred Gwynne Granted Decree by Justice O'Gorman.

New York, May 26.—Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt by Justice O'Gorman, in the supreme court yesterday, on the report of David McClure, the referee, who was appointed to take testimony and determine the findings in the suit instituted by Mrs. Vanderbilt. Justice O'Gorman confirmed the report of the referee that Mr. Vanderbilt had been guilty of misconduct, and directed that Mrs. Vanderbilt be granted a judgment and absolute divorce.

The divorce decree provides that Mrs. Vanderbilt may marry during the life of Mr. Vanderbilt, but prevents him marrying during her lifetime. The custody of William H. Vanderbilt, the only child, was awarded to Mrs. Vanderbilt. No provison was made for alimony.

The referee's report developed that testimony had been secured from Mr. Vanderbilt's valet concerning the misconduct of his employer, on a railroad train, a year ago last October, in Virginia. Mrs. Vanderbilt was Miss Elsie French, daughter of the late Francis Ormond French, president of the Manhattan Trust company and a member of the directorates of several railroads. She was married in January, 1900, to Mr. Vanderbilt, who had inherited upward of $60,000,000 from his father, the late Cornelius Vanderbilt.

HOUSE GETS BUSY.

Many Matters of Importance Are Handled by the Lower Body.

Washington, May 26.—Working under heavy pressure with a single eye to adjournment at the earliest possible moment, the house yesterday disposed of a great amount of business.

The sum total of the yesterday's business follows: The conference reports on the sundry civil and the pension appropriation bills were agreed to, thus sending those measures to the president for signature and leaving only the general deficiency and military academy appropriation bills to be considered in order to complete the disposition of the fourteen supply measures of the government. The conference report on the District of Columbia child labor bill also was agreed to and the following bills were passed:

Amending the navigation laws; removing the discriminations against native officers of the Porto Rico provisional regiment of infantry, granting title to a cemetery in Dubuque, Iowa, to the archbishop of that city; authorizing the sale of unallotted lands of the Spokane Indian reservation; encouraging the development of coal deposits in Alaska; and prescribing penalties against the sale of clothing and government property by soldiers.

The omnibus bill relating to the disposition of the public lands was sent back to conference.

ONE BODY FOUND.

Remains of Steenerson's Companion Picked Up by Fishermen.

Newport, R. I., May 26.—The body of Harry McIntosh, a private of the United States marine corps, who was drowned on Feb. 15, was found last night by a fisherman and will be shipped to Turtle Creek, Pa., where McIntosh's mother lives. McIntosh and Private Benjamin G. Steenerson, a son of Congressman Halvor Steenerson of Minnesota, were drown while bound out on a tug to one of the harbor forts. Steenerson's body has not yet been found.

From the investigation by a naval board following the mysterious double drowning, it appeared that McIntosh fell overboard and that his chum, Steenerson, jumped after him. An autopsy will be held on the body of McIntosh. A superficial examination showed no marks of violence.

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffle the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Bertha Muff, of 515 N.C. St., Louisiana, Mo., writes:

"Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my troubles public.

"For twelve years I had been suffering with the worst forms of female ills. During that time I had eleven different physicians without help. No tongue can tell what I suffered, and at times I could hardly walk. About two years ago I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice. I followed it, and can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice restored health and strength. It is worth mountains of gold to suffering women."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Muff, it will do for other suffering women.

SAYS AWARDS ARE REGULAR

W. A. McGonagle Denies Rumors About the New Courthouse Contracts.

W. A. McGonagle of the Commercial club committee on the new courthouso made an investigation of the bids submitted for the various contracts, yesterday, and last evening made a strong denial that there was any irregularity in the awarding of the contracts by the courthouse commission. Mr. McGonagle stated that the awards were entirely within the legal requirements and that if he had been a member of the commission he would have voted as did the commissioners.

The investigation was made by Mr. McGonagle by reason of some rumors that have been set afloat since the award of the contracts, by Duluth contractors, who claimed that an injustice had been done them.

The principal complainants are said to be George Lounsberry and J. F. Schleunes.

In regard to the bids of the local contractors referred to, Mr. McGonagle stated that they were not in the proper form and could not be considered, and that there was no excuse for the Duluth men to send in their bids the way they did. Some of the bids, it is said, were not even signed, while others were written partly in ink and partly with a lead pencil. Some of the bids were not accompanied by the certified checks required by the commission. Failure to properly qualify, Mr. McGonagle says, nullified the bids.

Mr. Lounsberry, it is said, claims that his total on a number of the small bids was lower than that of the Chicago firm. He claims that if the contract for those items had been awarded him he would have saved the county $22,000. According to those who have examined the bids, Mr. Lounsberry's papers were not properly executed and there was nothing to bind him to an agreement.

The seventh annual meeting of the Minnesota Teachers' association will be held June 16 at St. Peter, Minn. Many of the local musicians are interested in the annual meeting of the society and although definite plans have not yet been made several of the local people will attend the meeting.

A fine series of programs has been arranged for the meetings by the president, Carlyle Scott and the program committee.

The guests of honor of the convention will be E. R. Kroeger of St. Louis, a well known pianist, lecturer, teacher and writer upon musical subjects and one of the foremost American composers.

Mr. Kroeger will appear before the convention in a piano forte round table and in a lecture recital.

FINE RECITAL.

Pupils of Flaaten School Make Good Impression.

The Lyceum was filled last evening with the interested friends of the pupils of the Flaaten Conservatory of Music, who appeared in the annual spring recital and acquitted themselves with credit. During the winter season a series of recitals have been given at the auditorium of the school, but last evening's affair was on a larger and more brilliant scale. The program opened with two numbers by the Juvenile orchestra of the school under the direction of Gustav Flaaten. Mr. Flaaten has achieved a personal triumph in bringing this orchestra of sixty young people to the place it now occupies. The difficulty of interesting and inducing such a group of young people in earnest and serious work will be realized and after months of rehearsing and faithful work the orchestra has come to be one of the most valuable of the musical organizations of the city. The numbers played last evening were "Vorspell" by Giovanni and "Romance" by Morse. The names of the members of the orchestra, each student of which is worthy of congratulation, are given:

Is Possible With Small Income and Ingenuity.

Ingenuity, a limited amount of time and some money with an average endowment of taste—a very necessary quartet in most walks of life—will do much to bring the present elaborate and extravagant fashions into something like economy for the woman of small means, says the New York Sun. The vogue for separate coats, the continued preference for the useful lingerie blouse and shirt waist and the prolonged career of the jumper frock, all contribute to the solution of the problem of "wherewithal to be clothed" when the purse strings are short.

With the jumper frock a change of chemisette or guimpe gives a chance for variety, at least, in the limited wardrobe. Moreover, the jumper waist is capable of many shapes. It may be a pair of bretelles embroidered to match a skirt; it may be a combination of tailor finished straps to carry out the trimming scheme of the skirt; it may be sleeveless or may have sleeves of any length from shoulder to wrist, and little or much material may go to its making. One girl has taken off the band that trimmed the skirt of her last year's serge suit and made it into a very original pair of bretelles which are a succession of straps and stitchery. The result is the smartening of an old suit and the outlay is nil.

Many a girl is busy these before vacation days with the making of guimpes, for no girl ever had too many for her summer's outing. One of the most effective and simplest guimpes seen lately is made of row upon row of half-inch coarse cluny lace—the real hand-made kind. One girl has made for herself a guimpe of fine batiste tucked and inset with valenciennes insertion and Irish crochet medallions. The medallions, her mother, who remembered the art of crochet from her youth, made for her. The same kind cost 25 cents a piece or more in the shops. Tucked net guimpes and chemisettes, inset or not with filet, cluny or Irish lace, are very much liked. For tailor-mades, these are often of colored net, which is practical for travelling and other hard wear. All these neck fixings have very high collars, which are more often than not finished with plaitings. Sometimes there is a plaiting at both top and bottom. This is, in fact, the very latest cry. That it is for the small neck goes without saying. To outline a fat neck with a ruche at the bottom of the collar is, of course, not to be thought of.

The jumper frock has withstood the change of seasons so bravely that it not only appears as a fact, but also as an effect, in some of the handsomest imported gowns. In the sketch such effect is, at least, suggested. The gown is made of crossplaided voile. The skirt is plaited at the sides and back and has a shaped panel front. The waist has a bib-shaped piece, above which is a shirred part with a low round neck finished with buttons below a satin band and a lace yoke. The sleeves are the kind recently mentioned in this column as very popular. They are a series of folds from shoulder to wrist and are of full length.

One of the most useful separate coats of the day is the pongee one which admits of frequent cleaning and at the same time lends itself to more or less dressy effects. The silk and satin coats of color to match the skirts to be worn with them will be more comfortable for summer than the usual wool suit coat. With many of the tailormades there have been seen jaunty little black taffeta coats which may have a general use in the wardrobe. Such a coat, made in the right style, may be used with light or dark gowns if its style is happily selected. Little batiste and linen coats, trimmed more or less lavishly with embroidery, braid and lace, are ready by the scores for summer toilets. They will be worn with silk, wool and cotton frocks alike. But this lingerie coat is of so elaborate an order and so rich with needlework when at its best that it is by no means a thing of economy, notwithstanding the moderate price of its foundation material.

Household Notes.

The latest style in a table damask is striped patterns, which come in various widths, from a half inch to an inch The stripes often cover the center of the cloth and napkin, while the border is a fancy arrangement of stripes, or perhaps a flower design, the border usually widening at the corners of the cloth.

BIG RUSH IS ON TO PAY TAXES

County Treasurer's Office Taking in Thousands of Dollars Daily.

Next Saturday is the last day for the paying of all or one-half of the real estate taxes for 1907, due Jan. 1, 1908, without the penalty attaching. The county treasurer's office is rushed with business this week, several extra clerks being necessary to take care of the applications to pay taxes. A great many of the taxpayers who have found out their real estate taxes for last year are due, are paying same through the mail either by money orders or certified checks. As most taxpayers do not get their tax statements until they go to the treasurer's office to pay the same, there is always a greater rush to pay the realty taxes than the personal property taxes. The taxes are coming it at the rate of several thousand dollars a day, nearly all the small taxpayers electing to pay the whole amount on the first payment.

MANY AMERICAN PILGRIMS SEE POPE.

Rome, May 26.—Pope Pius today received in private audience the Right Rev. Charles E. McDonnell, bishop of Brooklyn, who afterwards introduced to the pope his secretary, Mgr. John I. Barrett, and over a hundred American pilgrims, most of whom left New York with the bishop, April 30.

Bishop McDonnell said he came personally to Rome to express to his holiness the feeling of affection and loyalty of his diocese on the occasion of the papal jubilee, and presented a substantial offering of Peter's pence. The pope warmly thanked Bishop McDonnell and bestowed on the pilgrims his apostolic benediction.

HIRED RIG AND SOLD IT

Nels Bergenson is on Trial for Grand Larceny.

Disposed of Board of Trade Livery Outfit for $35.

Nels Bergenson, who hired a rig from the Board of Trade livery barn to take a young woman friend for a drive, and then sold the rig, was placed on trial in the district court this morning on the charge of grand larceny in the second degree.

According to the state's allegations, Bergenson rented the rig last fall and, instead of returning it, he sold the whole outfit for $35 to a man residing in the West end. It was several days before the rig was located by the owners. By that time Bergenson had disappeared.

This spring Bergenson was arrested while working for a local dairyman, an indictment being returned against him by the last grand jury.

The trial will probably be finished some time this afternoon.

CONVENTION OF DULUTH DIOCESE

New Constitution Will be Adopted at Meeting of Ministers.

Between thirty and forty ministers of the Episcopal church will be in Duluth for the second annual convention of the diocese of Duluth, which will open tomorrow morning with a holy communion service at Trinity Pro-Cathedral. Rt. Rev. J. D. Morrison, bishop of Duluth, will be the celebrant and Rev. Irving Johnson of Minneapolis will preach the sermon. Wilkon Smith, an Indian, and Ernest Davies of St. Johns' college of Winnipeg will be ordained deacons by Bishop Morrison. The combined choirs of the Lakeside church and Trinity Pro-Cathedral will have charge of the music.

After the services the convention will settle down to business. Reports of officers will be read and it is expected a new constitution for the diocese of Duluth will be adopted. In the evening the Sunday school banquet will be held at Trinity hall. The program consists of discussions of different phases of Sunday school work. Dean A. H. Wurtele, chairman of the Sunday school committee, will preside, and Bishop Morrison, Page Morris, James Ward, Dr. Baker of St. Paul and F. D. Millard of Willow River will speak. A banner will be awarded to the Sunday school showing the largest Easter offering per capita. The award lies between St. James, Fergus Falls, and St. Paul's of Duluth.

The annual convention of the Women's Auxiliary Mission society will be opend Thursday morning with a holy communion service by Bishop Morrison. Rev. Jeremiah Johnson, a Chippewa Indian preacher from the White Earth reservation, will preach the sermon. After the services the business session of the convention will be held.

WHIST CLUB GAMES.

Talk of Having Northwestern Whist Association Meet in Duluth.

Twenty players made up five tables in the regular Monday night game at the Duluth Whist club last evening. The North-South scores showed an unusual swing of twenty-nine tricks, more than one to each deal. The score:

East-West.

Kennedy-Lardner	175	+ 12.8
Hallock-Ogilvie	170	+ 7.8
Brown-Wachtel	162	— .2
Buchanan-Smith	158	— 4.2
Kerr-Reltan	146	— 16.2
Total	811

North-South.

Cleveland-R. D. Bradley	168	+ 5.2
Kingman-Eddy	166	+ 3.2
Mather-C. H. Bradley	163	+ .2
Logan-McCreary	161	— 1.8
Hobbs-McCormick	156	— 6.8
Total	814
Average	162.8

But one-team game was played last week. This week games are scheduled between teams captained by White-Lardner, Logan-Edson and Buchannan-Kerr. The standing to date is as follows:

Captain.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Kerr, A. A	2	0	1.000
Lardner, W. P.	3	1	.750
Buchanan, Wm.	2	1	.667
White, F. H.	1	1	.500
Edson, N. N.	0	2	.000
Logan, W. B.	0	3	.000

There is some talk of bringing the midsummer meeting of the Northwestern Whist association to Duluth. This would insure players taking part from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Fergus Falls, Albert Lea, Fairmount and possibly Stillwater and Superior. If held, it will probably be late in June, so as not to conflict with the date of the American Whist league meeting at New York in July. The present quarters are not large enough to take care of the number that would be in attendance, but if arrangements can be made for suitable rooms there is no reason why it should not be held here.

Taft Would Have Law Regarding Campaign Funds Passed.

Sends Answer to That Effect in Reply to W. J. Bryan.

Washington, May 26.—When Secretary Taft reached his office today he found a number of newspapermen charged with inquiry as to what answer he intended to return to the invitation from William J. Bryan to join him in an effort to secure the enactment of a bill requiring publication of campaign contributions. The secretray replied that he had not seen any communication from Mr. Bryan on this subject, and in fact it was several hours later before the telegram reached him, as follows:

"I beg to suggest that as leading candidates in our respective parties, we join in asking congress to pass a bill, requiring publication of campaign contributions, prior to election. If you think best, we can ask other candidates to unite with us in the request.

"W. J. BRYAN."

Secretary Taft had meanwhile, and before he did receive this telegram, had a talk with the president at the White House, so that he was prepared, immediately upon his return to the war department, to give out for publication his answer, as follows:

Taft's Reply.

"Hon. William J. Bryan, Lincoln, Neb.

"Your telegram received. On April 30 last I sent the following letter to Senator Burrows, the chairman of the committee on privileges and elections of the senate:

"'My dear Mr. Burrows: I sincerely believe that it would greatly tend to the absence of corruption in politics if the expenditures for nomination and election of all candidates and contributions received and expenditures made by political committees could be made public, both in respect to state and national politics. For that reason I am strongly in favor of the passing of the bill which is now pending in the senate and house bringing about this result so far as national politics are concerned. I mark this letter personal because I am anxious to avoid assuming an attitude in the campaign which it is quite possible I shall never have the right to assume, but so far as my personal influence is concerned I am anxious to give it for the passing of the bill.

"'Very sincerely yours,

"'WILLIAM H. TAFT.'"

"Since writing the above, in answer to inquiry, I have said publicly that I hoped such a bill would pass.

"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

MRS. GUNNESS SEEN AGAIN

Connecticut Woman Writes Authorities That She is There.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 26.—Through a letter sent to Governor Hanly by Emma C. Kolb, of South Coventry, Conn., the sheriff of Laporte county has obtained a possible clue to the supposed whereabouts of Mrs. Gunness, if the Laporte woman is still alive. The letter which was received at the governor's office, was forwarded at once to the Laporte county sheriff.

The Coventry woman wrote at length describing a mysterious woman in black who has been swindling the people over the eastern part of Connecticut, and who she believes is none other than Mrs. Gunness. The writer says she has seen a picture of Mrs. Gunness and that the resemblance between the mysterious swindler and Mrs. Gunness is so striking that she could hardly be mistaken in her conclusions.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SOX TAKE TWO GAMES

Duluth Team Smashes Perfect Percentage of League Leaders.

Haney and Krick Pitch Good Ball and Hitting is Better.

Brandon, Man., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth White Sox finally broke loose yesterday and broke the Brandon winning streak into very small pieces by winning both games of the Victoria day double header by a 3 to 2 score. The Sox didn't do any sensational hitting, but they showed more ability at clouting the ball with men on the bases and just nosed out a victory by one score in each game.

The first game went to he Duluth side in a sensational finish. Papa Jim Haney was given his first start in the box and he trotted along pretty nicely all the way through. Brandon was leading 2 to 1 when Duluth went to bat in the ninth. Baker drew a pass and O'Brien and Ness followed with hits to score the runs that won. Haney gave Brandon only six scattered hits and was given good support by his teammates. O'Brien did the big end of the hitting, with three safe ones for a total of four bases.

The evening game was attended by the largest crowd of the season and they saw a pretty pitchers' battle between Krick and Nelson. Nelson had the better of the argument, but his support was wretched in patches and Duluth scored three times on as many hits. Krick was steady with men on bases and after the fifth, Brandon never had a chance to score. Koepping and O'Brien pulled off a fast double play that brought cheers from the crowd.

The last game of the series will be played today, after which the Duluth team will leave for home to open with Winnipeg Thursday. The detailed scores of yesterday's games follow:

COMMITTEE RECEDES.

Vote at Harvard is in Favor of Winter Athletics.

Cambridge, Mass., May 26.—At a meeting of the Harvard athletic committee last night it was voted "that in the opinion of the athletic committee it is not advisable to abolish intercollegiate athletic sports from the date of the last football game until the opening of the baseball season."

The commitee earlier in the spring had advanced the alimination of all winter sports.

SHERIDAN IN FORM.

Irish-American Athlete Shows Up Well With Discus.

New York, May 26.—The feature of the athletic contests between the Pastime and Mohawk athletic clubs Sunday was the great work of Martin Sheridan, the all-around athlete. He scaled the discus 127 feet, 10½ inches, from a 2½ metre circle, the size that will be used at the coming Olympic games in London. While Sheridan has thrown the discus 136 feet 10 inches from a seven foot circle, the present American record, his throw from a larger arc is a record from the Olympic circle. Sheridan has done little work so far this spring, and his performance shows that he is returning to form.

The question of sports for Memorial day is always a delicate one with promoters of sporting events. No American would want only offer insult to the tottering survivors of the gallant army that fought for the salvation of the nation. The American public reveres the living and respects the memory of the dead and anything that would detract from the spirit of Memorial day or encroach upon the semi-sacred character of its observance would be frowned upon, not only by the chronic reformer, but by those who are subjects for the reformers' efforts.

Whether the holding of athletic events is a desecration of Memorial day is the issue, then, and it has been discussed time and again, through the press, from the pulpit and in private conversation in every part of the country. The reformers have bent all their energies to have baseball leagues leave that date open on their schedule and, usually, it is with poor success.

The ordinary individual is satisfied that the American public, in its manner of observing Memorial day, shows full appreciation and respect for the men of the army of the War of the Rebellion, living and dead. The man who stands on the sidewalk on the morning of Memorial day and does homage to the fast-thinning ranks, and in the afternoon enjoys himself in a proper manner is not violating the spirit of the day. Prize fighting or kindred sports have no place on Memorial day, but baseball, which is supported on Sunday, is in its proper place on Memorial day by the same token.

The knocker must knock and when a baseball team in seven or eight games hits about 6½ and loses nearly all its games, he has a pretty good foundation on which to hammer away to his heart's content. But to condemn a team for the season on the showing of a week is the folly of a pessimist, and no fan who knows the uncertainties and possibilities of baseball would indopt such a course toward the Duluth team, which has certainly not made a glorious record in Canada thus far.

There are evidences of honest intentions in the conduct of the management. The pitchers are fine and the fielding is first-class, but there were miscalculations in the hitting department. Rorabaugh came touted as a wonder with the club, and he has yet to get his first hit since the season started. Koepping was counted a good sticker, as well as a fielder, but he hasn't shown that he's there. Haney has fallen down terribly and Baker never was expected to hit. It's all up to Voss, Ness, O'Brien and Paglos, who have been carrying the principal part of the little hitting that has been done.

The fans may rest assured there'll be some changes in the team unless there's a radical improvement very soon. Hitters are needed and they will be secured. The men who expect to be carried along on swell fielding and a .600 batting average will find themselves streaking it for the stump lands once more and there'll be a few men in their places who know a ball from a strike when they see it come and realize that their salary will come to the music of the ball bumping up against the fence.

Dr. Roller, the eccentric Seattle wrestling wonder, is coming right along. His victory over Fred Beell has put him more in the limelight than he ever was before and the possibility that he will beat Gotch in their match at Seattle next month is not at all remote. That is, providing the match is on the square, and there is always the contingency that a wrestling match is "fixed," be the men who they may.

Perhaps, if Roller were to leave Seattle and invade the East, he would not be such a success. But in his own ballywick he has thus far been supreme and Gotch will go there to meet him and do away with that supremacy. Roller will not move out of Seattle, claiming his medical practice will not allow, and he places his profession above his side line of wrestling. Gotch and Roller met before the champion agreeing to throw "the sawbones" in an hour. He didn't do it and had to work hard to prevent being thrown. That was over a year ago, and both men have improved since. Likewise, Gotch was tired when he went into the former match and he will be better prepared for a tough proposition in the coming go. Even if Gotch does win, Roller will bear watching. He has the physique, the science and the head to make him a successful athlete, and he is the one man in this country now who can give Gotch a good workout.

WHITEHEAD TO MEET ULLRICH

Former Pride of Superior Probably Due for a Beating.

Walter Whitehead, the Duluth middleweight fighter, will leave tomorrow for Detroit, Minn., and hear there Friday night, he will meet Curley Ullrich of Superior in a fifteen-round bout as the windup to a card being staged by Thief River Falls promoters.

The Duluth fighter is in fine shape and, unless all calculations go wrong, Curley is due for the drubbing of his strange career. Whitehead is a big fellow, with a sleep producer in either mit and a reach that can send it over. Curley is a pretty fair boxer, but if he meets up with one of Whitehead's wallops, when it's traveling right, he will take the count and Whitehead will take down the big end of the money.

Ullrich has found that his abilities are better appreciated in Thief River Falls than in Superior and he has shifted his base of operations. He has established training quarters at the town of the crooked name and is fighting all around the western part of the state with more or less success. Thief River Falls people are backing him heavily in every fight, but he may run up against a big obstacle to his progress in the Duluth man.

AMERICAN CAR TURNED.

Nikolsk, Russia, May 26.—The American crew in the New York-to-Paris automobile race, after covering about fifteen miles from this city was confronted by a impassable swamp and forced to return to the nearest village. The German car is proceeding over the sleepers of the Trans-Siberian railroad.

PROTEST BY WASHINGTON.

Defeated School Claims Three Jefferson Points Are Illegal.

The Washington school students are dissatisfied with the award of Saturday's track meet to the Jefferson school, on a total of forty-eight points. They claim that three of the Jefferson school's points were illegally awarded and that the total of forty-seven points should give the meet and the Herald cup to the Washington school.

A protest has been filed with Secretary Norman D. McLeod of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., and he is investigating the Washington school's claims. It is contended that Perrill, who was awarded three points on behalf of the Jefferson school in the potato race, failed to score. If the protest holds, the three points would be deducted from the Jefferson's total, giving the Washington boys the meet.

SUTTER HAS MANY FRIENDS

Cleveland Wrestler Picked to Beat Young Miller of St. Paul.

The wrestling match between Young Miller of St. Paul and Otto Sutter of Cleveland at the Temple roller rink tomorrow night is one of the biggest wrestling cards Duluth has had in a long while. The match is billed for the welterweight championship of the United States and those, who have seen both men work, say the victory will undoubtedly carry with it the right to claim the title.

Young Miller has been the sensation of St. Paul sporting circles during the past year. From obscurity, he has come up rapidly to be recognized as one of the most promising welterweights of the country. Wrestling all comers at St. Paul during the winter, he has never been thrown and his backers are banking heavily on him to retain an unsullied record until he has a clear title to the championship of his class.

Sutter is, of course, not as well known as Miller in the Northwest, but he has all kinds of credentials. He has a clean record in his home city of Cleveland and in addition has beaten some of the best welterweights in the Eastern states. He is a brother of Charles Sutter, the lightweight champion of the Head of the Lakes.

Sutter has been working out at fire headquarters, with Martin Johnson, the heavyweight wrestler, who knows more about the game than any man in Duluth and who is unstinting in his praises of Sutter. The Cleveland man works out daily with Johnson and Charley Sutter and those, who have watched him, are ready to put up their money on his pinning Miller down tomorrow night.

Bad Attack of Dysentery Cured.

'An honored citizen of this town was suffering from a severe attack of dysentery. He told a friend if he could obtain a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, he felt confident of being cured, he having used this remedy in the West. He was told that I kept it in stock and lost no time in obtaining it, and was promptly cured," says M. J. Leach, druggist, of Wolcott, Vt. For sale by all druglists.

FAVOR BUILDING SANITARY SEWERS

Petitions Being Circulated in Virginia, Meeting With Favor.

Virginia, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A movement is on foot to build a system of sanitary sewers the present season throughout the entire northeastern portion of the city, which comprises the Second ward. Alderman Mattson and E. E. Burley were circulating petitions among the residents yesterday and very few who were approached refused to sign. The purpose is to build a trunk sewer on Wyoming avenue north from the alley north of Chestnut street and lateral sewers in each of the alleys running from Wyoming to Railroad avenues. This is one of the most thickly settled portions of the city and owing to the absence of sewers it has been a very difficult matter to keep the alleys clean.

The petitions will be presented to the council this evening and it is anticipated that the process will be hurried through so that the sewers can be completed early in the summer.

MR. MILLER TO SPEAK.

Duluth Man Will Address Chisholm High School Graduates.

Chisholm, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three pupils will graduate from the Chisholm high school this year. They are Misses Ruby Kneebone, Vera Higbee and Maud Tallon. The program for the graduating which will be given June 15, in the evening, will include a speech by Clarence B. Miller of Duluth. The rest of the program will be essays and musical numbers by the graduates. There will be a large number of graduates from the Eighth grade this year. The dedication of the new Chisholm high school building will probably take place on the same night that the pupils will graduate from the high school. The school is one of the finest on the range.

COMPANY M DRILLS.

Hibbing Militiamen Given Their First Lessons in Tactics.

Hibbing, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Company M. had their first drill Sunday morning in the ball park. Capt. Sullivan is favorably impressed with his recruits and promises to have one of the best drilled companies in Minnesota. The uniforms and arms are expected to arrive in time for Memorial day.

POLICE TO SPRUCE UP.

Mayor Smith Directs Finest to Make Good Appearance.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following the plan of making Eveleth one of the best appearing towns on the entire range, Mayor Smith has instructed the policemen to appear on duty with shoes blackened and uniforms cleaned. The new caps that were received about a month ago are now being used, and this makes a decided improvement in the dress of the policemen. Of late the force has had very little to do, the town being very orderly and quiet.

TO ACCOMMODATE CROWDS.

Manager Brady of Hibbing Ball Team Prepares for Big Attendance.

Hibbing, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager Brady has introduced something new to the baseball fans. He has erected a sloping stand, sixty feet long and thirty feet deep on which he will place 200 camp stools to accommodate the Sunday crowds.

BODY BROUGHT HOME.

Emma Peterson, Who Died in Minneapolis, Buried at Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Emma Peterson, who died last week in Minneapolis, was held here at 2 o'clock this afternoon, this being her home although her father died several years ago.

The funeral of Mrs. August Johnson, who died yesterday from consumption, aged 31, will be held Thursday afternoon from the Swedish Lutheran church. She is survived by her husband and one son.

REACH NO DECISION.

Hibbing Council Puts Over City Hall Contract Matter.

Hibbing, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council held an executive session last night to consider the plans and specifications of the architects for the proposed city hall, but reached no decision. It was announced that the recorder would notify the firms who had submitted plans of the exact date on which the matter would finally be disposed of.

The bids for the contract to furnish 500 feet of hose for the fire department were rejected and the recorder was instructed to re-advertise.

INSTALL NEW MINISTER.

Rev. J. C. Faries of Duluth to Participate in Ely Exercises.

Ely, Minn., May 26.—There will be installation and dedicatory exercises at the Presbyterian church this evening at 8 o'clock in connection with Rev. T. W. Jacobson, the new pastor, assuming his duties.

Rev. A. McGaughey of Two Harbors will preside and deliver the charge to the pastor. Rev. J. C. Faries of Duluth will preach the sermon and the charge to the congregation will be given by Rev. S. A. Jamieson of Duluth. Rev. H. E. Neff of Virginia will offer the dedicatory prayer.

ALDERMAN JOHNSON TO PRESENT RESIGNATION.

Virginia, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alderman Edw. C. A. Johnson, who is about to move out of the Third ward to open a new store on Central avenue, will tender his resignation to the council this evening to take effect June 1. The council will choose his successor. Mr. Johnson is the only alderman in the present council who served during the previous term and because of his experience and capability he has been a valuable official.

CIRCUS IS GAINER WHILE EVELETH WILL BE LOSER.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The coming of the Campbells' circus on Thursday again brings to mind the fact that near the Fayal road there is a piece of land in the form of an L, which is out of the city limits. On that account, even though the circus will camp within a block or two of the center of the town, the city treasury will receive no benefit from it, as that piece of land is outside the jurisdiction of the city. The circus people will receive the benefit of not having to pay a license, though they will probably be allowed to parade through the city streets. Unless a sufficient number of people on that land petition to be added to the city, this state of affairs will go on forever.

DULUTH MAN IS LOST IN WOODS

Charles Bock Disappeared While Fishing Near Beaver Sunday.

Charles Bock of Duluth, who makes his home at the Dakotah boarding house, went fishing Sunday and has not returned yet. It is believed he became lost in the woods, and a searching party has started out to try to locate him.

Bock, who is a plumber, went to Beaver, a small station on the Alger-Smith logging road, located on Beaver creek, last Sunday, in company with John Larson of the Frederic hotel. While fishing, the men separated. When about three miles from Beaver, Larson tried to find his companion, with the assistance of a guide who was with them, but they were unable to find Bock. They searched for some time, but failed to locate him.

Larson and several friends left last night for Beaver to search for Bock. The matter was reported to the police last night.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Fuses Are Burned Out in J. W. Nelson's Store.

Lightning struck J. W. Nelson's store on East Superior street yesterday afternoon, during the short electrical storm which passed over Duluth.

Little damage was done. The fuses in the wiring of the store were burned out and some of the fixtures were damaged. The clerks in the store and one or two customers were startled, but nobody felt any shock from the current.

BATTLESHIP LAUNCHED

80 feet; draft, 24 feet 6 inches; total coal bunker capacity, 2,200 tons. The hull is of steel throughout. Although a very heavy vessel, the contract calls for a sustained speed of 18½ knots an hour for four consecutive hours.

Besides the eight 12-inch guns, the main battery will include two submerged torpedo tubes, and the secondary battery will consist of twenty-two 3-inch (14 pounds) rapid semi-automatic guns; two 3-inch field pieces; four machine guns of 0.30 caliber. The 12-inch guns will be mounted in pairs, in four turrets on the center line, two forward and two aft.

The hull will be protected on the water line by a complete belt of armor, eight feet wide, having a thickness of eleven inches throughout the machinery spaces and twelve inches at the magazine spaces. For a height of eight feet above the main belt there will be the casemate armor, eight inches thick at the top to ten inches thick at the bottom. There will be a complete protective deck, from stem to stern. The magazines and shell rooms will be so arranged that about one-half of the total supply of ammunition will be carried at each end of the ship.

The propelling engines will be of the vertical twin-screw, four-cylinder, triple-expansion type, of a combined indicated horse-power of 16,500. Each engine will be located in a separate water-tight compartment. Each of the two funnels of the vessel will be 100 feet high above the base line.

Will Carry Over 800 Men.

The crew of the Michigan will number 51 officers and 758 men.

The launch of the Michigan was entirely successful and was witnessed by a number of invited guests, including Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry, Secretary of the Interior Garfield, Governor Warner of Michigan, the United States senators from Michigan and other prominent persons of Washington and the Wolverine state. The sponsor was Miss Carol Barnes Newberry of Detroit, daughter of Assistant Secretary Newberry.

Fair weather favored the event and a great crowd was on hand in and about the yard to see the big ship take the water.

Following the launch, the invited guests were entertained at luncheon by the officials of the company. There was no formality about the luncheon, but, following custom, toasts were drunk to the president of the United States, the secretary and assistant secretary of the navy, the fair sponsor, and last, but not least, a "good luck" toast to the great battleship itself.

Cable Service Began 49 Years Ago.

Forty-nine years ago the laying of the first Atlantic cable was completed and the first messages sent over it were an exchange of sentiments between the queen of England and our president. There are now about sixteen cables across the Atlantic. It was 54 years ago that the public had the first opportunity to test the curative powers of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and as proof of its wonderful success we only need point to the unequalled record of cures of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel complaints to its credit. Today it is more popular than ever, because more people are being convinced that it can cure them of sick headache, bloating, heartburn, vomiting, sour risings, dyspepsia, indigestion, costiveness, biliousness and malaria. Insist on having the genuine Hostetter's.

MILK TRUST ORGANIZED

Duluth Will Soon Have an Association of Milkmen.

Dealers Must Have State License by Next Saturday.

A milk trust is being formed in Duluth.

Herman Mueller, formerly an inspector employed in the city health department, is at the head of a movement to organize all the milk dealers transacting business in Duluth, and it is understood that he is meeting with success. Two or three meetings have been held and the organization has been practically completed.

The milkmen might not fancy the name of trust, and perhaps it isn't just to apply it to their association. They maintain that they are getting together for mutual protection and benefit, and that they have no evil design in the way of boosting prices of milk or cream. They believe that by banding together and getting in closer touch with each other, they will be able to work to the advantage of one another, and possibly give the public better service.

Health Commissioner Patton and his deputies are still hot on the trail of men who are selling milk not up to the standard, and in several instances they have felt called upon to administer a severe rebuke in recommending an improvement in the grade of the milk sold. In every instance, so far, rebuke had the desired effect. If, after such warning, any milkman is found with his product below standard, he will be arrested and prosecuted.

This is the time of the year when everybody selling milk is supposed to take out a state license. Harris Bennett, 300 Manhattan building, deputy dairy and food inspector, is now issuing the licenses. All retailers, wholesalers, saloons, restaurants, hotels, everybody selling milk and cream, in fact, must have a state license. Any of these not having a license by June 1 will be subject to a fine of $25.

Commissioner Patton is still working on his new milk ordinance, and is getting all he can in the way of suggestions from other cities of the country, profiting by their experience. The ordinance will not be hastily thrown together, but will be prepared very carefully, and when complete will be a model of it's kind. Meantime Dr. Patton is doing what he can to educate the dairymen up to improving the standard of milk sold, and with this end in view has secured a considerable amount of literature from the government relative to the proper care of the dairy. Copies of Bulletin No. 63 are being sent to the dairymen doing business in Duluth. They will be able to get many valuable pointers from it.

Mrs. S. Joyce, 180 Sullivan Street, Claremont, N. H., writes: "About a year ago I bought two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It cured me of a severe case of Kidney trouble of several years' standing. It certainly is a grand, good medicine, and I heartily recommend it." At all druggists.

U. S. COURT AT FARGO.

Judge Munger of Omaha Sitting for Judge Amidon.

Fargo, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Munger of Omaha is presiding for Judge Amidon at the opening of the May term of the United States court, which was called here this morning. Judge Amidon had to secure another presiding official, as he was called to St. Paul to sit with the United States circuit court. Judge Munger has both a grand and petit jury session. The civil calendar is lighter than usual, but considerable criminal business is expected to be furnished by the grand jury.

After dodging the deputy United States marshals since his indictment on a smuggling charge last year, John Wallette was picked up at Belcourt and will have a hearing at this term of court.

Claiming to have only $17 above his legal exemptions, John M. Payne, a farmer near Towner, seeks relief through the bankruptcy law. His liabilities are placed at about $800.

BANKERS AT BRAINERD.

Those of Sixth District Are Holding Annual Meeting.

Brainerd, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Sixth District Bankers' association is in session here today. The only disappointment in connection with the arrangements is the fact that Congressman Lindberg has been compelled to withdraw his acceptance of an invitation to address the association on "Currency Legislation." At the banquet at the Ransford hotel tonight among the speakers who will respond to toasts are Dr. Walter Courtney, chief surgeon of the Northern Pacific railroad; George F. Orde, cashier of the First National bank, Minneapolis; W. H. Gemmell, general manager of the Minnesota & International railroad, Brainerd; J. S. Pomeroy, cashier Security National bank, Minneapolis; C. D. Johnson, president city council, Brainerd, and W. H. Parker, cashier Merchants' National bank, St. Paul.

After the close of the business session Wednesday forenoon the visiting bankers and their ladies will be taken through the immense Northern Pacific shops in this city by J. P. Anderson, superintendent.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The bodies of Ralph McCabe, 7 years old, and Chester McCormick, 8 years old, of Chicago, supposed to have been kidnapped, were found Monday in the lagoon in the old Washington Park race track. The boys had evidently gone wading in the water and got beyond their depth.

The Cumberland Presbyterian assembly, which has been in session at Corsicana, Tex., since Thursday, devoted Monday's session almost exclusively to the hearing of reports.

W. J. Bryan will remain at Fairview for a considerable time. After his tour of Northern Nebraska, which begins May 29 and ends June 4, he will remain at his farm, filling a few speaking dates in towns adjacent to Lincoln.

J. O. Davidson, cashier of the Woodville, Miss., bank in Wilson county, committed suicide Monday by drinking carbolic acid. While it is alleged Davidson had been speculating in cotton futures and had lost heavily, it is understood that the bank will not be in any way affected.

JOHNSON IN GEORGIA.

Young Men's Democratic League Active for the Governor.

Atlanta, Ga., May 26.—Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, when in Atlanta, held a conference with several prominent Georgians. Governor Johnson came to Atlanta on the invitation of the Young Men's Democratic league, which would like to see the Minnesota man nominated for presidency.

The league proposes to organize a Johnson propaganda in Georgia, and it is predicted that the movement will be successful. There is not nearly so much Bryan sentiment in Georgia as in the past, and what there is, is perfunctory and not enthusiastic.

Birmingham, Ala., May 26.—Governor Johnson of Minnesota left this morning for Tuscaloosa, Ala., where he will deliver an address today at the commencement exercises of the state university. In answer to a question as to the recent Democratic primaries in Alabama, he said that the result was a happy disappointment. "It is certainly gratifying," he said, "to receive between 30 and 40 per cent of the vote for presidential nomination in a state which I never before had the pleasure of visiting."

PRINCESS FLEES TO WED.

Member of Austrian Household Said to Have Fled to London.

Paris, May 26.—The city was stirred last night by a sensational story that a princess of one of the most illustrious royal houses of Europe has eloped and is fleeing to London to be married. It is admitted by the Paris police that the princess "may be a member of the Austrian royal household."

Three archduchesses of the Austrian royal family are unmarried, the youngest being 15. They are the daughters of the Archduke Frederick, and are the Archduchess Marie, the Archduchess Gabrielle and the Archduchess Isabelle.

TALK ALL CURRENCY

Congressmen Earnestly Discuss Possibility of Compromise Bill.

The Leaders of Both Houses Hold Repeated Conferences.

Washington, May 26.—Currency was today easily the paramount topic at the capitol. Beginning with the effort at compromise between the Aldrich and the Vreeland bills, which was begun yesterday, the subject continued to maintain its place as the one matter of real interest. There were a number of conferences last night, and long before the house and senate met, the Republican leaders at both ends of the big building could be found in groups of three or four, and messages passed frequently from one group to the other. At the house end, the Republican conferees on the currency bill, Messrs. Vreeland, Weeks and Burton, were early in close conference, while a similar meeting was in progress in Senator Aldrich's room which was participated in by Senators Aldrich, Hale and Allison, the Republican senatorial conferees, and it was understood that the two delegations would later hold a joint conference before taking the Democrats into their confidence. For the present, they are proceeding entirely upon the basis of the compromise between the senate and house bills which was outlined yesterday, but with the quite general understanding that even if such a measure should be reported, it would be so violently antagonized that in all probability it would be impossible to mould it into law.

Bond Scheme Objectionable.

The opponents in the house of the Aldrich bond scheme still declare most emphatically that it would be impossible to get a majority for it there, while it is said quite as positively in the senate that, even if the compromise could be gotten through the house, it would require at least a month to pass it in the senate. The advocates of the Vreeland bill refuse to admit that it is an asset currency scheme, but the senate will not accept this contention, and the Democrats of the senate say freely that because it is an asset currency measure they will not accept it. "We will not filibuster," they say, "but we shall demand all the time necessary to discuss such a measure before allowing it to pass the senate."

This means that they would insist upon the recognition of their right under the senate rules to discuss the proposition at length, and that if, eventually, the Republican party should succeed in getting the compromise through, it would be only after a long and wearisome fight which would postpone adjournment until late in the summer. In the meantime it would be almost impossible to maintain a quorum. In view of these difficulties, the opinion is growing that there is no other outcome to the situation than the acceptance by both houses of the Aldrich bill as it was reported from the senate committee on finance.

Many profess to believe that this will be the outcome of the agitation. The speaker is known originally to have been friendly to this measure, and not a few observers are optimistic enough to believe that, rather than adjourn without accomplishing any financial legislation, the house will be brought to accept it.

MAY CORN SHOWS SUDDEN STRENGTH

Price Rises to a Point 5 Cents Above Monday's Close.

Chicago, May 26.—May corn showed sudden strength on the board of trade today and advanced to a point 5 cents above the close of last night. The rise was generally credited to a statement said to have been made by James A. Patten, who is supposed to have a "corner" on the May delivery to the effect that corn was going "much higher." The price at one time was as high as 78⅞ cents. The close of the market was strong and excited with May corn 4⅛ cents higher, at 78⅞ cents.

HOT AFTER HOSPITAL

Mayor Says City Must Have Contagious Ward Immediately.

Site May be Secured by Condemnation Proceedings.

"If there is any one with any suggestions as to a site for the proposed city hospital for contagious diseases, we shall be glad to hear from them," said Mayor Haven, this morning. "The need of the hospital is urgent, and steps will be taken immediately to bring about the establishment of one. The matter has run along long enough. Something has got to be done right away."

City Attorney Wilson has said Duluth cannot use a portion of any of her parks for the location of such an institution, so the plans in regard to Central park have gone glimmering. Waiting to change the charter so as to allow the use of a park site would mean a long delay, and the mayor says this is no time to delay. He is of the opinion that it may be necessary for the city to acquire a site by condemnation proceedings. This has been done in other cities, and the courts have upheld the action. It could be done lawfully here, it is believed. The subject will be brought before the council again in the very near future.

"No matter where the building is erected, there is bound to be objections offered on the part of the property owners," said Mayor Haven. "There are no reasonable grounds for such objections, for a hospital conducted along proper lines is no more danger to the community than a telegraph pole. All large cities have such institutions in thickly populated districts, and there are never any complaints. It is merely a foolish prejudice on the part of property owners. One of the local hospitals has had a contagious ward within thirty feet of a flat building, and no objection, or ground for objection, has ever been brought to the attention of the authorities.

"It would not be practicable to locate the hospital way off in the woods somewhere, outside the city limits. It will have to be placed in the city, objections or no objections, for it is something we have got to have. I have one site in view, where the money now available would be sufficient to start the institution. There is a building now on the ground that would be suitable for the purpose intended. We are glad to receive any suggestions regarding the matter in hand, but some action must be taken very soon."

Loyalty and Patriotism.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It is rather peculiar this year that both Memorial day as well as Fourth of July come on Saturday and for that reason some of the merchants are wondering what the rest of them will do. As far as we are concerned, we never bother ourselves what the rest of them are doing or what they will do, as we have advocated the loyal and patriotic side ever since we have been in business. It does look strange that the adopted children in this country should ever have to urge and plead for the observance of such days as these in particular.

I believe in freedom and liberty, as well as loyalty and patriotism, and it is certainly no more than right that we should respect and honor those great heroes who purchased us this liberty with their blood. It is the duty of every American citizen to cultivate good principles and imprint in the homes and in the children loyalty and respect for the founders of this glorious country of ours. In the struggle for the dollars we are apt to forget that which should be our first duty in home first, and in the state and the church.

Christianity breeds loyalty, and therefore it is of great importance that we teach our children to try to follow the example set forth by Christ, to love and respect one another. My opinion is that if the children read a little of the Bible in the schools we would see benefit by it in every way. Any kind of religion is better than none at all. There are homes where the children never hear anything about religion until they get in Sunday school, and these children have certainly not had the right start. As soon as they decided to take off the inscription on the money 'In God We Trust,' the effect was seemingly felt at once. We need more Christianity in the homes, in the schools, in the city, state and the country at large. Even in business it works wonders. When I say Christianity I do not mean the 'form,' but the reality. Even the church could stand a little reform in that line. We need practical men and women in all lines.

Love and patriotism are stronger fortifications than powder magazines and battleships.

Let this be our explanations for the future what we are going to do on such legal holidays. I am no in for celebrating personal birthdays. If we should do that there would be nothing but legal holidays in the future. Very respectfully,

GRONSETH & OLSEN.

TRAIN THROWN FROM THE TRACK

Express on Canadian Pacific Wrecked by Sinking of Track.

Winnipeg, May 26.—By the sudden sinking of the Canadian Pacific road bed on the main line one hundred miles east of this city an express train bound for this city, last night, was thrown off the track. The locomotive and mail cars were thrown into a little lake near the track. Several passengers were slightly injured and the mail clerks seriously. Fifteen thousand dollars worth of registered mail is submerged. Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the distinguished authress was one of the passengers, but she escaped injury and arrived here today.

JUROR HAD SMALLPOX

Health Commissioner Orders Courthouse Closed and Fumigated.

Cases Are Becoming Too Frequent in Musty Old Building.

As the result of a member of the district court jury breaking out with smallpox this morning, Health Commissioner Patton will disinfect the entire barracks that is serving as a courthouse for St. Louis county.

During the last month four or five cases of smallpox have developed within the musty old walls, and the health commissioner is growing weary of backing the wagon up to the courthouse steps, and dragging reluctant "poxers" out over the hills to the pesthouse.

The employes of the county who are compelled to labor in the said building, also fail to see the funny part of the situation.

The juror who was stricken this morning was Edward McHale of Sparta. He complained of feeling ill, and Judge Ensign excused him so that he might consult a physician. The doctor promptly declared his malady smallpox, and it was a case of "over the hill" for Mr. McHale. He protested and wanted to be allowed to go home to Sparta, but the health commissioner said that he was prevented by law from allowing such an act.

The health commissioner then, figuratively speaking, took off his coat and started in. He ordered all the county offices closed at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and every nook and cranny of the old structure will be thoroughly fumigated. The employes will be vaccinated, and the jurors and perhaps the attorneys who frequent the courthouse, will also have their arms scratched.

The health commissioner says that compulsory jury service with a fair fighting chance of contracting a well defined case of smallpox, is too much of a joke on the good citizens of Duluth, and that he is going to stamp it out if they have to hold court in a tent on the new courthouse site.

SENATORS BUSY KEEPING COOL

Dilatory Tactics of Past Few Days Continue in Upper House.

Washington, May 26.—The senatorial cloak rooms were liberally provided with palm leaf fans today, and many senators brought them into the chamber and wielded them vigorously. Vice President Fairbanks was supplied with a particularly large one and kept it going as he sat patiently submitting to a full reading of yesterday's journal, which was again insisted upon. The dilatory proceeding that has prevailed for several days, the chief object of which has been to prevent the passing of bills which do not meet the approval of the leaders, was continued.

Senator Platt, fresh from his triumph in the New York courts, was in attendance in time to hear the morning prayer, and occasionally conversed in animated style with other senators.

The first move to dispense with the reading of the journal was made by Mr. Fulton, in the interest of the omnibus claims bill, but Senator Kean was prompt in objecting to that motion.

"The importance of the reading of the journal," said the New Jersey senator facetiously, "was discovered yesterday, when an error was found in citing the number of a statute that was revealed."

The clerk proceeded with his dreary task.

ALL KINDS OF TROUBLE

Aurora Man Will be Tried on Three Different Charges.

Claimed to Have Threatened Officer—Wife Also Arrested.

Because John Frovich of Aurora, as it is claimed, resisted arrest by Marshal August Knuti of Aurora, and threatened to make the marshal's hide look like a colander with the contents of a shot gun, the last grand jury plastered three indictments against him, instead of one, and Frovich, together with his wife, was brought down this afternoon to stand trial.

Frovich was wanted for blind pigging. It is claimed that he sold some beer on March 8. His wife was also wanted on this charge.

When Knuti went to arrest them, however, Frovich, it is claimed, resisted arrest, and threatened to shoot the officer.

The grand jury returned three indictments, one for assault, one for blind pigging, and one for resisting an officer. He is held on the three charges in default of bail in the sum of $200, $150 and $200.

His wife is held on the charge of selling liquor without a license and her bail is fixed at $150.

WILL REPORT NO PAPER COMBINE

Report of the Special House Committee is Being Prepared.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The select committee appointed under the Cannon resolution, calling for an investigation of the alleged combinations among manufacturers of wood pulp paper, has completed its labors and will submit its report to the house, probably Wednesdty. Representatives Mann and Stafford have been working practically day and night since the hearings closed on Saturday, to formulate the report of the committee.

The report will be a resume of the testimony taken, and it is understood that the findings will be that no combinations or trusts exist to increase prices. The present high price of print paper, the committee concludes, is due solely to the scarcity of wood. It will say that last year the wood of which the pulp is made became exceedingly scarce, and is becoming each day a difficult commodity to obtain at reasonable figures.

The report will, it is said, be a voluminous document.

Farmer Got Large Returns.

A. Adams of Juliaetta, Idaho, a brother of F. E. Adams of 36 Palmetto street, Duluth, has been making some experiments with "Alaska" wheat that may be of interest to Minnesota farmers. Three years ago he started with the kernels of one head of wheat and the returns at the first harvest were seven pounds. He sowed the seven pounds and got 1,515 pounds of wheat at the second harvest. The third crop was partially destroyed by a heavy snowfall, but he saved enough to sow several hundred acres last fall for a crop this season. A chemical analysis of the "Alaska" wheat shows that it will probably rank with the best grade of "Blue Stem" for flour making purposes.

E. H. Parker in City.

E. H. Parker, traffic manager for Marshall-Wells & Co. of Duluth, at Portland, Or., is in the city on one of his regular trips from the coast. He has just returned from attending a traffic meeting in Chicago and speaking on business conditions generally, says they are better in this section and the Pacific coast than in the East, judging from all he has heard while in Chicago.

Father Is Dying.

P. L. Wagner is daily expecting to receive a message telling of the death of his aged father, living at Shakopee, Minn. The elder Wagner is 94 years old, and is dying of old age.

Popular Place to Lunch.

Many business men who lunch downtown at noon can regularly be found at "My Office" where William McCullough serves between 10:30 a. m. and 2 p. m. a meal for 15 cents, that is not equaled in the West. The best of everything has made "My Office" one of the most popular places in Duluth.

Lien Case Settled.

The action brought in the district court by Charles Krause against the Third Swedish Baptist church has been dismissed by stipulation of the parties, based on a settlement in full of the claims of the contractor. Mr. Krause claimed that he performed repairs to the church in West Duluth that amounted to $236.85. He sued for a balance of $32.10.

Sues on Plumbing Bill.

D. R. Black & Co., a local plumbing concern, has started a suit in the district court against Louis Larson to recover $158.80 alleged to be due for the plumbing work and material in a residence owned by Larson on lots 7 and 8, block 45, Portland division.

An old men's festival will be held at the First Swedish Baptist church Thursday evening. Mayor Haven will speak. The choir and orchestra will be under the direction of Prof. Erickson.

Few Wolf Pelts Presented.

The wolf bounty business seems to have dropped off. Only now and then is a wolf pelt presented to the county auditor for the payment of the $15 bounty paid by the state and county. The last pelt was sent in yesterday by Henry La Prairie of Floodwood. It is expected that the number of pelts brought in during the summer will be very few, as the wolves usually hide during warm weather in the heart of some of the big swamps in the northern part of the state. As soon as cold weather sets in next fall they will begin coming out near the settlements.

North Star Meeting.

The North Star Benefit association will hold a meeting tonight at Lundholm's music store, 1920 West Superior street.

Personal Injury Cases on Trial.

The two personal injury cases started for trial yesterday morning in the district court have not been finished. One of these is the suit of Gust Anderson against the Pittsburg company. Anderson is suing for $20,000 damages for injuries claimed to have been received by a clam shell shovel dropping on him while he was at work in the hold of a coal boat. John A. Pinkerton wants the same amount from the Wisconsin Steel company for injuries to his hand, which is said to have been caught between bumpers on an ore train.

Souvenir Postal Which Boosts.

The book stores are showing a new souvenir postal card, which is bound to prove a big boost for Duluth. It shows the new courthouse and other public buildings grouped as they will appear when finished. Orders are already pouring in rapidly.

Label League Meeting.

At last evening's meeting of the Women's Union Label League, No. 230, in Kalamazoo hall, Mrs. Louise Van Dalen and Mrs. Catherine J. Dempsey were elected as delegates to the state convention to be held at Winona, and Mrs. Mary McInnis and Mrs. Bertha Thebo were elected alternates. Some routine business was transacted and new members were initiated.

Mr. Deepe, Mr. Stubbs and Mr. Doller of the Clerks' union, addressed the members on the good work the women were doing in pushing the label on all goods, and urged them to keep at it. They offered their services in furnishing a musical entertainment in the near future, which the president accepted with pleasure. A card party will be held next Monday night at Columbia hall, West end. The first dance will be held June 4, at the pavilion, Fairmont park.

Friday Will be a "Saturday" at the Columbia

Both our Duluth and Superior stores will be kept closed all day on Decoration Day—Saturday next. First, because there is an agreement to that effect with the Clerk's Union. Second, because we believe the custom of observing Memorial Day is a worthy one, and last, because we Americans haven't too many holldays at any rate. Those of our salesmen who have piscatorial inclinations have their fishing tackle all packed, ready for a two-days' trip.

Friday Wide Open; Saturday Closed

To make things more interesting this week, we are going to have special inducements for Friday, when we will be open late in the evening, just as on Saturdays.

Some of our

will be from stock. However, our buyer, Mr. Billstein, had to go to Chicago Sunday to try and buy another lot of $9 Suits for our Superior store, because the Duluth store sold their share of last week's big suit purchase, and he promised to pick up some special good things for the Duluth store at the same time. If he succeeds, we'll let you know in tomorrow evening's Herald. Keep your ears to the ground and your eyes on the Columbia windows.

FLOODS CAUSE A BULGE IN THE PRICE OF WHEAT

American Markets Have Big Advance on Southwestern News.

Flax is Up at the Close in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 26.—The continued damage to the Southwestern crop by rains and floods caused a big bulge in the American wheat markets today.

The advance was on during all of the session and there was wild scrambling on the part of shorts, to cover. All the markets showed a bulge of considerably more than a point over yesterday.

Some Duluth spring wheat was worked for export here.

Liverpool closed ½d to ¼d lower, Budapest 2⅝c higher and Berlin unchanged from yesterday.

The July option closed 1⅜c higher in Duluth, 1⅜-1½c higher in Chicago, 1⅜c higher in Minneapolis, 1½c higher in New York, 1⅝c higher in St. Louis, 1¾-⅞c higher in Kansas City and 1½-⅝c higher than Saturday in Winnipeg. The September option closed 2¼c higher in Duluth, 2⅛-2¼c higher in Chicago, 1¾-⅞c higher in Minneapolis, 1⅞c higher in New York and 2c higher in Kansas City. The closing on September was not received from St. Louis. October wheat closed 1½c higher than Saturday in Winnipeg.

July corn closed 2-⅞c higher in Chicago and ½d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed ⅛-⅜c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—There was a steady opening to the speculative wheat market and values were ½d higher. Offerings were light and support good owing to the firmness in the American markets yesterday. Damage reports from Kansas, Roumania damage by drought and covering of shorts. Later however, pressure developed and most of this advance was lost. Weakness resulted from later reports which stated that rains had fallen in both Roumania and Hungary. At mid-day, the market was easier and ½d lower than Monday.

"Corn steady and unchanged at the opening, later the market declined in sympathy with the late easiness in wheat and a poor spot trade."

Car receipts at Duluth were 75 against 137 last year, and at Minneapolis 86 against 225 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 161 against 370 last year. Chicago received 86 against 91 last year. Winnipeg received 181 against 800 last year (3 days.)

Primary receipts of wheat were 417,000 bus, last year 388,000 bus. Shipments 307,000 bus, last year 212,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 186,000 bus.

The visible supply of wheat decreased 2,415,000 bus, and is now 24,062,000 bus, against 30,570,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 651,000 bus, last year 670,000 bus. Shipments 271,000 bus, last year 541,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 23,000 bus.

The visible supply of corn decreased 473,000 bus, and is now 3,702,000 bus, against 5,238,000 bus last year.

Wheat was active during most of the session in Duluth. May wheat was inactive and closed 1¾c higher than yesterday at $1.09 b.d. July wheat opened unchanged at $1.07¼, advanced to $1.09¾ and closed at $1.09, a gain of 1¾c over yesterday. September wheat opened 1½c lower at 92¾c, advanced to 95c and closed there, a gain of 2⅛c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c higher and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2c over May for No. 1 northern.

Flax was quite active and closed stronger. May flax was inactive and closed ¼c higher than yesterday at $1.23 nominal. July flax opened ¼c lower at $1.23½, advanced to $1.24⅝ and closed at $1.24½, a gain of ⅝c over yesterday. September flax sold at $1.24¾ and closed at $1.24, a gain of ⅛c over yesterday. October flax sold at $1.22¾ and closed unchanged from yesterday at $1.22½.

Coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Easy Foreign Tone and Favorable Weather Causes Weakness in Wheat

Chicago, May 26.—The wheat market was weak at the opening today, because of an easy tone at Liverpool in the face of yesterday's advance here. The generally favorable weather in this country was also a bearish factor. July wheat opened ⅛@¼c to ¼@⅜c lower at 90⅝@90¾c, sold at 90⅝c and then advanced to 90¾@91c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 247 cars against 301 cars last week and 421 cars one year ago.

The market became strong in the latter half of the day, because of the bulge in corn. July sold up to 92⅞c. The close was strong, with July up 1⅝c at 92⅝c.

The corn market was generally strong. The May option was very erratic, selling over a range of 2½c within the first half hour. Continued rains in the corn belt, which are interfering with farm work were a bullish factor. May corn opened ¼c lower, at 74½c and in the early trading sold between 73½@76c. July corn opened ⅛@⅜c lower, at 66@66¾c, and sold at 66¾@67⅜c. Local receipts were 440 cars, with 155 of contract grade.

Sentiment became extremely bullish in the latter part of the session. The bull leader, who has been represented as having a "corner" on the May delivery, was credited with a statement to the effect that corn is going "much higher." The price of the May option advanced 5c to 75⅞c, while July sold up to 68⅞c. The close was strong, with May 4⅛c higher at 75⅞c, and July up 2@2⅛c at 68¾@68⅞c.

The oats market was dull and steady. July oats opened a shade lower at 47¼c and sold at 47⅜c. Local receipts were 222 cars.

A weak market for live hogs had a depressing effect on provisions, but prices were not materially changed. July pork was unchanged at $18.57½. Lard was 2½c higher at $8.45. Ribs were a shade lower, at $7.32½@7.35.

Close: Wheat—May, $1.04¾; July, 92¼c; September, 89⅝c; December, 99½c. Corn—May, 75⅞c; July, 68¼@68¾c; September, 66⅝c; December, 57½c. Oats—May, old, 55¾c; May, 55c; July, old, 47⅝c; July, 45c@45¾c; September, 38¾c. Pork—May, $13.70; July, $13.75; September, $14.00. Lard—May, $8.42½; July, $8.55; September, $8.70@8.72½. Ribs—May, $7.27½; July, $7.42½; September, $7.65. Rye—Cash, 81c. Barley—Cash, 61@65c. Timothy—September, $4.00. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, $1.02@1.04; No. 3 red, 95@98c. No. 2 hard, $1.01@1.05; No. 3 hard, 95c@$1.02; No. 3 spring, 95c@$1.07; others, nothing doing. Corn—No. 3, 73½@74c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Light Receipts and Decreasing Stocks Gives Wheat Strength.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—Light receipts and decreasing stocks made local strength today, the elevators having lost 225,000 bus of wheat so far this week, while only 86 cars came in against 223 a year ago. Duluth got 75 against 137. The visible decrease of 2,415,000 bus was a strong feature. Local firms had messages from Indiana and the Ohio valley predicting an early winter wheat harvest, but there were other messages from Missouri and Kansas that were very unfavorable for crops. The market was strong throughout and July advanced quickly on any buying. At $1.08 there were considerable selling, but the market fell back only ¾c and was strong in tone at the close. July opened $1.06¾, high $1.08, low $1.06⅝, close $1.07¾@⅞. September closed 92¾c, May $1.09. The cash wheat market took on greater strength and No. 1 northern sold at 3½c over July early, going shortly to 4c over and holding at that premium. No. 2 northern sold at 1½@2c over and later was quoted firm at 2c over. No. 1 northern closed at $1.11, spot $1.10½ to arrive, No. 2 northern $1.09, spot $1.05½ to arrive.

No. 3 wheat, $1.02¾@1.06¾; No. 3 yellow No. 2 wheat, $1.03½@1.06¾; No. 3 yellow corn, 70¾@71¼c; No. 3 white oats, 50⅞@51¼c; No. 2 rye, 78¾@79¾c.

Barley was in light supply, only eight cars coming in, but the market was weak and lower and quotably several cents off. At the close the range of 50c to 62c was posted, which are the lowest figures that have appeared so far this year.

Flax after selling at 1¼c over Duluth July yesterday and 2c over to arrive, was firm today, at 1¼c over, with good demand. Close, $1.25¾.

Bran in bulk, quoted by millers at $21.75@22.00, but brokers are quoting lower at $21.50@21.50.

Despite the advance in wheat, millers quoted flour unchanged, because business they feared might be checked by a price advance. If wheat remains at present levels, flour will go up. Trade was moderate early in the day, but later some better sales were reported. Shipments light at 27,512 barrels. First patents, $5.45@5.60; second patents, $5.30@5.45; first clears, $4.25@4.35; second clears, $3.55@3.65.

THROUGH WITH PATRIOTISM.

Harper's: At a recent meeting of Spanish war veterans, one member who saw service in Cuba told an amusing story wherein a volunteer soldier was the principal figure.

This man's regiment had been wading through many weary miles of soft, sticky mud for the greater part of the day. When the officer in command of all the forces approached, the men were drawn up somewhat quickly to salute him. In the midst of this floundering movement one of the men was thrown violently into the black and sticky mass.

In a few minutes he crawled to his feet, a woebegone spectacle, his face smeared to the complexion of a negro.

"Are you hurt, my man?" an officer asked him.

"No," replied the soldier, in a tone of the utmost disgust. "I ain't hurt, but if ever I love a country agin you can kick me!"

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Started Lower, Recovered, But Soon Fell Off Again.

Closed Weak and Active at Lowest Prices of Session.

New York, May 26.—The stock market opened today quieter than for many days past. Dealings were small and price changes were narrow and mixed. St. Paul and Anaconda declined ¾. Beyond those the changes were trivial.

The tone of the market slowly improved so that the opening losses were all recovered and fractional gains established for some of the leaders.

St. Paul fell back 2⅛ below last night and Union Pacific and Reading 1¼. The movement of these stocks dominated the market and declines of a point or more were made in other active stocks in sympathy. Light selling was sufficient to produce this effect. Bonds were irregular.

The market began to mend again, but the recovery fell considerably short of yesterday's prices and ceased before 1 o'clock, despite the strength of a few individual stocks.

The market closed weak and active at the lowest prices. There was a renewed outpouring of stocks in the final hour to the accompaniment of crop damage reports. St. Paul was forced 3⅜ under last night, and Union Pacific 3⅜. Otherwise all active speculative stocks suffered equally with the grangers.

Stock Gossip.

Miller, New York, to M. W. Lee & Co.: The market is a very professional affair. A Broadway house very active in the market last week just went in and sold down Union Pacific. At the same time, a well-known three and a shilling broker sold St. Paul.

Of real news there is none.

CHALKING UP A RACE.

Judge's Library: Two Irishmen were about to run a race to a certain tree by different routes. Suddenly Mike slapped Pat on the back and asked how they were to tell who reached the destination first. After a moment's thought, Pat answered:

"I tell yez, Mike, if I get there first I'll make a mark on that tree with this chalk, and if you get there first, you can rub it out."

The man that needs a job

In Duluth, first looks under the help wanted in The Herald. That generally gets him what he's after. If not, however, he tries an ad for himself under "Situations Wanted"—and one way or the other, it's a 10 to 1 shot, he lands the job.

This is a tip for you if you're looking for "help" —or for a job.

TWENTY-SIXTH YEAR. SPECIAL MAIL EDITION FOR THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 28, 1908. TWO CENTS.

BURIED FOR A CENTURY

Body of New York's First Governor Disinterred at Washington.

The Services Marked by an Unusual Military Display.

Washington, May 27.—After resting for four years less than a century in the Congressional cemetery in this city, the body of George Clinton, once major general in the Revolutionary army, first governor of New York and a former vice-president of the United States, was today removed to New York city on his way to Kingston, N. Y., for final interment.

Not since the death of President McKinley has a funeral been marked with such elaborate military honors. The remains were escorted from the cemetery to the union station by military patriotic civic and commercial organizations, representatives of the state of New York and descendants of Governor Clinton. For the first time in the history of military funerals, at the request of the war department, women participated in the ceremonies incident to the disinterment. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff, U. S. A., was chief marshal of the procession and the escort included a representative of the president of the United States and the commissioners of the District of Columbia.

A guard of honor composed of regular troops in command of First Lieut. H. F. Spurgin of the coast artillery, and a special committee of Kingston citizens, Former Judge Clearwater, Maj. Charles H. Everett, Herbert Carl, S. D. Coynendall, B. M. Rink and D. J. Atkins, accompanied the body to New York city.

The troops assembled at the cemetery, and after receiving the casket, the command marched with it to the union station, where it was received by representatives of various patriotic societies of women. On completion of this ceremony the casket was redelivered to the guard of honor. As the body was carried from the spot

NO LIQUOR IN AUDITORIUM

Democratic Committee Refuses to Let Concessions for a Bar.

Denver, Colo., May 27.—There will be no liquor sold in the convention auditorium in Denver, where the national Democratic convention meets in July. Application was made to the committee on arrangements in charge of the convention for a concession for a bar in a section of the auditorium, which is near the committee rooms and some distance from the assembly hall, where the delegates will meet. A large sum was offered for this consession by several firms experienced in catering at conventions, but the committee unanimously voted to refuse any concession for a bar or other means of selling liquor on the auditorium premises.

The committee further decided not to attempt to secure any revenue from the auditorium while the convention is in session and that all concessions, of whatever kind, would be refused. This includes selling of refreshments, cigars, etc., in and around the convention hall.

The nearest licensed saloon to the convention auditorium is one block away. Refreshments stands for non-intoxicating drinks will be permitted closer to the convention, some of them being located across the street. No bars of a temporary nature will be allowed nearer the building, however, than those at present in operation.

IOWA'S FIGHT NEARING END

Cummins Men Say They Will Win by 25,000 Majority.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 27.—Iowa is flooded with oratory this week. In all sections of the state the spellbinder is busy. It is the last chance preceding the June primaries, which are to be held a week from today.

Orators in southern Iowa report the interest in the Cummins-Allison senatorial fight as the greatest since the famous free-silver campaign in 1896. This is largely due to the fact that Southern Iowa has been more completely stirred up by the governor and his friends than ever before. It has always been conceded to the standpatters, but this year the governor determined to have a share, and those who are familiar, say he will get it.

Estimates, as furnished by the progressives give the governor a majority of 25,000, which is the governor's own estimate, too. These figures give the governor the third district by 500, the fourth by 5,000, seventh by 6,000; tenth by 12,000 and eleventh by 8,000; total, 31,500. To Allison, the first by 2,000, second by 500, sixth by 500, eighth by 1,500, ninth by 1,500; total, 6,000.

The standpatters claim the state by the first by 6,000; second, 4,000; third, 4,000; fifth, 4,000; sixth, 5,000; eighth, 5,000; ninth, 4,000. To Cummins, fourth, 1,000; seventh, 2,000; tenth, 10,000; eleventh, 5,600. Totals, Allison, 31,000; Cummins, 18,600.

Several bets have been made, one firm at Sioux City putting up $1,000 on Cummins against a firm in Dubuque. Some bets are also being made between Des Moines and Dubuque men that Allison will get a bigger majority in Dubuque county than Cummins gets in Polk.

PERKINS WAS SHREWD IN CONTRIBUTING TO BRYAN'S DEFEAT, SAYS W. T. JEROME

ADMIRAL CROWNINSHIELD, Well Know Naval Officer, Who Is Dead at Philadelphia.

District Attorney Answers Charges Brought Against Him.

Says He Was Elected to Exercise His Own Judgment.

Says Proceedings Against Him Are Flimsy and Mendacious.

Elizabethtown, N. Y., May 27.—District Attorney William T. Jerome of New York county was the central figure in the final proceedings here before Commissioner Hand, appointed by Governor Hughes to hear testimony in connection with the charges of dereliction in the performance of the district attorney's official duties, made by William A. King and others of New York city.

Mr. Jerome began his summing up after the filing of a brief by Franklin Pierce, attorney for the complainants. The district attorney presented no brief in his own behalf, but it is understood that he will file one for Commissioner Hand's personal use at the end of the hearing. The district at-

FOREIGN MISSIONS

Presbyterians Hear Reports and Discuss Work of Past Year.

More Money Contributed Than in Any Previous Year.

Kansas City, May 27.—Foreign missionary work was reported on and discussed at the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America today. Great progress in this field of evangelism was made according to the report of the foreign mission board. Not only has the work prospered by the great number of new communicants added to the rolls of the church, but it was shown that the natives in many foreign fields were contributing sums of money large enough to make many of the missionaries self-supporting.

UNION WITH THE PRESBYTERIANS

Not Seriously Considered by the United Presbyterians.

Pittsburg, May 27.—With plans perfected for the most important gathering in the history of the United Presbyterian church, the general conference and semi-centennial celebration of that denomination convened in this city today. Hundreds of delegates from all parts of North America are in attendance.

Concerning union by the United Presbyterian church with the Presbyterian denomination, Rev. Dr. J. D. Sands of the board of publication, said today:

"An exaggerated idea of the condition of affairs with reference to this question has gone the rounds, mainly through the efforts of people on the other side of the fence, because last year, in answer to the proposition of union made by the Presbyterian church, we appointed a committee to act in conjunction with theirs on the matter of closer relations between the two bodies.

"The idea of union did not strongly enter into the minds of the delegates when we took this action. We do not contemplate organic union with the Presbyterian church. We can stand alone. The sole purpose of our committee to devise plans by which we could work with the Presbyterian church along certain lines common to the two denominations, for the best interests of the bodies."

SHE COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Coroner's Jury Disposes of the Hortonville, Wis., Case.

Appleton, Wis., May 27.—The coroner's jury last night returned a verdict that Mrs. Carrie Shaw of Hortonville, Wis., whose body was found in a mill pond a week ago, met her death by suicide.

SUM OF $37,572 IS MISSING AT FRISCO.

San Francisco, May 27.—It is reported that the sum of $37,572, representing taxes paid under protest in 1903 by the United Railroads is missing, presumably from the city and county treasury.

The sum represents the difference between the valuation placed on the holdings of the United Railroads by the state board of equalization and the assessment of City and County Assessor Washington Dodge, and which has been in litigation.

Judge Sewell decided the case in favor of the city and was upheld by the supreme court. The alleged shortage is said to have been made when the remitter was handed down.

The finance committee of the board of supervisors will commence an investigation of the matter tomorrow.

A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

Starts Bad Fire in Chicago, Causing Loss of $100,000.

One Man Fatally Hurt and Two Others Badly Injured.

Chicago, May 27.—One man was probably fatally injured, two others were seriously hurt and many families were driven to the street by a fire which, early today, destroyed the $100,000 plant of the Standard Sash & Door company. Two men, who gave their names as Victor Altman and Joseph Brown, were arrested near the scene on suspicion of having set fire to the building.

The fire started with a terriffice explosion in the basement and the flames spread so rapidly that a general alarm was sent in. Immense piles of lumber, which surrounded the burning building, were soon enveloped in flames, which threatened to spread to a number of adjoining cottages. Several explosions of less force than the one which started the fire occurred at frequent intervals and rendered the work of the firemen extremely hazardous. It is believed these explosions were caused by large quantities of paint stored in the building. After the fire had been in progress about two hours the front and rear walls collapsed. Charles Teitz, a pipeman, was struck by falling bricks and suffered injuries which necessitated his removal to a hospital.

OFFICIOUS POLICEMEN

Fire on Respectable Minneapolis Citizen With a Suitcase.

Minneapolis, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Minneapolis man has learned, through nerve racking experience, that it is very suspicious in the eyes of the law to be seen in the residence district with a suit case. He started out last night from his home with an empty suit case, intending to go to the house of a friend to get some books, the suit case being for the purpose of carrying the books home.

While he was wending his home friendward, Detectives Crummey and Jonson, who were cruising around in the neighborhood of Franklin and Nicollet avenues, spied the man with the suit case, and called upon him to halt. Thinking that he was about to be held-up, the man with the suit case started to run, and the detectives, persuaded that their man was really a criminal, opened fire on him with their revolvers. The chased him up to the steps of his friend's house and there captured him.

Explanations were soon made and the man turned loose with the warning not to skulk through the residence district again with a suit case in his hand.

WOMAN HAD ON MAN'S CLOTHES

Couple Arrested in Chicago Were on Their Wedding Trip.

Chicago, May 27.—Max J. Bender of New York and a woman, whom he claims is his wife, and who was attired in the garb of a man, were arrested here today. They were discovered in a box-car on the tracks of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad by railroad employes, who immediately summoned the police. The woman had cut off her hair and had the braid in one of the pockets of her coat. When questioned by the police, Bender said they were married in New York, May 18, and that they were on their honeymoon trip to South Dakota, where they expected to establish their home. He said they had no money and were compelled to resort to the box-car for transportation. He said they left New York the night of their wedding. The couple will be held pending an investigation.

PRESIDENT OF MARINE LEAGUE, OFFENDED AT BURTON, HAS RESIGNED

H. D. Goulder Sharply Criticises Ohio Congressman.

Says He Kept Mail Bill From Going Through the House.

Would Not Consider the Wishes of President and Others.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 27.—Harvey D. Goulder has resigned as president of the Merchant Marine league, in a letter which has been sent to the members of the league. The letter in part, is as follows:

"We have done very good work in aid of the effort of Senator Gallinger and the ocean mail bill, which, on a test vote, received the support of the senate by 4 to 1, and would have gone through the house had it not been for the refusal of Mr. Burton, the congressman from this district, to consider the wishes of the president the members of his cabinet, nearly all of his Republican associates in both houses of congress, his constitutents in this district and the declaration of his party as made in national and state conventions, and his unusual method of affiliating with political opponents and thus securing the aid of Democrats in the house to defeat a measure so urgently demanded by those business interests of the country which desire the extension of our trade with foreign countries.

"For the new president of the league I bespeak your earnst effort, pledging myself to give every aid I can. My withdrawal from the presidency is simply because I cannot give my whole time to the work as I would like to do."

DEATH MAY RECONCILE STILL ANOTHER COUPLE.

Chicago, May 26.—Donald O. Martin, who, on a charge of abandoning a pretty bride in Chicago, was arrested in New York as he was about to sail on the steamship Carpathia for Europe to become an art student, was reconciled to his young wife last evening just previous to her death.

It is not unlikely that another reconciliation will follow young Mrs. Martin's death. Her father and mother are divorced. Hearing of his daughter's illness, the father, Fred Lively arrived last night at the family home from Springfield, Ill., his first visit in many years.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 27.—At the point of revolvers, two men held up a Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway freight train, within the city, today, while four companions robbed a car of merchandise. The men boarded the train in the yards. Two went forward and stopped the engine. Two yard detectives were aboard the train, but knew nothing of the robbery until the engineer brought the train to a stop, under orders of the robbers. The detectives opened fire on the robbers, but all escaped. No one was injured.

As she was being led back to the cell department she cried out in the court room: "I would rather go to jail than go to hell."

HOGS DIG UP BONES ON GUNNESS FARM.

Laporte, Ind. May 27.—Several hogs wallowing in the pond at the edge of a lot on the Gunness farm, near here, this morning, brought up a bone of a human arm. The finding of the bone has convinced Sheriff Smutzer that other bodies have been buried beneath the mud at the bottom of the pond. The entire shore will be gone over with long rakes, in an effort to bring any bodies the water may have secreted to the surface.

THE MINE IS WORTHLESS

Amador Mining & Development Company Comes to End.

Over $650,000 Sunk in Valueless Montana Property.

Chicago, May 27.—The Tribune today says: "It became known, yesterday, that the Amador Mining & Development Company of Montana, a $10,000,000 corporation, with headquarters at Chicago, had come to an end. Letters that will be mailed today will inform 1,400 stockholders that the copper-gold mine, in which they have sunk $650,000, is worthless.

The majority of stock was owned by residents of Chicago. There are also a large number of stockholders in Pittsburg, where the company had a branch office, and in Boston. D. E. MacKinnon, secretary and general manager, organized the company and boomed the stock sales for five years. A year ago he departed to Boston, where he opened a branch office, and since that time he has spent only one day in Chicago.

Inquiries made by the stockholders committee resulted in information that Mr. MacKinnon had left Boston for some place in Maine, the exact location of which all efforts have failed to establish. The stockholders were considering a proposal to purchase MacKinnon's half-interest in the mine for $150,000. They already had paid him $2,000 for an option on the property.

The president of the company is William Surman of Carlinville, Ill. George Lill, a Chicago coal dealer, is vice president; Robert M. Mahler is treasurer, and T. D. Fuller, assistant secretary. The investigation of the mine was conducted by a committee, headed by Mr. Lill. In the six years of life of the company, it is alleged, a total of only five cars of ore was taken from the mine.

Staked Out Three Claims.

MacKinnon, who came originally from North Yakima, Wash., arrived in Chicago in 1902. The mine was located on Cedar Creek, near Amador, Missoula county, Mont., MacKinnon

FALLIERES DINES WITH LORD MAYOR

French President a Guest at the Historic Guild Hall.

London, May 27.—President Fallieres of France, who spent the greater part of this morning in receiving diplomats and representatives of English Civic society at St. James palace, drove across London this afternoon to take lunch with the lord mayor and the authorities of the city of London in the historic Guild hall. His progress from the social to the commercial center of the metropolis was marked by a continuous series of ovations from the great crowds which lined the thoroughfares through which he passed. The occasion was favored by fine weather, and the streets were bright with elaborate decorations in which the colors of the two friendly nations predominated. At Oxford Circus the procession stopped to allow the presentation of addresses from the boroughs of Marlbone and Holborn.

President Fallieres was received at the Guild hall by the prince of Wales, Sir John Charles Bell, lord mayor of London, and Lady Bell.

WIVES OUGHT TO BE SPANKED

When They Misbehave, is Opinion of a Chicago Man.

Chicago, May 27.—When Samuel W. Burdick, of the printing firm of Burdick & Co., 356 Dearborn street, now being sued by his wife for divorce on the ground of cruelty, came home one night he was seized by a certain ominous feeling as he turned in at his front gate. No pleasant odor of tyonaise potatoes and lamb stew floated out on the evening air to sustain a spirit sorely tried all days in the marts of trade.

He went into the parlor. There he found his wife at the window in moody contemplation of the vacant lot next door. In the dusk he dimly made out the figure of big sister, who had come that day for a visit.

"Why, hello, dearie, what's the matter?" he asked with desperate cheerfulness. Isn't there going to be any supper tonight?"

"No, there isn't," Mrs. Burdick replied, still intent upon the geography of the neighborhood.

"Well, dearie, why not?" he inquired soothingly.

"I'll tell you why not," Mrs. Burdick replied, with sudden animation, and she proceeded to enumerate several reasons in all of which Mr. Burdick was apparently at great fault.

"You are doing this to humiliate me," said Mr. Burdick, "and if you don't behave yourself I'll turn you over my knee and spank you like a bad-tempered child."

"I was never treated better in my life for a whole year after that," said Mr. Burdick, "and if my wife had been left alone and I had had a chance I could have managed her all right. I never laid my hand on her in anger except that one time, and I confess I did then right smartly.

"If spanking is the only way a man can maintain order and peace in his household, I think he is justified in employing that method. When a woman acts like a spoiled, unreasonable, bad-tempered child, she ought to be dealt with as such."

MATTICH IS ON TRIAL

Eli Mattich of Chisholm was placed on trial in Judge Ensign's room this morning under an indictment charging him with murder in the first degree. If convicted he will receive the extreme penalty of the law, death by hanging, the law leaving no other alternative in such cases.

Eli Mattich and David Mattich, who are no relation to each other, simply chums, were indicted by the last grand jury of being responsible for the death of a fellow countryman as a result of a boarding house scrap near the Croxton mine about six weeks ago.

It is claimed by the state that David Mattich caught the victim and held him while Eli Mattich fired at him with a revolver, the bullet striking the man near the base of the spine and penetrating his bowels and intestines. The victim was taken to the hospital, where he lingered along for three or four days before death ensued. None of the men involved in the fight, it is said, were intoxicated. The fight is said to have had a woman as the cause.

Although both men are indicted for the same offense they will be tried separately.

Capt. C. C. Teare of this city has been appointed counsel to defend Eli Mattich.

Leo A. Ball, John Brown and J. A. Sinclair, local attorneys, were appointed by Judge Ensign this morning to act as triers, to pass on the qualifications of the jurors.

The Mattich case is the first of the several murder cases to be tried during the present term of the district court.

The immediate cause of death, however, was hardening of the tissues of the body.

Mrs. Crowninshield was at the admiral's bedside when he died.

THIEVES VISIT LAKESIDE STORE

Sneak thieves entered Palmer's drug store at Lakeside yesterday afternoon and secured several checks and a considerable amount of cash from the till. The police are working on the case, but have no very tangible clues.

The robbery was a bold one, for the druggists were in the store at the time. The thieves watched their chance and entered the building when the clerks were engaged in the back part of the room. They managed to get to the till, open the drawer and extract the cash and checks without being detected in the act.

DECORATION DAY

Store Closed Saturday

in memory of the valiant dead and to decorate their graves, but wide open tomorrow and Friday to devote ourselves to the task of decorating the living men and boys of our own day with the best wearables produced in the United States.

To induce you to do your usual Saturday shopping on Friday we have selected a number of specials, strongly reinforced by two big purchases of hosiery and fancy vests which our buyer just sent up from Chicago.

Overcoats at $NINE$

This sale starts tomorrow morning. There are about 100 in the selection, chosen from our regular $12.50 to $18 garments. Top Coats, three-quarter length coats and long Raincoats, with a few Automobile Coats among them. Browns, tans and grays.

This Sale is for Thursday and Friday only.

One Pair of Sox for Nothing

THREE FOR THE PRICE OF TWO.

A special purchase of over 2,000 pairs of 50-cent hose at three for a dollar. They are not the ordinary 50-cent hose either, but the very highest grade in the newest shades, mostly browns, also blacks and grays in silk, lisle, lace and embroidered effects. Not the outlandish barber pole or stick candy colors usually sold at reduced prices, but such genteel colorings and such qualities as are sold by a good many stores for 75c per pair, just because they are good enough to bring that price.

You buy two pairs at the regular 50c price and get a third pair free of cost.

This Sock Sale starts Friday at NINE o'clock.

High Grade Vest at $1.45

A traveling man's line of samples. The cheapest in the lot would retail at $3, the highest at $8. Some of the vests are, of course, slightly soiled. They were bought for a song and will go to the tune of $1.45 with a limit of two to one customer.

Broadcloth, worsteds, flannels and mercerized novelties among them, all high-class, perfect-fitting garments in sizes 34 to 42.

Vest Sale Starts Friday morning.

FRIDAY SPECIALS IN THE CHILDREN'S SECTION

Boys' Gloves at 23c

About 75 pairs of green, brown and tan calfskin gloves —some of 'em gauntlets. Regular 50-cent values. On Friday 23 cents.

Button-Front Jerseys at 95c

These are regular $1.50 Jerseys of grey color with red or blue trimmings. Sizes 28 to 34. On Friday 95 cents.

$ NINE $ Suits in Superior

Those who were disappointed at missing the great $9 suit sale of our Duluth store might try our Superior store, where an even choicer lot of suits will go on sale tomorrow. Values $13.50 to $22.50. Superior's share of last week's purchase was swallowed up during the sale in Duluth, but our buyer went and succeeded in getting another lot.

RAILROAD BUSINESS IS GRADUALLY IMPROVING

A. M. CLELAND.

A. M. Cleland, general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific railroad, who is at the Head of the Lakes in connection with passenger business of his road, stated this morning that the passenger business was as good as could be expected, considering the general dullness in business and industrial circles.

Mr. Cleland is inclined to believe that there is even some improvement over the conditions that existed a month or two ago. He states that some slight improvement has been shown and that passenger officials look for a still further improvement in existing conditions. However, Mr. Cleland states that passenger receipts are not up to the figure reached a year ago.

The reason for this, according to Mr. Cleland, is the reduction of the passenger tariff from 3 to 2 cents. Under the present 2-cent tariff the roads are obliged to carry 50 per cent more passengers than they did under the old fare to equal the receipts under the 3-cent charge. This the roads are not doing, he says.

"The reduction in the passenger tariff has made little increase in the passenger travel on the lines of the Northern Pacific," he says. While there may have been a slight increase it does not make up the deficit caused by the fare reduction."

Mr. Cleland is not complaining, however. He is simply stating the experience his road has had under reduced fare law. It has been in effect a sufficient time to permit the passenger officials to judge of its effects upon the earning powers of the roads, and Mr. Cleland states that the roads are not earning the revenue that they did under the 3-cent fare.

"Coast travel over the Northern Pacific has been fairly heavy," says Mr. Cleland, "and this spring a number of settlers were taken to Montana, Washington and Idaho, where they are taking up farms. In Montana, what is known as the dry method of farming has resulted in the reclaiming of many acres of land that five years ago were considered absolutely worthless. The government irrigation work in the West has resulted in many settlers going there for settlement. Naturally these settlements help business, especially the business of a railroad."

Mr. Cleland stated that the conditions in the West were improving. In Seattle and other Western cities they are recovering from the financial depression that followed close upon the money stringency. Mr. Cleland expressed the opinion that the passenger business would show an improvement apace with industrial improvement, and that within the next few months passenger officials were hopeful that business would take a decided change for the better.

ECONOMY PROGRAM.

Western Roads Prepare to Reduce Operating Expenses.

Rumors have reached Duluth of a retrenchment in the expense of the operating departments of the Western railroads. There is even some intimation that the effort to reduce expenditures will extend to the reducing of wages of railway labor. This is the result of poor business on the part of the roads and is in line with the efforts of the officials to increase the freight rates.

According to the facts that have reached here, a program of rigid economy is to be begun. Every item of expense is to be reduced to the lowest possible item. Labor is to be placed upon as low a basis of expense as possible in an endeavor, says the story, to reduce the expenditures of the roads, in proportion with the reduced earning powers.

Rolling stock is at a standstill on many of the Western roads. Engines that a year ago were being used night and day are at the present time idle. Cars are idle on sidings because of lack of freight. The program that is scheduled to be placed in effect at an early date will, it is said, continue until the industrial conditions of the country are improved.

Round Trip Rate.

The Northern Pacific, the Great Northern and the Northwestern announce a round trip rate of $4.50 to St. Paul for the Shriner's convention. A large number of local shriners will attend the convention and it was for the benefit of these that the roads have made a fare and a half for the round trip.

For the Protection of Watches.

It is well to know that if a wearer of an ordinary watch approaches too near a powerful dynamo he runs the risk of having his timepiece put out of commission. Cases or shields for the protection of watches against magnetism are now on the market. The best thing known to prevent nervousness and indigestion is the daily use of a good malt tonic, such as golden grain belt beer, at meal time. Order of your nearest dealer, or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing Co.

TEAMS LEAVE FOR THE SOUTH

Winnipeg, Man., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Both Duluth and Fargo left at noon for the south, as well as the Winnipeg and Brandon teams. Brandon proved a great surprise to the fans, as the town only has a population of 21,000, and it is supporting its team well, the attendance averaging nearly as high as Winnipeg.

Infielder Coyngham, tried out by Fargo, has been released and has signed with Treherne, a provincial town.

The Winnipeg management is not toying with the outfield, and yesterday Charley Wilcox was given an unconditional release. Wilcox was a disappointment, as he failed to deliver goods in the manner expected. He is a fast man, but only an ordinary fielder. His showing with the stick was miserable and principally on this account was he let out, as nowadays outer gardeners who can sting the horschide are the ones in demand.

Luderus is slated to report at Duluth Friday, and with his coming Jack Beatty, who has been holding down the initial sack, will be moved to the outfield, taking Wilcox's place. This should materially strengthen both the fielding and batting departments and unless unforeseen incidents turn up, the Maroons at present, with the addition of Harold Bond, who is to report early next month, will be the regular team during the summer.

President J. M. Lamb left with the team today and will take a hand in the opening festivities in Duluth. Lamb will also take a jaunt to Fargo and see that everything is in smooth working order there.

DISGUSTING SCENE.

A police raid on an old shack near the old hospital at Second avenue east and Fourth street yesterday afternoon revealed a disgusting state of affairs. Mrs. Mary Matheson, 55 years old, her son, John Matheson, 29 years old, her brother, Malcolm McLeod, 40 years old, and Mrs. Margarette Campbell, 57 years old, were all locked in the city jail.

All four were drunk and carrying on in a disgraceful fashion, it is claimed. The door was open, and their actions could be observed from the street. They were arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge.

The four were arraigned in police court this morning, and all were sentenced to serve thirty days in the county jail.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION INDIGESTION.

Mr. Matt W. King of Indian River, Cheboygan county, Michigan, who has just celebrated his 60th birthday, says Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey cured him of stomach trouble which had brought on nervous prostration.

Mr. King in a recent letter wrote:—"Some years ago I was afflicted with stomach trouble, which left me a case of nervous prostration to deal with; after using your malt whiskey for two years was completely cured."

If we could only reproduce one-hundredth part of the letters we receive from suffering men and women who have been cured of different diseases and restored to perfect health by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, we know that every man and woman would take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, as prescribed. It is the greatest preventative and cure for disease ever discovered.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

Sold by druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1 per bottle. Write Dr. R. Curran, Consulting Physician, for a free illustrated medical booklet containing some of the many convincing testimonials received from grateful men and women who have been cured, and free advice. THE MINE IS WORTHLESS having staked out three claims in the neighborhood while he was practicing law at Wallace, Idaho.

The promoter opened up modest offices at first, but eventually worked up to a sumptuous suite in the Pentonic building. Two million shares of stock were issued, MacKinnon keeping 800,000 and 980,000 being sold at large. All but MacKinnon's stock finally was pooled, and the owners have been unable to dispose of it.

A few months after MacKinnon departed for Boston, Mr. Lill and other Chicago stockholders engaged F. Cushing Moore, a mining engineer at Wallace, Idaho, to make a thorough examination of the properties.

The engineer reported in a letter, dated May 4 last, that the mining property is "absolutely worthless and that further development of it would only increase the already gigantic sum standing on the debit side of the Amador account."

The engineer said that "over $500,000 had been squandered" on the property, and that the only chance of recovering any of this was in the sale of the equipment. He said the ore was commercially valueless.

In the letters which will be sent to the stockholders today by the board of directors are inclosed copies of the reports of Engineer Moore and of G. Scott Anderson & Son, another firm of engineers that examined the mine.

Virginia Council Proved to be Magnet Tuesday Evening.

Liquor License Renewal and Proposed Sewer Were Both Up.

Virginia, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council had a large audience last evening, that taxed the capacity of the city hall. A large delegation of temperance people was present to protest against issuing a renewal of the saloon license of Cohen & Mendelson, while another large crowd, who were interested in the proposed sewer system in the Second ward, was present, some to favor and some to oppose.

Alderman Mattson of the license committee, to whom the matter of issuing a license to Cohen & Mendelson had been referred, presented a voluminous typewritten report in opposition to granting the license. The law and the recent grand jury reports were quoted. The report also stated that within the past year one of the proprietors of the saloon had paid a fine for keeping the saloon open on Sunday, and also stated that on recent Sundays the saloon had been open. Attorney Martin appeared in behalf of the firm and stated their side of the case. Rev. F. G. Clark of the M. E. church, representing the temperance element, spoke in favor of the immediate closing of the saloon. Alderman Mattson moved that their license fee be returned, but there was no second. On motion of Alderman Johnson, the city attorney was instructed to look up the law in the case, and Cohen & Mendelson were cited to appear before the council at its next meeting and give reasons why license should be granted.

The petition for a trunk sewer in Wyoming avenue was presented and the city attorney instructed to prepare plans and specifications therefor. A petition signed by a portion of the residents of blocks 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 74 was presented protesting against the building of a sewer system at this time because the property owners were, many of them, poor men out of work and unable at present to stand the expense. This petition was referred back to the petitioners, as there had been no petition presented for sewers in these blocks.

The ordinance granting merchants the right to use two feet of space on the sidewalk in front of their places of business for display of goods was passed by a vote of 4 to 2, Aldermen Trezona and Mattson voting no.

A new plumbing ordinance providing that all work of this nature must be done by licensed plumbers and inspected by a city inspector and regulating what material may be used and how the work shall be done was presented and given its first reading.

Alderman Johnson of the committee on city property and buildings reported that the committee had fixed upon a location for a new pesthouse and the forty leased by the city some time ago, and the clerk was instructed to learn whether the site could be used for the purpose.

The Virginia Light & Water company was instructed to lay a water main in Spruce street, between Virginia and Central avenues. The street commissioner was instructed to furnish four men to assist the light and water company to move poles and hydrants in Wyoming avenue outside the sidewalk line, the cost to the city to be charged up to abutting property.

The sum of $200 was appropriated for the Duluth Humane society to assist it in carrying on its humane work on the ranges.

President Osborn reported that the agent of the Standard Oil company has agreed to remove its tanks and warehouse at once.

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for 1,000 feet of new hose for the fire department. The office of captain of the fire department was created and Fireman Mattson was appointed to fill the place at a salary of $65 per month. He is to have charge when the chief and assistant chief are absent. The chief was authorized to send a delegate to the firemen's state convention at Mankato and $30 was appropriated to pay the expense.

The city clerk was instructed to telegraph to Supt. D. M. Philbin of the Great Northern asking for permission to use the company's tracks to get gravel into the city from the Commodore mine.

Alderman Johnson of the Fourth ward offered his resignation, which was accepted with regret by the council. His successor will probably be named at the next meeting.

FEDERAL BUILDING SITE.

Important Matter to be Considered in Virginia Wednesday Evening.

Virginia, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The matter of selecting a site for the proposed new federal building will be one of the principal matters up for discussion by the Commercial club this evening. Two sites have been prominently mentioned—one the half block on the north side of Chestnut street between the opera house and the library, the other the half block facing the Roosevelt school. At the time this matter first came up sentiment appeared to favor the first named site and the committee appointed by the club endeavored to obtain prices from the different owners of the property. Only two responded and there is some question whether the property can be obtained. The property opposite the high school would make an ideal site, but many of the business men believe that it is too far away from the business center for a postoffice building. If Virginia grows as expected, it will not be very long, however, until this site will be close to the business district.

Previous to the business session light lunch will be served and the cigars passed.

MANY MATTERS BEFORE COUNCIL

Eveleth Law-Makers Consider Licensing of All Plumbers.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night received the following bids for hauling slops and other refuse from alleys: Sam Perrot, two teams to be used, at $220 per months during the summer months; Nelson & Lindgren, $193 per month; Albert Vandell, $225 per month; Andrew and Joe Lapinoja, $230. A resolution was passed awarding the contract to Nelson & Lindgren on drawing up of proper contract, and the filing of a bond for $1,500.

A communication was received from Mr. Evans of Two Harbors, who had been asked concerning the advisability of securing a rock crusher for the city. He states that if there is not a place near town where rock can be easily had to be crushed, a rock crusher would not pay, as it would cost something to bring the rock to the crusher. If there was rock near at hand, it would be a good thing. Some of the aldermen thought it a good idea to first start and fix up the water main, which is badly in need of repairs, and which would be very dangerous to the city in case of fire in its present condition.

Communications were read from contractors in Crookston, Duluth and Britt, Iowa, asking information so they could make estimates on the sidewalk work. Complaints have been sworn out against a number of people who persisted in throwing garbage and ashes in the alleys after it had been cleaned out by the official cleaner. Health Commissioner Gans stated that the only way to stop this practice is by arresting the offenders, and in this action he is backed by the council.

The ordinace relating to vaudeville houses was changed just before its second reading, to make the license $25 a year instead of $10 a week, as the latter figure was considered exhorbitant. The fire extinguishers will have to be three-gallon ones instead of five gallons, as was first ordered. An ordinance was read relating to the licensing of plumbers. They will have to have an established place of business and shall secure a license when they show they are capable and responsible. They will have to file a surety bond of $500. A number of limitations were put on the plumbing work in the buildings. Certain conditions relate to drainage pipes and to warning the people by red lights where they are excavating. For violations of the ordinance, there is a punishment of not more than $100 or ninety days. The ordinace committee has decided to meet Saturday afternoon to look up some important matters.

A representative from the J. I. Case Threshing Machie company explained the advantages of its steam road roller, which may be used on the main street and other necessary places. The light and water committee was instructed to investigate the matter of using a meter at the Spruce mine.

MERCHANT TURNS DETECTIVE.

Nabs Alleged Thief Trying to Sell Stolen Goods.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through the foresight of John Siegel, one of Gilbert's trustees, Theudel Ojemems of Virginia, was arrested charged with stealing some goods from the store of Mr. Steinberg. Ojemems and Henry Liepola are alleged Monday night to have secured entrance to the Steinberg place, and taken about $150 worth of goods. They then went out to the Gilbert where they arrived about 4 a. m. When Mr. Siegel opened up his place, the two men entered and tried to sell them the clothes which they had stolen. He became suspicious as the clothes were plainly not theirs. Telling them he would buy from them Siegel called up McKinley and other nearby range towns to find out if anyone's place had been entered. In Virginia he learned that the Steinberg place was robbed and he secured the arrest of Ojemems, the other man escaping in the meantime. Officer McLay was sent over to get the prisoner, who was brought back with the aid of Louis Flnn. It only took about three hours before the man was finally locked up, from the time the robbery was first found out.

MISSABE STORING YARDS

Will be Built West of Hibbing, Containing Twenty Tracks.

Hibbing, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad is said to propose putting in extensive yards, just west of town. The proposed yards will be twice as large as the Mitchell yards which last year handled a record-breaking amount of traffic.

It is said the new yards will run from the present Missabe tracks about a quarter of a mile west of the Missabe depot, south to the western addition, something more than a mile. Twenty tracks will be laid and the yards will be complete with round house, engine house, cinder house and coal docks. At the Hibbing end of the yard a big machine shop will also be erected.

The yards will run south through the western addition to Hibbing and the permanent survey for the proposed cutoff runs slightly southeast to Tivoli on the Coleraine branch of the Missabe road. The new yards with the proposed cutoff will handle all the ore from the immense Hull-Rust pit, from the Sellers pit, which is now ready to ship for the first time and which will be one of the biggest pits on the range. It is expected that in time all the ore from the Morris pit and from the other big producers of the steel corporation will also go out through the new yard and over the cutoff.

ADMIT THEIR GUILT.

Thieves Admit Taking Blankets, Also Keg of Nails.

Aurora, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A series of petty robberies have been unearthed by the arrest of Charles West, Lester Valken, John Makl and Matt Manderla, all Finlanders. The men were living in a shack, on the St. Louis river road, owned by Matt Alto.

A week ago Saturday night the men borrowed two rifles from Alto, claiming they wanted protection from the wolves on the way home. Yesterday six pairs of blankets were missed from the road gang's camp and suspicion was at once placed on the men mentioned. They were tracked across the country and arrested near Biwabik at Shank's camps. Manderla was acquitted, as the evidence against him was not sufficient to hold him. The others admitted their guilt and also confessed that they had stolen a keg of nails from the village of Aurora while the village was building the walk to the cemetery. The three men appeared before Justice Ropp yesterday and were fined $30 each or thirty days in the county jail.

The evangelistic spirit developed in the native churches, the spirit of co-operation among the many denominations in the foreign field and the unity of the different branches of the Presbyterian church in foreign missionary work were matters upon which the board laid special stress to show the happy state of this field of effort.

Best Year in History of Board.

It was shown that in spiritual results the last year had been the best in the history of the board.

The board reported that more money was contributed this year for foreign missions through the board than during any previous year in its history, the total amount, including legacies being more than $1,300,000. Of this sum churches gave $586,000, an increase of $91,000 over the preceding year. The total expenditures for the year amounted to $1,455,000. The main reason for the deficit was that while the legacies account fell off during the year, approximately $100,000 was received which had to be applied for special purposes in the foreign field by direction and instruction of its donors.

A shorter catechism, which shall be couched in simpler language than the "shorter catechism" now in use in the church, was recommended by the committee on bills and overtures. This shall be known as an intermediate catechism and a committee of six ministers and three elders, of which the moderator shall be the chairman will report on the recommendation at the next general assembly torney's argument occupied the entire day's session.

Mr. Jerome launched into a lengthy analysis of the motives which, in his belief, animated those most active in bringing and pressing these charges against him. He supported his contention that the proceedings were "flimsy and mendacious," by asking the commissioner to note, for one thing, that the complaint had not been verified, "not even on information and belief."

"I have lived all my life in the city of New York," said the district attorney, "and the sixteen best years of my life there were given to the public service. Twice I have run for office in that city and have been elected, the last time against every political party, and all alone, and I consider, sir, that I was elected to exercise my judgment in the discharge of the duties of that office, and not the judgment of irresponsible editors of yellow journals, and what they might say I ought to do."

"I consider," continued Mr. Jerome, "that the duties that were laid upon me in the office, and which I have striven to discharge, were these: To be fair and just to all persons; not to apply one law to the poor man and another to the rich man. I have stood, sir, under great pressure before that grand jury room, as a Southern sheriff has often stood before a Southern jail, when he knows that the prisoner within is guilty and worthy of punishment, but will only allow him to be punished as the law provides."

The Perkins Case.

Regarding the charge that he had refused to advise the judge to indict George W. Perkins, in the so-called $50,000 political contribution case, Mr. Jerome said: "It was perfectly plain that Bryan's election would have been followed by a shrinkage in the value of the securities of the New York Life Insurance company, of say at least 10 or 12 per cent, so that with $450,000,000 of securities this contribution by Mr. Perkins was a shrewd business move, even if it were illegal. But was it illegal? Moreover there was abundant evidence that the officials of almost every financial institution in New York city had contributed to the Republican party committee to help defeat Bryan, so that if Perkins was guilty then I had my work cut out for me good and plenty for a year or more ahead.

"I tried to get a judicial decision in the mater. Judge O'Sullivan refused to take it up and decide it.

"The judiciary of New York city was as scared as anybody in New York because there was on one hand J. Pierpont Morgan's partner, and on the other hand the yellow journals were yamming and yowling."

Mr. Jerome said there was no rule of law by which he could have brought John A. McCall's evidence before the Armstrong committee to the attention of a grand jury.

"I have been called a liar and charged with being a blood hound and many other awful things," he declared, "but there has never been even an insinuation that I have a dollar in the world except what I have received as salary."

Regading the charge that related to the $24,000 which Thomas F. Ryan received from the Metropolitan Securities company, Mr. Jerome said that "it was in 1904 when one William N. Amory came to me with a word tale against this company." It transpired about this time, he added, that several men began a bear campaign in Wall street against Metropolitan securities.

"It was," Mr. Jerome said, "important to find out the source of these bear rumors. Thomas F. Ryan spent some $24,000 of his own money for detectives and in other ways to look up the matter. Subsequently the Metropolitan Securities company repaid to Mr. Ryan this $24,000, a perfectly legitimate proceeding in my judgment."

Mr. Jerome then took up the investigation of the American Ice company. He said the January grand jury looked into the matter carefully and found no indictment and the present jury had been at it for two weeks and had as yet done nothing.

"At the most," said Mr. Jerome, "if it transpired that I erred in the 'ice trust' matter, it can only be an error of judgment on my part."

When Mr. Jerome concluded his summing up, Commissioner Hand declared the hearing adjourned until today.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Duluth is this year especially interested in the annual exhibit of the Minnesota State Art society, which is now being shown at Minnneapolis, as the exhibit will be brought to Duluth, from June 20 to July 7. It was through the effort of Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour of this city, as a member of the board from Duluth, that the annual exhibit was secured for this city. Mrs. Seymour has been deeply interested in the work of the society, and the possibilities which it controls for the development of the state, and during the last several months she has been working arduously on the committees.

The State Art society stands for three objects: To advance the interests of the fine arts in Minnesota; to develop the influence of art in education and to foster the introduction of art into manufactures of all kinds. This last feature is to be especially emphasized this year. The society is greatly in sympathy with the educational movement spreading throughout the country along art industrial lines. More and more attention is being given to the revival and encouragement of handicrafts—to the development of fireside industries. They believe that by creating and stimulating an active interest in handicrafts on the farms and in small communities, where life is lonely and dull and monotonous, the benefits resulting will be inestimable. Any one familiar with the conditions of life in the farming districts will realize the value of any work which tends to keep intelligent young men and women contented on the farms by supplying them with an interesting means of earning extra money through the exercise and development of their own individual taste and skill in spare hours.

It has been successfully demonstrated in Canada during the past five years what an immense amount of good may be done by the encouragement of this sort of work. The Canadian Handicrafts guild, which began in the smallest way possible, has the support of the government and is under the patronage of the Diminion. It is the outgrowth of an idea conceived and put into execution by one or two women, who, seeing the handiwork of some of the Canadian peasants in a remote district, became interested and resolved to do what they could to stimulate their ambition and to elevate the standard of their work by providing them with new designs and by securing a market for their products. Today it is a most flourishing institution, with a shop in Montreal, which is the depot for the receipt, sale and distribution of articles made by French, Scandinavian, Italian, Doukhobor, English, Irish and other settlers. Their work finds a ready market in England, Australia and the United States. In fact, the demand often far exceeds the supply. It covers a wide range, including linen, cotton and wool textiles, such as pirtieries, table and bed covers, motor rugs homespuns and tweeds that are the most practical and durable matetrials for clothing and are woven in the latest patterns, basketry, embroideries, laces, pottery, furniture, and so forth.

The aim of the guild is to preserve the knowledge and skill already possessed by settlers, to give them a market for good hand work, to encourage industry and thrift in the homes of the people, making their work profitable and honorable by means of exhibitions of their products and increasing contentment in their homes.

What the State Art society purposes is to appoint committees in various parts of the state who will find out the local resources and the sort of handiwork, if any, that the people may possess and to report on such. To engage by the year a state agent who will go from place to place to give instruction, furnish good designs and maintain a standard of excellence in the various crafts.

In Germany, Hungary and France this sort of work has government support. Minnesota is the only state in the Union that so far has an appropriation from the legislature for matters pertaining to art. It is by no means adequate, but it is a great step forward. The need is a greatly enlarged membership is most greatly felt, as without it the projected plans of the society cannot be carried out. The subscription is $1 a year and may be sent to Mrs. Robert Seymour, chairman of the membership committee, Temple building, Duluth.

A collection of the Canadian textiles has been presented to the society by a St. Paul man who has become interested in the project of following Canada's example in Minnesota. From the Massachusetts Institute for the Blind, in which Miss Helen Kellar is interested, is shown the exhibit designed and women for the Jamestown exhibition. From New Hampshire some Abnakee rugs made under the direction of Mrs. John Albee, who has been engaged to teach this craft in the George Washington university. From Berea there is the basketry and weaving of the Kentucky mountaineers. In the pottery exhibit are some specimens of Markham pottery, which has lately received a great deal of attention. Mr. Markham found the clay in his own yard in Ann Arbor, Mich., and by his artistic handling of it has produced some new and beautiful effects.

In this state. From New Ulm is shown some very good lace made by Bohemian women and from Faribault a collection of rugs, pillow cases and baby blankets woven on a hand loom invented by Miss Beatrice Lindberg, a young Swedish woman, whose method of weaving has been developed into an active industry by a Minneapolis society of arts and crafts.

Sewing Hints.

Always caefully pin every section of the pattern to the material before putting the scissors to the cloth.

Always baste a bias seam to a bias, or a bias to a straight one, and never attempt to sew them together without the basting, as the bias piece will invariably pull and be crooked. Sew a bias seam on a skirt from the top to the bottom, cutting off any superfluous length at the bottom. Never stretch a bias piece.

Do not stitch a skirt all in one direction. Place the bias piece on top when stitching on the machine.

Goods will shrink less if the seams here and there, particularly where a selvage edge, which forms one side of the seam, is snipped or notched.

Never stitch a plait or a garment. Baste all in shape, baste the gores together and try on before sewing one tight seam.

Never cut the folds double for a skirt, but make each one single and use a good, soft pencil and perfect paper measure for measuring such pieces.

Don't dampen silk unless you want it to look stiff. Place over it a smooth piece of thin muslin, then iron.

Do not expect any dress, skirt or coat to look neat if pressing is omitted. It is one of the chief methods of perfect sewing, too often neglected, because one trusts more to luck than good management.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Pansy plants, 35 cents a bunch.
Cauliflower, 30 cents each.
Summer squash, 15 cents each.
Green peppers, 5 cents each.
Green peas, 10 cents a qt.
Squabs, 70 cents a pair.
Beef kidneys, 10 cents each.
Calves' brains, 10 cents a set.
Cottage cheese, 12½ cents a lb.

Summer squashes and green peas are in the market. If as a cook you can prepare summer squash in such a manner that the family does not mob you at the table, then you have achieved something that is truly worth while in life. It is a temptation to buy summer squashes. They are so smooth feeling, and scalloped so nice on the edge, but it is a triumph over nature when they appear at the table in a palatable guise.

The season of green peas is almost here. That is the season when you may afford to have a peck of peas, and then eat and eat and eat.

LADIES!

Do You Remember the Famous Glove Sale We Held on April 4th? Those 16-Button Mosquetaire Gloves

There were 50 dozen of them in the lot, every pair of them worth $4.25! On Saturday night—(the first day of the sale)—when the store closed at 10 p. m., there were just 16 pairs left out of the 50 dozen! It was the greatest Glove sale ever seen in Duluth. Hundreds and hundreds of ladies tried to get more of them on the following week, but they were all gone. Since that time we have been scouring the markets of the East for a lot equally as good, and last week our New York representative located another lot of 50 dozen, which had been bought from the same firm as we had purchased ours from—but for some reason had never been shipped.

The Foster people gave us the first chance to buy this lot—and they go on sale tomorrow morning! They are Genuine Foster 16-Button Length Mosquitaire Gloves and come in black, white and all the new shades of tan. They are made of extra selected skins and are of the best French manufacture—and were they bought in the regular way they would cost us more than the price for which we are retailing them.

TOMORROW—THURSDAY—They go on sale—not a pair of them worth less than $4.25. Indeed they would be considered cheap in some stores at $4.50—

Scrawny Arms and Neck Repel. Plumpness Assured This Way.

Madame Moneaux, deceased beauty specialist of New York, long possessed the greatest of all secrets pertaining to feminine charm. And what is this great secret, so much desired by women—the secret that has made a vast fortune for the madam's heirs, and that brought her all the famous actresses and society leaders for patrons?

"What, you don't know?"

It is a simple, but sure method of developing the bust, arms and neck of women, who, through defect of nutrition and circulation, are humiliated by undeveloped arms, neck and bust. The treatment consists of applying a powerful but harmless nerve-stimulant to the cells of the skin, to be absorbed and utilized as nourishment to the flesh cells and tissues. Beautiful changes are wrought. Ugly, deformed women are developed into charming personages, with well-rounded arms and neck and full normal bust of exquisite curve and proportion so much admired in our great actresses and society leaders. Any leading druggist will supply the ingredients to mix at home, and as they are used for various prescriptions no one need be the wiser as to what they are to be used for, which is as it should be for modest womanhood. Get separately "two ounces glycerine," "three ounces Rose Water" and "one ounce Tincture Cadomene" and 5 cents worth of borax. Take home, mix the glycerine with Tincture Cadomene, shake and let stand two hours; then add a teaspoonful of borax and the rose water. Shake well and apply to the neck, arms and bust, rubbing and massaging until completely absorbed; then wash thoroughly with hot water and soap and dry thoroughly. Apply morning and night regularly for several weeks and the most beautiful development will begin to reward the efforts. It is believed by experts to be the most necessary and effective prescription ever conceived.

This is worth keeping, if not for yourself, for some dear friend who needs it.

INGENUITY IS NEEDED

City Assessor's Path is Not an Easy One to Tread.

Fine for Man With Sense of Humor, However.

A man with a vein of humor in his makeup can get a lot of fun out of the job of city assessor. Some of the events coming up in the course of his duties do not appear exactly funny to him at the time they occur, but he can see the humor of them afterwards. Nearly twenty assessors are now making the rounds of Duluth, telling people how much they will have to pay in taxes. There are a good many persons who do not like to pay taxes, and who consider that they have a right to evade such payment wherever and whenever possible.

There are very few individuals, in fact, who will honestly tell the assessor of everything they have which is assessable. They feel that if they give him a list of considerable length, they are doing all that is required. They know that other people are evading their taxes, and seem to think it isn't fair that they should be made to pay when others are not coming to the front in the way expected of them. The city employes know this to be a fact, and so exercise their own ingenuity where they have reason to suspect the list of values given them is not a correct one.

All sort of devises are resorted to to escape the assessor. One woman in the West end had a visit from the assessor, and immediately afterward telephoned a friend a full description of the man, telling her to be on the lookout for him. When he put in an appearance at the second house, he found two savage looking dogs in the yard, and they would not let him come inside the gate. The curtains were down in the house, and to all appearances there was no one at home. He called around later in the day, with the same results. Next day, quite early in the morning, he caught the woman unawares, and succeeded in accomplishing the object of his visit.

Valuations of pianos come in for a good deal of dispute between the assessors and the owners. An instrument that a woman proudly boasts to neighbors of having paid $500 for, she tells the assessor the price was $175. It is the same with other articles. The valuation is very often placed far lower than it should be, and the assessor has to be something of an expert in values if he wishes to do his full duty by the city. Articles of personal adornment, of course are easily hidden, and it is difficult to collect taxes on them if the owner is dishonest enough to wish to keep them out of sight. Horses, cows, automobiles, carriages, etc., also come in for remarkably low valuations, if the owners have their way. It is said that a good many people, when they think the assessor is due, send their cows into the country for an airing, and the horses are occasionally given the same treatment.

One bright individual employed to place valuations of property in a certain district played a mean trick on a woman in the central portion of the city. He did it largely as a experiment, and it worked out successfully. He puts up a very good appearance, and is a good talker. When the time the lady of the house at the door he told her he was there to read the gas meter. She conducted him to it, and, after pretending to read it, expressed surprise that it registered so high. He told her the figures, and she also seemed surprised. He said there must be a mistake somewhere, and expressed the conclusion that the meter was out of order.

She was greatly delighted at this decision, and said she agreed with him. He thought it wouldn't be fair to charge her as high as the figures would indicate, under the circumstances, and said the bill would be cut in half, which was a bigger cut than the figures, high as they seemed, warranted. In this manner he engaged the confidence of the woman, and soon was in the midst of a friendly chat, during the course of which he turned the talk to the piano, remarking what a remarkably fine instrument it was. By degrees he got her enthusiasm worked up, and switching from subject to subject, and working on her vanity he soon had the correct value of nearly everything taxable about the premises. Whenever opportunity offered, he made notes, and after his list was as complete as he desired, he announced that he was an assessor, in addition to his other duties. The woman's reception of this information is easily imagined. The assessor's friendly call came to an abrupt end. He was so delighted with the plan, that he tried the next day, but again the telephone had been busy, and in every case he met with a frigid reception, so the plan had to be abandoned.

FEATHERED WILD LIFE

Great Factor in Conserving Land, Water and Forest Resourses.

Bird Life Protected Prime Move to Keep Nation's Wealth.

New York, May 27.—That no factor in the problem of conserving the land, water and forest resources of this nation equals that which nature has provided in the feathered wild life of the continent is the opinion expressed by leading ornithologists in this city today. Following the conference of governors in Washington, officers of the National Association of Audubon Societies have decided to offer the cooperation of their organization in this great work, in pushing which the association has been the pioneer and only active organization ever since its incorporation. Although the workers for bird preservation were not represented at the gubernatorial conclave at the White House, government authorities have assured them that the protection of the insect eaters that insure life to crops, woods and waterways should be one of the first practical means to the general end.

The Bird Guard.

Crops flourish and forests stand to conserve land and water largely through the activities of the existing bird guard that ceaselessly fights their natural destroyers, the investigators of the government point out. With a known loss of over $800,000,000 to the crops of the country last year due to killing off their guardian flocks, the corresponding effect on woods and waters may be reckoned in the billions of dollars, the Audubon workers declare. Uniform laws for bird protection, if adopted by the states, would go far to ward off these growing inroads of insects and other pests, they say, and this might well be the first step to be taken following the deliberations of the house of governors.

While the value of the birds to the farmer, orchardist and planter has for years been recognized, it is believed by the authorities that their importance in preserving the forests is not generally known. According to a recent report of the government, insects alone cause an annual loss to the trees of the country estimated at over a hundred million dollars. On the oak alone 400 species of insects which are sought and consumed by the birds of the forest, prey constantly, the experts of the biological survey have discovered. On the willow 136 such species constantly attempt its destruction, on the pine 165, on the hickory 170, on the birch 105 and on the elm 80. Careful analysis of the stomachs of thousands of woodpeckers, titmice, creepers, kinglets, wood warblers, wrens, fly catchers, swallows, nut hatches and other birds of the woods show that their constant labor is to consume just these devastating insects.

Harmful Animal Life.

Ranked next to the insect, which is the chief enemy of the forests, are destructive vegetable growths and the attacks of mice, wood rats, rabbits and other small animals. Careful analysis of their food shows that many species of wood birds make away with the unwholesome vegetable matter. Hawks, owls and other large birds of prey are constantly on the watch to check the inroads of the harmful animal life about the trees. Robins and other feathered races have been shown to be the greatest natural agency in distributing seed far and wide and causing the forests to thicken and expand, ornithologists asserted here today.

"As a national asset and resource, the life and labors of the birds comes clearly within the scope of the declaration of principles of the governors' conference," said William Dutcher, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies at its headquarters, 151 Broadway, today. "We agree with this distinguished body that 'this conservation of our natural resources is a subject of transcendent importance, which should engage unremittingly the attention of the nation, the states and the people in earnest co-operation.' For years we have labored, practically alone in the field, to force the nation to see the prime conserving force of its bird life on the crops, woods and waters. That we shall keep up this unflagging fight the leaders of this national movement may be assured. If the governors would work for uniform laws for bird protection I feel sure they would find no better means of forwarding the great work which they have undertaken."

GRANDEE OF SPAIN

Is Suitor for the Hand of Miss Matilda Townsend.

Washington, May 27.—Another famous duke is about to arrive in America on an errand no less romantic than that which recently brought the duke of the Abruzzi, whose marriage to Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of the West Virginia senator, is expected to take place in October.

It is reported that the Duke d'Albe of Spain for two summers has been in the train of Miss Mathilda Townsend's admirers, during the latter's tour of Europe, and that he will soon be here to claim his bride. He is expected in August in Colorado, where he will hunt with the duke of Westminster in the Rockies.

Last autumn, it is rumored, d'Albe sent his representative to America to open negotiations with Mrs. Townsend for the hand of her daughter, and that on his return to Spain he advised against the match.

For the first time in years Mrs. Townsend has decided to pass the summer in America, and will establish herself at Bar Harbor in June, where she has taken one of the handsomest and largest houses on the Island of Mount Desert, and where she expects to entertain the duke and his friend.

The Duke d'Albe, although a graduate of Spain, has lived most of his life in Paris, where, three years ago, he was presented to Mrs. Townsend by Senor Don Juan Riano, former charge d'affaires of the Spanish legation at Washington, but now King Alfonso's minister to Denmark.

INNOCENT MAN

Is Released From Prison After Serving Eighteen Months.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 27.—J. C. White of Detroit, Mich., 56 years old, sentenced to the Western penitentiary for five years on a charge of forgery, has been released after serving one and a half years.

White had never been in Greensburg, where he was supposed to have committed the crime, until he was taken there and tried in the fall of 1906. The man who really committed the forgery to a deed for property is a well-known criminal and the exact counterpart of White.

White owes his exoneration and pardon by Governor Stuart to the work of Detective Ira L. Berry, who traveled through snow and ice to Northern Michigan to secure the proofs, which were accepted by the pardon board of Pennsylvania, showing that an innocent man had suffered eighteen months' imprisonment for a forgery perpetrated by his double, James Riley, well known by the police of many cities as an expert swindler and man of many aliases. Riley's location is unknown.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Is Now Proposed by the Premier of Great Britain.

London, May 27.—The position of the Liberals has been strengthened by the recent elections, and the premier is trying to gain the support of the working classes without repelling the moderate Liberals. He has proposed a democratic reform bill, with woman suffrage drafted upon it, as a final work to present to parliament, and as this will be thrown out by the lords unless accompanied by a scheme for a redistribution of seats, general elections cannot be expected before the autumn of 1910 or the spring following. It is believed that Mr. Asquith's aim is to divert attention from tariff reform to woman suffrage.

Adult suffrage for both sexes will be a paramount issue if the elections follow the passage of the reform bill by the commons and the rejection of that measure by the lords.

Neither the free-traders nor the tariff reformers like the prospect, for their own issue is likely to go astray.

A humorous feature of the Liberal program is the fact that Mr. Asquith, who has surrendered to the suffragettes, is not a convert to their cause, whereas Mr. Balfour, who may be called upon to oppose them, had always been in sympathy with them. Mr. Asquith has imposed one restriction upon the movement—namely, that it shall have the overwhelming approval of the women of the country. This challenge has been promptly accepted.

The suffrage leaders are determined to make themselves more unmanageable than ever, and also to conduct the agitation throughout the kingdom along broader lines, with suffrage Saturdays and suffrage Sundays, and with what Winston Churchill once described as "henpecking," systematically carried out until there are votes for women.

THEY MUST BE HARDY.

Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture referred at a recent dinner in Washington to the amateur florists who spring up in the suburbs at this season by thousands.

"More florists, perhaps, than flowers spring up," he said.

"In a seed shop the other day I heard one of these amateurs complain about the last batch of seeds he had bought. After he had ended his complaint he began to ask floral questions.

"'Oh, by the way,' he said, 'what is a hardy rose?'

"'It is one,' growled the dealer, 'that doesn't mind your wife pulling it up by the roots every day to see if it has begun to grow yet.'"

Nature is the best doctor

Nothing so strengthening and sustaining in all kinds of weather—outdoors or indoors—as the whole wheat when it is properly prepared for the stomach.

"FORCE"

is the food that gives the maximum of strength with the least tax upon the digestive organs. "FORCE" is the "predigested energy" of wheat and barley. Try it for breakfast.

"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam-cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "crisp" it before serving it by pouring into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.

Your Grocer sells it. No other Flaked Food is "Just as Good."

THE WAY TO FIGHT IT.

New York now has a law, which was passed by the legislature in its special session and has been signed by Governor Hughes, that points the way—and the only way—for the effective fight against tuberculosis that it is the solemn duty of this country to make.

The new law declares tuberculosis to be a communicable and infectious disease, and puts it under the same restrictions as are other diseases recognized as contagious.

In many other states, including Minnesota, it has lately become the practice of health authorities to act upon this assumption, and to make their rules accordingly, so far as the existing laws will permit. But New York has taken the only right way by officially placing tuberculosis in the same deadly roll as diphtheria, scarlet fever and smallpox. It belongs there, and it should have been put there long ago in every state of the Union.

Hereafter, in New York, physicians who fail to report cases of tuberculosis to the health authorities will be subject to the same penalties that they would if they failed to report diphtheria. However, there is this difference in New York: that the registration records are protected from inspection, so that the name of the victim will not be made public. Otherwise, the proceedings in the case of a consumptive are to be practically the same as in that of a diphtheritic patient, except that the quarantine is not so broad. Rigid care of the sputum of the patient is of course required, and premises in which a consumptive has died must be disinfected at the cost of the city and cleaned and renovated at the cost of the owner.

Very similar tactics are pursued in other states, even though there may be no law making them compulsory. Yet there should be such laws everywhere, and they should be rigidly enforced.

The fight against consumption must proceed along lines that are now well-defined. Knowing that its germs thrive in filth and bad air, cleanliness, sanitation and ventilation must be insisted upon everywhere. Consumption riots in foul, dark places, and cleanliness and sunlight are its deadliest enemies. Care of the tuberculous patient is undertaken nowadays with two very definite aims in view: to bring about a cure by proper living conditions, and to guard against infection by proper care of the patient's associations with others.

The cause and nature of consumption being known, knowledge of the methods for its cure and prevention followed naturally, and it will be solely due to society's lack of care if, a quarter of a century hence, this dreadfully fatal and appallingly prevalent disease is not as rare as leprosy. Ultimately it can be absoutey wiped out.

CAMPAIGN FUND PUBLICITY.

The president has repeatedly asked congress to pass a bill requiring publicity of campaign contributions.

The people are back of this demand, because they have come to realize that such a measure will reach the evil source of the corrupt alliance between big business and politics.

W. J. Bryan, a Democratic candidate for president, yesterday telegraphed to W. H. Taft, a Republican candidate for president, asking him to co-operate in asking congress to pass this bill.

Mr. Taft replied that he had already declared himself in favor of the measure, and that he had had no occasion to change his mind.

Yet there is no more chance that congress will pass the bill than there is that it will pass a bill creating real democratic government through the adoption of the initiative and referendum.

The house passed it, it is true. But it knew that the senate would kill it, and it tacked upon it extraneous matter which the Republican majority knew would compel Democrats to vote against it. They hoped to put the minority in the wrong, and to make the bill's passage impossible.

The Republican majority in congress deliberately invites, by its failure to pass this bill, the contributions of the trusts in another campaign, yet it expects the people to believe that the Republican party, after it has been financed by the enemies of the people, will work for the people.

Will it?

PARTY GOVERNMENT.

Prof. Goldwin Smith of Toronto has been making a few remarks about American politics, and his position in the non-combatant's grandstand, as it were, gives him a clear and unbiased view which should make his reflections worth listening to.

"In a few weeks," he says, "Democrats and Republicans will be organizing a political war against each other in a spirit hardly less bellicose than that of actual warfare, with arsenals full of political projectiles on each side; while the community will be inflamed, intrigue and perhaps not a little corruption of different kinds will be at work, and the press on both sides will be blowing the trumpets with more regard to effect than truth."

After drawing this very true picture of what the coming months in the United States are certain to produce, Prof. Smith adds: "Is this an institution in which a nation can forever acquiesce?"

It is to be hoped that this institution of party government will not always be necessary; that in time the process of economic and social evolution will bring forth something vastly better. Indeed, unless the laws of evolution have been lately amended or repealed, such a pleasant result is certain to come—sometime.

But in the meantime this machinery of party government appears to be the best we have, and we must therefore make the best of it. It is true that its results are very unsatisfactory. Partisan warfare more often delays and defeats the solution of pressing problems than it furthers it. A political campaign is more often a struggle for possession of power and political plunder than it is an honest contest between two sides of any question to discover the truth. If all the right were on one side and all the wrong on another, it would be simple; but it seldom or never happens that way. Usually there is some right on both sides, and instead of getting together to reject the wrong and adhere to the right, opposing parties struggle bitterly over split straws while the cause of the people suffers.

Opposing parties are jealous of each other, and one will sacrifice the people's interests to put the other in the wrong. Partisanship seems a deadly enemy of citizenship; else otherwise good citizens would not prefer to see the right defeated rather than that the opposing party should have credit for attaining it.

Suppose, for instance, congress in its recent endeavors had suddenly been divested of partisan considerations. Suppose the Democrats had dropped their partisan Democracy, and the Republicans had shed their partisan Republicanism. This would have divested them of all considerations of political expediency, of all entangling alliances with the machine of this party or that; it would have left them merely reasoning and reasonable citizens, ready to attack the problems before congress with but one end in view: the best interests of the country and its people.

Wouldn't congress have done more under these conditions than it has done in the session that began last December? Wouldn't it have pretty well cleaned up the table? But instead of that, considerations of partisanship, skillfully manipulated by representative of interests hostile to the people, prevented much of anything being done. It isn't a very good showing for party government.

A COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL.

There is little enough of the practical in education in this country, though the tendency is undoubtedly toward the adoption of more practical methods, and this is one of many reasons why the plan of establishing a county agricultural school in this county deserves favorable consideration.

The plan originated, apparently, with S. W. Gilpin, county superintendent of public schools, and yesterday it was indorsed by the agricultural committee of the Duluth Commercial club, which will appear before the county board at its next meeting to bespeak the interest of that body in the movement.

There is as great need of education along agricultural lines as there is along any other. A farmer equipped with a scientific course in agriculture is much better fitted to get the best results than a farmer who grubs it out for himself by hit-or-miss methods. Duluth and St. Louis county need to have the soil cultivated to the highest possible advantage, and the way to do this is to have the cultivation done by farmers who have been taught modern methods of farming.

Naturally, a St. Louis county agricultural school would direct its efforts toward ascertaining the best methods to use in making the most of the peculiar conditions that prevail in this county, and such a school would be very much more useful locally than a general school which could, obviously, pay little attention to the peculiar needs of any one locality.

Incidentally, the Commercial club's committee on agriculture does well to insist upon a government soil survey of this county. One should have been made long ago, in order that farmers might know from experts the possibilities and requirements of the several soils of this county.

A NEW PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

The fact that stocks were on the bargain counter during last winter has been productive of one good, at least: it shook out some of the big holders and increased the number of small holders.

Before the panic, the Pennsyvania road had 51,543 stockholders; now it has 59,687, a gain of 8,144 in seven months.

The New York Central used to have 16,445 stockholders, and now it has 22,098, an increase of 5,653.

The Chicago Great Western increased from 9,000 stockholders to 10,500; the Chesapeake & Ohio increased from 1,735 to 2,648; the Rock Island increased from 3,329 to 7,125; the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul increased from 6,000 to 10,000; the Santa Fe increased from 19,700 to 25,000.

The same thing is true of many of the industrial corporations, though their figures are not available. Sometime, by the way, the public will know as much of the affairs of the industrial and mining corporations as it now insists upon knowing about railroad affairs.

This scattering of stock holdings has never had a precedent in American history. It is a significant thing, and unquestionably a good thing. It shows that the people have money, and that they are taking a tangible interest in "big business." It would be better still if there were no big holders, and if pretty nearly everybody had a share in the earnings of "big business."

But before it can be quite as good a condition as it ought to be there is need, as The Herald has frequently pointed out, of a greater democracy in corporation government.

At present most large corporations, no matter how numerous their stockholders or how widely the holdings are scattered, are ruled by autroçacies known as boards of directors. Usually these boards are composed largely of figureheads for the real controlling interest. Often they are practically nothing but office boys for large interests whose control ramifies through a prodigious extent of the country's "big business." The directors of two big New York banks, having a mutual relationship through powerful individuals who are directors in both, are also directors—and controlling directors, too—in a large number of the nation's greatest railroad and industrial corporations. This is the "System" which the American people hardly understand even yet, though they have seen much of its interference with government through campaign contributions and the services of Aldrich and Cannon, who are the "directors" of the System in the American government.

Directors do not own corporations. Stockholders do own corporations. This simple truth needs to be more clearly understood than it is. It is as wrong to turn a great corporation over to an autocracy of directors to be run by them in their own interests as it is, for instance, to turn the government over to Aldrich and Cannon to be run in the interests of their friends instead of for the people.

What is needed is a closer relationship between the stockholder and the corporation. It is as necessary as a direct relationship between the citizen and his government. Without it "big business" is hurrying to a condition of absolute autocracy that invites a revolution which arrogant use of this dangerous power is certain to bring.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

Traveling men from the West, particularly from Seattle and Spokane, are authority for the statement that both of these cities are rapidly assuming their normal stride in the matter of business and general prosperity. They declare that in the West the effects of the money stringency are wearing away and that the demand for labor is growing apace with the returning prosperity.

Railroad work, men who have traveled in the West state, is going on at a merry clip, and this is requiring the services of many men whose services have been a drug on the labor market for the past seven months. For instance, one man stated that the Milwaukee extension is taking men from the coast cities, although the extension has only proceeded as far as Butte. Other roads are doing heavy building in the Western country, and they likewise are requiring the services of men who have subsisted on the soup kettle that charity has kindly provided during the stress of the financial depression.

They are paying as high as $2 a day for labor in some sections of the West, and this, too, in the face of the statement that officials of many roads are waiting to see which way the presidential nominations are going to terminate.

Traveling men are invariably good observers of the conditions of the country at large. They state that the indications of returning commercial prosperity extend from San Francisco to British Columbia along the coast line, while eastward the zone is extended far past the bulwark of the Rockies.

The pessimism that was brought to this city last fall by almost every man who came from the West has been entirely lacking in the statements of men who have recently been in the West. They tell a different story, and the financial and industrial conditions that abruptly checked, with a heavy hand, the booms of Seattle, Portland, Spokane and other Western cities have given away to conditions that make for the prosperity of the workingman and the country at large, if the statements of these men are to be relied upon.

There is a quiet man at the St. Louis hotel who has been through some of the roughest chapters of the early lumber history of this section of the country, and it is said of him that he never failed to peel his Mackinaw when trouble started.

The other night, up on the range, this man was in a hotel when a party, well "loaded" and thirsting for battle, burst in upon the inmates. He was looking for trouble and he didn't care where he secured it.

By the process of eliminating the other guests, he finally came to the man who makes Duluth his home. It was to the land of Nod then, and by the rude fist method, too, but it was not the Duluth man who took the spasmodic slumber. The Duluth man neatly and effectively thwarted the man, annihilating ambitions of the range rager and then quietly took up the subject of conversation he was pursuing with a friend before the interruption of the party with the thirst for conquest.

Gripitis!

That's the latest ailment. Its effects are confined almost exclusively to traveling men, although the patient pusher of the wheelbarrow and the shunter of the shovel may have contracted the disease in a less virulent form.

It is said that the street car strap-hangers of the cities where weary workers are obliged to dangle at the end of a strap for two or three weary hours each day, have another form of the disease, but Gripitis has distinct manifestations of its own.

For instance, a traveling man at the Lenox the other night dropped a cup of chocolate over his new spring suit, for the simple reason that the overworked muscles of his hand involuntarily expanded as he poised the cup in mid-air. Down in the barber shop of the Spalding the hand of another knight of the road became tightly closed and it was some time before attendants could free the dainty hand of the lady manicure artist, which had been gripped in the hand she was looking over.

Gripitis acted in an entirely opposite way here. Instead of expanding, the muscles of the traveling man's hand contracted and the lady manicure artist became the victim of an entirely unavoidable accident.

Carrying heavy grips has undoubtedly produced the disease of the fin muscles. It has made the muscles stiff and inflexible, making it extremely difficult to open a hand. It is said that one traveling man sat the evening through the other night without opening once, and it is said that his friends held some very stiff hands.

Perhaps gripitis is not chronic, only epidemic; a long siege of its peculiarities might lead to awkward situations.

THE WEATHER.

Nature is getting as bad in its distribution of favors as society is in its distribution of prosperity. As panic and depression succeed inflated prosperity, so does nature send a superfluity of rain to follow a drouth. It was raining again this morning, and the weather man says it will be partly cloudy tonight and tomorrow with occasional showers. No hope yet in sight of settled weather, except that it seems to have settled into a rainy season. The northeast winds, however, are due to shift to north and northwest tonight, when it will be cooler.

A year ago today it was clear, cool and fine.

The sun rose this morning at 4:19 and sets tonight at 7:50, making 15 hours and 31 minutes of sunlight. This is seven hours longer than the shortest day and only twenty-four minutes shorter than the longest day.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Showery weather prevailed during Tuesday or last night in northern districts attending low pressure areas central this morning over Minnesota, Kansas and New England states. High temperatures are the rule in the central valleys and eastern states. The barometer continues high off the Oregon-Washington coast. Indications favor occasional scattered showers and cool temperature in this locality tonight and probably Thursday."

Decoration Day.

Strew flowers on the graves of the heroes today;
What matter the color they wore,
Columbia mourns the blue and the gray,
Her united, loved children once more.

The laurel and willow are waving above
The ashes we love and revere,
While veterans in blue strew garlands of love
O'er the soldier in gray's sunken bier.

The blue and the gray are marching today,
Side by side, where the warriors rest.
Their hearts are young, though their heads are gray;
In peace they clasp hands—it is best.

For soon they must leave us—the brave scattered few—
To join their dear comrades beyond.
All honor attend them this thirtieth of May,
As they march 'neath the flag with the band.

The Work for Good Roads.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club will turn its attention to the proper expenditure of road funds in the county. It was more than a year ago that a few of the business men of Hibbing arrived at the conclusion that better results might be obtained for the money expended in the road work here, and they banded together as the Good Roads Association of Hibbing and went to work. The township and village authorities readily fell in with the scheme, and practically turned all of the road work over to the supervision of the Good Roads association. From that time on all road work in the township was done along practical and scientific lines, with the result that more good roads were constructed in the township than in any previous year, and at much less than the former cost. The Good Roads association has been adopted by the Hibbing Commercial club and the good work will be continued on the same sensible plan. Duluth's idea of handling the whole county is most commendable, but the undertaking is too heavy to allow of results that would be of benifit to the present generation. The work can better be taken care of by the several commercial clubs of the towns in the county, and all commercial clubs should work in harmony on a proposition that promises so much gain. With a system of good roads St. Louis county will become greater than some of the states of the Union.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Grand Rapids Independent: The Aitkin Age this week states that A. L. Hamilton, the editor of the Aitkin Republican, is to be a candidate for the legislature from this district. Mr. Hamilton is one of the biggest men in this section of the state, and that he would amply fill the position of representative goes without saying.

Alexandria Post News: The refusal of congress to entertain the proposition of repealing the duties on wood pulp and paper will hasten the day of general tariff revision. Since that body cannot consistently grant relief in a single instance, the press of the country will be found unitedly advocating a revision which will include all schedules operating in favor of aggregated capital.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: Tariff revision is coming but it is not exceeding the speed limit.

Luverne Herald: A dark horse nominee will probably be the outcome of the present governorship campaign unless greater interest and activity is manifested by the candidates and the rank and file of the Republican party.

Fairmont Sentinel: A letter appears in this paper, censuring Mr. Bryan too severely we believe for the Bryan-Johnson political struggle in this state. We do not believe the Nebraskan personally brought on the fight in Minnesota. It was started by a few men who possessed great friendship for him and were frantic to dictate the policy of the Democratic party in Minnesota. The old saying still holds good, "Lord, deliver him from his friends."

Ada Herald: The amount of boodle that the safe crackers are securing in the Northwest speaks well for the financial condition of this section, although it comes rather hard on some.

Hutchinson Leader: Time was when Jake Jacobson, who wants to be governor, had on every question opinions which he bellowed loud into wearied ears. Now there are several issues on which he ought as a candidate to say a few plain words, but he won't peep. As a reformer the mighty Jake seems to need reforming.

Appleton Press: Granny Pease still thinks Heatwole is running for governor. This is one of the most remarkable cases of mental hallucination on record.

Red Wing News: Now that Mr. Hearst no longer holds communion with Democrats, is it not about time he was called upon by the Democratic national committee to resign as president of the League of Democratic clubs. Respectfully referred to Chairman Tom Taggart for action.

Ortonville Herald Star: When the interests took an account of stock along about the time of the last state convention, it is said the footings showed a perilous situation, and some of the leaders ducked and began quietly undoing what they had already accomplished. And this is the true secret of the waning fortunes of the gentleman from Lac qui Parle.

SMILING LINES.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: They had been married seventeen years.

"If there ever was an utterly worthless travesty of a man, you're it," she told him.

Six months later she was suing the railway company whose train had run over this worthless husband for $25,000.

Washington Star: "Have you availed yourself of the privilege of leap year?"

"No," answered Miss Cayenne. "I don't care to have a man tell me he will be a brother to me."

Chicago Tribune: Man with the Bulging Brow—How do you get so much satisfaction from watching a baseball game? It's no fun to me.

Man with the Bulbous Nose—It's because I have a judicial temperament. I don't care a darn which side wins.

Baltimore American: "Queer, wasn't it, that Samson's power should have been in his hair?"

"Oh, I don't know! Just a case of mane strength."

Washington Star: "You can't buy happiness," exclaimed the sentimentalist.

"No," answered the man who is sternly practical. "You can't buy happiness. And at the same time that fact doesn't imply that your comfort is enhanced by being broke."

Baltimore American: "What do you think? Binks is as crooked a politician as ever got on the inside, and he declares there is no suspicion of graft in his office."

"Well, he's right. Nobody does suspect that there is graft in his office. Everybody knows it."

Baltimore American: Maude—Did you hear about the society that is to be formed to keep women from kissing other women?

Gladys—Is there anything which the selfish men do not want to keep to themselves?

Philadelphia Press: "O!" sobbed the young wife. "George doesn't love me as he did."

"Nonsense!" said the mother. "Only this morning I heard him call you 'the dearest girl in the world.'"

"Yes, but he used to call me 'the dearest girl that ever lived.'"

Philadelphia Press: "Your honor," said the burglar, as he faced the judge, "think of my family. I have a wife and two daughters."

"And were they in need?"

"Need? Why, your honor, not one in the bunch had a Merry Widow hat."

The prosecuting attorney perceived that there was nothing doing.

SECRETS OF SNELL'S LIFE

Told by Daughter-in-Law In Trial of Will Case.

Clinton, Ill., May 27.—Secrets jealously guarded during the closing years of Col. Tom Snell's life were told by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hanna Snell, from the witness stand in the trial of the will case yesterday. She proved the most notable witness yet examined. She told of Col. Snell's violent temper, and of his habits, how he had struck her in the face, of shockingly profane language addressed to her and her children by Snell. She declared that he had repeatedly refused to permit the remains of his son to be removed from a public vault for burial or to construct a private mausoleum, claiming that he was too poor to do so.

Mrs. Snell first met Mabel Snell, the grand niece, at Emporia, Kan., in 1904, when the witness was visiting Thornton, her son. She also saw her at the Snell home in Bloomington three weeks before Snell died. Mabel Snell, she said, had wired that she was coming to take Snell to Kansas City with her, but the aged millionaire was on his death bed. While in Bloomington Mrs. Snell testified she overheard a quarrel between Mabel and Snell she rebuking him for giving a fur coat to another woman without consulting the grand niece.

While at a Chicago hotel, the witness said, Col. Snell did not want to join a theater party, but Mabel placed her arms about his neck and patted his cheeks and caused him to change his mind.

When Harry Snell was married in Elkhart, Ind., in 1905 Mrs. Snell testified that the colonel refused to attend unless an invitation was sent to Mabel and to her brother, Ben. Both were invited immediately. Snell said that it cost him $500 to $100 to have the two there—that he had rented a diamond sunburst for Mabel and a dress suit for Ben. Mabel wished him to buy the sunburst for her but he refused. The witness said that when Mabel received a check from Snell and it was too small to suit her, she would tear the paper in two bits and throw it in his face. He would then write a larger one. Dr. J. C. Meyers, another witness, said that at one time Snell had told him that the woman had cost him a quarter of a million dollars.

The church was crowded to the doors with mourners and friends of the Losh family and the choir was singing "Rock of Ages." For a while a panic was imminent but the people were finally quieted.

The result showed a majority of 22,994 for the ticket headed by Senator Bailey for the delegates-at-large. After the appointment of committees the convention took a recess until today.

This is the Way to Keep Well without Cascarets

Live outdoors, and let your work be exercise. Else walk ten miles a day.

Eat little meat, no white bread, no rich pastries. Eat many green vegetables, plenty of fruit, and bread made of whole wheat.

Do that, and you'll have little need of a laxative while you keep young.

But when you grow old, and the bowels become less active, you will need this help anyway.

Cascarets are for those who live indoors, who eat rich foods, who eat and drink too much.

This vegetable laxative does for them exactly what proper living would do.

It causes no irritation, as pill cathartics, salts and castor oil do. Its action is just as natural—just as gentle—as the action of laxative foods.

So choose your own way.

Give Nature the aid of proper food and exercise, else the help of Cascarets.

One way serves as well as the other. But some way is essential. For one cannot keep well unless the bowels move freely once every day.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

WEST ENDER TAKES LIFE

Gustaf A. Anderson Drinks Carbolic Acid in Barroom.

In a Fit of Despondency, Railroad Man Takes Poison.

After gulping down a drink of water at John Peterson's bar, 1813 West Superior street, last evening, Gustaf A. Anderson downed a bottle of carbolic acid as a "chaser" and died without regaining consciousness.

Anderson drank the poison in a small room at the rear of the saloon and was near death when discovered. He failed to revive and left no explanation of his conduct. He said nothing to anyone in the saloon before he drank the acid, which would lead them to suspect he was about to take his life.

It is thought that Anderson was suffering from a fit of despondency, brought on by excessive drinking. He had been employed until a few days ago by the Northern Pacific as a track repairer, but since leaving the road's service had been imbibing very freely.

Anderson resided at 2312 West Eighth street, where he leaves a wife and several young children. Mrs. Anderson says that domestic troubles had not prompted her husband's act, as they had been very happy. She is prostrated over her husband's death.

The coroner was notified and after viewing the body, decided that no autopsy was necessary. The remains were taken to Forward's undertaking rooms. Funeral arrangements have not been completed yet.

THE CONGRESS SALOON ROBBED

Bold Thief Gets $50, But Passes Up $300.

It has just come to light that a robbery was committed at the Congress saloon, 419 West Superior street, Saturday night, between the hours of 11 o'clock and 8 o'clock the following morning. A thief stole $50 from the place, and passed up $300 in the safe, which was unlocked. Evidently he did not try the safe at all, or he would have discovered that the door could easily have been opened.

The theft was discovered Sunday morning by the porter, and was not immediately reported to the police. The rear door was found open. Charles Svendson, the owner, believes some person hid in the saloon and got himself locked in, for the rear door was held inside by a bar that fitted into sockets on either side and no force was used to open it.

PROHIBITION FOR NORTH CAROLINA

Voters Decide for a "Dry" State at Elections on Tuesday.

Raleigh, N. C., May 27.—North Carolina was carried for state prohibition yesterday by a majority that is estimated at from forty thousand to forty-two thousand on reports and estimates received up to midnight.

The Prohibition ticket has carried 78 out of the 98 counties. The anti-Prohibition ticket has twent counties by majorities approximating 5,400. This calculation is partly based on estimates, and the Prohibition leaders say that it is possible for the Prohibition majority to reach 50,000. The election passed off quietly. The total vote cast was about 175,000.

Salisbury, N. C., May 27.—Chairman Boyden of the anti-Prohibition forces made this statement last night with reference to yesterday's election in this state: "Scattering reports from thirty-six counties show that the vote on Prohibition will be very close, and until the returns are in from all the counties I don't consider that the state has gone for Prohibition. The vote at this hour shows more Raleigh, Wilmington, Salisbury and some other cities have voted in favor of the retention of local option system."

LIKE BAD PENNY.

Watch Lost Three Times, is Returned to Robert Lowe.

Robert Lowe of Superior has been robbed of his watch three times during the last three years, and in every instance it has been recovered through the efforts of Detective Terry of the Duluth police force. In 1905 Lowe was touched for the watch while on a fishing trip to Knife River, Minn. He notified the police, and Terry started a search for the timepiece, which was found a year later in a Superior pawnshop.

Shortly afterwards, on a hunting trip, the watch was stolen again. The watch was recovered by Detective Terry in a local second-hand store. About one month ago the detective was again notified that the timepiece had been stolen, and yesterday, in making the rounds of the local pawnshops and second-hand stores, Detective Terry found it and returned it to its owner for the third time.

EIGHT BISHOPS ARE ELECTED

Methodist Conference Finishes Task of Selecting Leaders.

Baltimore, Md., May 27.—The episcopal election of the Methodist Episcopal conference of 1908 is now a matter of history and when announcement was made late yesterday of the selection of the eighth and last bishop very many of the delegates heaved sighs of relief.

The new bishops, in the order of their election and the number of votes each received on the electing ballot follows:

Rev. Dr. W. F. Anderson of New York, secretary of the Board of Education, Freedman's Aid and Sunday schools, 543 votes.

Rev. Dr. J. L. Neulsen, professor of Nast Theological seminary, Berea, Ohio, 540 votes.

Rev. Dr. W. A. Quayle, pastor of St. James church, Chicago, 519 votes.

Rev. Dr. Charles W. Smith, editor of the Pittsburg Christian Advocate, 511.

Rev. Dr. Wilson S. Lewis, president of the Morningside college, Sioux City, Iowa, 524.

Rev. Dr. Edwin H. Hughes, president of Depauw university, Green Castle, Ind., 511.

Rev. Dr. Robert McIntyre, pastor of the First church, Los Angeles, Cal., 514.

Rev. Dr. Frank M. Bristol, pastor of Metropolitan church, Washington, D. C., 493.

The last named was the pastor and intimate friend of the late President McKinley.

The bishops-elect will be consecrated at a special session next Sunday afternoon.

The committee on the episcopacy at a meeting last night decided to reconsider a portion of its intended recommendation relative to episcopal residences. It has now been determined to recommend that an episcopal residence be established in St. Paul, Minn., and that Detroit, Mich., be omitted from the list of episcopal residence cities.

M'DONALD IS TURNED DOWN

Michigan Court Grants Former Duluth Woman Divorce on Cross Bill.

Press dispatches from Grand Rapids, Mich., state that Mrs. John McDonald, formerly Miss Bessis Hannifin, of this city, was granted a divorce yesterday on a cross bill filed in divorce proceedings instituted by her husband. The court turned down McDonald's direct bill, his own pleading being turned against him.

According to the dispatches, McDonald accused his wife of lacking accomplishments equal to his station in life. He made special mention of an incident in a Chicago restaurant when Mrs. McDonald is claimed to have "disgraced" him by spilling a cup of coffee, a short time after their marriage.

Mrs. McDonald, in her cross bill claimed that her husband treated her with cruelty, and the court upheld her complaint.

McDonald who is vice president of the Evans & Retting Lumber company of Grand Rapids was formerly in the lumber business in Duluth.

His marriage to Miss Hannifin at Cincinnati, Ohio, last July attracted the interest of Duluth friends of the parties by reason of dispatches which stated that the bride and groom parted at the church door following the ceremony. The story from Cincinnati was much criticised at the time by Duluth friends and relatives as being wholly untrue. It is claimed that Mr. McDonald had business engagements that necessitated his leaving Cincinnati immediately after the ceremony was performed. According to the alleged testimony at the trial, the family troubles started soon after the wedding, the couple living together from July, 1907 until the following Oct. 25.

Miss Hannifin was formerly employed telegrapher in one of the offices in the Wolvin building and has a wide circle of friends and acquaintances in Duluth and Superior. Her parents reside in Superior.

DISCORD AMONG PRESBYTERIANS

Members Have Difference Over Report of Committee.

Kansas City, Mo., May 27.—Discord entered into the proceedings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America, yesterday, for the first time during the present assembly, while the report of the committee on administrative agencies was under consideration.

After Dr. J. A. Moffat of Washington, Pa., finished reading the recommendations of the committee, and these recommendations were submitted to the assembly for action, Dr. Rice V. Hunter of Buffalo took exceptions to the tenor of one section, which, he said, gave too much power to the twenty-one men composing the committee.

Several speakers followed with speeches of a conciliatory nature, and when Vice Moderator James put the recommendations of the committee to a vote they were adopted.

Dr. William D. Merrill of Chicago then secured the floor and complained that he had been refused recognition until too late to offer an amendment to the committee's recommendations. The vice moderator ruled that the amendment could not be considered, as the report had been adopted, but a commissioner moved that the adoption of the report be reconsidered, and the motion carried. Dr. Merrill then offered his amendment, which was that the present committee on administrative agencies be discharged and that a new committee of twenty-one members be appointed, to include all the members of the present committee who are not members of any church board. The amendment was lost.

The college board asked the general assembly for $200,000 to carry on the work for the next year, and solicited the continued donations from generous givers.

Seattle, Denver and Oklahoma City have entered the campaign for next year's assembly, and Seattle seems to be favored by most of the commissioners.

GOVERNMENT IS TO BLAME

Olson Investigates the Drifting Sand Nuisance on Park Point.

President Olson of the board of public works blames the government for the large amount of sand that is constantly being blown about on Park Point, burying the sidewalks and causing much inconvenience. He says the dredges throw dump sand into the lake on stormy days and the action of the waves carries it immediately to shore before it has time to settle. It dries on the beach and is then blown by the wind father inland.

Mr. Olson yesterday made a trip to the Point to see if some means of abating the sand nuisance could not be devised. He says some of the sand drifts are as high as twenty feet, covering the sidewalks for long stretches. Fences put up by the board of public works, where the wind had a free greatest sweep, were either buried or blown down. It has been suggested that the planting of sea grass along the beach would do away with the trouble to a certain extent, but Mr. Olson does not believe this would be the case.

NEW WORDS FOR "DIXIE."

Old "Cinnamon Seed and Sandy Bottom" Thrown Out by Women.

St. Louis, May 27.—Women of the Confederate Choir of America have officially fitted new words to the tune of "Dixie." The old words, they say, are not suited to the grandeur of the song or the cause for which is sings. Confederate veterans condemn the change.

The new stanzas are:

O Dixie land is the land of glory,
The land of cherished song and story,
Look away, look away, look away, Dixie land.

'Tis the land that patriots love to dwell in,
The land our fathers fought and fell in.
Look away, look away, look away, Dixie land.

I'm glad I live in Dixie, hurrah, hurrah.
(Rest of chorus unchanged.)

The blue and gray went out to battle,
And loud they made war's thunder rattle,
Look away, look away, look away, Dixie land.

Our cause we lost, but won a glory,
Which still will last when time is hoary,
Look away, look away, look away, Dixie land.

LACK OF MALE TEACHERS

Makes the Boys "Sissified" in the Chicago Schools.

Chicago, May 27.—The girl-boy peril confronts Chicago; her youths are being feminized and their vigor sapped, and they are assimilating timidity, modesty, emotional traits and other undesirable attributes, according to the High School Teachers' club. "Sissified" perhaps expresses in one word the point the club makes in an appeal to the board of education for higher salaries for instructors in the high grades. Higher salaries, it argues, will procure more male teachers, and it is the lack of men as high school pedagogs, the club avers, which is "sissifying" Chicago's youths.

There are 112 men and 218 women teachers in high schools, and there is not "a man available on the eligible list for a high school teacher," says the memorial. With so many women, it is asserted, it is but natural for the boys to assimilate the timidity, modesty, mildness, emotional traits, fancies of dress and other characteristics of effeminacy.

How to Get Rid of Fat.

A Remarkable Discovery That Can Reduce Fat Harmlessly at the Rate of a Pound a Day.

A Trial Box Sent Free.

A quick, harmless reducer of fat, called Rengo, has come into popular use which far eclipses any method or treatment heretofore used.

You Eat Rengo Like Fruit or Candy and Easily Reduce Your Fat a Pound a Day.

Rengo is perfectly harmless, pleasant to take, and it is chewed like candy. It attacks abnormal tissue with unerring accuracy, and causes a gradual, harmless but effective reduction in weight, and without leaving wrinkles, which are nearly always present after taking drugs and other dangerous materials commonly called "anti-fats."

There is nothing "just as good" as Rengo. For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per full sized box, or by mail prepaid, by the Rengo Co., 3325 Rengo Bldg., Detroit, Mich. The company will gladly send you a trial package free by mail if you write them direct to Detroit, no free packages at drug stores. For sale and recommended in Duluth by all druggists. L. W. STATE'S ATTORNEYS MEET.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The executive committee of the State's Attorneys' association held a meeting in Grand Forks yesterday afternoon, G. W. Thorpe of Stutsman county and H. E. Plymat of Rollette county being here in conference with the local member, J. B. Wineman. At this session it was decided to hold the annual summer meeting of the organization at Devils Lake on July 16.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL.

Dickinson, N. D., May 27.—George Senour, A. Montague and Alfred White, the coroner's jury impanelled to decide the cause of the death of Robert Parker, the Buffaloan found in a dying condition in the local railroad yards, returned a verdict that the death was accidental, the victim losing his life by either being thrown off of or being struck by train No. 1.

MARINE NEWS

NO OPENING UNTIL JULY

Ship Owners May Set Date for Ore Shipping Far Ahead.

Return Cargoes Are Scarce and Few Coal Cargoes Come.

Reports from the lower lakes give little encouragement to those who are anxious for an early opening of the general movement on the lakes. It is now said that the vessel owners, at their meeting in Cleveland next Monday, will take an adjournment to June 15, when they will set the date for the opening of ore shipments at July 1. That means that present conditions will continue for another month, with scores of boats lying idle in the harbors and seamen forced to seek work in other lines.

The abnormal conditions are reflected in the statement that the ore movement down the lakes to the first of June this year will not exceed 250,000 tons, whereas 6,250,000 tons were moved during the same period last year. The estimates of the entire movement for this year place the amount at but 20,000,000 tons, or just one-half of the amount taken down last season.

There is little prospect of much activity at the Missabe dock for several weeks yet. The Corsican of the Pittsburg Steamship company's fleet arrived this morning and the W. E. Corey will probably be in tomorrow. They will take ore cargoes down the lakes. A Steel corporation boat will sail now and then, but there is nothing in sight for the independent boats and return cargoes will be just as scarce during the next two weeks as they are now.

WILL REMOVE WRECK.

Parts of Sunken Steamer Sevona Form Menace to Navigation.

Proposals for the removal of the wreck of the steamer Sevona, sunk a mile and one-half northeast of the Sand Island light in the Apostle islands two years ago last fall, are to be received by Maj. Graham D. Fitch of the United States corps of engineers. Bids for the removal of the Nimick, which went down last fall about eleven miles west of Whitefish Point, have been asked for.

E. K. Coe, the junior engineer, has just completed an examination of the wreck of the Sevona under the direction of the local office. His report is as follows: "I sounded all over and around the wreck, and found that the hull is pretty well flattened out. The side plates are seemingly flat, and there were no deck plates that could be distinguished with the sounding iron. The cargo of iron ore marks the position of the wreck, with the plates alongside. The only places I found a menace to navigation, that is, having less than eighteen feet of water above them, were as follows: The boiler with seven feet of water over it aft and nine and one-half feet forward; wreckage that is apparently engines or machinery, about twenty feet north thereof with thirteen and one-half to fifteen feet of water over it; the cargo of iron ore from sixteen and one-half feet to nineteen feet under, and some wreckage apparently the stem, small in size, about 250 feet from the boiler, with thirteen feet of water ovr it."

Mr. Coe placed a cedar spar buoy, unpainted, eight inches in diameter, sixteen feet long and standing seven feet above the water to mark the wreck. It is about thirty feet from the boiler and carries a red and white flag. There are also two small fishermen's buoys near the wreck, one with a red flag and the other with a white flag. The stern of the wreck is in eighteen feet of water and the bow in twenty-two to twenty-three feet.

COAL CHARTERS.

No Marked Activity Expected Before First of June.

Buffalo, May 27.—Business in the coal trade shows a slight indication of improvement yesterday, but marine men say that no decided increase in shipments will take place before June 1. Just at present there is a small amount of coal being forwarded from the mines. Yesterdays charters are: Rochester, Chicago, 40; Brazil, Chicago, 40; Venezuela, Duluth, 30.

Company Forces Strike.

Chicago, May 27.—The Crosby Transportation company discharged sixty longshoremen at Grand Haven, announcing their intention to load and unload boats with deckhands. When the steamer Nyack arrived the deckhands were persuaded not to work and a carload of dockwallopers from Muskegon turned back when they learned conditions. The discharged men now demand 25 cents an hour in place of the former 20 cents to return to work.

Mascotte is Tested.

The excursion steamer Mascotte made a run around the harbor this morning testing the engines. The Mascotte has been thoroughly remodeled this spring and an entirely new set of engines have been installed. The boat will be used for excursions during the summer, running to Fond du Lac, Peterson's island and on charters.

LYCEUM—Florence Gear in "Cupid at Vassar."

"CUPID AT VASSAR."

Florence Gear and Vassar Maidens Are Well Worth Seeing.

Florence Gear and her bevy of Vassar maidens pleased a fair-sized audience at the Lyceum theater last night. The show deserved a better house, for "Cupid at Vassar" is one of the daintiest musical plays that has visited Duluth during the current season.

Miss Gear is good to look upon, has a good singing voice and is vivacious in the role of Kate Newton she hasn't much chance to display decided acting ability, but her songs and imitations are the hit of the show.

Little Miss Josephine Sproule, as one of the Vassar girls, has a song in the second act that scores a most decided hit. Miss Sproule is the possessor of a very good voice and she knows how to use it.

One naturally wonders why Minnesota is so ignored in the second scene, which is laid in one of the rooms at Vassar college. Here college banners of about every college in the country are displayed. Wisconsin and Chicago, those hated rivals, are represented by banners hung in conspicuous places, while even Missouri and Nebraska are also in the running. But one looks in vain for a Minnesota banner or college pillow, which absence should be remedied if the company intends playing Minnesota territory.

Harry B. Roche, as the villain, overplayed the part at times. George H. Timmons, in the part of the colored janitor, was very good, as was George W. Lewis, in the small part of the chore boy. The Vassar girls were all pretty, sang well and took part in some clever ensemble effects. Taken as a whole, "Cupid at Vassar" is well worth seeing.

Coming Attractions.

"Toodles in Holland," which will be presented for the benefit of the Modern Samaritans by local talent, under the direction of T. J. Getz at the Lyceum, Friday and Saturday, is exciting no little interest, and the advance sale of seats promises a large attendance.

THREW DIAMOND IN RIVER

Did Crookston Domestic Accused of Its Theft.

Crookston, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A well-known woman of Jeromes addition is shy a $165 diamond ring which is now peacefully resting at the bottom of the Red Lake river. She left the ring in her room. The domestic took it. Her mistress accused her, but she denied it. The police put the girl in the sweat box and she confessed. After her mistress had accused her she wanted to get rid of the ring and going to the river threw it in. She confessed this to the police and showed them where she had thrown it.

No arrests have been made and there will be none if the parents of the accused girl make good the price of the ring.

GLAD TO DESERT BRYAN.

Pennsylvania Delegates Accepting Opportunity State Convention Gave.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 27.—Many district delegates to the Denver convention have communicated with Secretary Week at state headquarters since the recent state convention. Nearly all of them regard the action of the state convention as superior to "home instructions" and binding on them to stand with the anti-Bryan men at Denver.

Even in districts where the Bryan league put Bryan's name on the primary tickets, many of the delegates hold that with no other name on the ticket for the voters to consider this did not constitute a genuine "instruction," and that they will therefore follow the long established Democratic custom of accepting the decree of the state convention as final.

Bryan's angry denunciation of the Pennsylvania Democrats and his effort to ridicule their state convention have cost him many friends. At state headquarters it is predicted that when the delegates get together there will not be a dozen Bryan advocates among the sixty-eight.

DYING OF PARALYSIS.

F. J. Tourtelot of St. Paul Cannot Live But a Short Time.

St. Paul, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. J. Tourtelot, superintendent of the Northern Pacific dining car service, is dying at St. Joseph's hospital.

He was stricken with paralysis some time ago, and the paralysis has gradually extended. His heart was affected last night, and, knowing that death was near, physicians summoned his daughter, Mrs. J. Marshall of St. Louis, and Miss Rae Tourtelot of Chicago, both of whom have been in the city since the beginning of their father's illness.

Mr. Tourtelot was born at Sorel, near Montreal, Canada, sixty-five years ago. He has been in the service of the Northern Pacific for thirty years.

MISTAKEN FOR BURGLARS.

Two Young Men Are Fired on by Minneapolis Policeman.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two young men who gave their names as John Bailey and Frank Burney, students at the medical college of the University of Minnesota, were mistaken for burglars by a Minneapolis policeman and were chased through the business district of the city by the officer who twice emptied his revolver at them. Finally when one of the policeman's bullets crashed through a window of the Corn Exchange building the young men were frightened into stopping and were captured by the officer. They were taken to central station. There they explained they were university students souvenir hunting and unrolled the bundle which proved to be a brewery calendar which they had "swiped" from a saloon.

REVIVAL OF OLD SYSTEM

"Stock Stars" Will be Seen Again Next Winter.

Actor Suggests Solution of Present Crisis in Drama.

"You will see a revival of the stock stars this winter," said Williard Mack yesterday afternoon in discussing theatrical conditions, on his return from New York.

"By stock stars I mean prominent actors who are up in a few plays, and who travel about from city to city spending a few weeks in each city and using the local stock companies. Take for instance Katharine Grey. She has five plays in which she is appearing. She might come to Duluth and take the leading part in those five plays, staying here five weeks, and using the local stock company to assist her.

"Stock companies are springing up all over the country this season. Seattle has three. It seems to be the only relief from present conditions for both the actors and the managers.

"So many road attractions have closed that there are not shows enough to go around, and many a manager has a beautiful and expensive theater on his hands with nothing to put in it. He naturally turns to stock which furnishes the only relief from the grip of the trust, which certainly has things in its hands this year. Every city of any size now has a stock company, and next winter you will see some of our best actors and actresses going into stock companies, and reviving the old system of stock stars, I mentioned.

"There is absolutely nothing stirring in theatrical matters in New York. The managers say they will not spend a dollar until they see how the elections are going. Lithograph houses which in ordinary years are turning work away at this time, have only a few small orders on hand now.

"New York doesn't look good to me. In fact I didn't see any city that looked any better than Duluth."

IMPORTANT TO MILITIA

Dick Bill Makes Radical Changes in Laws Governing It.

Washington, May 27.—Speaking of the Dick bill for the reorganization of the militia which having passed both houses of congress is now in the hands of the president, Senator Dick said: "This legislation ranks in many ways among the most important military legislative acts of the country. The Dick law sought to make the national guard or organized armament and discipline of the regular army, and provide increased appropriations by the Federal government to assist in that purpose. The amended law goes much further, it eliminates the nine months limitations of service which existed under the old law, and substitutes therefore authority to the president to call out the national guard in the event of war under the authority of congress for service within or without the borders of the United States for the existing term of enlistment of the men. It also provides that the national guard shall be equipped for field service by the United States at a cost not to exceed $2,000,000 per annum. Under the terms of this law the country will find itself possessed of a force of one hundred and fifty thousand organized, armed and disciplined national guardsmen ready for instant service anywhere with the regular army as a part of the first line of defense."

The bill was prepared by the National Guard association of the United States, an organization which embraces all the states. It was introduced in the senate by Senator Dick of Ohio, president of the association and in the same house by Halvor Steenerson of Minnesota, chairman of the house militia committee. It is the logical outgrowth and development of the ideas embodied in the original bill passed in 1903, which also was prepared by the National Guard association.

Marriage License Clerk Has Amusing Experience With Applicant.

Victor A. Dash, chief deputy in the office of the clerk of the district court usually attends to the applications for marriage licenses. During the several years that he has been at the business of issuing the legal parchments that permit the preacher or magistrate to tie the matrimonial knot, Mr. Dash has had enough amusing experiences to fill a good-sized book. One day this week a man, about 35 or 40 years of age, entered the clerk's office and sat down at the table outside the desk. He seemed to be waiting for something, but as he did not make his wants known, the clerks hesitated for some time about addressing him. Finally, after the visitor had spent about an hour in a waiting attitude, and appeared to be getting uneasy, Mr. Dash ventured to ask him what he was waiting for. He replied that he wanted a marriage license.

The applicant was invited to the desk and the usual questions were propounded to him touching on the ages of himself and the bride, ties of relationship, etc.

During the examination the following conversation took place:

"Have either of you ever been married?"

"Yes."

"How does it happen you are free to marry now? Did the other parties die, or were you both divorced?"

"We are both widows."

The last answer was given in all seriousness and the clerk with difficulty restrained a smile as he filled out the required form of license.

CAN SECURE STONE HERE

St. Louis County Granite May be Used for Courthouse.

Auditorium Hotel Built of Stone From Hinsdale Quarry.

"If the courthouse commission wants to build a courthouse of Minnesota granite why not build it of granite from St. Louis county," suggested County Commissioner Grant McMahon of Ely, who was in the city a few days ago.

"No finer granite can be found in the country than that which can be quarried at the old Hinsdale quarry, on the Iron Range road, between Mesaba and Embarrass, and to my notion, if we are going to have a granite courthouse we ought to use a 'home' stone, providing the proper arrangements can be made to get it out.

"I presume nearly everybody in St. Louis county has heard at one time or another that the Auditorium hotel at Chicago was built of granite from the Hinsdale quarry, owned by Lazarus Silverman of that city, and certainly, no one that has ever seen that magnificent structure could criticise the stone of which it is constructed.

"Mr. Silverman, I understand, donated all the granite that was used in the big hotel at Chicago. A few years ago he offered to donate to the city of Ely all the granite they wanted if the city would build its public library of that stone. As I remember, Mr. Silverman even offered to get a side track laid from the Iron Range road to the quarry, the city to pay for the expense of quarrying the stone and the transportation charges.

"I have not the least doubt but that Mr. Silverman would make equally as good an offer to the county if the commission should elect to use the Hinsdale granite. The stone is hard, but there is not a more beautiful material of the sort in the state to use for the purpose of a new courthouse. It strikes me that it would be a pretty good advertisement for the county to have it known that St. Louis county built its courthouse of granite found within its borders."

The suggestion by Commissioner McMahon has been broached to several other county officials and they have thought the proposition might be worth investigating.

The courthouse commission, it is said, received some bids for granite that were considered remarkably low, so much so that a proposition is on foot to build the entire structure of granite. The commissioners figure that the entire building can be constructed of granite at an increased cost of from $80,000 to $116,000 over the cost of sandstone and brick, and it is practically certain that action will be taken by the courthouse commission determining that granite shall be used.

The bids received were, of course, for the dressed granite from a quarry near St. Cloud. If the county were to use the Hinsdale granite it would have to pay for the quarrying and for the cutting of the stone, and therein lies the question of whether it would be cheaper to buy the St. Cloud granite, or get the Hinsdale granite for nothing and pay the cost of getting it out and prepared for the building.

A suggestion has been made that if the courthouse commission adopts the St. Cloud granite it practically places the government and the city in the position of being compelled to buy the same stone if the grouping plan of the Chicago architects is carried out in detail. If this is true the people owning the quarry would, it is said, be given a monopoly of the granite business and the city and government might be held up in prices when they get ready to build. If the Hinsdale stone can be had from Mr. Silverman, there is no doubt but that he would be willing to donate enough granite to erect the city hall and the government building, under the same conditions, the city and the government to pay the cost of getting the material out. Under these conditions a monopoly would be impossible.

The suggestion of Commissioner McMahon has not yet taken a definite form, in the way of an investigation, but if there are any serious obstacles in the way of obtaining the granite from this county they have not yet been made apparent.

HOUSE PUTS IN BUSY DAY

Gets Down to Business After Scrap Between Floor Leaders.

Washington, May 27.—The two floor leaders of the house again yesterday occupied the center of the stage and performed their usual feat of charging each other with responsibility for the conditions at present existing in that body.

Following this discussion business proceeded at a rapid gait. The conference report on the military academy appropriation bill was agreed to. Its consideration was marked by a vigorous speech by Mr. Slayden of Texas, against the senate amendment permitting the education of four Filipinos at West Point.

Bills were passed as follows: Granting Salt Lake City, Utah, a right-of-way across Fort Douglas military reservation for a pipe line and giving similar authority across the Plattsburg, N. Y. military reservation for right-of-way to the Delaware & Hurson River Railway company; refunding certain stamp taxes on foreign bills of exchange and certain duties on anthracite coal, illegally collected; providing for the opening to settlement of portions of the Cheyenne and Standing Rock Indian agencies; promoting the safety of employes on railroads by requiring the equipment of locomotives with ash cans that can be dumped without requiring an employe to go under the locomotive; promoting the safe transportation of explosives.

The committee on appropriations suffered defeat in the rejection of a bill to acquire certain lands as an addition to Rock Creek park in the District of Columbia.

After passing resolutions reclassifying the clerks in the government departments at Washington and declaring entitled to their seats Messrs. McGavin (Republican) and Sabath (Democrat) as representatives from Illinois, the house at 7:43 o'clock, owing to the difficulty of keeping a quorum, recessed until 11 o'clock today.

SOARING IS PROSPERITY

Not Only of This, But of Most Other Countries.

Hoards of Coin and Currency Held in the Treasuries.

New York, May 27.—Despite the frequent shipments of gold for the past week, no one takes the slightest interest in such an occurrence at this time.

Not a financier but recognizes the abundance of the money supply, both at home and abroad, and very few look for any strong demand for funds until the spring of 1909.

The amount of actual coin and bullion in the vaults of European banks is record breaking. The holdings of the United States treasury are beyond all historical record of any country. Those who believe that there will be use for all surplus cash by April, 1909, are logically basing their belief upon an enormous volume of commerce by that time, but correct in this idea, as they no doubt are, they will encounter a gold coin and bullion increase of more than $400,000,000 by that period in the funds of the world.

If commercial affairs have been dull since October, industrial affairs stagnant, and financial affairs for the last three months of 1907 stringent, that very stringency, dullness and stagnation threw many thousands of men into the pursuit of gold, and the results are weekly showing up in steadily increasing production.

The effect of this is world wide. Yesterday in far-off India it was shown in the reduction of the discount rate by the Bank of Bengal from 7 per cent to 6 per cent per annum.

More Rapid Progress.

The prosperity and accompanying activities of this country from 1897 to 1907 were the direct results of increased volume of currency, and before twelve months more pass our people will witness the pace of business affairs not only equal to that of the splendid period referred to, but accelerated by still greater increases in cash, make still more rapid progress, with still greater demand for labor and higher prices for commodities.

Farm lands in the United States will soar to higher prices, and suburban tracts surrounding our great cities will rise to values now not thought of.

The Aldrich bill for an emergency currency will prove to be an epoch-making measure.

It will probably never be enacted into law but its introduction and its support by Eastern bankers has changed the current of the entire thought of the country, and not since the days of Chase, when the greenback was first introduced, has popular financial thought become so free and liberalized.

The introduction and support of the Aldrich measure has demonstrated to the people that the bankers consider state bonds, county bonds, municipal bonds and good railway bonds amply sound and safe as a basis of issue of emergency currency by the United States to the banks. If good for emergency currency why not safe for regular issues of currency?

If good for currency that is to be issued through the banks, why not good for currency to be issued to the merchants, to the manufacturers, to the real estate owners, to the individual citizen who can present to the treasury the same identical security that is furnished by the bank or the bankers?

Opened the Door.

Driven to the Aldrich measure by their own needs during October and November, 1907, the bankers unwittingly gave the country the open door to financial freedom, and every movement, every discussion, since its introduction has been toward a financial reform that will free the business men of the country from the domination of the Eastern money powers. Alarmed at the consequences of their own action, they would not withdraw rather than press on, but that they cannot do.

They are out of their trenches, caught in the open field, cannot get back, and will get congressional action before the matter is ended that will recognize not only bonds but commercial papers as a proper basis for issuance of emergency currency. That will surely be the first step, but it will only be the first step, for sooner or later the people of this country will secure a currency for the republic that will not have to come to the business people filtered through the discount ledgers of national banks or any money brokers standing between the people and their government in order to collect "a rake off."

There are bankers, East and West, working and striving for a great central bank for the United States, and in this castle in Spain they always dream of themselves as lords of the manor and owners of the castle.

Group after group are dreaming this dream and planting as Coleridge did in his opium imaginings "a stately pleasure dome," where bankers can be happy with eternal profits "through years immeasurable to man," and the people be kept tributary to their system of "safe, sound and sane" finance.

They little know the deep-seated antipathy of the people to a central bank. They underestimate the intelligence of the masses and do not conceive of the extent of the education of the people through the columns of the independent press of the day and of the monthly magazines.

They will have to overcome not only the political ideas of the Democratic party, the awakened conscience of moral and political reformers of the Republican party, but the strenuous opposition of the business men of the South and West who are not in the state of financial thralldom of their brothers in the Eastern portions of the country and who will not tamely submit to being hewers of wood and drawers of water to a cabal installed in a central bank and its branches.

Bringing Out Hoards.

The United States will have its postal savings bank within a very short time and through that will call into activity the hoarded millions of dollars of many millions of our people.

It is these millions the central bank promoters would like to handle, and then and thus have the entire cash capital of the country at its disposal.

What it would then do with the smaller banks and the banks outside its sphere of control can well be imagined by recalling what was done with independent and outside banks last autumn. The proudest bank presidents in Chicago, the most powerful financiers in Cincinnati, the ablest business men in St. Louis, New Orleans, Denver or San Francisco would become mere clerks for the central junta. Coadjutors at the commencement, co-operators supposedly, but finally mere pawns in the game, without even power to protect themselves or their holdings. Subjects to the caprices, the selfishness, the intrigue of the ruling few, the shrewdest, keenest, brightest financiers and business men of the United States would be put through the mill that grinds not for the gods, but grinds exceedingly fine. It is well that this scheme was not actually established in the period from 1897 to 1901. It is too late now, for the people are cognizant of the dangers of monopolies and combinations, and party lines are so broken that political prejudices are not so easily played upon for personal gain as in the years gone by. There is far more individual thinking going on along business lines than there was ten, or twenty, or forty years ago, and the perception of the people as to the relations of legislation and business is far clearer and much more active than in any former period of our history. Ten millions brought into the United States treasury through the postal savings bank should be placed upon deposit fairly throughout the country and not packed into a few city centers to aid favorite institutions or to promote speculation. If properly and fairly handled, each state and territory should be equitably supplied, and the benefits will be immediate upon such distribution and long continued. It will take four or five years after its establishment before the people will use it to the fullest extent, but even the first year will thrust into active circulation many millions of dollars now comparatively or entirely dormant.

The close of congress will virtually decide so many appropriations now pending that it will be a relief to many important business interests, as the will know exactly what is to be depended upon in way of expenditures.

The hundreds of millions annually disbursed through the national departments and agencies are an exceedingly important factor in our business affairs.

It is already assured by the appropriations already made and those probable that the treasury balance on hand will not be so large as to prove a menace to outside business. In other words, the people will have the use of cash that otherwise would lie idle in the treasury.

KISSED WIFE AND BABE.

Then Fell, Half Fainting, After Being Acquitted of Murder.

Washington, Pa., May 27.—Dramatic was the conclusion of the trial of John Shumaker, charged with the murder of his brother, Alexander, at Meadowlands in March last. Shumaker's case had just been given to the jury when Alexander Warger, who was the state's star witness against him, spoke to the prosecuting attorney. Word was sent to the jury room and a verdict of acquittal was the result for Shumaker. Warger had confessed the murder, and was already on the way to jail. He told the prosecutor that he himself had stabbed Alexander. Just as Shumaker was released his wife and daughter came into the courtroom. He embraced his wife, kissed the little 3-year-old girl, then sank, half-fainting, into a chair and wept.

Whose Say-so Is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone and exclusively as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives.

Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to the above rule. Their claim to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their owners' and makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle-wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

In favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines is the frank, confiding, open, honest statement of their full composition, giving every ingredient in plain English, without fear of successful criticism and with confidence that the good sense of the afflicted will lead them to appreciate this honorable manner of confiding to them what they are taking into their stomachs when making use of these medicines.

WHAT THEY CURE. People often ask "What do Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines—'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' cure?"

Briefly, the answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, or invigorator, and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder curing a large percentage of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is generally successful in affecting cures. In fact the "Golden Medical Discovery" is without doubt, the most successful constitutional remedy for all forms of catarrhal diseases known to modern medical science. In Chronic Nasal Catarrh Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid should be used for washing and cleansing out the nasal passages while taking the "Discovery" for its blood cleansing and specific, healing effects upon the mucous lining membranes. This combined local and general treatment will cure a very large percentage of the worst cases of chronic nasal catarrh, no matter of how many years' standing they may be.

As to the "Favorite Prescription," it is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those weaknesses, derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful, yet gently acting, invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, strong, vigorous condition of the whole system.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most of our obstinate and most fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and, in confirmation of his firm conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weakness and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of leucorrhea, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines had failed.

Both these world-famed medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots, found in our American forests. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. What is said of their power to cure the several diseases for which they are advised may be easily learned by sending your name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little booklet which he has compiled, containing copious extracts from numerous standard medical books, which are consulted as authorities by physicians of the several schools of practice for their guidance in prescribing. It is FREE TO ALL. A postal card request will bring it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce, over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION

Elaborate services, conducted by Bishop Morrison and participated in by most of the clergy of the district marked the opening of the second annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Duluth in Trinity pro-cathedral, Twentieth avenue east and Superior street, this forenoon.

This is the first gathering since the missionary district of Duluth was recognized by the American church as a regularly authorized diocese, and clergy and laity from all over the Northwest are in attendance.

The clerical delegates in their black cottas and snowy cassocks took part in the service, which included a convention sermon by Rev. Irving P. Johnson, rector of Gethsemane church, Minneapolis; ordination services for two students taking deacons' orders, and holy communion.

Wilkins D. Smith of White Earth and E. M. Davies of Winnipeg were ordained as deacons.

Luncheon was served in the Sunday school room by the ladies of St. John's church, Lakeside.

Immediately after luncheon the first business session was called, at which the bishop presided.

The committee on canons will make its report this afternoon, submitting the canons which are to obtain in the diocese. On this committee are Rev. A. T. Young of Moorhead, Rev. C. Coolbaugh of Cloquet and Rev. F. H. Parshall of Cass Lake.

This evening a banquet will be served in Trinity hall by the Episcopal ladies of the city, under the direction of the Guild of Trinity pro-cathedral. The banquet will be under the auspices of the Sunday school department.

Tomorrow will be devoted to the Women's Auxiliary, which is to conduct missionary sessions. A number of Indian missionaries will address the meeting.

COPPERS RALLY AT THE CLOSE

SHOPS WILL NOT CLOSE

The larger drygoods stores along Superior street will not close on Saturday.

Among the larger stores which will remain open all day Saturday as usual are Panton & White's Glass Block, I. Freimuth, Stack & Co., Albenberg's, Silberstein & Bondy's and J. M. Gidding & Co.

The majority of the smaller stores, with the exception of some of the clothing stores, will also remain open. All of the retail grocers and butchers will keep open all day.

"I don't think the people realize what a loss it would mean to the merchants to close on Saturday," said one of the Superior street merchants today. "Saturday is the big day of the week for us, and in none of the other cities in the Northwest will the stores close on Saturday.

"Business has been none too good this spring, owing to the wet weather, and few of the merchants can afford to lose a Saturday."

"None of the employes who are going to take part in the exercises of Memorial day will be prevented from doing so, but the fishing is poor at this time of year, and those who want to observe Memorial day by going fishing would be disappointed. We will arrange to let them go later when the fishing is better.

"I don't believe that any of the merchants are lacking in loyalty, and where we are convinced that a clerk is really going to take part in the Memorial day exercises they will be given an opportunity to do so.

"The mayor, you will remember, urged a half holiday for the ski tournament. The result was that the stores closed and the saloons were crowded all day. The same would result if we closed Saturday and it turned out a rainy day. If it were a fine day the crowds would go fishing.

"July 4 comes on Saturday and we will close for that day, but with business quiet as it has been this spring we cannot afford two Saturdays during the spring and early summer trade.

A Knowledge of Accounting a Necessity

No matter what your vocation is or may be, you should have a knowledge of accounting. You may not care to keep books for a living, nor may you wish to keep your own accounts, but you will certainly need to be in touch with the finances of your business, whatever it may be, and this necessitates your having a knowledge of the theory of accounts.

A nominal outlay and a few months spent under the tuition of the teachers at the Duluth Business University, who are expert accountants, would prepare you to keep any ordinary set of books. Do not wait until you are in business and find you cannot get along without such training, as many do, but decide now to take a course at the Duluth Business University. You could not spend your vacation to better purpose.

Special courses and special rates for eighth grade students, high school students and teachers during the summer months. Location, 105-107 West Superior street, third floor.

F. A. PATRICK BACK FROM THE EAST

"Though the volume of business this year is undoubtedly smaller than at the corresponding time in former years, I find there is far from a depressed feeling among jobbers," said F. A. Patrick, who returned today from a trip to New York and other Eastern points. "In fact, I would say that the feeling in regard to the future is entirely optimistic and business men in general believe that the worst has passed and much better times are in prospect.

"Of course, conditions are abnormally quiet. The effect of the panic of last fall is still felt in all lines of trade throughout the country. The degree is different in different sections and I found, by comparing notes with other jobbers I met in the East, that the Northwest probably suffered less than any other section of the country. The decrease in the volume of business in this section was much less than in the South, the Southwest or the extreme West and certainly less than that in the East, where factories are still running on smaller forces and shorter shifts.

"Conditions are improving, however. The readiness with which people accept special sales, the purchasing of goods sold in clearing stocks and the advances in the prices of goods, which fell during the marked depression, all give hope of better times.

"One fact I noticed in New York since my last visit about three months ago is the manner in which the opposition against Roosevelt and Taft's assumption of the Roosevelt principals is receding. The political situation, I believe, has very little effect on business conditions this year, for Taft is being generally accepted as the Republican nominee at Chicago and, that fact being settled, the uncertainty of presidential years is eliminated from the situation. I heard considerable Johnson talk in New York also."

TO ALLOW FOR A FULL MONTH

Baltimore, May 27.—The report of the committee on temporal economy recommending a plan for a more adequate support of superannuated preachers and other conferences claimants was adopted by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today. Superannuated preachers, the widows of deceased preachers and their children under 18 years of age are defined as conference claimants.

A constitutional amendment was adopted providing that the conference shall meet on the first secular day in May every four years rather than on the first Wednesday in May as now provided for, the change thus insuring a full month for legislation.

The conference will take up the election of a missionary bishop for Mexico, a secretary of the general conference, four publishing agents, thirteen editors, corresponding secretaries of various boards, trustees, a new commission on aggressive evangelism and a number of other officials. Final adjournment doubtless will not be earlier than midnight next Monday night.

The committee on foreign missions has decided upon several recommendations to be made to the conference. One of these looks to the endorsement by the conference of the laymen's missionary union. The same committee will ask the conference to appropriate for mission work $3,000,000 for 1909; $4,000,000 for 1910; $5,000,000 for 1911 and $6,000,000 for 1912. The committee on temperance will recommend an appropriation of $25,000 for general temperance work in the churches.

Nothing has yet been given out by the navy department as to the disposition of the Gopher.

Commander Eaton's telegram, addressed to Lieut. George H. Scully, was as follows: "Scorpion could not be better. Will take her."

Case Reaches Jury.

The jury in the case of the state against Nels P. Bergeson, who was indicted for grand larceny in the second degree, retired shortly before noon today, and up to a late hour this afternoon had not agreed on a verdict. Bergeson is accused of hiring a rig from the Board of Trade livery barn and selling it. The alleged theft occurred last fall and Bergeson claims that he hired the rig for another man who gave him $25. He claims he does not know whether the rig was ever returned to the barn. Bergeson was defended by Hans B. Haroldson.

DROPS FROM BRIDGE.

Robert Gurlick Falls to Death From International Span.

Spooner, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Sunday afternoon another fatality resulted at the International bridge of the Canadian Northern railway. Robert Gurlick, an employe at E. A. Pearson's hardware store at Rainy River, Ont., was walking on the planks which are laid on each side for pedestrians and lost his ance, while trying to snatch his hat which had blown off. Over Gurlick went, first stricking his head against one of the iron bars and then into the water, a drop of over seventy feet. He sank immediately and was not seen again until two hours later, when his body was found about 200 feet below where the accident happened.

A number of people witnessed the affair, as it is customary on holidays that ever so many pass over the bridge to either town.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

FOUR RUNS IN FIRST

Brandon Wins Final Game of the Series With Duluth.

Sox Score Three in Sixth But Fall Short of Victory.

Brandon, Man., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brandon won the last game of the series here yesterday by bunching three hits with two passes in the first inning for four runs, a lead which Duluth couldn't overcome. The final score was 4 to 3.

After the first inning, Brandt was almost unhittable. Koepping was a little too energetic at short, fighting the ball too hard and booting it for three errors, but they didn't do much damage, for Brandt tightened up with men on the bases.

Dahlgren had one bad inning, the sixth, when the White Sox scored all of their runs. A couple of singles, bunched with an error and a pass, scored three runs, and, though within striking distance, the Sox couldn't tie it up in the remaining three innings.

Brandon played fine ball in the field behind Dahlgren, Wagner shinning at third base. Menelee's three-sacker scoring the first two runs was a feature of the batting. The detailed score of the game follows:

The story from the Copper country that the owners of the Houghton club of the old Northern-Copper Country league will seek to have protection withdrawn from the Northern league on account of the non-payment by Fargo of some $200 due the Copper country clubs for mileage two years ago, can hardly be given credence. The story reads like the padded string of some over-zealous writer.

Houghton and Calumet may have a valid claim against Fargo. If they have, the national commission will probably force Fargo to come across with the money. But, by petitioning directly for the blacklisting of the entire league on account of Fargo's membership, the Copper country people are putting their financial coffins in the background and satisfy feelings inspired by the knowledge that Brandon and Fargo are better able to support baseball than are Houghton and Calumet.

The national commission will certainly not countenance such as absurd proceeding as Houghton is said to have started. If it does, the Northern league will be only too glad to cut loose from it and go it alone. It would be poor protection indeed that would connive with the Houghton management to blacklist a league on account of the personal grudges of some disgruntled magnates. The Houghton people, the national commission, or anybody else, will not put the Northern league out of business this year. The season has now fairly started, with every prospect for continued success and the prediction that the league will have the best season in its history is no idle boast.

With four games won and six lost, the Duluth team of the Northern league will be home tomorrow to open the Northern league season in Duluth. The fans have nothing to worry over and nothing to knock, unless it's the weakness of the hitting, which can be improved more easily than dissensions among the members or inefficiency of management could. The fans should turn out tomorrow and give Bill Morrow and his crowd a rousing welcome to their home city. They have earned it and have shown themselves worthy in every way of the support of the city.

The Duluth team is on the whole the equal of Brandon and Winnipeg. Every game lost has been by a close score, especially in Brandon, where sluggers grow like mushrooms on the ball field. The Duluth pitchers have held the Brandon batters in check nicely and that's an achievement not to be taken too lightly.

Give the Sox two hitters who will come close to the .300 mark and they will sweep the board. On fielding, there isn't a man on the team who would lose his place. On hitting, there are several. The management has made the right start. Men with hitting abilities will be brought along and tried out, but the fielding will not be neglected. The pitching staff is all right. The play has been improving right along, and, now that they are coming home, the boys should turn out to show the Duluth fans that they can play ball.

The team that can win two-fifths of its games on foreign ground at the opening of the season is to be feared on its home grounds. The Sox have a series with Winnipeg and then one with Brandon here before they take the first rap at Fargo on Fargo territory. Give them time to get working rightly and by the end of the Brandon series if the dope doesn't stray off to the side, they'll be much nearer first position than they are now.

RACE AT LONG ISLAND.

Vanderbilt Cup Event Decided Upon and Savannah Club Outlawed.

New York, May 27.—That there will be an automobile race for the Vanderbilt cup held this year was authoritively announced here last night. While official announcement was lacking as to detail, it may safely be said that the race will be held at Long Island. A Saturday in the latter half of October will be selected for the race. This decision was made yesterday at a meeting of the racing board of the American Automobile association.

Savannah, Ga., May 27.—The Savannah Automobile club has been advised by the chairman of the racing committee of the American Automobile club that the Savannah race will be outlawed if held. This means the placing of the ban upon the Savannah club, the drivers participating in the event and the makers entering cars. Action has not been taken by the Savannah club, but it is said, that is will hold the races if the makers will make the entries.

GIVE TAME EXHIBITION.

Terry McGovern and Spike Robson in Ring at New York.

New York, May 27.—Terry McGovern of Brooklyn and Spike Robson, the English featherweight, fought six rounds last night, at the National Athletic club, giving a somewhat tame exhibition to the big crowd which watched them. No decision was rendered, but under any conditions the fight probably would have been declared a draw, although Robson plainly had the better of it toward the end.

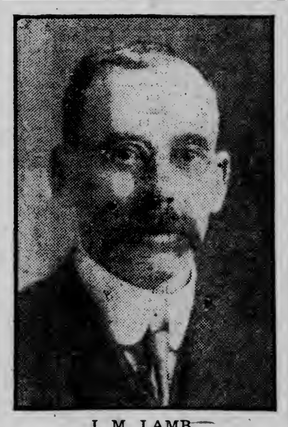
OPENING OF THE SEASON

First League Game Will be Played in Duluth.

League Officials Will be Here for the Occasion.

The 1908 season of the Northern league will be opened here tomorrow, when the Duluth and Winnipeg teams will play at Athletic park. The usual ceremonies of a parade, a speech by the mayor and the pitching of the first ball by the chief executive of the city will accompany the opening. President J. M. Lamb of the league and probably W. J. Price, vice president, of Fargo, will be on hand.

The parade will start from the city hall at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with the Third Regiment band at the head. The officials of the club, mayor,



J. M. LAMB,
President and Secretary of Northern League.

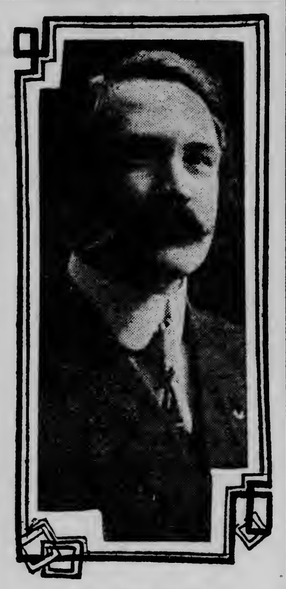
members of the council, city officials, representatives of the press and prominent baseball men of the city will ride in carriages, and the Duluth and Winnipeg teams will march on foot. Invitations have been extended by Secretary Kuehnow of the local club to all of the uniformed amateurs of the city to take part in the parade, and a number of the teams will very likely turn out.

The parade will proceed west on Superior street to Eighth avenue west, where a chartered car will be waiting to take the team to the ball park. The game will be called at about 3:15.

Mayor Haven will throw the first ball at the plate, after he has welcomed the league to the city and wished it well. The regular Duluth pitcher will then take the mayor's position in the box and the game will be on.

The Duluth team comes home after having won four games and lost six, while Winnipeg has won four and lost three. After two weeks of playing, both teams are in fine shape for good play and the fans will see better baseball than would have been the case had the teams opened here at the beginning of the season.

Preparations are being made to strengthen the team during the first home series. Eddie Mills, a southpaw pitcher, will be here, and Pitcher Dave Williams,



A. H. PULFORD,
President Winnipeg Baseball Club.

a Western leaguer with a big league record, has also been ordered to report. It is probable that Harry Morgy, a Waterloo, Ind., outfielder with a batting record, will also be reported, as a few stickers are needed. The pitching staff will probably be reorganized, four men being held for the season. The management is satisfied with the record of the team on the trip, and it is believed that the Sox can take down the big end of the coming series with Winnipeg and Brandon.

The lineup and batting order of the teams for tomorrow follows:

WILL WRESTLE FOR GOLD MEDAL

Wrestling Championship of Country Staked on Local Match.

The welterweight wrestling championship of the United States will be contested for tonight at the Temple roller rink, when Young Miller of St. Paul will seek to wrest the gold medal, emblamatic of the title, from Otto Sutter of Cleveland, who was awarded the medal at Erie, Pa., after he had defeated the best welterweights of the East.

Miller will come up from St. Paul this afternoon with a number of his friends. He is said to be in fine shape, having been wrestling in the capital all winter. He threw some of the best men at his weight in the country and the St. Paul sports have unbounded faith in his ability to dispose of any welterweight. Sutter is a new one at the game in this country, but he has a long record of victories and his friends believe he can throw the St. Paul boy.

At any rate, the match should be a whirlwind. Both boys have much to lose and much to gain and they will go right in for a victory at the start. Sutter completed his trainingg yesterday at the firemen's headquarters and those who saw him work, say there is not an ounce of superfluous weight on him and his muscles are like iron.

The main bout will be preceded by a match between Charley Sutter of Procter and Will Beaulieu, a middleweight. Sutter is lightweight champion of the Head of the Lakes. The main event will go on the mat at about 8:30.

The mayor, chief of police, city attorney and members of the council will be the guests of the promoters of the match and will occupy a box directly over the stage. The bout has excited considerable interest on account of the title at stake and it is expected the rink will be well-crowded by the time Sutter and Miller go on.

AUTO ENDURANCE RUN.

Machines Will be Sent 320 Miles Over Rocky Mountain Course.

Denver, May 27.—Over a triangular course, thirty-two miles in length, ten powerful racing automobiles will run on Memorial day in the first Rocky Mountain Endurance race. The machines will essay to run the measured road ten times, making a total distance of 320 miles to be traveled. The first prize is a $500 trophy and there are second and third prizes also. In addition to the regular officials there will be 100 men stationed along the course to keep it clear and guard against possible accidents.

AERO CLUB FORMED.

KILLS WIFE AND STEPDAUGHTERS

Former Michigan Man Commits Triple Crime and Kills Himself.

Owen Sound, Ont., May 27.—James F. Creighton, a well known resident of this town, killed his wife, whom he married at Ypsilanti, Mich., a year ago, and his two step-daughters, Katherine and Clare Chapman, aged 18 and 16. At 6:30 last night he called from a window that he had killed his family and immediately shot himself in the eye. He will probably die. His victims were stabbed. He left a letter stating that he was on the verge of insanity.

Port Huron, Mich., May 27—A report was received here last night that Mrs. J. F. Creighton, daughter of U. S. Commissioner Harris of this city, and her two daughters were murdered yesterday at Owen Sound, Ont. The dead woman's husband is said to be under arrest pending an investigation of the tragedy. Mr. and Mrs. Creighton were married about eighteen months ago at Ypsilanti, Mich., where Mrs. Creighton lived while her name was Mrs. F. J. Chapman.

TEXAS ATTORNEY KILLED.

Mineral Wells, Tex., May 27.—W. E. McConnel, one of the most prominent attorneys of this state, and a former member of the state legislature, was shot and killed yesterday by T. J. Pearson, at the home of the latter here. Judge McConnell admitted making certain statements to Mrs. Pearson, and it is alleged by members of the family, made a demonstration to draw a weapon. At the time of the shooting, members of the family were gathered to arrange some property matters.

HUMORS IN THE BLOOD

When the blood is pure and healthy the skin will be soft, smooth and free from all eruptions or disease, but when the circulation becomes infected with any unhealthy humor the effect is shown by eruptions, pimples, boils, or some more definitely marked skin disorder, such as Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, etc.

Humors get into the blood, usually because of an inactive or sluggish condition of those members whose duty it is to collect and carry off the waste matter and refuse of the system. This unhealthy matter is left to sour and ferment and be absorbed into the blood, and soon the circulation becomes filled with an acrid, irritating humor.

The blood then, instead of performing its natural duty of nourishing the skin, regulating its temperature and preserving its uniform softness, pliability and healthfulness, irritates and diseases the delicate tissues and fibers around the pores and glands and produces some of the various forms of skin eruption or disease.

The cause of all skin affections can be traced to some kind of humor in the blood. Healthy cuticles are only possible where the circulation is pure; and therefore the cure of any skin disease can only come from a thorough cleansing of this vital fluid. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., cannot cure. True such treatment relieves some of the itching and discomfort, helps to reduce inflammation, and aids in keeping the affected parts clean, but it does not reach the blood, where the real cause is located, and at best can be only palliative and soothing.

For six years I was severely troubled with Eczema, located principally on the shin bones, caused by a humor in the blood. The trouble would appear in the form of small yellow blisters, characterized by itching, etc. I tried sarsaparillas, so-called blood purifiers, salves, ointments, lotions and treatment under a local physician, but nothing did me any good. Becoming discouraged I left off all this treatment, and seeing S. S. S. advertised one day I decided to try it, and after taking it a short while the humor was driven from my blood and I was completely and permanently cured. Some seven months have elapsed since I was cured and have had no indication of a return of the disease. G. C. RECK.
404 Freedom St., Alliance, O.

S. S. S. cures skin diseases of every character and kind because it purifies and cleanses the blood. It goes down into the circulation and removes the humors that are causing the trouble, builds up the weak, acrid blood, and completely cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, pimples, boils, and all other skin diseases and affections. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots and herbs, a safe vegetable remedy. When S. S. S. has driven the humors from the blood, and cooled and purified the acid-heated circulation, every symptom passes away, the skin is again nourished with rich, healthful blood, and comfort is given to disease-tortured skins. S. S. S. cures Poison Oak, Poison Ivy, Nettle Rash, and all other troubles due to a humor-laden blood. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free to all who write. S. S. S. is for sale at all drug stores. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

WHEAT HAS A DECLINE

Better Weather in the Southwest Causes a Weakness.

Flax is Easier at the Close in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 27.—An improvement in the Southwestern weather and predictions of dryness there, together with a lack of a foreign demand put wheat off in Duluth today. The other American markets were soft at the close.

Prices were somewhat easier at the opening and when more favorable reports concerning the weather in the Southwest began to come in, prices took a further decline. In Duluth, they were at the low level of the day at the close.

Liverpool closed ¼d to ⅜d higher; Berlin ⅝c lower and Budapest ¾c lower to ⅝c higher.

The July option closed 1¼c lower in Duluth, ⅝c lower in Chicago, ⅞c lower in Minneapolis, 1½c lower in New York, ⅝c off in St. Louis, 1½-⅝c lower in Kansas City and ½c lower in Winnipeg. The September option closed 1c lower in Duluth, ⅝c lower in Chicago, 1¼-⅞c lower in Minneapolis, 1⅝c lower in New York and ⅞c lower in Kansas City. Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat—The market here partially reflected the strength in America yesterday, at the opening was ready and from ⅝@⅞d higher. Later, offerings became larger and a disposition to realize developed on private reports of further rains in the Danube districts and predictions o fine weather in the American Southwest. At midday the market was dull and room ⅝@¾d higher than Tuesday.

"Corn was steady and unchanged. The marke: was wholly neglected."

Car receipts at Duluth were 53 against 59 last year, and at Minneapolis 152 against 233 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 174 against 292 last year. Chicago received 25 against 24 last year. Winnipeg received 38 against 206 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 412,000 bus., last year 395,000 bus. Shipments 276,000 bus, last year 268,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 546,000 bus.

Bradstreet's reports a decrease of 2,363,000 bus in the world's visible supply of wheat. In the United States and Canada, there was a decrease of 2,703,000 bus, and in Europe and afloat, an increase of 400,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 930,000 bus, last year 670,000 bus. Shipments 362,000 bus, last year 541,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 96,983 bus.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Settlement of May Contracts Causes Some Irregularity in Wheat.

Chicago, May 27.—The wheat market was irregular at the opening today because of the settlement of May contracts. The market was weak for July and September, but strong for May because of buying by shorts. The depressing factors for July and September were weak cables and favorable weather for the crop. May wheat opened at $1.04 and sold at $1.06. July wheat opened ¼@⅝c lower at 92¾c to 92¼c, sold at 91⅝c and then advanced to 92⅜c. Minneapolis Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 199 cars against 149 cars last week and 296 cars one year ago.

The May option continued strong throughout the day, but the other deliveries seemed inclined to weakness. May sold up to $1.06⅝, where it closed, 1¾c above the final quotation of yesterday. July declined to 91¾c and closed easy at 92c, which was off ½c from the close of yesterday.

Trading in July and September corn was active, but the May option was almost lifeless. The market was generally inclined to be weak, although May was strong. May corn opened ½c higher at 72c, and held for some time at that figure. July corn opened ⅛@¼c to ⅛@⅜c lower at 68c to 68⅛c, sold at 68¼c and then declined to 67¾c. Local receipts were 381 cars with 249 of contract grade.

May advanced to 81c, and closed strong and 1¾c higher, at 80c. July advanced to 69@⅝c and closed steady and unchanged at 68¼@⅜c.

The oats market was dull and weak. July opened ⅛c lower at 47½c and sold at 47⅜@47½c. Local receipts were 80 cars.

The provisions market was dull and steady. Live hogs were 5c higher. July pork was unchanged at $13.75. Lard was unchanged at $8.55. Ribs were a shade lower at $7.40@7.42½.

Close: Wheat—May, $1.06½; July, 92c; September, 88@⅞c; December, 85⅝c. Corn—May, 80c; July, 68¼@c;; September, 69⅜c; December, 57⅜c. Oats—May, old, 56⅜c; May, 55¾c; July, old, 48⅛c; July, 46½c; September, 39c. Pork—May, $13.70; July, $13.77½; September, $14.02½@14.05. Lard—May, $8.47½; July, $8.57½; September, $8.72½@8.75. Ribs—May, $7.20; July, 7.45; September, $7.67½. Rye—Cash, 80c. Barley—Cash, 60@65c. Timothy—September, $4.00. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, $1.02@1.06; No. 3 red, 95@97½c; No. 2 hard, $1.00@1.03; No. 3 hard, 85c@$1.00; No. 3 spring, 95c@$1.07. Others, nothing doing. Corn—No. 3, 74@76c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Disappointing Cables Sends Wheat Down a Cent Below Tuesday.

Minneapolis, May 27.—Disappointing cables put wheat down a cent from yesterday's high point, Liverpool opening ⅝@¾d higher and closing ⅝@½d higher made a response no; proportionate to our gain of yesterday. The clearances for the day at 546,000 bushels were favorable but primary receipts were 412,000 bushels against 385,000 and while the Northwest supply situation was bullish as ever, the outside seemed a little easier. Locally there was a decrease of 300,000 bushels in stocks for four days which indicates that the total June 1 will be under 4,000,000 bushels. Receipts were 121 cars against 213 and in Duluth 53 against 59. September was relatively stronger than July on early buying orders from the country prompted by further rains. Late in the session selling began which put July under $1.07. July opened at $1.07⅛@⅜; high, ⅝c; low, $1.06⅞; close, $1.06⅝@1.07. September closed 93c; May, $1.08¾.

Cash demand was good with No. 1 northern quoted ordinarily at 3½c over July and No. 2 at 1½@2c over, but some choice No. 1 was sold to go to South Dakota mills at 4c over July. Close: No. 1 northern, $1.10... spot; $1.06⅝ to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.03¾ spot, and $1.07⅜ to arrive; No. 3 wheat, $1.02⅝@1.05⅜.

No. 3 yellow corn, 69¾c; No. 3 white oats, 49⅝@50⅝c; No. 2 rye, 78¾@79¾c.

Barley weak, dull and neglected. No demand except where sellers offered concessions to make it move. Close, 50@60c.

Flax firm at 1½c over Duluth July and in good demand. Close, $1.25¼.

Bran in bulk, reduced 25c to 50c by millers and now quoted at $21.25@21.50.

Shipments picked up a little and there were some orders specifying immediate shipment indicating light stocks on the part of the consumers, but general sales were moderate. Quotations are unchanged. Shipments, 45,067 barrels. First patents, $5.45@5.60; second patents, $5.30@5.45; first clears, $4.25@4.35; second clears, $3.55@3.65.

Copper Gossip.

Boston, to Paine, Webber & Co.: There seems to be a good prospect that congress will pass the currency bill this afternoon and this caused much short covering. The selling this morning looked good and we do not expect any consistent rally for some time. Greene-Cananea is being picked up and will have a good rally when the mine is opened. Stocks were very scarce on the upturn but the public interest is very small and the sag easily on any signs of real liquidation.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Trade fairly active and several carload sales are reported, two carloads going to the American Grass Twine company, one load to the Northern Irrigation company and a load of farm mares to Moose, Jaw, Canada. D. J. Curry of Duluth and T. F. Egan of Hurley, Wis., selected some choice drivers. Dealers have several carloads of good general purpose mares and horses consigned in by the lumbering companies, which will be sold dirt cheap, as they are anxious to move them.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Violent Break in Missouri Pacific Caused Speculative Selling.

Covering by Bears Caused Rally, and Close Was Steady.

New York, May 27.—The opening price movement showed a mixed tendency. The gains were amongst the industrials and specialties, but Union Pacific and Reading advanced substantial fractions. National Lead gained 1⅛ and Interborough-Metropolitan preferred 1¼. Atchison declined ⅝ and Brooklyn Rapid Transit 1⅛.

Heavy liquidation of Missouri Pacific gradually affected the other Gould stocks and the rest of the market and there was a sharp decline. Missouri Pacific dropped 5; Delaware & Hudson, 3; St. Louis Southwestern preferred, American Woolen, 1¾; Denver & Rio Grande, 1⅝, and a number of other important stocks a point or more. American Smelting eventually rose a point beyond yesterday's closing.

Missouri Pacific fell an extreme 6¼ before the decline was arrested, the general list continuing downward in sympathy. Ontario & Western lost 2 points, and Union Pacific and Reading 1⅝. Pacific Coast rose 2. Trading became very dull at small rallies. Bonds were easy.

The market closed fairly steady and quiet. Covering operations by the bears extended the rally until Northern Pacific and Canadian Pacific showed gains of 1; American Car, 1½; North American, 1½, and American Smelting, 2⅛. Prices fell back somewhat after a period of dullness.

EMERGENCY CURRENCY IS KILLED BY SHOCK

SUPERIOR NEWS

Washington, May 27.—The conference report on currency was reported to the house at 2:25 p. m., and its consideration was immediately begun. The one point remaining in dispute, that in relation to the time limit on the bill, was fixed at six years, making the bill expire on June 30, 1914.

Speaker Cannon announced in positive terms that he would not receive motions for final adjournment until the senate should get upon the currency question.

Republican conferees decided on the following provisions to be carried in the compromise bill, retaining the basic principles of the Vreeland bill and adding thereto from the Aldrich bill:

The reserve required to be retained in central reserve and reserve cities is 10 per cent straight. A redemption fund of 10 per cent, instead of 5 per cent required by the present law, is stipulated, and all of it shall be held in Washington. The emergency currency issuable shall not exceed, in the aggregate, $500,000,000, and be subject to a retirement tax of 5 per cent for the first two months and an additional 1 per cent per month thereafter until 10 per cent is reached.

State, county and municipal bonds shall be acceptable as security at 90 per cent of their market value. Other bonds and commercial paper shall be similarly acceptable at 75 per cent of their market value.

No bank shall be allowed to take out emergency circulation in an amount excessive of 30 per cent of its capital and surplus when the security offered is commercial paper. No emergency currency may be taken out under any circumstances unless the obligant bank has already taken out, according to the present law, an amount of currency equal to 40 per cent of its capital stock and surplus.

The provision from the Aldrich bill is incorporated in the conference bill that banks which hold state, county or municipal bonds may, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, take out additional currency directly upon them up to 90 per cent of their market value—that is, they may do so on their individual initiative and responsibility.

The use of commercial paper as a basis for taking out emergency currency may be only by banks which affiliate themselves in groups of not less than ten with an aggregate capital and surplus of not less than $5,000,000. Such groups shall be known as "national currency associations" instead of "national clearing house associations," the clearing house associations of the country having objected to the use of the latter term.

The clause creating a currency commission to be composed of nine members of the senate and nine members of the house is carried in the bill.

It is understood that while the bill will pass the house today some of the Republican members of the senate, who voted against the Aldrich bill, will join with the Democratic members in opposing the conference bill. Such an action would, of course, render much more difficult the passing of the new bill in the senate and would serve to further delay adjournment.

Will Force Sewer Connections.

The board of health has sent out notices that all residences and buildings in the city abutting on water mains and sewers must be connected with the mains and sewers within the next thirty days. The order is based on an ordinance providing for such sanitary regulations. Property owners were given until Jan1, last to comply with the ordinance. About one-third of the property owners complied with the provisions of the ordinance and now the health department means to compel the others to make the connections mentioned. Particular attention is to be paid to the more thickly settled portions of the city when the outhouses will be dispensed with as soon as the ordinance is enforced. It is claimed by the health officials that many epidemics of disease in the city are due to the insanitary conditions.

Claim Husbands Were Cruel.

Archie McCormack and John Sletten were arrested yesterday on the charge of mistreating their families. Mrs. McCormack claimed that her husband abandoned her and that she was left destitute. McCormack claims that his wife is jealous and is to blame for their domestic troubles. He gave a bond for his appearance for trial. Sletten denied that he had been drunk and had driven his family from home. Mrs. Sletten says her husband was violent and broke up the furniture and that, fearing harm the family fled into the street. Sletten will be tried Saturday.

"John Jones" Had Several Victims.

T. J. Roth of the Bee Hive store was not the only victim of "John Jones." Yesterday the police were notified of three other Superior concerns that cashed bogus checks for "John Jones." Each of the concerns parted with $24. The other victims were the Bingham Hardware company, Lee & Larson and R. Miller. The police have not yet been able to locate "John Jones."

Mill Resumes Operations.

After being closed down for three years the Listman mill at the East end began operations yesterday. The fires under the boilers at the Daisy mill have been drawn and that mill will be closed down for the greater part of the summer pending repairs. The working force at the Daisy mill has been transferred to the Listman mill. The officials of the Duluth-Superior Milling company, which owns both mills, expect that conditions will be such that they will be able to operate both plants by the time the new wheat begins to arrive next fall.

Dallas, Tex., May 27.—Trinity river fell four feet during the night and it is thought the worst of the flood is over.

MAY 27, 1908.

The local curb market today is firm, although there was no great amount of trading. Greene-Cananea, Superior & Pittsburg, Shattuck and Globe closed at about last night's prices. Butte & Balaklava strong, $7.37 bid with no stock coming out. This stock is an exceptional buy at this price and will sell for higher prices than any other stock on the local curb within the next few months. Buy this stock now, for we are sure that it will never sell any lower.

Butte & Superior hard to buy on bid prices. It will only be a question of time when this mine will be one of the largest in Butte. Remember they have the Black Rock vein, which has a width of 120 feet and traverses the whole length of the Butte & Superior property. Senator W. A. Clark took out millions of dollars worth of rich ore on this vein right adjoining the Butte & Superior property.

Calumet & Sonora firm with very little stock changing hands, as the people who hold it do not care to sacrifice at this level. Calumet & Sonora has five shafts in ore running 7 per cent in copper and upwards. There are only 43,000 shares of this stock on the market, and on any little turn Calumet & Sonora is one of the first stocks to feel the effect of it.

Buy Butte & Balaklava, Butte & Superior, Calumet & Sonora, Globe and Shattuck at these prices and you will never regret it.

WORK ALL NIGHT TO MAKE NEW BUILDING READY

Y. M. C. A. Moves Into Its Magnificent New Home.

Frank H. Burt of Chicago Will Speak Friday Evening.

It was a race against time to get the new Y. M. C. A. building completed and in shape for the opening this afternoon, but the officers won.

Workmen were busy all night cleaning up the building and preparing it for the visitors, but by noon today it was considered ready, and everything is in first-class shape for the opening of the five days of services which will mark the removal into the association's new home.

Frank H. Burt, president of the Y. M. C. A. training school at Chicago, will be in the city Friday and will be the principal speaker Friday evening.

This afternoon and this evening there will be a reception to members and subscribers to the building fund.

The complete program for the five days is as follows:

Wednesday, May 27.

Open house to members, contributors and subscribers to the building fund, afternoon and evening, 3 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30.

Thursday, May 28.

Open house to pastors and their congregations, the Young Women's Christian association, the young people's societies and other religious organizations, afternoon and evening, 2 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30.

Union service at 8 o'clock.

Friday, May 29.

Open house to the Young Men's Christian associations of Minnesota, the mayor and other city officials, the city council, officers and members of the police, fire and postoffice departments, the Commercial club, board of education, Federated Trades Assembly, the Kitchi Gammi club, the Duluth Curling club, boat club, yacht club, Builders' exchange, naval reserves and militia, other organizations and—their families, afternoon and evening, 3 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30.

Dinner tendered the state executive committee by the board of directors at 6 o'clock.

Saturday, May 30.

Afternoon 3 to 5, open house to the boys of Duluth, 12 to 18 years of age and to the teachers in the public schools.

Evening 7:30 to 10:30, open house to all men of Duluth, their wives and friends.

Sunday, May 31.

Afternoon 3:30, mass meeting for men in the assembly room with address by Edward W. Peck, state secretary of Minnesota.

The Duluth Y. M. C. A. building is one of the most complete and modern structures of its kind in the world. While its cost is much below that of many buildings, great care was taken to make it complete and up-to-date in every respect, and it is admirably adapted to fill the needs of the association here for several years to come. The building has apparently all the conveniences that a young man needs, from a barber shop, a bath, or a gymnasium, to a bed and a lunch room. The building and lot cost $210,000, and the furnishings $25,000. It is not an ornate structure, but the decorations are simple and effective. Duluth people will have the opportunity of inspecting it for themselves during the next five days.

NEIGHBORS SAVED HER

Aged Lady is Carried From Her Burning Home.

Fire Started From Lamp Left Burning in Closet.

Neighbors who saw the smoke issuing from the house occupied by Mrs. Josephine Drew, at Thirty-ninth avenue west and Traverse street, about 5:30 o'clock this morning, saved the life of the aged widow, who lives alone in the building.

Rushing into the house, J. Porter found the old lady sitting in a chair and apparently ignorant of the fact that the house was afire. Though the place was stifling with smoke, she was still conscious. Porter picked her up, chair and all, and carried her from the burning house to Mrs. Armstrong's home, which is nearby. The neighbors said that Mrs. Drew seemed in no way disturbed by the excitement, and say that she said that she did not know that her home was on fire.

As soon as Mrs. Drew had been taken care of, the neighbors closed every door and window of the house, so that no draught could fan the blaze that was then burning brightly, and sent in a call for the fire department.

When the firemen arrived and forced their way into the house, they found that the fire had evidently started in a clothes closet, for there was a lamp on the floor and the flames for the most part seemed to be confined to the little room. Besides this lamp, they found a second one broken on the kitchen pantry floor, and near it several charred magazines and newspapers, though none of them were burning when they came into the room. Mrs. Drew is said to have had a custom of keeping a lighted lamp in her bedroom closet during the night, but how the charred papers and broken lamp got into the pantry seems to be a mystery. That the old lady would purposely set fire to her home, and then deliberately seat herself in a chair to await death by cremation, seems beyond belief.

The damage to the house was not great, probably not more than $250. Outside of the closet and the bedroom, the flames did little destruction, though most of the rooms are badly smoked up and scorched from the heat. The firemen had no trouble in extinguishing it.

Threatened Her Life.

In a dispute which arose over who should have charge of the proceeds earned by running their boarding house near Raleigh street, it is claimed by Mrs. Lydi Ritinen that her husband, whom she alleges was drunk, this morning threatened to take her life.

Judge Flack issued a warrant, and this morning Ritinen was arrested on the charge and will be tried before the West Duluth justice court.

Mrs. Ritinen claims that her husband is in the habit of getting intoxicated and coming to her for more money to spend for drink. This morning she refused to turn any money over to him, with the alleged result that he threatened her with bodily harm, and fearing that he might put his threat into effect, she reported the matter at the West Duluth police station.

West Duluth Briefs.

West Duluth barber shops will be open all day Memorial day.

The Y. M. C. A. has invited the West Duluth Commercial club to attend the opening exercises for the new building, Friday.

Joliffe, wish to remind West Duluthians that every one is free to join the Citizen Staff on the payment of $1. It is impossible for the committee to reach everyone, but everyone can reach them if they wish to become a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase of Virginia stopped in West Duluth yesterday to visit friends on their way to Michigan.

Peter Deloyis and Hugh Vlou have returned from a fishing trip up Knife river.

A grand rally of the West Duluth hive No. 73 and the Pearl hive, No. 4, L. O. T. M., will be held in West Duluth in July to entertain the supreme officers, Mrs. Lillian Hollister and Miss Bina M. West, who will be here at that time. A large reception will be held for the supreme officers and at the meeting there will be an initiation.

Miss Alice Picard of 108 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, will entertain the members of the Modern hive, L. O. T. M., tomorrow evening. There will be cards played and a musical program.

Miss Anna Peterson of 606 South Sixtieth avenue west left yesterday for the Twin Cities, where she will visit friends.

Harry Vinitsky of St. Paul has recently come to West Duluth and will reside with J. Hermann on North Central avenue.

The members of the Sunday school of the Westminster Presbyterian church are busily engaged preparing for their children's day exercises which will take place at the church June 14. The principal feature of the exercises will be a cantata, "Summer's Happy Children."

Lee Swingle, who has been on the road all winter as advance agent for "The Mayor of Tokio," has returned to his home, 5103 Ramsey street. He will spend the summer in Duluth and next fall take a similar position with "Follies of 1907."

Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.
